

PRESENTED

TO

Prudence Ida Lynch ^{NEW} HULL

BY

James Edward Lynch

December 1881

Raphael

W. HOL

MADONNA DI SAN SISTO.

I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life
for his sheep.

THE HOLY BIBLE

CONTAINING

THE ENTIRE CANONICAL SCRIPTURES,
ACCORDING TO THE DECREE OF THE COUNCIL OF TRENT;

TRANSLATED FROM

THE LATIN VULGATE:

DILIGENTLY COMPARED WITH

THE HEBREW, GREEK, AND OTHER EDITIONS IN DIVERS LANGUAGES.

THE OLD TESTAMENT, FIRST PUBLISHED BY THE ENGLISH COLLEGE AT DOUAY, A. D. 1609.

THE NEW TESTAMENT, BY THE ENGLISH COLLEGE AT RHEIMS, A. D. 1582.

WITH USEFUL NOTES,

CRITICAL, HISTORICAL, CONTROVERSIAL, AND EXPLANATORY,

SELECTED FROM THE MOST EMINENT COMMENTATORS, AND THE MOST ABLE AND JUDICIOUS CRITICS,

BY THE LATE REV. GEO. LEO HAYDOCK.

THE TEXT CAREFULLY COLLATED WITH THAT OF THE ORIGINAL EDITION, AND THE ANNOTATIONS ABRIDGED

BY THE VERY REV. F. C. HUSENBETH, D.D., V.G.

TO WHICH IS ADDED AN

ILLUSTRATED AND COMPREHENSIVE DICTIONARY,

BASED ON THE WORKS OF CALMET, DIXON, AND OTHER CATHOLIC AUTHORS, AND ADAPTED TO THE ENGLISH VERSION FIRST PUBLISHED AT RHEIMS AND DOUAY,

AS REVISED

BY THE VEN. RICHARD CHALLONER.

WITH A COMPREHENSIVE

HISTORY OF THE BOOKS OF THE HOLY CATHOLIC BIBLE, AND

LIFE OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY, MOTHER OF CHRIST,

FROM THE NEW TESTAMENT SCRIPTURES, AND THE BEST TRADITIONS OF THE EAST, AS ACCEPTED BY THE GREEK AND LATIN FATHERS.

BY BERNARD O'REILLY, D.D., I.D.,

(GRADUATE OF LAVAL UNIVERSITY, QUEBEC.)

AN HISTORICAL AND CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX, A TABLE OF THE EPISTLES AND GOSPELS FOR ALL THE SUNDAYS AND HOLY DAYS THROUGHOUT THE YEAR, AND OTHER DEVOTIONAL AND INSTRUCTIVE MATTER.

The whole Beautifully Illustrated with Numerous Steel Plates and Other Appropriate Engravings.

BOSTON, MASS.:

GEORGE V. JONES,

No. 123 PEARL ST.

HIS HOLINESS
POPE FRANCIS

DEDICATION

PREFIXED TO THE ORIGINAL EDITION.

TO

THAT LOYAL, RELIGIOUS, AND ENLIGHTENED BODY OF MEN,

THE

CATHOLICS OF THE UNITED KINGDOMS

OF

ENGLAND, IRELAND, AND SCOTLAND,

IN ADMIRATION OF THE STEADY ZEAL WITH WHICH THEY HAVE KEPT THE

Deposit of Faith

BEQUEATHED THEM BY THEIR FOREFATHERS,

AND HANDED IT DOWN, WITHOUT INTERRUPTION OR ADULTERATION, TO THEIR GRATEFUL POSTERITY, This Edition

OF THE

DOUAY BIBLE AND RHEIMS TESTAMENT

IS,

WITH GRATITUDE FOR PAST FAVORS AND HOPES OF FUTURE ENCOURAGEMENT,

Most Respectfully Inscribed

BY THEIR EVER DEVOTED AND HUMBLE SERVANT,

THOMAS HAYDOCK.

NOTICE.

It having been considered desirable, on several accounts, that the well-known edition of the authorized English translation of the Holy Scriptures for the use of Catholics, first published in 1812, by the late REV. GEORGE LEO HAYDOCK, should be reprinted with its copious Notes considerably abridged—I have undertaken, with the approbation and sanction of my own ecclesiastical superior, the RIGHT REV. DR. WAREING, and with the concurrent approbation and sanction of all the Right Rev. Vicars Apostolic of Great Britain, to superintend the publication of this new edition. I pledge myself, with the Divine blessing, to certify the perfect conformity of the text in the new edition with that of the authorized Catholic version; and also to abridge with carefulness the Annotations of the edition known as Haydock's Bible, without introducing anything new into the Annotations, or allowing of the slightest alteration in the text.

F. C. HUSENBETH, D.D.,

VICAR-GENERAL IN THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF ENGLAND, AND CANON OF THE ENGLISH CHAPTER.

PREFACE TO THE READER.

1. THE text of the Old and New Testament Scriptures given to the public in this edition is identical with that of Haydock, published under the care of the late Very Rev. Dr. Husenbeth, the plates from which his Bible was printed having become the property of the present publishers. Thus, the text of Dr. Husenbeth's edition is here given without any alteration whatever, together with the approbations of the English and American hierarchies.

As to the valuable introductory matter which accompanies this issue of the Catholic Family Bible, this much I am bound to explain to the reader. I have consented to write not only the history of the text including this preface, but the history also of the books of the Old and New Testaments. The explanation of the Parables of Our Lord is mainly taken from that admirable work of Rev. H. J. Coleridge, S. J., "The Life of our Life." As to the remaining matter on the topography of the Bible, the scenes and incidents of sacred history, etc., they are adapted from the most reliable sources. I have been careful to revise every page, and line, and word, correcting conscientiously whatever needed correction, and retaining only of the plates and illustrations such as might help to a better understanding of the text.

2. Let me now endeavor to give—not for the benefit of the learned theologian, who would not be satisfied with it—but for the edification of the Christian family, the following brief sketch of the Greek and Latin versions of the Bible, from which was derived the translation made at Rheims and Douay.

It is admitted as certain by all Christian scholars that the Hebrew Scriptures of the Old Testament were preserved with the most religious care down to the time of the destruction of the two Hebrew kingdoms of Israel and Juda; and that they were guarded with even a more loving and jealous zeal during the period of captivity. When the remnants of the latter kingdom were allowed to return by Cyrus, and the restoration of their nationality was effected by the successors of this prince, Esdras and Nehemias labored successfully to collect into one body all the inspired books then extant. This standard or authoritative collection is called the "Canon" of Esdras. To this canon or catalogue were added subsequently, by the Jewish church, the books bearing the names of Esdras and Nehemias themselves—these two books being written in the Chaldaic dialect.

A constant tradition among the Jews ascribes the authorship of this first canon to Esdras and "the great synagogue" of seventy Jewish doctors. This tradition is attested, in several places, by the Talmud, and by such early Christian writers as St. Irenæus, St. Justin Martyr, Tertullian, and Clement of Alexandria.

This canon comprises, therefore, the first and principal portion of the Old Testament books. But in the age of our Lord and before it, there existed a Greek version of the entire Old Testament, accepted as authorized by the Jewish church and people, not only in Palestine, but throughout the civilized world. This was known then—as, indeed, it has been known ever since—as the version of the Septuagint or "Seventy" (translators). Whatever obscurity has been gathered around the history of this version since the days of Luther, and through the theological passions of Protestants and Rationalists—it is undeniable, that, in the first century of Christianity, as well as during that which preceded it, the whole Jewish people considered the Septuagint version with great reverence, and the work of translation as one not only undertaken by the authority and with the co-operation of the priesthood and magistrates of the nation, but moreover as divinely blessed and aided in a special manner.

As to the translators themselves, their story has been told by Aristæus, a Jewish proselyte, and captain of the royal guard to Ptolemy Philadelphus, king of Egypt, who reigned in the year 280, before Christ. They were a chosen body of seventy-two learned men, sent to Alexandria at the earnest request of the Egyptian monarch, to labor together there in producing a Greek translation of all the Sacred Books of the Jews. The result of their joint labor was known thenceforward as the Greek Version of the Septuagint (or Seventy). It is quoted by the historian Josephus, who was a contemporary of St. John, the Evangelist, and who gives in his book the substance of what is related in detail by Aristæus. The version, and the manner and time of its accomplishment are also mentioned by another Jew of eminence, Aristobulus (so favorably spoken of in 2 Machabees i. 10). "It is manifest," he says, "that Plato has followed our law, and studied diligently all its particulars. For before Demetrius Phalereus, a translation had been made, by others, of the history of the Hebrews' going forth out of Egypt, and of all that happened to them, and of the conquest of the land, and of the exposition of the whole Law. Hence it is manifest that the aforesaid philosopher borrowed many things; for he was very learned, as was Pythagoras, who also transferred many of our doctrines into his system. But the entire translation of our Law was made in the time of the king surnamed Philadelphus, a man of greater zeal, under the direction of Demetrius Phalereus." (Quoted from Clement of Alexandria's Stromata l. v. r. 595; and Eusebius Evangelical Preparation, xiii. 12).

If, dear reader, you attend carefully to what Aristobulus says, you will perceive that he attests the existence of a more ancient Greek version of a great portion of the Scriptures than that of the Septuagint, comprising not only the Pentateuch of Moses, but the book of Josue, and "the exposition of the whole Law," that is the succeeding historical books, at least. From this translation Plato and Pythagoras borrowed many things. But the Greek or Pagan world had not known "an entire translation of the whole Law," till the time of Demetrius Phalereus and the labors of "The Seventy" Translators.

Philo, a Jewish citizen of Alexandria, a contemporary of our Lord and His Apostles, adopts as a matter of historical certainty the story of Aristæus; and, in his "Life of Moses," he goes further, and says that the seventy translators were divinely inspired. And Philo was a man of great authority, his son having married a daughter of King Agrippa's.

Thus, at the very birth of Christianity, we find the civilized world in possession of an authorized and revered Greek version of the Scriptures, containing all the books received as canonical Now what do the most learned Protestants themselves think of this version—the Septuagint? Here is what Dr. Selwyn writes in the Dictionary of the Bible (article SEPTUAGINT): “We find it quoted by the early Christian Fathers, in Greek by Clemens Romanus (Pope St. Clement, Martyr), Justin Martyr, Irenæus; in Latin versions by Tertullian and Cyprian; . . . and thus we are brought to the time of the Apostles and Evangelists, whose writings are full of citations and references, and imbued with the phraseology of the Septuagint. . . . We may pause a while to mark the wide circulation which the version had obtained at the Christian era, and the important services it rendered, first, in preparing the way of CHRIST, secondly, in promoting the spread of the Gospel.

“This version was highly esteemed by the Hellenistic Jews (those whose native tongue was the Greek) before the coming of Christ. An annual festival was held at Alexandria in remembrance of the completion of the work (Philo, De Vita Mosis lib. ii.) The manner in which it is quoted by the writers of the New Testament proves that it had been long in general use. Wherever, by the conquests of Alexander, or by colonization, the Greek language prevailed; wherever Jews were settled, and the attention of the neighboring Gentiles was drawn to their wondrous history and law, there was found the Septuagint, which thus became, by Divine Providence, the means of spreading widely the knowledge of the one true God, and His promises of a Saviour to come, throughout the nations. It was indeed ostium gentibus ad Christum (‘a gate to Christ for the pagan nations’). To the wide dissemination of this version we may ascribe in great measure that general persuasion which prevailed over the whole East of the near approach of the Redeemer, and led the Magi to recognize the star which proclaimed the birth of the King of the Jews.

“Not less wide was the influence of the Septuagint in the spread of the Gospel. Many of those Jews who were assembled at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost, from Asia Minor, from Africa, from Crete and Rome, used the Greek language; the testimonies to Christ from the Law and the Prophets came to them in the words of the Septuagint; St. Stephen probably quoted from it in his address to the Jews; the Ethiopian eunuch was reading the Septuagint version of Isaiah in his chariot (. . . ὡς πρόβατοι ἐπὶ σφαγὴν ἤχθη . . .); they who were scattered abroad went forth into many lands speaking of Christ in Greek, and pointing to the things written of Him in the Greek version of Moses and the Prophets; from Antioch and Alexandria in the East to Rome and Massilia (Marseilles) in the West the voice of the Gospel sounded forth in Greek; Clemens of Rome, Ignatius at Antioch, Justin Martyr in Palestine, Irenæus at Lyons, and many more, taught and wrote in the words of the Greek Scriptures; and a still wider range was given to them by the Latin version (or versions) made from the LXX. (Septuagint) for the use of the Latin Churches in Italy and Africa; and in later times by the numerous other versions into the tongues of Egypt, Ethiopia, Armenia, Arabia, and Georgia. For a long period the Septuagint was the Old Testament of the far larger part of the Christian Church.”

No wonder that, such being the case, the belief of the Seventy Translators’ inspiration, so general among the Greek-speaking Jews at least before the Christian era, should have been adopted by the early Christians and held by such scholars and saints as St. Irenæus and St. Augustine.

From the Septuagint Old Testament, therefore, the Christian Church took her list or canon of the Scriptures, and the Roman Church—the Church of St. Peter and St. Clement—the Latin version read by her children and used in the liturgy and the divine office by both clergy and people. So, there was at least one Latin version of the Septuagint Greek Bible in common use among the faithful of Italy and North Africa, which was held in great respect. This—to distinguish it from other Latin versions in use—was called the old Italic version—Itala vetus. St. Jerome applies to this very faithful translation from the Septuagint the very designation which he gives to the latter itself, calling both the one and the other editio toto orbe vulgata, “a version made public throughout the whole world.” Tertullian says of it, “It is used by our people because of its simplicity of diction” (Adv. Praxeam 5). St. Augustine (De Doctrina Christ. xv. 22) says of the same: “Among the translations to be found, that known as ‘the Italian’ ought to be preferred: it is more literal and gives the sense more clearly.”

It was indeed so dear to the popular heart and so familiar by frequent use, that when St. Jerome was urged by Pope St. Damasus to correct the errors which had crept into the text of the Gospels and the Psalms, through the mistakes and oversight of copyists, he was assailed by bitter complaints. The Psalms even then were so well known to the people and so dear to the Christian heart, that the Latin version still in use is the translation from the Septuagint repeatedly and carefully corrected by St. Jerome. For that purpose he employed the most faultless Greek copies known to scholars, together with the best Hebrew manuscripts. That these old Roman and African Christians of the days of St. Damasus were not so much to blame for their attachment to their own sweet Latin version, may be judged by all who are familiar with the Latin Psalter in the Vulgate, and have compared it with St. Jerome’s version from the Hebrew. The entire New Testament, then, as we have it in the Latin Vulgate, is the old Italic version revised and corrected by St. Jerome. In the Old Testament we also have the Italic version in the books of Wisdom, Ecclesiasticus, I. and II. Machabees, the prophecy of Baruch, the Epistle of Jeremias, the Hymn of the Three Hebrew Youths (Daniel iii. 24–90), the histories of Susanna, Bel, and the Dragon (Ibid. xiii., xiv.), and the last seven chapters of Esther, namely, x. 4–xvi. 24.

The remaining books of the Old Testament St. Jerome translated from the Hebrew and Chaldee, with constant reference to the best copies of the Septuagint. It was a gigantic undertaking, this translation from the Hebrew, begun when past middle life, about the year 390, and after a long and careful preparation. Mainly through the influence of the successors of St. Damasus in the Holy See, the Old and New Testaments thus translated into Latin or revised by St. Jerome, slowly but surely supplanted the current Italic version. To St. Gregory the Great in particular was due the final and peaceful acceptance of the Latin Bible as we now have it. A most admirable manuscript copy of the Bible, dating from the sixth century (541), and used by St. Gregory himself, still exists in the Laurentian Library at Florence. This is known as the Codex Amiatinus, because it belonged to the Cistercian monastery of Monte Amiata, between Sienna and Radicofani. It has been the admiration of the most illustrious Protestant and Catholic scholars, and is the oldest and most perfect sample of the Latin Vulgate as left us by St. Jerome. It contains St. Jerome’s Psalter as translated from the Hebrew.

Just as it befell, when the early Christian apologists quoted the Septuagint Greek to prove the divinity of Christ, the Jews began to repudiate a version which they had hitherto esteemed and revered, and which many, if not most of them, considered to be inspired;—even so did it happen in the middle of the sixteenth century, when the Protestant Reformers repudiated the Latin Vulgate and the Septuagint from which its canon was derived. The Hellenistic Jews of the first century after Christ found in one of their proselytes, Aquila, a native of Sinope in Pontus, a man able and willing to undertake a new Greek translation of the Old Testament, which might help them in their controversies with the Christians, and thus was produced a version that, under the veil of extreme literalness, concealed a perversion of the sense of Scripture wherever it could serve the translator's antichristian purpose. In the same century appeared the Greek version of Theodotion which aimed at doing for the heretical Ebionites the same service that Aquila had undertaken to render to the Jews. Symmachus, another Ebionite, followed a course diametrically opposed to that of Aquila. The latter was so literal that his translation was rather a dictionary explaining the meaning of the Hebrew terms of the Bible; while Symmachus, who lived under the reigns of Severus and Caracalla, gave rather a paraphrase or commentary than a version. Theodotion, it is true, avoided these extremes; but it is no less true that all three translated the Scriptures with a sectarian purpose. We need not point out here how faithfully this process of mistranslation and perversion has been followed in modern times.

The first book ever printed was Gutenberg and Fust's magnificent edition of the Latin Vulgate, issued in Mainz, in 1455. Other editions followed in Germany, Italy and France, through the latter half of the century; while in Spain, Cardinal Ximenes labored from 1502 to 1517 to produce in his celebrated Alcala Polyglott a revised edition of the received Latin text. On the assembling of the Council of Trent, in December, 1545, the first care of the Fathers, after the promulgation of the Nicene Creed as the foundation of the Christian faith, was to appoint a committee to investigate and report on all questions pertaining to the authority of the Holy Scriptures and the purity of the received texts.

Their labors issued, on April 8, 1546, in the adoption of a two-fold decree—the first part fixing a list of the Canonical Scriptures, the second containing the following declaration: "Moreover the same Holy Council, considering how very beneficial it would be to the church of God to make known what edition of the Holy Scriptures among all those published in Latin and now current among the people, should be regarded as authentic—thus decrees: That in all public lessons, discussions and doctrinal expositions, the old Vulgate edition approved by the use made of it in the church during so many ages, is to be regarded as the authentic edition, and that no one shall dare or presume to reject it under any pretence whatever."

"The course of controversy in the 16th century," says Rev. Brookes Foss Westcott (Dictionary of the Bible, art. VULGATE), "exaggerated the importance of the differences in the text and interpretation of the Vulgate, and the confusion called for some remedy. An authorized edition became a necessity for the Romish Church, and, however gravely later theologians may have erred in explaining the policy or intentions of the Tridentine Fathers on this point, there can be no doubt that (setting aside all reference to the original texts) the principle of their decision—the preference, that is, of the oldest Latin text to any later Latin version—was substantially right. . . . In affirming the authority of the 'old Vulgate,' it contains no estimate of the value of the original texts. The question decided is simply the relative merits of the current Latin versions, and this only in reference to public exercises. . . . It was further enacted as a check to the license of printers, that 'Holy Scripture, but especially the old and common (Vulgate) edition (evidently without excluding the original texts), should be printed as correctly as possible.'"

Catholic scholars everywhere forthwith set themselves to work to obtain the purest Latin texts, and to publish editions that should reproduce the Latin Vulgate of the Old and New Testaments as it came from the hands of St. Jerome, embodying both the portions translated by himself, and those which he had revised from the Old Italic version. Meanwhile at Rome the sovereign pontiffs gathered around them the most eminent biblical scholars and linguists, laboring unremittingly till the close of the 16th century, in preparing editions of both the Latin and Greek Bibles which might satisfy the yearnings of enlightened criticism. In 1587, under Sixtus V., appeared an edition of the Septuagint which was hailed by scholars as superior to everything of the kind that had hitherto been published. This edition was mainly due to the enlightened zeal of Sixtus himself, who had been its first promoter, and had urged forward the work of his learned associates with characteristic energy and perseverance. The same energy was displayed in bringing to completion the work on the Latin Bible in conformity with the Tridentine decree. The Pope had presses set up in the Vatican palace where he resided, and made his army of scholars work under his own eye, devoting, as he himself tells us, several hours each day to the labor of examining and correcting the printed sheets with his own hand. In 1590, after almost insurmountable difficulties, the Sixtine Latin Bible was given to the public.

Indeed the old Pope carried his personal views and feelings into the very corrections which he made in the text, in opposition to the judgment of the most learned men among his fellow-laborers. And the impetuosity with which he pushed the work forward prevented such men as Bellarmine, for instance, from making certain changes in the text which a careful study of the best manuscripts suggested. So the Sixtine Bible itself was now submitted for further emendation to another commission of cardinals and theologians who, under the direction of Clement VIII., brought out a new edition in 1592, after the death of this pope. Another followed in 1593, and a third in 1598. But the scruples and hesitations which had compelled the editors and revisors to retain a great number of doubtful or incorrect readings, did not meet in Rome and elsewhere the approbation of the best Catholic scholars. Bellarmine, writing to Lucas Brugensis, says of these Clementine editions: "I wish you to understand that the Vulgate Bible was not corrected by us with exceeding care: we passed over many things deliberately and for very just reasons." The faults which strike the reader, in the New Testament, in particular, consist in preserving the close literalness—the Greek forms of expression—of the Old Italic, revised by Jerome, and that in defiance of the laws of Latin grammar. This, however, was a defect which did not impair the sense of the original, while it vouched for the veneration with which both Jerome and the modern revisors approached the sacred text.

THE ENGLISH DOUAY BIBLE.

The first English version of the Bible, that of John Wycliffe (1324–84), was undertaken in the spirit of Aquila and Theodotion and Symmachus. It was intended as a vehicle of erroneous doctrines, and as such was condemned by the Church. When, in the sixteenth century, Luther and Beza and other propagators of heresy appealed from the authority of the church to the Bible as the sole rule of faith and morals, they dealt with the Scriptures as had done the heretics of preceding ages. They rejected the books which condemned their own tenets, and translated the portions retained so as to convey to the popular mind the intellectual poison which they wish to instil.

The faithful and heroic men who resisted the changes introduced into England by Henry VIII., Edward, and Elizabeth, saw the necessity of being, if possible, beforehand with the innovators. The decree of the council of Trent had declared the text of the ancient Latin Vulgate to be the authentic or authoritative text of the Bible. While the Papal commissions were at work in Rome from 1561 to 1590, collating manuscripts and printed editions, and preparing to issue the Greek and Latin Bibles afterward published with the sanction of Sixtus V. and Clement VIII., a band of English priests exiled from their own country, gathered in the University of Douay, were diligently translating into their native tongue the Old and New Testament Scriptures. Chief among these were William Allen (afterward Cardinal), Gregory Martin, of St. John's College, Oxford, and Richard Bristow. Six other English Doctors of Divinity shared their labors in teaching and preparing some one hundred and fifty young countrymen destined for the missionary field at home. In 1578 the English government prevailed on the municipality of Douay to withdraw its protection from the English College, and so its members had perforce to remove to Rheims. In this latter city the work of translation was completed. The principal labor had fallen on Dr. Martin, whose thorough knowledge of the Greek and Hebrew enabled him, as the work progressed, to compare the best Greek and Hebrew texts with the best Latin editions, and thus to embody in his version the ripest fruits of the scholarship of the age. Although both Testaments were ready for the printer, it was thought best to issue the New Testament first. So it appeared: "Printed at Rhemes by John Fogny, 1582." Dr. Martin's translation was carefully revised by Dr. Allen, Dr. Bristow, and Dr. John William Reynolds. It was a small quarto volume; and the notes appended to the text are from the pen of Dr. Bristow.

In spite of the terrible legislation of Elizabeth, the Rhemish Testament found its way to England. But Elizabeth, though unable to lay hands on Martin or Bristow, found means to drive them and their pupils from their asylum at Rheims. In 1597 they returned to Douay, and in 1609, in spite of persecutions and poverty, the first volume of the Old Testament appeared in print, containing 1014 pages, and embracing all the books from Genesis to Job, inclusively. The second volume with the remaining books was issued in 1610. The whole of the Old Testament was revised by Dr. Thomas Worthington, who was rector of Douay College from 1599 to 1613. The Annotations and Tables are also said to be from his hand.

One chief reason for delaying the appearance of the Old Testament was—so we gather from the preface—the wish to correct their labors on the Latin Bible of Clement VIII. Another, of course, was the great poverty of these persecuted priests. "It more importeth," the preface to the Old Testament says, "that nothing be wittingly and falsely translated for advantage of doctrine in matter of faith. Wherein as we dare boldly avouch the sanctitie of this translation, and that nothing is here untruly or obscurely donne of purpose in favour of Catholique Roman Religion, so we cannot but complaine and challenge English Protestants for corrupting the text contrary to the Hebrew and Greeke, which they professe to translate, for the mere show and mainteyning of their peculiar opinions against Catholiques." At the end of the second volume or part of the Old Testament is a note concluding with the following words:

"... We who by God's great goodness have passed now to the end of this English Old Testament, justly fearing that we have not worthily discharged so great a worke; and in no wise presuming that we have avoided al errors, as well of doctrine as historie: much more we acknowledge that our stile is rude and unpolished. And therefore we necessarily and with al humilitie crave pardon of God, and al His glorious Sainctes. Likewise of the Church militant, and particularly of you, right wel beloved English readers; to whom as at the beginning we directed and dedicated these our endeavours, so to you we offer the rest of our laboures, even to the end of our lives: in our B. Saviour, Jesus Christ, to whom be al praise and glorie. Amen."

Such is the venerable monument of priestly learning, piety, and zeal offered to the love and admiration of Catholic families in the present volume. It is the work of men who had sacrificed everything for conscience sake, the spiritual parents of the apostles and martyrs who kept the faith alive in England, and sealed their witness by their blood during the reign of Elizabeth and her successors.

Gregory Martin, to whom this translation is mostly, if not wholly due, died in 1582, probably while the New Testament was still in the printer's hands. We could wish to have given the text of the original edition of 1582–1610, with the simple corrections required by modern orthography. The Douay Bible of 1750, as edited by Dr. Challoner, is not an improvement on that which came from the pains-taking hands of Dr. Worthington. Such as it is, however, it has the recommendation of Bishop Challoner's solid learning and eminent virtues.

And so, as the Douay Bible has been a well-spring of knowledge and piety in every Catholic household during the last three centuries, may it continue to enlighten and refresh and vivify the souls of all who shall open these pages and seek therein the Word of God and the law of life!

BERNARD O'REILLY.

FAC - SIMILE
OF THE APPROBATION
OF
HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL M'CLOSKEY,
ARCHBISHOP OF NEW YORK,
TO DR. HUSENBETH'S EDITION OF HAYDOCK'S CATHOLIC FAMILY BIBLE AND COMMENTARY.

I hereby approve of the reprint of Haydock's Bible, issued by the National Publishing Co., and containing a History of the Sacred Books and other useful matter, prepared by the Rev. Bernard O'Reilly, L. D.

John Card. McCloskey

New York Dec. 21st 1883

Albany New York

The reprint edition of Haydock's Bible by the National Publishing Co. has my entire approval.
The Preface and History of the Canonical Books, by the Rev. Bernard O'Reilly, L. D., add immeasurably to its spiritual and practical excellence.

Francis Bishop of Albany

APPROBATIONS

OF THE

ARCHBISHOPS AND BISHOPS OF THE HOLY CATHOLIC CHURCH IN AMERICA,

TO DR. HUSENBETH'S EDITION OF

HAYDOCK'S CATHOLIC BIBLE AND COMMENTARY.

FROM THE LATE ARCHBISHOP HUGHES, OF NEW YORK.

Having examined the New Illustrated Edition of Haydock's Bible, now in course of publication, under the revision of the learned and Very Reverend Dr. Husenbeth, and approved by many distinguished Bishops in Great Britain and Ireland, I cheerfully give it my humble approbation also, having entire confidence in the testimony of the Illustrious Prelates by whom it has been so generally recommended.

*+ John Hughes
Arch Bishop of New York.*

FROM ARCHBISHOP PURCELL, CINCINNATI.

I have no hesitation in authorizing you to use my name in connection with the Prelates of this country and Great Britain and Ireland, in commendation of your beautiful edition of the Bible.

*+ John B. Purcell
Arch Bishop of Cincinnati*

FROM ARCHBISHOP BLANC, NEW ORLEANS.

GENTLEMEN:

I have to acknowledge the reception of twenty-four numbers of your magnificent edition of "Haydock's Bible." You have my thanks for it; and, should it be agreeable to you, I most cheerfully join with the illustrious Prelates who have so earnestly and so deservedly recommended it.

+ Ant. Alp of New Orleans

FROM ARCHBISHOP KENRICK, ST. LOUIS.

I most sincerely hope that your undertaking may be crowned with the success it so well deserves.

*+ Peter Richard,
Abp. of St. Louis.*

FROM ARCHBISHOP M'CLOSKEY, NEW YORK.

The New Edition of "The Holy Bible," with Notes and Illustrations, as now published, has my hearty approbation, and I accordingly commend it to the faithful of my diocese.

John Abp. of New York

FROM BISHOP WOOD, OF PHILADELPHIA.

The edition of the Bible, with the notes of Haydock, is entirely reliable, and We accordingly recommend it to the faithful of our Diocese.

*+ James C. Wood
Bishop of Philadelphia*

FROM BISHOP LEFEVRE, OF DETROIT.

I most fully concur with the Most Reverend the Archbishops and Bishops in the recommendation they have given of this work.

*+ Peter Paul Lefevre
Bishop of Detroit.*

THE DESCENT FROM THE CROSS.

APPROBATIONS.

FROM THE VERY REV. DR. WALSH, ADMINISTRATOR OF THE ARCHDIOCESE OF PHILADELPHIA.

This edition of Haydock's Douay Bible, given to the public, with the approbation of the Archbishops and Bishops of England and the United States, is reproduced in this city, with a Comprehensive History of the Books of the Bible, by the Rev. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., a Dictionary of the Bible, and other valuable introductory matter.

It is hereby cordially recommended to Catholic families, as well as to the reverend clergy.

December 8th, 1883.

Maurice A. Walsh
Administrator of the Archdiocese of Philada.

FROM BISHOP SHANAHAN, OF HARRISBURG.

I hereby cheerfully add my approbation to that given by the Very Rev. Dr. Walsh, Administrator of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, to this reprint of Dr. Husenbeth's Bible, so favorably recommended by the English and American Hierarchies. This finely illustrated edition contains most valuable matter in the Comprehensive History, by Rev. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., a Catholic Dictionary of the Bible, etc., and can therefore be specially recommended.

Harrisburg -

Dec. 14, 1883.

J. Shanahan
Bp. of Harrisburg

FROM BISHOP LOUGHLIN, OF BROOKLYN.

I cheerfully give my approval to the new edition of Haydock's Bible, issued by "The National Publishing Co.," under the supervision of the Rev. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D.

+ John Loughlin
Bishop of Brooklyn

December 21st, 1883.

FROM BISHOP WIGGER, NEWARK, N. J.

I have examined the copy of Dr. Husenbeth's Douay Bible, which you had the kindness to send me, and am very well pleased with it. The History of the Books of the Old and New Testaments, and the "Dictionary of the Bible," are admirable. I am sure they will be of great service to the priest and the student, and that they will be highly appreciated. I warmly recommend this edition of the Bible to both the clergy and the laity of this Diocese.

Yours very sincerely,

+ Wm. Wigger
Bp. of Newark

January 4th, 1884.

FROM BISHOP O'FARRELL, TRENTON, N. J.

I desire to return you my sincere thanks for the very beautiful copy of the Bible which you have so kindly sent me. It is certainly one of the most complete and perfect copies of our Catholic Bible that I have seen in the English language. The clearness of the type, the beauty of the illustrations, the valuable notes, the comprehensive dictionary, the complete chronological tables are all that could be desired. But this is still increased by the clear, concise, yet full history of the sacred books, by Rev. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D. I like well the analysis which you make of each book in such well-selected and well-digested sentences. Such a summary must be of great utility to the student or the pious Christian to guide them through the difficulties of the sacred books. It serves as a key to enter into many of its inmost treasures. I hope that your labors will be blessed by our Divine Master, and that the priceless treasure of his divine words will be thereby more understood and more valued by all faithful Catholics.

Very gratefully yours in X^{ps}
+ Michael Joseph Farrell
Bishop of Trenton

February 1st, 1884.

APPROBATIONS.

FROM BISHOP FITZPATRICK, OF BOSTON.

I have examined the Douay Bible with Dr. Husenbeth's Abridgment of Haydock's Notes. Numerous approbations from the most respectable authorities already attest more than sufficiently the excellence of the work itself. In regard to the edition now presented to the public, I must say that, judging from the portion already published, I think it deserving of very high commendation in every respect. Its beauty and merit are such as to need no support of testimony, inasmuch as they must be evident to every eye.

*+ John Fitzpatrick
Bishop of Boston*

FROM BISHOP RAPPE, OF CLEVELAND.

I have examined your new edition of the Douay Bible, with the notes of Very Rev. Geo. Haydock, and cheerfully join to many and illustrious Prelates to congratulate you for so beautiful and noble an undertaking.

+ Alexander Bishop of Cleveland

FROM BISHOP MILES, OF NASHVILLE.

I gladly add my testimony to those of my venerable brethren the Archbishop of New York, and the Bishops of Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, and the numerous Clergy who have so cordially approved the work.

+ Richard Pius Miles Bishop of Nashville

FROM BISHOP CHANCHE, OF NATCHEZ.

From the many learned works which have come from the pen of Dr. Husenbeth in defence of Religion, and from my personal acquaintance with him, I am happy to join my testimony to those of the distinguished Prelates and Clergy who have recommended this excellent book. It is a work which I should like to see in every family. The illustrations and typography are of the highest order, and must command universal approbation.

*+ John Joseph
Bishop of Natchez*

FROM BISHOP O'REILLY, OF HARTFORD.

I am much pleased with the new illustrated edition of "Haydock's Bible," and recommend it to the faithful throughout my diocese.

*+ Bernard Reilly
Bp of Hartford*

FROM BISHOP O'REGAN, OF CHICAGO.

GENTLEMEN—Allow me again to renew the expression of my great respect and gratitude for your great kindness in sending me so many additional numbers of your very perfect and well executed edition of Haydock's Bible. I am so much pleased with the manner in which this work is got up, that I would wish to see it in every clergyman's library and in every family.

*+ Anthony O'Regan
Bishop of Chicago*

FROM ARCHBISHOP SPALDING, OF BALTIMORE.

(FORMERLY BISHOP OF LOUISVILLE.)

Having examined four numbers of the splendidly Illustrated New Edition of Haydock's Bible, I take great pleasure in uniting with the Bishops of the United States and England, Ireland and Scotland, in recommending it to those of my diocese who desire a beautiful copy of the Scriptures.

*+ Martin J. Spalding
Bishop of Louisville*

FROM THE VERY REV. FATHER MATHEW.

GENTLEMEN—I have much pleasure in the receipt of the first four parts of your New and Illustrated Edition of Haydock's Bible, edited by the Very Rev. Dr. Husenbeth. I beg to add my humble approbation to those already given by the Illustrious Prelates whose names are appended to the work, and as a further proof of my appreciation of this noble and praiseworthy undertaking, I beg to inform you that I have had a copy of a former edition of Haydock's Bible in daily use, at my residence in Ireland, for the last twenty years.

I have the honor to be, yours devotedly,

Thosald Mathew

APPROBATIONS

OF THE

ARCHBISHOPS AND BISHOPS OF THE HOLY CATHOLIC CHURCH IN ENGLAND, TO DR. HUSENBETH'S EDITION OF HAYDOCK'S CATHOLIC BIBLE AND COMMENTARY.

FROM THE RIGHT REV. DR. WAREING.

BISHOP OF ARIOPOLIS, AND VICAR APOSTOLIC OF THE EASTERN DISTRICT.

MY DEAR SIR,

I am glad to hear that you are about to undertake the revision and abridgment of the Notes to Haydock's edition of the Holy Bible, as well as to secure an accurate reprint of the text. It is a most useful work; but in its present form too cumbersome and expensive for the bulk of ordinary readers. The projected abridgment of the Notes I think an excellent idea, and calculated to bring an important and useful book within the reach of many who are unable to possess themselves of the folio edition. I need not say that your well-known competency and fidelity will be a great security to the Catholic public, both for the accuracy of the text, and the judicious abridgment of the Notes.

I think the work will be extensively patronized; and wishing you every success in your meritorious task, I am, as ever,

My Dear Sir,

Yours truly in Christ,

FROM THE RIGHT REV. DR. BRIGGS,

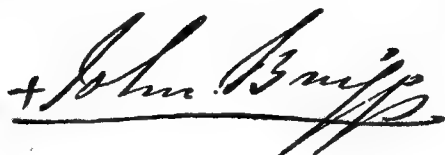

BISHOP OF TRACHIS AND VICAR APOSTOLIC OF THE YORKSHIRE DISTRICT.

MY DEAR SIR,

I have perfect confidence both in the judgment and carefulness with which you will abridge the Notes to Haydock's Bible in the proposed new edition.

Believe me, my Dear Sir,

To be, as always, truly yours,

FROM CARDINAL WISEMAN,

ARCHBISHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

MY DEAR SIR,

I am glad to find that you are about to be employed in abridging Haydock's Notes; a task for which I certainly think you are eminently qualified.

Yours ever very sincerely in Christ,

FROM THE RIGHT REV. GEORGE BROWN,

BISHOP OF TLOA, AND VICAR APOSTOLIC OF THE LANCASHIRE DISTRICT.

MY DEAR SIR,

I most heartily wish you success in your undertaking. There is no person that I know to whom such a work as you mention can be so safely intrusted; no one who will execute it better, if so well as yourself. You have my most cordial approbation. Wishing you all the success you deserve in your new undertaking, I remain, yours sincerely in Christ,

FROM THE RIGHT REV. DR. T. J. BROWN.

BISHOP OF APOLLONIA, AND VICAR APOSTOLIC OF THE WELSH DISTRICT.

MY DEAR REVEREND FRIEND,

I entirely approve of the work you have undertaken, that of abridging the Notes to Haydock's Bible, and gladly authorize you to publish my cordial approbation and recommendation of you as fully competent to abridge the Notes and certify the accurate reprinting of the text. Wishing you every blessing, I remain, my dear reverend friend,

Yours sincerely in Jesus Christ,

THE NAMES AND ORDER OF ALL THE
BOOKS OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENT, WITH THE NUMBER OF THEIR CHAPTERS.

THE OLD TESTAMENT.

| | Chapters. | | Chapters. | | Chapters. |
|--------------------------------------|-----------|---------------------------------|-----------|-------------------------|-----------|
| GENESIS | 50 | TOBIAS | 14 | DANIEL | 14 |
| EXODUS | 40 | JUDITH | 16 | OSEE | 14 |
| LEVITICUS | 27 | ESTHER | 16 | JOEL | 3 |
| NUMBERS | 36 | JOB | 42 | AMOS | 9 |
| DEUTERONOMY | 34 | PSALMS | 150 Ps. | ABDIAS | 1 |
| JOSUE | 24 | PROVERBS | 31 | JONAS | 4 |
| JUDGES | 21 | ECCLESIASTES | 12 | MICHEAS | 7 |
| RUTH | 4 | CANTICLE OF CANTICLES | 8 | NAHUM | 3 |
| I. KINGS | 31 | WISDOM | 19 | HABACUC | 3 |
| II. KINGS | 24 | ECCLESIASTICUS | 51 | SOPHONIAS | 3 |
| III. KINGS | 22 | ISAIAH | 66 | AGGEUS | 2 |
| IV. KINGS | 25 | JEREMIAS | 52 | ZACHARIAS | 14 |
| I. PARALIPOMENON | 29 | LAMENTATIONS | 5 | MALACHIAS | 4 |
| II. PARALIPOMENON | 36 | BARUCH | 6 | I. MACHABEES | 16 |
| I. ESDRAS | 10 | EZECHIEL | 48 | II. MACHABEES | 15 |
| II. ESDRAS, ALIAS NEHEMIAS | 13 | | | | |

THE NEW TESTAMENT.

| | Chapters. | | Chapters. | | Chapters. |
|------------------------------------|-----------|-----------------------------|-----------|--------------------------|-----------|
| ST. MATTHEW | 28 | EPHESIANS | 6 | HEBREWS | 13 |
| ST. MARK | 16 | PHILIPPIANS | 4 | ST. JAMES | 5 |
| ST. LUKE | 24 | COLOSSIANS | 4 | I. ST. PETER | 5 |
| ST. JOHN | 21 | I. THESSALONIANS | 5 | II. ST. PETER | 8 |
| THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES | 28 | II. THESSALONIANS | 3 | I. ST. JOHN | 5 |
| ST. PAUL TO THE ROMANS | 16 | I. TIMOTHY | 6 | II. ST. JOHN | 1 |
| I. CORINTHIANS | 16 | II. TIMOTHY | 4 | III. ST. JOHN | 1 |
| II. CORINTHIANS | 13 | TITUS | 3 | ST. JUDE | 1 |
| GALATIANS | 6 | PHILEMON | 1 | THE APOCALYPSE | 22 |

NOTE, that A. M. signifies Anno Manai, that is, in the Year of the World.—A. C. Ante Christum, Year before Christ.—A. D. Anno Domini, in the Year of our Lord.—Supra, i. e. above, denotes that the Chapter and Verse before which it is prefixed are to be found in the same Book, but preceding.—And Infra, i. e. below, denotes the Chapter and Verse to be found in the same Book, but following. The other marginal Contractions and marks are sufficiently obvious. The Year of our Lord always commences on the first of January, the day on which Christ was circumcised, being eight days old. From the Creation until the Birth of Christ was 4004 years.

ADMONITION.

The Scriptures, in which are contained the revealed mysteries of divine truth, are undoubtedly the most excellent of all writings : they were written by men divinely inspired, and are not the word of men, but the word of God, which can save our souls, 1 Thess. ii. 13, and James i. 21 ; but then they ought to be read, even by the learned, with the spirit of humility, and with a fear of mistaking a true sense, as many have done. This we learn from the Scripture itself, where St. Peter says, that in the epistles of St. Paul, there are some things hard to be understood, which the unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other Scriptures, to their own perdition. 2 Peter iii. 16.

To prevent and remedy this abuse, and to guard against error, it was judged necessary to forbid the reading of the Scriptures in the vulgar languages, without the advice and permission of the pastors and spiritual guides whom God has appointed to govern his church. Acts xx. 28. Christ himself declared, "He that will not hear the church, let him be to thee as the heathen and the publican." Matt. xviii. 17.

Nor is this due submission to the Catholic Church (the pillar and ground of truth, 1 Tim. iii. 15) to be understood of the ignorant and unlearned only, but also of men accomplished in all kind of learning. The ignorant fall into errors for want of knowledge, and the learned through pride and self-sufficiency.

Therefore let every reader of the sacred writings, who pretends to be a competent judge of the sense, and of the truths revealed in them, reflect on the words which he finds in Isaiah, chap. lv. 8, 9 : "My thoughts are not as your thoughts, neither are your ways as my ways, saith the Lord ; for as the heavens are exalted above the earth, even so are my ways exalted above your ways, and my thoughts above your thoughts." How then shall any one by his private reason, pretend to judge, to know, to demonstrate, the incomprehensible and unsearchable ways of God ?

THE FOLLOWING LETTER OF HIS HOLINESS PIUS THE SIXTH, TO THE MOST REV. ANTHONY MARTINI, ARCHBISHOP OF FLORENCE, ON HIS TRANSLATION OF THE HOLY BIBLE INTO ITALIAN, SHEWS THE BENEFIT WHICH THE FAITHFUL MAY REAP FROM THEIR HAVING THE HOLY SCRIPTURES IN THE VULGAR TONGUE.

POPE PIUS THE SIXTH.

BELoved SON : Health and apostolic benediction. At a time that a vast number of bad books, which most grossly attack the Catholic religion, are circulated even among the unlearned, to the great destruction of souls, you judge exceedingly well, that the faithful should be excited to the reading of the Holy Scriptures : for these are the most abundant sources which ought to be left open to every one, to draw from them purity of morals and of doctrine, to eradicate the errors which are widely disseminated in these corrupt times : this you have seasonably effected, as you declare, by publishing the sacred writings in the language of your country, suitable to every one's capacity ; especially when you shew and set forth, that you have added explanatory notes, which, being extracted from the holy fathers, preclude every possible danger of abuse : thus you have not swerved either from the laws of the Congregation of the Index, or from the constitution published on this subject by Benedict XIV., that immortal Pope, our predecessor in the pontificate, and formerly, when we held a place near his person, our excellent master in ecclesiastical learning, circumstances which we mention as honourable to us.

We therefore applaud your eminent learning, joined with your extraordinary piety, and we return you our due acknowledgments for the books which you have transmitted to us, and which, when convenient, we will read over. In the meantime, as a token of our pontifical benevolence, receive our apostolic benediction, which to you, beloved son, we very affectionately impart. Given at Rome, on the calends of April, 1778, the fourth year of our pontificate.

To our beloved Son, Anthony Martini, at Turin.

PHILIP BUONAMICI, LATIN SECRETARY.

(A translation from the Latin original.)

ADVERTISEMENT.

IN this edition of the Holy Scriptures, we shall adhere to the Text of the venerable and Right Rev. Dr. Richard Challoner; and we shall insert all his Notes either verbatim, or at least shall give their full sense, placing his signature, Ch., at the end. In like manner, when any additional observation is made, the author from whom it is taken will be specified, either at length or by an abbreviation, which will easily be understood by attending to the following remarks. The most ancient Greek version, by the Septuagint, or 72 interpreters, about 284 years B. C. or perhaps something later, for some parts of the version, will be designated Sept. or 70. The authentic Latin translation of S. Jerom will be written Vulg. This version has ever since been esteemed the most accurate, and was rendered into English by Dr. Gregory Martin, and published at Douay and Rheims, 1582, 1609-10, with the Notes of Dr. Thomas Worthington, on the Old Testament, and those of Dr. Richard Bristow on the New. The whole was revised by Dr. R. Challoner, 1750-2. Another translation of the New Testament was published, with excellent Notes, 1730, by Dr. Robert Witham, president of Douay College; and a valuable exposition of the Apoccalypse by the late pious and learned Bishop Charles Walmesley, under the name of Pastorini, 1771; who, with the other commentators most frequently consulted, will be thus marked—B. Bristow, C. Calmet, Ch. Challoner, D. Du Hamel, E. Estius, M. Menochius, P. Pastorini or Walmesley, T. Tirinus, W. Worthington, Wi. Witham. We shall also sometimes insert a few original observations, or such, at least, as we cannot easily trace to their real authors, either through forgetfulness, or because we have adopted some alteration, or have received them from some of our learned friends, whose names we are not at liberty to mention. These will be marked with the letter H. With respect to the other Notes, except those of Bishop Challoner, which we shall generally give at length, we shall deem it sufficient to express the sense. When the very words are preserved, and are of such importance as to require this distinction, we shall denote them by inverted commas. We shall reserve the more elaborate Biblical Disquisitions till the Text and Notes be completed; and then, if required, they may be published, and bound up either at the beginning or at the end of the Holy Bible.

CATALOGUE OF THE SACRED BOOKS.

| | B. C. |
|---|-------|
| 1. Genesis, as a Preface, by Moses..... | 1488 |
| 2. Exodus, about..... | 1486 |
| 3. Leviticus, perhaps..... | 1480 |
| 4. Numbers, perhaps..... | 1470 |
| 5. Deuteronomy, Moses died..... | 1448 |
| 6. Josue, by that general, who died..... | 1430 |
| 7. Judges, probably by Samuel..... | 1076 |
| 8. Ruth, by Samuel, who died..... | 1053 |
| 9. I. Kings or Samuel, by do. and others till..... | 1051 |
| 10. II. Kings or Samuel, by Nathan, etc., till..... | 1016 |
| 11. III. Kings or I., by Admo, etc., to..... | 889 |
| 12. IV. Kings or II., by Jehu, Esdras, etc., to..... | 562 |
| 13. I. Par. or Chronicles, from 4000 to..... | 1011 |
| 14. II. Par., from 1010 to 532, by Esdras..... | |
| 15. I. Esdras, by the same, who died..... | 450 |
| 16. II. Esdras or Nehemias , who died..... | 420 |
| 17. Tobias I. died 637—II. died..... | 620 |
| 18. Judith the widow, died..... | 614 |
| 19. Esther, by Mardocheus..... | 500 |
| 20. Job or Jobab, by him, etc., died..... | 1340 |
| 21. Psalms, by David, etc., died..... | 1010 |
| 22. Proverbs | |
| 23. Ecclesiastes } by Solomon, who died..... | 971 |
| 24. Canticle | |
| 25. Wisdom, by Philo, perhaps one of the 70, under the name of Solomon..... | 284 |
| 26. Ecclesiasticals, by Jesus..... | 195 |
| 27. Isaias, from 754 to..... | 694 |
| 28. Jeremias and Lamentations..... | 582 |
| 29. Baruch, who died about..... | 580 |
| 30. Ezechiel..... | 570 |
| 31. Daniel, from 603 to..... | 536 |
| 32. Osee, from 777 to..... | 698 |
| 33. Joel..... | 600 |
| 34. Amos..... | 789 |
| 35. Abdias, Jerusalem destroyed..... | 584 |
| 36. Jonas, between 821 and..... | 780 |

| | B. C. |
|---|----------|
| 37. Micheas, 50 years till..... | 694 |
| 38. Nahum, not before..... | 707 |
| 39. Habacuc, who died..... | 531 |
| 40. Sophonias, about..... | 636 |
| 41. Aggeus..... | 516 |
| 42. Zacharias..... | 516 |
| 43. Malachias, perhaps Esdras..... | 450 |
| 44. I. Machabees, J. Hyrcan..... | 131 |
| 45. II. Machabees, in Greek, by Jason..... | 157 |
| | A. C. |
| 46. S. Matthew, in Hebrew, etc..... | 41 |
| 47. S. Mark, in Greek or Latin..... | 43 |
| 48. S. Luke, perhaps..... | 56 |
| 49. S. John, about..... | 98 |
| 50. Acts by S. Luke..... | 63 |
| 51. S. Paul to Romans..... | 58 |
| 52. I. Corinthians..... | 57 |
| 53. II. Corinthians..... | 57 |
| 54. Galatians..... | 56 |
| 55. Ephesians..... | 65 |
| 56. Philippians..... | 62 |
| 57. Colossians..... | 62 |
| 58. I. Thessalonians..... | 52 |
| 59. II. Thessalonians..... | 52 |
| 60. I Timothy..... | 64 |
| 61. II. Timothy..... | 65 |
| 62. Titus..... | 64 |
| 63. Philemon..... | 62 |
| 64. Hebrews..... | 63 |
| 65. S. James the Less..... | 62 |
| 66. I. Peter..... | 50 |
| 67. II. Peter..... | 65 |
| 68. I. John..... | 70 or 98 |
| 69. II. John..... | 70 or 98 |
| 70. III. John..... | 70 or 98 |
| 71. S. Jude, perhaps..... | 70 |
| 72. Apocalypse, or Revelation of S. John..... | 96 |

From the above Decree it follows that all these books are of divine and infallible authority; those concerning which some doubts were formerly entertained, such as Judith, the Epistle of Jude, etc., as well as those which have always been venerated by Catholics. Let all therefore who turn the Apocrypha to ridicule, attend, and dread this curse!

A TRANSLATION OF
THE DECREE OF THE COUNCIL OF TRENT CONCERNING THE CANONICAL SCRIPTURES.

Sess. IV., April 8, 1546—Signed by 255 Prelates, Dec. 4, 1563; and confirmed by Pius IV., Jan. 26, 1564.

"The holy Œcumenic and general Council of Trent in the Holy Ghost lawfully assembled, the three aforesaid Legates of the Apostolic See presiding therein, having always this in view, that all errors being taken away, the purity of the Gospel should be preserved in the Church; that Gospel* before promised by the Prophets in the Holy Scriptures, our Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God, first promulgated with his own mouth; and afterwards commanded his Apostles to preach the same to all† nations as the source of every saving Truth, and moral discipline: and the Synod clearly seeing that this Truth and discipline is contained in the Written Word, and in the unwritten Traditions, which the Apostles received from the mouth of Christ himself or from the Apostles‡ themselves, being the dictate of the Holy Ghost to them, and delivered as it were from hand to hand, came down to us: following the examples of the Orthodox Fathers, with due veneration and piety receiving all the books as well of the Old as of the New Testament, seeing that God is the immediate author of both and also receiving these Traditions, appertaining to Faith and Morals, as coming from the mouth of Christ, or dictated by the Holy Ghost, and held in the Catholic Church by a continued succession. The Synod therefore thought proper to annex to this decree a catalogue of the Sacred Books, lest any doubt might arise concerning those that were approved of. They are the following: (Here occur the names of the books of the Old and New Testaments, as mentioned below.) Now, if any one, reading over these books in all their parts, as they are usually read in the Catholic Church, and being in the Latin Vulgate edition, does not hold them for Sacred and Canonical, and knowing the aforesaid traditions, does industriously condemn them, let him be Anathema."

The 72 books of the Holy Bible, written by divine inspiration, by the authors whose names they bear, or by others of unquestionable authority, were composed, according to Calmet, etc., about the following years, before or after Jesus Christ, whose nativity is generally fixed about the year 4000. Absolute certainty in these matters cannot be obtained, as able chronologists vary concerning this most important epoch 3244 years. R. Nahasson advances it to 3740. K. Alphonsus, on the other hand, postpones it to the year of the world 6984. Pezron places the death of Christ A. M. 6000.

* Jeremias, chap. xxxi. ver. 33.

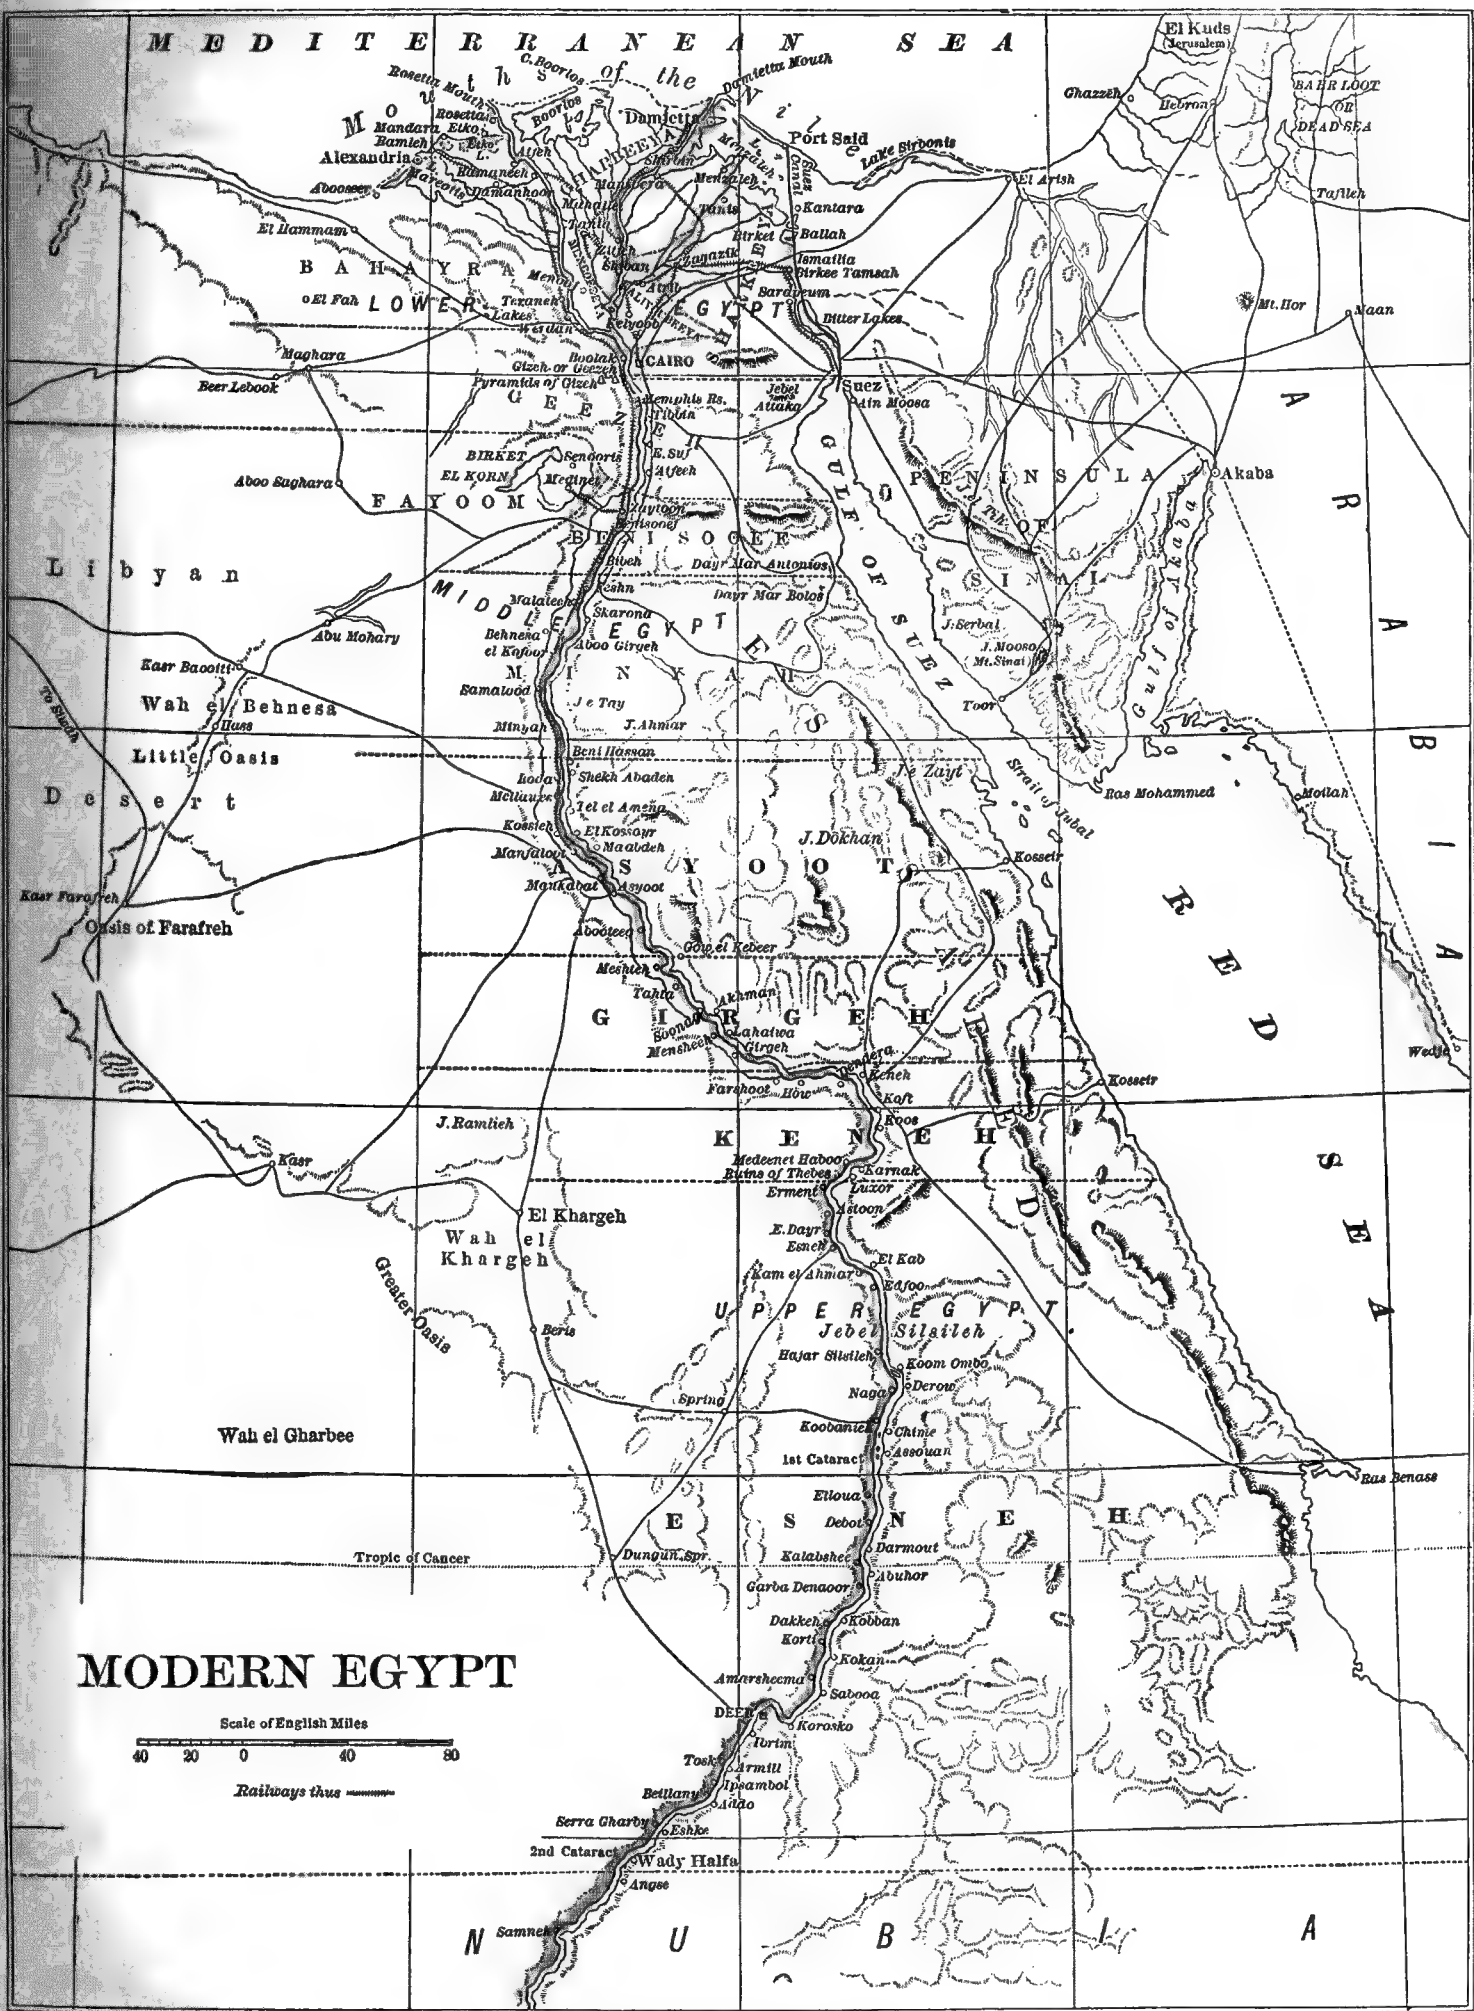

† Mark, chap. xvi. ver. 15.

‡ 2 Thessalonians, chap. ii. ver. 14.

“Moreover, the same sacred Synod, considering that no small benefit might accrue to the Church of God, if it were stated clearly which among all the Latin editions of the sacred books now in circulation should be deemed authentic, she makes the following decree and declaration, that this same old and Vulgate edition, which has been approved by being used in the same Church for so many ages, should be accounted authentic in public lectures, disputations, sermons, and expositions, and that no one should dare or presume to reject it under any pretext whatsoever. In order likewise to restrain petulant geniuses, she enjoins that no one depending on his own prudence in matters of faith and morals, pertaining to the edification of Christian doctrine, twisting the sacred Scripture to their own senses, in opposition to that sense which the holy mother the Church has embraced, and still holds, to whom it belongs to judge of the true sense and interpretation of the Holy Scriptures, or even against the unanimous consent of the Fathers, should dare to interpret the same sacred Scripture, although such interpretations were never to be published. Let those who act contrary to this decree be denounced by the Bishops, and suffer the legal punishment. Wishing also to set just bounds, in this point to printers, who now without any reserve, as if they supposed that they could do lawfully whatever they pleased, print without leave of the Ecclesiastical superiors the sacred books of Scripture and annotations upon them, and expositions of any one without discrimination, often concealing and frequently feigning the place where they keep their printing-office; and what is worse, not specifying the name of the author; and sell such books printed elsewhere, to any person who may ask for them, she enacts the following decree, that henceforth the sacred Scripture, and particularly this same old and Vulgate edition, shall be printed with the utmost exactitude; and that none shall print, or cause to be printed, any books on sacred topics, without the name of the author; nor sell them in future, nor keep them, unless they have been first examined and approved by the Bishops. Let the approbation appear authentically at the head of the book, and be given gratis, that the things which deserve approbation may be approved, and the reverse condemned. Lastly, being desirous to repress that temerity by which the words and sentences of sacred Scripture are turned and twisted to profane purposes, to scurrilous, fabulous and vain things, to flattery, detractions, impious superstitions and diabolical incantations, divinations, lots, even libels, she commands and orders to take away such irreverence and contempt, that no one, in future, shall dare, in any manner, to use the words of the sacred Scripture for these or similar purposes, that all such profane violators of the word of God shall be repressed by such punishments as the law has specified, or the Bishops shall devise.”

How full of wisdom are these ordinances! How solicitous is the Church that we should have the pure word of God; not only the letter, but also the spirit and sense, and that we should make use of it for the edification of our souls! Our dissenting brethren of the church of England have followed the example of the Council of Trent in many particulars, though they unhappily refuse to be guided by her authority, and prefer choosing for themselves, being thus condemned by their own judgment. They blame the Council for declaring the Vulgate authentic, and not to be rejected, though the originals and all other versions, except the Latin ones then in use, be not in the least depreciated by this declaration; and at the same time they sanction various contradictory versions of their own, and require the assent and consent of their people to them, as the Calvinists of France do, even though they acknowledge that more accurate versions might be given. Bingham, ii. 754, says, “We do not thereby declare it to be the best translation, or absolutely without faults, but only such a one as we can piously use and read publicly in the church.” What more does the Council of Trent assert when she declares the Vulgate to be authentic? Let misrepresentation cease and union be restored. Let us hear, understand, and obey the decisions of the Church.

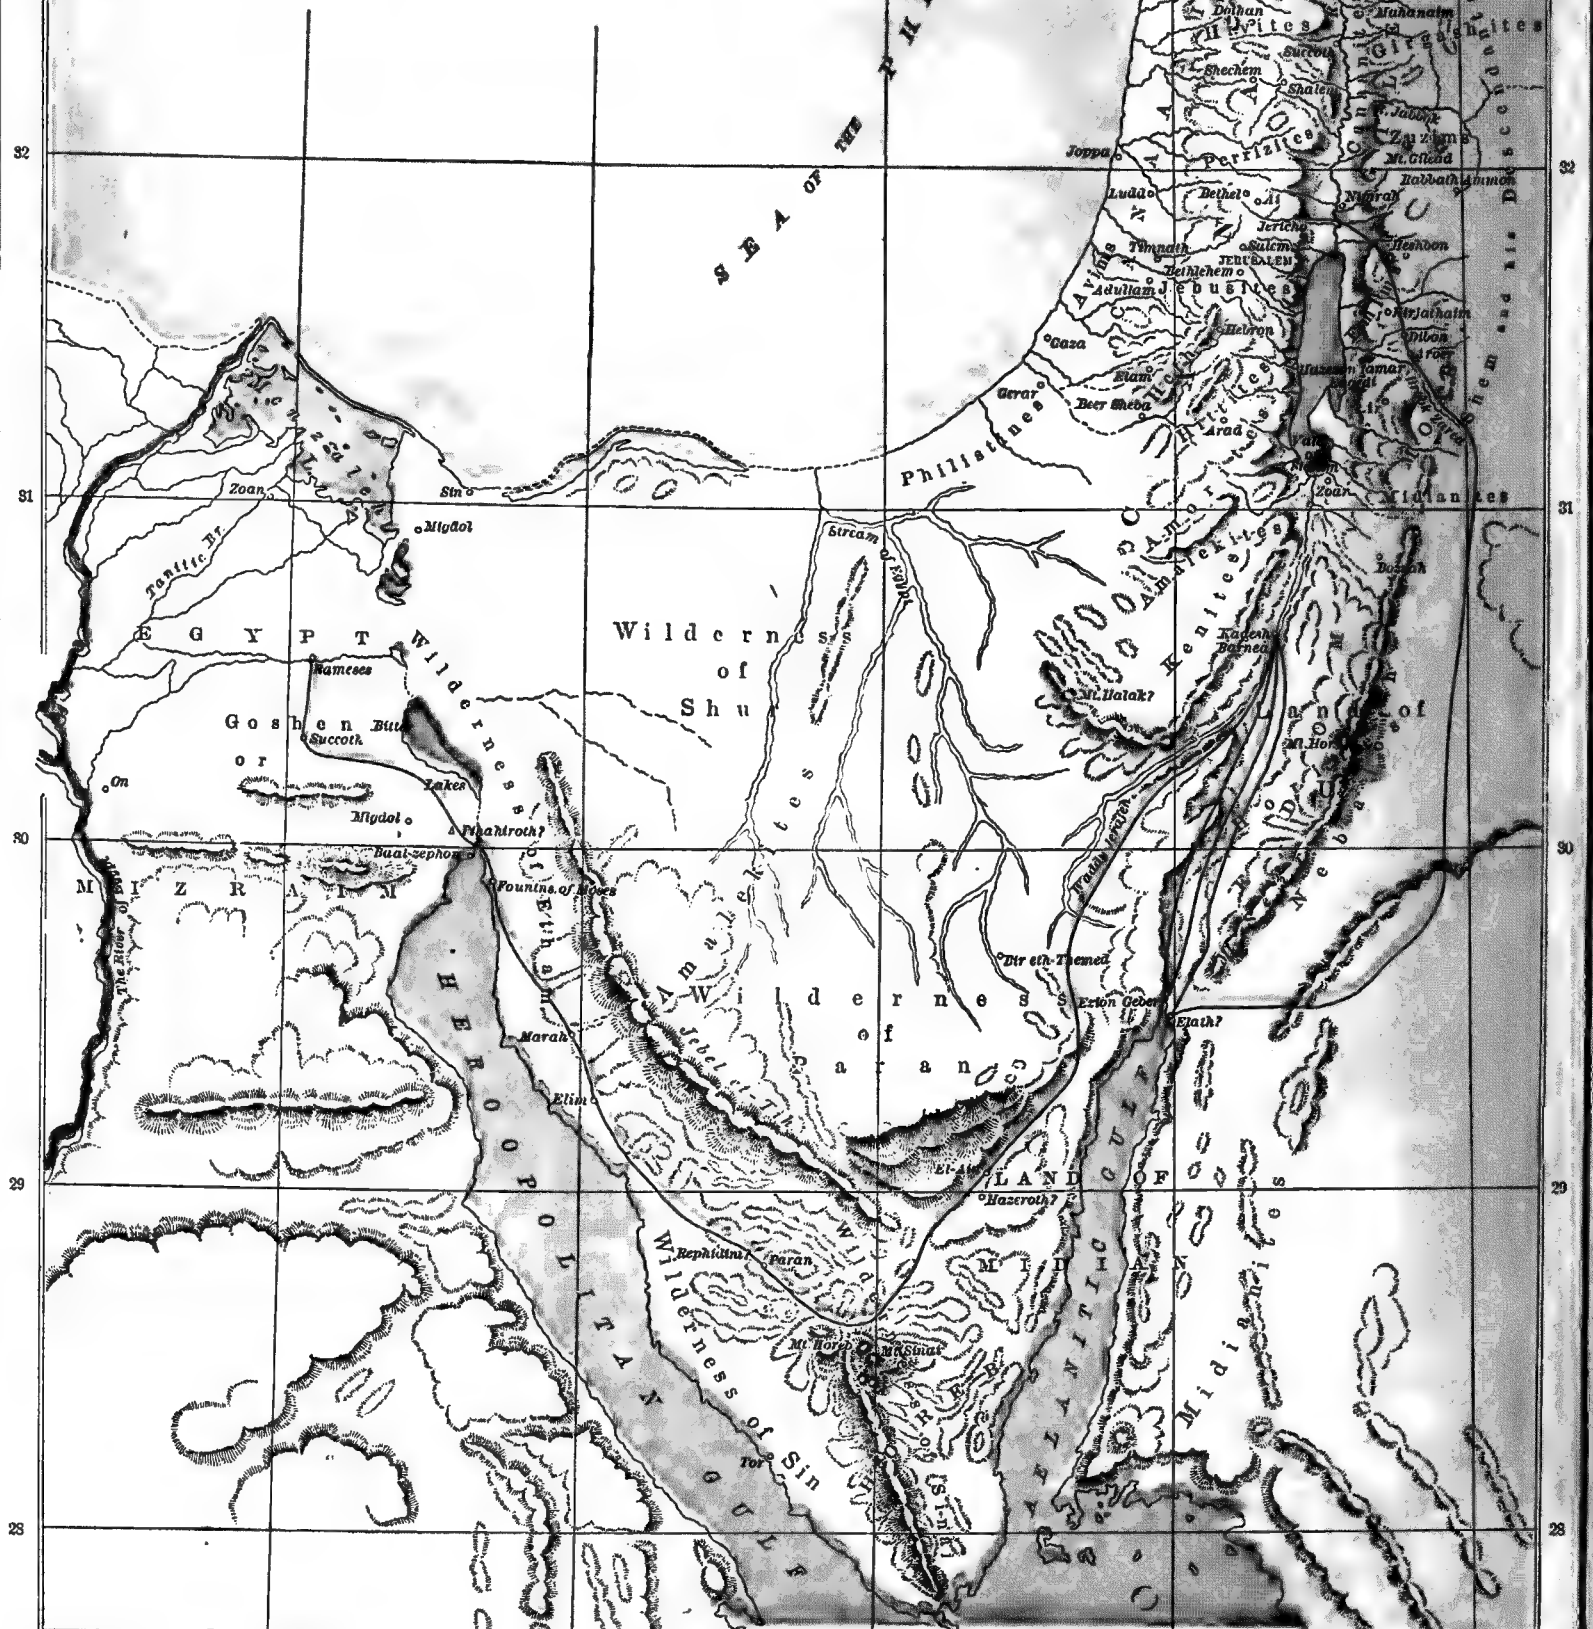

MODERN EGYPT

Scale of English Miles
40 20 0 40 80

Railways thus ———

32 33 34 35 36

A horizontal ruler with markings at 10, 20, 30, 40, and 50. The markings are in black ink on a white background.

THE

Traced in the Order of Time & Place.

BY ROBERT MIMPRISS.

Prov: IV. 18.

| | TEXT. | PLACE. | EVANGELIST. |
|-----|--|---|------------------------|
| 1 | The Birth of John foretold, at Jerusalem —Zacharias returns home Hill Co. of Judea | Hill Co. of Judea | Luke 1, 1-25 |
| 2 | Jesus foretold, at Nazareth —Mary visits Elizabeth Hill Co. of Judea —returns to Naz. | Nazareth | —26-56 |
| 3 | John Baptist born, Hill Co. of Judea —Brought up in the | Wilderness of Judea | —57-80 |
| 4 | Jesus is born, at Bethlehem —Presented in the Temple | At Jerusalem | 2, 1-38 |
| 5 | Wise men from the East worship Jesus, at Bethlehem —The Holy family go to Egypt. | Return to Naz. | Matt. 2, 1-23 |
| 6 | Jesus preps from Nazareth to the Passover. | At Jerusalem | Luke 2, 40-52 |
| 7 | John begins to preach and to baptize | Wilds. of Judea & Jordan | 3, 1-20 |
| 8 | Jesus is baptized, see lines from | Nazareth to Jordan | Matt. 3, 13-17 |
| 9 | Three temptations. | See line fr. Jordan S. E.—Jerusalem and N. of Jericho. | Luke 4, 1-13 |
| 10 | The Baptist's second testimony to Jesus | Bethabara beyond Jordan. | John 1, 19-51 |
| 11 | Water changed into Wine, at Cana —Jesus departs with his disciples to Capernaum | Capernaum | 2, 1-12 |
| 12 | Jesus cleanses the Temple—Nicodemus is instructed | See line from Capernaum to Jerusalem | —13-3, 21 |
| 13 | Jesus discourses with a Woman of Samaria | At Sychar | —3, 22-4, 42 |
| 14 | at Cana , heals a Nobleman's son, who was sick. | At Capernaum | 4, 43-54 |
| 15 | preaches in a Synagogue and is rejected | At Nazareth | Luke 4, 14-30 |
| 16 | selects Capernaum to dwell in, and calls four disciples | At the Sea of Galilee | Matt. 4, 12-22 |
| 17 | heals a demoniac, Peter's Mother-in-law, and others | At Capernaum | Matt. 1, 21-34 |
| 18 | First General Circuit, (Mark 1.35-9) as in every other Fr. Capernaum round Galilee | See line from Capernaum to Jerusalem | Matt. 4, 23-5 |
| 19 | Sermon on the Mount | North of Capernaum | 5, 1-5 |
| 20 | ditto continued | ditto | 6-8, 1-1 |
| 21 | The first miraculous draught of fishes.—A leper healed | Lake Genesareth—Chorazin | Lw. S. I. 11, 1-26 |
| 22 | A man sick of the palsy healed.—Matthew called, etc. | Capernaum—Sea of Galilee | Matt. 2, 1-9 |
| 23 | Jesus at the second Passover, in his ministry, heals a lame man | Bethsaida, Jerusalem | John 5, 1-9 |
| 24 | The disciples pluck corn on the Sabbath day | Nigh to Jerusalem | Matt. 12, 1-8 |
| 25 | The withered hand restored | By the Sea of Galilee | Matt. 12, 9-13 |
| 26 | Jesus' second circuit | N. of Capernaum | Luke 3, 7-12 |
| 27 | chooses twelve Apostles, after prayer all night | At Capernaum | Mark 6, 12-6 |
| 28 | delivers a sermon on the plain | ditto | —17-49 |
| 29 | The Centurion's servant healed | At Capernaum | 7, 1-10 |
| 30 | Widow's son raised (Luke 7.11-17)—John's messengers answered At Nain | At Nain | Matt. 11, 2-10 |
| 31 | Jesus is anointed at Nain . Thence he makes his SECOND CIRCUIT of Galilee | Galilee | Luke 7, 36-50, 8, 2-3 |
| 32 | A blind and dumb demoniac healed | At Capernaum | Matt. 9, 35 |
| 33 | Jesus teaches by parables | At the Sea of Galilee | Lk. 1-17, 24-25 |
| 34 | interprets the parables and adds others | At Capernaum | —36; 18-23; 36-52 |
| 35 | calms a storm in answer to his disciples' prayer | On the Lake | —53; 8, 18-27 |
| 36 | casts out devils in the Country of the Gadarenes, and returns to Capernaum | At Capernaum | Mark. 5, 1-21 |
| 37 | answers the Pharisees—Restores Jairus' daughter, etc. | At Capernaum | Matt. 9, 10-34 |
| 38 | revisits Nazareth , (Matt. 13, 54-8) THIRD GENERAL CIRCUIT Through all Galilee | Galilee | —35 |
| 39 | Jesus sends his 12 apostles two & two, to preach & heal the sick. Capernaum Matt. | See line from Capernaum to Jerusalem | 9-36, 10-1, 11-1 |
| 40 | John Baptist is beheaded by Herod | See line from Capernaum to Jerusalem | Mark 6, 14-29 |
| 41 | Jesus feeds 5000 men, besides women and children, Desert of | Bethsaida, E. of Galilee | —30-44 |
| 42 | walks upon the Sea of Galilee, and lands at | Bethsaida in Genesareth | Matt. 14, 22-36 |
| 43 | preaches in a synagogue—THE BREAD OF LIFE | At Capernaum | John 6, 5-51 |
| 44 | Of unwearied hands and Commandment of God | ditto | Mark 7, 1-23 |
| 45 | Jesus heals the daughter of a Syrophenician woman | Co. of Tyre and Sidon | Lk. 15, 21-8 |
| 46 | Jesus feeds 5000 men, besides women and children, in the Desert of | Desert of Gennesareth, E. of Galilee | Luke 9, 10-17 |
| 47 | answers the Pharisees, who demand a sign, etc. | Magdala and Tiberias | —15, 59-16, 12 |
| 48 | heals a blind man, having crossed over The Sea of Galilee, to Bethsaida E. of the Lake | Magdala and Tiberias | Mark 8, 22-6 |
| 49 | foretells his death and resurrection | In the way to Cesarea Phili. | Matt. 16, 13-28 |
| 50 | appears in glory, (Matt. 17.1-13)—Heals a demoniac | The holy Mount Hermon | Mark 9, 14-29 |
| 51 | foretells, the second time, his death and resurrection | In Galilee | —30-32 |
| 52 | pays tribute, (Matt. 17.24-7)—Censures his disciples | At Capernaum | —33-30 |
| 53 | Of humility and forewarning | At Capernaum | Matt. 23, 1-12 |
| 54 | Jesus at THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES | At Jerusalem—Mt. of Olives | John 7, 2-8, 1-1 |
| 55 | "The Light of the world" | ditto | 8, 2-59 |
| 56 | heals a man born blind—The Good Shepherd | ditto | 9-10, 21 |
| 57 | at the Feast of DEDICATION (John 10.22-38) Jerusalem —Departs to Bethabara bey Jordan | Jerusalem | 10, 39-42 |
| 58 | restores Lazarus to Life, at Bethany in Judea , and departs to Ephraim | Bethany | 11, 1-54 |
| 59 | sends messengers from Ephraim to prepare for him. | In Samaria | Luke 9, 51-62 |
| 60 | The Saviour sends the Twelve to the Good Samaritans | In Galilee | Luke 10, 1-12 |
| 61 | Jesus in Martha's house (Luke 10.38-42)—Teaches how to pray | On the last Cir. of Galilee | 11, 1-33 |
| 62 | casts out a dumb devil | ditto | —14-54 |
| 63 | discourses on various topics | ditto | 12, 1-59 |
| 64 | All are warned to repent, etc. | ditto | 13, 1-35 |
| 65 | A dropsical man healed—The Great Supper | ditto | 14, 1-5 |
| 66 | Parable of the Lost sheep—Lost piece of Silver—Prodigal Son | ditto | 15, 1-3 |
| 67 | The unjust and the just—The fig tree and the vine | ditto | 16, 1-31 |
| 68 | Of giving offences—Ten lepers healed—Jesus crosses Jordan into Jeru. (Matt. 19. 1-2) ditto | ditto | 17, 1-19 |
| 69 | Answer to "When the kingdom of God should come" | Perca | —20-31 |
| 70 | Encouragement to pray—Unjust judge and importunate widow | ditto | 18, 1-14 |
| 71 | Of divorce (Matt. 19, 3-12)—Little children blessed | ditto | Mark 10 13-6 |
| 72 | The rich young ruler—Time of reward | ditto | Matt. 19, 16-30 |
| 73 | Parable of labourers hired at different hours | ditto | 20, 1-16 |
| 74 | Jesus a third time preaches his death, etc. | In Judea Way of Jordan | Luke 17, 17-28 |
| 75 | heals a blind man | At Jeru. nigh to Jericho | Luke 18, 35-43 |
| 76 | and blind Bartimeus, having passed through | As he went out of Jericho. | Mark 10, 46-52 |
| 77 | in Zachheus' house—Parable of a Nobleman and his servants in The way to Jerusalem | The way to Jerusalem | Luke 19, 2-27 |
| 78 | Mary anoints Jesus (see John 12. 1-7) | At Bethany in Judea. | Matt. 26, 6-13 |
| 79 | Jesus' triumphal entry into Jeru. from Beth. (Matt. 21.1-11, 14-7) | Jerusalem | John 12, 20-36 |
| 80 | —Greece with see Jesus at | Jerusalem | Matt. 20, 16-52; 12, 3 |
| 81 | Jesus cleanses the Temple—the second time | Jerusalem | —24, 45-55, 50 |
| 82 | answers the Pharisees, who question his authority | ditto | 22, 1-22 |
| 83 | The marriage feast—Of tribute to Caesar | ditto | 23, 1-12 |
| 84 | Jesus answers the Sadducees and Pharisees | ditto | —23-46 |
| 85 | The widow's offering (Mark 12.38-44)—Of the infidelity of the Jews ditto | ditto | John 12, 37-50 |
| 86 | Woe pronounced on the Pharisees | ditto | Matt. 23, 1-35 |
| 87 | Destruction of the temple foretold, etc. | On Mount of Olives | 23, 1-44 |
| 88 | Parable of the servants—The fig tree—Talents | ditto | —24, 45-55, 50 |
| 89 | Indignation of the nations (Matt. 25.31-46)— Judas covenant | ditto | —28, 5-5, 46 |
| 90 | The last passover (Matt. 26.17-26)—Jesus washes his disciples' feet At Jerusalem | At Jerusalem | John 13, 1-17 |
| 91 | Jesus forewarns Peter, etc. (John 13.31-8)—and again | ditto | Luke 22, 34-38 |
| 92 | directs his disciples how to obtain peace | ditto | John 14, 1 |
| 93 | The True Vine | ditto | 15, 1-5 |
| 94 | promise of the Holy Ghost to his disciples | ditto | 16, 1-16 |
| 95 | Prepares for his disciples (John 17. 1-7) Jerusalem —Peter returns Jeru. Mount of Olives | Jerusalem | Matt. 26, 30-5 |
| 96 | Jesus agony and betrayal | Gethsemane | —26, 36-56 |
| 97 | before Pilate—is scourged—Officially arraigned (Matt. 27.11-4) ditto | Jerusalem | —26-57, 27-10 |
| 98 | is sent to Herod (Luke 23.6-12)—scourged and delivered to be crucified, ditto | Jerusalem | Jo. 19, 28-19, 14 |
| 99 | is crowned and crucified | Calvary | Matt. 27, 15-26 |
| 100 | is taken from between thieves and buried | ditto | —27-50 |
| 101 | Resurrection (Matt. 28. 1-8, 11-55) | ditto | 51-66 |
| 102 | appears to two disciples going to Emmaus —and to the Eleven At Jerusalem | Emmaus | John 20, 1-18 |
| 103 | to 500 brethren at once on the Holy Mount | Jerusalem | Luke 24, 17-38 |
| 104 | to certain other disciples | Lake Tiberias | Matt. 28, 16-20 |
| 105 | Jesus' 10th and last appearance—He ascends into Heaven | Jerusalem—Mt. of Olives. | John 21, 1-24 |
| 106 | | | Acts 1, 1, 11, 2 |

EXPLANATION.

This CHART embraces every event in the Gospel history, from its earliest period to the Ascension of our Lord into Heaven—according to GRESWALL'S arrangement of A Harmony of the Four Gospels.

It is divided into ONE HUNDRED LESSONS, having the events Localized in Chronological succession.

OUR LORD attended six feasts in Jerusalem in the course of His Ministry, viz:—The Passovers, John ii, 13, & xii, 1; Jo. vi, No. 23.—The Feast of Tabernacles, Jo. vii, 10, No. 51.—The Feast of Dedication, Jo. x, 22, No. 54; and the Feast which He crucified.

No. 1-11, Embrace the events of the private history of John the Baptist and of Jesus.

12-23, Are the events of our Lord's First year's ministry.

23-43, "Second year's ministry."

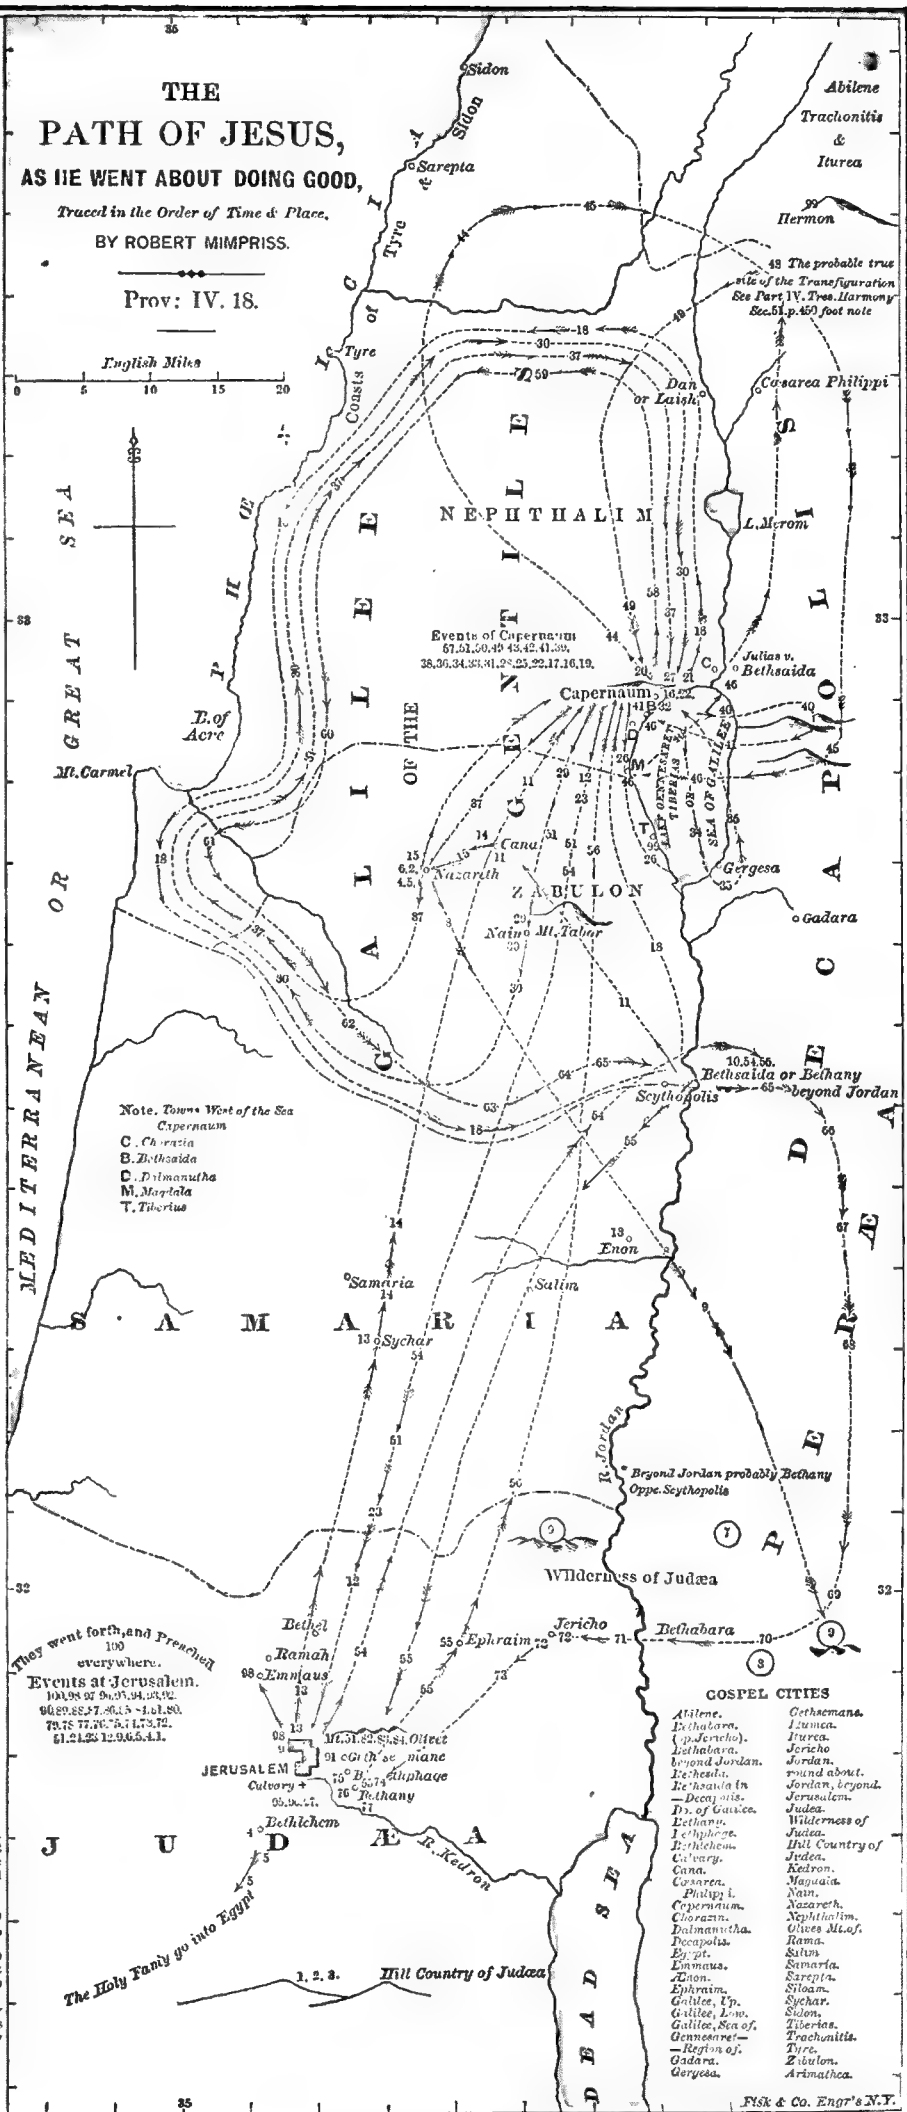

44-100, "Third year's ministry, and after the resurrection, until Jesus' Ascension."

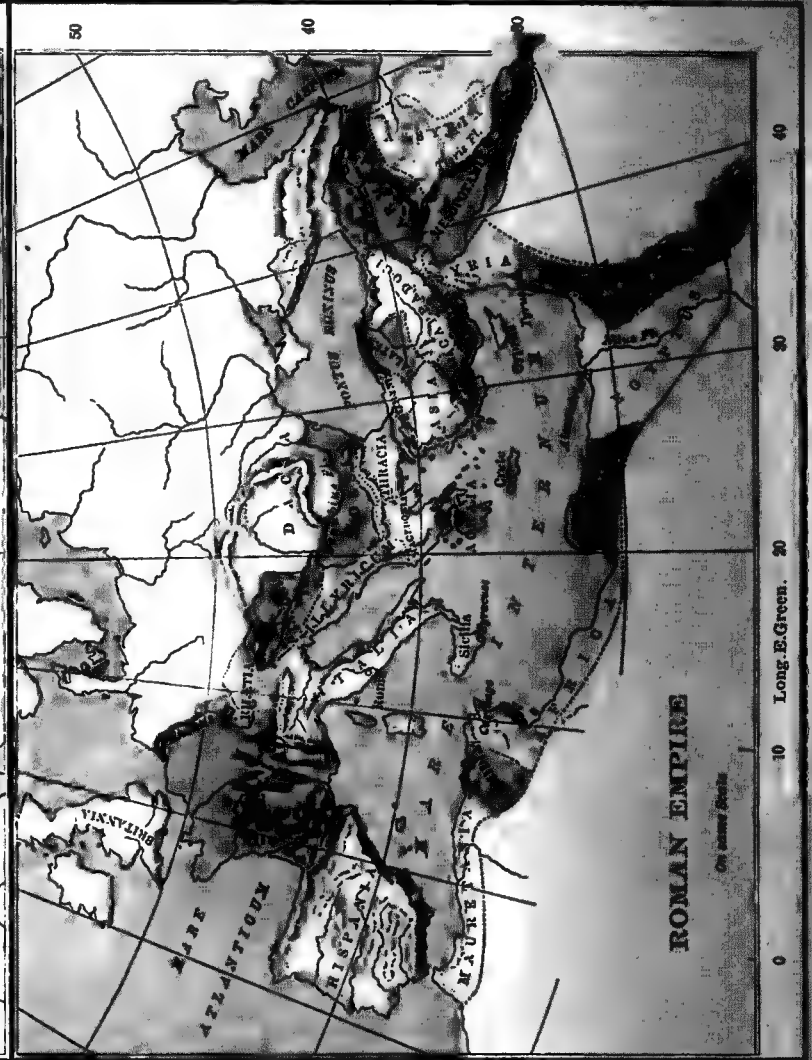

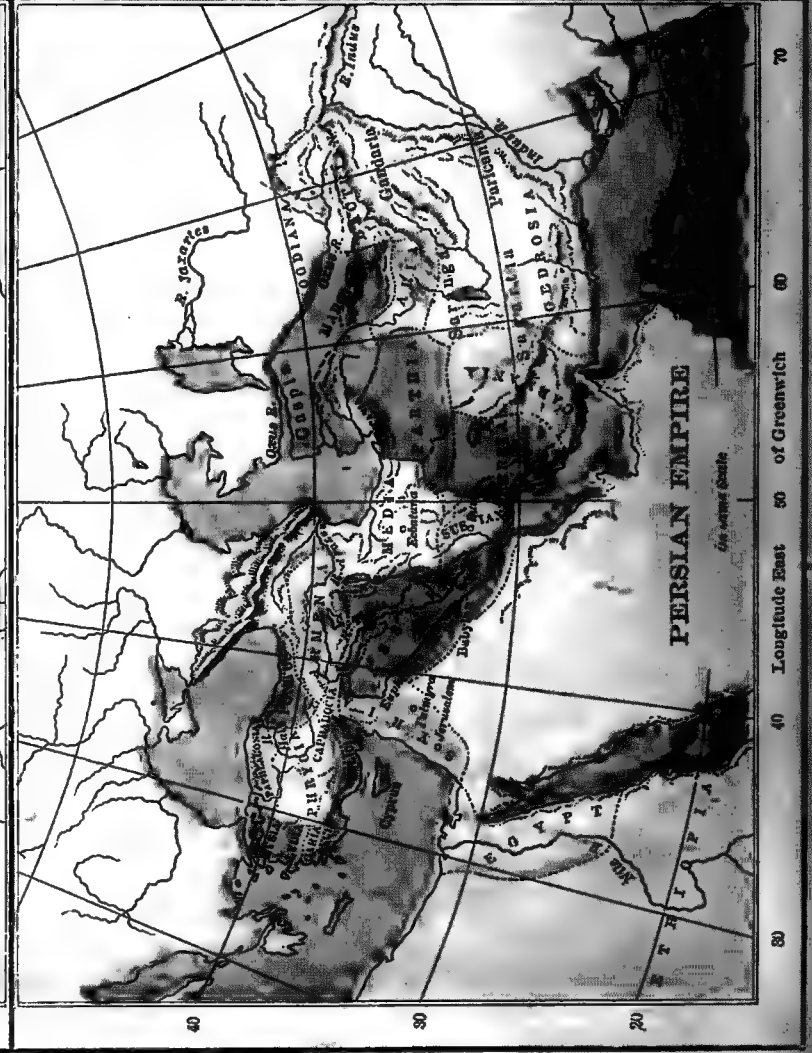

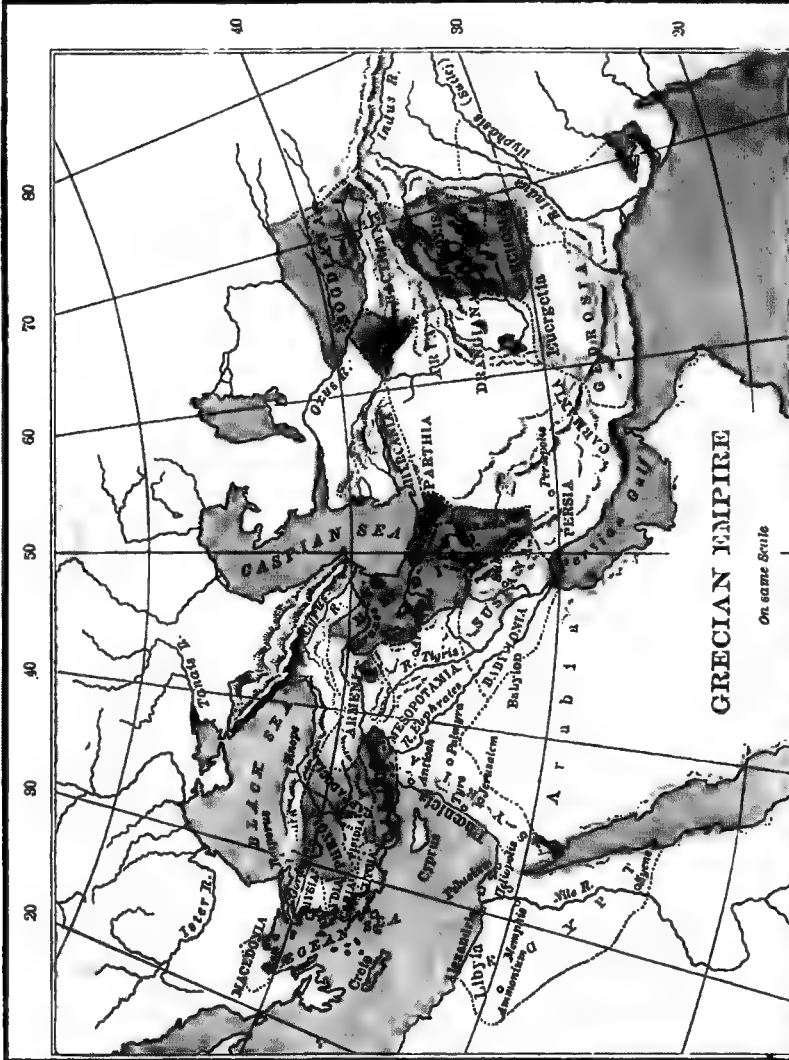

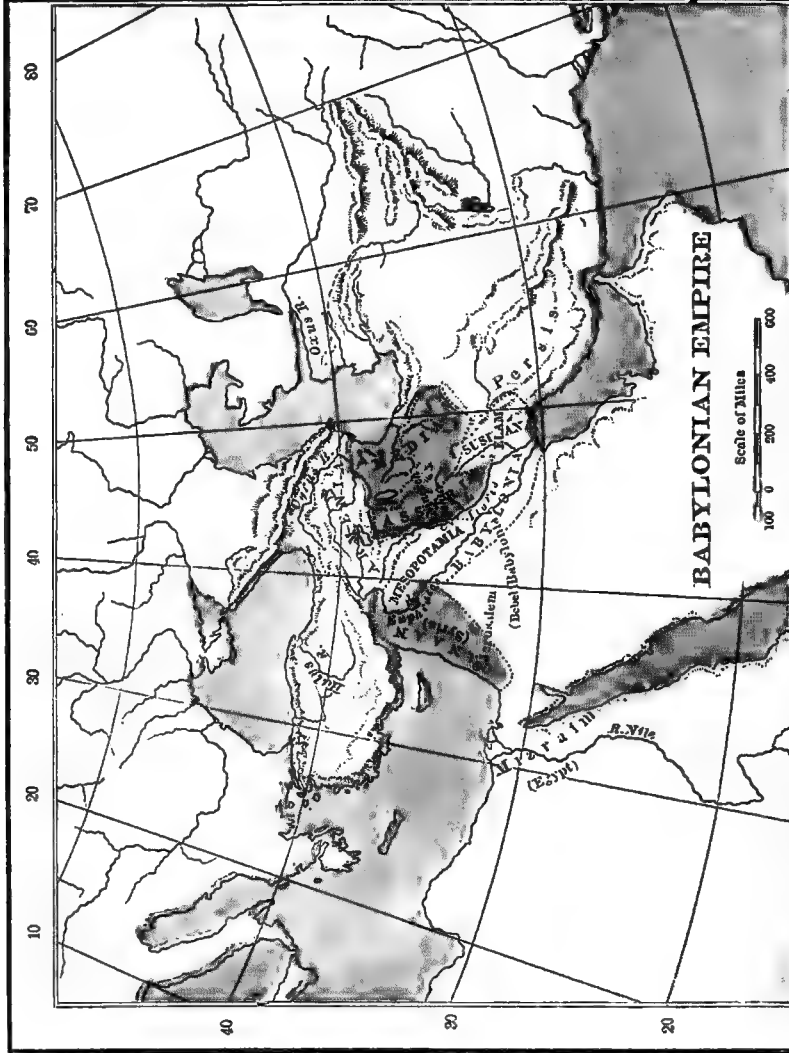

To trace the Chronological order and locality of any fact in the history—and in the column of EVENTS the subject required, see "THE BAPTISM OF JESUS," p. 6.

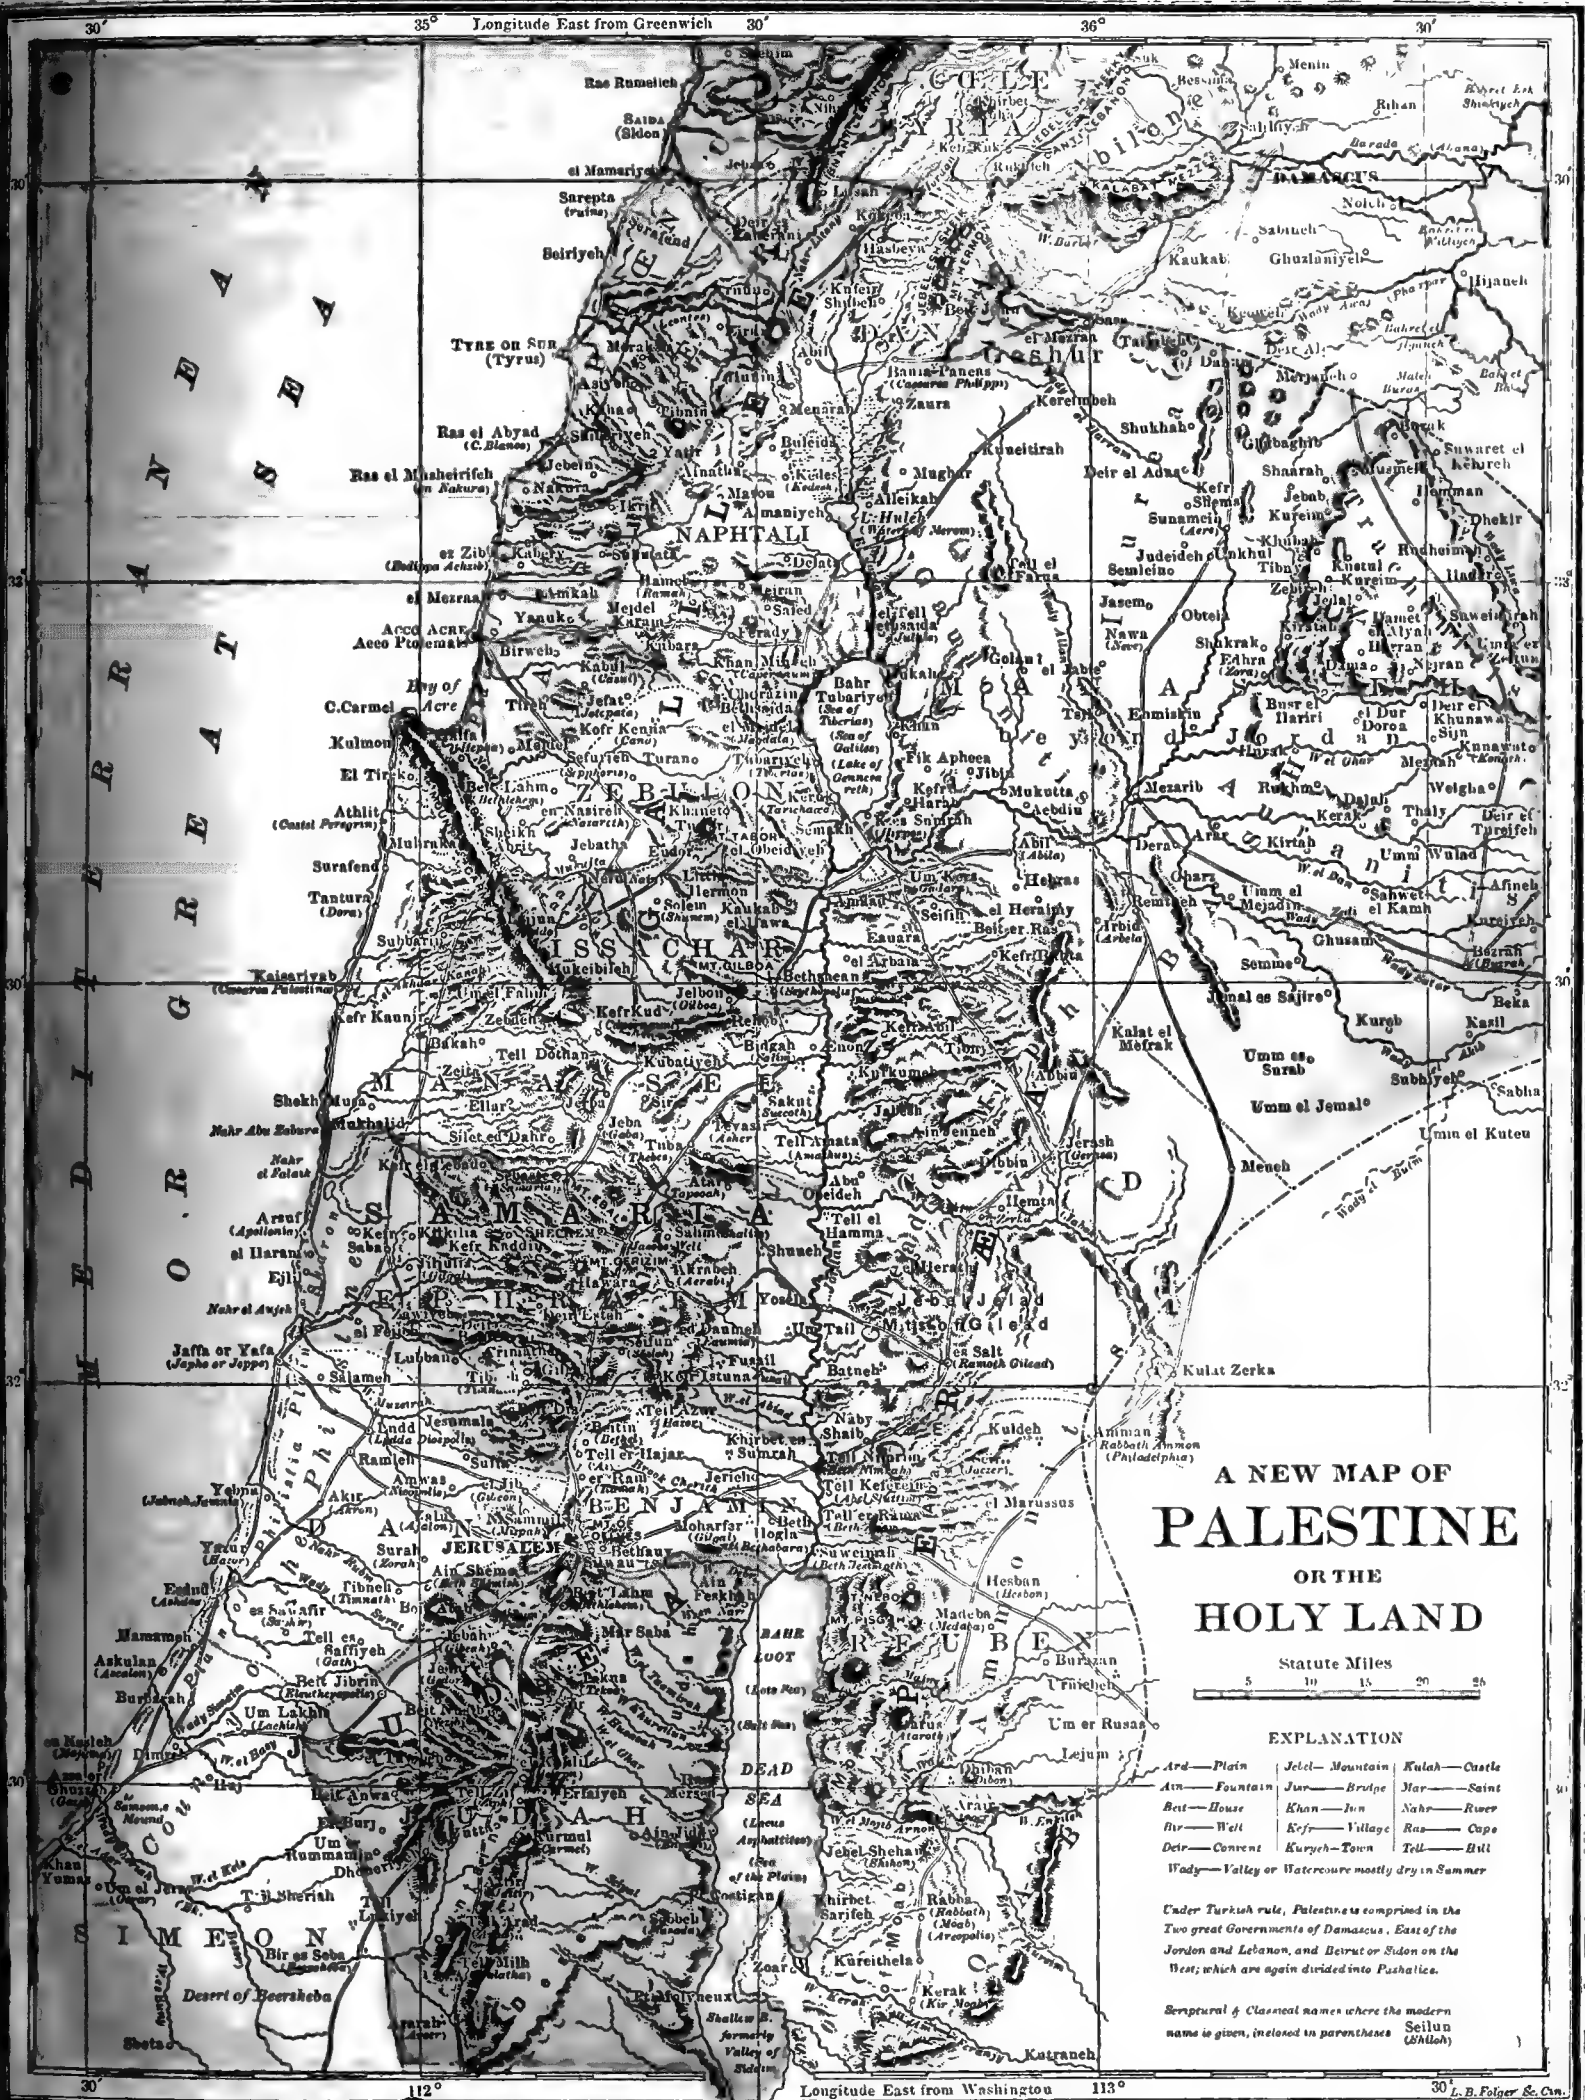

The HISTORY—Matt. is the Evangelist recording the Event, which Gospel will be found in all the books, as ordered, associated with MARK and LUKE, and the Localities of the history are, NAZARETH and THE RIVER JORDAN.

FOR BIBLE CLASSES.—"The Harmony of the Four Evangelists," size, Demy 18mo, PRICE 1s., presents the several histories, distinct and complete on one page in juxtaposition; and, by a simple Alphabetical arrangement, shows the supplemental relation of each Gospel to the others, without alteration, addition, or omission. * And—
FOR TESTAMENT CLASSES.—"The Steps of Jesus: A Narrative Harmony of the Four Evangelists, in the words of the Authorized Version," size, Demy 18 mo, PRICE, 1s. 6d., and Demy 45mo, PRICE 8d., furnishes our continuous Biographical History of the Life and Ministry of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, compiled from the four Gospels. Anti—

FOR ELEMENTARY CLASSES.—Young children, of all ages, may acquire from the "One Hundred Easy Lessons," numbered as in the above Tabular View, PRICE 6d., a general outline of the same Biographical & Facts, which Christ came to supply; out of which the Evangelical Doctrines are deduced, and which must philosophically precede them. —DR. HARRIS' Great Teacher.

A NEW MAP OF PALESTINE OR THE HOLY LAND

EXPLANATION

| | | |
|---|----------------|--------------|
| Ard—Plain | Jebel—Mountain | Kulah—Castle |
| Ain—Fountain | Jur—Bridge | Nahr—Saint |
| Beit—House | Khan—Inn | Nahr—River |
| Bir—Well | Kefr—Village | Ras—Cape |
| Deir—Convent | Kuryeh—Town | Tell—Hill |
| Wady—Valley or Watercourse mostly dry in Summer | | |

Under Turkish rule, Palestine is comprised in the Two great Governments of Damascus, East of the Jordan and Lebanon, and Beirut or Sidon on the West; which are again divided into Pashalics.

Scriptural & Classical names where the modern name is given, (enclosed in parentheses)

Seilun (Whilth)

MODERN JERUSALEM.

I.—THE CHRISTIAN QUARTER.

- 1 Goliath's Castle.
- 2 Latin Convent.
- 3 Church of Holy Sepulchre.
- 4 Greek Convent.
- 5 Copite Convent.
- 6 Ruins of St. John's Hospital.
- 7 Greek Church. St. John's.
- 8 Residence of the Christian Bishop.
- 9 Church of the Greek Schismatics.
- 10 Tower of Hippicus. David's Tower.
- 11 Supposed Site of the Tower of Phasaelus.
- 12 The Prussian Consulate.

II.—THE ARMENIAN QUARTER.

- 13 Modern Evangelical Church.
- 14 Hospital and Syrian Convent.
- 15 Armenian Convent, with the Church of St. James.
- 16 The only building in Jerusalem which presents any appearance of comfort.
- 17 Nunnery of St. George.
- 18 Barracks.
- 19 The Jews' Quarter.
- 20 The most wretched in the city.
- 21 Synagogue of the Shephardim.

IV.—THE MOHAMMEDAN QUARTER.

- 19 Synagogue of the Portuguese Jews.
- 20 Mosque.
- 21 Khan and Bazar.
- 22 Mineral Bath.
- 23 Convent and Schools.
- 24 Institute for Blind Dervishes.
- 25 Hospital of St. Helena.
- 26 Reputed site of the House of the Rich Man.
- 27 Reputed site of the House of St. Varonika.
- 28 Residence of the Turkish Pasha.
- 29 Arch of the "Ece Homo."

V.—THE JEWS' QUARTER.

- a Armenian Convent. House of Caligula.
- b American Burial Ground.
- c David's Tomb.
- d Place of Waiting of the Jews.
- Just within Zion's Gate are wretched abodes of lepers.

CONTENTS

OF THE

BOOKS OF THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS.

| GENESIS. | | CHAP. | | | CHAP. | | | CHAP. | | | CHAP. |
|----------------------------------|----|----------------------------------|----|-------------------------------------|-------|---------------------------------------|----|---------------------------------|----|---|-------|
| CREA" ON. | 1 | God's promise renewed. | 6 | Nature of sacrifices. | 22 | Idolaters to be stoned. | 13 | | | | |
| Formation of man. | 2 | Moses goeth to Pharaoh. | 7 | Feasts of the LORD. | 23 | Of meats, clean and unclean. | 14 | | | | |
| The Fall. | 3 | Plague of frogs. | 8 | Salumith's son. | 24 | Of the year of release. | 15 | | | | |
| Death of Abel. | 4 | Plagues continued. | 9 | The Jubilee. | 25 | The feast of the Passover. | 16 | | | | |
| Generations of Adam. | 5 | Plagues continued. | 10 | Obedience required. | 26 | The choice and duty of a king. | 17 | | | | |
| The Ark. | 6 | The Israelites borrow jewels. | 11 | Nature of vows. | 27 | The priests' portion. | 18 | | | | |
| The Deluge. | 7 | Passover instituted. | 12 | NUMBERS. | | | | Cities of refuge appointed. | 19 | | |
| Waters assuaged. | 8 | Departure of the Israelites. | 13 | | | | | The tribes numbered. | 1 | The priest's exhortation before battle. | 20 |
| Death of Noe. | 9 | Egyptians drowned. | 14 | Order of the tribes. | 2 | Expiation of uncertain murder. | 21 | | | | |
| Noe's generations. | 10 | The song of Moses. | 15 | Levites appointed priests. | 3 | Of humanity toward brethren. | 22 | | | | |
| Babel built. | 11 | Manna and quails sent. | 16 | The service of the Caathites. | 4 | Divers laws and ordinances. | 23 | | | | |
| Call of Abram. | 12 | Moses builds an altar. | 17 | Trial of jealousy. | 5 | Of divorce. | 24 | | | | |
| Abram and Lot. | 13 | Moses meets his wife and sons. | 18 | Law of the Nazarite. | 6 | Stripes must not exceed forty. | 25 | | | | |
| Battle of the kings. | 14 | God's message from Sinai. | 19 | Offerings of the princes. | 7 | Of the offering of first-fruits. | 26 | | | | |
| Abram's faith. | 15 | The ten commandments. | 20 | Levites consecrated. | 8 | The law to be written on stones. | 27 | | | | |
| Departure of Agar. | 16 | Laws against murder. | 21 | Passover commanded. | 9 | Blessings and curses declared. | 28 | | | | |
| Circumcision. | 17 | Laws against theft, etc. | 22 | The Israelites' march. | 10 | God's covenant with his people. | 29 | | | | |
| Abraham and the angels. | 18 | Laws against false witness, etc. | 23 | The Israelites loathe manna. | 11 | Mercy promised to the penitent. | 30 | | | | |
| Destruction of Sodom. | 19 | Moses called into the mount. | 24 | Mary's leprosy. | 12 | Moses giveth Josue a charge. | 31 | | | | |
| Abraham denieth Sara. | 20 | Form of the ark. | 25 | Delegates search the land. | 13 | The song of Moses. | 32 | | | | |
| Isaac is born. | 21 | Curtains for the ark. | 26 | The people murmur at the report. | 14 | The majesty of God. | 33 | | | | |
| Isaac offered up. | 22 | Altar of burnt-offering. | 27 | Sundry laws given. | 15 | Moses vieweth the land and dieth. | 34 | | | | |
| Death of Sara. | 23 | Aaron and his sons made priests. | 28 | Core, Dathan, etc., slain. | 16 | JOSUE. | | | | | |
| Isaac and Rebecca meet. | 24 | Priests consecrated. | 29 | Aaron's rod flourisheth. | 17 | | | Josue succeedeth Moses. | 1 | | |
| Abraham's death. | 25 | Ransom of souls. | 30 | Portion of the priests and Levites. | 18 | Rahab concealeth the spies. | 2 | | | | |
| Isaac blessed. | 26 | Moses receiveth the two tables. | 31 | Law of purification. | 19 | The waters of Jordan divided. | 3 | | | | |
| Jacob and Esau. | 27 | Golden calf. Tables broken. | 32 | Moses smiteth the rock. | 20 | Twelve stones for a memorial. | 4 | | | | |
| Jacob's vision and vow. | 28 | God talketh with Moses. | 33 | Brazen serpent appointed. | 21 | Manna ceaseth. | 5 | | | | |
| Jacob marrieth Rachel. | 29 | Tables renewed. | 34 | Balaam sends for Balaam. | 22 | Jericho besieged and taken. | 6 | | | | |
| Birth of Joseph. | 30 | Free gifts for the Tabernacle. | 35 | Balaam's sacrifices. | 23 | Achan's sin punished. | 7 | | | | |
| Departure of Jacob. | 31 | People's liberality restrained. | 36 | Balaam's prophecy. | 24 | Josue taketh Hai. | 8 | | | | |
| Jacob and the angel. | 32 | Ark, Mercy-seat, etc. | 37 | Zambri and Cozbi slain. | 25 | The craft of the Gabaonites. | 9 | | | | |
| Jacob and Esau meet. | 33 | Sum of the offerings. | 38 | Israel numbered. | 26 | The sun and moon stand still. | 10 | | | | |
| Sichemites slain. | 34 | Holy garments made. | 39 | Death of Moses foretold. | 27 | Divers kings conquered. | 11 | | | | |
| Jacob's altar at Beth-el. | 35 | Tabernacle anointed. | 40 | Offerings to be observed. | 28 | Names of the conquered kings. | 12 | | | | |
| Generations of Esau. | 36 | LEVITICUS. | | | | Offerings at feasts. | 29 | Balaam slain. | 13 | | |
| Joseph sold by his brethren. | 37 | | | | | Burnt-offerings. | 1 | Vows not to be broken. | 30 | The inheritance of the tribes. | 14 |
| Juda's incest. | 38 | Meat-offerings. | 2 | Madianites spoiled. | 31 | The borders of the lot of Juda. | 15 | | | | |
| Joseph and his mistress. | 39 | Peace-offerings. | 3 | Rubenites and Gadites reproved. | 32 | Ephraim's inheritance. | 16 | | | | |
| Pharaoh's butler, etc. | 40 | Sin-offerings. | 4 | Journeys of the Israelites. | 33 | The lot of Manasses. | 17 | | | | |
| Pharaoh's dreams. | 41 | Trespass-offerings. | 5 | Borders of the land appointed. | 34 | The lot of Benjamin. | 18 | | | | |
| Joseph's brethren in Egypt. | 42 | Trespass-offerings. | 6 | Cities of Refuge appointed. | 35 | The lot of Simeon. | 19 | | | | |
| Joseph entertains his brethren. | 43 | Law of trespass-offerings. | 7 | Galaad's inheritance retained. | 36 | Cities of refuge, etc. | 20 | | | | |
| Joseph's policy to his brethren. | 44 | Aaron and his sons consecrated. | 8 | DEUTERONOMY. | | | | God giveth Israel rest. | 21 | | |
| Joseph known to his brethren. | 45 | Aaron's sin-offering. | 9 | | | | | Moses rehearseth God's promise. | 1 | The two tribes and half sent home. | 22 |
| Jacob goeth into Egypt. | 46 | Nadab and Abiu slain. | 10 | Story of the Edomites. | 2 | Josue's exhortation before his death. | 23 | | | | |
| Joseph presents his brethren. | 47 | Unclean beasts. | 11 | Moses prayeth to see Chanaan. | 3 | Josue's death and burial. | 24 | | | | |
| Joseph goeth to his father. | 48 | Purifications. | 12 | An exhortation to obedience. | 4 | JUDGES. | | | | | |
| Jacob blesseth his sons. | 49 | Law of leprosy. | 13 | Ten Commandments. | 5 | | | The acts of Juda and Simeon. | 1 | | |
| Death of Joseph. | 50 | Law for the leper. | 14 | Obedience to the Law enjoined. | 6 | The Israelites fall into idolatry. | 2 | | | | |
| EXODUS. | | Uncleanness of issues. | 15 | Strange communion forbidden. | 7 | The nations left to prove Israel. | 3 | | | | |
| | | Sin-offerings. | 16 | God's mercies claim obedience. | 8 | Debbora and Barac deliver Israel. | 4 | | | | |
| The Israelites oppressed. | 1 | Blood forbidden. | 17 | Israel's rebellion rehearsed. | 9 | The song of Debbora and Barac. | 5 | | | | |
| Moses born. | 2 | Unlawful marriages. | 18 | The Tables restored. | 10 | The Israelites oppressed by Madian. | 6 | | | | |
| The burning bush. | 3 | Repetition of laws. | 19 | An exhortation to obedience. | 11 | Gedeon's army. | 7 | | | | |
| God's message to Pharaoh. | 4 | Denunciations for sins. | 20 | Blood forbidden. | 12 | The Ephraimites pacified. | 8 | | | | |
| The bondage of the Israelites. | 5 | Priests' qualifications. | 21 | | | | | | | | |

[illegible]

| CHAP. | | PSALM | | PSALM | | CHAP. | |
|---|--|---|--|--|--|---|--|
| Aman's ten sons hanged..... 9 | | David's confidence in God's grace.. 22 | | David's complaint of impiety..... 93 | | The call of wisdom..... 8 | |
| Mardochai's advancement..... 10 | | God's worship in the world..... 23 | | The danger of tempting God..... 94 | | The doctrine of wisdom..... 9 | |
| JOB. | | David's confidence in prayer..... 24 | | God praised for his greatness..... 95 | | Virtues and vices contrasted..... 10 | |
| Job's losses and temptations..... 1 | | David resorteth unto God..... 25 | | The majesty of God..... 96 | | Continued, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23..... and 24 | |
| Job smitten with boils..... 2 | | David's love to God's service..... 26 | | All creatures exhorted to praise God 97 | | Observations about kings..... 25 | |
| Job curseth the day of his birth..... 3 | | David blesseth God..... 27 | | God to be worshipped..... 98 | | Sundry maxims..... 26 | |
| Eliphaz reproveth Job..... 4 | | Why God must be honored..... 28 | | God to be praised cheerfully..... 99 | | Sundry maxims..... 27 | |
| Afflictions are from God..... 5 | | David's praise for deliverance..... 29 | | David's profession of godliness..... 100 | | Observations of impiety..... 28 | |
| Job wisheth for death..... 6 | | David rejoiceth in God's mercy..... 30 | | God's mercies to be recorded..... 101 | | Of public government..... 29 | |
| Job excuseth his desire of death..... 7 | | Who are blessed..... 31 | | God blessed for his constancy..... 102 | | Agur's prayer..... 30 | |
| Baldad sheweth God's justice..... 8 | | God is to be praised..... 32 | | God wonderful in providence..... 103 | | Lemuel's lesson of chastity..... 31 | |
| The innocent often afflicted..... 9 | | Those blessed who trust in God.... 33 | | The plagues of Egypt..... 104 | | | |
| Job expostulateth with God..... 10 | | David prayeth for his safety..... 34 | | Israel's rebellion..... 105 | | | |
| Sophar reproveth Job..... 11 | | The excellency of God's mercy..... 35 | | God's manifold providence..... 106 | | | |
| God's omnipotence maintained..... 12 | | David persuadeth to patience..... 36 | | David's confidence in God..... 107 | | ECCLESIASTES. | |
| Job's confidence in God..... 13 | | David moveth God to compassion.... 37 | | David's complaint of his enemies.... 108 | | The vanity of all human things.... 1 | |
| The conditions of man's life..... 14 | | The brevity of life..... 38 | | The kingdom of Christ..... 109 | | Wisdom and folly have one end.... 2 | |
| Eliphaz reproveth Job..... 15 | | Obedience the best sacrifice..... 39 | | God praised for his works..... 110 | | A time for all things..... 3 | |
| Job reproveth his friends..... 16 | | God's care of the poor..... 40 | | The happiness of the godly..... 111 | | The good of contentment..... 4 | |
| Job's appeal to God..... 17 | | David's zeal to serve God..... 41 | | God praised for his mercy..... 112 | | The vanity of riches..... 5 | |
| Baldad reproveth Job..... 18 | | David prayeth to be restored..... 42 | | God's power; vanity of idols..... 113 | | The conclusion of vanities..... 6 | |
| Job's complaint of his friends..... 19 | | The church's complaint to God.... 43 | | God our stay in affliction..... 114 | | Remedies against vanities..... 7 | |
| The portion of the wicked..... 20 | | The majesty of Christ's kingdom.... 44 | | David's faith and gratitude..... 115 | | Kings are to be respected..... 8 | |
| The destruction of the wicked..... 21 | | The church's confidence in God.... 45 | | God praised for mercy and truth.... 116 | | Wisdom is better than strength.... 9 | |
| Job accused of divers sins..... 22 | | The kingdom of Christ..... 46 | | David's entire trust in God..... 117 | | Of wisdom and folly..... 10 | |
| Job appeals to God's tribunal..... 23 | | The privileges of the church..... 47 | | Observance of the Law; true piety 118 | | Directions for charity..... 11 | |
| Sin goeth often unpunished..... 24 | | Worldly prosperity condemned.... 48 | | A prayer in tribulation..... 119 | | The preacher's care to edify..... 12 | |
| Man cannot be justified before God. 25 | | God's majesty in the church..... 49 | | The safety of the godly..... 120 | | | |
| Job reproveth Baldad..... 26 | | David's prayer and confession..... 50 | | David's joy for the church..... 121 | | SOLOMON'S CANTICLE OF CANTICLES. | |
| The hypocrite is without hope..... 27 | | David's confidence in God..... 51 | | The godly's confidence in God.... 122 | | The church's love to Christ..... 1 | |
| Wisdom is the gift of God..... 28 | | The natural man described..... 52 | | The church blesseth God..... 123 | | Christ's care of the church..... 2 | |
| Job bemoaneth himself..... 29 | | David's prayer for salvation..... 53 | | God our Protector..... 124 | | The church glorieth in Christ..... 3 | |
| Job's honor turned to contempt.... 30 | | David's complaint in prayer..... 54 | | The church prayeth for mercies.... 125 | | The graces of the church..... 4 | |
| Job professeth his integrity..... 31 | | David's promise of praise..... 55 | | The virtue of God's blessing..... 126 | | Christ's love for his church..... 5 | |
| Eliu reproveth Job..... 32 | | David in prayer fleeth to God..... 56 | | Those blessed that fear God..... 127 | | The church's faith in Christ..... 6 | |
| Eliu reasoneth with Job..... 33 | | David describeth the wicked..... 57 | | The haters of the church cursed... 128 | | The graces of the church..... 7 | |
| God cannot be unjust..... 34 | | David prayeth for deliverance..... 58 | | God to be hoped in..... 129 | | The calling of the Gentiles..... 8 | |
| Comparison not to be made with God 35 | | David's comfort in God's promises 59 | | David professeth his humility..... 130 | | | |
| The justice of God's ways..... 36 | | David voweth perpetual service.... 60 | | David's care for the ark..... 131 | | THE BOOK OF WISDOM. | |
| God's great works..... 37 | | No trust in worldly things..... 61 | | The benefits of the saints' commu- 132 | | Wisdom to be found only by the | |
| God's wisdom is unsearchable.... 38 | | David's thirst for God..... 62 | | nion..... 132 | | pure of heart..... 1 | |
| God's power in his creatures..... 39 | | David's complaint of his enemies.... 63 | | An exhortation to bless God..... 133 | | Vain reasonings of the wicked per- 2 | |
| Job humbleth himself to God..... 40 | | The blessedness of God's chosen... 64 | | God praised for his judgments.... 134 | | secutor..... 2 | |
| God's power in the creation..... 41 | | David exhorteth to praise God.... 65 | | God praised for manifold mercies... 135 | | End of the just blissful; of the 3 | |
| Job's age and death..... 42 | | A prayer for God's kingdom..... 66 | | The constancy of the Jews..... 136 | | wicked, miserable..... 3 | |
| PSALMS. | | A prayer at the removing of the ark 67 | | David's confidence in God..... 137 | | A brief pure life shames worthless 4 | |
| PSALM | | David's complaint in affliction.... 68 | | David defieth the wicked..... 138 | | age..... 4 | |
| Happiness of the godly..... 1 | | David's prayer for the godly..... 69 | | David's prayer for deliverance.... 139 | | Fruitless repentance; and glorified 5 | |
| The kingdom of Christ..... 2 | | David's prayer for perseverance.... 70 | | David prayeth for sincerity..... 140 | | holiness..... 5 | |
| The security of God's protection.... 3 | | David's prayer for Solomon..... 71 | | David's comfort in trouble..... 141 | | Wisdom the sole security of princes | |

[illegible]

JOEL.

| CHAP. | |
|-------|---|
| | God's sundry judgments..... 1 |
| | Exhortation to repentance..... 2 |
| | God's judgments against his people's enemies..... 3 |

AMOS.

| | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| | God's judgments upon Syria..... 1 |
| | God's wrath against Moab..... 2 |
| | Judgments against Israel..... 3 |
| | God reproveth Israel..... 4 |
| | A lamentation for Israel..... 5 |
| | Israel's wantonness plagued..... 6 |
| | Judgments of the grasshoppers..... 7 |
| | Israel's end typified..... 8 |
| | Israel's restoration promised..... 9 |

ABDIAS.

| | |
|--|--|
| | Edom's destruction for their pride and violence..... 1 |
|--|--|

JONAS.

| | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| | Jonas sent to Ninive..... 1 |
| | The prayer of Jonas..... 2 |
| | The Ninivites' repentance..... 3 |
| | Jonas repines at God's mercy..... 4 |

MICHEAS.

| | |
|--|-----------------------------------|
| | God's wrath against Jacob..... 1 |
| | Against oppression..... 2 |
| | The cruelty of the princes..... 3 |
| | The church's glory..... 4 |
| | The birth of Christ..... 5 |
| | God's controversy..... 6 |
| | The church's complaint..... 7 |

NAHUM.

| | |
|--|------------------------------------|
| | The majesty of God..... 1 |
| | God's armies against Ninive..... 2 |
| | The ruin of Ninive..... 3 |

HABACUC.

| | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| | Habacuc's complaint..... 1 |
| | Judgment on the Chaldeans..... 2 |
| | Habacuc's prayer..... 3 |

SOPHONIAS.

| | |
|--|-----------------------------------|
| | God's severe judgments..... 1 |
| | Exhortation to repentance..... 2 |
| | Jerusalem sharply reprov'd..... 3 |

AGGEUS.

| | |
|--|-----------------------------------|
| | The people reprov'd..... 1 |
| | Glory of the second temple..... 2 |

ZACHARIAS.

| | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| | Exhortation to repentance..... 1 |
| | Redemption of Sion..... 2 |
| | The type of Josue..... 3 |
| | The golden candlestick..... 4 |
| | Curse of thieves..... 5 |

| CHAP. | |
|-------|-------------------------------------|
| | Vision of the chariots..... 6 |
| | Captives' inquiry of fasting..... 7 |
| | Jerusalem's restoration..... 8 |
| | The coming of Christ..... 9 |
| | God to be sought unto..... 10 |
| | Destruction of Jerusalem..... 11 |
| | Juda's restoration..... 12 |
| | Jerusalem's repentance..... 13 |
| | Jerusalem's enemies plagued..... 14 |

MALACHIAS.

| | |
|--|--------------------------------|
| | Israel's unkindness..... 1 |
| | The priests reprov'd..... 2 |
| | The majesty of Christ..... 3 |
| | Judgments of the wicked..... 4 |

I. MACHABEES.

| | |
|--|---|
| | Profanations and persecutions of Antiochus..... 1 |
| | The priest Mathathias preaches resistance..... 2 |
| | His son, Judas Machabeus, becomes leader..... 3 |
| | He wins and purifies Jerusalem..... 4 |
| | Victories of Judas and his brothers..... 5 |
| | Terrible death of King Antiochus..... 6 |
| | Judas beats the royal generals..... 7 |
| | Judas makes a league with the Romans..... 8 |
| | Death of Judas; Jonathan in command..... 9 |
| | Victories of Jonathan..... 10 |
| | Jonathan's prayer and victory..... 11 |
| | His league with Rome and Sparta..... 12 |
| | Simon Machabee succeeds Jonathan..... 13 |
| | Simon captain and high-priest..... 14 |
| | Rome favors the Jews..... 15 |
| | Simon is treacherously murdered..... 16 |

II. MACHABEES.

| | |
|--|--|
| | Exhortations sent to the Jews in Egypt..... 1 |
| | Second letter to the Egyptian Jews..... 2 |
| | Heliodorus scourged in the temple..... 3 |
| | Murder of the high-priest Onias..... 4 |
| | Wickedness and tragic death of Jason..... 5 |
| | Martyrdom of Eleazar..... 6 |
| | Martyrdom of the seven Machabee brothers and their mother..... 7 |
| | Further details about Judas Machabee..... 8 |
| | Wretched end of Antiochus..... 9 |
| | Restoration by Judas..... 10 |
| | Other exploits and services of Judas..... 11-15 |

ST. MATTHEW.

| | |
|--|--------------------------------------|
| | The genealogy of Christ..... 1 |
| | Christ's nativity..... 2 |
| | The preaching of John Baptist..... 3 |
| | Christ tempted..... 4 |
| | Christ's sermon on the mount..... 5 |
| | Of alms and prayer..... 6 |
| | Rash judgment reprov'd..... 7 |
| | Christ's miracles..... 8 |
| | Matthew called..... 9 |

| CHAP. | |
|-------|--|
| | The apostles sent forth..... 10 |
| | John sendeth to Christ..... 11 |
| | Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost..... 12 |
| | Parable of the sower..... 13 |
| | John Baptist beheaded..... 14 |
| | The scribes reprov'd..... 15 |
| | The sign of Jonas..... 16 |
| | Transfiguration of Christ..... 17 |
| | Christ teacheth humility..... 18 |
| | Christ healeth the sick..... 19 |
| | The laborers in the vineyard..... 20 |
| | The fig-tree cursed..... 21 |
| | The marriage of the king's son..... 22 |
| | The Pharisees exposed..... 23 |
| | Destruction of the temple foretold..... 24 |
| | Parable of the ten virgins..... 25 |
| | Judas betrayeth Christ..... 26 |
| | Christ crucified..... 27 |
| | Christ's resurrection..... 28 |

ST. MARK.

| | |
|--|--|
| | Baptism of Christ..... 1 |
| | Matthew called..... 2 |
| | The apostles chosen..... 3 |
| | Parable of the sower..... 4 |
| | Christ heals the bloody issue..... 5 |
| | Christ walks on the sea..... 6 |
| | The Syrophenician woman..... 7 |
| | The multitude fed..... 8 |
| | Jesus transfigured..... 9 |
| | Children brought to Christ..... 10 |
| | The barren fig-tree..... 11 |
| | The widow and her two mites..... 12 |
| | The destruction of the temple foretold..... 13 |
| | Peter denieth Christ..... 14 |
| | Crucifixion of Christ..... 15 |
| | Resurrection of Christ..... 16 |

ST. LUKE.

| | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| | Christ's conception..... 1 |
| | Christ's circumcision..... 2 |
| | John's testimony of Christ..... 3 |
| | Christ tempted by Satan..... 4 |
| | Miraculous draught of fishes..... 5 |
| | The twelve apostles chosen..... 6 |
| | Christ's testimony of John..... 7 |
| | Jairus' daughter raised..... 8 |
| | How to attain eternal life..... 9 |
| | Seventy disciples sent out..... 10 |
| | A dumb devil cast out..... 11 |
| | Covetousness to be avoided..... 12 |
| | The crooked woman healed..... 13 |
| | The great supper..... 14 |
| | The prodigal son..... 15 |
| | The unjust steward..... 16 |
| | The power of faith..... 17 |
| | The importunate widow..... 18 |
| | Zaccheus called..... 19 |
| | Parable of the vineyard..... 20 |
| | The widow's two mites..... 21 |
| | Christ condemned..... 22 |
| | Christ's death and burial..... 23 |
| | Christ's resurrection..... 24 |

ST. JOHN.

| | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| | The divinity of Christ..... 1 |
| | Water turned into wine..... 2 |
| | Necessity of regeneration..... 3 |

| CHAP. | |
|-------|--|
| | The woman of Samaria..... 4 |
| | The impotent man healed..... 5 |
| | Five thousand fed..... 6 |
| | Christ teacheth in the temple..... 7 |
| | Christ's doctrine justified..... 8 |
| | The blind healed..... 9 |
| | Christ the good shepherd..... 10 |
| | Lazarus raised..... 11 |
| | Christ foretelleth his death..... 12 |
| | Christ's humility..... 13 |
| | The Comforter promised..... 14 |
| | Christ the true vine..... 15 |
| | Christ warneth his disciples of their sufferings..... 16 |
| | Christ's prayer..... 17 |
| | Jesus betrayed..... 18 |
| | Christ's death and burial..... 19 |
| | Christ's resurrection..... 20 |
| | Christ appeareth to his disciples..... 21 |

ACTS.

| | |
|--|--|
| | Matthias chosen..... 1 |
| | Peter's sermon..... 2 |
| | The lame healed..... 3 |
| | Peter and John imprisoned..... 4 |
| | Ananias and Sapphira..... 5 |
| | Seven deacons chosen..... 6 |
| | Stephen stoned..... 7 |
| | Philip planteth a church in Samaria..... 8 |
| | Saul's conversion..... 9 |
| | Peter's vision..... 10 |
| | Peter's defence..... 11 |
| | Herod killeth James..... 12 |
| | Paul preacheth at Antioch..... 13 |
| | Paul stoned..... 14 |
| | Circumcision disputed..... 15 |
| | Timothy circumcised..... 16 |
| | Paul persecuted..... 17 |
| | Paul preacheth at Corinth..... 18 |
| | Exorcists beaten..... 19 |
| | Eutychus raised to life..... 20 |
| | Paul goeth to Jerusalem..... 21 |
| | Paul's defence..... 22 |
| | Paul smitten..... 23 |
| | Paul accused before Felix..... 24 |
| | Paul appealeth to Cæsar..... 25 |
| | Agrippa almost a Christian..... 26 |
| | Paul shipwrecked..... 27 |
| | A viper fastens on Paul's hand..... 28 |

ROMANS.

| | |
|--|---|
| | Pride and sinfulness of paganism..... 1 |
| | The false and the true Jews..... 2 |
| | Justification by Christ's grace..... 3 |
| | Abraham's faith and justice..... 4 |
| | Grace and faith by Christ Jesus..... 5 |
| | Christians must die to sin and live to God..... 6 |
| | Conflict between nature and grace..... 7 |
| | The blessed victory of spirit over flesh..... 8 |
| | God's elect not confined to the Jews..... 9 |
| | To believe in Christ, the Jews' salvation..... 10 |
| | The calling of both Jews and Gentiles..... 11 |
| | Lessons of Christian virtues..... 12 |
| | Obedience to superiors; brotherly love..... 13 |

| CHAP. | | CHAP. | | CHAP. | | CHAP. |
|-------|---|-------|--|-------|--|---|
| | Forbearance; avoidance of rash judgment..... 14 | | EPHESIANS. | | Timothy to imitate Paul in heroic labors and purity of faith..... 2 | II. PETER. |
| | Unity of heart and mind in faith and charity..... 15 | | Blessings derived from Christ our Head..... 1 | | Heretics of Paul's time; ever learning and never attaining..... 3 | To faith join all other virtues..... 1 |
| | Avoidance of contrary doctrines... 16 | | Christ our supreme Good and lasting Peace..... 2 | | Paul's charge to Timothy from his prison in Rome..... 4 | False prophets and lying teachers to be shunned..... 2 |
| | I. CORINTHIANS. | | The mystery of Christ revealed through Paul..... 3 | | TITUS. | Scoffers who deny Christ's coming to judgment..... 3 |
| | Unity of faith in the Crucified..... 1 | | The Ephesians must love unity, be new men, avoid sin..... 4 | | Men fit for the priestly office..... 1 | I. JOHN. |
| | Paul only preached Christ crucified. 2 | | How to imitate Christ. Wedded love 5 | | How to instruct the flock: the Christian rule of life..... 2 | He preaches fellowship with the Word Incarnate..... 1 |
| | It is wrong to contend about teachers 3 | | Duties of children and servants. 6 | | PHILEMON. | Christ our Advocate; our Master, and our Model in charity. We are to trust wholly in Him..... 2 |
| | It is wrong to judge God's ministers 4 | | Christian armor..... 6 | | Paul commends Philemon's charity: let him receive the fugitive Onesimus as he would Paul's own heart 1 | The law of divine charity..... 3 |
| | The incestuous Corinthian excommunicated..... 5 | | PHILIPPIANS. | | HEBREWS. | The spirits which are and are not of God..... 4 |
| | Avoidance of lawsuits and impurity 6 | | The lives of fervent Christians preach Christ..... 1 | | God spoke by the prophets formerly, now by His Son..... 1 | The sons of true charity and true faith..... 5 |
| | Marriage, celibacy, virginity..... 7 | | Christians should be united in faith, love and humility..... 2 | | Much more bound to hear the new Voice than the old..... 2 | II. JOHN. |
| | Not to eat meats offered before idols 8 | | Shun false teachers; imitate apostolic models..... 3 | | Christ above Moses: obedience to Christ how great..... 3 | How to walk in truth and charity... 1 |
| | Paul is self-supporting: striving after holiness..... 9 | | Stand fast in all holiness; peace the crown..... 4 | | The Christian's rest, and the Christian's grace..... 4 | III. JOHN. |
| | Not to presume on God's favors: avoid all idolatry..... 10 | | COLOSSIANS. | | Christ our high-priest,—the cause of eternal salvation..... 5 | He praises Gaius for walking in truth and charity..... 1 |
| | Modesty in church: the Eucharist.. 11 | | Christ our Head and Peace-maker.. 1 | | Hebrew converts warned against apostasy and inconstancy..... 6 | ST. JUDE. |
| | God's gifts for edification: all for charity..... 12 | | Whoso enjoy His fulness, should avoid other worship..... 2 | | Christ's priesthood the fulfillment of the Law..... 7 | Stand to the faith delivered to you: beware of heretics..... 1 |
| | Pre-eminence of supernatural charity 13 | | Put off the old man; put on the new 3 | | Christ's dispensation the perfection of the Mosaic..... 8 | THE APOCALYPSE. |
| | Christ died for all; Christ arose for all..... 14 | | Walk with wisdom in the midst of men..... 4 | | Mosaic sacrifices imperfect and earthly; Christ's divine and infinite insufficiency of the legal sacrifices: nil-sufficiency of Christ's..... 10 | St. John commanded to write to the Seven Churches..... 1 |
| | Collections of alms for needy churches..... 15 | | I. THESSALONIANS. | | The living faith of the Patriarchs a lesson to the inheritors of that faith 11 | What he is to write to the bishops of Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamus, and Thyatira..... 2 |
| | II. CORINTHIANS. | | They are a pattern to all Macedonia 1 | | The past generations of believers preach faith in Christ..... 12 | What he is to write to the bishops of Sardis, Philadelphia and Laodicea 3 |
| | Constancy and sincerity of Paul's doctrine..... 1 | | He preached in sincerity; in sincerity they believed..... 2 | | The Christian love of brotherhood to surpass the Jewish..... 13 | Heaven opened: the Throne and its surroundings..... 4 |
| | The excommunicated absolved..... 2 | | He prays that they may ever increase in holiness..... 3 | | ST. JAMES. | The Book with the seven seals..... 5 |
| | The true apostle needs no commendation..... 3 | | He insists on purity, charity, and faith in the resurrection..... 4 | | Living faith worketh patience, worketh miracles, worketh perseverance 1 | Six of the seven seals opened..... 6 |
| | Paul preaches not himself. Comfort in persecution..... 4 | | The Day of the Lord; the Christian's manifold duties..... 5 | | Faith is dead without works..... 2 | The multitude marked with God's seal..... 7 |
| | Paul willing to die, or to live and labor for Christ..... 5 | | II. THESSALONIANS. | | Evils of the tongue. Worldly and heavenly wisdom..... 3 | Opening of the seventh seal; Seven Angels..... 8 |
| | Be faithful to grace! Avoid unbelievers..... 6 | | The apostle glories in them, because of their heroic sufferings..... 1 | | The covetous and worldly-minded; the proud and uncharitable..... 4 | The Pit opened..... 9 |
| | He rejoices over the repentant Corinthians..... 7 | | They must not be moved by prophecies about the Last Day..... 2 | | The rich who grind the poor. Last duties to the sick..... 5 | John given a book to eat..... 10 |
| | Exhorts them to aid the Church of Jerusalem..... 8 | | He begs their prayers; exhorts them to heroic perseverance..... 3 | | I. PETER. | He is ordered to measure the temple of God..... 11 |
| | The fruits of almsgiving..... 9 | | I. TIMOTHY. | | Our Christian calling means holiness of life..... 1 | The Woman clothed with the Sun... 12 |
| | Reproof administered to uncharitable censors..... 10 | | True and false teachers of the gospel 1 | | We are living stones to be built up in Christ..... 2 | The Beast with the Seven Heads... 13 |
| | He is forced by these to commend himself..... 11 | | Pray for all men: God wishes to save all: women not to teach... 2 | | Conjugal, domestic, and general virtues..... 3 | The Lamb and his train of Virgin souls..... 14 |
| | His raptures and revelations..... 12 | | How God's ministers must be selected..... 3 | | Sin not. Do all for God. Suffer for Christ..... 4 | The Victors over the Beast. The Seven Vials..... 15 |
| | He courageously threatens impenitent evil-doers..... 13 | | Heresies to be shunned. Authority of a bishop's office..... 4 | | Priests, feed the flock! Let all practice humility..... 5 | The Vials and the Plagues..... 16 |
| | GALATIANS. | | How a bishop is to treat widows; how to rule his clergy..... 5 | | | The Woman drunk with the blood of the Saints..... 17 |
| | Paul blames them for being led astray by false teachers..... 1 | | Lessons for servants and for wealthy masters..... 6 | | | The fall of Babylon..... 18 |
| | His teaching in unison with that of his brother apostles..... 2 | | II. TIMOTHY. | | | Christ's triumph..... 19 |
| | The realization of the Promises is through faith in Christ..... 3 | | The grace of ordination strengthens to suffer and to teach..... 1 | | | Satan bound; reign of the Saints.. 20 |
| | The Christian made free in Christ from the Mosaic law..... 4 | | | | | The New Jerusalem..... 21 |
| | Characteristic works of this free spirit: works of the flesh..... 5 | | | | | The Water and Tree of Life..... 22 |
| | Charity, humility; glory of Christ's cross..... 6 | | | | | |

CHRONOLOGICAL AND OTHER VALUABLE TABLES.

DESIGNED TO PROMOTE AND FACILITATE THE STUDY OF THE HOLY BIBLE.

TABLE OF THE HARMONY OF THE FOUR GOSPELS.

N. B.—In the following Table, where all the references under a given section are printed in thick type, as under "Two Genealogies," it is to be understood that some special difficulty besets the harmony. Where one or more references under a given section are in thin, and one or more in thick type, it is to be understood that the former are given as in their proper place, and that it is more or less doubtful whether the latter are to be considered as parallel narratives or not.

| | ST. MATTHEW. | ST. MARK. | ST. LUKE. | ST. JOHN. | | ST. MATTHEW. | ST. MARK. | ST. LUKE. | ST. JOHN. |
|---|------------------|-----------------|--------------|-----------------|--|--------------------------|-------------|--------------|-------------|
| "The Word"..... | | | | i. 1-14 | The Innatic healed..... | xviii. 14-21 | ix. 14-29 | ix. 37-42 | |
| Preface, to Theophilus..... | | | i. 1-4 | | The Passion again foretold..... | xviii. 22, 23 | ix. 30-32 | ix. 43-45 | |
| Annunciation of the Bap- tist's birth..... | | | i. 5-25 | | Fish caught for the tribute..... | xviii. 24-27 | | | |
| Annunciation of the birth of Jesus..... | | | i. 26-38 | | The little child..... | xviii. 1-5 | ix. 33-37 | ix. 46-48 | |
| Mary visits Elizabeth..... | | | i. 39-56 | | One casting out devils..... | | ix. 38-41 | ix. 49, 50 | |
| Birth of John the Baptist..... | | | i. 57-80 | | Offences..... | xviii. 6-9 | ix. 42-48 | xvii. 2 | |
| Birth of Jesus Christ..... | i. 18-25 | | ii. 1-7 | | The lost sheep..... | xviii. 10-14 | | xv. 4-7 | |
| Two Genealogies..... | i. 1-17 | | iii. 23-38 | | Forgiveness of injuries..... | xviii. 15-17 | | | |
| The watching Shepherds..... | | | ii. 8-20 | | Binding and loosing..... | xviii. 18-20 | | | |
| The Circumcision..... | | | ii. 21 | | Forgiveness, Parable..... | xviii. 21-35 | | | |
| Presentation in the Temple..... | | | ii. 22-38 | | "Salted with fire"..... | | ix. 48, 49 | ix. 51 | vii. 1-10 |
| The wise men from the East..... | ii. 1-12 | | ii. 39 | | Journey to Jerusalem..... | | | ix. 52-56 | |
| Flight to Egypt..... | ii. 13-23 | | ii. 40-52 | | Fire from heaven..... | | | ix. 57-62 | |
| Disputing with the Doctors..... | iii. 1-12 | i. 1-8 | iii. 1-18 | i. 15-31 | Answers to disciples..... | viii. 19-22 | | x. 1-16 | |
| Ministry of John the Baptist..... | iii. 13-17 | i. 9-11 | iii. 21-22 | i. 32-34 | The Seventy disciples..... | | | | |
| Baptism of Jesus Christ..... | iv. 1-11 | i. 12, 13 | iv. 1-13 | | Discussions at Feast of Tabernacles..... | | | | vii. 11-53 |
| The Temptation..... | | | | | Woman taken in adultery..... | | | | viii. 1-11 |
| Andrew and another see Jesus..... | | | | i. 35-40 | Dispute with the Pharisees..... | | | | viii. 12-59 |
| Simon, now Cephas (Peter)..... | | | | i. 41, 42 | The man born blind..... | | | | ix. 1-41 |
| Philip and Nathanael..... | | | | i. 43-51 | The good Shepherd..... | | | | x. 1-22 |
| The water made wine..... | | | | ii. 1-11 | The return of the Seventy..... | | | x. 17-24 | |
| PASSOVER (1st) and cleans- ing the Temple..... | | | | ii. 12-22 | The Good Samaritan..... | | | x. 25-37 | |
| Nicodemus..... | | | | ii. 23; iii. 21 | Mary and Martha..... | | | x. 38-42 | |
| Christ and John Baptizing..... | | | | iii. 22-36 | The Lord's Prayer..... | vi. 9-13 | | xi. 1-4 | |
| The woman of Samaria..... | | | | iv. 1-42 | Prayer effectual..... | vii. 7-11 | | xi. 5-13 | |
| John the Baptist in prison..... | iv. 12; xiv. 3 | i. 14; vi. 17 | iii. 19, 20 | iv. 1-42 | "Through Beelzebub"..... | xii. 22-37 | iii. 20-30 | xi. 14-23 | |
| Return to Galilee..... | iv. 12 | i. 14, 15 | iv. 14, 15 | iii. 24 | The unclean spirit returning..... | xii. 43-45 | | xi. 24-28 | |
| The synagogue at Nazareth..... | | | iv. 16-30 | iv. 43-45 | The sign of Jonas..... | xii. 38-42 | | xi. 29-32 | |
| The nobleman's son..... | | | | iv. 46-54 | The light of the body..... | { v. 15; vi. 22, 23 } | | xi. 33-36 | |
| Capharnaum, "Four Apos- tles called"..... | iv. 13-22 | i. 16-20 | v. 1-11 | | The Pharisees..... | xxiii. | | xi. 37-54 | |
| Demoniac healed there..... | | i. 21-28 | iv. 31-37 | | What to fear..... | x. 26-33 | | xi. 1-12 | |
| Simon's wife's mother healed..... | viii. 14-17 | i. 29-34 | iv. 38-41 | | "Master, speak to my brother" Covetousness..... | vi. 25-33 | | xii. 13-15 | |
| First Circuit round Galilee..... | iv. 23-25 | i. 35-39 | iv. 42-44 | | Watchfulness..... | | | xii. 16-31 | |
| Healing a leper..... | viii. 1-4 | i. 40-45 | v. 1-16 | | Galileans that perished..... | | | xii. 32-59 | |
| Christ stills the storm..... | viii. 18-27 | iv. 35-41 | viii. 22-25 | | Woman healed on Sabbath..... | | | xiii. 1-9 | |
| Demoniacs in land of Gadarenes | viii. 28-34 | v. 1-20 | viii. 26-39 | | The grain of mustard seed..... | xiii. 31, 32 | iv. 30-32 | xiii. 10-17 | |
| Jaïrus's daughter, Woman healed..... | ix. 18-26 | v. 21-43 | viii. 40-56 | | The leaven..... | xiii. 33 | | xiii. 18, 19 | |
| Blind men, and demoniac..... | ix. 27-34 | | | | Toward Jerusalem..... | | | xiii. 20, 21 | |
| Healing the paralytic..... | ix. 1-8 | ii. 1-12 | v. 17-26 | | "Are they few that are saved?" Warning against Herod..... | | | xiii. 22 | |
| Matthew the Publican..... | ix. 9-13 | ii. 13-17 | v. 27-32 | | "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem" Dropsy healed on Sabbath day..... | xxiii. 37-39 | | xiii. 23-30 | |
| "Thy disciples fast not" Journey to Jerusalem to 2d PASSOVER..... | ix. 14-17 | ii. 18-22 | v. 33-39 | | Choosing the chief rooms..... | | | xiii. 31-33 | |
| Pool of Bethesda, Power of Christ..... | | | | v. 2 | Parable of the Great Supper..... | xxii. 1-14 | | xiii. 34, 35 | |
| Plucking ears of corn on Sabbath..... | xii. 1-8 | ii. 23-28 | vi. 1-5 | | Following Christ with the Cross..... | x. 37, 38 | | xiv. 1-6 | |
| The withered hand, Miracles. The Twelve Apostles..... | xii. 9-21 | iii. 1-12 | vi. 6-11 | | Parables of Lost Sheep, Piece of Money, Prodigal Son, Unjust Steward, Rich Man and Lazarus..... | | | xiv. 7-14 | |
| The Sermon on the Mount..... | v. 1-vii. 29 | iii. 13-19 | vi. 12-16 | | Offences..... | xviii. 6-15 | | xiv. 15-24 | |
| The centurion's servant..... | viii. 5-13 | | vi. 17-49 | iv. 46-54 | Faith and merit..... | xvii. 20 | | xiv. 25-35 | |
| The widow's son at Naim..... | | | vi. 17-49 | | The ten lepers..... | | | xv. 1-12 | |
| Messengers from John..... | xi. 2-19 | | vii. 11-17 | | How the kingdom cometh..... | | | xv. 13-16 | |
| Woe to the cities of Galilee..... | xi. 20-24 | | vii. 18-35 | | Parable of the Unjust Judge..... | | | xv. 17-27 | |
| Call to the meek and suffering..... | xi. 25-30 | | | | "the Pharisee and Publican" Divorce..... | xix. 1-12 | x. 1-12 | xv. 28-30 | |
| Anointing the feet of Jesus..... | | | | | Infants brought to Jesus..... | xix. 13-15 | x. 13-16 | xv. 31-34 | |
| Second Circuit round Galilee..... | | | | | The rich man inquiring..... | xix. 16-26 | x. 17-27 | xv. 35-43 | |
| Parable of the Sower..... | xiii. 1-23 | iv. 1-20 | viii. 1-3 | | Promises to the disciples..... | xix. 27-30 | x. 28-31 | xv. 44-48 | |
| "Candle under a Bushel" the Growth of Seed..... | | iv. 21-25 | viii. 4-15 | | Laborers in the vineyard..... | xx. 1-16 | | xv. 49-54 | |
| "the Wheat and Tares" Grain of Mustard Seed Leaven..... | xiii. 24-30 | iv. 26-29 | viii. 16-18 | | Death of Christ foretold..... | xx. 17-19 | x. 32-34 | xv. 55-58 | |
| On teaching by parables..... | xiii. 31, 32 | iv. 30-32 | xiii. 18, 19 | | Request of James and John..... | xx. 20-28 | x. 35-45 | xvi. 1-10 | |
| Wheat and tares explained..... | xiii. 33 | iv. 33, 34 | xiii. 20, 21 | | Blind men at Jericho..... | xx. 29-34 | x. 46-52 | xvi. 11-28 | |
| The treasure, the pearl, the net..... | xiii. 34, 35 | | | | Zacchæus..... | | | xvi. 29-31 | |
| His mother and his brethren..... | xiii. 36-43 | | | | Parable of the Ten Talents..... | xxv. 14-30 | | xvi. 32-34 | |
| Reception at Nazareth..... | xiii. 44-52 | | | | Feast of Dedication..... | | | xvi. 35-43 | |
| Third Circuit round Galilee..... | xiii. 46-50 | iii. 31-35 | viii. 19-21 | | Beyond Jordan..... | | | xvi. 44-48 | |
| Sending forth the Twelve..... | ix. 35-38; xi. 1 | vi. 6 | | | Raising of Lazarus..... | | | xvi. 49-54 | |
| Herod's opinion of Jesus..... | x. 1-12 | vi. 7-13 | ix. 1-6 | | Meeting of the Sanhedrim..... | | | xvi. 55-58 | |
| Death of John the Baptist..... | x. 13-14 | vi. 14-16 | ix. 7-9 | | Christ in Ephraim..... | | | xvii. 1-9 | |
| Approach of PASSOVER (3d)..... | x. 15-16 | vi. 17-29 | | | Arrival at Bethany six days before the Passover..... | xxvi. 6-13 | xiv. 3-9 | xvii. 10-11 | |
| Feeding of the five thousand..... | xiv. 13-21 | vi. 30-44 | ix. 10-17 | | The anointing by Mary..... | | | xvii. 12-19 | |
| Walking on the sea..... | xiv. 22-33 | vi. 45-52 | | | Plot against Him and Lazarus..... | xxi. 1-11 | xi. 1-10 | xvii. 20-27 | |
| Miracles in Gennesaret..... | xiv. 34-36 | vi. 53-56 | | | Christ enters Jerusalem..... | xxi. 12-16 | xi. 15-18 | xvii. 28-30 | |
| The bread of life..... | | | | | Cleansing of the Temple (2d)..... | | xi. 19-23 | xvii. 31-34 | |
| The unwhashed hands..... | xv. 1-20 | vii. 1-23 | | | The barren fig-tree..... | xxi. 17-22 | xi. 24-26 | xvii. 35-43 | |
| The Syro-Phœnician woman..... | xv. 21-28 | vii. 24-30 | | | Pray, and forgive..... | vi. 14, 15 | xi. 27-33 | xvii. 44-48 | |
| Miracles of healing..... | xv. 29-31 | vii. 31-37 | | | "By what authority," etc..... | xxi. 23-27 | | xviii. 1-10 | |
| Feeding of the four thousand..... | xv. 32-39 | viii. 1-9 | | | Parable of the Two Sons..... | xxi. 28-32 | | xviii. 11-19 | |
| The sign from heaven..... | xvi. 1-4 | viii. 10-13 | | | "the Wicked Husbandmen" the Wedding Garment..... | xxi. 33-46 | xii. 1-12 | xviii. 20-26 | |
| The leaven of the Pharisees..... | xvi. 5-12 | viii. 14-21 | | | The tribute-money..... | xxii. 15-22 | xii. 13-17 | xviii. 27-40 | |
| Blind man healed..... | | viii. 22-26 | | | The state of the risen..... | xxii. 23-33 | xii. 18-27 | xviii. 41-44 | |
| Peter's profession of faith..... | xvi. 13-19 | viii. 27-29 | ix. 18-20 | vi. 66-71 | The great Commandment..... | xxii. 34-40 | xii. 28-34 | xviii. 45-47 | |
| The Passion foretold..... | xvi. 20-28 | viii. 30; ix. 1 | ix. 21-27 | | David's Son and David's Lord..... | xxii. 41-46 | xii. 35-37 | xviii. 48-50 | |
| The Transfiguration..... | xvii. 1-9 | ix. 2-10 | ix. 28-36 | | Against the Pharisees..... | xxiii. 1-39 | xii. 38-40 | xix. 1-4 | |
| Ellas..... | xvii. 10-13 | ix. 11-13 | | | The widow's mite..... | xxiv. 1-51 | xiii. 41-44 | xix. 5-8 | |
| | | | | | Christ's second coming..... | | xiii. 45-48 | | |

HARMONY OF THE FOUR GOSPELS.—Continued.

| | ST. MATTHEW. | ST. MARK. | ST. LUKE. | ST. JOHN. |
|--|----------------------------|-----------------------------|-------------|--------------|
| Parable of the Ten Virgins..... | xxv. 1-13 | | | |
| " the Talents..... | xxv. 14-30 | | xix. 11-28 | |
| The Last Judgment..... | xxv. 31-46 | | | |
| Greeks visit Jesus. Voice } from heaven..... | | | xii. 20-36 | |
| Reflections of John..... | | | xii. 36-50 | |
| LAST PASSOVER (4th). Jews } conspire..... | xxvi. 1-5 | xiv. 1, 2 | xxii. 1, 2 | |
| Judas Iscariot..... | xxvi. 14-16 | xiv. 10, 11 | xxii. 3-6 | |
| Pascal Supper..... | xxvi. 17-29 | xiv. 12-25 | xxii. 7-23 | xiii. 1-35 |
| Contention of the Apostles..... | | | xxii. 24-30 | |
| Peter's fall foretold..... | xxvi. 30-35 | xiv. 26-31 | xxii. 31-39 | xiii. 36-38 |
| Last Discourse. The depar- } ture; the Comforter..... | | | | xiv. 1-31 |
| The Vine and the Branches } abiding in Love..... | | | | xv. 1-27 |
| Work of the Comforter on } disciples..... | | | | xvi. 1-33 |
| The Prayer of Christ..... | | | | xvii. 1-26 |
| Gethsemane..... | xxvi. 36-46 | xiv. 32-42 | xxii. 40-46 | xviii. 1 |
| The betrayal..... | xxvi. 47-56 | xiv. 43-52 | xxii. 47-53 | xviii. 2-11 |
| Before Annas (Caiaphas) } Peter's denial..... | xxvi. 57, } 58, 59-75 } | { xiv. 53, 54, } 66-72 } | xxii. 54-62 | xviii. 12-27 |
| Before the Sanhedrim..... | xxvi. 59-68 | xiv. 55-65 | xxii. 63-71 | |
| Before Pilate..... | xxvii. 1, 2, } 11-14 } | xv. 1-5 | xxiii. 1-3 | xviii. 28 |

HARMONY OF THE FOUR GOSPELS.—Continued.

| | ST. MATTHEW. | ST. MARK. | ST. LUKE. | ST. JOHN. |
|--|---------------|-------------|---------------|----------------------------------|
| The Traitor's death..... | xxvii. 3-10 | | | |
| Before Herod..... | | | xxiii. 4-11 | |
| Accusation and Condemnation... | xxvii. 15-26 | xv. 6-15 | xxiii. 13-25 | xviii. 29-40 |
| Treatment by the soldiers..... | xxvii. 27-31 | xv. 16-20 | xxiii. 36, 37 | xix. 1-16 |
| The Crucifixion..... | xxvii. 32-38 | xv. 21-28 | xxiii. 26-34 | xix. 2, 3 |
| The mother of Jesus..... | | | | xix. 17-24 |
| Mockings and railings..... | xxvii. 39-44 | xv. 29-32 | xxiii. 35-39 | xix. 25-27 |
| The malefactor..... | | | xxiii. 40-43 | |
| The death..... | xxvii. 50 | xv. 37 | xxiii. 46 | xix. 28-30 |
| Darkness and other portents..... | xxvii. 45-53 | xv. 33-38 | xxiii. 44, 45 | |
| The by-standers..... | xxvii. 54-56 | xv. 39-41 | xxiii. 47-49 | |
| The side pierced..... | | | | xix. 34-37 |
| The burial..... | xxvii. 57-61 | xv. 42-47 | xxiii. 50-56 | xix. 38-42 |
| The guard of the sepulchre.... { xxvii. 62-66 } xxviii. 1-15 } | | | | |
| The Resurrection..... | | xvi. 1-11 | xxiv. 1-12 | xx. 1-18 |
| Disciples going to Emmaus..... | | xvi. 12, 13 | xxiv. 13-35 | |
| Appearances in Jerusalem..... | | xvi. 14-18 | xxiv. 36-49 | xx. 19-29 |
| At the Sea of Tiberias..... | | | | xxi. 1-23 |
| On the Mount in Galilee..... | xxviii. 16-20 | | | |
| Unrecorded Works..... | | | | { xx. 30, 31, } xxi. 24, 25 } |
| Ascension..... | | xvi. 19, 20 | xxiv. 50-53 | |

CHRONOLOGY OF THE BOOKS OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

THE FIVE HISTORICAL BOOKS.

| A. D. | | Place where written. |
|------------|----------------------------|----------------------|
| Uncertain. | Gospel of St. Matthew..... | Judæa. |
| About 63. | " " St. Mark..... | Perhaps at Rome. |
| " 60. | " " St. Luke..... | Perhaps at Cæsarea. |
| " 93. | Acts of the Apostles..... | Uncertain. |
| " 96. | Gospel of St. John..... | Perhaps at Ephesus. |

THE SEVEN GENERAL EPISTLES.

| | | |
|-----------|---------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| About 61. | Epistle of St. James..... | In Judæa. |
| " 63. | 1 Epistle of St. Peter..... | Babylon (Qy. Rome). |
| " 64. | 2 " "..... | Perhaps at Rome. |
| " 96. | 1 " St. John..... | Perhaps at Ephesus. |
| Unknown. | 2 " "..... | Unknown. |
| " 3 | " "..... | " |
| About 63. | Epistle of Jude..... | " |
| " 96. | The Revelation of St. John..... | Perhaps at Patmos or Ephesus. |

ST. PAUL'S EPISTLES, ACCORDING TO CONYBEARE AND HOWSON.

| | | |
|---------|----------------------|------------|
| 52..... | 1 Thessalonians..... | Corinth. |
| 53..... | 2 "..... | " |
| 57..... | 1 Corinthians..... | Ephesus. |
| 57..... | 2 "..... | Macedonia. |
| 57..... | Galatians..... | Corinth. |
| 58..... | Romans..... | " |
| 62..... | Philemon..... | Rome. |
| 62..... | Colossians..... | " |
| 62..... | Ephesians..... | " |
| 62..... | Philippians..... | " |
| 67..... | 1 Timothy..... | Macedonia. |
| 68..... | 2 "..... | Rome. |
| 67..... | Titus..... | Ephesus. |
| 63..... | Hebrews..... | Uncertain. |

THE PARABLES OF JESUS.

I. Those which have for their subjects the laws of the Divine Kingdom, in its growth, its nature, its consummation.

| | |
|-------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. The Sower..... | Matt. xiii.; Mark iv.; Luke viii. |
| 2. The Wheat and the Tares..... | Matt. xiii. |
| 3. The Mustard Seed..... | Matt. xiii.; Mark iv. |
| 4. The Seed Cast in the Ground..... | Mark iv. |
| 5. The Leaven..... | Matt. xiii. |
| 6. The Hid Treasure..... | Matt. xiii. |
| 7. The Pearl of Great Price..... | Matt. xiii. |
| 8. The Net Cast into the Sea..... | Matt. xiii. |

II. Those which are drawn from the life of men, and which occur not in discourses, but in answer to the questions of the disciples or other inquirers.

| | |
|-----------------------------------|------------------------|
| 9. The two Debtors..... | Luke vii. |
| 10. The Merciless Servant..... | Matt. xviii. |
| 11. The Good Samaritan..... | Luke x. |
| 12. The Friend at Midnight..... | Luke xi. |
| 13. The Rich Fool..... | Luke xii. |
| 14. The Wedding Feast..... | Luke xii. |
| 15. The Fig Tree..... | Luke xiii. |
| 16. The Great Supper..... | Luke xiv. |
| 17. The Lost Sheep..... | Matt. xviii.; Luke xv. |
| 18. The Lost Piece of Money..... | Luke xv. |
| 19. The Prodigal Son..... | Luke xv. |
| 20. The Unjust Steward..... | Luke xvi. |
| 21. The Rich Man and Lazarus..... | Luke xvi. |

22. The Unjust Judge..... Luke xviii.
23. The Pharisee and the Publican..... Luke xviii.
24. The Laborers in the Vineyard..... Matt. xx.

III. Those which are prophetic, in part of the rejection of Israel, in part of the great retribution of the coming of the Lord.

25. The Pounds..... Luke xix.
26. The Two Sons..... Matt. xxi.
27. The Vineyard let out to Husbandmen..... Matt. xxi.; Mark xii.; Luke xx.
28. The Marriage Feast..... Matt. xxii.
29. The Wise and Foolish Virgins..... Matt. xxv.
30. The Talents..... Matt. xxv.
31. The Sheep and the Goats..... Matt. xxv.

TABLE, SHOWING HOW THE EARTH WAS REPEOPLD BY THE DESCENDANTS OF NOE.

| The sons of Noe were SEM, CHAM, JAPHET. | | |
|--|--|--|
| Sem's Sons were | They settled | The principal nations which sprang from them were |
| Elam. Asshur. Arphaxad. Lud. Aram. | Assyria, Syria, Persia, Northern Arabia, Mesopotamia. | Persians, Assyrians, Chaldeans, Lydians, Armenians. |
| Cham's sons were | They settled | The principal nations which sprang from them were |
| Cush (Chus). Mizraim. Phut. Canaan. | The Continent of Africa. | Ethiopians, Egyptians, Lybians, Canaanites. |
| The sons of Japhet were | They settled | The principal nations which sprang from them were |
| Gomer. Magog. Madai. Javan. Tubal. Meshech. Tiras. | Asia Minor, Armenia, Caucasus, Europe. | Russians, Teutons, Gauls, Britons, Scythians, Medes, Ionians and Athenians, Iberians, Muscovites, Thracians. |

SOME OF THE RIVERS AND LAKES OF THE SCRIPTURES.

| NAME. | Country. | Where mentioned. | For what noted. |
|----------------------------------|------------|--|---|
| 1. Abana. | Damascus. | 2 Kings v. 12. | Spoken of by Naaman. |
| 2. Ahava. | Media. | Ezra viii. 15, 21. | Scene of Esdras's feast prior to the return from captivity. |
| 3. Arnon. | Syria. | Judges xi. 18. | Boundary of Moab. |
| 4. Chobar. | Chaldea. | Ezek. i. 1. | Scene of Ezekiel's first vision. |
| 5. Salt Sea. | Palestine. | Ezek. xlvii. 18. | The Dead Sea. Supposed site of the Cities of the Plain. |
| 6. River of Egypt. | Egypt. | Josh. xv. 4. | The Nile. |
| 7. Euphrates. | Babylonia. | Gen. ii. 4. | One of the great rivers of the East. |
| 8. Sea of Galilee or Gennesaret. | Palestine. | John vi. 1. | One of the rivers of Eden. |
| 9. Gehon. | Persia. | Luke v. 1. | Miraculous draught of fishes, and calming of the tempest by Christ. |
| 10. Jordan. | Palestine. | Gen. ii. 13. | One of the rivers of Eden. |
| 11. Pharpar. | Damascus. | In nearly all the his- torical books. | Principal river of Palestine. Scene of Christ's baptism. |
| 12. Phison. | Persia. | 2 Kings v. 12. | Now called the Barrada. |
| 13. The Red Sea. | Arabia. | Gen. ii. 1. | One of the rivers of Eden. |
| | | Ex. xiii. xiv. | Passage of the Israelites, and destruction of Pharaoh's host. |

THE HILLS AND MOUNTAINS OF SCRIPTURE.

| NAME OF HILL. | Country. | Where mentioned. | For what noted. |
|---------------|------------|--|--|
| 1. Abarim. | Palestine. | Num. xxxiii. 48. | Scene of Balaam's prophecy. |
| 2. Ararat. | Armenia. | Gen. vii. 4. | Resting place of the ark. |
| 3. Bashan. | Palestine. | Isa. xliii. 9. Deut. i. 4. | For its height. |
| 4. Calvary | " | Luke xxiii. 33. | The scene of the Redeemer's crucifixion. This name occurs only in Luke. |
| 5. Carmel. | " | 3 Kings xviii. 19. | The scene of Elias's encounter with the prophets of Baal. |
| 6. Ebal. | " | Josue viii. 30. | The mount on which the curses of the broken law were to rest. |
| 7. Ephraim. | " | 1 Kings i. 1. | Birth-place of Samuel. |
| 8. Gerizim. | " | Josue viii. 32. | The Mount of Blessing. Here Josue wrote the law on stone. The site of the Samaritan Temple. |
| 9. Gilboe. | " | 1 Kings xxxi. | The scene of the death of Saul and Jonathan. |
| 10. Hermon. | " | Ps. cxxxii. 3. | The highest mountain in the Holy Land, 9,053 feet high. The supposed scene of the transfiguration. |
| 11. Nebo | " | Deut. xxxii. 49. | The burial place of Moses, and the mount from which he saw the Promised Land. |
| 12. Olivet. | " | 1 Kings xv. 30. Matt. xxiv. 3. John viii. 1. | Route by which David escaped from Absalon. Scene of Christ's sermon. |
| 13. Hor. | " | Num. xx. 27. | Burial place of Aaron. |
| 14. Sinai. | Arabia. | Ex. xix. 18. | Scene of the giving of the Law. |
| 15. Tabor. | Palestine. | Judges iv. 6. | Scene of the victory over Sisara. |

THE MIRACLES OF JESUS.

ARRANGED IN CHRONOLOGICAL ORDER.

| MIRACLES. | Place of occurrence. | Where described. |
|--|----------------------|---------------------------|
| 1. Conversion of water into wine..... | Can of Galilee. | John ii. 1-11. |
| 2. Cure of the nobleman's son at Capharnaum..... | " | John iv. 46, 54. |
| 3. The miraculous draught of fishes..... | Sea of Galilee. | Luke v. 1-11. |
| 4. Man possessed with a devil healed..... | Capharnaum. | Mark i. 22-28. |
| 5. Peter's mother-in-law cured of a fever..... | " | Mark i. 30, 31. |
| 6. A leper healed..... | " | Mark i. 40, 45. |
| 7. The centurion's servant healed..... | " | Matt. viii. 5-13. |
| 8. The widow's son raised from the dead..... | Naim. | Luke vii. 11, 17. |
| 9. The tempest calmed..... | Sea of Galilee. | Matt. viii. 23, 27. |
| 10. The demoniacs of Gadara cured..... | Gadara. | Matt. ix. 28, 34. |
| 11. Man with the palsy cured..... | Capharnaum. | Matt. ix. 1-8. |
| 12. Jairus's daughter raised from the dead..... | " | Matt. ix. 18, 19, 23, 26. |
| 13. Woman with an issue of blood healed..... | " | Luke viii. 43, 48. |
| 14. Two blind men given their sight..... | " | Matt. ix. 27, 31. |
| 15. The dumb man given his speech..... | " | Matt. ix. 32, 33. |
| 16. An infirm man of Bethsaida healed..... | Jerusalem. | John v. 1-9. |
| 17. The withered hand made whole..... | Judea. | Matt. xii. 10, 13. |
| 18. Man with a devil healed..... | Capharnaum. | Matt. xii. 22, 23. |
| 19. Five thousand people fed..... | Decapolis. | Matt. xiv. xv. 21. |
| 20. Daughter of woman of Chanaan healed..... | Near Tyre. | Matt. xv. 22-28. |
| 21. Deaf and dumb man cured..... | Decapolis. | Mark vii. 31, 37. |
| 22. Four thousand persons fed..... | " | Matt. xv. 32, 39. |
| 23. A blind man given his sight..... | Bethsaida. | Mark xiii. 22, 26. |
| 24. Boy with a devil cured..... | Thabor. | Matt. xvii. 14, 21. |
| 25. A man born blind is made to see..... | Jerusalem. | John ix. |
| 26. A woman with an infirmity of 18 years' standing cured..... | Galilee. | Luke xiii. 11, 17. |
| 27. The dropsy cured..... | " | Luke xiv. 1-6. |
| 28. Ten lepers cleansed..... | Samaria. | Luke xvii. 11, 19. |
| 29. Lazarus raised from the dead..... | Bethany. | John xi. |
| 30. Two blind men given sight..... | Jericho. | Matt. xx. 30, 34. |
| 31. The fig-tree blasted..... | Olivet. | Matt. xxi. 18, 22. |
| 32. Malchus's ear healed..... | Gethsemane. | Luke xxii. 50, 51. |
| 33. Second miraculous draught of fishes..... | Sea of Galilee. | John xxi. 1-14. |

THE WORDS OF JESUS.

BEING A TABLE OF HIS DISCOURSES, IN THEIR PROPER ORDER.

| TITLE. | Place of delivery. | Where recorded. |
|---|--------------------|-----------------------|
| 1. Remarks to Nicodemus..... | Jerusalem. | John iii. 1, 21. |
| 2. Conversation with the woman of Samaria..... | Tychor. | John iv. 1, 42. |
| 3. Remarks in the synagogue at Nazareth..... | Nazareth. | Luke iv. 16, 31. |
| 4. The sermon on the mount..... | " | Matt. v., vi., vii. |
| 5. Charge to the Apostles..... | Galilee. | Matt. x. |
| 6. Doom of Chorazin, Bethsaida, etc..... | " | Matt. xi. 20, 24. |
| 7. Declaration after healing the infirm man of Bethsaida..... | Jerusalem. | John v. |
| 8. Comments on the conduct of the disciples in the corn-field..... | Judea. | Matt. xii. 1, 18. |
| 9. Denial that His miracles were due to the power of Beelzebub..... | Capharnaum. | Matt. xii. 1, 8. |
| 10. The bread of life..... | " | John vii. |
| 11. On internal purity..... | " | Matt. xv. 1, 20. |
| 12. Concerning the forgiveness of injuries..... | " | Matt. xviii. |
| 13. Declaration at the feast of tabernacles..... | Jerusalem. | John vii. |
| 14. Concerning the woman taken in adultery..... | " | John viii. |
| 15. Words referring to His sheep..... | " | John x. |
| 16. The Scribes and Pharisees denounced..... | Paræa. | Luke xiv. 29, 36. |
| 17. About humility and prudence..... | Galilee. | Luke xiv. 7, 14. |
| 18. How to reach heaven..... | Paræa. | Matt. xix. 16, 30. |
| 19. Remarks upon His sufferings..... | Jerusalem. | Matt. xx. 17, 19. |
| 20. The Pharisees denounced..... | " | Matt. xxiii. |
| 21. The destruction of Jerusalem foretold..... | " | Matt. xxiv. |
| 22. Words of comfort to His disciples at the Last Supper..... | " | John xv., xvi., xvii. |
| 23. Remarks on the way to Gethsemane..... | " | Matt. xxvi. 31, 36. |
| 24. Last words to His disciples on earth..... | " | Matt. xxviii. 16-23. |

TABLE SHOWING WHICH OF THE PATRIARCHS WERE CONTEMPORARY WITH EACH OTHER;

AND, CONSEQUENTLY, HOW EASY IT WAS TO HAND DOWN FROM ADAM TO JACOB, THE STORY OF THE CREATION AND THE DELUGE.

| PATRIARCHS. | Born. | Died. | Aged. | CONTEMPORARIES. |
|-------------------|------------|-----------------------|-------|--|
| 1. ADAM..... | B. C. | B. C. 3074 | 930 | Seth, Enos, Cainan, Malaleel, Jared, Enoch, Mathusala, Lamech. |
| 2. SETH..... | 3874 | 2962 | 912 | Adam, Enos, Cainan, Malaleel, Jared, Enoch, Mathusala, Lamech. |
| 3. ENOS..... | 3769 | 2864 | 905 | Adam, Seth, Cainan, Malaleel, Jared, Enoch, Mathusala, Lamech, Noe. |
| 4. CAINAN..... | 3679 | 2769 | 910 | Adam, Seth, Enos, Malaleel, Jared, Enoch, Mathusala, Lamech, Noe. |
| 5. MALALEEL..... | 3609 | 2714 | 895 | Adam, Seth, Enos, Cainan, Jared, Enoch, Mathusala, Lamech, Noe. |
| 6. JARED..... | 3544 | 2582 | 962 | Adam, Seth, Enos, Cainan, Malaleel, Enoch, Mathusala, Lamech, Noe. |
| 7. ENOCH..... | 3382 | 3017 Translated. 2348 | 365 | Adam, Seth, Enos, Cainan, Malaleel, Jared, Mathusala, Lamech. |
| 8. MATHUSALA..... | 3317 | 2348 | 969 | Adam, Seth, Enos, Cainan, Malaleel, Jared, Enoch, Lamech, Noe, Sem. |
| 9. LAMECH..... | 3130 | 2353 | 777 | Adam, Seth, Enos, Cainan, Malaleel, Jared, Enoch, Lamech, Noe, Sem. |
| 10. NOE..... | 2948 | 1998 | 950 | Enos, Cainan, Malaleel, Jared, Mathusala, Lamech, Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Phaleg, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Thare. |
| 11. SEM..... | 2446 | 1846 | 600 | Mathusala, Lamech, Noe, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Phaleg, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Thare, Abraham, Isaac. |
| 12. ARPHAXAD..... | 2346 | 1908 | 438 | Sem, Sale, Heber, Phaleg, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Thare, Abraham. |
| 13. SALE..... | 2311 | 1878 | 433 | Sem, Arphaxad, Heber, Phaleg, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Thare, Abraham, Isaac. |
| 14. HEBER..... | 2281 | 1817 | 464 | Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Phaleg, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Thare, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob. |
| 15. PHALEG..... | 2247 | 2008 | 239 | Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Thare, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob. |
| 16. REU..... | 2017 | 1978 | 239 | Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Phaleg, Sarug, Nachor, Thare, Abraham. |
| 17. SARUG..... | 2185 | 1955 | 230 | Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Phaleg, Reu, Nachor, Thare, Abraham. |
| 18. NACHOR..... | 2155 | 2007 | 148 | Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Phaleg, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Abraham. |
| 19. THARE..... | 2126 | 1921 | 205 | Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Phaleg, Reu, Sarug, Nachor, Abraham. |
| 20. ABRAHAM..... | 1996 | 1821 | 175 | Sem, Arphaxad, Sale, Heber, Reu, Sarug, Thare, Isaac, Jacob. |
| 21. ISAAC..... | 1897 | 1717 | 180 | Sem, Sale, Heber, Abraham, Jacob, Joseph. |
| 22. JACOB..... | 1837 | 1689 | 148 | Heber, Abraham, Isaac. |

MIRACLES PERFORMED BY THE APOSTLES.

RECORDED IN THE ACTS.

| MIRACLES. | Place of occurrence. | Where described. |
|--|-------------------------------|------------------|
| 1. A lame man healed by St. Peter..... | Jerusalem. | Acts iii. 1-11. |
| 2. Death of Ananias and Sapphira..... | " | — v. 1-10. |
| 3. Wonderful deeds done by the Apostles..... | " | — v. 12, 16. |
| 4. St. Peter and St. John impart the Holy Ghost..... | Samaria. | — viii. 14, 17. |
| 5. Eneas healed of a palsy by St. Peter..... | Lydda. | — ix. 33, 34. |
| 6. Tabitha or Dorcas raised from the dead by St. Peter..... | Joppa. | — ix. 36, 41. |
| 7. St. Peter rescued from prison by an angel..... | Jerusalem. | — xii. 7, 17. |
| 8. Herod punished with death..... | " | — xii. 21, 23. |
| 9. Elymas the sorcerer is stricken with blindness..... | Paphos. | — xiii. 6, 11. |
| 10. Conversion of St. Paul..... | between Jerusalem & Damascus. | — ix. 1-9. |
| 11. A cripple healed by St. Paul..... | Lystra. | — xiv. 8-10. |
| 12. Spirit of divination ejected by St. Paul..... | Philippi. | — xvi. 16-18. |
| 13. Doors of the prison of St. Paul and Silas opened by an earthquake..... | " | — xvi. 25, 26. |
| 14. St. Paul imparts the Holy Ghost..... | Corinth. | — xix. 1-6. |
| 15. Many persons healed by St. Paul..... | " | — xix. 11, 12. |
| 16. St. Paul raises Eutychus from the dead..... | Troas. | — xx. 9, 12. |
| 17. St. Paul renders a viper harmless..... | Melita. | — xxviii. 3-6. |
| 18. St. Paul cures Publius' father and others..... | " | — xxviii. 7-9. |

A CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE,

SHOWING THE PRINCIPAL EVENTS OF THE JEWISH AND CONTEMPORANEOUS HISTORY, FROM THE CREATION OF THE WORLD TO THE BIRTH OF CHRIST.

| B. C. | JEWISH HISTORY. | CONTEMPORANEOUS EVENTS. |
|-------|------------------------|---------------------------|
| 4004 | Creation of the world. | |
| 2650 | | |
| 2349 | The deluge. | Chinese Empire founded |
| 2020 | | |
| 2010 | | |
| 1996 | Birth of Abraham. | Sesostris, king of Egypt. |
| 1921 | Call of Abraham. | |
| 1866 | Isaac born. | |
| 1856 | | Kingdom of Argos founded. |

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE.—Continued.

| B. C. | JEWISH HISTORY. | CONTEMPORANEOUS EVENTS. |
|-------|---|--|
| 1837 | Birth of Jacob and Esau. | |
| 1729 | Joseph sold into Egypt. | |
| 1571 | Moses born. | |
| 1493 | The Passover instituted—Departure from Egypt. | Cadmus introduces letters into Greece. |
| 1491 | The Law given from Mount Sinai. | |
| 1451 | Death of Moses and Aaron—Josue leads the Israelites into Chanaan. | |
| 1352 | | |
| 1273 | The Judges. | Corinth founded. |
| 1263 | | Rise of Assyria. |
| 1193 | | Search for the Golden Fleece. |
| 1136 | Samson slays the Philistines. | War against Troy. |
| 1120 | Death of Samson. | |
| 1102 | | |
| 1095 | Saul made king. | Sparta a kingdom. |
| 1075 | Death of Samuel. | |
| 1056 | Death of Saul and Jonathan. | |
| 1048 | David, king over Israel—Takes Jerusalem. | |
| 1042 | The Ark removed to Jerusalem. | |
| 1023 | Revolt of Absalon. | |
| 1015 | Death of David and accession of Solomon. | |
| 1012 | Foundation of the Temple. | |
| 1006 | Dedication of the Temple. | |
| 975 | Death of Solomon—Revolt of the Ten Tribes—Kingdom of Israel established under Jeroboam. | |
| 975 | Semeias averts a civil war—Roboam, king of Juda. | |
| 971 | Sisac, king of Egypt, takes Jerusalem and pillages the Temple. | |
| 957 | Abias defeats the king of Israel; 50,000 men are slain in the battle. | Tabrimmon, king of Damascus. |
| 906 | Israel afflicted with the famine predicted by Elias. | |
| 901 | The Syrians besiege Samaria. | |
| 897 | Elias translated to heaven. | |
| 896 | Death of Achab, king of Israel. | |
| 895 | Miracles of Eliseus the Prophet. | |
| 878 | | |
| 776 | Israel invaded by the Assyrians under Phul. | Carthage founded by Dido. |
| 758 | | Commencement of the Olympic Era. |
| 753 | | Syracuse founded. |
| 747 | | Rome built. |
| 741 | | Era of Nabonassar. |
| 741 | Phacee, king of Israel, lays siege to Jerusalem; 120,000 of the men of Juda are slain in one day. | |
| 740 | Achaz, king of Juda, being defeated by Phacee, calls in the assistance of Tiglath-Pileser, king of Assyria, and becomes tributary to him—Israel is also made tributary to the same king—A Syrian altar is set up in the Temple, and the sacred vessels sent to Assyria. | |
| 721 | Samaria is taken by the king of Assyria—The Ten Tribes carried into captivity—End of the Kingdom of Israel—Isaïas and Micheas, prophets in Juda. | Numa Pompilius, B. C. 715. |
| 710 | Sennacherib invades Judæa, but the destroying angel enters the camp of the Assyrians, and in one night destroys 185,000 of them. | |
| 698 | Manasses, king of Juda—Gross idolatry of Juda. | |
| 678 | Samaria colonized by Assyrians. | Scythian invasion of Western Asia. |
| 678 | | Byzantium founded. |
| 656 | Holofernes is killed at the siege of Bethulia by Judith. | |
| 625 | | Alyattes, king of Lydia—Nabopolassar of Babylon and Cyaxeres of Media destroy Nineveh. |
| 624 | In repairing the Temple Hielias discovers the book of the law, and Josias keeps a solemn Passover—Jeremias, prophet. | |
| 608 | Josias killed in battle—Joakim, king. | Babylon a great kingdom. |
| 605 | Jeremias' prophecy of the 70 years' captivity—Nabuchodonosor invades Judæa, takes Jerusalem—Joakim, his vassal. | |
| 602 | Joakim revolts from Babylon. | |
| 598 | Nabuchodonosor besieges Jerusalem. | |
| 597 | Jerusalem taken—Joakim deposed, and succeeded by Joakim, who rebels. | |
| 597 | Sedecias made king over the remnant of Juda. | |
| 594 | | Solon, legislator at Athens. |
| 588 | Jerusalem having rebelled against Babylon, is besieged by Nabuchodonosor. | |
| 586 | Jerusalem taken and destroyed by Nabuchodonosor—Sedecias' eyes are put out—He is taken to Babylon, where he dies—End of the Kingdom of Juda. | |
| 580 | | |
| 572 | | |
| 569 | | |
| 562 | The Jews captives in Babylon. | Copper money coined at Rome. |
| 559 | | Fall of Tyre. |
| 539 | | Amasis, king of Egypt. |
| 539 | | First comedy performed at Athens. |
| 539 | | Founding of the Persian Empire by Cyrus. |
| 539 | | Marseilles built by the Phœceans. |
| 539 | | Babylon taken by Cyrus and united to Persia. |
| 536 | Cyrus allows the Jews to return to their own country—Return of the first caravan under Zorobabel. | |
| 535 | Rebuilding of the Temple. | |
| 534 | Opposition of the Samaritans. | Tarquinius Superbus, king of Rome. |
| 529 | Letter to the Persian king from the adversaries. | Death of Cyrus. |
| 525 | | Egypt conquered by Cambyes. |
| 522 | Work on the Temple stopped by a royal decree. | Death of Cambyes. |
| 521 | Aggeus and Zacharias. | |
| 520 | Building of the Temple resumed. | |
| 515 | Dedication of the Second Temple. | |
| 510 | | Expulsion of the Tarquins—Rome and Athens republics. |

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE.—Continued.

| B. C. | JEWISH HISTORY. | CONTEMPORANEOUS EVENTS. |
|-------|---|---|
| 494 | | Tribunes. |
| 490 | | Battle of Marathon. |
| 486 | | Xerxes (the Ahasuerus of Esther.) |
| 480 | | Battles of Salamis and Thermopylae—Persians burn Athens. |
| 479 | | Battles of Platæa and Mycæe—Persians retreat from Greece. |
| 474 | Esther and Mordechal. | |
| 468 | | Death of Aristides—Socrates born. |
| 466 | | Cimon defeats the Persians. |
| 465 | | Death of Xerxes. |
| 458 | Commission of Esdras. | Cincinnatus dictator. |
| 457 | Great reformation. | |
| 449 | | Decemvirate at Rome—Appius Claudius. |
| 444 | Commission of Nehemias—The walls rebuilt—Reading of the law—Opposition of Sanballat. | Herodotus. |
| 443 | | |
| 431 | | Peloponnesian war. |
| 429 | | Pericles dies—Plato born. |
| 404 | | Lysander takes Athens—Death of Alcibiades. |
| 400 | Malachias. | Xenophon—Retreat of the 10,000. |
| 399 | | Death of Socrates. |
| 390 | | Rome taken by the Gauls. |
| 371 | | Battle of Leuctra. |
| 367 | Murder of Josue. | |
| 362 | | Death of Epaminondas. |
| 356 | | Birth of Alexander the Great—Temple of Diana at Ephesus burned. |
| 351 | Alleged captivity of the Jews. | |
| 350 | Jaddua, High Priest. | |
| 348 | | Death of Plato. |
| 336 | | Alexander the Great succeeds to the throne. |
| 335 | | Destruction of Thebes. |
| 333 | | Battle of Issus—Damascus taken and Tyre besieged by Alexander. |
| 332 | The High Priest induces Alexander to spare Jerusalem. | Alexander, king of Epirus, in Italy. |
| 331 | Settlement of Jews at Alexandria. | |
| 330 | Onias, High Priest. | Battle of Arbela. |
| 323 | | Demosthenes' oration for the crown. |
| 322 | | Death of Alexander. |
| 322 | | Romans humiliated by the Samnites at the Caudine forks—Demosthenes and Aristotle die. |
| 320 | Ptolemy takes Jerusalem—Jewish settlements in Egypt and Cyrene. | |
| 315 | | Thebes rebuilt. |
| 314 | Palestine under Antigonos. | |
| 312 | Commencement of the Era of the Seleucidæ. | Appius Claudius, censor. |
| 300 | Simon I., the Just, High Priest. | |
| 298 | | Third Samnite war. |
| 292 | Eleazar, High Priest. | |
| 265 | | Commencement of the Punic wars. |
| 251 | Manasseh, High Priest. | |
| 241 | | End of the First Punic war. |
| 235 | | Temple of Janus closed for the first time since Numa. |
| 219 | Antiochus overruns Palestine. | Second Punic war. |
| 218 | | Hannibal crosses the Alps. |
| 217 | Ptolemy recovers Palestine, profanes the Temple, but is driven out supernaturally—He persecutes the Jews of Alexandria. | Battle of Trasimene. |
| 216 | | |
| 215 | | Battle of Cannæ. |
| 206 | | Chinese wall built. |
| 205 | The Jews submit to Antiochus, the Great—Are well treated at first. | Dynasty of Han in China. |
| 204 | | |
| 201 | | Scipio in Africa—Defeat of the Carthaginians. |
| 197 | Palestine and Cœle-Syria conquered by Antiochus the Great, and confirmed to him by the peace with Rome. | Peace with Carthage. |
| 187 | Attempt of Heliodorus to plunder the Temple. | |
| 183 | | Death of Hannibal and Scipio. |
| 175 | Onias III. degraded from the High Priesthood, which is sold to Jason. | |
| 171 | | Third Macedonian war. |
| 170 | Jerusalem taken by Antiochus Epiphanes—Great cruelties towards the Jews. | |
| 168 | Menelaus deposed—Massacre at Jerusalem—Beginning of the Machabæan war of independence. | End of the Macedonian kingdom. |
| 167 | Judas Machabæus defeats the Syrian Generals. | |
| 166 | Judas takes Jerusalem—Re-dedication of the Temple. | |
| 164 | Death of Antiochus—He is succeeded by Antiochus V., Eupator, who takes Bethsura and besieges Jerusalem—Peace with the Jews. | |
| 162 | Alcimus made High Priest—Judas calls on the Jews to resist. | |
| 161 | Victory of Adasa—Embassy to Rome—Death of Judas—Death of John Machabæus. | Alliance between Rome and Judæa. |
| 158 | Peace with Syria. | |
| 153 | Jonathan, High Priest. | Celtiberian war. |
| 149 | | Third Punic war. |
| 146 | Alliance with Demetrius, whose life Jonathan saves. | Destruction of Carthage. |
| 144 | Death of Jonathan. | |
| 141 | Tower of Sion taken—First year of Jewish freedom. | |
| 140 | Simon made hereditary prince of the Jews. | |
| 137 | John Hyrcanus, High Priest. | |
| 128 | Hyrcanus goes to Parthia with Antiochus, who is killed there—Judæa independent. | Death of Tiberias Gracchus. |
| 125 | Hyrcanus conquers the land east of Jordan. | |
| 121 | | Death of Caius Gracchus. |
| 109 | Hyrcanus destroys the Samaritan Temple on Mount Gerizim. | |

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE.—Continued.

| B. C. | JEWISH HISTORY. | CONTEMPORANEOUS EVENTS. |
|-------|---|---|
| 107 | Death of Hyrcanus—Aristobulus, High Priest, assumes the title of king. | Marius, First Consul. |
| 106 | Alexander Jannæus—Civil war. | Jugurtha taken—Cicero and Pompey born. |
| 105 | | Julius Cæsar born. |
| 100 | | Sylla, dictator. |
| 83 | Alexandra, queen of Judæa. | Defeat and death of Spartacus. |
| 78 | | |
| 71 | Hyrcanus II., king, deposed by his brother after 3 months—Succeeded by Aristobulus II.—Rise of Antipater. | Syria a Roman province. |
| 66 | Civil war between the rival brothers—Appeal to the Romans. | |
| 64 | Arbitration of Pompey. | Cicero, consul. |
| 63 | Pompey carries Jerusalem by assault—Judæa subject to Rome from this time. | |
| 57 | Alexander, son of Aristobulus II., makes war on Hyrcanus, but is defeated by Gabinius, Proconsul of Syria. | Cæsar's first descent on Britain. |
| 55 | Crassus at Jerusalem; plunders the Temple. | Second invasion of Britain. |
| 54 | Cassius enslaves 30,000 Jews, the partisans of Aristobulus. | |
| 49 | Cæsar releases Aristobulus, who is put to death by the Pompeians—Alexander put to death by Scipio at Antioch. | Cæsar crosses the Rubicon. |
| 48 | Antipater, first Roman Procurator of Judæa—Hyrcanus, Ethnarch. | Battle of Pharsalia—Death of Pompey. |
| 46 | Antipater appoints his sons Phasaël and Herod captains of Judæa and Galilee. | Reform of the Calendar. |
| 44 | Decree of Cæsar for re-fortifying Jerusalem. | Death of Cæsar. |
| 43 | Cassius plunders Jerusalem. | Death of Cicero. |
| 42 | Herod defeats Antigonus, and enters Jerusalem in triumph—Is reconciled to Hyrcanus, and betrothed to Mariamne. | Battle of Philippi—Death of Brutus and Cassius. |
| 40 | Herod appointed king by the Roman Senate. | Roman Empire divided—Octavian and Antony at Rome. |
| 37 | Herod takes Jerusalem on the day of atonement—Marries Mariamne—Death of Antigonus—End of the Asmonæan line—Annel made High Priest. | Renewal of the triumvirate for 5 years. |
| 36 | Herod compelled by Cleopatra to make Aristobulus High Priest. | Antony and Cleopatra. |
| 35 | Murder of Aristobulus. | |
| 34 | Herod appeases Antony by gifts—Antony gives Coele-Syria to Cleopatra. | |
| 31 | Herod defeats the Arabians—Dreadful earthquake in Judæa. | Battle of Actium. |
| 30 | Herod meets Octavian at Rome, and is confirmed in his kingdom. | Death of Antony and Cleopatra—Egypt a Roman province. |
| 29 | Herod puts Mariamne to death. | |
| 28 | Murder of Alexandra, mother of Mariamne. | The name of Augustus conferred upon Octavian. |
| 27 | | |
| 26 | Herod murders the last of the family of Hyrcanus—Introduces heathen games into Jerusalem. | |
| 24 | The dominions of Herod increased by the addition of Trachonitis, Batanea, and Auranitis—Sends his sons Alexander and Aristobulus to Rome. | Death of Marcellus. |
| 23 | Herod visits Agrippa at Mytilene. | Augustus Pontifex Maximus. |
| 21 | Herod rebuilds his palace—Founds Cæsarea. | |
| 20 | Rebuilding of the Temple. | |
| 17 | Completion of the Holy Place. | |
| 12 | Refuses the hand of Salome to the Arabian Syllæus. | |
| 10 | Herod opens David's tomb in search of treasure. | Augustus, Emperor of Rome. |
| 6 | Murder of Alexander and Aristobulus, Herod's sons by Mariamne—The Pharisees refuse the oath to Cæsar and Herod, and are fined. | |
| 4 | Birth of Christ, according to the common reckoning—Death of Herod. | |

MR. LEWIN'S SCHEME OF THE CHRONOLOGY OF OUR LORD'S LIFE.

MR. LEWIN'S SCHEME OF THE CHRONOLOGY OF OUR LORD'S LIFE.—Continued.

| | |
|--|--|
| A. D. 29 to A. D. 30 (Spring). Second Galilean Circuit : duration—four or five months. | Jesus retires to Ephraim, and thence to Cæsarea Philippi. |
| A. D. 30 (Spring). Third Galilean Circuit . April 22. The δευτερονῶτον σάββατον, i. e., the first Sabbath of the second month (Jyar) . | Return to Capharnaum. Tribute Money. |
| May 27. The Pentecost , this year on a Sabbath. The "Feast" of John v. | Passover, April 13. Beginning of our Lord's last circuit, occupying a year, and terminating at Jerusalem. |
| A. D. 30. Jesus returns to Galilee. Sermon on the Mount. Fourth Galilean Circuit . (Autumn). Return to Capharnaum. | (Autumn). The warning to flee out of Galilee. |
| A. D. 31 (about April). Death of John the Baptist. | A. D. 33 (Spring). The circuit resumed from West to East, along the borders of Samaria and Galilee, in the direction of Peræa, and so across the Jordan. |
| April 19 (10 of Nisan.) Feeding of the Five Thousand. | Recrosses the Jordan to Jericho. |
| April 21. The discourse of John vi.: on the Sabbath before the Passover. | Friday, March 27. Arrives at Bethany, six days before the Passover. |
| Sept. 20. Feast of Tabernacles (John vii. 1). | Saturday, March 28. Rest at Bethany on the Sabbath evening. Supper at the house of Simon. |
| Sept. 23 (about). Jesus reaches Jerusalem. | Palm Sunday, March 29. Jesus enters Jerusalem. |
| He withdraws, probably to Bethabara. | Monday, March 30—Thursday, April 2. As in our narrative. |
| Nov. 28 to Dec. 5. Feast of Dedication (John x). | Thursday, April 2—Evening. The Passover and Lord's Supper. |
| Jesus returned to Bethabara (John x. 31). | Good Friday, April 3. The Crucifixion. Jesus expires at 3 P. M. |
| A. D. 32 (Beginning). Death and raising of Lazarus. | Easter Sunday, April 5. The Resurrection. |
| | Thursday, May 14. The Ascension. |
| | Sunday, May 24. Day of Pentecost. |

TABLE SHOWING THE PRINCIPAL EVENTS IN THE LIFE OF ST. PAUL.

ACCORDING TO THE PRINCIPAL AUTHORITIES.

| CONYBEARE AND HOWSON. | LEWIN. | TABLE OF ST. PAUL'S LIFE |
|-----------------------|-------------------------|--|
| A. D. About 5 or 6. | A. D. About 11. | Birth of Saul at Tarsus. |
| 36. | 36 or 37. | Martyrdom of St. Stephen. |
| 37. | 37. | Conversion of St. Paul. |
| 39. | 39. | His first visit to Jerusalem. |
| | (Feast of Tabernacles.) | |
| 39-40. | 39-40. | Rest of the Jewish Churches. |
| 40. | 40. | Conversion of Cornelius. |
| 44. | 43. | Barnabas fetches Saul from Tarsus to Antioch. |
| 44. | 44. | Famine; and death of Herod Agrippa I. |
| 44 or 45. | 44. | Barnabas and Saul go to Jerusalem with the collection. (Paul's second visit.) |
| 48-49. | 45-46. | Paul's First Missionary Journey. |
| 50. | 48. | Paul and Barnabas go up to the council at Jerusalem. |
| | | Paul's third visit.* |
| 51. | 49. | Paul's Second Missionary Journey. |
| 52. | 52. | Paul arrives at Corinth, where he stays 18 months. |
| | (February.) | |
| 54. | 53. | Paul arrives at Jerusalem. |
| (Pentecost.) | (Tabernacles.) | His fourth visit.† |
| | | Winters at Antioch (Lewin). |
| 54. | 54. | Paul's Third Missionary Journey. |
| (Latter half.) | (Beginning.) | |
| 55. | 54. | He reaches Ephesus, where he stays three full years (Lewin). |
| 55-57. | (May.) | |
| 57. | 54-57. | Leaves Ephesus for Macedonia. |
| | (About Pentecost.) | |
| 57-58. | 57-58. | Winters at Corinth (three months). |
| 58. | 58. | Reaches Jerusalem at Pentecost. |
| | (March 27.) | Paul's fifth visit, and arrest in the Temple. |
| 58. | 58. | Imprisonment at Cæsarea. |
| 58-60. | (May 17.) | Festus succeeds Felix. |
| 60. | 58-60. | |
| | 60. | Paul sails for Rome. |
| 60. | (About Midsummer.) | |
| | (End of August.) | |
| 61. | (About Nov. 1.) | His shipwreck at Malta. |
| | 61. | Paul reaches Rome. |
| 63. | (Beginning of March.) | |
| | 61-63. | His first imprisonment (two years). |
| | 63. | On his release, Paul goes to Macedonia, and visits Antioch, Colossæ and Ephesus (L.). |
| 64-66. | 64. | (Lewin.) Paul, after visiting Crete, leaves Ephesus for Macedonia. |
| (In Spain?) | 64-5 | Winters at Nicopolis. |
| 67-8. | 65. | (Lewin.) Visits Dalmatia, and returns through Macedonia and Troas to Ephesus, where he is arrested and sent to Rome. |
| | | Martyrdom of St. Paul at Rome. |
| 68. | 66. | |
| (May or June.) | (June 29.) | |

* Mr. Lewin gives this latitude to the about thirty (ᾠσεν) of Luke iii. 23.

† Mr. Lewin's authority for this date is in the fact that Isaiah lxi. was the appointed lesson of the daily service about the Feast of Tabernacles, which in this year fell on October 11.

* Dr. Howson identifies this visit with that of Galatians ii., and places the collision with Peter at Antioch after it.

† Mr. Lewin identifies this visit with that of Galatians ii., and places the collision with Peter at Antioch after it.

| | |
|---|--|
| B. C. 6 (about Feb. 22). Birth of John the Baptist; the time of Elizabeth's conception being inferred from the calculation that the course of Abia went out of office on May 22, B. C. 7. | A. D. 29 (February). Baptism of Jesus. |
| B. C. 6 (about Aug. 1). THE NATIVITY OF JESUS CHRIST: nearly two years before the death of Herod (Matt. ii. 16). | Age 33.* |
| The Census under Sentius Saturninus, who displeased Varus before September 2, B. C. 6. | A. D. 29 (Feb. to March.) The Temptation. |
| B. C. 4. April 1. Death of Herod at Jericho. Return of the Holy Family from Egypt. | A. D. 29-A. D. 33. The Duration of Christ's Ministry, from Passover to Passover, four full years, in accordance with Luke xiii. 7. |
| A. D. 6. Banishment of Archelaus. Cyrenius, prefect of Syria. | A. D. 29. FIRST PASSOVER, ending April 2. |
| A. D. 7. Completion of the Census of Cyrenius. | Opening of our Lord's Ministry at Jerusalem. |
| CHRIST AT THE PASSOVER (April 9th). | Imprisonment of John. |
| A. D. 28 (about Aug. or Sept.). Preaching of John the Baptist, in the first year of the Sabbath cycle, in the sixth year of which our Lord's Ministry closed. | A. D. 29 (Autumn). Beginning of Christ's Ministry in Galilee. Its duration—three years and six months. |
| | First Circuit in Galilee, including (about October) his rejection at Nazareth.† |

KINGS AND PROPHETS OF JUDA AND ISRAEL, ARRANGED IN PARALLELS.

THREE KINGS OF ALL ISRAEL.

SAUL.....REIGNED 40 YEARS.....BEFORE CHRIST 1095.
 DAVID.....REIGNED 40 YEARS.....BEFORE CHRIST 1055.
 SOLOMON.....REIGNED 40 YEARS.....BEFORE CHRIST 1015.

| PROPHETS OF JUDA. | BEGAN TO REIGN. | YEARS REIGNED. | TWENTY KINGS OF JUDA. | BEFORE CHRIST. | NINETEEN KINGS OF ISRAEL. | YEARS REIGNED. | BEGAN TO REIGN. | PROPHETS OF ISRAEL. |
|---|-------------------|----------------|---|----------------|---------------------------|--|-----------------|-------------------------------------|
| Semeias | 3 Kings xii. 1 | 17 | ROBOAM..... | 975 | | | | |
| Adad..... | 3 Kings xv. 1 | 3 | ADAM, or Abijah..... | 957 | 974 | JEROBOAM..... | 22 | 1 Kings xii 20 |
| Azarias..... | 3 Kings xv. 9 | 41 | ASA..... | 955 | | | | Man of God from Juda. Ahijah. |
| Manani..... | | | | 954 | | NADAB..... | 2 | 4 Kings xiv. 20 |
| Jehu, son of Hanani..... | | | | 953 | | BAASA..... | 24 | 4 Kings xv. 16 |
| | | | | 930 | | ELAM..... | 2 | 4 Kings xvi. 6 |
| | | | | 929 | | ZAMBRI..... | 7 days. | 4 Kings xvi. 20 |
| | | | | | | AMRI..... | 12 | 4 Kings xvi. 16 |
| | | | | | | ACHAB..... | 22 | 4 Kings xvi. 28 |
| | 3 Kings xxii. 41 | 25 | JOSAPHAT..... | 914 | 918 | | | |
| Elizer..... | | | | 897 | | OCHOZIAS..... | 2 | 3 Kings xxii. 40 |
| Jehaziel..... | 4 Kings viii. 16 | 8 | JEHORAM, or Joram..... | 889 | 896 | JEHORAM, or Joram (son of Achab)..... | 12 | 4 Kings iii. 1 |
| | | | (Four years jointly with Josaphat, his father, and four years alone). | | | | | Eliseus. |
| | 4 Kings viii. 25 | 1 | OCHOZIAS, or Jehoahaz..... | 885 | | | | |
| | 4 Kings xi. 3 | 6 | ATHALIA..... | 884 | 884 | JEHU..... | 28 | 4 Kings ix. 6 |
| | 4 Kings xi. 21 | 40 | JOAS, or Joash..... | 878 | | | | |
| Zacharias, son of Borad..... | | | | | 856 | JOACHAZ..... | 17 | 4 Kings xiii. 1 |
| | 4 Kings xiv. 1 | 29 | ANAZIAS..... | 838 | 839 | JOAS..... | 16 | 4 Kings xiii. 10 |
| Zacharias..... | 4 Kings xiv. 21 | 52 | AZARIAH, or Ozias..... | 810 | 825 | JEROBOAM II..... | 41 | 4 Kings xiv. 22 |
| (who had under- standing in the visions of God, 2 Paral. xxvi. 5). | | | | | | | | |
| | | | | | 784 | Interregnum for eleven years | | |
| | | | | | 773 | ZACHARIAS..... | 6 mo. | 4 Kings xv. 8 |
| | | | | | 772 | SALLUM..... | 1 mo. | 4 Kings xv. 13 |
| | | | | | 772 | MENAHEN..... | 10 | 4 Kings xv. 17 |
| | | | | | 761 | PHACEJAH..... | 2 | 4 Kings xv. 23 |
| | | | | | 759 | PHACEE..... | 20 | 4 Kings xv. 27 |
| Isaias..... | 4 Kings xv. 32 | 16 | JOTHAM..... | 758 | | | | |
| Micheas..... | 4 Kings xvi. 1 | 16 | ACHAZ..... | 742 | | | | |
| | | | | | 739 | OSEA kills PHACEE..... | | |
| | | | | | 730 | Anarchy for some years..... | | |
| | | | | | | OSEA settled in the kingdom | 9 | 4 Kings xvii. 1 |
| Nahum..... | 4 Kings xviii. 1 | 29 | EZECHIAS..... | 726 | | | | |
| | | | | | 721 | The Kingdom of Israel overthrown by the Assyrians. Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, came up against Samaria in the sixth year of the reign of Osea (B. C. 724), and after a siege of three years took the city, carried Israel away into Assyria, and having removed them to the cities of Halah and Habor, by the river Gozan, and into the cities of the Medes, he placed Assyrians in the cities of Samaria in their room. | | |
| Joel..... | 4 Kings xxi. 1 | 55 | MANASSES..... | 698 | | | | |
| Jeremias..... | 4 Kings xxi. 19 | 2 | AMON..... | 643 | | | | |
| Habacuc..... | 4 Kings xxii. 1 | 31 | JOSIAS..... | 641 | | | | |
| Sophonias..... | 4 Kings xxiii. 30 | 3 mo. | JEHOIAH, or Sallum..... | 610 | | | | |
| Ezechiel..... | 4 Kings xxiii. 34 | 11 | JOAKIM..... | 610 | | | | |
| Daniel..... | 4 Kings xxiv. 8 | 3 mo. | JOAKIM, or Jeconias, or Coniah..... | 599 | | | | |
| Abdias..... | 4 Kings xxiv. 18 | 12 | SEDECIAS..... | 599 | | | | |
| | | | Judas carried captive to Babylon..... | 588 | | | | |
| | | | GOVERNORS OF JERUSALEM AFTER THE CAPTIVITY. | | | | | |
| Aggeus..... | | | ZOROBABEL..... | 546 | | | | |
| Zacharias..... | | | ESDRAS..... | 457 | | | | |
| Malachias..... | | | NEHEMIAS..... | 445 | | | | |

NOTE.—The glory of Israel ended with the reign of Solomon. The kingdom was thenceforth dismembered. Ten Tribes, of which Ephraim was chief, separated and formed the Kingdom of Israel. Juda and Benjamin alone remained faithful to the house of David. Most of the Levites and many out of the other tribes who feared God (2 Paral. xi. 13–36) adhered to Juda. Jeroboam, the first king of Israel, knew why Solomon had been rejected, and yet he established a system of idolatry at Dan and Bethel. The people shared his feelings, and ever afterward idolatry became a part of the national religion. All the kings of Israel were depraved, and the nation copied the conduct of their kings, refusing all reproof. At the captivity the land was settled by people from the region of Tigris and Euphrates. A cloud of mystery has ever since hung over the fate of the ten tribes.

Very different were the destinies of Juda. Of twenty kings, all descendants of David, who for 388 years held the throne, six are mentioned with great praise—Asa, Josaphat, Ozias, Joatham, Ezechias, and Josias—while others are commended. Others were fearfully wicked—Joram, Achaz, Manasses, and Amon—introducing idolatrous worship into the temple itself, and filling Jerusalem with blood. After the captivity of Juda, the country was not colonized, thus leaving the land free for the people to return. Thus, while prophets warned, and while threatened judgments were disregarded, the solemn lesson was displayed that when men and nations voluntarily choose evil and reject counsel, they prepare themselves for the retributions that necessarily follow in the Divine government.

JEWISH OBSERVANCES.

THE SABBATH.—Signifies rest. Observed every seventh day.
 FEAST OF THE NEW MOON.—Marked the completion of the Lunar month.
 SABBATICAL MONTH.—The seventh of the Sacred Year, but the first of the Civil.
 FEAST OF TRUMPETS.—New Year's Day. Ushered in by blowing of trumpets.
 SABBATICAL YEAR.—Each seventh day and month and year were holy. The land rested and creditors and slaves were released.
 YEAR OF JUBILEE.—Every fiftieth year.
 THE PASSOVER.—Lasted for seven days, from the 14th to 21st of Nisan. A memorial of the Nation's birth and typical of Christ.

PENTECOST, OR FEAST OF WEEKS.—A supplement to the Passover, lasting one day.
 FEAST OF TABERNACLES.—A harvest Home, or Thanksgiving time, lasting seven days.
 DAY OF ATONEMENT.—A day of humiliation and fasting. Observed five days before the Feast of Tabernacles.
 FEAST OF PURIM.—An annual feast to commemorate the preservation of the Jews in Persia.
 FEAST OF DEDICATION.—A rededication of the Temple after the expulsion of the Syrians by Judas Maccabæus.

TIZIANO V. CELL. PINX.

J.D. SCHULZ. SC.

THE ASSUMPTION.

AN ILLUSTRATED AND COMPREHENSIVE CATHOLIC BIBLE DICTIONARY, BASED ON THE WORKS OF CALMET, DIXON, AND OTHER CATHOLIC AUTHORS, AND ADAPTED TO
 THE ENGLISH VERSION FIRST PUBLISHED AT RHEIMS AND DOUAY,
 AS REVISED
 BY THE VEN. RICHARD CHALLONER.
 AND GENERALLY APPROVED BY THE CATHOLIC HIERARCHY.
 EMBELLISHED WITH APPROPRIATE ILLUSTRATIONS AND MAPS.

Entered, according to Act of Congress, in the year 1884, in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.

AARON, son of Amram and Jo-chabed, and great-grandson of Levi (Ex. vi. 20); born 1570 B. C., and older brother of Moses (Ex. vii. 7). When God appeared to Moses in the burning bush, he directed him to put his words in the mouth of Aaron, who had come to meet him (Ex. iv. 15; vii. 1); he goes with Moses to Pharaoh, and is associated with him in delivering the children of Israel (Ex. v. 1; vi. 13; Mich. vi. 4); works signs before the people (Ex. iv. 30); casts his rod before Pharaoh, and it is turned into a serpent (Ex. vii. 9, 10); which devours those of the magicians (12); turns water into blood (Ex. vii. 20); brings the plague of frogs upon Egypt (Ex. viii. 8); brings the sciniphs upon Egypt (17); associated with Moses in freeing the people (Ex. vii. 11); (Ex. xii.); preserves some of the manna in a vessel (Ex. xvi. 34); holds up the arms of Moses, during the battle with Amalec (Ex. xvii. 12); ordered to go up Moses (Levit. viii.); offers sacrifices for the people and blesses them, (ix); Nadab and Abiu for offering incense when not commanded destroyed by fire

THE PIETA. OUR LORD IN THE ARMS OF HIS BLESSED MOTHER.

Mount Sinai with Moses (Ex. xix. 24; xxiv. 1); remains with the people while Moses abides on the mountain (Ex. xxiv. 14); though selected for the priesthood by God, he makes a golden calf and altar for its worship (Ex. xxxii. 1-6); rebuked by Moses (21); selected for the priesthood by God, with his sons Nadab and Abiu, Eleazar and Ithamar (Ex. xxviii. 1; Num. iii. 9; Deut. xviii. 5; Heb. v. 4); God's perpetual covenant with him and his sons (Ex. xxix. 44; Eccles. xlv. 19); the priestly vestments of Aaron and his sons instituted by God himself (Ex. xxviii. 1-43); made by Moses (Ex. xxxix. 1-30, 41); blessed by Moses (43); ritual for the consecration of Aaron prescribed by God (Ex. xxix. 1-35); consecrated by

(Lev. x. 1, 2); Aaron forbidden to mourn for his sons (6); Core, Dathan, Abiron and Hon, swallowed up for attempting to usurp the priesthood (Num. xvi.); the priesthood confirmed to Aaron by the blooming of his rod (xvii. 1-8); the miraculous rod preserved in the tabernacle by God's order (10); commanded to abstain from wine (Lev. x. 9); share of Aaron and the other priests and Levites in the sacrifices (12); Levites give tithes to the priests (Num. xviii.); incredulity of Aaron at the waters of contradiction, for which God excludes him from the promised land (Num. xx. 12, 24); Moses by command of God takes the insignia of the high-priesthood from Aaron at Mount Hor, and vests Eleazar with them (26, 28); Aaron dies on Mount Hor, aged 123 (xx. 24-30; xxxiii. 38); praised (Ecclus. xlv. 7); the priesthood not to be assumed by any man unless he is called by God as Aaron was (Heb. v. 4).

THE HIGH-PRIEST IN HIS VESTMENTS.

AARONITES, the descendants of Aaron (1 Paral. xxvii. 17).

ABAD'DON (the Destroyer), the Hebrew name of the king, the angel of the bottomless pit, who was over the locusts, after the fifth angel sounded his trumpet (Apoc. ix. 10, 11).

ABA'NA, one of the rivers of Damascus (4 Kings v. 12), apparently the Barrady, which rises in Mount Libanus, runs through Damascus and is lost in a marsh in the desert.

AB'ARON, a surname of Eleazar, brother of Judas Machabeus (1 Mac. ii. 5).

AB'ARIM, a mountain in Moab, facing Jericho, from which Moses beheld the promised land just before his death (Num. xxvii. 12, 14; Deut. xxxii. 49-52).

AB'BA, the Syriac word for Father; used by our Lord in the prayer in the garden (Mark xiv. 36); St. Paul says we utter it by the spirit of Christ in our hearts to show our adoption as sons (Rom. viii. 15; Gal. iv. 6).

AB'BITAL, one of the wives of David, and mother of Saphathia (2 Kings iii. 4).

AB'DEME'LECH, an Ethiopian eunuch in the palace of king Sedecias. He speaks to the king in favor of Jeremias, and delivers the prophet from the pit (Jerem. xxxviii. 7-13); God rewards his work of mercy by announcing that he shall be delivered from the hands of the Chaldees (Jerem. xxxix. 16-18).

ABDENA'GO, the Chaldean name given by the master of the Eunuchs to Azarias, the companion of the prophet Daniel (Dan. i. 7). One of the youths of royal or princely race selected as attendants of king Nabuchodonosor (Dan. i. 3); abstained from forbidden food (14, 15); his wisdom (19, 20); set over the works of the province of Babylon (ii. 49; iii. 12); refuses to worship the heathen gods, or the statue of the king (iii. 12); his reply to the king (16-18); condemned to be thrown into the furnace (20); his prayer in the midst of the fire (25-45); saved by an angel (49); the canticle of the three (52-90); ordered by Nabuchodonosor to come forth (93); not a hair singed or garments altered (94); promoted by the king (97).

ABDI'AS, governor of king Achab's house, and a man who feared God (3 Kings xviii. 3). In the time of Jezabel he concealed one hundred prophets in caves, and fed them on bread and water (4); sent by Achab to seek pasture, meets Elias, and bears his message to the king (7-16).

ABDI'AS (the servant of the Lord), the fourth of the twelve minor prophets (called in the King James' Bible and by Protestants generally Obadi'ah). He is believed to have prophesied in the time of Osee, Joel and Amos (588-583 B. C.). His prophecy contains only one chapter, and foretells the destruction of Edom, and the return of the Jews from captivity. Abd.

THE ALTAR OF INCENSE.

AB'DON, son of Illel of the tribe of Ephraim, was the tenth of the Judges of Israel (Judg. xii. 13). He succeeded Ahialon (2840 B. C.), and judged Israel eight years. He was buried at Pharathon (15).

AB'DON. See ACHOBOR.

AB'DON, a city in the tribe of Aser (Jos. xxi. 30); allotted to the Levites of the family of Gerson (1 Paral. vi. 74).

A'BEL, second son of Adam and Eve. Cain tilled the earth, and Abel had flocks of sheep. Each offered sacrifice to God. The Almighty accepted the sacrifice of Abel, a lamb of his flock, which was offered with a lively faith (Heb. xi. 4) and ardent charity, but he rejected that of Cain. Abel was then persuaded to go into the fields by Cain, who rose up against him and slew him (Gen. iv. 2-8). Our Lord calls Abel the just, and places him as the first of the martyrs (Matt. xxiii. 35; Luke xi. 51). His blood cried to heaven for vengeance (Gen. iv. 10); and St. Paul makes a comparison between it and that of Jesus (Heb. xii. 24).

THE SACRIFICE OF ABEL.

A'BEL or ABELA, a town east of the Jordan in the half tribe of Manasses (Judg. xi. 33).

A'BEL, house of Ma'acha or Abela and Beth Ma'acha, a town in the tribe of Nephthali north of Damascus, between Libanus and Anti-Libanus; besieged by Joab (2 Kings xx. 14-18); taken by Benadad, king of Syria (3 Kings xv. 20); and by Theglathphalasar (4 Kings xv. 29). Called also Abel-maim (2 Paral. xvi. 4), and Abilina (Luke iii. 1).

A'BELME'HULA or A'BELME'ULA, a town in the valley of the Jordan. Near it Gedeon defeated the Midianites (Judg. vii. 23); placed by Solomon under the government of Bana (3 Kings iv. 12); the birthplace of the prophet Eliseus (3 Kings xix. 16).

A'BELSATIM, a place in the plains of the Moabites, to which the camp of Israel extended (Num. xxxiii. 49). Here the Israelites fell into fornication and idolatry (xxv. 1).

A'BENBOEN (the Stone of Boen), an enormous rock between Juda and Benjamin (Jos. xviii. 18).

ABES'ALOM, ambassador of Judas Machabeus to Lysias, general of the army of Antiochus Eupator (2 Mac. xi. 17).

AB'ESAN, of the tribe of Juda, the eighth of the Judges of Israel. He was of Bethlehem; he succeeded Jephthe, governed seven years and was buried in Bethlehem (1170 B. C.; Judges xii. 8, 9).

ABI or ABI'A, daughter of Zacharias, the high-priest, and mother of Ezechias, king of Juda (4 Kings xviii. 2; 2 Paral. xxix. 1).

ABI'A, second son of Samuel, abuses his power so that the people asked for a king (1 Kings viii. 1-6).

ABI'A, ABI'AM or ABI'AS, son of Roboam, king of Juda, by Maacha. He succeeded his father (958 B. C.). He marched against Jeroboam, and was nearly defeated by him but delivered by God. He wrested several cities from Jeroboam. Abia reigned three years, and imitated the wickedness of his father (3 Kings xiv. 31; xv. 1-8; 2 Paral. xiii. 1-22; 1 Paral. iii. 10; Matt. i. 7).

ABI'A, a descendant of Eleazar, son of Aaron, and prince or head of the eighth of the twenty-four courses into which David divided the priests (1 Paral. xxiv. 10); Zachary, father of St. John the Baptist, belonged to this course (Luke i. 5).

ABI'ATHAR or ACHIM'ELECH, tenth high-priest of the Jews. He escapes from the massacre of the priests under Saul and joined David (1 Kings xxii. 20; xxiii. 6). He remained with him as high-priest, while Saul schismatically set up Sadoc (1 Paral. vi. 53). In the reign of Solomon Abiathar espoused the cause of Adonias (3 Kings i. 7); and was deprived of the high priesthood and banished to Anathoth by Solomon (3 Kings ii. 26); as had been foretold by the high-priest Heli (1 Kings ii. 32).

AB'IDAN, prince of the tribe of Benjamin when the Israelites left Egypt (Num. i. 11; x. 24); like the other princes he made offerings for the tabernacle (vii. 60-65).

A'BIEL, grandfather of Saul (1 Kings ix. 1).

ABIE'ZER, of the tribe of Benjamin, one of David's bravest champions, commanding 24,000 men (1 Paral. xi. 28; xxvii. 12).

ABIE'ZER, son of Ga-laad, and also called Jeser (Num. xxvi. 30; Jos. xvii. 2); his house was the first to join Gedeon, when he sounded the trumpet for the war against the Madianites (Judg. vi. 34).

AB'IGAIL, wife of the impious Nabal of Carmel, appeases David (1 Kings xxv. 14-36); becomes his wife after Nabal's death (40-42); and bore him a son, Cheleab or Daniel (2 Kings iii. 3; 1 Paral. iii. 1).

AB'IGAIL, sister of David, wife of Jether and mother of Amasa (1 Par. ii. 16, 17; 2 Kings xvii. 25).

ABILI'NA, a little province in Cælo-Syria, between Libanus and Anti-Libanus, of which Lysinius was tetrarch (Luke iii. 1).

ABIM'AEL, son of Jectan (Gen. x. 28; 1 Paral. i. 22); generally regarded as the progenitor of an Arabian race.

ABIM'ELECH, king of Gerara, in the country of the Philistines, struck by the beauty of Sara, whom Abraham had represented as his sister, sought to marry her, but God threatened him with death, and struck his house with sterility, but cured them at the prayer of Abraham. Abimelech gave Sara a thousand pieces of silver for a veil, and allowed Abraham to settle many parts of his kingdom (Gen. xx.); he subsequently formed an alliance with Abraham (xxi. 22-34), 1801 B. C.

ABIM'ELECH, king of the Palestines at Gerara (Gen. xxvi. 1); receives Isaac, but finding that he grew too powerful asked him to depart (16); he afterwards makes an alliance with him (26-31).

ABIM'ELECH, son of Gedeon by a concubine, seized the government on his father's death, and was recognized at Sichem as king (Judg. ix. 6) or judge of Israel. He reigned three years over Israel (ix. 22); he put sixty-nine of his brothers to death

AB'IRON, son of Eliab, of the tribe of Ruben, conspires with Core and Dathan against Moses and Aaron to usurp the priesthood, and is swallowed up by the earth with all his accomplices (Num. xvi.; xxvi. 8-11; Deut. xi. 6; Ps. cv. 17, 18; Ecclus. xlv. 22-24).

AB'ISAG, a native of Sunam in the tribe of Issachar, and exceedingly beautiful. David marries her, but does not know her (3 Kings i. 3, 4); after David's death Adonias asked her for his wife, on which account Solomon put him to death (ii. 17).

ABISA'I, son of Sarvia, sister of David. He was one of the bravest men of his time, and one of the highest generals of David's armies. He saved David's life by killing Jesbibeob, a giant of the race of the Rephaim (2 Kings xxi. 16); David prevented his killing Saul when they were in his tent (1 Kings xxvi. 9); he would have killed Semei, but for David (2 Kings xvi. 9-12); he aided in overthrowing Isboseth (2 Kings ii. 18, 24); defeated the Edomites in the valley of the salt-pits, killing 18,000 and making them tributary to David (2 Kings viii. 13, 14; 1 Paral. xviii. 12, 13); was sent against the Ammonites (2 Kings x. 10; 2 Paral. xix. 11); he commanded a division of David's army against Absalom (2 Kings xviii. 2); and was sent against Seba (xx. 6); he is said to have killed 300 enemies with his lance (2 Kings xxiii. 18, 19; 1 Paral. xi. 20, 21).

ABISU'E, son of Phinees (1 Paral. vi. 4, 50; Esd. vii. 5), and fourth high-priest.

ABIU, son of the high-priest Aaron and Elizabeth, was destroyed with his brother Nadab by fire coming out from the Lord, for offering strange fire before the Lord (Levit. x. 1, 2; xvi. 1; Num. iii. 4; xxvi. 61).

ABI'UD, son of Zorobabel, one of the ancestors of Christ according to the flesh (Matt. i. 13).

AB'NER, son of Ner, general of Saul's armies, preserved the crown for Isboseth and maintained him for seven years over eleven tribes against David, who reigned at Hebron (2 Kings ii. 8); defeated at the Pool of Gabaon by Joab (17); kills Asael, brother of Joab (23); Isboseth having offended him (iii. 7, 8) he went over to David (12-21); but was treacherously slain by Joab (27); David showed great grief, and made a touching lamentation over him (33).

ABOM'INATION. Shepherds were an abomination to the Egyptians (Gen. xlv. 34); and Moses calls cattle and sheep abominations of the Egyptians (Ex. viii. 26).

ABOM'INATION means also all criminal

ST. TIMOTHY READING THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

(ix. 5); he defeated Gaal and destroyed the town of Sichem (ix. 39-45); but was killed under the tower of Thebes by a woman who threw a millstone down on his head (53; 2 Kings xi. 21).

ABIN'ADAB, a Levite, receives the ark of the covenant from the hands of the Philistines (1 Kings vii. 1); it remained in his house at Gabaa, a height near Cariathiarim, till David removed it (2 Kings vi. 3).

ABI'RAM, son of Hiel of Bethel, who attempted to rebuild Jericho, notwithstanding Josue's curse (Jos. vi. 26); he lost his eldest son Abiram when he laid the foundation, and his youngest Segub when he set up the gates (3 Kings xvi. 34).

actions (Lev. xviii. 22, 25, 29; Isai. xli. 24; lxvi. 3; Jerem. vi. 15; vii. 10; Ezech. v. viii.; Mal. ii. 11; 1 Mac. i. 51; Apoc. xxi. 27); idolatry (Deut. xii. 31; 2 Paral. xxxiii. 2; Apoc. xvii. 4, 5; an idol, or false god (Deut. xxix. 17; 4 Kings xxiii. 13; Ezech. vii. 20; Eccles. xlix. 3; Zach. ix. 7).

ABOMINATION of Desolation, foretold by Daniel (xi. 31), means according to the best commentators the idol of Jupiter Olympius placed in the temple of Jerusalem by Antiochus Epiphanes (1 Mac.

ABRAHAM'S OAK AT HEBRON.

vi. 7; 2 Mac. vi. 2); that in Dan. ix. 27 refers to the profanation of the temple before the capture by Titus (see Matt. xxiv. 15); that in Dan. xii. 11, to the time of antichrist.

A'BRAM, afterwards called A'braham, called by God to be the founder of his chosen people. He was a descendant of Sem and son of Thare (Gen. xi. 10-32); he was born in Ur of the Chaldees (xi. 26-31); he was called by God to leave his country and kindred and go into Chanaan, God promising that in him all the kindreds of the earth should be blessed (Gen. xii. 1-3); he set out with his wife Sarai and his nephew Lot, and entered Chanaan, but was forced by a famine to go into Egypt (xii. 10); but returned to Chanaan (xiii.); he rescued Lot and his flocks from the four kings (xiv. 14-16); and was blessed by Melchisedech, king of Salem, priest of the Most High God, to whom he paid tithes (xiv. 18-20); his wife had been barren, but God promised him seed more numerous than the stars (Gen. xv. 5); and God made a covenant with him (xv. 18; xvii. 2); and changed his name to Abraham, establishing circumcision as a sign of the covenant (10-14); the birth of his son Isaac by Sara was foretold, and the prophecy was renewed by three angels who visited him in the vale of Mambre (xvii. 19; xviii. 10); when they announced the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah Abraham interceded for the guilty cities (Gen. xviii. 17-33); he then removed to Gerara, where Abimelech, the king, wished to take Sara as a wife (Gen. xx.); after the birth of Isaac, he sent off Agar and Ismael his son by her (Gen. xxi.); he made a league with Abimelech and sojournd for a long time in the land of the Palestines (Gen. xxi. 22-34); his faith and obedience were proved by his readiness to sacrifice his son Isaac at the command of God. As he put forth his hand to sacrifice his son, his hand was stayed by an angel. God again blessed him and renewed the promise that in his seed all the nations of the earth should be blessed (Gen. xxii. 1-19; 1 Mac. ii. 52); his wife Sara died at Arbee or Hebron, and he buried her in a cave which he purchased of the children of Heth (Gen. xxiii.); not wishing Isaac to marry any of the Chanaanites, he sent his servant to Mesopotamia to obtain Rebecca, granddaughter of his brother Nachor (Gen. xxiv.) He died at the age of 175, and was buried by his sons in the cave beside Sara (Gen. xxv. 9); Abraham had children by Cetura, whom he married after Sara's death (Gen. xxv. 1-4). Abraham is proposed as a model (Eccles. xlv. 20; Isai. li. 2); called the friend of God (2 Paral. xx. 7; Isai. xli. 8; James ii. 23); called the father of many nations and of all who believe (Gen. xvii. 5; Matt. iii. 9; Luke xix. 9; John viii. 39; Rom. iv. 11, 17); as to his posterity, see Jos. xxiv. 3; Isai. xli. 8; Ezech. xxxiii. 24; 2 Esd. ix. 7; Matt. viii. 11; Acts vii. 2, 16; Heb. xi. 17; who are his true children (John viii. 33; Rom. ix. 9; Gal. iii. 7). Jesus Christ the seed of Abraham in whom all the nations are blessed (Matt. i. 1, 2).

AB'SALOM, son of David by Maacha, daughter of Tholomai, king of Gessur. He had a sister Tamar, who was violated by her half-brother Amnon (2 Kings xiii. 1-19); in revenge Absalom caused Amnon to be killed by his servants at a sheep-shearing in Baalhasor, after which he fled to Gessur, where he remained three years (2 Kings xiii. 22-38), till Joab procured his pardon from David, when he returned, but for two years David would not see him (2 Kings xiv.) Immediately after his reconciliation he sought to ingratiate himself with which twenty thousand were slain (xviii. 7); Absalom fleeing from the field, caught by his head in a tree and was slain by Joab (14), contrary to David's orders (5); Absalom was buried in a pit, although he had erected a tomb for himself (17, 18); David mourned bitterly for his rebellious son (xviii. 33; xix. 4).

ABSTINENCE from articles of food is repeatedly enjoined in the Bible. God forbade Adam and Eve to eat the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil (Gen. ii. 17; iii. 11); the eating of flesh with its blood is forbidden in Gen. ix. 4; Deut. xii. 16, and in Acts xv. 29; the paschal lamb was not to be eaten raw or boiled (Ex. xii. 9); the use of leaven was forbidden during the pasch (xiii. 7); the flesh of an ox that had killed a man was not to be eaten (xxi. 28); no animal which had been partly eaten by wild beasts could be used (xxii. 31); the flesh of animals dying of themselves was forbidden (Lev. xxii. 8; Deut. xiv. 21); the flesh of a sacrifice or the bread offered with it could not be eaten on the following day (Ex. xxix. 34; Levit. vii. 18; xix. 7); nor sin-offerings (vi. 30); the flesh of all animals that had not the hoof cloven and that did not chew the cud was forbidden (Lev. xi.; Deut. xiv. 7); certain fish and birds forbidden (Deut. xiv. 9-18); consecrated things were not to be eaten by a person legally unclean (Lev. xxii. 3); nor out of the holy place (Num. xviii. 10); certain loaves were not to be eaten except by the priests (Lev. xxiv. 9; Matt. xii. 4); Nazarites could not drink wine or eat any product of the vineyard (Num. vi. 1-3); priests were forbidden to drink wine (Lev. x. 9; Ezech. xlv. 21); also the Rechabites (Jer. xxxv. 6); Tobias would eat nothing defiled (Tob. i. 12); nor Judith (Jud. xii. 2); nor Daniel and his companions (Dan. i. 8); nor the Machabees (2 Mac. vii. 1); Eleazar preferred to die rather than seem to violate the law (2 Mac. vi. 18); the abstinence of St. John the Bap-

THE PORT OF ACRE.

the people, and acquired popularity by his beauty and pomp. At last he asked his father's permission to go and fulfil a vow in Hebron (xv. 7), and immediately set up a revolt, proclaiming himself king (10-13); David fled from Jerusalem, which Absalom entered, taking possession of his father's harem (xv., xvi.); after being solemnly anointed king (xix. 10) he marched across the Jordan to attack his father, but was defeated in the forest of Ephraim in a battle in tist (Luke i. 15); lawful food to be abstained from, so as not to scandalize others (2 Mac. vi. 24; vii. 1, 2; Rom. xiv. 20, 21; 1 Cor. viii. 13).

AC'CARON, a town of the Philistines, refuses to receive the ark (1 Kings v. 10); Beelzebub worshipped there (4 Kings i. 2, 3); its destruction foretold (Jerem. xxv. 20; Amos i. 8; Soph. ii. 4); given to Jonathan Machabeus by Alexander Bales (1 Mac. x. 89).

AC'CHO, a seaport, in the tribe of Aser, north of Carmel and near the mouth of the river Belus (Judg. i. 31); it was captured, but the inhabitants were spared. Some identify it with Axaph (Jos. xix. 25); in the time of the Machabees it was called Ptolemais (1 Mac. v.; 2 Mac. xiii.) It is the modern Ac'ce.

AC'COS, the prince or chief of the seventh course of priests established by David (1 Paral. xxiv. 10); his descendants unable to prove their genealogy were excluded by Esdras (1 Esd. ii. 61, 62; 2 Esd. vii. 63).

AC'CUB, a Levite (1 Paral. iii. 24); one of the porters of the temple appointed by David (1 Paral. ix. 17); one of his descendants who returned from the captivity with Zerobabel (1 Esd. ii. 42; 2 Esd. vii. 46), was also called Ac'cub, who was chief porter (2 Esd. xi. 19); who read the scriptures to the people (2 Esd. viii. 7-9).

A'CHAB, son of Amri, seventh king of Israel, reigned B. C. 918-896; he married Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, king of Sidon, and built a temple to Baal, where he worshipped that false god (3 Kings xvi. 28-33); he permits Jezebel to slay the prophets (xviii. 4); his kingdom is punished by a drought, from which the prophet Elias delivered it after confounding the priests of Baal by a miracle (xviii. 5-46); he twice defeated and at last captured Benadad, king of Syria, who had besieged Samaria (xx.); in order to obtain the vineyard of Naboth as grounds for his ivory palace (3 Kings xxii. 39) he countenanced Jezebel's murdering him and his sons (3 Kings xxi. 4 Kings ix. 26), for which Elias denounced against him the vengeance of God (3 Kings xxi. 18-24); on his repentance the execution of the sentence was deferred (29); believing the false prophets rather than Micheas, he with Josaphat, king of Juda, attacked Ramoth-Galaad, then held by the Syrians (3 Kings xxii. 1-29); although he disguised himself, a chance arrow gave him a mortal wound, of which he died that day (30-35); his blood ran down into his chariot, and was licked up by dogs as the prophet Elias had foretold (3 Kings xxii. 38; xxi. 19).

A'CHAB, a false prophet who seduced the Israelites at Babylon (Jerem. xxix. 21, 22).

A'CHAD, a city built by Nemrod (Gen. x. 10).

ACHA'IA, a Roman province including the Peloponnesus and most of Hellas. This province and that of Macedonia in the New Testament comprise the whole of Greece. In the reign of Claudius it was governed by Gallio as proconsul (Acts xviii. 12). St. Paul preached in this province at Corinth, and was opposed by the Jews (Acts xviii. 12, 27); a fervent church was formed (Rom. xv. 26; 2 Cor. ix. 2); St. Paul took nothing from them for his support (xi. 9, 10); he addresses his second epistle to the Corinthians to all the faithful in Achaia (i. 1).

ACHA'ICUS, a disciple of St. Paul, whom the apostle commends to the Corinthians. He was one of those who carried the first Epistle of St. Paul to them A. D. 56 (1 Cor. xvi. 15, 17).

A'CHAN (or A'char, 1 Paral. ii. 7), son of Charmi of the tribe of Juda, through covetousness kept some of the spoils of Jericho contrary to the commandment of God (Jos. vi. 17; vii. 1). In consequence the Israelites were defeated at Hai (vii. 5). The sin was traced to Achan (18); who confessed his sin (20, 21); and was stoned with all his family, and all his possessions burned up in the valley of Achor.

A'CHAZ, eleventh king of Juda, son of Joatham, reigned 742-726 B. C. He was besieged in Jerusalem by Rasin, king of Syria, and Phacee, king of Israel (4 Kings xvi. 5; 2 Paral. xxviii.; Isai. vii. 1), and lost the port of Aila, on the Red Sea, and 200,000 of his people (2 Paral. xxviii. 8). In his distress he invoked the aid of Theglathphalasar, king of Assyria, sending him a large amount of treasure (2 Paral. xxviii. 21). Theglathphalasar took Damascus, killed Rasin, and carried off the people as captives. Achaz went to meet the conqueror in Damascus. Although the prophet Isaias foretold him from God the destruction of his enemies, and announced the birth of Emmanuel by a virgin mother (Isai. vii.), Achaz destroyed the sacred vessels, closed the temple (2 Paral. xxviii. 24, 25; 4 Kings xvi. 14, 17), and set up heathen altars, where he offered sacrifice (4 Kings xvi. 10, 15; 2 Paral. xxviii. 22, 23, 25). He died in Jerusalem, but was not buried in the sepulchre of the kings (2 Paral. xxviii. 27).

ACH'AZIB, a town in the tribe of Aser, and spared by that tribe (Judg. i. 31).

ACHI'AS, son of the high-priest Achitob, and his successor (1 Kings xiv. 3). During a battle with the Philistines he was ordered by Saul to bring forth the Ark of the Lord (18).

ACH'IMAAS, son of the high-priest Sadoc, announces to David the defeat of Absalom (2 Kings xviii. 19).

ACH'IMAAS, husband of Basemath, Solomon's daughter, was governor over Nephthali (3 Kings iv. 15).

ACH'IMAN, a giant of the race of Enac, lived at Hebron when the spies were sent into the land of Chanaan (Num. xiii. 23).

ACHIM'ELECH, son of Achitob, succeeded his brother Achias as high-priest. He resided at Nobe, where the tabernacle then was. When David fled from Saul, Achimelech gave him the loaves of proposition and the sword of Goliath (1 Kings xxi. 1-9); Saul summoned Achimelech before him, and though the high-priest averred that he supposed David to be a faithful servant of the king, Saul ordered him and all his father's house to be put to death. As the Israelites would not slay the priests, Doeg the Edomite killed eighty-five priests and destroyed Nobe (xxii. 9-19). His son Abi'athar escaped (20); Achim'elech himself is called Abi'athar (Mark ii. 26).

ACHIM'ELECH, a Hethite, one of David's officers (1 Kings xxvi. 6).

ACHINO'AM, a Jezraelitess, wife of David, and mother of Amnon, his first-born (1 Kings xxv. 43; 2 Kings iii. 2; 1 Paral. iii. 1). She was with him at Geth (1 Kings xxvii. 3); and at Hebron (2 Kings ii. 2). She was captured by the Amalecites in Siceleg (1 Kings xxx. 1-5); but was rescued by David (18).

A'CHIOR, of the tribe of Nephthali, captive in Ninive, relative of Tobias (Tob. xi. 20).

A'CHIOR, chief of the Ammonites, warns Holofernes not to attack the Israelites unless they had offended God (Jud. v. 5-25); but was by orders of that general bound hand and foot to a tree near Bethulia (vi. 9); he was taken into the town by the Israelites, and told them of the threats of Holofernes (12, 13); when Judith returned with the head of Holofernes, he blessed her (xiii. 31); and renouncing his idolatry, believed in God (xiv. 6).

A'CHIS, son of Ma'och, king of Geth. David fled to him from the anger of Saul, but as the king's officers menaced his life he feigned madness and fled (1 Kings xxi. 10); three or four years after Achis received David with the troops under him (xxvii. 2); and gave him the town of Siceleg (6); David with his troops marched under Achis, against Saul, but the princes of the Philistines compelled Achis to send him back (xxix.); Achis is called Achimelech (Ps. xxxiii. 1).

A'CHIS, son of Maacha, king of Geth, to whom the servants of Semei fled (3 Kings ii. 39-41).

ACH'ITOB I., son of Phinees II., succeeded Heli as high-priest (1 Kings xxii. 9; xiv. 3).

ACH'ITOB II., son of Amarias, of the race of Eleazar (1 Paral. vi. 7; 2 Kings viii. 17).

ACH'ITOB III., son of Amarias, prince of the house of God (1 Paral. vi. 11, 12; 1 Esd. vii. 2; 2 Esd. xi. 11).

ACHIT'OPHEL, a native of Gilo (2 Kings xv. 12). He was a counsellor of David and highly esteemed for his wisdom (xvi. 23); he deserted David and joined Absalom in Hebron (xv. 12); and accompanied him to Jerusalem (xvi. 15); where he gave Absalom the most shameful advice (21); David prayed to God to infatuate his counsels (xv. 31); and refers to his treachery in Ps. xl. 10; liv. 13, 14. When Achitophel saw that Absalom would not take his advice, but delayed in pursuing David, he lost all hope, and going home hanged himself (xvii. 23).

ACHO'BOR, son of Micha, an officer of king Josias, sent to consult Holda the prophetess in regard to the book of the law found by Helcias (4 Kings xxii. 12, 14). His son Elnathan was sent into Egypt by king Joakim (Jerem. xxvi. 22).

A'CHOR, a valley in the territory of Jericho, where Achan and his house were stoned (Jos. vii. 24).

ACH'SAPH, a city of Chanaan; its king defeated by Josue at the Waters of Merom (Jos. xi. 1-9; xii. 20); it fell to the tribe of Aser (xix. 25).

ACH'ZIB, a town in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 44).

ACH'ZIBA (Jos. xix. 29) or Achazib (Judg. i. 31), a Phœnician city.

A'CRABA'THANE, a place near Edom, in what was called The Ascent of the Scorpion (Num. xxxiv. 4). Judas Machabeus defeats its inhabitants (1 Mac. v. 3).

ACTS of the APOSTLES, the, a canonical book of the New Testament written by St. Luke after his gospel. It embraces the earliest history of the church, and much of the ministry of St. Peter and St. Paul from the Ascension of our Lord till St. Paul's arrival in Rome, on his appeal to Cæsar, a period of twenty-eight or thirty years. It gives the acts of the Council of Jerusalem, held by the apostles, and many details of the journeys of St. Paul, whom St. Luke accompanied for some time. It was written in Greek, apparently at Rome, about A. D. 62, 63. From chapter xx. to xxv. the writer speaks as an eyewitness, so that he apparently joined St. Paul after his wintering at Corinth. The book is addressed to Theophilus (Acts i. 1).

A'DA, wife of Lamech and mother of Jabel and Jubal (Gen. iv. 19).

A'DA, daughter of Elon the Hethite, and wife of Esau, to whom she bore Eliphaz (Gen. xxxvi. 2, 4, 10, 16). She is called also Basemath (Gen. xxvi. 34).

A'DAD, son of Badad, king of Edom, defeated the Madianites. His capital was Avith (Gen. xxxvi. 35; 1 Paral. i. 46).

A'DAD II. (or A'dar, Gen. xxxvi. 39), succeeded Balaban as king of Edon. His royal city was Phau (1 Paral. i. 50).

A'DAD, king of Edom, was saved when a child from Joab's slaughter of the royal family and people, and carried into Egypt, when Pharaoh gave him the queen's sister for a wife. On the death of David, he returned to his country with an army and harassed Solomon during his whole reign (3 Kings xi. 14-25).

AD'ADREM'MON, a place near Mageddo in the half tribe of Manasses, where the good king Josias of Juda was mortally wounded (4 Kings xxiii. 29; 2 Paral. xxxv. 22.) From this circumstance "The Lamentation of Adadremmon" became proverbial (Zach. xii. 11).

AD'AM (Gen. ii. 19), the first man created by God (Gen. i. 26, 27). As Adam in Hebrew means red, it is supposed by some that he was called so from the red earth of which he was made (ii. 7). The name also signifies man in general (Gen. v. 2). God breathed into his face the breath of life (ii. 7), and placed him in a paradise of pleasure (ii. 8); he gave him dominion over all animals, and brought them to Adam to name (ii. 19); he forbade Adam to eat of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil (ii. 17). Then God created Eve out of one of the ribs of Adam (21-24). Although in a state of perfect happiness, and in direct communion with God, Adam and Eve were led to transgress the only pro-daughters" (Gen. iv.; v. 4). The serpent is regarded as the devil (John viii. 44; 2 Cor. xi. 3; Apoc. xii. 9).

AD'AM, the greatest among the Enacim, buried at Hebron (Jos. xiv. 15).

ADAM'A, one of the five cities of the plain, Sennaab being its king in the time of Abraham (Gen. xiv. 1, 8). It was destroyed with Sodom and Gomorrah (Deut. xxix. 23; Osee xi. 8).

AD'AMANT, used by the prophets as a symbol of hardness (Ezec. iii. 9; Zach. vii. 12); supposed to be corundum.

AD'AMI, a town in Nephthali (Jos. xix. 33).

A'DAR, king of Edom. See ADAD.

A'DAR, the twelfth of the Jewish months (1 Esd. vi. 15; Esth. iii. 7; viii. 12; 1 Mac. vii. 43; 2 Mac. xv. 37). The Phurim or feast of the deliverance from Haman occurred in this month.

A'DAR or ADDAR, a town in Juda (Num. xxxiv. 4; Jos. xv. 3).

ADARE'ZER, son of Rohob, and king of Soba, defeated by David, who took 21,700 prisoners (2 Kings viii. 3, 4) and great spoils (8); 1044 B. C. Seven years after Adarezer incited several princes to make war on David. David took the field against them, and crossing the Jordan defeated them at Helam, killing Sobach or Sophach, the general, and 40,700 men (2 Kings x. 16-18; 1 Paral. xix. 16-18). The subjects of Adarezer then submitted.

ADAR'SA or ADAZER, a place in the tribe

AD'DUS, a city in Juda where Simon encamped to await Tryphon (1 Mac. xiii. 13).

A'DE'ODA'TUS (Elchanan), son of Forest (of Saltus), an embroiderer of Bethlehem, slew at ATTITUDES OF PRAYER.

Gob Goliath the Gethite, or his brother, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver's beam (2 Kings xxi. 19; 1 Paral. xx. 5; 2 Kings xxiii. 24).

ADIA'DA, a town built and fortified by Simon Machabeus in Sephela (1 Mac. xii. 38).

A'DIN, head of house of which 454 or 655 descendants returned from the captivity (1 Esd. ii. 15; 2 Esd. vii. 20; x. 16).

ADI'NA, prince of the Rubenites, one of David's heroes (1 Paral. xi. 42).

AD'ITHAIM, a city of Juda (Jos. xv. 36).

ADMA'THA, an officer of king Assuerus (Esth. i. 14).

ADOM'MIM, a mountain in the tribe of Benjamin (Jos. xv. 7; xviii. 18).

ADON'A-I, one of the names of God (Ex. vi. 3; Judith xvi. 16). The Jews employ it in all cases for the unpronounceable name.

ADONI'AS, David's fourth son by Hagith, was born at Hebron (2 Kings iii. 4); aimed at the crown (3 Kings i. 5-25); in consequence of which David, at Bethsabee's prayer, caused Solomon to be anointed king (39; 1 Paral. xxiii. 1); Adonias fled to the temple and took hold of the altar till Solomon promised not to kill him (3 Kings i. 50-52); after David's death he asked for Abisag the Sunamitess as his wife, for which Solomon ordered him to be put to death (3 Kings ii. 13-25).

ADONI'AS, a Levite, appointed by Josaphat, king of Juda, to instruct the people (2 Paral. xvii. 8, 9).

ADONIBE'ZEC, king of Bezek, in the land of Chanaan. He had conquered seventy kings, cut off their fingers and toes, and made them gather their food under his table. The tribes of Juda and Simeon attacked him in Bezek, and when he fled overtook him, and treated him as he had treated others. He died in Jerusalem (Judg. i. 3-7).

ADONI'RAM, Solomon's superintendent over the workmen in Libanus (3 Kings v. 14).

ADO'NIS (in Hebrew Thammuz). Ezechiel in a vision sees women seated in the temple mourning for Adonis (Ezech. viii. 14).

ADONISE'DEC, king of Sedec or Jerusalem, hearing that the Gabaonites had made terms with the children of Israel, who had taken Jericho and Hai, excited several kings to join him in attacking Gabaon. Josue marched against them, cut them to pieces, and pursued them to Bethhoron (Jos. x. 1-10). It was in this battle that God sent down great stones from heaven on the enemy, and that Josue caused the sun hibition made. Eve, tempted by the serpent, who assured her that if they ate the fruit of the forbidden tree they should not die, but should become as gods, knowing good and evil, ate of the fruit and gave to Adam, who ate also (Gen. iii. 1-6); they felt at once a sense of shame of their nakedness, and made aprons of fig-leaves, and endeavored to hide from the presence of God (7, 8); Adam threw the blame of his transgression on Eve, who confessed: "The serpent deceived me and I did eat" (9-13); God cursed the serpent and promised to put enmities between it and the woman: "she shall crush thy head, and thou shalt be in wait for her heel" (15); woman was condemned to the pains of child-birth, and the earth was cursed, so that man should derive his sustenance from it only by toil, and the sweat of his face (16-19); Adam and Eve were cast out of paradise (23, 24). Adam lived to the age of 930 (Gen. v. 5); having begotten Cain, Abel, Seth, and other "sons and of Ephraim near which Judas Machabeus defeated and killed Nicanor (161 B. C.; 1 Mac. vii. 40-45).

CERASTES, THE HORNED ADDER.

AD'BEEL, third son of Ismael and head of a tribe of Ismaelites (Gen. xxv. 13).

AD'DI, son of Cosan and father of Melchi, one of the ancestors of Christ according to the flesh (Luke iii. 28).

AD'DO, a prophet of the kingdom of Juda who wrote the history of the reigns of Roboam and Abia (2 Paral. xii. 15; xiii. 22); and prophecies against Jeroboam which contained part of the reign of Solomon (ix. 29).

AD'DO, one of the priests who returned from the captivity (2 Esd. xii. 4).

AD'DO, father or grandfather of the prophet of Zacharias (1 Esd. v. 1; vi. 14; 1 Zac. i. 1).

AD'DON (2 Esd. vii. 61) or ADON (1 Esd. ii. 59). The Jews who returned from captivity at, could not prove their genealogies.

and moon to stand still (11, 12). Adonisedec and four other kings fled to a cave in Maceda, but were taken by Josue, who set his foot on their necks, slew them, and hung them on gibbets (16-26).

A'DOR, a town in the tribe of Juda (1 Mac. xiii. 20).

ADO'RAM or Adu'ram, son of Jectan, son of Heber, is supposed to have settled near the Persian gulf (Gen. x. 27; 1 Paral. i. 21).

ADO'RAM, son of Thou, king of Emath, sent to congratulate David on his victory over Aderezer (1 Paral. xviii. 10). In 2 Kings viii. 10 he is called Joram.

ADORE', originally meant to raise the hand to the mouth in order to kiss it in token of reverence (Job xxxi. 26, 27; 3 Kings xix. 18). Used to mean bow (Gen. xviii. 2); to pay divine honors (Ex. xxxiv. 14); hence the prohibition to adore idols or false gods (Ex. xx. 5); and the command, The Lord thy God thou shalt adore (Luke iv. 8.)

ADRAME'LECH, a god to whom the Sepharvaim who colonized Samaria burned their own children (4 Kings xvii. 31).

ADRAME'LECH, son of Sennacherib, king of Assyria (Isai. xxxvii. 38; 4 Kings xix. 19); killed his father in the temple of Nes-roch and fled to Armenia (4 Kings xix. 37; B. C. 710).

A'DRIA, the Sicilian and Ionian sea (Acts xxvii. 27).

ADRUME'TUM, a city of Libya in Africa (Acts xxvii. 2).

ADUL'LAM or Odollam, a city in the tribe of Juda (Gen. xxxviii. 1, 12, 20; Jos. xv. 35; xii. 15); restored and fortified by Roboam (2 Paral. xi. 7); reoccupied by the Jews after the captivity (2 Esd. xi. 30); Judas Machabeus encamped near it (2 Mac. xii. 38). The caves near it were the refuge of David (1 Kings xxii. 1; 2 Kings xxiii. 13; 1 Paral. xi. 15).

ADUL'TERY, a crime forbidden (Gen. xx. 2; xxvi. 11; Exod. xx. 14; Levit. xviii. 8; Deut. v. 18; Prov. v. 3, 8, 20; vii. 24-27; Matt. v. 27; xix. 9; 1 Cor. vi. 9; 1 Thess. iv. 3; Heb. xiii. 4); it was punished by death under the patriarchs (Gen. xxxviii. 24); by the Mosaic law (Lev. xx. 10; Deut. xxii. 22; Ps. lxxii. 27; Prov. vi. 32); it is punished on the offspring (Wisd. iii. 16; iv. 3); adultery seeks darkness (Job xxiv. 15); he who marries a divorced woman commits adultery (Matt. v. 32); Susanna falsely accused of adultery (Dan. xiii. 1-63); he who looks on a woman to lust after her commits adultery in heart (Matt. v. 28).

ADU'RAM, superintendent of the tributes under David (2 Kings xx. 24).

ADU'RAM, Roboam's treasurer, stoned by the people, exasperated at the exactions (3 Kings xii. 18).

ADU'RAM, a city in Juda fortified by Roboam (2 Paral. xi. 9).

AEN or Ain, a priestly city (Jos. xxi. 16; xv. 32; 1 Paral. iv. 32).

AFFLICTION, the lot of the children of God (Prov. iii. 11, 12; Wisd. xi. 10; Job i. 11; Matt. v. 10, 12); not a mark of sin (Eccles. viii. 14); should be borne patiently (Eccles. ii. 3; Isai. xxv. 9); afflictions come from God (Isai. xlv. 7; Osee vi. 2; Amos iii. 6; Judith viii. 21-27); there is no proportion between the afflictions of this life, and the glory to come (Rom. viii. 18).

AG'ABUS, a prophet among the primitive Christians in the time of the apostles, foretold a great famine over the whole earth (Acts xi. 28), which came to pass in the fourth year of the reign of Claudius (A. D. 44). In the year 58, when St. Paul landed at Cesarea in Palestine on his way to Jerusalem, Agabus bound the apostle's feet and hands with his girdle, and foretold that he should be thus bound by the Jews of Jerusalem, and delivered up to the Gentiles (Acts xxi. 10).

A'GAG, a king (Num. xxiv. 7).

"ADORE HIM ALL YOU HIS ANGELS."—Ps. xcvi. 8.

A'GAG, king of the Amalecites, spared by Saul with the best of his spoil (1 Kings xv. 8, 9, 20, 32); although he knew the destruction of the Amalecites was commanded (Exod. xvii. 14; Deut. xxv. 19). For this disobedience Samuel announced to Saul that he was rejected by God, and he hewed Agag to pieces (1 Kings xv. 8-33).

A'GAR, an Egyptian handmaid of Sarai, despises her mistress, and being afflicted ran away (Gen. xvi. 1-6); is directed to return by an angel who says that she shall bear a son, Ismael, who should be the father of a people in tents, whose hand should be against every man (7-14); she bore Ismael (A. C. 1911); Sara demands that she and her son be cast out (Gen. xxi. 10); she is sent away by Abraham, and is relieved by an angel in the desert of Bersabee. When Ismael grew up she took a wife for him from Egypt (14-21). Agar declared by St. Paul to be a figure of the Jews (Gal. iv. 24).

AG'ARENS (Ps. lxxxii. 7). Ag'arites (1 Paral. v. 10); the Ismaelites, defeated by the tribe of Ruben, Gad and Manasses during the reign of Saul, and driven out of the country east of Galaad (1 Paral. v. 18-20).

AG'ATE, a precious stone in the rational of judgment (Ex. xxviii. 19; xxxix. 12).

AGGEUS, the tenth of the lesser prophets, was born apparently at Babylon, and returned from thence with Zorobabel. The rebuilding of the temple was begun (1 Esd. iii. 8); but at the instigation of the enemies of the Jews was suspended by order of Cyrus and Cambyses. When Darius ascended the throne, God raised up Aggeus (1 Esd. v. 1, 2; Agg. i.), to exhort Zorobabel, prince of Juda, and the high-priest Jesus, son of Josedech, to resume the building of the temple. His reproaches were effectual; work was begun again (520 B. C.), sixteen years after their return from captivity (Agg. i. 14; ii. 1). Soon after the resumption of the building, Aggeus inspired by God announced to those who had seen the glory of the former temple, and might look with less reverence on this, what honor awaited it. "The desired of all nations shall come: and I will fill this house with glory, saith the Lord of hosts." "Great shall be the glory of this last house, more than of the first, saith the Lord of hosts" (Agg. ii. 8, 10). The name of this prophet with that of Zacharias occurs in the title of Psalms cxi., cxlv.

AG'GI, second son of Gad, head of the Aggites (Num. xxvi. 15).

AG'ONY of our Lord in the garden of Gethsemani is described (Matt. xxvi. 38; Mark xv. 34; Luke xxii. 42).

AG'RICULTURE. As the earth was cursed after the fall of our first parents, and man was condemned to make the earth fruitful by his labor, agriculture became the lot of a large part of the human race. It was practised by Adam (Gen. iii. 23); by Cain (iv. 2); by Noe (ix. 20); by the Egyptians (xlvii. 24). For the Mosaic laws in regard to agriculture see Exod. xxii. 5; xxiii. 10; Deut. xiv. 15. Among the Jews land remained in the family, and if sold reverted to them in the year of the jubilee (Lev. xxv. 8, 16; 23-35). The grains raised by the Israelites were chiefly wheat (Gen. xxx. 14; Deut. viii. 8; Ps. lxxx. 17; Isai. xxviii. 25; Ezech. iv. 9); barley (Isai. xxviii. 25; Levit. xxvii. 16; Deut. viii. 8; Ruth ii. 17; 2 Kings xxi. 9; Judg. vii. 13; John vi. 9); millet (Isai. xxviii. 25; Ezech. iv. 9); they cultivated also beans, vetches, lentils, cummin, gith (Isai. xxviii. 25; Ez. iv. 9); cucumbers (Isai. i. 8); and had apple trees (Cant. ii. 3; viii. 5; Joel i. 12); olive, fig, pomegranate trees (Deut. viii. 8); the vine (Num. xiii. 24).

AGRIP'PA (Acts xxv. 13; xxvi.); see Herod Agrippa II.

AHA'RA or AHI'RAM, third son of Benjamin (1 Paral. viii. 1; Num. xxvi. 38).

AHA'VA, a river and locality in Babylonia where Esdras collected his companions before they set out for Jerusalem (1 Esd. viii. 15, 21, 31).

AHI'AM, the name of one of David's champions (2 Kings xxiii. 33; 1 Paral. xi. 34).

AHI'A, one of Solomon's scribes (3 Kings iv. 3).

ALABASTER VESSELS. (From the British Museum.)

AHI'ALON, of the tribe of Zabulon, one of the judges of Israel. He succeeded Abe'san. He judged Israel for ten years and was buried at Zabulon (1164 B. C.; Judges xii. 11, 12).

AHI'AS, a prophet of the Lord dwelling at Silo. He wrote the acts of Solomon's reign (2 Paral. ix. 29); he foretold to Jeroboam that God would give him ten of the twelve tribes (3 Kings xi. 29-31); and declared what God would do for his house if he proved faithful (38). When the son of Jeroboam fell ill, he sent his wife to Ahias, who declared that the house of Jeroboam should be destroyed (xiv. 1-16).

A'HICAM, the son of Saphan, was sent by Josias to consult Holda the prophetess in regard to the book of the law (4 Kings xxii. 11, 12). He saved the prophet Jeremiah (Jere. xxvi. 24).

AHIE'ZER, son of Ammisadai, prince of the tribe of Dan, led 62,700 men of his tribe out of Egypt (Num. i. 38; ii. 25; x. 25). For his offering towards the tabernacle, see Num. vii. 66-71.

AHIMAN, of the race of Enac, driven from Hebron by Caleb (Jos. xv. 14; Judg. i. 10).

AHI'O, with his brother Oza, appointed to bring the ark from the house of Abinadab to the tabernacle in Jerusalem (2 Kings vi. 3, 4).

AHI'ON, city of Nephthali, taken from Baasa, king of Israel, by Benadad (3 Kings xv. 20; 2 Paral. xvi. 4).

AHI'RA, prince of the tribe of Nephthali, led 53,400 men of his tribe out of Egypt (Num. i. 15, 42; ii. 29; x. 27). For his offerings to the tabernacle, see Num. vii. 78.

AHI'UD, son of Salomi, of the tribe of Aser, appointed by Moses to partition the land of Chanaan (Num. xxxiv. 27).

A'HOD, third son of Simeon, went into Egypt (Gen. xvi. 10).

A'HOD, of the tribe of Benjamin (1 Paral. viii. 6).

AHO'E, grandson of Benjamin (1 Paral. viii. 3, 4).

AHOHI'TE (2 Kings xxiii. 9, 28; 1 Paral. xi. 12, 29; xxvii. 4); according to Calmet, a descendant of Ahoe.

AI'ON, a town taken by Theglathphalasar, king of Assyria (4 Kings xv. 29).

AJALON, a city in tribe of Dan (Jos. xix. 42); assigned to the Levites of the family of Caath (Jos. xxi. 24). It lay between Bethsames and Thamnan

(2 Paral. xxviii. 18); near it Josue defeated the five kings and arrested the sun (Jos. x. 12); Jonathan defeated the Philistines (1 Kings xiv. 31); it was fortified by Roboam (2 Paral. xi. 10); it was, however, taken by the Philistines in the time of Achaz (xxviii. 18). Being on the border, it is sometimes spoken of as in Dan, and at other times as in Ephraim, or Benjamin.

AL'ABAS'TER. When our Lord was at the house of Simon the leper in Bethany, a woman, generally regarded as identical with Mary Magdalene, came with an alabaster box of precious ointment, and poured it on his head (Matt. xxvi. 7; Mark xiv. 3); and his feet (Luke vii. 37). The breaking is supposed to be the breaking of the seal.

AL'CIMUS obtained the high-priesthood by the aid of Demetrius, son of Antiochus Epiphanes (1 Mac. vii. 20; 2 Mac. xiv. 3, 4); by presents (4); he had wilfully defiled himself by idolatrous acts (3); and gathered a force of apostates to oppose the Machabees (1 Mac. vii. 22-25; 2 Mac. xiv. 26). Judas for a time compelled him to retire, but he returned with the army under Bacchides (1 Mac. ix. 1); which defeated and killed Judas. In the year 160 B. C. Alcimus threw down the interior walls of the sanctuary and destroyed the works of the prophets, but was smitten with paralysis and died in great torment (1 Mac. ix. 54-56).

A'LEPH, the first letter of the Hebrew alphabet, used like the other letters as a numeral (Ps. cxviii. 1-8; Lament. i. 1; ii. 1; iii. 1; iv. 1).

ALEXAN'DER BA'LES claimed the throne of Syria 152 B. C.; obtained aid of Jonathan Machabeus against Demetrius (1 Mac. x. 18, 22, etc.; x. 48); he married the daughter of Ptolemy Philometor (1 Mac. x. 57); Jonathan and Simon defeated Demetrius Nicator (1 Mac. x. 69); Ptolemy, however, overran Syria; Alexander retired to Cilicia and raised an army, but was defeated, and fleeing to Arabia, was killed by Zabdiel, a prince, who sent his head to Ptolemy (1 Mac. xi. 4-17).

ALEXAN'DER, son of Simon the Cyrenian (Mark xv. 21).

ALEXAN'DER, a Jew of Ephesus who endeavored to appease the idolatrous mob (Acts xix. 33).

ALEXAN'DER, the coppersmith, excommunicated by St. Paul (1 Tim. i. 19, 20; 2 Tim. iv. 14).

ALEXAN'DRIA, a celebrated city of Egypt, founded by Alexander the Great, 331 B. C. It is mentioned, Nahum iii. 8; Jerem. xli. 25; Ezech. xxx. 14-16.

ALLELU'IA, a Hebrew expression, meaning Praise the Lord. It was chanted on occasions of joy. It opens many of the Psalms (civ.-cvi., cx.-cxviii., cxxxiv., cxxxv., cxlv.-cl.); Tobias foretold that it should be chanted again in the streets of Jerusalem (xiii. 22); St. John in the Apocalypse heard it chanted in heaven (Apoc. xix. 1-6).

ALLIANCE of the Lacedemonians and Romans with the Machabees (1 Mac. xii., xiv.); alliances with the enemies of God are hateful to him (3 Kings xi. 4).

PLAN OF ALEXANDRIA. (From Ebn.)

ALEXANDER THE GREAT, son of Philip, king of Macedon. He is designated in the prophecy of Daniel by a four-winged leopard (vii. 6); and by a goat which attacks and overcomes a ram (Darius), (viii. 4-7). His monarchy is the belly of brass in Nabuchodonosor's statue (Dan. ii. 39). After defeating Darius he overran Syria, and while besieging Tyre wrote to Jannus the high-priest to demand his submission. On his refusal Alexander marched against Jerusalem, but was appeased by the high-priest, who went out to meet him. His career is briefly sketched in 1 Mac. i. 1-8; and the division of his kingdom among his generals (7), as foretold by Daniel xi. 4.

ALMATH, a city of refuge in the tribe of Benjamin (1 Paral. vi. 60; vii. 8).

ALM'OND, a fruit (Gen. xliii. 11; Num. xvii. 8; Eccles. xii. 5).

ALMS, the obligation of giving alms is declared in many parts of the Scriptures (Ex. xxiii. 11; Lev. xxiii. 22; Deut. xv. 7-10; Tob. iv. 7-17; xii. 9; Job xxx. 25; Ps. xl. 1; lxxxi. 4; Prov. iii. 28; xl. 24; xxi. 13; xxii. 9; xxviii. 27; Eccles. iv. 2; vii. 36; xii. 3; xxix. 12; Isaias lviii. 7; Ezech. xvi. 49; Amos viii. 4; Matt. x. 42; xix. 21; Luke iii. 11; vi. 35; xi. 41; xii. 33; xiv. 13; xvi. 9; Acts ix. 36; xi. 29; xx. 35; Rom. xii. 8, 22; 1 Cor. xvi.; 2 Cor. viii. 11; ix. 7-11; Eph. iv. 28; Heb. xiii. 16;

1 John iii. 17); a blessing pronounced on those who give alms (Prov. xiv. 21, 31; xxii. 9); alms given to the poor are lent to the Lord (Prov. xix. 17); alms-giving recommended (Prov. xvii. 5; Eccles. vii. 36; 3 Kings xvii. 19). Its reward (Eccles. xxix. 15; Tobias iv. 10; xii. 9). Alms-giving practised by the primitive Christians (Acts xi. 29, 30).

AL/OES, used by the Jews as a perfume (Prov. vii. 17; Cant. iv. 14); it was used also in embalming (John xix. 39).

ters are of Chaldee origin, and came into use after the captivity. In writing, most of the vowels were omitted. After the fall of Jerusalem and the revival of Jewish learning, the school of Masora introduced vowel points, hence called Masoretic. At this time the language was no longer generally spoken, and these rabbis read the Hebrew differently from those who had translated the Hebrew into Greek while the language was still a living tongue. Catholics have followed the Septuagint, which is older, and would him with Cleophas (Luke xxiv. 18), believing that to be his Syriac and Alpheus his Greek name.

AL/PHEUS, father of Levi or St. Matthew (Mark ii. 14).

AL/TAR, essentially connected with the worship of Almighty God, from the days of the patriarchs (Gen. viii. 20); the Mosaic law (Ex. xx. 24); the Christian law (Ileb. xiii. 10); in heaven (Apoc. vi. 9; viii. 3). The first altar named is that erected by Noe on leaving the ark (Gen. viii. 20); the first

| NAME | PHENICIAN | HEBREW on Coins | SAMARITAN | ARAMAIC on Egyptian Monuments | PALMYRENE | SQUARE HEBREW | RABBINIC | SYRIAC PESHITO | NISCHI ARABIC | ETHIOPIA | ARMENIAN | COPTIC |
|---------|-----------|--------------------|-----------|-------------------------------------|-----------|------------------|----------|-------------------|------------------|----------|----------|--------|
| Alpha | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Beta | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Gamma | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Delta | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Eta | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Theta | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Iota | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Kappa | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Lambda | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Mu | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Nu | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Xi | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Omicron | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Pi | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Rho | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Sigma | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Tau | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Upsilon | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Phi | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Chi | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Psi | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |
| Omega | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ | Ⲁ |

ANCIENT ALPHABETS.

AL/PHA and OMEGA, the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, used by our Lord in the Apocalypse to signify the beginning and the end (Apoc. i. 8, 17; ii. 8; xxi. 6; xxii. 13).

AL/PHABET. The Hebrew alphabet consists of twenty-two letters. The original Hebrew characters are those now called Samaritan, or which appear on Jewish coins. The present square characseem to be more correct; Protestants follow the later Jewish rendering. The letters of the Hebrew alphabet are used to mark divisions in Ps. cxviii.; Lament. i.-iv.

AL/PHEUS, father of St. James the Less, and husband of Mary, apparently sister of the Blessed Virgin (Matt. x. 3; Luke vi. 15); whence St. James is called the Brother of the Lord. Some identify altars were apparently of undressed stone or earth. God so directed Moses to build them (Ex. xx. 24-26; Deut. xxvii. 5); Elias erected such an altar (3 Kings xviii. 32). When God gave the law to Moses, he directed two altars to be made, (1) the Altar of Holocausts, in the Tabernacle, was five cubits square and three high, hollow, made of planks of setim wood, with horns at the corners, all overlaid with brass. It was carried by means of bars of setim wood, covered with brass, running through rings at the sides (Exod. xxvii., xxviii.; Num. vii.) The altar of holocausts in Solomon's temple was twenty cubits square and ten high, and all of brass (3 Kings viii. 64; 2 Paral. iv. 1; vii. 7). It was restored by Asa (2 Paral.

Abdon, one of the judges, was buried (Judges xii. 15).

A'MAM, a city of Juda (Jos. xv. 26).

AMAN, son of Amadathii, an Amalecite of the race of Agag (Esth. iii. 1); called also a Mædonian (xvi. 10); he was the favorite minister of Assuerus, but not receiving homage from Mardochæus, a Jew, sought to destroy him and his nation; Assuerus gave him power to do as he chose in regard to the Jews, and Aman appointed the thirteenth day of the month Adar for a general massacre. Esther, queen of Assuerus, who was a Jewess, after praying to God, ventured into the king's presence and pleaded for her own life, and the lives of her people. Assuerus asked who dared menace her life, and when she impenitent (2 Paral. xxv. 14). He made war on Joas, king of Israel, but was defeated at Bethsames, and fell into the hands of Joas, who then dismantled Jerusalem and plundered the temple. He reigned fifteen years more, but did not repent. A conspiracy being formed against him he fled to Lachis, but was pursued and assassinated, 810 B. C. He was buried in the city of David (17-28).

AMASI'AS, priest of the golden calves at Bethel in the reign of Jeroboam, opposed the prophet Amos, about 789 B. C. (Amos vii. 10-17).

AM'ATHITE, descendants of Amath, son of Chanaan (Gen. x. 18; see 1 Mac. xii. 25).

AMBIT'ION ruins many (Ecclus. ix. 16).

A'MEN' in Hebrew signifies true, faithful, certain. It was also used to affirm by our Lord. Amen, Amen, I say to you (John i. 51, etc.) It was also used for assent. "Be it so" (Num. v. 22; Deut. xxvii. 15); and to express belief (1 Cor. xiv. 16). The Greek and Latin churches retain the word to conclude their prayers, as in Tobias xiii. 23; Matt. vi. 13.

AM'ETHYST, a precious stone. It was in the third row in Aaron's Rational of Judgment (Exod. xxviii. 19; xxxix. 12). It bore the name of Issachar.

AMIN'ADAB, of the tribe of Juda, and son of Aram (Ex. vi. 23; Num. i. 7; Ruth iv. 19; 1 Paral. ii. 10; Matt. i. 4; Luke iii. 33).

AMIN'ADAB. His chariots are referred to, Cant. vi. 11.

AMIN'ADAB, a priest, chief of the sons of Oziel, selected to carry the ark (1 Paral. xv. 10); a Levite also selected (11).

AM'ITAL, wife of king Josias, and mother of Joachas and Sedecias, kings of Juda (4 Kings xxiii. 31).

xv. 8); profaned by Achaz (4 Kings xvi. 14). Of that in the second temple (1 Esd. iii. 2; vi. 16) there is no description. It was restored by Judas Machabeus (1 Mac. iv. 47, 53). A perpetual fire was kept on this altar by command of God (Levit. vi. 12, 13). (2) The Altar of Incense in the Tabernacle was a cubit square and two cubits high; also with horns, all of setim wood overlaid with gold (Ex. xxx. 1-6; xxxviii. 25; xl. 5); that in the temple was of cedar, overlaid with gold (3 Kings vii. 48; 1 Paral. xxviii. 18). Antiochus Epiphanes removed the altar of incense from the second temple, but Judas Machabeus restored it (1 Mach. i. 23; iv. 49). On this the incense was offered every morning and evening (Ex. xxx. 7, 8; Luke i. 9-11).

ALTAR to an unknown god erected at Athens (Acts xvii. 22, 23).

A'LUS, one of the encampments of the Israelites (Num. xxxiii. 13).

AMA'AD, a town of the tribe of Aser (Jos. xix. 26).

AM'ALEC, son of Eliphaz and Thamna, and grandson of Esau (Gen. xxxvi. 12, 16; 1 Paral. i. 36).

AMAL'ECITES, descendants of Amalec. occupied the country between the Dead and Red Seas, or between Hevila and Sur (1 Kings xv. 7). They attacked the Israelites in the desert of Raphidim and killed the stragglers (Ex. xvii. 8-14; Num. xiv. 43-45). Josue gave them battle and defeated them by the aid of the prayers of Moses (Ex. xvii. 8-14); 1491 B. C. In the days of the Judges the Amalecites joined the Moabites against the Israelites, and made them tributaries, till they were delivered by Aod (Judges iii. 13-30). They also aided the Madianites against the Israelites, but they were utterly defeated by Gedeon (Judges vi.; vii.); Saul also defeated them (1 Kings xiv. 48); and they were utterly destroyed with their king Agag (1 Kings xv.), as it had been foretold (Ex. xvii. 14; Num. xxiv. 20; Deut. xxv. 19). A part of the tribe captured Siseleg from David, but he pursued them and cut them to pieces, except four hundred, who escaped (1 Kings xviii. 8; xxx. 1, 9, 17).

AM'ALEC, a mountain in Ephraim where indicated Aman, his doom was sealed, and he was hanged on a gibbet which he had erected for Mardochæus (Esther i.-xvi.)

AMA'NA, a mountain near Libanus (Cant. iv. 5).

AMARI'A, one of the priests and Levites who returned from the captivity (2 Esd. xii. 2).

AMARI'AS, the name of several high-priests: (1) son of Meraioth (1 Paral. vi. 7); (2) a high-priest in the reign of Josaphat (2 Paral. xix. 11); (3) son of Azarias (1 Paral. vi. 11); and supposed to be the high-priest who resisted king Ozias when he wished to offer incense, for which he was struck with leprosy (2 Paral. xxvi. 16-21).

AMA'SA, son of Jether and of Abigail, David's sister. He commanded the army of Absalom, and was pardoned by David after the defeat by Joab (2 Kings xvii. 25; xix. 13); David sent him against Seba, but he was treacherously slain by Joab at Gabaon (xx. 4-12).

AMASA'I, a brave man who moved by the Spirit joined David in Hebron with thirty men (1 Paral. xii. 18).

AMASA'I, a priest and musician in the time of David (1 Paral. xv. 24).

AMASI'AS, eighth king of Juda, son of Joas (2 Paral.

xxiv. 27; xxv. 1; 4 Kings xiv.) He ascended the throne at the age of 25, 839 B. C., and reigned twenty-nine years. He was one of the good kings, but did not abolish the high-places. He punished his father's murderers, and took a census of his people. He hired troops from the king of Israel, but on being reproved by a prophet sent them back (2 Paral. xxv. 7). He defeated the Edomites in the valley of the salt-pits (4 Kings xiv. 7). He then fell into idolatry and worshipped the gods of Edom, and though reproved by a prophet remained

GROUP OF ANCIENT ALTARS.

ALTAR OF HOLOCAUSTS.

AM'MAUS or Emmaus, a town near the mountains of Juda, where Judas Machabeus defeated Gorgias and Nicanor (1 Mac. iii. 57; iv. 3; ix. 50).

AM'MIEL, son of Gemalli of the tribe of Dan, one of the spies sent by Moses into the land of Chanaan (Num. xiii. 13).

AM'MIEL, son of Obededom, porter of the temple (1 Paral. xxvi. 5).

AM'MON, grandson of Lot (Gen. xix. 34, 38).

AM'MONITES, descendants of Ammon. They destroyed the gigantic Zomzommim and oc-ruined their country (Deut. ii. 20). God forbade Moses to attack them (Deut. ii. 19, 20). After the death of Othoniel, the Ammonites and Amalecites joined Eglon, king of Moab, in subduing the Israelites (Judg. iii. 13); in the time of Jephthe, they again declared war on the Israelites, claiming the land that Moses had wrested from the Amorrites, but Jephthe defeated them at Aroer (Judg. x. 7-18; xi. 12-33), B. C. 1187. In the reign of Saul, Naas, king of the Ammonites, besieged Jabes of Galaad, but Saul relieved it (1 Kings xi. 11), B. C. 1095. David maintained friendly relations with the king of Ammon in his time, and on his death sent ambassadors to condole, but Hanon, the new king, treated the ambassadors ignominiously. David then conquered their country (2 Kings viii. 12; x. 1-14; xii. 26-31). They remained subject to the kings of Israel to the death of Achab, 897 B. C. (4 Kings i. 1). They invaded Juda, but were defeated by Josaphat (2 Paral. xx. 1, 2); but after the fall of the kingdom of Israel, they occupied some of the territory of Ruben, Gad and Manasse (Jerem. xlix. 1). There are prophecies against them in Ps. lxxii. 8; Jer. xlix. 1; Ezech. xxi. 20; xxv. 2-10; Amos i. 13; Soph. ii. 8). They were still cruel enemies of the Jews in the days of the Machabees (1 Mach. v. 6-43).

AMNON, eldest son of David and Achinoam, dishonors his half-sister Tamar, and is assassinated in retaliation by her brother Absalom (2 Kings xiii. 1-28).

AMOC', one of the priestly families who returned from Babylon (2 Esdr. xii. 20).

A'MON, governor of Samaria under Achab, holds Mithras in prison (3 Kings xxii. 26).

A'MON, fourteenth king of Juda, son of Manasses and Messalemeth. He reigned twenty-two years, but only two in Jerusalem, 641-639 B. C.; he imitated his father's idolatry, and was killed by his own servants, and was buried in the garden of Oza (4 Kings xxi. 18-26; 2 Paral. xxxiii. 21-25).

AMORRHITES, a people descended from the fourth son of Chanaan, whose name was apparently Amor (Gen. x. 16). They first occupied the heights west of the Dead Sea (Gen. xiv. 7). They gradually drove the Moabites beyond the Arnon (Gen. xiv. 13; Num. xxi. 13, 26) and extended to Hermon (Deut. iii. 8; iv. 48). Moses conquered Sehon, king of the Amorrites, whose capital was Hesebon, and occupied his territory on his refusing to permit the Israelites to pass through (Num. xxi. 21-31).

A'MOS, the third of the lesser prophets, was a herdsman. He lived in the time of Jeroboam II., 789 B. C., and for reproving the idolatry of Jeroboam II., and foretelling his death, was denounced by Amasias, priest of the golden calves at Bethel. He then retired to Thecue, in the tribe of Juda. His prophecies begin in the reign of Ozias, and announce God's judgments against the people of Israel and the neighboring nations. His prophecies comprise nine chapters (Amos i.-ix.) He is quoted by St. Stephen and St. James (Acts vii. 42; xv. 16).

A'MOS, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Luke iii. 25).

AMPHIP'OLIS, a city in Macedon, near Thrace. St. Paul and Silas passed by it after being delivered from prison at Philippi (Acts xvii. 1).

AMPLIA'TUS, a disciple mentioned by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 8).

AM'RAM, eldest son of Caath, of the tribe of Levi; he married Jochabed, by whom he had Aaron, Mary, and Moses. He died in Egypt, aged 137 (Ex. vi. 20; Num. iii. 19; 1 Paral. vi. 2, 18; xxiii. 12).

AM'RAPHEL, king of Seenaar, with three others, made war on the kings of the Pentapolis, and carried off Lot and his possessions; but was forced by Abraham to give them up, 1912 B. C. (Gen. xiv. 1).

AM'RI was general of the armies under Ela, king of Israel. While besieging Gebbethon, he heard that Zambri had murdered Ela and usurped the throne. He attacked Zambri in Thersa, and forced him to burn himself up in his palace with all his family, after a reign of seven days. Part of the nation recognized Thebni, who reigned four years. Amri reigned six years at Thersa, and six at Samaria, which he built after purchasing the mountain of Someron (3 Kings xvi. 9, 10, 24). There he ended his wicked reign (xvi. 28; Mich. vi. 16), 918 B. C.

A'NA, son of Sebeon, mentioned as having discovered in the desert hot springs, which the King James Bible erroneously renders mules.

A'NA, a town apparently on the Euphrates, above Babylon, where the name remains (4 Kings xviii. 34; 4 Kings xix. 13; Isaias xxxvii. 13; Gen. xxxvi. 24).

AN'AMELECH, a heathen god whose cruel worship in which children were burnt was carried from the Euphrates to Samaria (4 Kings xvii. 31).

ANANI'A, a city of Benjamin, occupied by the Jews after the captivity (2 Esd. xi. 32).

ANANI'AS, one of the three princely companions of Daniel brought up at the court of Nabuchodonosor. He there received the name of Sidrach (Dan. i. 6, 7). They refused to eat forbidden food (8-16), and to adore the statue of Nabuchodonosor (iii. 12), for which the three were cast into a fiery furnace (iii. 21); but God sent an angel (iii. 92, 95) and saved them from the action of the fire (iii. 24, 91, 92). Amid the flames they chanted the Benedicite, a canticle used to this day in the services of the church (iii. 52-90). It is rejected by Protestants. Nabuchodonosor bade them come forth, and they did so, unharmed, and not even singed by the fire (iii. 93, 94). They were promoted and honored by the king (97).

ANANI'AS, son of the perfumer, rebuilt part of the wall of Jerusalem after the return from Babylon (2 Esd. iii. 8).

ANANI'AS, high-priest, before whom St. Paul was arraigned, A. D. 58, and who ordered him to be struck in the mouth. St. Paul, not recognizing the high-priest, answered indignantly, but apologized on learning his dignity (Acts xxiii. 1-5); when St. Paul was sent to Cæsarea, Ananias followed and accused him before Felix, the governor (xxiv.).

ANANI'AS, one of the first Christians of Jerusalem, with his wife, Saphira. The faithful at that time had all things in common, and those who had houses and lands sold them, and laid the price at the feet of the apostles to be distributed to every one as he had need. Ananias and his wife had a piece of land which they sold, but laid only part of the price at the feet of the apostles. St. Peter called him to account, telling him that he had lied not to men but to God. And Ananias fell dead on the spot. When Saphira came in, she, too, falsely misrepresented the price they had received, when she, too, fell dead (Acts iv. 32-37; v. 1-11).

ANANI'AS, a disciple living in Damascus, who was directed by our Lord in a vision to go to Straight Street to Saul, who had just been converted and had arrived in Damascus. Ananias, in astonishment, replied that he had heard of him as a great persecutor, but our Lord said: Go thy way, for this man is to me a vessel of election to carry my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel. For I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake. Ananias went to the house and laid his hands on Saul, who recovered his sight and received baptism (Acts ix. 10-18). There was no further mention of him in the Acts.

ANATH'EMA, a Greek word meaning set apart, separated, devoted. It is used especially to mark the absolute cutting off and separation of a man from the communion of the faithful, the number of the living or the privileges of society, or the devoting a person or thing to be destroyed by fire or otherwise. All were forbidden to have any idol in the house lest they should become an anathema like it (Deut. vii. 26); everything in idolatrous cities was to be destroyed. There shall nothing of that anathema stick to thy hand (Deut. xiii. 17). Jericho and all in it was to be an anathema (Jos. vi. 17; vii. 1, 11, 13; 1 Paral. ii. 7); God threatens to strike the earth with anathema, that is, with total destruction (Mal. iv. 6); St. Paul wishes to become an anathema for his brethren (Rom. ix. 3); anathema may be pronounced (Gal. i. 8; 1 Cor. xvi. 22); anathema incurred by nonfulfilment of a vow (Levit. xxvii. 29); place of Anathema (Judg. i. 17).

AN'ATHOTH, the city of Abiathar (3 Kings ii. 26); of the prophet Jeremias (Jer. i. 1; xi. 21; xxix. 27; xxxii. 7).

AN'CIENT OF DAYS, an expression used to designate God, in Dan. vii. 9, 13, 22.

AN'CIENTS OF ISRAEL, the heads of the twelve tribes and of the great families of Israel (Exod. iii. 16; iv. 29). Subsequently, Moses, by command of God, gathered unto him seventy men of the ancients of Israel, to whom God imparted some of the spirit he had conferred on Moses (Num. xi. 16, 17). The ancients continued under Josue (ix. 15; xxiii. 2; xxiv. 1; xxiv. 31).

AN'DREW, one of the twelve apostles of Jesus Christ, a native of Bethsaida, son of Jona, and brother of Simon Peter. He was a disciple of St. John, the Baptist, but followed our Lord when he was pointed out by the Precursor, and became the first disciple (John i. 39); then he took his brother, Simon, to him. They were with him at Cana, but then returned to their occupation as fishermen. While so engaged our Lord called them to become fishers of men, and they left everything and became his constant attendants (Matt. iv. 19). It was St. Andrew who gave him the five loaves and two fishes (John vi. 9). He appears also as introducing some Gentiles brought by St. Philip, and as asking when the destruction of the temple was to take place (John xii. 22). Eusebius, the earliest historian of the church, says he preached in Scythia. Others say that he preached also in Greece and was crucified at Patras, in Achaia.

ANDRONI'CUS, a nobleman left by Antiochus Epiphanes as his deputy at Antioch during his expedition to Cilicia. Manelaus, a false high-priest, bribed him with vessels stolen from the temple to put Onias, the real high-priest, to death, and Andronicus did so by treachery. Antiochus shed tears, remembering the modesty and sobriety of Onias, and caused Andronicus to be put to death where the sacrilegious wretch had committed the impiety against Onias (2 Mach. iv. 31-38).

ANER and ESCHOL, two Chanaanites who aided Abraham to retake Lot and his substance (Gen. xiv. 13, 24).

ANGE, mountains of, on the left of Cilicia (Judith ii. 12).

AN'GELS, pure spirits created by God before man, and as it would seem from Job (xxxviii. 7) before the material world. Angel is from the Greek angelos, a messenger, the synonym of the Hebrew word mal'ac. God sends them to announce his will, to correct, punish, teach, rebuke, console (Ps. cii. 20; ciii. 4; Matt. iv. 1; xiii. 49; xxvi. 53). The mission and apparition of angels is constantly mentioned in Scripture. Different grades or choirs are named Seraphim (Isaias vi. 2, 6); Cherubim (Gen. iii. 24); Thrones (Col. i. 16); Dominations (Col. i. 16); Virtues (Rom. viii. 38; 1 Pet. iii. 22); Powers (1 Pet. iii. 22; Col. i. 16); Principalities (Col. i. 16); Archangels (Jude i. 9); and Angels; some of the angels rebelled against God and fell (Job iv. 18; Isaias xiv. 9; Ezech. xxviii. 3, 14, 17; John viii. 44); and were cast out of heaven (Isai. xiv. 12; Luke x. 18); and condemned to hell (Apoc. xx. 7); (See DEVIL; SATAN); the angels see God (Isai. vi. 2; Matt. xviii. 10); they are called sons of God (Job i. 6; xxxviii. 7); they are the ministers of God's will (Ps. cii. 20; ciii. 4; Matt. iv. 1; xiii. 49; xxvi. 53); they aid those who fear God (Ps. xxxiii. 8; xc. 11; Bar. vi. 6); are guardians of countries (Dan. iv. 10, 20; x. 10, 13, 20, 21; Acts xvi. 9); and of individuals (Matt. xvii. 10); angels sent by God to assist Agar (Gen. xvi. 7; xxi. 17); Abraham (xviii. 2; xxi. 11); Lot (xix. 9); Jacob (xxviii. 12; xxxii. 1); Elias (3 Kings xix. 5); the three children (Dan. x. 3; xi. 13); the eunuch of Queen Candace (viii. 26); to aid the sick (John v. 4); bear the just to

iii. 49); Daniel (vi. 22); Tobias (Tob. v. 6-12); St. Peter (Acts x. 19; xii. 7-11); Cornelius (Acts

Abraham's bosom (Luke xvi. 22); an angel appears to Moses in the burning bush (Ex. iii. 2); the law given through angels (Heb. ii. 2); an angel guides the people of Israel (xii. 22; Num. xx. 16); God promises to send an angel to his people (Ex. xxiii. 20; xxxiii. 2); sends an angel to prevent Balaam cursing his people (Num. xxii. 22); to Josue (Jos. v. 13); an angel rebukes the people (Judg. ii. 1-4); an angel directs Gedeon (vi. 11-40; vii. 1-7); an angel appears to Samson's mother (xiii. 3-21); to Zacharias (Zach. ii. 3, 4, v. 1, vi.); an angel punishes David (2 Kings xxiv. 16; 1 Paral. xxi. 15); directs Elias (3 Kings xix. 5; 4 Kings i. 3, 15); defeats the Assyrians (xix. 35); angels explain visions (Dan. viii. 16; ix. 21; x. 5, 10, 16); an angel leads the army of the Machabees (2 Mach. xi. 6-11); angels punish Heliodorus (2 Mach. iii. 25-27); an angel appears to St. Joseph (Matt. i. 20; ii. 13, 19); to Zachary (Luke i. 11, 20); to the blessed Virgin Mary (i. 26-38); to the shepherds (ii. 9, 15); to our Lord in his agony (xxii. 43); to the disciples after the Resurrection (Matt. xxviii. 2); the disciples after the Ascension (Acts i. 10); to St. Paul (Acts xxvii. 23); reveal the Apocalypse to St. John (Apoc. i. 1; xix. 10; xxii. 8); angels revered by the patriarchs (Gen. xviii. 2; xix. 1; Num. xxii. 31); Gedeon (Judg. vi. 11); but superstitious honors not to be paid to (Col. ii. 18); woman to have her head covered because of the angels (1 Cor. xi. 10); angels desire to know the mystery of the gospel (1 Pet. i. 12); will summon men to judgment (Matt. xxiv. 31; 1 Thess. iv. 15; 1 Cor. xv. 52); know not the day (Mark xiii. 32); will come with Christ to judge mankind (Matt. xvi. 27; 2 Thess. i. 7). Doctors and preachers called angels (Mal. ii. 7; iii. 1; Gal. iv. 14; Apoc. i. 20). The Sadducees denied the existence of angels (Acts xxiii. 8).

ST. ANNE, THE BLESSED VIRGIN AND THE INFANT JESUS.

ANGELS of the Devil (Matt. xxv. 41); of Satan (2 Cor. xii. 7); of the dragon (Apoc. xii. 7); wicked angels (Ps. lxxvii. 49; Prov. xvii. 11; 2 Pet. ii. 4; Apoc. ix. 11, 14, 15).

AN'GER, the evil effects of this deadly sin shown in Gen. iv. 5; Job v. 2; Prov. xii. 13; xiv. 3; xv. 18; xix. 19; xxvii. 3; xxix. 22; Eccles. vii. 10; Eccles. xxv. 23; xxviii. 13; xxx. 26; Matt. v. 22; Luke iv. 28; Gal. v. 20.

AN'IMALS, created on the fifth day (Gen. i. 24, 25); receive their names from Adam (ii. 20); first mention of their being offered in sacrifice to God (iv. 4); offered by Noe (viii. 20); by Abraham (xv. 9; xxi. 13); under the Mosaic law (Num. xv. 5; xviii. 9; xix. 3); animals distinguished as clean and unclean (Gen. vii. 2, 3; viii. 20; Deut. xiv. 5; xxi. 5; Lev. xi.); to be offered by women at their purification (xii. 6, 8); animals seen in a dream by Ezech. (i. 4); seen in a vision by St. Peter (Acts x. 12); cruelty to animals forbidden (Gen. xxiii.; Exod. xxiii. 12); Num. xxxii. 24; Deut. v. 14; Prov. xii. 10; Eccles. vii. 24).

ANOINTING.

AN'ISE, an aromatic seed, of which the scrupulous Pharisees made it a point to pay tithes (Matt. xxiii. 23).

AN'NA, wife of Elcana of Ramathaim-sophim, an Ephrathite, prayed at Silo to be delivered from barrenness (1 Kings i. 10), and made a vow to the Lord (ii); bears a son Samuel, B. C. 1155 (20); offers a sacrifice of thanksgiving (24, 25); her canticle (ii. 1-10); she dedicates her son to the service of the Lord (ii. 18, 19).

AN'NA, wife of the elder Tobias, of the tribe of Nephthali, a captive at Nineve (Tob. i. 1, 2, 9); supports her blind husband by weaving (ii. 19); reproaches him on occasion of a kid (22, 23); her grief on the departure of her son (v. 23-28); she watched by the way daily for his return (xi. 5); tells her husband of his approach (6); their joy (11); her death (xiv. 14).

AN'NA, wife of Raguel, cousin of Tobias, and mother of Sara, whom young Tobias married (Tob. ii. 2).

AN'NA, daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser, a prophetess. She was a widow, having lived seven years in the married state, and persevered in holy widowhood to the age of eighty-four, serving God in the temple by prayer and fasting. When the Blessed Virgin at her purification presented the Infant Jesus in the temple, she with Simeon praised God, and spoke of the Saviour to all who looked for the redemption of Israel (Luke ii. 36-39).

AN'NAS, high-priest, exercising the functions alternate years with his son-in-law, Caiphas. As he was to assume power after the Pasch, our Lord was first taken before him (Luke iii. 2; John xviii. 13); St. Peter and St. John were arraigned before him soon after (Acts iv. 6).

ANNUN'CIATION of the Blessed Virgin (Luke i. 26-38).

ANOINT'ING. Prophets were anointed for their mission (3 Kings xix. 16); priests (Ex. xxix. 29; xl. 13; Num. iii. 3; Levit. iv. 3; xvi. 32); kings (1 Kings ix. 16; x. 1; xvi. 13; 3 Kings i. 34, 39; xix. 16; 4 Kings xi. 12; 1 Paral. xvi. 22; Ps. civ. 15); things set apart for the divine worship were anointed: Jacob's pillar (Gen. xxxi. 13); the tabernacle and its furniture (Ex. xxx. 26-28). The apostles, by our Lord's mission, anointed the sick (Mark vi. 13); this sacramental anointing prescribed (James v. 14). Christ, in Greek, means the Anointed (see Ps. ii. 2; Dan. ix. 25, 26); his anointing is from the Father (Ps. xlv. 8; Dan. ix. 24; Luke iv. 18; Acts iv. 27; x. 38; Heb. i. 9); the faithful are anointed (2 Cor. i. 21; 1 John ii. 20, 27).

ANT, cited as an example of diligence (Prov. vi. 6); of wisdom (xxx. 25).

ANTIOCH.

ANTI'CHRIST, the man of sin who is to precede the second coming of Christ (1 John ii. 18, 19; 2 Thess. ii. 3, 5; Apoc. xvi.-xix.); his defeat foretold (Isai. xi. 4); his conspiracy and fall (Ezech. xxxviii., xxxix.); his birth, progress and the fall of his empire foretold (Dan. vii. 8-26; 1 John ii. 18;

2 John i. 7; 2 Thess. ii. 3); his persecution (2 Thess. ii. 4; Apoc. xi. 2, 7).

ANT'IMONY, a preparation of the metal called in our translation stibic stone, was used for darkening the eye (4 Kings ix. 30; Jerem. iv. 30; Ezech. xxiii. 40); one of Job's daughters, Cornu Stibii, has a name meaning a vase of antimony (Job xlii. 14).

THE ANNUNCIATION

ANT'IOCH, capital of Syria, identified by St. Jerome with Reblat (Num. xxxiv. 11). It was the chief city of the kingdom of Syria (1 Mach. iii. 37; iv. 35; x. 68); Antiochus Eupator recaptures it (vi. 63; 2 Mach. xiii. 23, 26); Ptolemee crowned there (1 Mach. xi. 13); Jonathan sends troops to Antioch to support Demetrius (xi. 44); captured by Tryphon (1 Mach. xi. 56); the high-priest Onias concealed at (2 Mach. iv. 32, 36); the first Gentile church founded at Antioch (Acts xi. 20, 21); the disciples here first called Christians (xi. 26). St. Paul set out from Antioch on his journeys (Acts xi. 30; xiii. 4; xviii. 23).

ANT'IOCH in Pisidia. St. Paul at (Acts xiii. 14; xiv. 20; 2 Tim. iii. 11). It was also called Cæsarea.

ANTI'OCHIS, concubine of Antiochus Epiphanes, to whom that king gave Tharus and Mallos, an act that led to a sedition (2 Mach. iv. 30).

ANTI'OCHUS II., Theos. His marriage and death foretold by Daniel (xi. 6).

ANTI'OCHUS IV., Epiphanes, son of Antiochus the Great, sent an envoy to Egypt to secure the regency, B. C. 173 (2 Mach. iv. 21); he then invaded and reduced much of Egypt (v. 1); hearing of troubles at Jerusalem, he returned, took the city, killed 80,000, took prisoners and sold 40,000. He also, aided by Menelaus, false high-priest, plundered the temple and profaned the sacred vessels (11-21). After conquering Egypt he sent Apollonius with an army to Judea, who treacherously slew many thousand adults, selling the women and young as slaves (24-26); he issued an edict commanding all to embrace his state religion; he ordered the temple to be profaned, the sacrifices of the law to be stopped, forbade the Sabbaths and Mosaic rites to be observed. He erected idolatrous temples and altars, on which swine and other unclean animals were offered. The penalty for disobedience was death (1 Mach. i. 43-52); on the fifteenth of the month Casleu he set up the abominable idol of desolation (Jupiter Olympius) on the altar of God (57); many Jews perished sooner than obey: women were put to death with their infants hung about their necks for circumcising them (64, 65); Mathathias and his brethren retired to the mountains; the aged Eleazar and the seven Machabee brothers were martyred at Antioch (2 Mach. vi., vii.); Judas Machabeus took up arms and defeated several armies; Antiochus went to Persia, hoping to wrest great wealth from that country, but hearing of Judas's victories and his recovery of Jerusalem and dedication of the temple, while on his way to punish the Jews he was struck down by disease, and though he promised to become a Jew if his life was spared, he died in great torments, B. C. 164 (1 Mach. vi. 16; 2 Mach. ix. 28, 29).

BRONZE FIGURE OF APIS.

ANTI'CHUS V., Eupator, son of Epiphanes, succeeded his father at the age of nine. Lysias commanding his armies besieged Jerusalem, and was about to take it when he found it necessary to march on Antioch, where Philip had obtained control. But Demetrius Soter, the real heir, returning from Rome raised an army, captured Lysias and Antiochus, and put both to death, B. C. 162 (1 Mach. vi., vii.; 2 Mach. xiii., xiv.)

ANTI'CHUS VI., Theos, son of Alexander Balas, was set up 145 B. C. by Tryphon, who won the aid of Jonathan and Simon Machabeus by giving them great powers. Jonathan won several victories over the forces of Demetrius, but Tryphon resolving to usurp the throne enticed Jonathan into Ptolemais and kept him a prisoner. Simon with his army saved Jerusalem, but Tryphon put Jonathan to death, and soon after subjected Antiochus to an operation under which he died (1 Mach. xi. 39, 63, etc.; xiii. 21-31).

ANTI'CHUS SIDETES, son of Demetrius Soter, induced Simon to espouse his cause against Tryphon (1 Mach. xv. 1-3) by declaring Jerusalem and the temple free, and permitting him to coin money in his own name; but as Tryphon's troops deserted him, Antiochus refused the army sent him by Simon, recalled his promises, and demanded the surrender of some towns. John Hircanus and Judas defeated the armies of Antiochus, but on the murder of Simon, Antiochus besieged Jerusalem, which was bravely defended by John Hircanus, but finally surrendered on favorable terms (1 Mach. xv. 25; xvi. 1-24).

AN'TIPAS, a faithful witness or martyr (Apoc. ii. 13).

ANTIP'ATER, son of Jason, one of the envoys of Jonathan Machabeus to Lacedæmon and Rome (1 Mach. xii. 16; xiv. 17-22).

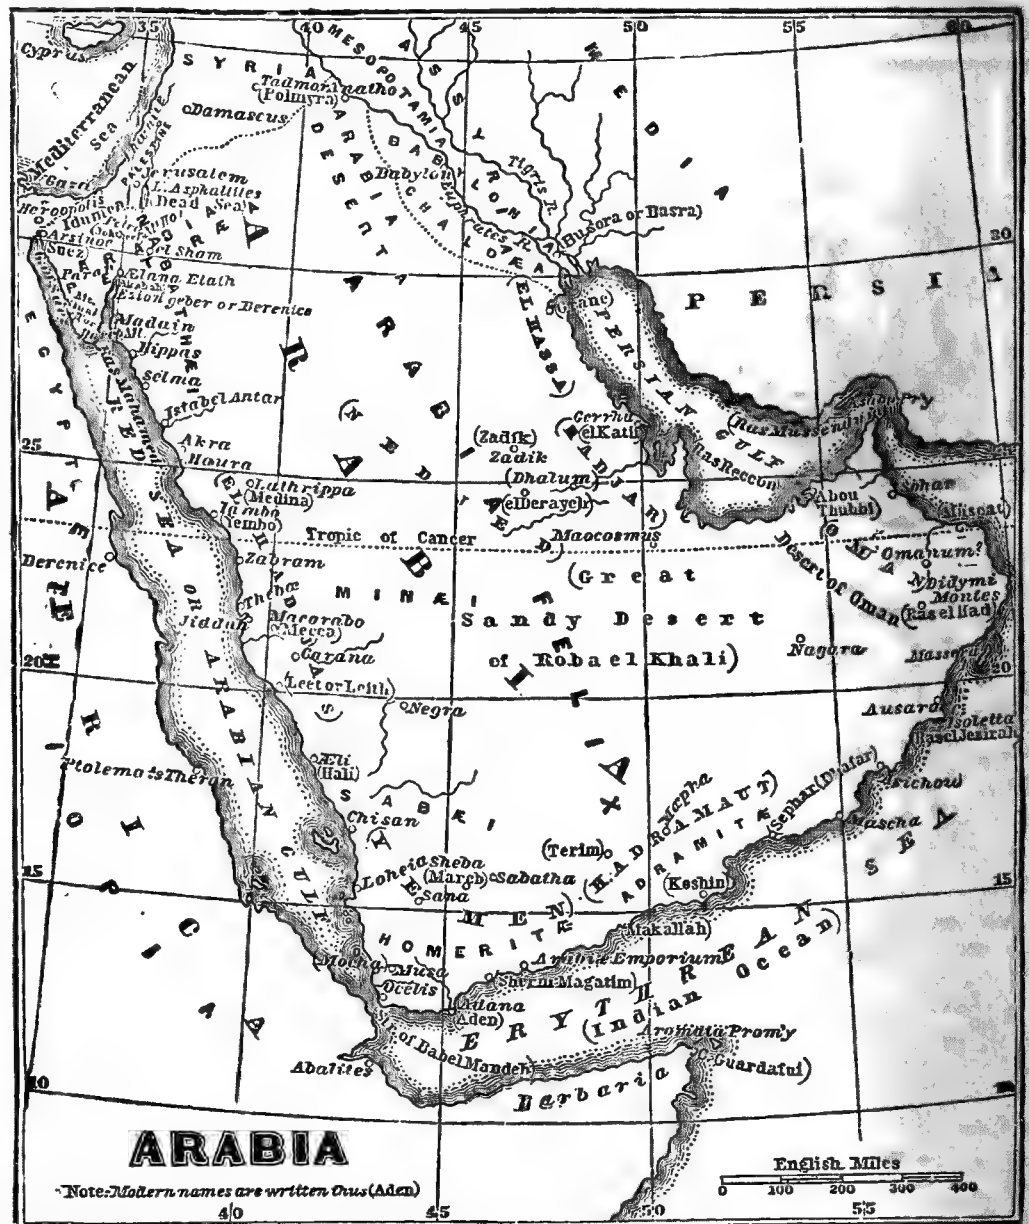

ANTIPA'TRIS, a town between Jerusalem and Cæsarea to which St. Paul was taken (Acts xxiii. 31).

APES, imported as curiosities by Solomon (3 Kings x. 22; 2 Paral. ix. 21).

APHERE'MA, a toparchy added to Judea by the Syrian kings (1 Mach. xi. 34).

APHARSITES, Apharsathachites (1 Esd. iv. 9); Arphasachites (v. 6), tribes who were sent by the Assyrians to colonize the cities of Samaria.

APH'EC, Apeca (Jos. xv. 53), a city in Chanaan, whose king was slain by Josue (xii. 18); the Philistines encamped here when the ark was brought from Silo (1 Kings iv. 1, 2, 3). 2. Apech, in the valley of Jezrahel, where the Philistines encamped before the battle of Gelboe (1 Kings xxix. 1). 3. Apech in Aser, near Sidon (Jos. xix. 30; xiii. 4).

A'OD, son of Gera, of the tribe of Benjamin, and judge of Israel, succeeded Othniel. Having been sent with tribute to Eglon, king of Moab, who had oppressed Israel for eighteen years, he slew the tyrant, and calling the people to arms seized the fords of the Jordan, and cut off all the Moabites to the number of ten thousand, 1245 B. C. (Judges iii. 15-30).

APAD'NO, a term of disputed meaning mentioned by Daniel (xi. 45) in speaking of the tabernacle of Antichrist.

APELL'ES, mentioned by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 10). Tradition makes him bishop of Smyrna.

4. Apech in Syria, near which Achab and Benadab fought (3 Kings xx. 26).

APOC'ALYPSE means Revelation, and is the title of the last of the Canonical books of the New Testament. It was written by St. John the Evangelist about the years 95-97 on the island of Patmos, to which he had been exiled by Domitian. It is not in the catalogue drawn up by the council of Laodicea, nor in that of St. Cyril of Jerusalem, but is cited as one of the inspired books by St. Justin, St. Irenæus, Origen, St. Cyprian, St. Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian, and all the Fathers from the fourth century. It contains twenty-two chapters; three addressed to seven bishops of cities in Asia Minor; fifteen on the persecutions of the church; four on the triumph of the church over its enemies, the marriage of the Lamb, and the happiness of the triumphant church.

APOC'RYPHA (concealed), a term applied to books not received in its canon by the church, namely, the prayer of Manasses, the third and fourth books of Esdras, the third and fourth books of Machabees, the Epistle of St. Barnabas, the book of Hermes and the 151st Psalm. Protestants apply the term Apocrypha to a large number of books received by the Latin and all Oriental Churches, and deny their inspiration.

APOL'LO, a Jew of Alexandria, came to Ephesus, and by his eloquence upheld the cause of Christianity, although he was only a catechumen and knew only the baptism of John. He was instructed by Aquila, and afterwards preached at Corinth. Some trouble arose, and he was with St. Paul at Ephesus, when he wrote his first Epistle to the Corinthians (Acts xviii. 24-26; 1 Cor. i.-iv.)

APOLLO'NIA, a city of Macedon (Acts xvii. 1).

APOLLO'NIUS, governor of Samaria, sent by Antiochus Epiphanes to Jerusalem, treacherously slaughtered many thousand people (1 Mach. i. 30, 31; 2 Mach. v. 24, 25); defeated and killed by Judas Machabeus, 147 B. C. (1 Mach. iii. 10-12).

APOLLO'NIUS, governor of Cælo-Syria, general of Demetrius Nicanor, challenges Jonathan to meet him in the field (1 Mach. x. 69); on which Jonathan captured Joppe (74-76), and defeated Apollonius with great slaughter at Azotus, destroying that and other cities, with the temple of Dagon (77-85).

APOLLYON, the Greek name of Abaddon, the destroying angel of the bottomless pit (Apoc. ix. 11).

APOS'TASY, abandonment of the true faith. The term apostate is used in Job xxxiv. 18; Prov. vi. 12; a general apostasy one of the signs of the coming of the last judgment (2 Thess. ii. 3).

APOS'TLE, one who is sent. It is applied distinctively to twelve disciples whom our Lord selected to found his church, and whom he sent, after his resurrection, throughout the world, to preach the gospel, teach all nations and baptize them in the ascension of our Lord, Mathias was chosen instead of Judas. Paul is considered the apostle of the Gentiles. The vocation of the apostles (Luke vi. 13); they are sent into Judea (Matt. x. 5-42); excite the censure of the Jews by breaking off ears of wheat on the Sabbath day (Luke vi. 1); strive for pre-eminence (ix. 46); eat the Pasch with our Lord (Matt. xxvi. 20); sent into all the world (Matt. xxviii. 19; John xv. 16, 27; xx. 21; Acts i. 8; x. 42); they were guided by the Spirit of God (Mark xiii. 11; John xiv. 17; Acts i. 5; ii. 4; iv. 31; xix. 6; 1 Cor. ii. 12; 2 Cor. xiii. 3; 1 Pet. i. 11). The apostles hold a council at Jerusalem to decide questions as to Gentile converts (Acts xv. 4-22); their letter to the Gentiles (23-29); St. Paul commands the precepts of the apostles to be kept (41).

APPARIT'ION, of angels to Abraham (Gen. xviii. 2-22); of an angel to Jacob (Gen. xxxii. 24); of Samuel to Saul (1 Kings xxviii. 12); of a hand writing on the wall (Dan. v. 5); of an angel with the three children in the furnace (iii. 49); of an angel to Helicdorus (2 Mach. iii. 25); of angels at Jerusalem (v. 2); of many dead persons after the Crucifixion (Matt. xxvii. 53); of our Lord to Mary Magdalen (John xx. 16; Mark xvi. 9); to Peter (Luke xxiv. 34); to the disciples at Emmaus (Luke xxiv. 15); to the apostles (Mark xvi. 14; John xx. xxi; Acts i. 3, 4); to Thomas (John xx. 26); to the disciples (1 Cor. xv. 6); to Saul (1 Cor. xv. 8).

AP'PHUS, surname of Jonathan Machabeus (1 Mach. ii. 5).

AP'PII FO'RUM, a place near the port of Rome to which the Christians of Rome came to meet St. Paul (Acts xxviii. 15).

AP'PLE. The tree is mentioned in Cant. ii. 3; v. 1; viii. 5; Joel i. 12; the fruit in Prov. xxv. 11; Cant. ii. 5; vii. 8.

AQ'UEDUCT, or conduit of Ezechias, at Jerusalem (4 Kings xviii. 17; xx. 20; 2 Esdr. ii. 14; Isai. vii. 3; xxxvi. 2); the hill of the aqueduct is mentioned 2 Kings ii. 24. Aqueduct at Bethulia (Judith vii. 6).

AQ'UILA, a native of Pontus in Asia Minor, was converted with his wife Priscilla, by St. Paul (Acts xviii. 2); he was a tent-maker, and St. Paul lodged with him at Corinth (xviii. 3); he and his wife accompanied St. Paul to Ephesus, and risked their lives for him (Rom. xvi. 4); St. Paul in his second epistle to Timothy asks him to salute Aquila and Priscilla (iv. 19); mentions them (1 Cor. xvi. 19).

AR, a town in the land of Moab, destroyed by Moses (Num. xxi. 15, 28; Deut. ii. 18, 29); its desolation (Isai. xv. 1).

ARA'BIA, the country occupied by the Ismaelites, Edomites, people of Hor, Analecites, etc. Mount Sina is mentioned as situated in Arabia (Gal.

iv. 25); the name occurs in 3 Kings x. 15; 2 Paral. ix. 14; Ps. lxxi. 15; Isai. xxi. 13; Jerem. xxv. 24; Ezech. xxvii. 21; 1 Mach. xi. 16; the gospel was preached there by St. Paul (Gal. i. 17); the people under the general name of Arabians are mentioned, 2 Paral. xvii. 11; xxi. 16; xxii. 1; xxvi. 7; 2 Esd. ii. 19; iv. 7; vi. 1; Ps. lxxi. 10; Isai. xiii. 20; 1 Mach. v. 39; xi. 17, 39; xii. 31; 2 Mach. v. 8; xii. 10, 11; Acts ii. 11).

MOUNTAINS OF ARMENIA

A'RAD, king of Chanaan, attacks the Israelites, but is defeated (Num. xxi. 1-3).

ARA'DA, the twenty-first camp of the Israelites (Num. xxxiii. 24).

ARA'DIAN, a branch of the descendants of Chanaan (Gen. x. 18; 1 Paral. i. 16).

EGYPTIAN ARCHER AND QUIVER.
(From Wilkinson.)

A'RAM, fifth son of Sem (Gen. x. 22).

A'RAM, the residence of Balaam (Num. xxiii. 7), apparently Mesopotamia.

A'RA, son of Thares, and brother of Abraham (Gen. xi. 26); father of Lot (27); died before his father (28).

ARA'PHA, a race of giants (2 Kings xxi. 18).

AR'ARAT, king of, to oppose Babylon (Jerem. li. 27); Sennacherib's sons flee to (Isai. xxxvii. 38).

ARAB WOMAN WITH NOSE-RING. (Ayre.)

name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. He invested them with power to perform all kinds of miracles and supernatural cures. He gave them no written law; they were to teach men "to observe all things whatsoever he had commanded them," promising to abide with them (Matt. xxviii. 19), and to send them the Holy Ghost (Acts i. 5). The twelve apostles were Simon, to whom our Lord gave the name of Peter or Rock; Andrew his brother; Philip; John, the Evangelist, son of Zebedee, and James his brother; Bartholomew, Thomas, Matthew, Simon, Jude or Thaddeus, James, son of Alphaeus, and Judas Iscariot. After the resurrection and AR'BATIS, a town in Galilee taken by Simon (1 Mach. v. 23).

AR'BEE, the city of, a name of Hebron (Gen. xxiii. 2; xxxv. 27).

ARBEL'LA, the district of Masaloth (1 Mach. ix. 2).

ARCH of triumph, erected by Saul, at Carmel (1 Kings xv. 12).

ARCH'ELAUS, son of Herod the Great, reigned in Judea (Matt. ii. 22).

ARCHIP'PUS, mentioned by St. Paul (Coloss. iv. 17).

ARC'TURUS, a star in the constellation of the Great Bear (Job ix. 9).

AREOP'AGUS, the place of assembly of the great Judges of Athens. St. Paul preaches there (Acts xvii. 19).

AR'ETAS, king of Arabia, to whom Damascus was subject when St. Paul escaped from the city (Acts ix. 23, 24; 2 Cor. xi. 32).

AREU'NA or Or'nán. While the pestilence was ravaging Jerusalem (1 Par. xxi. 18; 2 Kings xxiv. 18) an angel of the Lord commanded Gad to tell David to come and erect an altar to the Lord, on the threshing-floor of Areuna. The angel stays the plague there (16); David purchased it of Areuna, and built an altar on which he offered holocausts (24, 25; 1 Paral. xxi. 18-26).

AR'GOB, a country in Basan (Deut. iii. 4, 14; 3 Kings iv. 13).

AR'GOB, a place in Samaria where Phaceia, king of Israel, was killed (4 Kings xv. 25).

ARIARA'THES, king of Cappadocia, written to by the Romans in favor of the Jews (1 Mach. xv. 22).

A'RIE, a town in Samaria (4 Kings xv. 25).

A'RIEL, son of Gad, father of the Arielites (Num. xxvi. 17).

A'RIEL, a term meaning lion of God, applied to Jerusalem by Isaias (xxix. 1, 2), and to the altar by Ezechiel (xliii. 15).

A'RIELS of Moab, slain by Banaías (1 Paral. xi. 22).

ARIMATHE'A, the place of Joseph, who received the body of Christ, and buried it in his own monument (Luke xxiii. 51-56).

A'RIOCH, king of Pontus, makes war on Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. xiy. 1).

and preceptor of King Ptolemee, addressed by the Jews of Jerusalem (2 Mach. i. 10).

ARISTOBU'LUS, his household saluted by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 11).

ARK, God commands Noe to build an ark 300 cubits long, fifty broad and thirty high (Gen. vi. 14-16); and to enter with his family and pairs of all living creatures (18-21; vii. 1, 2); Noe obeyed, and entered the ark (vi. 22; vii. 5-16) the seventeenth day of the second month (vii. 11); and on the twenty-seventh day of the seventh month it rested upon the mountains of Armenia. In the King James Bible, this is rendered mountains of Ararat, but the term Mount Ararat is not even in the Protestant Bible. The account of the Ark and Deluge are referred to in Wisd. x. 4; xiv. 6; by our Lord (Matt. xxiv. 37; Luke xvii. 26, 27); by St. Peter (1 Pet. iii. 20, 21; 2 Peter ii. 5).

ARK OF THE COVENANT. God's directions for its construction (Ex. xxv. 10-22); to be made by Bezaleel and Ooliab (xxx. 1-7); it was made accordingly of setim wood, two and a half cubits long, a cubit and a-half in breadth and height, covered within and without with gold. It had four gold rings, through which setim wood bars plated with gold were passed to carry it. There was a crown of gold on the ark, and a golden propitiatory of the entire length and breadth, with two

NOE'S SACRIFICE ON LEAVING THE ARK.

ARISTAR'CHUS, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, companion of St. Paul at Ephesus (Acts xix. 29); on his return to Macedonia (xx. 4); when he sailed to Italy (xxvii. 2); St. Paul mentions him as a fellow-prisoner in his Epistle to the Colossians (iv. 10), and as a fellow-laborer in that to Philemon (24).

ARISTOBU'LUS, a Jew of a priestly family

cherubim of beaten gold at its ends, facing each other and covering the propitiatory with their wings (xxxvii. 1-9); Moses placed the testimony or tables of the law in it (xl. 18; Deut. x. 2; 3 Kings viii. 9); and set it in the tabernacle, drawing the veil before it (Ex. xl. 3-19); Aaron's rod was also placed in the ark (Num. xvii. 10); and the Book of the Law (Deut. xxxi. 26); and a gomor full of manna (Exod. xvi. 33, 34);

Heb. ix. 3, 4); all but the priests were forbidden to touch it (Num. iv. 5); or even approach it (Jos. iii. 4). It was carried by priests when the army moved. It was set down in the middle of the bed of the Jordan (Jos. iii. 17). The ark remained at Silo, but was brought in the time of Heli, the high-priest, to be borne against the Philistines at the battle of Aphec (1 Kings iv. 3, 4). The Israelites were defeated and the ark taken and placed by the Philistines in the temple of Dagon in Azotus (v. 1, 2); it overthrew and broke the idol of Dagon, and gave rise to a colague (6-9); so that they sent it back in a cart drawn by kine which took it to Bethsames (vi. 1-15). For their irreverence many of the Bethsamites lost their lives; so that it was carried to Cariathiarim (vi. 9; vii. 2); it was removed by David to the house of Obbededom (1 Paral. xiii. 5-13; 2 Kings vi. 2-11); and thence to Jerusalem (12); Oza being killed on the way for putting out his hand to hold it up (2 Kings vi. 7; 1 Paral. xiii. 9, 10). When Solomon erected the temple the ark was placed in the Holy of Holies within it (3 Kings viii. 3-6); there it remained till the captivity, when it was hidden by Jeremias in a cave (2 Mach. ii. 5); seen by St. John in the temple of God in heaven (Apoc. xi. 19); it is spoken of as God's footstool (1 Paral. xxviii. 2; Ps. xcvi. 1; cxlvi. 1; Lam. ii. 1).

SCALE ARMOR.

THE ARK.

ARM, used as a symbol of power (Deut. v. 15; Ex. vi. 6; 1 Kings ii. 31; Ps. xvii. 35; Jerem. xvii. 5; Zach. xi. 17). It is also used for the shoulder of the victim (Ecclus. vii. 33; Lev. vii. 32; Exod. xxix. 22).

ARME'NIA. The ark rested on the mountains of Armenia (Gen. viii. 4).

AR'MONI, son of Saul, crucified by the Gabaonites (2 Kings xxi. 8).

ARNON, a torrent emptying into the Dead Sea on the east (Num. xxi., xxii.; Deut. ii., iii., iv.; Jos. xii., xiii.; Judges xi.)

AR'OER, a city of Gad, on the torrent of Arnon (Num. xxxii. 34; Deut. ii. 36; iii. 12; iv. 48; Jos. xii. 2).

ARPHAX'AD, son of Sem (Gen. xi. 10).

ARPHAX'AD, king of the Medes, built Ecbatana, defeated at Ragau (Judith i. 1-6).

AR'SA, governor of Thersa, in whose house Ela, king of Israel, was killed (3 Kings xvi. 10).

ARSA'CES, king of Persia, defeats and captures Demetrius Nicanor, 141 B. C. (1 Mach. xiv. 2, 3).

ARTAXERXES (Smerdis), king of Persia, received a letter of accusation against the Jews, and forbade them to build up Jerusalem (1 Esd. iv. 7-25).

ARTAXERXES (Longimanus) favors the Jews (1 Esd. vii., viii.); and permits them to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem (2 Esd. ii.)

ART'EMAS, a disciple of St. Paul sent by him to Crete, to replace Titus for a time (Titus iii. 12).

A'SA, son of Abia, king of Juda, and of Maacha; he succeeded to the throne 955 B. C. (3 Kings xv. 8; 2 Paral. xiv. 1, 2). He banished idolatry, and deprived his mother of all marks of royalty for setting up an idol, which he took and burned. He did not, however, abolish the high places (3 Kings xv. 10-14; 2 Paral. xv. 16); he fulfilled his father's vows by dedicating vessels in the temple (18); he fortified several cities (2 Paral. xiv. 6); being menaced by Baasa, king of Israel, he sent treasures from the temple to Benadad, king of Syria, to secure his alliance, for which he was censured by Hanani the prophet; for God had previously given him victory over the Ethiopians and Libyans. Asa threw the prophet into prison, and falling sick did not seek the Lord (2 Paral. xvi. 1-12).

THE ARK OF THE COVENANT.

AS'AEL, son of Sarvia, David's sister, and brother of Joab, was slain by Abner, whom he was pursuing after the battle of Gabaon (2 Kings ii. 18); for which Joab afterwards killed Abner (2 Kings iii. 26, 27). Asael was remarkably fleet of foot.

LEATHER CUIRASS.

A'SAPH, son of Barachias, of the tribe of Levi, and of the family of Gerson, was a famous musician in the town of David (1 Paral. vi. 39). Several of the Psalms (xlix., lxxii., lxxxii.) bear his name. Many of his descendants returned from the captivity with Zorobabel (1 Esd. ii. 41; 2 Esd. vii. 45).

AS/CALON, a city of the Philistines, taken by the tribe of Juda after the death of Josue (Judges i. 18). David refers to the city in his lament over Saul (2 Kings i. 20).

ASSYRIAN CUIRASS.

ASCEN'SION of our Lord. After his resurrection, Jesus Christ for forty days shewed himself to his disciples, appearing to them and speaking to them of the kingdom of God. He enjoined them not to depart from Jerusalem until they received power from the Holy Ghost (Acts i. 3-8); then he led them out as far as Bethania (Luke xxiv. 50); to Mount Olivet, a sabbath day's journey from Jerusalem (Acts i. 12); and lifting up his hands he blessed them (Luke xxiv. 50). Then while they looked on he was raised up, and a cloud received him out of their sight (Acts i. 9). Two angels appearing, declared to them: This Jesus who is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come as you have seen him going into heaven (Acts i. 11; St. Mark xvi. 19). St. Helena erected a magnificent church of the Ascension on the spot.

ASEMO'NA or HESMO'NA, one of the stations of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 29, 30; xxxiv. 4, 5; Jos. xv. 4).

ASEN'APHAR, king of Assyria, who sent several nations to colonize Samaria. In their letter against the Jews, these people called him the great and glorious (1 Esd. iv. 10). He is supposed to be Salmanasar or Asor-Haddan.

AS'ENETH, daughter of Putiphare, and wife of the patriarch Joseph, to whom she bore Ephraim and Manasses (Gen. xli. 45, 50; xlv. 20).

AS'ER, son of Jacob by Zelpha, hand-maid to Lia (Gen. xxx. 13); he had four sons, Jamne, Jesua, Jessui and Beria, and a daughter, Sara (Gen. xlv. 17); Jacob's prophecy as to (xlix. 20).

AS'ER, one of the ten tribes descended from Aser, son of Jacob. They marched out of Egypt under Phlegiel, son of Ochrán, as their prince (Num. i. 13; ii. 27; vii. 72; x. 26); they numbered 41,500 (Num. i. 40, 41; ii. 28); they formed part of the camp of Dan on the north side (25-31); their offerings (vii. 72-77); they sent Sthur, son of Michael, to view the Promised Land (xiii. 14); Ahuid, son of Salomi, was appointed from Aser to divide the land (xxxiv. 27); in the census at Settim they numbered 53,400 (xxvi. 47); they stood on Mount Hebal to curse (Deut. xxvii. 13); Moses blesses the tribe (xxxiii. 24, 25); in the division they obtained the fifth lot—their territory (Jos. xix. 24-31); on the shore (Judg. v. 17; Ezech. xlviii. 2); failed to destroy the Chanaanites, and dwelt in their midst (i. 31, 32); keep the pasch (2 Par. xxx. 11).

ASH'ES. The ashes of a red cow, burnt entire, were used in a water of aspersion to cleanse the unclean (Num. xix. 1, 13); ashes were put on the head as a sign of mourning (2 Kings xiii. 19).

A'SIA, as used in the Bible, applies not to the continent, but to the western part of Asia Minor, of which Ephesus was the capital (1 Mach. viii. xi.-xiii.; 2 Mach. iii. 3; Acts ii. vi., xvi., xix.-xx., xxiii., xxiv., xxvii.; Rom. xvi.; 1 Cor. xvi.; 2 Cor. i.; 2 Tim. i.; 1 Pet. i.; Apoc. i.).

AS'IMA, an idol made and worshipped by the men of Emath in Samaria (4 Kings xvii. 30).

A'SIONGABER, a port on the Red Sea, one of the stations of the Israelites (Num. xxxiii. 35; Deut. ii. 8); Solomon had a fleet there (3 Kings ix. 26); Josaphat also (xxii. 49).

ASMO'DEUS, a demon who obsessed Sara, daughter of Raguel, and killed those married to her (Tob. vi. 14; iii. 8); expelled by the angel Raphael (viii. 2, 3).

SYMBOLIC GROUP OF ASIA. (From Group in Hyde Park.)

ASMO'NEAN, a name given to the dynasty of the Machabees.

AS'OR, capital of king Jabin, taken by Josue after the great battle of Merom (Jos. xi. 1, 7-11).

ASORHADDAN, son of Sennacherib, king of Assyria (1 Esd. iv. 2); took Jerusalem (2 Paral. xxxiii. 11).

AS'PHAR. The Dead Sea is called the Lake of Asphar (1 Mac. ix. 33).

AS'PHENEZ, master of the eunuchs of Nabuchodonosor (Dan. i. 3); gives new names to Daniel and his three companions (7).

ASP, a poisonous serpent. The wicked are said to have the venom of asps under their tongues (Ps. cxxxix. 4); and to close their ears to truth, as the asp does to the charmer (lvii. 5).

ASSID'EANS, a class of Jews distinguished for valor and zeal for the law of the Lord (1 Mach. ii. 42; vii. 13; 2 Mach. xiv. 6).

AS'SOS, a port in Troas to which St. Paul went after raising Eutychus to life at Troas (Acts xx. 13, 14).

ASSUE'RUS or Astyages, last king of Media (Dan. ix. 1; xiii. 65).

ASSUE'RUS or Artaxerxes, king of Persia, divorced his queen Vashti, and married Esther, a

REPRESENTATIONS OF A WINGED DEITY, SUPPOSED TO BE THE GOD ASSHUR, THE DEFIED PATRIARCH OF ASSYRIA. (From Layard.)

Jewess. Haman, his prime minister, incensed at Mardochai, a Jew, for not rendering him sufficient honor, obtained of the king an edict for a general massacre of the Jews, and prepared a special gibbet for Mardochai. Esther interceded for herself and her people, and the Jews were delivered, Haman himself being put to death (Esther i.-xvi.).

ASSUE'RUS (Cambyses), king of Persia, before whom the Samaritans accused the Jews (1 Esd. iv. 6).

AS'SUR, son of Sem, founds the Assyrian empire (Gen. x. 22; 1 Paral. i. 17).

ASSYR'IA, ASSYR'IAN. The kingdom was on the Tigris (Gen. ii. 14); Balaam prophesies their overthrow by the Romans (Num. xxiv. 24); Phul, king of the Assyrians, invaded the kingdom of Israel, but Manahem by great tribute appeased him (4 Kings xv. 19); but Tiglathphalasar, king of Assyria, took many cities of Israel, carrying off the people and the whole tribe of Nephthali to Assyria (29); B. C. 759; at the prayer of Achaz he laid waste Damascus (xvi. 9); Salmanasar, king of Assyria, overthrew the kingdom of Israel, and carried the rest of the ten tribes away as captives (xvii. 1-6); 730 B. C. Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians, invades Juda in the reign of Ezechias, but is defeated by an angel (4 Kings xviii. 13; xix. 35; 2 Paral. xxxii. 1-21); prophesies against the Assyrians (Isaias xiv. 25; xxx. 31; xxxi. 8).

AS'TAROTH or Astarthe, or Atergata, a goddess worshipped by the Sidonians (Judg. ii. 13; iii. 7; x. 6; 1 Kings vii. 3; xii. 10; xxxi. 10; 4 Kings xxiii. 13); Saul's armor hung up in the temple of Astaroth (1 Kings xxxi. 10); Solomon introduced her worship in Jerusalem (3 Kings xi. 5, 33); which Josias abolished (4 Kings xxiii. 13).

ATHA'LIA, daughter of Achab, or Amri, king of Israel (4 Kings viii. 18, 26), and wife of Joram, king of Juda. When Jehu put her son Ochozias to death, she killed all the princes of royal blood, in order to usurp the throne. Josaba, sister of Ochozias, ved Joas, son of that king, and he was brought up in the temple for seven years, when the high-priest ad proclaimed the young king. thalia hearing the shouts of the people, rushed to the temple, but was seized, carried out and executed, 878 B. C. (4 Kings xi. 15).

ATHENS, a famous city of Greece. St. Paul preaches there (Acts xvii. 19-33).

AVARICE, to be avoided (Matt. vi. 19; Mark viii. 36; Luke xii. 15; Eph. iii. 3; Col. iii. 5); Titus i. 7, 11; Heb. xiii. 5; the wretchedness of the avaricious (Eccles. v. 9-19; 2); their punishment (Prov. xvi. 27; xxviii. 22; Eccles. ii. 1; Isai. v. 8; lvi. 11; Ezech. xxii. 1; Amos viii. 4; Mich. vi. 10; Job. ii. 9; Eccles. xxxi. 3; 1 Cor. x. 10; 1 Tim. vi. 9); they slay themselves and the poor (Prov. i. 1; Eccles. iv. 8; Eccles. xiv. 3).

ATHERSA'THA, a name or office of Zorobabel

AZARIAS, or Oziás, king of Juda, came to the throne 810 B. C. at the age of sixteen. He

BA'AL or BEL, the god of the Phœnicians or Chanaanites, and apparently identical with the sun

ASSYRIAN BATTLE-SCENE.

THE ACROPOLIS AT ATHENS.

Esd. ii. 63; 2 Esd. vii. 65; 2 Esd. vii. 70); and Nehemias (2 Esd. viii. 9).

ATONE'MENT, Day of, one of the most solemn and holy days of the Jewish year, observed on the tenth day of the seventh month. They were to afflict their souls, offer a holocaust, and refrain from servile work (Lev. xxiii. 27-32).

ATTA'LIA, a port of Pamphylia, visited by St. Paul and St. Barnabas (Acts xiv. 25).

ATT'ALUS (Philadelphus), king of Pergamos. The Romans commend the Jews to him (1 Mach. vi. 22).

AUGUSTUS, Cæsar, first of the Roman emperors, orders the whole world to be enrolled (Luke ii. 1).

AVENGER OF BLOOD, the kinsman of a murdered man was to kill the murderer as soon as he apprehended him (Num. xxxv. 19; Deut. xix. 6). Three cities of refuge were provided, to which those who committed involuntary homicide could flee (Deut. xix. 2); but if he was found outside those cities, the avenger of blood could slay him (Num. xxxv. 26, 27).

AXA, or Achsa, daughter of Caleb, promised by her father to the man who took Cariath Sepher and married Othoniel (Jos. xv. 16, 17; Judg. i. 12, 13; 1 Paral. ii. 49).

was the son of king Amasias and Jechelia. He was struck with leprosy for attempting to offer incense in the temple, and lived apart from men, his son Joathan acting as regent. He reigned from 810-758 B. C. (4 Kings xv. 1-7; 2 Paral. xxvi. 1-21; Matt. i. 9).

AZARI'AS, high-priest after Achimaas (1 Paral. vi. 9).

AZARI'AS, high-priest who opposed Oziás (2 Paral. xxvi. 17).

AZARI'AS, high-priest in the time of Ezechias (2 Paral. xxxi. 10).

AZARIAS, a prophet, son of Oded (2 Paral. xv. 1); sent by the Lord to Asa after his victory over Zara, king of Chus, to promise him prosperity, if he remained faithful (2 Paral. xv. 2).

AZARI'AS, name taken by the angel Raphael (Tob. v. 18).

AZARI'AS, son of Oziás, accuses the prophet Jeremias with deceiving the people (Jerem. xliii. 2).

AZARI'AS, one of three thrown into the fiery furnace by Nabuchodonosor (Dan. iii. 49); see Ananias.

AZARI'AS, an officer left by Judas Machabeus in Jerusalem, who attacked Georgias near Jamnia, and lost two thousand men, 163 B. C. (1 Mach. v. 56).

AZO'TUS, a city of the Philistines; the Ark of the Covenant taken to it (1 Kings v. 1); burned by Jonathan Machabeus (1 Mach. x. 84); the apostle Philip borne to (Acts viii. 40).

AZO'TUS, Mount, Judas Machabeus killed near (1 Mach. ix. 15).

AZYMES or Unleavened Bread, Feast of (Lev. xxiii. 6; Matt. xxvi. 17). See PASCH.

(4 Kings xxiii. 4, 11). The Jews frequently fell into the sin of worshipping Baal, and offered him human victims (Jerem. xxxii. 35; xix. 5; 4 Kings xvii. 16); erected altars to him in groves, on the high places, and on roofs of houses (3 Kings xvi. 31; 4 Kings xxiii. 4, 5, 12; 2 Paral. xxxiii. 3, 5; Jerem. xxxii. 29); they had priests for his worship (3 Kings xviii. 22; 4 Kings x. 19); this worship was attended with great impurity (3 Kings xiv. 24; xv. 12; xxii. 47; 4 King. xxiii. 7; Osee. iv. 14). Gedeon destroyed the altar of Baal (Judg. vi. 26, 30); Elias slew the priests of Baal (3 Kings xviii. 40); Jehu burned the idol (4 Kings xx. 20-28); Josias also (xxiii. 5).

BAA'LA, another name for Cariathiarim (Jos. xv. 9, 10).

BA'AL BER'IT, god of Sichemites, worshipped by the Jews after the death of Gedeon (Judg. ix. 4).

BA'ALIM, plural of Baal, but used generally for false gods (Judg. viii. 33).

BA'ALIS, king of the Ammonites, who sent Ismael to kill Godolias, governor of the Jews (Jerem. xl. 14).

PLAN OF ATHENS, SHOWING THE POSITION OF THE AGORA OR "MARKET."

BA'AL PHAR'ASIM, scene of a battle where David defeated the Philistines (2 Kings v. 20).

He blessed them. He foretold the greatness of Israel, the overthrow of many nations, the coming of the Messiah, the captivity, the Roman conquest and the fall of that empire (Num. xxii., xxiii.) He gave wicked advice to Balac, and was killed among the

FIGURE OF ASTARTE FOUND IN ETRURIA.
(From Rawlinson's Herodotus, ii. 449.)

Chanaanites (Num. xxv. 1; xxxi. 8; 2 Pet. ii. 15; Apoc. ii. 14).

BA'LAC, son of Sephor, king of Moab, summoned Balaam to curse the children of Israel, but God did not permit them to attack him (Num. xxii. 1; Jos. xxiv. 9; Judg. xi. 25; Mich. vi. 5; Apoc. ii. 14).

BAL'ANAN, son of Achobor, seventh king of Edom (Gen. xxxvi. 38; 1 Paral. i. 49).

BALD, children of Bethel destroyed by bears for mocking the prophet Eliseus, and calling him bald head (4 Kings ii. 23, 24); baldness a disgrace (Isai. iii. 17, 24; xv. 2; Jerem. xlvii. 5; Ezech. i. 18); Israelites forbidden to shave the head (Levit. xxi. 5).

BAL'DAD, a descendant of Abraham and friend of Job (Job ii. 11; Gen. xxv. 2).

BALM, an aromatic (Gen. xxxvii. 25; xliii. 11; Eccles. xxiv. 20, 21; Jerem. viii. 22; xlv. 11; li. 8; Ezech. xxvii. 17).

BAL'TAS'SAR, son of Evilmerodach, and grandson of Nabuchodonosor. At a great feast he used the sacred vessels of the temple of Jerusalem for himself and his guests to drink. Then a light appeared writing on the wall. His magi could not interpret the words, but Daniel read, Mane, Thecel, Phares. Mane, God hath numbered thy kingdom and hath finished it; Thecel, thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting; Phares, thy kingdom is divided and given to the Medes and Persians. That very night Babylon was taken and Baltassar was slain, 538 B. C. (Dan. v. 1-31).

BANAI'AS, son of Joiada, captain of David's guards, the Cerethites and Phelethites (2 Kings xx. 23); he was David's counsellor (xxiii. 22; 1 Par. xi. 22); and famous for his exploits. He adhered to Solomon against Adonias, and was sent to execute Joab, whom he succeeded as general (3 Kings ii. 35).

BA'NI, a family that returned from captivity (1 Esd. ii. 10); a Levite (2 Esd. viii. 7).

BAP'TISM of John. When St. John the Baptist began to preach penance, he instituted a baptism in the waters of Jordan. It did not remit sin, but disposed men to receive the real baptism to be instituted by Christ (Luke iii. 3; Matt. iii. 2, 11; xxi. 25; Mark i. 4-8). This baptism was continued by his disciples even after the death of our Lord (Acts xviii. 25; xix. 3).

BAP'TISM, a sacrament of the New Law instituted by Christ for the remission of sins (Matt. iii. 16; John iii. 5); and absolutely necessary for salvation (Mark xvi. 16; John iii. 5). Christ commanded his apostles to teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost (Matt. xxviii. 19); regenerating men in the sacrament (John iii. 5). Baptism was prefigured in the passage of the Red Sea (1 Cor. x. 2); in the pool of Bethesda (John v. 2); in the Deluge (1 Pet. iii. 20). It was administered by the apostles (John iv. 2; Acts ii. 38; viii. 12, 36; xix. 4; xxii. 16); the eunuch of Queen Candace was baptized (Acts viii. 38); Saul (ix. 18); Cornelius and his family (x. 48); Lydia (xvi. 15); the jailor at Philippi (33); Crispus and others (1 Cor. i. 14); baptism saves through the resurrection of Christ (1 Pet. iii. 21; Titus iii. 5); takes away all sin (Ezech. xxxvi. 25; Zach. xiii. 1; Mark i. 4; Col. ii. 13; Heb. x. 22); there is but one baptism (Eph. iv. 5); it cannot be repeated (Heb. vi. 6); it can be conferred on infants (Gen. xvii. 14; Ex. iv. 25; John iii. 5; Acts ii. 39; xvi. 33; 1 Cor. xv. 22; 1 Tim. ii. 4); clothes us in Christ (Gal. iii. 27); applies to us the merits of his death (Rom. vi. 3); makes all believers one body (1 Cor. xii. 13).

BAP'TISM in the name of Jesus Christ (Acts ii. 38) is more generally interpreted to mean by the authority of Christ, and not as modifying Matt. xxviii. 19.

ASSYRIAN SPEARMAN.
(Fbn.)

EGYPTIAN HEAVY-ARMED SOLDIER.

BAP'TISM with the Holy Ghost and with fire (Matt. iii. 11; Luke iii. 16).

BAP'TISM for the dead mentioned (1 Cor. xv. 29).

BA'RA, king of Sodom in the time of Abraham, who returned to him booty recaptured from Codorlahomor (Gen. xiv. 2, 17, 21).

BARAB'BAS, a noted robber, murderer, and rebel, whom the Jews preferred to our Lord when Pilate asked them which should be released (John xviii. 40).

ASSYRIAN BATTERING-RAM.

ROMAN BATTERING-RAM AND TOWER.

BAR'AC, son of Abinoem, chosen by God to deliver his people from bondage under Jabin, king of the Chanaanites, refused to obey the prophetess Debbora, but at last marched with her. He defeated Sisara near Mount Thabor. Sisara escaped, but was killed by Jahel, wife of Haber. Barac and Debbora, in a canticle, thanked God for the victory (Judges iv. v.); B. C. 1285.

BARJE'SU, or Elymas, a Jewish magician in the island of Crete, attached to the proconsul Sergius Paulus. He opposed Paul and Barnabas, but was reproached by St. Paul and struck with blindness (Acts xiii. 6).

BARJONA, son of Jona, St. Peter so called (Matt. xvi. 17).

BAR'NABAS, a disciple of Christ and companion of St. Paul in his apostolic labors. He was of the tribe of Levi, and born in Cyprus. He is also called Joseph. Barnabas introduced St. Paul to the apostles at Jerusalem (Acts ix. 26, 27). About the year 42 he was sent from Jerusalem to Antioch, and went to Tarsus to invite St. Paul to aid him (Acts xi. 22-26). The two saints visited Jerusalem with alms in the year 44 (Acts xi. 30). At Antioch they were directed by the Holy Ghost to be set apart for special work (xiii. 2). Their apostolic labors extended to Seleucia, Cyprus, Paphos, Perge, Antioch in Pisidia, Lystra, and Derbe. With St. Paul he opposed those who insisted on the circumcision of Gentile converts (xv. 2), and they were deputed to Jerusalem to have the point decided by the apostles

(xv. 22). From Antioch he proceeded to Cyprus again with his kinsman John Mark (xv. 39). He is said to have suffered martyrdom there. An epistle bearing his name is extant, and is very ancient, but has not been received as canonical.

BAR'SABAS, the surname of Joseph, one of the early disciples (Acts i. 23). He was apparently one of the seventy who had been witnesses of our Lord's ministry. He was proposed as successor of Judas Iscariot.

BAR'SABAS, surname of the apostle Jude (Acts xv. 22).

BAR'THOLOMEW, one of the apostles, was from Galilee (Matt. x. 3; Mark iii. 18; Luke vi. 14). He is said to have preached the gospel in India, Persia and Armenia. He is supposed by many to be identical with Nathaniel, Bartholomew being merely a patronymic. No evangelist speaks of both, and St. John (xxi. 2) seems to include Nathaniel among the apostles.

BAR'TIM'EUS, a blind man of Jericho, cured by our Lord while on his way to Jerusalem. When he heard that Jesus of Nazareth was passing, he began to invoke his aid, and could not be silenced (Mark x. 46-52; Matt. xx. 30).

BARUCH, the son of Nerias, was secretary and disciple of the prophet Jeremias. While that prophet was in prison, in the reign of Joakim, Baruch wrote down his prophecies and read them in the temple (Jerem. xxxvi. 4-10; 14-19); and he wrote them again after the king had destroyed the first roll (32). Jeremias consoled Baruch, who was afflicted at the sins of his countrymen (xlv). In the fourth year of Sedecias he went to Babylon with his brother Saraias, bearing a letter of Jeremias to the captive Jews (Jer. li. 59); he brought back a letter and alms (Baruch i.-v.). During the siege of Jerusalem he was imprisoned with Jeremias, till set free by Nabuzardan. He was accused of persuading Jeremias to oppose the emigration to Egypt (Jerem. xliii. 1-4), but went there with that prophet. His book is received as canonical by the church, but is rejected by Protestants.

BAS'AN, a kingdom east of the Jordan, extending to the desert between the river Jaboc and mount Hermon. Og was king when Moscs defeated him near Edrai, and conquered the country (Deut. iii. 1-11).

BAS'EMATH. 1. Daughter of Elon, the Hethite, and wife of Esau (Gen. xxvi. 34). 2. Daughter of Ismael, third wife of Esau (Gen. xxvi. 2, 4, 10). 3. Daughter of Solomon, wife of Achimaas (3 Kings iv. 15).

BAS'ILISK, a kind of serpent (Ps. xc. 13).

BASK'ET for meal or bread (Gen. xl. 16; Exod. xxix. 3; Lev. viii. 2, 26; Num. vi. 15, 17, 19; Matt. xiv. 20; Mark vi. 43; Luke ix. 17; John vi. 13); for gathering grapes (Jer. vi. 9); for fruit (xxiv. 1, 2; Deut. xxvi. 2, 4); other articles (Ps. lxxx. 7; 4 Kings x. 7).

THE BURIAL OF JESUS. (After Quintin Matsys.)

BAT, classed among the unclean animals (Lev. xi. 19; Deut. xiv. 18).

BATE or Epha, a Hebrew measure containing the tenth part of the chore or gomara. It held, according to Josephus, eight and two-third gallons, though Rabbinites make it about one-half (3 Kings vii. 26; 2 Paral. ii. 10; 1 Esdr. vii. 22; Ezech. xlv. 10).

BATH, bathing. The Hebrews bathed on their housetops and in their gardens (2 Kings xi. 2; Dan. xiii. 15).

BATH'UEL, son of Nachor and Melcha, was a nephew of Abraham, and father of Rebecca (Gen. xxii. 23).

BDELL'IUM, the gum of a tree found in Arabia, also in the land of Hevilath (Gen. ii. 12); manna the color of bdellium (Num. xi. 7).

BE'AN, the children of, malicious enemies of the Jews (1 Mach. v. 4).

BEANS, a vegetable (2 Kings xvii. 28; Ezech. iv. 9).

BEAR, an animal still found in the mountains of Palestine (1 Kings xvii. 34; 2 Kings xvii. 8). The constellation of the Great Bear (Job ix. 9).

BEARD, Israelites forbidden to shave the beard (Lev. xix. 27; xxi. 5); shaving it off as an insult (2 Kings x. 4); touched in salutation (xx. 9); anointed (Ps. cxxxii. 2); neglected or torn out in grief (2 Kings xix. 24; Isai. vii. 20; xv. 2; Jerem. xli. 5; Baruch vi. 30). The beard of a leper shaved (Lev. xiv. 9).

BEASTS, Daniel's vision of four beasts (Dan. vii. 3); another (viii. 3); mentioned in the Apocalypse (xvii. 3).

BEATITUDES, the eight, pronounced by our Lord (Matt. v. 3; Luke vi. 20).

BED. The bed was originally very simple, the robe worn by day being the covering at night (Deut. xxiv. 13); even later the bedstead was so light as to be portable (1 Kings xix. 13, 15); subsequently they were highly adorned (Judith xiii. 8; Esth. i. 6); the furniture of an ordinary bedchamber (4 Kings iv. 10). Bed is used for the couch on which guests reclined (Esth. i. 6; vii. 8).

BEE, frequently mentioned in the Bible (Deut. i. 44; Judges xiv. 8; Ps. cxvii. 12; Isai. vii. 18).

BE'ELPHE'GOR, god of the Moabites. The Israelites initiated into his worship (Num. xxv. 3; xxxi. 16; Ps. cv. 28; Osee ix. 10).

BE'ELSEPHON, a station of the Israelites, where they crossed the sea (Exod. xiv. 2, 6).

BEEL'ZEBUB, a god adored at Accaron. Ochozias, when wounded, sent to consult him (4 Kings i. 2); in the New Testament used as a name for the devil (Matt. x. 25; xii. 24; Mark iii. 22; Luke xi. 15).

BE'HEMOTH, a monstrous animal supposed to be the hippopotamus (Job xl. 10).

BEL, first king of Babylon, worshipped as a god. The name is used sometimes to typify the kingdom (Isai. xlv. 1; Jerem. li. 44); Baruch reproaches them with asking a dumb idol to cure the dumb (vi. 40); Daniel detected the frauds of the priests of Bel (Dan. xiv. 2).

BE'LA, son of Beor, king of Denaba (Gen. xxxvi. 32).

BE'LA, son of Benjamin (Gen. xlv. 21; Num. xxvi. 38; 1 Paral. viii. 1).

BEL'GA, chief of one of the courses of priests (1 Paral. xxiv. 14).

BE'LIAL (without yoke), used to mean a wicked, worthless, insubordinate man (Judg. xix. 22; 1 Kings ii. 12); used also to express Satan (2 Cor. vi. 15).

BEL'LY. Some make a god of their belly (Phil. iii. 19; Rom. xvi. 18).

BEN'ABIN'ADAB, governor of Nephath Dor, married Tapheth, daughter of Solomon (3 Kings iv. 11).

BENAD'AD, king of Syria, aided Asa, king of Juda, against Baasa, king of Israel, 938 B. C. (3 Kings xv. 18).

BENAD'AD II., king of Syria, attacked Acha, king of Israel, 901 B. C., but was defeated; he resumed the war the next year, but his army was destroyed at Aphec. He sought his life at the hands of Achab, who spared him (3 Kings xx. 3). Twelve years after he made war on Joram, son of Achab, but Eliseus defeated his plans (4 Kings vi. 8); some years after he besieged Samaria, and reduced the people to a fearful famine, but God sent a panic into his army, so that it fled from its camp (4 Kings vii., viii.).

BENAD'AD III., was thrice defeated by Joas, king of Israel, and lost all the conquests made by Hazael (4 Kings xiii. 3, 24, 25).

BEN'JAMIN, son of Jacob and Rachel, and the youngest of his children. Rachel, dying in giving him birth, called him Benoni (son of my pain); but Jacob called him Benjamin (son of the right hand) (Gen. xxxv. 18). When Jacob sent his sons into Egypt, he retained Benjamin (xlii. 4); Joseph, not trusting them, detained them till they brought Benjamin (xlii. 15, 20, 34; xliii. 7); Jacob reluctantly allowed him to go (8-15); Joseph concealed his joy, and by stratagem put his cup in Benjamin's sack (29, 34; xlv. 2, 12); Juda pleaded for him (18-34); then Joseph declared who he was, and wept and embraced Benjamin (xlv. 14); Jacob's prophecy (xlix. 27).

BEN'JAMIN. The tribe of Benjamin descended from the youngest son of Jacob. In the exodus from Egypt, Abidan, son of Gedeon, was prince of the tribe of Benjamin (Num. i. 11; ii. 22), and it numbered 35,400 (ii. 23), and at Settim 45,600 (xxvi. 41) men able to go to war; they marched on the west of the tabernacle (ii. 18); their offerings (vii. 60-65); their spy, Phalti (xiii. 10); Elidad chosen to divide the land (xxxiv. 21). Moses prophesies concerning the tribe (Deut. xxxiii. 12); the land allotted to the tribe was south of Ephraim, and between it and Juda, bounded by the Jordan, Cariathiarim, and from the valley of Hinnon to Bethel. They were skilful archers (1 Kings xx. 20, 36; 2 Kings i. 22; 1 Paral. viii. 40; xii. 2; 2 Paral. xvii. 17). The tribe for a fearful crime drew on it the other tribes, who slew all but 600, who escaped to the rock of Remmon (Judg. xix., xx.). The tribe gave the first king in the person of Saul (1 Kings ix. 1), and it adhered to Ishobeth, his son (2 Kings ii.); on the revolt of Jeroboam, it remained faithful to Roboam and his successors (3 Kings xii. 21) till the captivity. St. Paul belonged to this tribe.

BERE'A, a city in Macedonia, where St. Paul preached with great success (Acts xvii. 10, 13).

BER'ESCHIT (In the beginning), the Hebrew name for the book of Genesis.

BER'NICE, daughter of Agrippa the Great, and sister of the young Agrippa, with whom she listened to St. Paul's address to Festus (Acts xxv. 13-23).

BER'ODACHBAL'ADAN, king of Syria, condole with Ezechias (4 Kings xx. 12).

BE'ROTH, a station of the children in the desert of Pharan (Deut. x. 6).

BER'SABEE, the Well of the Oath, where Abraham made a league with Abimelech (Gen. xxi. 31, 33). It was twenty miles south of Hebron, and one of the extreme points of the country, Dan being the other. Hence the expression, "from Dan to Bersabee" (2 Kings xvii. 11). It was in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 28); and afterwards in Simeon (xix. 2).

BER'YL, a precious stone. The eighth jewel in the rational of the high priest was a beryl (Ex. xxviii. 20; xxxix. 13); an ornament of the king of Tyre (Ezech. xxviii. 13); in New Jerusalem (Apoc. xxi. 20).

BETHLEHEM.

BERZEL'LAI, of Rogel in the land of Galaad, an aged friend of David, who brought him provisions at Mahaim, at the time of Absalom's rebellion (2 Kings xvii. 27, 28). He returned to Jerusalem with David, but declined to remain at his court (xix. 33, 34); his sons are commended to Solomon (3 Kings ii. 7). (2) Priests after the captivity rejected from the priesthood (1 Esd. ii. 62; 2 Esd. vii. 64).

BES'ECATH or BEZEC (4 Kings xxii. 1), a city near Sichem, of which Adoni-Besec was apparently king. Saul reviewed his army here (1 Kings xi. 8).

BES'ELAM MITHRIDATES, an officer of the king of Persia, writes to him to prevent Jews rebuilding Jerusalem (1 Esd. iv. 7).

BES'ELEEL, son of Uri, and Mary the sister of Moses. He was gifted by God with wonderful skill in the working of metals and in invention. He was employed by Moses in constructing the tabernacle and all the articles used in divine worship (Exod. xxxi. 1-6).

BE'SOR, a brook in the southern part of Juda (1 Kings xxx. 9, 10, 21).

BETHA'NIA, at the foot of Mount Olivet, fifteen furlongs east of Jerusalem (John xi. 18; Mark xi. 1; Luke xix. 29). It was the residence of Lazarus, Mary and Martha, and here our Lord raised Lazarus to life (John xi. 1-45).

BETHA'NIA, a place beyond the Jordan where St. John baptized (John i. 28).

BETHA'VEN, in the mountains of Benjamin, east of Bethel (Jos. vii. 2; xviii. 12).

BETHBES'SEN. a city of Juda, where Simon and Jonathan Machabeus were besieged by Bacchides (1 Mach. ix. 62, 64).

BETH'EL, a city west of Hai (Gen. xii. 8). It was called Luza, but Jacob fleeing from Esau having seen in sleep the vision of angels, consecrated the stone on which he had slept, and named it Bethel, House of God (Gen. xxviii. 19); he afterwards built an altar there (xxxv. 7); in the days of the judges it was a holy place (Judg. xx. 31; xxi. 2); Debora dwelt near it (Jud. iv. 4, 5); the Ark of the Covenant was near it (xx. 26; xxi. 4); Samuel the prophet visited it (1 Kings vii. 16); here Jeroboam set up the golden calves (3 Kings xii. 28, 29); it was acquired by the kingdom of Juda (2 Paral. xiii. 19); Elias and other prophets were there (4 Kings ii. 2); there were priests there still later (4 Kings xvii. 28); Josias destroyed the heathen altars there (xxiii. 15-19). The prophets refer to it as a place of idolatry (Amos v. 5; Osee x. 15).

BETH'ER, a range of mountains (Cant. ii. 17).

BETH'IES'IMOTH, a town of Moab, assigned to Ruben (Jos. xiii. 20); its destruction foretold (Ezech xxv. 9).

BETH'LEHEM (House of Bread), a city of Juda, ordinarily called Bethlehem of Juda, to distinguish it from Bethlehem in Zabulon (Jos. xix. 15). It is also called Ephrata (Gen. xlviii. 7; Mich. v. 2; Ruth i. 2; 1 Kings xvii. 12); Booz, one of the ancestors of David, was born there (Ruth i. 2, 19, 22; ii. 4; iv. 11); and David also (Luke ii. 4); the prophet Micheas (v. 2; Matt. ii. 6) foretold that the Messiah was to be born there, and this prophecy was recognized by the priests. Our Lord Jesus Christ was born here in a stable (Matt. ii. 1; Luke ii. 4, 7); and here the shepherds and the wise men came to adore him. When Herod found that the wise men did not return, he ordered a massacre of all the children at Bethlehem of two years old and under that age (Matt. ii. 16, 18). Bethlehem is on a hillside, six miles south of Jerusalem. At the cave of the near the Jordan. It was the birthplace of the apostles St. Peter, St. Andrew, and St. Philip (John i. 44;

BACTRIAN CAMEL.

Nativity there is a convent and a church dating back to the reign of Justinian.

BETHO'RON, a town in the tribe of Ephraim, ceded to the Levites (Jos. xxi. 22); it is frequently mentioned (Jos. x. 10, 11; 1 Kings xiii. 18; 2 Kings ii. 29; 1 Paral. vi. 68; 2 Paral. xxv. 13; 1 Mach. iii. 16, 24; iv. 29; vii. 39; ix. 50); Bethhoron, the upper, is named (Jos. xvi. 5; 2 Paral. viii. 5); and the lower (Jos. xvi. 3; xviii. 13; 3 Kings ix. 17; 2 Paral. viii. 7).

BETH'PHAGE', a little village at the foot of Mount Olivet, between Bethania and Jerusalem. From it our Lord sent his disciples to procure the ass on which he rode into Jerusalem before his passion (Matt. xxi. 2; Luke xix. 29; John xii. 14).

BETH'SABEE, daughter of Eliam, wife of Urias, the Hethite. David seeing her bathing, was led by her beauty into the sin of adultery, and caused the death of Urias in order to marry her (2 Kings xi. 1-27); her child by this adulterous intercourse died, as the prophet Nathan foretold (xii. 18, 19); she subsequently bore him Solomon, Simmaa or Samua, Sobab, and Nathan (1 Par. iii. 5; 2 Kings v. 14); St. Matt. i. 6, 7, traces our Lord's descent from Solomon, and St. Luke (iii. 31) from Nathan. When Adonias, towards the close of David's reign, aspired to the succession, Bethsabee had Solomon crowned (3 Kings i. 34); after Solomon's accession, she asked him to give Abisag as wife to Adonias, which led to the death of the latter (3 Kings ii. 25). The thirty-first chapter of Proverbs is given as from Bethsabee.

BETHSA'IDA, the Hebrew name of a pool at Jerusalem, called also Probatica. It had five porches where the sick lay waiting for an angel to move the waters. The one who entered the water first after it moved was cured of his infirmity. Our Lord here cured a man helpless for thirty-eight years (John v. 1-9).

BETHSA'IDA, a city on the lake of Tiberias, xii. 21). Our Lord frequently visited it. He cured a blind man there (Mark viii. 22); on account of the incredulity of the people to his miracles he denounced woe to it (Luke x. 13; Matt. xi. 21).

BIBLE. The books of the Old Testament were first collected and revised by the Sanhedrim in the time of Esdras. The later books written or translated in Greek after the version by the seventy, known as the Septuagint, were added to it, and the whole of the Old Testament in this form passed into the hands of the Christian Church. After the establishment of the church, with greater power conferred upon her than the Sanhedrim had enjoyed, she accepted from time to time as inspired, works written by the apostles, St. Matthew, St. John, St. James, St. Jude, by St. Paul, and by disciples like St. Mark and St. Luke. From the council of Carthage (A. D. 397) to the council of Trent (A. D. 1576) she has fixed and adhered to a canon defining for the Christian world what books are to be held as inspired Scripture.

BIGAMY, the having two wives at the same time. The first example is among the family of Cain (Gen. iv. 19).

BIRDS created (Gen. i. 22; vii. 14); offered in holocaust (Lev. i. 14); laws as to nests of (Deut. xxii. 6).

BISH'OPS, election and duties (Luke xxii. 26; John x. 4-14; xxi. 15; Acts i. 24; vi. 3; xiv. 22; xx. 28; Rom. xv. 16-25; 1 Cor. iv. 1; 2 Cor. iii. 6; iv. 5; Eph. i. 16; iii. 2; 1 Tim. iii. 1; iv. 6; 2 Tim. ii. 15-24; 1 Pet. v. 2).

BITHYN'IA, a province in Asia Minor (Acts xvi. 7; 1 Pet. i. 1).

BIT'TERN, a bird (Lev. xi. 18; Sophonias ii. 14); mistranslated cormorant in King James' Bible.

BIT'UMEN, the ark of Noe pitched with (Gen. vi. 14). The word is in the original Douay, but omitted in most editions of Challoner. Used for mortar in tower of Babel (xi. 3). Pits of, in the basin of the Dead Sea (Gen. xiv. 10). The mother of Moses smeared the basket with it (Ex. ii. 3). The Douay has bitumen in these places, but Challoner adopted from the King James Bible the indefinite expression slime.

BLAS'PHEMY, punished (Lev. xxiv. 11; 2 Esd. ix. 18; Tob. xiii. 16; Isai. i. 4; v. 24; xlviii. 11; lii. 5; Jerem. xxiii. 17; Ezech. xx. 27; 1 Mach. vii. 38; 2 Mach. viii. 4; xii. 14; xv. 24; Rom. ii. 24; 1 Tim. i. 20; Jude 8); against Jesus Christ (Matt. xxvii. 39; Luke xxiii. 39); against the Holy Ghost (Matt. xii. 31).

BLESSINGS, benedictions, Abraham is blessed by Melchisedec (Gen. xiv. 19); Jacob by Isaac (xxvii. 27; xxviii. 4); Jacob blesses his sons (Gen. xlviii. ix.); blesses Joseph's sons (xlviii. 15); the Israelites blessed by Aaron (Lev. ix. 22); by Balaam (Num. xxiii. 9); by Moses (Deut. xxxiii. 1); by Josue (Jos. viii. 33); by David (2 Kings vii. 8); by Solomon (3 Kings viii. 14); Josue blessed Ruben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses (Jos. xxii. 6); blesses Caleb (Jos. xiv. 13); Heli blesses Elcana (1 Kings ii. 20); Mathathias blesses the Machabees (1 Mach. ii. 69); David blesses spoils (1 Paral. xviii. 11); Simeon blesses the mother of our Lord (Luke ii. 34); Jesus Christ, our Lord, blesses the loaves and fishes before multiplying them (Matt. xiv. 19; Mark vi. 41; Luke ix. 16); he blesses the bread and wine at the moment when he institutes the Holy Eucharist (Matt. xxvi. 26; Mark xiv. 22); he blesses his disciples before ascending to heaven (Luke xxiv. 50, 51).

BLESS'ING of articles used in the divine worship—of Aaron's vestments (Ex. xxvii., xxviii.); of water for trial of jealousy (Num. v. 17); of an altar (Num. vii. 2 Paral. vii.).

BLIND'NESS. The Sodomites blinded (Gen. xix. 11); Eliseus strikes the Syrians blind (4 Kings vi. 18); Tobias struck with blindness (ii. 11; xi. 15); the enemies of the Machabees (2 Mach. x. 30); Saul SKIN BOTTLES.

(Acts ix. 8, 18); Elymas (xiii. 11); blind men of Jericho (Matt. xx. 30); a man born blind (John ix. 1) and blind man of Bethsaida (Mark viii. 25) cured by our Lord. Spiritual blindness (Ps. lxxviii. 24; cxlv. 8; Isai. xlii. 7-19; lix. 10; Wisd. ii. 21; Deut. xxviii. 28; Isai. vi. 10; John xii. 40; Rom. i. 21; xi. 10; Matt. xv. 14; Mark viii. 18; 2 Cor. iv. 4; Eph. iv. 18; 2 Pet. i. 9; 1 John i. 16; Apoc. iii. 17).

BLOOD. The effusion of blood was an essential part of sacrifice. "Without shedding of blood there is no remission" (Heb. ix. 22); the Old Testament dedicated with blood (18); the blood of the paschal lamb protects from death (Ex. xii. 7-23); the blood of a victim offered to God not to be poured upon heaven (Ex. xxiii. 18); blood of victims poured on the altar and sprinkled on the people (Ex. xxiv. 6, 8; xxix. 12, 20; Lev. i. 5, 11; iii. 2; iv. 7; v. 9, etc.; Heb. ix.) Blood being reserved especially to God, the Israelites were forbidden to eat it (Gen. ix. 4; Lev. iii. 17; vii. 27; xvii. 10, 12, 14; Deut. xii. 23; Acts xv. 20).

BLOOD OF CHRIST to be shed for the remission of sins (Matt. xxvi. 28; Mark xiv. 24; Luke xxii. 20; Acts xx. 28; Eph. i. 7; ii. 13; Coloss. i. 14, 20; Heb. ix. 7, 9, 12, 14-22; 1 Pet. i. 2, 19; 1 John i. 7; v. 6; Apoc. i. 5; vii. 14; xxii. 14); the bloody sweat in the garden (Luke xxii. 44); his blood actually shed on the cross (John xix. 34; 1 John v. 8); at the last supper he declares the chalice to be his blood (Matt. xxvi. 28; Mark xiv. 24; Luke xxii. 20; 1 Cor. xi. 25); he declares his blood to be drink indeed (John vi. 56); the drinking of it a condition of life everlasting (vi. 54-57); those who receive the Eucharist unworthily guilty of the Body and Blood of Christ (1 Cor. xi. 27); it pleads for us (Heb. xii. 24).

BLOOD, shedding of human. The first instance, the murder of Abel (Gen. iv. 10); it cries to heaven for vengeance (iv. 10; Heb. xii. 24); man's blood not to be shed (Num. xxxv. 16-34; Ex. xx. 13; Matt. v. 21; Deut. v. 17; xix. 10); expiation of blood shed secretly (xxi. 1-9); the shedding of blood to be expiated by blood (Deut. xix. 13; Num. xxxv. 33); compensation for blood prohibited (31); cities of refuge provided for those who shed blood inadvertently (Num. xxxv. 6, 13, 15; Jos. xx. 2, 7, 9; Deut. xix. 4-7).

ANCIENT SARCOPHAGUS OR STONE COFFIN.

BLOOD, issue of, the menstrual discharge caused legal uncleanness (Lev. xv. 19-30; Matt. ix. 20; Mark v. 25; Luke viii. 43).

BLOOD, avenger of, the nearest relative of a murdered man, to kill the murderer (Num. xxxv. 19, 21); even an involuntary slayer, if found outside of city of refuge (27; Deut. xix. 6).

BOANER'GES, sons of thunder; the name given by our Lord to James and John, the sons of Zebedee (Mark iii. 17); as some think for the warmth of their zeal (Luke ix. 54).

BOC'CI, high-priest, son of Abisue (1 Paral. vi. 5).

BONDS AND CHAINS sent to various kings (Jer. xxvii. 2).

BONES, those of Joseph carried out of Egypt by Moses (Ex. xiii. 19); and buried in the land of promise (Jos. xxiv. 32); those of Saul and his sons buried by the Jabesites (1 Kings xxxi. 13; 1 Paral. x. 12); transferred by David to the sepulchre of Cis, in the land of Benjamin (2 Kings xxi. 12-14); a man raised to life by the bones of Eliseus (4 Kings xiii. 21); bones burnt by Josias on the heathen altars to defile them (4 Kings xxiii. 16; 3 Kings xiii. 2); the bones of a holy man respected (4 Kings xxiii. 18); Ezechiel's vision of the dry bones (Ezech. xxxvii. 1-14); bones of the paschal lamb not to be broken (Ex. xii. 46); accomplishment of this figure in the person of Christ (John xix. 33, 36).

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN FUNERAL PROCESSION. (From Calliaud. Fbn.)

BOOK OF LIFE (Ex. xxxii. 32; Ps. lxxviii. 29; Philip. iv. 3; Apoc. iii. 5; xiii. 8; xx. 12; xxi. 27); in Zachary's vision (Zach. v.); book of the seven seals (Apoc. v.)

BOOKS, of Moses, found in the temple (4 Kings xxii. 8); of Jeremias burned (Jer. xxxvi. 23); holy, burned by Antiochus (1 Mach. i. 59).

BOOT'Y, division of (Num. xxxi.); booty taken from king Agag to be destroyed (1 Kings xv.)

BO' OZ, son of Salmon and Rahab, marries Ruth (Ruth i. iv.); one of the ancestors of our Lord (Matt. i. 5).

BO' OZ, one of the two columns of brass, which Solomon set up in the porch of the temple (3 Kings vii. 21); the other pillar was called Jachin. They were together thirty-five cubits high (2 Paral. iii. 15; 3 Kings vii. 15; Jerem. lii. 21); Booz was on the left (2 Par. iii. 7).

BO'RITH, a cleansing herb (Jerem. ii. 22).

BO'SES, a rock scaled by Jonathan when he attacked the Philistines (1 Kings xiv. 4).

BO'SOR or BOS'RA, a city beyond the Jordan assigned by Moses to the tribe of Ruben (Deut. iv. 43); a city of refuge (Jos. xx. 8; xvi. 27, 36); the prophets menaced Bosra with woe (Isai. xxxiv. 6; Jerem. xlviii. 24; xlix. 13, 22); Judas Machabeus captured and destroyed it (1 Mach. v. 26-28).

BOS'PHORUS, some of the Jews captive in (Abdias i. 20).

BOT'TLE, a leathern vessel for liquids (Ps. cxviii. 83; Matt. ix. 17); also earthen (Jerem. xix. 1).

BRACE'LETS (Num. xxxi. 50).

BRAM'BLE, Joatham's parable of the bramble chosen by the trees to be their king (Judges ix. 8-15).

BRASS, used for buckles of the tabernacle (Ex. xxv. 3; xxvi. 11; xxxvi. 18); for the altar, socket of pillars (xxvii. 1-18; xxxviii. 1-7, 9-19), the laver (8); Moses made a serpent of, which he set up (Num. xxi. 9);

castings of brass (3 Kings vii. 23; 2 Paral. iv.)

BRAZEN SERPENT, set up by Moses, at God's command, by looking at which those bitten by fiery serpents were cured (Num. xxi. 6-9); Jesus Christ refers to it as a figure of himself (John iii. 14); it did not heal by its own power (Wisd. xvi. 7); as the Jews paid it idolatrous honor, calling it Nohestan, king Ezechias destroyed it (4 Kings xviii. 4).

BREAD. Jesus the bread which came down from heaven (John vi. 41; 1 Cor. x. 16; xi. 27). See EUCCHARIST. Unleavened bread to be eaten with the paschal lamb (Ex. xii. 18); bread brought to Elias miraculously (3 Kings xvii. 6); loaves of bread multiplied by Christ (Matt. xiv., xv.; Mark vi. 41; viii. 20; Luke ix. 13; John vi. 11).

BRETH'REN IN CHRIST (Matt. xii. 49; xxviii. 10; John xx. 17; Heb. ii. 12).

BRU'CHUS, a devouring insect, apparently a young locust (Lev. xi. 22; Ps. cxxxiv. 34; Joel i. 4; ii. 25; Nahum iii. 15, 16). See CATERPILLAR.

BUSH. The burning bush seen by Moses (Ex. iii. 2).

BUYING AND SELLING. How it should be done (Levit. xix. 35; xxv. 14; Deut. xxv. 13; Prov. xi. 1; Eccles. xlii. 7; Jerem. xxxii. 6; 1 Cor. vii. 30; example set by Abraham (Gen. xxiii. 9-14); Esau sells his birthright (xxv. 33); Achab wishes to buy Naboth's vineyard (3 Kings xxi.)

BRICKS. The making of bricks is mentioned in regard to the tower of Babel (Gen. xi. 3); the Egyptians compelled the Jews to make brick (Ex. i. 14; v. 7); brick-kilns are mentioned in David's time (2 Kings xii. 31); Isaias reproaches the Jews with offering sacrifice on bricks, contrary to the law (Isai. 3).

BRIDE. The new Jerusalem coming down out of heaven compared to a bride adorned for her husband (Apoc. xxi. 2); the Bride is the church, the wife of the Lamb (9); her invitation to the nations (xxii. 17); for the adornment of a Hebrew bride, see Ruth iii. 3; Ezech. xxiii. 40; Eph. v. 26; her veil

EASTERN MODE OF BURIAL.

(Gen. xxiv. 65; xxxviii. 14; 1 Cor. xi. 10); her white dress (Apoc. xix. 8); her stomacher or girdle (Jerem. ii. 32); her jewels (Cant. ix. 18; lxi. 10; Apoc. xxi. 2); perfumes (Ps. xlv. 9).

CAD'UMIM, a torrent (Judges v. 21).

CÆSAR, or CESAR, the surname of Julius, applied generally to all the Roman emperors—to Tiberius (Matt. xxii. 21); to Nero (Acts xxv. 10).

should die, and that the whole nation should not perish. This he said not of himself, but because he was the high-priest of that year (John xi. 51, 52); when our Lord was arrested he was taken first to Annas, who came into office after the Pasch (Acts iv. 6), then to Caiphias (John xviii. 24); after hearing the witnesses, Caiphias adjured him to declare whether he was the Christ, the Son of God, and when Jesus declared that he was, the high-priest rent his garments, and declared him a blasphemer, and worthy of death. Caiphias again questioned him in the morning. He was with Annas in trying the apostles (Acts iv. 6).

CAI'US or GAIUS, a disciple of St. Paul; the host of that apostle at Corinth (Rom. xvi. 23), and accompanied him to Ephesus (Acts xix. 29); he is supposed to be the one to whom St. John addressed his third epistle (3 John i. 1).

CAL'AMUS, used in oil of unction (Ex. xxx. 23).

CA'LEB, son of Jephone of the tribe of Judas, one of the spies sent to examine the Promised Land (Num. xiii. 31); he and Josue reported favorably, and urged BRIDE'GROOM. His reception mentioned (John iii. 29; Isai. lxi. 10; Cant. iii. 11). See Marriage.

BUL'RUSHES, basket made of (Ex. ii. 3).

BUR'IAL. The first burial described in the Bible is that of Sara in the cave purchased by Abraham (Gen. xxiii. 4-19); the only instance of cremation is that of Saul and his sons (1 Kings xxxi. 12); aromatics were used to embalm the body (2 Paral. xvi. 14; Mark xvi. 1; Luke xxiii. 56; xxiv. 1; John xix. 39, 40), and the body was wrapped in linen cloths (John xi. 44; xix. 40). They had cemeteries without the cities (Ez. xxxix. 15).

BUT'TER is mentioned Gen. xviii. 8; Deut. xxxii. 14; Judg. v. 25; Job xx. 17; Isai. vii. 15, 22.

BURN'ING ALIVE, punishment of crime (Gen. xxxviii. 24; Levit. xx. 14).

BUF'FALO, used as food (3 Kings iv. 23).

CA'ATH, second son of Levi, and grandfather of Moses (Gen. xlv. 11; Exod. vi. 18; Num. iii. 17). His family carried the ark of the covenant and the sacred vessels of the tabernacle (Num. iii. 17-31).

CABE, a measure, the sixth part of the seah, and the eighteenth part of the epha. During the siege of Samaria a cabe of the vegetable called pigeon's dung sold for five sicles (4 Kings vi. 25).

CAD'EMOTH, a wilderness from which Moses sent messengers to Sehon, king of Heshbon (Deut. ii. 26).

CA'DES, or MISPHAT (Gen. xiv. 7), a place in the desert of Sin, where Mary, the sister of Moses, died (Num. xx. 1), and where Moses struck the rock and made it yield water (11); this is "the water of contradiction" (13).

CA'DES, a town of which the king was killed by Josue (xii. 22); a town in the tribe of Juda (xv. 23); famous for its palm-trees (Ecclus. xiv. 18); a town in Galilee (1 Mach. xi. 63, 73).

CÆSARE'A, a port on the Mediterranean, built by Herod the Great. Herod Agrippa was struck here for his pride (Acts xii. 23); it was the residence of Cornelius, baptized by St. Peter (x. 1); St. Philip the deacon dwelt there (viii. 40); here Agabus predicted to St. Paul his bonds (xxi. 10, 11), and St. Paul was two years a prisoner here (xxiii.-xxv.)

CÆSAREA PHILIPPI,

a city near Sidon and Damascus. Here Christ gave Simon the name of Peter, the rock on which he was to build his church, and promised him the keys of the kingdom of heaven (Matt. xvi. 13-19; Mark viii. 27); the woman cured of the issue of blood is said to have been of this place, and to have erected a statue of our Lord here.

CAGE, in the sense of a trap (Ecclus. xi. 32).

CAIN, the first-born of Adam and Eve (Gen. iv. 1); a husbandman (2); offered to the Lord fruits of the earth (3); but not acceptably (5); lures his brother Abel to the field and slays him (8); cursed by God (11); a mark set upon him (15); built a city called Henoah after his son (17); his descendants (17-24).

CAI'NAN, son of Enos (Gen. v. 9). Cai'nan, son of Arphaxad and father of Sale (Luke iii. 36).

CA'IPHAS, high-priest, son-in-law of Annas. When the council deliberated on the death of Christ, Caiphias said that it was expedient that one man advancing into it, but the people, misled by the other spies, refused. God declared that none of them should enter it except Caleb and Josue (Num. xiii. 4-xiv. 30). When Josue entered the Promised Land, Caleb asked Hebron as his possession (Jos. xiv. 6-14); he conquered the sons of Enac, and gave Axa, his daughter, to Othoniel, for capturing Cariathsepher (xv. 13-19; xxi. 12; Judges i. 20).

ANCIENT HARBOR OF CÆSAREA.

THE CAMEL POST.

CALF, the golden, worshipped as an idol by the Israelites at Mount Sinai (Ex. xxxii. 4; Deut. ix. 16); by the Israelites when set up by Jeroboam (3 Kings xii. 28; 4 Kings x. 29; xvii. 16; Ps. cv. 19; Osee viii. 5, 6).

CALLIS'THENES, an officer of the king of Syria; sets fire to the doors of the temple; is himself burnt in his house (2 Mach. viii. 33).

CAL'VARY, or GOLGOTHA (the place of the skull), the spot near Jerusalem where our Lord was crucified (Matt. xxvii. 33; Mark xv. 22; Luke xxiii. 33; John xix. 17); and placed in the sepulchre. Here St. Helena erected the church of the Holy Sepulchre, which has always been a place of pilgrimage.

CAM'EL, a domestic animal, used as a beast of burthen in the East (Gen. xii. 16; xxiv. 10; xxxvii. 25; Judges vii. 12; 1 Kings xxvii. 9; xxx. 17; 4 Kings viii. 9; 3 Kings x. 2; 2 Paral. xiv. 14; Job i. 3; xlii. 12; Matt. iii. 4; Mark i. 6).

CAM'ELOPARDALUS, the giraffe, classed among clean animals (Deut. xiv. 5).

CAMP, used for the place called Mahanaim (Gen. xxvii. 21; 2 Kings ii. 9, 12, 29; xvii. 24; xix. 32).

CAM'UEL, father of the Syrians (Gen. xxii. 21).

CA'NA in Galilee, where our Lord wrought his first miracle by changing water into wine at the marriage feast (John ii. 1; Jos. xix. 28).

CANDA'CE, queen of Ethiopia, whose eunuch, after visiting Jerusalem to worship God, was converted and baptized by St. Philip (Acts viii. 27).

CAN'DLESTICK, seven-branched, in the tabernacle (Ex. xxv. 31); with seven lamps (Zach. iv. 2). The word is misleading, as there were no candles; it was a lamp-stand.

ARABIAN CAMEL.

CAN'ON, CANONICAL. The books of the Bible form three divisions, the proto-canonical, comprising the Pentateuch, Josue, Judges, Ruth, Kings, Paralipomenon, Esdras, Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Canticles, Isaias, Jeremias, Ezechiel, Daniel, Osee, Joel, Amos, Abdias, Jonas, Micheas, Nahum, Habacuc, Sophonias, Aggeus, Zacharias, Malachias, forming the supposed canon of Esdras; the deuterocanonical books, Tobias, Judith, Esther, Wisdom, Ecclesiasticus, Baruch, parts of Daniel, Machabees, the books of the New Testament. The Catholic Church, from the Council of Carthage, A. D. 397, receives all; the Jews receive only the proto-canonical books, rejecting the deuterocanonical and the New Testament; Protestants agreeing with neither, reject the deuterocanonical books, except a part of Esther.

CAN'OPY, a rich one used by Holofernes (Judith x. 19, etc.).

CANTICLE OF CANTICLES, a mysterious canonical book of the Old Testament, describing the union of Christ and his church.

CANT'ICLES. Besides the Psalms and the Canticle of Canticles, there are in the books of the Bible several canticles or poetical portions. The Canticle of Moses after passing the Red Sea (Exod. xv.); his Canticle on the wonderful works of God (Deut. xxxii.); Jethro's on learning of God's wonderful works (Ex. xviii.); Debhora's on her victory over Sisara (Judges v.); that of Anna, mother of Samuel (1 Kings ii.); David's (2 Kings xxii.); Tobias' (Tob. xiii.); Judith's in thanksgiving (Judith xvi.); that of the three children in the fiery furnace (Dan. iii. 52); the Magnificat of the Blessed Virgin (Luke i. 46); Simeon's (ii. 29); Zachary's (i. 68); Canticles of Sorrow, David's lament for Saul and Jonathan (2 Kings i. 18); on the ruin of Tyre (Ezech. xxvii. 2); on Egypt (xxxii. 18); that of Jeremias on the ruin of Jerusalem (Lam.)

CAP, head covering (Dan. iii. 21).

CAPHAR'NAUM, a town on the lake of Genesareth (John vi. 17), and the chief residence of our Lord during the three years of his public life (Matt. iv. 13; Mark ii. 1); it is called his city (Matt. ix. 1); he called Matthew there (Matt. ix. 9); he preached here (Matt. iv. 17; Luke iv. 31); he reproached it with incredulity, and foretold its ruin (Matt. xi. 23).

CA'PER-TREE (Ecclesiastes xii. 5).

CAPH'TORIM, descendants of Mesraim, son of Cham (Gen. x. 14; 1 Paral. i. 12).

CAP'PADOCIA, the country between Mount Taurus and the upper Euphrates (Deut. ii. 23; Jerem. xlvii. 4; Amos ix. 7; Acts ii. 9; 1 Pet. i. 1).

CAPTIVITIES of the Jews. Phul, king of Assyria, and Theglathphalasar, king of Assur, carried away Ruben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manasses to Assyria, 750 B. C. (1 Paral. v. 26; 4 Kings xv. 19, 29); Salmanasar, after three years war, carried the rest of the ten tribes away, 721 B. C. (4 Kings xvii. 3, 6); Sennacherib, 713 B. C., carried off many captives from cities of Juda (4 Kings xviii. 13); Nabuchodonosor took Jerusalem and carried away king Joachin and 10,000 soldiers, besides artificers, 598 B. C. (Dan. i. 2); 4 Kings xxiv. 14; Nabuzardan, his general, again took Jerusalem, with king Sedecias, and carried off the rest of the people (xxv. 11; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 20; Jerem. lii. 28-30). The Babylonian captivity lasted till the return under Zorobabel, 535 B. C. (1 Esd. ii. 1-70; 2 Esd. vii. 7-69); Esdras, 467 B. C. (1 Esd. viii. 1-14); and Nehemias, 454 B. C. Those who remained (Esth. viii. 9, 11) were known as the Dispersion (John vii. 35; 1 Peter i. 1; James i. 1).

THE SEVEN BRANCHED CANDLESTICK, WITH ITS LAMPS.

CARBUN'CLE, a precious stone, the fourth in the rational (Exod. xxviii. 18; xxxix. 11; Ezech. xxviii. 13).

CAR'CAA, a town in Juda (Jos. xv. 3).

CAR'EHIM, birthplace of Jesbaam (1 Paral. xii. 6).

CAR'ETH, a town on the borders of Zabulon (Jos. xix. 15).

CA'RIA, a province of Asia Minor, in the extreme southeast (1 Mach. xv. 23).

CAR'IATH, a town in Benjamin (Jos. xviii. 28).

CAR'IATH or CAR'IATHAIM, occupied by the Emin (Gen. xiv. 5); assigned to Ruben (Num. xxxii. 37; Jos. xiii. 19); menaced (Jerem. xlviii. 1, 23; Ezech. xxv. 9).

CAR'IATHAIM, Levitical city in Nephthali (1 Paral. vi. 76).

CAR'IATH'ARBE (Hebron), (Jos. xiv. 15).

CAR'IATHIARIM or CARIATHBAAL (Jos. xv. 60), a city of Juda where the Ark of the Covenant remained for seven years (1 Kings vi.)

CAR'IATH SE'PHER (city of letters), taken by Caleb (Jos. xv. 15; Judg. i. 10-13).

CAR'ITH, a torrent beyond the Jordan, where Elias was miraculously fed (3 Kings xvii. 3, 5).

CAR'MEL, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 55); residence of Nabal (1 Kings xxv. 2-7).

CAR'MEL (vineyard of God), a mountain between the plains of Saron and Esdraelon, in the tribe of Aser (Jos. xix. 26). Elias, on Mount Carmel, defied the priests of Baal, and showed their impotence (3 Kings xviii. 19-45); while his sacrifice was consumed by fire from heaven. Eliseus also went to Paral. xi. 15); the cave in the desert of Engaddi, where Saul was (1 Kings xxiv. 4).

CE'DAR, son of Ismael (Gen. xxv. 13; 1 Paral. i. 20); his descendants dwelt in tents (Cant. i. 4; Jerem. xlix. 28; Ps. cxix. 5; Isai. xlii. 11).

CE'DARS OF LI'BANUS (Judg. ix. 15; 4 Kings xiv. 9); employed in the temple of Jerusalem (3 Kings iv. 33; v., vii.-x.); used as symbols of beauty (Ps. xxxvi. 35; xci. 13; Cant. v. 15; Ecclus. xxiv. 17; Jerem. xxii. 7; Ezech. xxxi. 3, 8; Amos ii. 9).

CED'MONITES, inhabitants of Chanaan (Gen. xv. 19).

CED'RON, a torrent rising north of Jerusalem, and flowing between it and Mount Olivet into the Dead Sea (2 Kings xv. 23; 3 Kings xv. 13; 2 Paral. xv. 16; xxix. 16; xxx. 14; Jerem. xxxi. 40); crossed by our Lord (John xviii. 1).

CELESYRIA, the valley between Libanus and Anti-Libanus (1 Mach. x. 69; 2 Mach. iii. 5; iv. 4; viii. 8, 11).

CEL'IBACY, its excellence and advantages (1 Cor. vii. 7-9, 32, 34, 38).

CENCH'RA, the port of Corinth. St. Paul shaved his head here in fulfilment of a vow (Acts xviii. 18); he addresses the church there (Rom. xvi. 1).

CENDEBE'US, general of Antiochus Sidetes, who put him in command of the sea-coast, with orders to fortify Gedor and attack the Jews (1 Mach. xv. 38-41); Judas and John routed him near Modin (xvi. 1-10).

CEN'ERETH, a town in Nephthali (Jos. xix. 35; xi. 2; xii. 3; Deut. iii. 17); and a lake called also Genesar (1 Mach. xi. 67); also Genesareth, and Sea of Galilee (Matt. iv. 18).

CEN'EZITES, ancient inhabitants of Chanaan (Gen. xv. 19).

a hundred men. One obtains of our Lord the cure of his servant (Luke vii. 6); his faith praised (9); another confesses the divinity of Christ (Mark xv. 39; Luke xxiii. 47).

CENSERS.

CE'PHAS, a Syriac word meaning rock, which our Lord gave to Simon as his name. The Greek word for rock, Petra, being feminine, the name became in that language Petros, in Latin Petrus, it being contrary to custom to give a feminine name to a man (John i. 42). St. Paul uses the name Cephas apparently for St. Peter (1 Cor. ix. 5; xv. 5); whether for him in Gal. ii. 9, 14, is disputed.

CE'PHAS, a disciple of St. Paul at Corinth (1 Cor. i. 12; iii. 22).

CERAS'TES, the horned adder. The word translated serpent, in Gen. xlix. 17, is in the Vulgate Cerastes, the name of a well-known and peculiar serpent, and the Hebrew word has the same meaning.

CER'EMONIES were connected with the divine worship, and at last prescribed in detail. Exterior worship (Gen. viii. 20) used by Melchisedec (xiv. 18); the ceremony of circumcision (xvii. 10); connected with the eating of the paschal lamb (Exod. xii., xiii; Lev. xxiii. 5); used in the consecration of priests (Lev. ix.; xiv.; xxiii.; Num. i. 50; iv.-ix; xv.); prescribed for the singers in the temple (1 Paral. xxiii.); at the dedication of the first temple (3 Kings viii.); of the second (1 Esd. vi.); used at prayer (3 Kings viii. 22; xvii.; 1 Cor. xi. 4); ceremonies are signs of things to come (Exod. xiii. 9; Num. xv. 39; Ezech. xx. 12; 1 Cor. x. 11; 2 Cor. iii. 13; Heb. vii.; viii. 5; ix. 1; x. 1).

CER'ETHI, supposed to be a tribe of Philistines (1 Kings xxx. 14); some of whom were in David's bodyguard (2 Kings viii. 18; xv. 18; xx. 7; 3 Kings i.; 4 Kings xi. 19; 1 Paral. xviii. 17).

CETH'IM, son of Javan (Gen. x. 4; 1 Paral. vii. 1); the term is used for Macedonia (1 Mach. i. 1; Isai. xxiii. 1, 12; Jer. ii. 10); and Ceteans for Macedonians (viii. 5).

CETU'RA, second wife of Abraham, who bore him Zamran, Jecsan, Madan, Madian, Jesboc, and Sue (Gen. xxv. 1, 2; 1 Paral. i. 32).

CHAB'UL, land of, a term given by Hiram, king of Tyre, to twenty cities in Galilee ceded him by Solomon (3 Kings ix. 13).

MOUNT CARMEL AND ITS CONVENT.

Carmel (4 Kings ii. 25; iv. 25); its beauty is often referred to (4 Kings xix. 23, 24; Cant. vii. 5; Isai. xvi. 10; xxxv. 2; Jerem. xlvi. 18; Nahum i. 4).

CAR'PUS, disciple of St. Paul at Troas (2 Tim. iv. 13).

CARTHAGIN'IANS, inhabitants of the great city of Carthage, in the part of Africa now called Tunis (Ezech. xxvii. 12).

CAR'THA in Zabulon (Jos. xxi. 34), Carthan in Nephthali (32), Levitical cities.

CAS'LEU, a Jewish month, corresponding nearly to November (2 Esd. i. 1; Zach. vii. 1); on the 15th Antiochus Epiphanes profaned the temple (1 Mach. i. 57); Judas Machabeus purified and rededicated it on the 25th (2 Mach. i. 18); and established a festival observed by our Lord (John x. 22); and still kept by the Jews. The miraculous fire of Nehemias was also commemorated in this month (2 Mach. i. 18-22).

CAS'PHIN, a city taken with great slaughter by Judas Machabeus (2 Mach. xii. 13-16).

CAS'SIA, an aromatic used in the holy oil by Moses (Ex. xxx. 24); mentioned by David (Ps. xlv. 9).

CAS'SIA, Job's second daughter (xlii. 14).

CAST'ING OF METALS (2 Paral. iv. 17).

CAT, a domestic animal, mentioned only in Baruch (vi. 21).

CATERPILLAR (Bruchus), (2 Paral. vi. 28; Jer. li. 27).

CATHOLIC EPISTLES. That of St. James, the two of St. Peter, three of St. John, and one of St. Jude, are so called from being addressed to all the faithful. They refute the heresies of Simon, Nicolas, Cerinthus, and others.

CAVES, celebrated; that to which Lot retired (Gen. xix. 30); the double cave at Hebron, where Sara was buried (Gen. xxiii. 17); also Abraham (xxv. 9); the cave of Odollam, to which David fled (1 Kings xxii. 1; 2 Kings xxiii. 13; 1

AN EASTERN CARAVAN.

CEN'SERS, vessels used for burning incense (Lev. x. 1; xvi. 12; Num. xvi. 37; 3 Kings vii. 50; Heb. ix. 4; Apoc. viii. 3).

CENTU'RION, a Roman officer commanding

CHAB'RI and CHARMI, priests in Bethulia (Judith viii. 9).

CHAINS. Samson was taken to Gaza in chains (Judg. xvi. 21); Sedecias to Babylon (4 Kings xxv. 7); Manasses (2 Paral. xxxiii. 11); God took the chains off the neck of Israel (Lev. xxvi. 13); we are to put our neck into the chains of wisdom (Ecclus. vi. 25); Jeremias ordered to put chains on his neck (xxvii. 2).

CHAIN of gold as an ornament for the neck (Gen. xli. 42; Prov. i. 9; Dan. v. 7; Ezech. xvi. 11; Isai. iii. 19).

CHALAN'NE, a city in Sennaar built by Nimrod (Gen. x. 10).

CHALCED'ONY, a precious stone (Apoc. xxi. 19).

CHAL'DE'A, the southern part of Babylonia (Jer. i. 11; Ezech. xi. 1; xxiii.) Abraham was born at Ur, in the land of the Chaldees (Gen. xi. 28).

CHAL'DEES, the people of Chaldea (Gen. xi. 1; 4 Kings xxiv., xxv.; 2 Paral. xxxvi.; 1 Esd. v.; 2 Esd. ix.; Isai. xlii.; xxlii.; xliii.; xlvii.-xlviii.; Jer. xxi.-xxii.; xxiv.-xxv.; xxxii.-xxxiii.; Ezech. i. 3, etc.; Dan. i. 4, etc.; Acts vii. 4).

CHAM, son of Noe (Gen. v. 31); his sin (ix. 22); Chanaan, his son, cursed (25); his posterity (x. 6-20); his sons were Chus, Mesraim, Phuth, and Chanaan (6); Egypt is called the land of Cham (Ps. lxxvii. 51; civ. 23; cv. 22).

CHA'MAAM, son of Berzellai, honored by David (2 Kings xix. 37-40).

CHAM'OIS, a clean animal, allowed to be eaten (Deut. xiv. 5).

xi. 17); Josias destroyed its temple (4 Kings xxiii. 13).

CHA'NAAN, grandson of Noe, cursed by him (Gen. ix. 25).

CHA'NAAN, land of, praised for its fertility (Deut. xi. 10; Exod. iii. 8); God promises it to Abraham and his seed (Gen. xii. 7; xvii. 8); renews the promise to Jacob (xxxv. 12); Moses leads the people out of Egypt to occupy it (Ex. xii.; Deut. xxxiv.); Josue and Caleb report in favor of it, but the people mislabeled refuse to enter it, and die in the desert (Num. xiv. 6-38); Josue leads them into it (Jos. i.); divisions of (Gen. x. 19; Ex. xxiii. 31; Num. xxvi. 52; xxxiii. 54; xxxiv.; Josue xlii.-xix.; Ezech. xlvii. 13).

CHA'NAAN', woman of, obtains of our Lord the cure of her daughter (Matt. xv. 22).

CHANANE'AN, Simon, the apostle (Matt. x. 4).

THE VALLEY OF THE CEDRON.

CHARACA, inhabited by Jews called Tabianites (2 Mach. xii. 17).

CHARA'DRION, a bird forbidden as food (Lev. xi. 19; Deut. xiv. 18).

CHA'RAN or HARAN, a city in Mesopotamia where Abraham resided after leaving Ur (Gen. xi. 31-32; Acts vii. 2); Jacob fled to it (Gen. xxvii. 43; xxviii. 10; Judith v. 9).

CHAR'CAMIS, on the Euphrates, battles at (Isaias x. 9; 2 Paral. xxxv. 20; Jerem. xli. 2).

CHAR'IOTS used in war, Pharaoh's, overwhelmed in Red Sea (Ex. xiv. 7); used by Chanaanites at Merom (Jos. xi. 9); armed with scythes (2 Mach. xiii. 2; Judg. i. 19); of iron (Jos. xvii. 16); Sisara had nine hundred (Judg. iv. 3); captured by David (1 Paral. xviii. 4; 2 Kings viii. 4); Solomon's (3 Kings ix. 19, 22; x. 26); Josias mortally wounded in his chariot, removed to another (2 Paral. xxxv. 24); Elias the prophet carried off in a chariot of fire (4 Kings ii. 11); chariots seen in visions (Ezech. x.; Zach. vi. 1-8).

CHAR'ITY, a summary of the law (Matt. xxii. 37-39); Rom. xii. 9); superior to faith (1 Cor. xiii. 13); superior to sacrifices (Matt. xii. 7); is the bond of perfection (Col. iii. 14); charity covers sins (Prov. x. 12); is the end of the commandments (1 Tim. i. 5).

CHAS'LUIM, son of Mesraim (Gen. x. 14).

CHAS'TITY praised (Tob. vi. 16; Judith xv. 11; xvi. 26; Prov. xxii. 11; Wisd. iii. 13; iv. 1; vi.

THE VALLEY OF THE CEDRON.

20; Ecclesiasticus vii. 28; xxvi. 20; Isai. i. 16; Zach. ix. 17).

CHEL'EAB, son of David by Abigail (2 Kings iii. 3); called Daniel (1 Paral. iii. 1).

CHEL'ION, son of Noemi (Ruth i. 1-9).

CHEL'MON, a city over against Esdraelon (Judith vii. 3).

CHER'OGRYLLUS, the rabbit or hedge-hog (Lev. xi. 5).

CHER'UBIM, an order of angels. They guard Paradise (Gen. iii. 24); represented on the ark of the covenant (Ex. xxv. 18; Ps. lxxix. 2; Ezech. xli. 18).

CHEST used for offerings for the reparation of the temple (4 Kings xii. 9, 10; Mark xii. 41).

CHILDREN of Hebrews drowned by Pharaoh (Ex. i. 22); the firstborn of the Egyptians struck dead (xi. 5); wicked children devoured by bears (4 Kings ii. 24); children of Bethlehem massacred by order of Herod (Matt. ii. 16); children blessed by our Lord (Mark x. 14; Luke xviii. 16); duty of children to parents (Gen. ix. 23; xxviii. 7; xxxvii. 14; Ex. xx. 12; xxi. 17; Levit. xix. 3; Deut. xxi. 18; xxvii. 16; Judges xiv. 1; 1 Kings ii. 22; xviii. 5; 3 Kings ii. 19; 4 Kings ii. 23; Ecclus. iii. 2; vi. 18; vii. 29; viii. 11; xxii. 3; xxiii. 18; xxv. 10; xxxii. 24; Tobias xiv. 5; Job viii. 4; Prov. i. 8; iv. 1; vi. 20; x. 1; xiii. 1; xv. 20; xix. 26; xxiii. 19; xxviii. 24; xxx. 17; Jer. xxxv. 16; Matt. x. 35; xix. 19; Mark x. 19; Luke ii. 51; Acts vii. 14; Col. iii. 20; 1 Peter v. 5).

CHIM'NEY (Ex. ix. 8) means rather the chafing dish used in warm countries; sinners shall pass like smoke out of a chimney (Osee xiii. 3).

CHLO'E, a Christian woman of Corinth, notifies St. Paul of the divisions there (1 Cor. i. 11).

CHO'BAR, a river of Assyria, on the banks of which Ezechiel received the message from God (Ez. i. 1).

CEDAR OF LEBANON.

CHA'MOS, a god of the Moabites (Num. xxi. 29); Solomon worshipped it in his old age (3 Kings

CHOD/CHOD, the Hebrew name for some precious stone (Ezech. xxvii. 16); perhaps jasper (Isai. liv. 12).

CHODOR/LAHOMOR, king of the Elamites, xxxiii. 15; Bar. iii. 38; Ezech. xxxiv. 23; xxxvii. 24; Dan. ii. 44; vii. 13; ix. 25; Osee iii. 5; Joel ii. 23; Amos ix. 11; Abdias i. 21; Jonas ii. 1; Micheas v. 2; Nahum i. 15; Habacuc iii. 13; Sophonias iii. 15; Aggeus ii. 8; Zacharias ii. 10; iii. 8; vi. 12; Malachias iii. 1). He was foretold not only in general, but in detail. He was to be born of a virgin (Isaias vii. 14); of the house of David (Isaias xi. 1); in Bethlehem (Mich. v. 2); his passion prefigured in Isaac (Gen. xxii. 2); foretold (Ps. xxi.; Isai. liii.; Dan. ix. 26); his resurrection foretold (Ps. xv. 10); prefigured (Jonas ii. 1); his ascension foretold (Ps. xlvii. 6; lxvii. 19); he was announced by an angel (Luke i. 31); born at Bethlehem (Matt. ii. 1; John vii. 42; Mich. v. 2); of the Virgin Mary (Matt. i. 23; Luke ii. 7); anxiix. 6; lx. 1; Matt. iv. 16; Luke ii. 32; John i. 4; iii. 19; viii. 12; ix. 5; xii. 35; 1 John ii. 8).

CHRY'S/OLITE, a precious stone, the tenth of the rational (Exod. xxviii. 20; xxxix. 13; Apoc. xxi. 20; Ezech. x. 9; Dan. x. 6).

CHRY'S/OPRASE, a precious stone of greenish color (Apoc. xxi. 20).

CHUB, a land near Egypt (Ezec. xxx. 5).

WAR CHARIOTS.

one of the four kings who attacked the Pentapolis, and were pursued by Abraham (Gen. xiv.)

CHOIRS (2 Kings vi. 12; 2 Esd. xii. 31).

CHONE'NIAS, chief of the Levites, a skilful musician, directed the music when the ark of the covenant was brought to Jerusalem (1 Paral. xv. 22).

CHRIST'IAN, a disciple of Jesus Christ. The name was first given at Antioch (Acts xi. 26); they called each other brethren (Acts x. 23); the faithful (Ephes. i. 1); the saints (Acts xxvi. 10); believers (Acts iv. 32).

CHRIST, the anointed one (1 Kings ii. 10); David the Christ of the God of Jacob (2 Kings xxiii. 1; Ps. ii. 2; lxxxiii. 10; Lament. iv. 20; Hab. iii. 13).

CHRIST JESUS, the name of our Redeemer, Jesus being the Hebrew for Saviour, and Christ a Greek word meaning anointed. He is truly God, Creator of all things (John i. 3; Eph. iii. 9; Col. i. 16; Heb. i. 2); eternal (John xii. 34); one with the Father (John x. 30; xiv. 10; xvii. 21); truly the Son of God (Matt. xiv. 33; xvii. 5; Mark i. 11; v. 7; ix. 6; xv. 39; Luke i. 32, 35; iii. 22; John i. 1-34; vi. 70; ix. 35; xi. 27; xix. 7); the Word made flesh and truly man (John i. 14; Col. ii. 9; 1 Tim. iii. 16; 1 John iv. 2; Matt. i. 23; Luke ii. 7); he is the mighty King of kings (Ps. ii. 6; xxi. 29; Ezech. xxxvii. 24; Col. ii. 10; 1 Tim. vi. 15; Apoc. i. 5; xvii. 14); all things have been subjected to him (Isaias ix. 6; Matt. xxviii. 18; Luke x. 22; John iii. 35; xvii. 2; Eph. i. 22). He is the Redeemer promised to Adam (Gen. iii. 15); to Abraham (Gen. xii. 3; xvii. 19; xxii. 18); to Isaac (xxvi. 4); to Jacob (xxviii. 14); to Judah (xlix. 10); foretold by Balaam (Num. xxiv. 17); by Moses (Deut. xviii. 18); by Anna (1 Kings ii. 10); by Nathan (2 Kings vii. 13); by David (Ps. ii., xxi., cix.); by Isaias (vii. 14; ix. 6; xi. 1; xxviii. 16; xl. 9; xlii. 1; xlv. 8; xlvii. 13; xlix. 1; lii. 10; liii. 1; lix. 20; lx. 1; lxii. 11; Jerem. xxiii. 5; xxx. 9; xxxi. 22; nounced by angels to the shepherds (Luke ii. 9); circumcised (Luke ii. 21); presented in the temple and recognized as the Messiah by Simeon (Luke ii. 30); St. John bears testimony to him (Matt. iii. 11; John i. 29); baptizes him (Luke iii. 21); God the Father acknowledges him (Luke iii. 22; Matt. xvii. 5); he confirms his mission and doctrine by miracles (Matt. iv. 23; viii. 16; Acts x. 38); (see Miracles); he humbled himself to the form of a servant (Phil. ii. 7); bears the sins of all (Isaias liii. 4; 2 Cor. v. 21; Heb. iv. 15; vii. 27; 1 John iii. 5); suffered for us (Matt. xvi. 21; xvii. 12; xx. 18; xxvi. 37; xxvii. 1; Mark viii. 31; ix. 30; xv. 31; Luke xvii. 25; xviii. 31; xxi. 3; Rom. viii. 32; Heb. ix. 28; xiii. 12; 1 Pet. ii. 21; iv. 1); he is betrayed by Judas (Matt. xxvi. 14; Mark xiv. 10; Luke xxii. 3; John xiii. 2); condemned by Caiaphas (Matt. xxvi. 65, 66; Mark xiv. 64; Luke xxii. 71); by Pilate (Matt. xxvii. 26; Mark xv. 15; Luke xxiii. 24; John xix. 16); crucified and buried (Matt. xxvii. 35-49; Mark xv. 24-37; Luke xxiii. 32-46; John xix. 18-30; Acts ii. 23; iv. 10; xiii. 29; Rom. v. 6; vi. 10; viii. 34; xiv. 9; 1 Cor. ii. 2; xv. 3; 2 Cor. v. 15; xiii. 4; 1 Thess. v. 10); rose on the third day (Matt. xxviii. 6; Mark xvi. 6; Luke xxiv. 5; John xx. 9; Acts ii. 24; x. 40; xiii. 30; xvii. 31; Rom. iv. 25; viii. 34; xiv. 9; 1 Cor. xv. 4; 2 Tim. ii. 8); ascended into heaven (Mark xvi. 19; Luke xxii. 69; Acts i. 9; Rom. viii. 34; Eph. i. 20; Col. iii. 1; Heb. i. 13; x. 12; xii. 2; 1 Pet. iii. 22); he will come again to judge the living and the dead (Matt. xvi. 27; xxiv. 30; xxv. 31; Luke xvii. 24; xxi. 27; John v. 22; Acts i. 11; x. 42; Rom. ii. 16; 2 Cor. v. 10; 2 Tim. iv. 8; 1 Pet. iv. 5; Heb. ix. 28; Jude i. 14; Apoc. i. 7; xxii. 12); he is the true light of the world (Isai. ii. 5; ix. 2;

CHALDEAN SCULPTURE. (Layard ii. 348.)

CHURCH, called the kingdom of heaven (Matt. iii. 2; iv. 17; v. 3, 10, 19, 20; x. 7; xiii.; xvi. 19); kingdom of God (Mark i. 15; iv. 11; x. 14; Luke vi. 20; vii. 10; ix.; xi. 20; xxi. 31; xvii. 21; Acts xix. 8); of the Son of man (Matt. xvi. 28); of Christ and of God (Eph. v. 5); the church is a mystical body (1 Cor. xii. 12, 27; Eph. i. 22; iii. 6; iv. 15; v. 23; Col. i.; ii.); the spouse of Christ (1 Cor. xi. 3; 2 Eph. v. 23; Gal. iv. 26; Apoc. xix. 7; xxi. 9); purchased by his blood (Acts xx. 28; 1 Cor. vii. 23; Eph. ii. 13; Col. i. 14; 1 John i. 7; Apoc. i. 5); built on a rock (Matt. xvi. 18); Christ the foundation and corner-stone (Ps. cxvii. 22; Isaias xxviii. 16; Matt. xxi. 42; Acts iv. 11; Rom. ix. 33; 1 Cor. iii. 11; Eph. ii. 20; 1 Pet. ii. 6); the apostles are under him the foundation (Eph. ii. 20; Apoc. xxi.

CHRIST BEARING HIS CROSS.

14); especially St. Peter (Matt. xvi. 18); it is the house of God, the pillar and ground of truth (1 Tim. iii. 15); the gates of hell shall not prevail against it (Matt. xvi. 18); Christ will always be with it (Matt. xxviii. 20); the Holy Ghost will abide with it forever (John xiv. 26); God protects it (Ex. xiii. 21; xxix. 45; Lev. xxvi. 12; Deut. vii. 21; xxiii. 14; xxvi. 3; 3 Kings vi. 13; Ps. xc. 1; cxxxi. 13; Isai. xli. 10; Jerem. xlvi. 28; Matt. xxviii. 20; Luke xxi. 15; John xiv. 23; 2 Cor. vi. 16). The church as the assembly of pastors (Matt. xvi. 19; xviii. 17; John xx. 23); the church as the assembly of the faithful (Num. xix. 20; xx. 4; Ps. xxi. 26; xxv. 12; xxxiv. 18; cvi. 32; cxlix. 1; Matt. xvi. 18; Acts v. 11; viii. 1; xvi. 5; Rom. xvi. 16, 23; 1 Cor. vi. 4; xi. 16; xii. 28; xiv. 5; 2 Cor. viii. 18, 23; xi. 8; xii. 13; Eph. v. 23; Philip. iv. 15; 1 Tim. iii. 5; James v. 14; Apoc. i. 11; xxii. 16).

CHURCH/ES of Asia designated by seven candlesticks shown to St. John (Apoc. i. 20); what is written to them (ii., iii.)

CHUS, son of Cham and father of Nemrod (Gen. x. 4-8; 1 Paral. i. 8-10).

CHU'SA, Herod's steward, whose wife Joanna ministered to our Lord (Luke viii. 3).

CHU-SA Iof Arach, a friend of David (2 Kings xv. 32).

CHU-SAN RASATH-AM, king of Syria, overthrown by Othniel (Judges iii. 10).

CIN-ITES, nation dwelling west of the Dead Sea (Judges i. 16; 1 Paral. ii. 55; Num. xxiv. 21); in the time of Saul they were mingled with the Amalecites (1 Kings xv. 6); they were made captives by the Assyrians (Num. xxiv. 22).

CIN-NAMON, a spice used in the holy oil of unction (Ex. xxx. 23); mentioned Cant. iv. 14.

CIRCUMCIS'ION, a rite ordained by God as a sign of his covenant with Abraham (Gen. xvii. 10; Acts vii. 8); every male child was to be circumcised on the eighth day on pain of death (Lev. xii. 3; John vii. 22, 23); slaves also were circumcised (Gen. xvii. 12, 13; Ex. xii. 44); Moses neglecting to circumcise his son was menaced with death (Ex. iv. 24); Achior is circumcised after the defeat of Holofernes (Judith xiv. 6); Antiochus forbids it (1 Mach. i. 51); women put to death for performing it (64; 2 Mach. vi. 10); it was performed with stone knives (Ex. iv. 25; Jos. v. 2); St. John Baptist circumcised (Luke i. 59); it was a symbol of mortification of the heart (Deut. x. 16; xxx. 6); Jer. iv. 4; vi. 10; ix. 26; Rom. ii. 25-29; iii. 1; iv. 9; 1 Cor. vii. 18, 19; Eph. ii. 11); some Jews endeavored to undo it (1 Mach. i. 16); our Lord submitted to be circumcised (Luke ii. 22), and the shedding of his blood is commemorated in a feast of the church; not necessary under the new law (Acts xv. 1-19; Gal. ii. 3; v. 2, 3; vi. 12; Phil. iii. 2, 3; Coloss. ii. 11); though St. Paul circumcised Timothy (xvi. 3).

CIRC'UMSPECTION recommended to Christians (Ephes. v. 15-21).

CIS, father of Saul (1 Kings ix. 1; Acts xiii. 21).

CIS'TERNS, for holding water (Gen. xxxvii. 20, 22, 24, 28, 29; Ex. xxi. 33); (in Challoner, pit), (Levit. xi. 36; Deut. vi. 11); a great one in Socho (1 Kings xix. 22); cistern of Sira (2 Kings iii. 26); of Bethlehem (xxiii. 15, 16, etc.); Jeremias compares CLAUD'IUS LYSIAS, tribune at Jerusalem (Acts xxi. 31); rescues St. Paul (33); orders him to be scourged (xxii. 24); releases him on discovering him to be a Roman citizen (29); sends him to Felix at Cæsarea with a letter (xxiii. 23-30).

CLAU'DIA, a convert of St. Paul at Rome (2 Tim. iv. 21).

CLEAN of heart, blessed (Matt. v. 8).

CLEAN and unclean animals (Lev. xi. 2-31; Deut. xiv. 3-21; Acts x. 12); obligation not continued in the new law (Acts xv. 20).

CLEAN'NESS recommended (Matt. xxiii. 25; Luke xi. 39; 2 Cor. vii. 1).

CLEM'ENT, his name written in the Book of Life (Phil. iv. 3); generally regarded as the third successor of St. Peter.

CLEOPA'TRA, wife of Ptolomee Philometor (Esther xi. 1); (2) her daughter married Alexander Bales, king of Syria (1 Mach. x. 57, 58).

CLE'O-PHAS, or Alphæus, father of James, Simon and Jude, the apostles (Matt. x. 3; Mark iii. 18; Luke vi. 15; Acts i. 13); his wife was one of the holywomen at the crucifixion (John ix. 25); our Lord appeared to him and another disciple on the way to Emmaus, the day of his resurrection (Luke xxiv. 18).

CLOUD. A pillar of cloud preceded the children of Israel in the desert (Ex. xiii. 21; xiv. 19; xl. 34; Num. ix. 17); it was a type of baptism, according to St. Paul (1 Cor. x. 2). Solomon's temple filled with a cloud, so that the priests could not stand (2 Par. v. 13, 14).

CO'A. Solomon imported horses from it (3 Kings x. 28; 2 Paral. i. 16).

COAT. Joseph's coat of divers colors (Gen. xxxvii. 3); his brethren dip it in blood and send it to Jacob (31, 32); if a man take away thy coat, let thy cloak go also (Matt. v. 40); the seamless coat of our Lord (John xix. 23).

COCK. A cock girded about the loins, cited as a thing that goes well (Prov. xxx. 31); Isaias foretells to Sobna that he shall be carried away as a cock is carried away (Isai. xxii. 17); Peter to deny his Lord before the cock crow (Matt. xxvi. 34; Mark xiv. 30); its crowing (xiii. 35).

COCKLE, a weed (Matt. xiii. 25).

COIN, of the tribute (Matt. xxii. 19).

ST. BERNARD WRITING COMMENTARIES ON THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

false doctrines to broken cisterns that can hold no water (ii. 13).

CIT'IES, first built by Cain (Gen. iv. 17); Nemrod rules over many (x. 10; xi. 4, 8); cities first governed by kings (xiv. 1); four cities destroyed by fire from heaven (xix. 24); cities of refuge to which involuntary manslaughter might fly, Sichem (1 Paral. vi. 67; Jos. xx. 7); Hebron (Jos. xx. 7; xxi. 13); Bosor, Ramoth, and Gaulon or Golan (Deut. iv. 43; Jos. xx. 8); Cedes (Jos. xx. 7); sacerdotal and Levitical cities (Jos. xxi. 2); cities cursed and given up to the Israelites to be destroyed (Deut. xx. 17); cities which refused passage to them (ii. 30); some preserved from destruction (ii. 19); cities divided by lot among the tribes (Jos. xiii.-xxii.)

CITTERNS, musical instruments (3 Kings x. 12).

CLAUD'IUS, Roman emperor, banishes the Jews from Rome (Acts xviii. 2); famine in his reign (xi. 28).

COCY'TUS, a river, mentioned, Job xxi. 33.

COLOSSE', a city in Phrygia. St. Paul, while a prisoner in Rome, wrote an epistle to the church there (Col. i. 2).

COLOSS'IANs, St. Paul's epistle to the, one of the canonical books of the New Testament (Colos.)

COM'BAT between two bands of twelve, who are all slain (2 Kings ii. 16).

COMMAND'MENTS of God, twice written on stone on Mount Sinai (Ex. xx., xxxi. 18; xxxiv. 28); the first tables broken by Moses on witnessing the idolatry of the people (xxxii. 19); the second tables placed in the ark (xl. 18). The ten commandments (Exod. xx. 1-17; Deut. v. 6-21); to be loved (Ps. cxviii. 40, 127, 131, 159); to be kept if we wish to be saved (Matt. xix. 17); all the commandments reduced to two (Matt. xxii. 40).

COMMENTA'TORS. As the church treasured and preserved the Bible, most of the early fathers wrote in explanation of the Scriptures. St. Pantæus, a Sicilian, at Alexandria, was the first who devoted himself entirely to it. St. Clement, of Alexandria, a pupil of Pantæus (A. D. 190), wrote eight books of commentaries. Among his successors were Origen, St. Hilary, St. Ambrose, St. Jerome, St. Augustin, St. John Chrysostom, St. Cyril, of Alexandria, Theodoret, St. Isidore, Cassiodorus, and St. Gregory the Great, who all flourished before the close of the sixth century. Among later commentators of much of the Bible are St. Bede, Walafrid Strabo, Theophylact, St. Thomas Aquinas, St. Bernard, Hugo de Sancto Caro, Nicolas de Lyra, Maldonatus, Cornelius à Lapide, Menochius, Picquigny, and Calmet.

CONV'UBINE, used in the sense of inferior wife (2 Kings iii. 7; xx. 3; 3 Kings xi. 3; 2 Paral. vi. 21).

CONCU'PISCENCE forbidden and punished (Ex. xx. 17; Num. xi. 33; xxi. 5; Jos. vii.; Eccus. xviii. 30; xix. 1; xlii. 11; Job xxxi. 1; Prov. vi. 25; Matt. v. 28; Mark iv. 19; Gal. v. 16; Col. iii. 5; 1 Thess. iv. 3; 1 Tim. v. 11; 2 Tim. ii. 22; 1 Cor. x. 6; 2 Pet. i. 4; 1 John ii. 16; James i. 14; iv. 1).

CONFESS'ION of sins (Gen. xli. 9; Lev. xvi.

21; xxvi. 40; Num. v. 7; Jos. vii. 19; 2 Kings xxiv. 17; 1 Esd. ix. 6; 2 Esd. ix. 2; Ps. xxxi. 5; xxxvii. 19; Prov. xvi. 3; xviii. 17; xxviii. 13; Eccus. iv. 25, 31; v. 4; xxii. 27; Dan. ix. 5; Matt. iii. 6; xvi. 19; Luke xi. 4; xviii. 13; James v. 16; 1 John i. 8).

CON'FIRMATION, a sacrament, received by the Apostles at Pentecost (Acts ii.); conferred by them (viii. 17; Heb. vi. 2; Ephes. iv. 30). Its effects (1 Cor. xii., xiii.; Rom. xii. 6, 7; Eph. iv. 7).

CONFU'SION of tongues at Babel (Gen. xi. 9).

CON'SCIENCE, a good (Prov. xv. 15; Eccus. xiii. 30; 2 Cor. i. 12; 1 John iii. 21); a guilty conscience (Wis. xvii. 10).

CO'OS, a port reached by St. Paul on his way to Jerusalem (Acts xxi. 1).

CONSUL'TING the Lord and his ministers (Gen. xxiv. 12; Ex. xi. 34; Lev. xxiv. 12; Num.

xviii. 21; Jon. iii. 9; Zach. i. 3; Acts iii. 19; xxvi. 18, 20).

CONVER'SION, of three thousand at Pentecost (Acts ii. 41); of five thousand (iv. 4); of the centurions after the crucifixion (Mark xv. 39; Luke xxiii. 47); of the thief crucified with our Lord (42); of Saul (Acts ix. 6); of king Manasses (2 Paral. xxxiii. 12).

CORBO'NA, Corban, gifts offered in the temple (Matt. xxvii. 6; Mark vii. 11).

CORE, a Hebrew measure equal to 75 gallons (Ezech. xlv. 14).

CORE, a Levite, revolts against the authority of Aaron: his punishment (Num. xvi.; xxvi. 10; Ps. cv. 18; Eccus. xlv. 22).

CORIAN'DER, an aromatic seed, the manna resembled it (Exod. xvi. 31; Num. xi. 7).

COR'INTH, a city in Greece; visited by St. Paul, A. D. 52 (Acts xviii.); he lodged with Aquila and Priscilla, and preached to the Jews, but finding them obdurate, addressed the Gentiles. He remained here eighteen months, wrote two Epistles to the Thessalonians (Acts xviii. 18). After leaving them, he wrote two Epistles to them (1 Cor., 2 Cor.)

CORIN'TH'IANs, Epistles of St. Paul to the, canonical books of the New Testament.

COR'-MORANT,

a predatory bird (Lev. xi. 17; Deut. xiv. 17).

CORNE'LIUS, centurion of the Italian band stationed at Cæsarea, converted by a vision (Acts x. 1-3); instructed and baptized by St. Peter (34-48).

COR'NET, a musical instrument (1 Kings xviii. 6).

COR'NU STIB'II, a Latin translation of Kerenhappuch, the name of Job's third daughter (Job xlii. 14). It means Horn of Kohl, or stibic stone.

CORPSE, legal uncleanness incurred by touching (Num. xix. 16).

CORRECT'ION, fraternal, shown by example and precept (Gen. xxxvii. 21; Prov. ix. 8; x. 17; xii. 1; xiii. 1; xv. 31; xvii. 10; xxiv. 25; xxv. 12; xxvii. 5; xxviii. 23; Eccus. vii. 6; Eccus. xx. 1; xxi. 7; Osee iv. 4; Matt. xviii. 15; Gal. ii. 11; 1 Tim. v. 20; 2 Tim. ii. 25; Heb. iii. 13; James v.

THE DISPUTE OF ST. THOMAS AQUINAS, ONE OF THE COMMENTATORS. (After Raphael.)

ix. 8; xv. 34; xxvii. 4; Deut. v.; xvii. 8; Jos. ix. 14; Judg. i. 1; xviii. 5; xx. 18; xxi. 2; 1 Kings x. 22; xxiii. 4; xxx. 8; 2 Kings ii. 1; v. 19; xxi. 1; 3 Kings xiv. 2; xxii. 5; 4 Kings iii. 11; viii. 8; xxii. 13; 2 Paral. xviii. 4; xxxiii. 18; Ps. cxviii. 133; Isai. viii. 11; xxx. 1; xlv. 11; Jerem. xxxvii. 16; xlii. 2; Ezech. xiv. 1; Zach. vii. 2; Job xii. 13; Eccus. xxviii. 19; Luke xvi. 29).

CONTRADICT'ION, water of (Num. xx. 7).

CONTRIT'ION for sin, its necessity (Jer. vii. 3; Matt. iii. 2; iv. 17; Luke xiii. 3; xxiv. 47; Acts ii. 38; iii. 19; viii. 22; xvii. 30; xx. 21; xxvi. 20; pardon promised to true contrition (Deut. iv. 29; xxx. 2; 1 Kings vii. 3; 2 Paral. vii. 14; xxx. 6; xxxiv. 27; Job xiii. 23; Prov. xxviii. 13; Eccus. xvii. 23; Isai. i. 16; xxx. 18; lv. 7; lix. 20; Jer. iii. 17; xviii. 8; xxix. 12; xxxi. 18; Ezech.

19); how it should be done (Matt. vii. 3; John viii. 7; Titus ii.)

COROZA'IM, a city in Galilee, on the west shore of the Lake of Tiberias. Jesus Christ wrought many miracles there, but reproaches it with incredulity (Matt. xi. 21; Luke x. 13).

CORRUPTION. The body of Christ did not undergo (Ps. xlv. 10; Jon. ii. 7; Acts ii. 27, 31; xiii. 35, 37).

CITY OF REFUGE.

COUNCIL OF JERUSALEM, held by the apostles to decide whether Gentile converts were required to observe the Mosaic law (Acts xv.)

COUNCIL, Jewish court or Sanhedrim (Matt. v. 22; x. 17; Mark xiii. 9).

COUNCIL of a Roman governor (Acts xxv. 12).

COUNSEL of Tobias to his son (Tob. iv.); of the mother of the Machabees to her youngest son (2 Mach. vii. 27).

COURT, an open enclosure (Exod. xxvii. 9; xl. 31; Lev. vi. 16; 3 Kings vi. 36; vii. 12; 4 Kings xxiii. 12; 2 Paral. xxxiii. 5; Matt. xxvi. 56).

THE CREATION.

COVENANT of God with Noe (Gen. vi. 18; ix. 9); with Abraham (Gen. xv. 7; xvii. 2); with Isaac (Gen. xvii. 19; xxvi. 3); with Jacob (xxviii. 13); with the children of Israel (Ex. vi. 4; xix. 5; xxxiv. 27; Lev. xxvi. 1-42; Deut. v. 2; ix. 9; xxvi. 15).

COVETING forbidden (Ex. xx. 17; Deut. v. 21).

COVETOUSNESS. See AVARICE.

COW, sacrifice of a red cow for sin (Num. xix.; Heb. ix. 13).

COZ'BI, daughter of Sur, prince of the Madianites, killed with Zambri by Eleazar the priest (Num. xxv. 6-15).

CREATION of heaven and earth by God (Gen. i. 1; of man (26); of woman (ii. 21).

i. 5; Heb. xii. 2); they are to be borne patiently and joyfully (Matt. v. 12; x. 26; James i. 2).

CROWN. There was a golden crown surmounting the Ark of the Covenant (Ex. xxv. 11); the high priest wore a crown of gold on his mitre, inscribed CORINTH.

CRES'CENS, a disciple of St. Paul, who mentions his going to Galatia (2 Tim. iv. 10).

CRETE, an island in the Mediterranean now called Candia (1 Mach. x. 67); St. Paul touched it off Gnidus (Acts xxvii. 7); and ran along to Phenice (12). St. Paul apparently preached there subsequently, and sent Titus as bishop to the island (Titus i. 5).

CRETES, Cretans, inhabitants of Crete (Acts ii. 11); their bad character (Titus i. 12).

CROSS. Our Lord bids his disciples to take up the cross and follow him (Matt. x. 8; xvi. 24; Mark viii. 34; Luke ix. 23; xiv. 27); he foretells his own death on the cross (John xii. 33; Mark viii. 31, 34); he carries his cross to Calvary (Luke xxiii. 26; John xix. 17; Mark xv. 21); the title affixed to the cross (Matt. xxvii. 37; Mark xv. 26; Luke xxiii. 38; John xix. 19); he dies on the cross (Matt. xxvii. 50; Mark xv. 37; Luke xxiii. 46; John xix. 30).

CROSS'ES and tribulations, the lot of all who wish to live piously (Ps. xxxiii. 20; Eccles. ii. 1; Matt. xvi. 24; 1 Thess. iii. 3; 2 Tim. iii. 12); the folly of the cross (1 Cor. i. 18); crosses sent to us by God for our good (2 Cor. xi. 30; 1 Pet. iv. 17); crosses lead us to know God (Luke xxiv. 26, 46; John xii. 25; Acts xiv. 21; Rom. viii. 17; 2 Cor. iv. 8; v. 1; Phil. ii. 8; 2 Thess.

"Holiness" (Eccles. xlv. 14; Wis. xviii. 24; Zach. vi. 11); David captured and wore a gold crown set with precious stones, weighing a talent, from Melchom, king of Ammon (2 Kings xii. 30; 1 Paral. xx. 2); Mardochai rides out wearing the crown of Assuerus (Esth. vi. 8; viii. 15); Ptolemee wore two crowns (1 Mach. xi. 13); Alexander Bales sent a gold crown to Jonathan (1 Mach. x. 20); Alcimus gives a gold crown to Demetrius (2 Mach. xiv. 4); idols were crowned (Baruch vi. 9); crowns of gold were placed on the front of the temple at its dedication (1 Mach. iv. 57); the ancients cast their crowns before the throne of God (Apoc. iv. 10)

THE COUNCIL OR SANHEDRIM IN SESSION.

CROWN of thorns placed on the head of our Lord (John xix. 5).

CRUCIFIXION, a punishment in Egypt (Gen. xl. 19); Saul's descendants suffer it (2 Kings xxi. 6-13); it was abolished by Constantine.

CRUCIFIXION of our Lord, preceded by scourging (Matt. xx. 19; Mark xv. 15); he bore his own cross (Mark xv. 21; Luke xxiii. 26; John xix.

CU'BIT, a measure, about nineteen or twenty inches (Gen. vi. 15; Deut. iii. 11, etc.)

CU'CUMBERS, a vegetable for which the Israelites in the desert longed (Num. xi. 5).

CUM'MIN, a plant like fennel (Isai. xxviii. 25; 27; Matt. xxiii. 23).

CUP. Pharaoh's cup (Gen. xl. 11); Joseph's found in Benjamin's sack (Gen. xlv. 5); David takes away

CYM'BALS, musical instruments struck together (2 Kings vi. 5; 1 Paral. xiii. 8; xv. 17; xvi. 5; 2 Paral. v. 5; Ps. el. 5; 1 Cor. xiii. 1). Egypt is called the land of the flying cymbal (Isai. xlviii. 1); alluding to the winged disk so frequent on Egyptian buildings.

CY'PRESS, a tree (Ecclus. xxiv. 17; 1. 11; Cant. i. 16).

CY'PRUS, an herb (Cant. i. 13; iv. 13).

CY'PRUS, an island in the Mediterranean. Jews resided there in the days of the Machabees (1 Mac. xv. 23); native place of Barnabas (Acts iv. 36); the gospel preached in (Acts xi. 19); St. Paul visits it A. D. 42 (Acts xiii. 4-13; xv. 39; xxi. 3; xxvii. 4).

CYRE'NE, a city in Africa (Acts ii. 10); a place in Assyria (4 Kings xvi. 9).

CYRENIAN, a native of Cyrene. Simon bore the cross of our Lord (Matt. xxvii. 32; Mark xv. 21; Luke xxiii. 26); they had a synagogue at Jerusalem (Acts vi. 9); heard the apostles on Pentecost (ii. 10); helped to form the church at Antioch (xi. 20); Lucius, of Cyrene, one of the prophets and doctors there (xiii. 1); is venerated as the first bishop of Cyrene.

CYRI'NUS (Publius Sulpitius Quirinus) takes the census in Judea (Luke ii. 2).

CY'RUS, founder of the Persian monarchy, was announced by Isaias (xliv. 28; xlv. 1); he permits the Jews to return to Judea (2 Paral. xxxvi. 22; 1 Esd. i. 3; Dan. vi. 28; x. 1); he restores the sacred vessels of the temple (v. 7, 14).

DA'GON, the national god of the Philistines, represented as part man and part fish. His principal temples were at Gaza (Judges xvi. 21, 30); and Azotus (1 Kings v. 5, 6; 1 Paral. x. 10); the idol in the latter was overthrown when the Ark of the Covenant was placed in the temple (1 Kings v. 5); this temple was destroyed by Jonathan (1 Mach. x. 83; xi. 4).

SACRIFICE OF A RED COW FOR SIN.

17); was stripped of his garments on which the soldiers cast lots (Matt. xxvii. 35); nailed to the cross and set up between two thieves (Isai. liii. 12); watched by a centurion and a band of soldiers (Matt. xxvii. 54; Mark xv. 45; Luke xxiii. 47; John xix. 23); he dies on the cross (Matt. xxvii. 50; Mark xv. 37; Luke xxiii. 46; John xix. 30); his legs were not broken (33); but his side was opened with a spear

Saul's cup (1 Kings xxvi. 12); Babylon compared to a golden cup (Jerem. li. 7); golden cup of abominations (Apoc. xvii. 4).

CUPBEARER, an officer of rank in Eastern courts (Gen. xl. 11; 3 Kings x. 5); Nehemiah was cupbearer to Artaxerxes (2 Esd. i. 11; ii. 1).

ANCIENT CROWNS.

(34); the apostles preached Christ crucified (Acts ii. 36; iv. 10; 1 Cor. i. 23; ii. 2); sinners crucify the Son of God again (Heb. vi. 6); Jerusalem called Sodom and Egypt, because our Lord was crucified there (Apoc. xi. 8).

CRYS'TAL (Job xxviii. 17; Ezech. i. 22; Apoc. iv. 6; xxi. 11).

ANCIENT CUPS.

CUP of God's wrath poured out on guilty nations (Is. li. 17, 21; Jerem. xxv. 15, 27; Ezech. xxiii. 31-34; Apoc. xiv. 10-19).

CUTH'ITES, people of Cutha sent by the king of Assyria to Samaria (4 Kings xvii. 30).

CUT'TING or tattooing the flesh forbidden (Lev. xix. 28); it was done in mourning (xxi. 5; Deut. xiv. 1); in heathen worship (3 Kings xviii. 28).

DALAI'AS, counsellor of Joakim, tries to prevent the king from burning the prophecies of Jeremias (Jerem. xxxvi. 12, 25).

DAL'ETH, fourth letter of the Hebrew alphabet (Jerem. i. 4).

DALI'LA, a woman of the valley of Sorec, whom Samson loved, but who betrayed him to the Philistines (Judges xvi. 4-20).

BALMANUTHA, a place on the Sea of Galilee (Mark viii. 10).

DALMA'TIA, a province on the eastern shore of the Adriatic. St. Paul preached near it (Rom. xv. 19); and sent Titus there (2 Tim. iv. 10).

DAM'ARIS, an Athenian woman converted by St. Paul (Acts xvii. 34). St. Chrysostom records the tradition that she was the wife of Dionysius, the Areopagite.

DAMAS'CUS, one of the most ancient cities of Syria, watered by the Abana and Pharpar (Gen. xiv. 15; xv. 2); conquered by David (2 Kings viii. 5; 1 Paral. xviii. 5); in Solomon's time, Razon made himself king (3 Kings xi. 23, 24); it appears frequently in the wars of Israel and Judah (3 Kings xv. 18; 2 Paral. xvi. 2; 3 Kings xv. 20; 3 Kings xx. 26; 4 Kings vi. 24; vii. 6, 7; 4 Kings viii. 28; xiv. 28; xv. 37). Thelathphalasar slew Rasin, and laid Damascus waste, 742 B. C. (4 Kings xvi. 9; Isai. vii. 8; viii. 4; xvii.; Jerem. xlix. 23; Amos i. 5). In the time of the apostles, it was subject to king Aretas (2 Cor. xi. 32); Saul was proceeding to it to persecute the Christians, when he was arrested by our Lord. He was led blind to the Straight street in Damascus to the House of Judas, where Ananias cured and baptized him. The Jews sought his life for preaching Christ and he escaped from the wall in a basket (Acts ix. 1-25).

DAMNA'TION, eternal, prepared for the devil and the reprobate (Wis. v.; Job x. 22; Isai. xxiv. 22; xxx. 33; Dan. vii. 11; Matt. iii. 12; v. 29; xiii. 50; xxii. 13; Luke iii. 17; xvi. 23; Heb. x. 27; 2 Pet. ii. 4; Apoc. xix. 20; xx. 10; xxi. 8).

DAN, fifth son of Jacob (by Bila, Rachel's handmaid), (Gen. xxx. 6); he had but one son, Husim (xvii. 23); Jacob's prophecies as to (Gen. xlix. 16).

DAN, one of the twelve tribes. On leaving Egypt it numbered 62,700 fighting men, under their prince Ahiezer (Num. i. 12, 38, 39); they were on the north side (ii. 25); their offerings for the tabernacle (Num. vii. 66-71); they sent Ammiel to view the promised land (xiii. 13); Bocci was appointed from Dan to divide the land (xxxiv. 22); at Settim they numbered 64,400 (xxvi. 43); they stood on Hebal to curse (Deut. xxvii. 13); Moses' prophecy on (Deut. xxxiii. 22); their portion (Jos. xix. 40, 46, 47; Judg. xviii.); they capture the city of Lais and call it Dan (Judg. xviii. 28, 29); Samson was of Dan (Judges xiii.-xvi.); their territory was one extremity of the land, so that "from Dan to Bersebee" was used to express the whole country (Judg. xx. 1; victory over Goliath (1 Kings xviii. 6); on Solomon's accession (3 Kings i. 40); on the evil effects of dancing see Ex. xxxii. 6; Judg. xi. 34; xvi. 21; Matt. xiv. 6.

DAN'IEL, a prophet who flourished at Babylon during the captivity, and author of one of the canonical books. He was carried away captive in the fourth year of Joakim, king of Juda, 606 B. C., and was one of the young nobles brought up at the court of Nabuchodonosor (Dan. i. 2, etc.); while a youth he, by his wisdom, delivered the chaste Susanna, falsely accused (Dan. xiii.); he explained the vision of Nabuchodonosor of a statue of various metals, representing the great monarchies (ii. 1-48); he explained another vision of a tree cut down, foretelling the seven years' madness of the king (iv. 1-34; in the reign of Balthasar he had a vision of four animals coming out of the sea, representing the empires of the Chaldees, Persians, Greeks and Romans (Dan. vii.); also the persecution of the Jews under Antiochus (21, 25); the overthrow of the Persians by Alexander (viii.); when Balthasar profaned the sacred vessels of the temple, Daniel read the words written on the wall by the mysterious hand, and announced the death of the king and the fall of the monarchy that very night (Dan. v. 1-3; ix.); Darius the Mede made Daniel ruler of one of the provinces (vi. 1); he was again cast to the lions on the accusation of his enemies and miraculously preserved (vi. 16-24); he foretold the coming and death of the Messias in seventy weeks (ix. 21-27); the angel Gabriel revealed to him the reign of Alexander, the division of his empire, the persecutions of Antiochus (x.; xi.) under Cyrus; he unmasked the priests of Bel

THE CRUCIFIXION. (After the painting by Van Dyck.)

2 Kings xxiv. 2, 15; 1 Paral. xxi. 2; 2 Paral. xxx. 5); Jeroboam set up a golden calf in Dan (3 Kings xii. 29); the city Dan taken by Benadad (xv. 20; 2 Paral. xvi. 4). The tribe disappears in Bible records; there is no genealogy in 1 Paral. ii.-viii.; and in the Apocalypse none of the tribe are mentioned among the elect (Apoc. vii. 4-8).

DANCE, used in religious ceremonies, after the passage of the Red Sea (Ex. xv. 20); after David's and destroyed the temple (xiv.), and a dragon worshipped by the people, for which he was again cast to the lions (xiv. 30, 31); but refreshed by Habacuc and delivered (32-41); his wisdom was proverbial (Ezech. xxviii. 3; xiv. 14, 20); his prophecies have come down to us partly in Hebrew, partly in Chaldee, and partly in Greek; the last portion is rejected by the modern Jews, who refuse to accept the New Testament and all other Greek Scriptures, and 'v Protestants. Daniel died apparently during the captivity.

DAPH'CA, the ninth camp of the children of Israel in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 12).

TOMB OF CYRUS.

DAPH'NE, a place near Antioch where the high-priest Onias took refuge (2 Mach. iv. 33).

DAPH'NIS, a fountain (Num. xxxiv. 11).

DARI'US, the Mede, or Astyages (Dan. xiii. 65), uncle of Cyrus the Great, was the son of Assuerus (Dan. ix. 1); he overthrew his grandnephew Balthasar and began his reign at Babylon at the age of sixty-two, 538 B. C. (Dan. v. 31); he made Daniel governor of a province, and by an edict recognized the God of Daniel as "the living and eternal God" (vi. 2, 26).

DAGON, THE FISH GOD.

DARI'US (son of Hystaspes), renewed the order of Cyrus for the rebuilding of the temple (1 Esd. vi. 1).

DARI'US, the Persian (2 Esd. xii. 22), is supposed to be Dari'us Nothus, 425-404 B. C., or more probably Dari'us Codomanus, overthrown by Alexander (1 Mach. i. 1).

DARK CLOUD, God appears at Sinai in a (Ex. xx. 21).

DARK'NESS. Egypt struck with darkness for refusing to let the Israelites go (Ex. x. 21, 22); darkness over the whole earth at the crucifixion of our Lord (Matt. xxvii. 45); darkness is used for death (Job x. 21, 22); and for sin (John i. 5; iii. 19).

DA'THAN, son of Eliab of the tribe of Ruben, rebels with Core against Moses and Aaron, and is swallowed up by the earth (Num. xvi. 1-33; xxvi. 10; Deut. xi. 6; Ps. cv. 17; Eccles. xlv. 22).

DATH'EMAN, a fortress besieged by Timotheus (1 Mach. v. 9).

DAUGH'TERS inherited in default of sons (Num. xxxvi. 6). The term daughter is used for any female descendant (Gen. xxiv. 3, 13; xxxi. 43); for women of a place or country (Gen. vi. 2; Num. xxv. 1; Deut. xxiii. 17; Luke xxiii. 28); for cities (Isai. x. 32; Jer. vi. 2; Zach. ix. 9).

DA'VID, son of Isai or Jesse, of the tribe of Juda, consecrated by Samuel as future king (1 Kings xvi. 13; 2 Kings ii. 4); he was renowned for valor, having slain a lion and a bear (1 Kings xvii. 34); he became Saul's armor-bearer and minstrel (1 Kings xvi. 21-23); when the giant Goliath defied the champions of Israel and no one dared accept the challenge, David met and slew him (49); Saul's son Jonathan and David became warm friends (xviii. 1, 3; xx. 8; xxiii. 18); Saul, jealous of David, attempted his life (xviii. 11); and sent him against the Philistines, promising his daughter Michol in marriage as a reward for victory; David's unexpected success embittered Saul, who showed such hostility to him that by Jonathan's advice he retired to Achish, king of Geth (xxi.); but there pretended insanity to avoid serving against his king and country (xxi. 13); he then retired to Maspha (xxii. 3); was delivered from Saul's pursuit (xxiii. 14); and spared the king when he was in his power (xxiv. 5; xxvi. 11); he married also Achinoam and Abigail, and resided at Siceleg; the Amalecites having captured the place and his family, he pursued and defeated them (xxx.); on the death of Saul at Mount Gelboe, he was anointed king at Hebron, and recognized by the tribe of Juda (2 Kings ii. 4, 10); the other tribes recognizing Ishobeth, son of Saul (8-10); but David defeated him at Gabaon, and he was some time after assassinated by his own servants (2 Kings iv. 7); David was then, after seven years' reign at

DATES.

Hebron, anointed king of all Israel, and reigned thirty-three years at Jerusalem (v. 5); he brought the ark from Cariathiarim, and proposed to erect a temple (2 Kings vii. 2; 1 Paral. xvii. ; xxiii.-xxvii.); but was told by the prophet Nathan that the work was for his son (2 Kings vii. 5-17); he freed Israel from paying tribute to the Philistines, defeated the Moabites, Adarezer, king of Soba, the Syrians, Edomites, and Ammonites (viii. ; x. ; xxi.); he fell into the sin of adultery, and to cover it contrived the death of Urias, for which he repented (xi.-xii. 13); his son Absalom rebels and forced David to flee from Jerusalem, but is defeated in battle and killed (xv.-xviii.); by numbering his people he draws down a pestilence (xxiv. 15); he caused Solomon his son by Bathsheba to be consecrated king (3 Kings i. 34); and died 1014 B. C. (3 Kings ii. 10); he composed Psalms, which form one of the canonical books, and have been used by the Jewish and Christian churches in divine worship; and in them he foretold of the Messiah who was to be of his race; he is praised (Eccles. xlvii. 2); our Lord is called the Son of David (Matt. i. 1; xv. 22; xxii. 45; Mark xii. 35; Luke xx. 41; Acts ii. 30); called a prophet (Acts ii. 30).

THE THRONE OF CYRUS.

DEACONS, an order of clergy on the new law (Acts vi. 3); the qualities they should possess (1 Tim. iii. 8).

DEAD. How the dead are to be mourned (Lev. xix. 28; Deut. xiv. 1; xxxiv. 8; 2 Kings i. 11; iii. 21; x. 2; xii. 16; xiv. 2; xix. 1; xxi. 10, 13; Eccles. xii. 10; xxxviii. 16; 1 Mach. ix. 20; xii. 52; xiii. 26; Matt. ii. 18; Luke vii. 13; John xi. 33; Acts viii. 2; ix. 39; 1 Thess. iv. 12.)

DEAD SEA or Most Salt Sea (Lake Asphaltite), occupying the site of Sodom, Gomorrah, etc. (Num. xxxiv. 3, 12; Deut. iii. 17; Jos. xii. 3; xv. 5; xvi. 8).

DEAF MUTE cured by our Lord (Mark vii. 32).

DEATH is the penalty of sin (Gen. ii. 17; iii. 19; Rom. v. 12, 17; vi. 23; 1 Cor. xv. 21); sin causes a spiritual death (Eph. ii. 5; Coloss. ii. 13; 1 Tim. v. 6; James i. 15); all men are subject to death once (Jos. xxiii. 14; Job xiv. 5; Ps. lxxxviii. 49; Eccles. iii. 2; viii. 8; ix. 5; Eccles. xvii. 3; xli. 1; John vii. 30; viii. 20; Heb. ix. 27); the hour of death is uncertain (Eccles. ix. 12; Matt. xxiv. 43; Luke xii. 40; 1 Thess. v. 2; 2 Thess. ii. 2; James iv. 13); Christ overcame death (Isaiah xxv. 8; 1 Cor. xiii. 14; Rom. vi. 9; 1 Cor. xv. 54; 2 Tim. i. 10; Heb. ii. 14; Apoc. i. 18; xxi. 4).

DE'MAS, of Thessalonica, a disciple of St. Paul (Coloss. iv. 14); ministered to him during his imprisonment in Rome, but loving the world, left him and silver models of the temple of Diana, finding his trade injured by St. Paul, who converted the people to Christianity, raised a riot (Acts xix. 24).

THE JEWISH CAPTIVES CONDUCTED BEFORE DARIUS.

went to Thessalonica (2 Tim. iv. 9).

DEME'TRIUS SOTER, king of Syria, son of Seleucus IV. He sent Bacchides against Judas Machabeus (1 Mach. vii. 2; 2 Mach. xiv.), and then Nicanor, who was defeated and slain (1 Mach. vii. 2; 2 Mach. xv.); but Bacchides sent again overwhelmed him. Demetrius was unable however to overthrow Jonathan, who sided with Alexander Balas against Demetrius (1 Mach. x. 1, 9), and Demetrius was killed, 150 B. C. (1 Mach. x. 49, 50).

the people to Christianity, raised a riot (Acts xix. 24).

DEME'TRIUS, a disciple praised by St. John (3 John 12).

DER'BE, a city in Lycaonia, to which St. Paul and St. Barnabas retired from Lystra (Acts xiv. 19); Gaius, a disciple, was a native of this place (xx. 4).

DES'ERT, or Wilderness of Sur, near the head of the Red Sea, where Agar wandered (Gen. xvi. 7); —of Pharan, where Ismael took up his abode (Gen. xxi. 21); the Israelites wandered for a long time in this desert (Num. xiii. 1; Habac. iii. 3); of Sin, between Elim and Mount Sinai (Ex. xvi. 1; Num. xxxiii. 11, 12); another near Cadesbarné, also called of Cades (Ps. xxviii. 8; Num. xx. 1; xxxiii. 36); —of Sinai (Ex. xix. 2); of Cademoth (Deut. ii. 26); of Ziph, to which David fled (1 Kings xxiii. 15); of Maon (xxiii. 24); of Edom (4 Kings iii. 8); of Palmyra (2 Paral. viii. 4); of Egypt (Ezech. xx. 36); of Upper Egypt (Tobias viii. 3); of Deblatha (Ezech. vi. 14); where St. John preached (Matt. iii. 1); of Juda (Judges i. 16).

DESIR'ED of nations, the Messiah (Agg. ii. 8).

DETRACT'ION, forbidden and punished (Ps. xiv. 3; c. 5; Prov. x. 18; xi. 13; xvi. 28; xx. 19;

THE PLAIN AND LAKES OF MODERN DAMASCUS.

(This Map is from Fairbairn's Imperial Bible Dictionary.)

DEB'BORA, a prophetess, wife of Lapidoth, governed Israel in the days of the Judges, dwelling under a palm tree between Rama and Bethel (Judg. iv. 4, 5); she sent Barac to raise an army and attack Sisara, general of king Jabin's army, and composed a canticle on the victory (v.) 1285 B. C.

DEB'ORA, Rebecca's nurse, buried under an oak at Bethel (Gen. xxxv. 8).

DEC'ALOGUE, the Ten Commandments (Exod. xx. 2-17; Deut. v. 6-21).

DE'DAN, a country (Jerem. xxv. 23; xlix. 8; Ezech. xxv. 13; xxvii. 15; xxxviii. 13).

DED'ANIM, a Gentile nation (Isai. xxi. 3).

DEDICATION of the temple by Solomon (3 Kings viii.; 2 Paral. v. 6-vii. 9); by Judas Machabeus (1 Mach. iv. 56; 2 Mach. ii. 9); dedication of the walls of Jerusalem (2 Esd. xii. 27).

DEL'UGE, an overflowing of the earth with water, announced (Gen. vi. 17-viii. 4); it lasts 150 days, beginning the 17th day of the second month, 2348 B. C.; it is never to occur again (ix. 11).

DEME'TRIUS NICANOR, son of Soter, raised his standard in Cilicia (1 Mach. x. 67-69); won the favor of Ptolemy Philometor, who gave him his daughter Cleopatra in marriage and became king (x. 51-59; xi. 14-18); Jonathan Machabeus obtained his favor; Demetrius was finally driven out by Tryphon, was taken by the Parthians, but finally recovered his throne and was killed, 126 B. C. (1 Mach. xiii. 34-xiv. 38).

DEME'TRIUS, a silversmith of Ephesus, living by making little xxvi. 20; Eccles. x. 20; Rom. i. 30; 2 Cor. xii. 20; 1 Pet. ii. 1; James iv. 11).

CONVENT OF MAR SABA, AND THE DEAD SEA.

DEUTERO-CANONICAL books of the Old Testament are those books not included in the first canon ascribed to Esdras, but received by the Jewish church in the time of our Lord, and by the apostles and primitive church. They are rejected with the New Testament by the Jews. They are Tobias, Judith, Esther, Wisdom, Ecclesiasticus, Baruch, a part of Daniel, and the two books of the Machabees.

DEUTORON'OMY, or the Second Law, called in Hebrew Elle Haddebarim. It repeats and inculcates the ordinances given on Mount Sinai, and is the fifth and last of the Pentateuch, or five books of Moses. It was written on stones by Josue (Jos. viii. 32).

DEV'IL, the name given to the chief of the fallen angels. Sin entered the world through his DEV'ILS or demons, evil spirits. All the gods of the Gentiles were devils (Ps. xcvi. 5); men offered them sacrifices even of their own children (Ps. cv. 37; Baruch iv. 7; Levit. xvii. 7; 4 Kings i. 2, 3); this was specially forbidden (Lev. xvii. 7; Deut. xxxii. 17; 2 Paral. xi. 15; Ps. cv. 37); they are driven out of possessed persons by our Lord (Matt. viii. 16, 31; ix. 33; xvii. 17; Luke iv. 35; viii. 2, 28; ix. 43; xiii. 11); they are subject to the disciples (Luke x. 17; Acts v. 16; viii. 7; xvi. 18); they recognize Christ (Matt. viii. 29; Mark iii. 11; v. 7; Luke iv. 33, 41; viii. 28; Acts xix. 15; James ii. 19).

DIAN'A, goddess of hunting, worshipped especially at Ephesus. Her idol there was believed to have fallen from heaven (Acts xix. 35), and was revered in all Asia Minor (27). St. Paul's preaching drew so many from idolatry, that Demetrius, a silver-

Levi treacherously captured the city and slew the people (xxxiv. 1-31).

DI'NITES, one of the tribes sent to settle the country of the ten tribes (1 Esd. iv. 9); oppose the Jews (ib.).

DIONYS'IUS, the Areopagite, an illustrious Athenian converted by St. Paul (Acts xvii. 34).

DIOT'REPHES, a disciple mentioned 3 John i. 9.

DIP'SAS, a serpent whose bite caused a violent thirst (Deut. viii. 15).

DISCI'PLES, seventy were sent out by our Lord, two by two, to preach in the cities of Judea (Luke x. 1); their instructions (3); they return and give an account of their mission (17).

DISPER'SION, Jews of the, were those who remained in foreign countries after the captivity (James i. 1; 1 Pet. i. 1).

DAMASCUS, SYRIA.

jealousy (Wisd. ii. 24). He is always seeking to injure men (Gen. iii. 1; 2 Paral. xviii. 21; Job i. 11; Zach. iii. 1; Matt. viii. 28; Luke viii. 12; Acts xiii. 8; Eph. vi. 11; Apoc. ii. 10; xii. 9); he tempted our Lord (Matt. iv.); he transforms himself into an angel of light to deceive men (2 Cor. xi. 14); he goes about like a roaring lion (1 Pet. v. 8); he can act only as God permits (3 Kings xxii. 22; 2 Paral. xviii. 21; Job i. 12; ii. 6; Matt. viii. 31; Eph. ii. 2; 2 Tim. ii. 26; Apoc. xx. 7); he is the father and prince of the world and of all the wicked (John viii. 44; xii. 31; xiv. 30; xvi. 11; Acts xiii. 10; 2 Cor. iv. 4; Eph. ii. 2; 1 John iii. 10); his empire was destroyed by Christ (Matt. viii. 16; Luke x. 18; xi. 22; John xii. 31; Col. i. 13; 2 Tim. i. 10; Heb. ii. 14; 1 John v. 18; Apoc. xx. 9).

smith, who made silver temples as mementos, raised a riot (23-40).

DIDRACH'MA, a Greek piece of money (2 Mach. iv. 19; x. 20), and equivalent to the half-sicle which each Jew was obliged to pay annually to the temple (Matt. xvii. 23; Ex. xxx. 13).

DID'YMUS, the Greek name of Thomas (John xi. 16; xx. 24).

DI'ES (Jemima), the name of one of Job's daughters (Job xlii. 14).

DIE'VITES, one of the tribes sent to settle in the country of the ten tribes (1 Esd. iv. 9; 4 Kings xvii. 24).

DI'NA, daughter of Jacob and Lia (Gen. xxx. 21); ravished by Sicheu, son of Hemor the Hevite, who then sought her in marriage: but Simeon and DISOBE'DIENCE punished (Lev. xxvi. 14; Deut. xi. 28; xvii. 12; xviii. 19; 1 Kings xii. 15; 3 Kings xx. 36; 2 Paral. vii. 19; Jer. xi. 8); the disobedience of Adam and Eve (Gen. iii. 16); of Lot's wife (xix. 26); of the sons of Aaron (Lev. x. 1); of the Israelites (Num. xiv. 41; 1 Kings xiii. 11; xiv. 24; xv. 24; 2 Kings vi. 7; Jer. xxv. 3; xxvi. 4; Acts vii. 39).

DIVINATION by arrows (Ezech. xxi. 21, 22).

DIVINE, Jews forbidden to divine (Lev. xix. 26).

DIVI'NERS, soothsayers, interpreters unable to explain Pharaoh's dreams (Gen. xli. 8); Nebuchodonosor's (Dan. ii. 10); Balthasar's vision (Dan. v.).

DIVI'NING cup of Joseph (Gen. xli. 5).

DIVIS'ION of the Promised Land among the ten tribes (Jos. xiii.); share of the tribes of Ruben and Gad (Num. xxxii. 33; Jos. xiii. 8); of Judah (xv. 20); of Ephraim (xvi.); of Manasses (Num. xxxii. 33; Jos. xviii. 7; xvii. 1-11); of Benjamin (xviii.); of Simeon (xix.); of Zabulon (xix. 10); of Issachar (17); of Aser (24); of Nephthali (32); of Dan (40); of Levi (xxi. 4).

DIVORCE forbidden (Matt. v. 32); permitted to the Jews (Deut. xxiv. 1); God punishes it (Mal. ii. 14).

DOC'TORS of the law taught by our Lord in childhood (Luke ii. 46); doctors come from all the cities of Judea and Galilee to hear him (v. 17); rebuked by our Lord (xi. 39); their hypocrisy unmasked (Matt. xvi. 1); condemned (Luke xi. 46); they are confounded (Matt. xxi. 24; xxii. 15; Mark xii. 13); they were to be heard, not to be imitated (Matt. xxiii. 3-6; Mark xii. 40); jealous of distinction (Matt. xxi. 15); they conspire the death of our Lord (John xii. 10; Matt. xxvi. 4); they seek means to put him to death (Luke xix. 47); they fear the people (48); resisted his miracles (John ix. 24); their blindness (39); they denied his mission (Luke xx. 2-4); compared to the rebellious vine growers (Luke xx. 9); seek to ensnare our Lord in his words (20); silenced (40); unable to answer the questions of our Lord (Matt. xxii. 46); corrupt Judas (xxvi. 15); they seize our Lord (John xviii. 3; Mark xiv. 43); they assemble to put him to death (Matt. xxvii. 1); deliver him to Pilate (2).

DOC'TRINE and TRUTH (Urim and Thummim), words on the Rational of Judgment (Ex. xxviii. 30).

watching and guarding (Job xxx. 1; Is. lvi. 10); devour corpses (3 Kings xiv. 11; xvi. 4; xxi. 19; xxii.

Ghost descends upon our Lord at his baptism in the form of a dove (Matt. iii. 16); we are to be as sim-

SAMUEL ANOINTING DAVID.

38; 4 Kings ix. 10; Jcr. xv. 3; Ps. lxvii. 24); as a term of hatred or contempt (Ps. xxi. 17; 1 Kings xxiv. 15; 2 Kings iii. 8, etc).

DOR'CAS or TABITHA, a Christian woman of Joppe, famous for her works of mercy (Acts ix. 36); restored to life by St. Peter (40, 41).

DOS'ITHEUS, a priest; took the book of Phurim or Esther to Egypt (Esth. xi. 1); an officer of Judas Machabeus (2 Mach. xii. 19, 35).

ple as doves (x. 16); a type of contemplation (Isai. xxxviii. 14; lix. 11); referred to (Ps. liv. 7; lxvii. 14; Jerem. xlviii. 28; Ezech. vii. 16; O-se vii. 11; Nah. ii. 7; Isai. lx. 8; Cant. i. 14; ii. 14).

DRACHM, a Greek coin (2 Esd. vii. 70-72; 2 Mach. xii. 43).

DRAG'ON, a creature of deserts like the ostrich (Job xxx. 29; Isai. xxxiv. 13; xliii. 20; Jer. ix. 11; x. 22; xiv. 6; xlix. 33; Micheas i. 8; Deut. xxxii. 33; Ps. xc. 13); a dragon worshipped at Babylon and killed by Daniel (Dan. xiv. 22); in the Apocalypse applied to the devil (Apoc. xii. 3); in Ezechiel to Pharaoh (Ezec. xxix. 3).

DRAG'ON, fountain at Jerusalem (2 Esd. ii. 13).

DRAUGHT of fishes, miraculous (Luke v. 6, 7).

DREAMS, God shows his will in (Gen. xlv. 2; Num. xii. 6; 2 Kings vii. 4; Job iv. 13; vii. 14; xxxiii. 15; 1 Kings xxviii. 6; 2 Mach. xv. 11; Matt. i. 20; Acts xxiii. 11; xxvii. 23); they are not to be followed (Deut. xiii. 1; Eccles. v. 2; Eccles. xxxiv. 1; Jerem. xxiii. 16; xxvii. 9; xxix. 8); impure dreams (Deut. xxiii. 10).

DRESS, vanity in dress reprov'd (Isai. iii. 18; Esth. xiv. 16; Matt. vi. 28; xi. 8; Mark xii. 38; Luke xvi. 19; 1 Tim. ii. 9; 1 Pet. iii. 3).

DROM'EDARY, an animal used as a beast of burden, swifter than the camel (Isai. lx. 6).

DROP'SY, our Lord cures a person afflicted with (Luke xiv. 2).

DROUGHT, in the kingdom of Judah, announced by Jeremias (Jerem. xiv. 3); in Israel by Elias (3 Kings xvii. 1-7; xviii. 2).

DRUNK'ENNESS and gluttony forbidden and punished (Prov. xxi. 17; xxiii. 1; Eccles. xxiii. 6; xxxi. 12, 17; xxxvii. 32; Isai. xxii. 13; xxviii. 7; xlv. 12; Ezech. xvi. 49; Joel i. 5; Mich. ii. 11; Hab. ii. 5; Wisd. ii. 7; Luke xii. 45; xxi. 34; Rom. xiii. 13; 1 Cor. v. 11)

SOUTHERN END OF THE DEAD SEA.

DO'DANIM, son or descendant of Javan (Gen. 4; 1 Paral. i. 7).

DOG, an unclean animal (Is. lxi. 3); used for DO'THAIN, DO'THAN, a town in Samaria (Gen. xxxvii. 17; 4 Kings vi. 13; Judith vii. 3).

DOVE sent out by Noe (Gen. viii. 8); the Holy DRUSIL'LA, daughter of Herod Agrippa (Acts xxiv. 24).

EARTH, the globe of the, (Isai. xl. 22); created by God (Gen. i. 1; xiv. 19; Ex. xx. 11; xxxi. 17;

THE PYRAMIDS OF EGYPT

DUMB devil expelled (Luke xi. 14; Mark vii. 32).

EA'GLE, classed among unclean birds (Lev. xi. 13; Deut. xiv. 12); the bald eagle (Mich. i. 16); referred to by our Lord (Matt. xxiv. 28; Luke xvii. 37); the parable of the two eagles (Ezech. xvii. 3-10); its strong flight (2 Kings i. 23; Job ix. 26; Prov. xxx. 19; Jerem. iv. 13; Lam. iv. 19; Abd. 4); one of the four creatures in Ezekiel's vision had the head of an eagle (x. 14); hence applied symbolically to St. John the Evangelist. The eagle of the Apocalypse (iv. 7; viii. 13; xii. 14.)

EARS OF WHEAT. The disciples rebuked by the Pharisees for breaking on the Sabbath (Luke vi. 1; Matt. xii. 1).

EAR-RINGS, Earlets, early in use and apparently superstitions (Gen. xxxv. 4); sent as presents (Gen. xxiv. 22, 47; Job xlii. 11); given to make golden calf (Ex. xxxii. 2); for the sacred vessels (xxxv. 22); allusions to their use (Judg. viii. 24-26;

4 Kings xix. 15; Ps. cxiii. 15; cxx. 2; Prov. viii. 10; Esth. xiii. 10); suspended in space (Job xxvi. 7); covered with vegetation and animals (Gen. i. 10-12, 20-25); man created on earth (26, 27); cursed on account of Adam's sin (iii. 17, 18; iv. 2); overwhelmed with deluge on account of the sins of men (vii. 6, 10-12, 17); again peopled by Noe and his descendants (viii. 18); its final destruction (Apoc. xxi. 1).

EARTH'QUAKES, in the reign of Ozias (Zach. xiv. 5; Amos i. 1); at the crucifixion of our Lord (Matt. xxvii. 51); foretold (Apoc. vi. 12).

EB'ONY, imported into Tyre from Dedan (Ezech. xxvii. 15).

ECBAT'ANA, capital of the Medes (1 Esd. vi. 2; Tob. iii. 7; xv. 8; Jud. i. 1; 2 Mach. ix. 3).

ECCLE'SIASTES, one of the canonical sapiential books, written by Solomon, and called in Hebrew Coheleth or the Preacher (Eccles.)

ECCLE'SIAST'ICUS, one of the canonical sapiential books written by Jesus, the son of Sirach, and called in Hebrew Ben Sirā. It was translated from the Hebrew by his grand-son, and incorporated in the Septuagint.

ECH'O, rebounding from the mountains (Wisd. xvii. 18).

ECLIPSE' of the sun alluded to (Job xxxvi. 32; ix. 7; Ezech. xxxii. 7; Matt. xxvii. 45).

EDE'MA, a strong city in Nephthali (Jos. xix. 36).

E'DEN, sons of (Isaias xxxvi. 1).

E'DEN, Cain dwelt east of (Gen. iv. 16).

EDIS'SA, the name of Esther in captivity (Esth. ii. 7).

ED'NA, a priest (1 Esd. x. 30; 2 Esd. xii. 15).

ED'NAS, warriors who joined the party of David (1 Paral. xii. 20); a general of the army of Josaphat, king of Juda (xvii. 14).

E'DOM, another name of Esau (Gen. xxxvi. 1); used frequently for the country of his descendants. Edom opposes the Israelites (Num. xx. 14); not to be abhorred (Deut. xxiii. 7); subdued by David (2 Kings viii. 14); revolts (4 Kings viii. 20); defeated (xiv. 7; 2 Paral. xxi. 1; Isai. xxxiv. 6); prophecy against (Num. xxiv. 1; Ps. cxxxvi. 1; Isai. xxxiv. 1; Jerem. xlix. 1; Lam. iv. 1; Ezech. xxv. 1; xxxii. 1; xxxv. 1; xxxvi. 1; Amos, Abdias).

EG'LA, sixth wife of David and mother of Jethraam (2 Kings iii. 5).

EG'LON, king of the Moabites, oppressed the Israelites for eight years, but was slain by Aod, 1405 B. C. (Judg. iii. 12).

E'GYPT, a country in the northeast of Africa, called the land of Cham (Ps. cv. 22); being settled by his son Mesraim (Gen. x. 6, 13); Abram went down to (Gen. xii. 10); Joseph sold to Ismaelite merchants going to Egypt (xxxvii. 25); Joseph's life in Egypt (xxxix-xli.); Jacob sends his other sons to Egypt for grain (xlii.-xliii.); goes down with all his family (xli.); his descendants oppressed and reduced to bondage (Ex. i. 8); as had been foretold (Gen.

WINGED CREATURE, WITH THE HEAD OF AN EAGLE.

xv. 13); Egypt smitten with plagues for refusing to let the Israelites depart (Ex. vii. viii. ix. x.); departure of the Israelites from (xii.; Deut. xvi.); Pharaoh pursuing is overwhelmed in the Red Sea (Ex. xiv.); the Israelites regret the food of Egypt (xiv. 11; xvi. 3; xvii. 3; Num. xi. 14, xx.); Solomon marries the daughter of Pharaoh, king of Egypt (3 Kings iii. 1); Jeroboam fled to Sesac, king of Egypt (xi. 40); Osee applies to Sua, king of Egypt, for aid (4 Kings xvii. 4); Josias, king of Juda, defeated and slain by

EGYPTIAN BASKETS. (From Wilkinson.)

Necho, king of Egypt (4 Kings xxiii. 29; 2 Paral. xxxv. 20-24); Egypt overthrown by king of Babylon (4 Kings xxiv. 7; Jerem. xli. 2); Ptolemee, king of Egypt, overthrown by Antiochus (1 Mach. i. 17-21); Alexander Bales sends ambassadors to (x. 51); Ptolemee gives him his daughter in marriage (57); Ptolemee conquers Alexander and assumes DEER.

Judith x. 3; Prov. xxv. 12; Isai. iii. 20; Ezech. xvi. 12; Osee ii. 13).

the crowns of Egypt and Asia (xi. 13); prophecies against (Isai. xix, xx.; Jerem. xliii., xlv., xlvii.); called the Land with the winged Cymbal (Isai. xviii. 1); Joseph and Mary flee to with the infant Saviour (Matt. ii. 13).

E'LA, son of Baasa, king of Israel, reigned two years at Thersa, B. C. 930; and was assassinated by Zambri (3 Kings xvi. 6-10).

E'LAM, eldest son of Sem (Gen. x. 22; 1 Paral. i. 17); also the country settled by his descendants (Gen. xiv. 1, 9; Is. xi. 11; xxi. 2; Jer. xxv. 25; xlix. 34; Ezech. xxxii. 24); occupying part of Persia.

E'LAMITES, inhabitants of Elam (1 Esd. iv. 9); prophesied against (Jerem. xlix.)

ELCA'NA, general of Ahas, king of Juda, killed by Zechri (2 Paral. xxviii. 7).

ELCHA'NAN, a brave warrior; son of David's uncle (1 Paral. xi. 26).

EL'DAD, one of the seventy ancients of Israel; Josue wished Moses to stop his prophesying, but Moses would not (Num. xi. 26-29).

ELE'AZAR, third son of Aaron, succeeds him in the high-priesthood (Num. xx. 26); he entered the promised land with Josue and divides it (Jos. xiv.

priest till the time of Heli, a descendant of Ithamar.

ELE'AZAR, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Matt. i. 15).

THE FLIGHT INTO EGYPT.

ELE'AZAR, son of Saura, dies bravely in battle against Antiochus (1 Mach. vi. 43-46).

ELE'AZAR, son of Aminadab, appointed to guard the ark (1 Kings vii. 1).

ELE'AZAR, a venerable old man of Jerusalem, one of the chief scribes, put to death by Antiochus for refusing to eat the flesh of swine in violation of the law, or even pretend to do so (2 Mach. vi. 18-31).

ELE'AZAR, one of those who brought water to ELECT', their small number (Matt. xx. 16); evil days shortened and postponed for the sake of (Matt. xxiv. 22; Mark xiii. 20).

ELECT' or ELECTA, a lady at Ephesus to FOREIGN CAPTIVES EMPLOYED IN MAKING BRICKS AT THEBES. (Wilkinson.)

EGYPTIAN MUMMIES.

whom St. John addressed his second epistle. Some suppose it to be figurative for a church (2 John i. 1).

EL'EPHANT, used in war (1 Mach. i. 18; iii. 34; vi.; viii.; 2 Mach. xi., xiii., xiv.); elephants' teeth (ivory) (3 Kings x. 22).

E'LI, Eli, lama sabachthani, Hebrew words from

1); he dies at Gabaath, and is succeeded by Phinees (xxiv. 33); his family retained the office of high-

David from the cistern of Bethlehem (2 Kings xxiii. 9; 1 Paral. xi. 16).

Ps. xxi. 1, meaning "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" uttered by our Lord on the cross (Matt. xxvii. 46).

EGYPTIAN HEAD-DRESSES.

ELI'ACIM, son of Helcias, "over the house," high-priest, as some suppose, in the time of king Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 18); his glory (Isai. xxii. 20-25); high-priest (Jud. iv. 5; 4 Kings xxii. 4; 2 Paral. xxxiv. 9; Baruch i. 7); called Joakim (Jud. xv. 9).

ELI'ACIM, king of Juda, surnamed Joakim. He was son of Josias, succeeded his brother Jehonias; he was placed on the throne by Pharaoh Necho, 609 B. C.; he reigned wickedly (4 Kings xxiii. 34; xxiv. 5); called Eliakim (2 Paral. xxxvi. 4).

ELIA'DA, general under king Josaphat (2 Paral. xvii. 17).

ELI'AKIM, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Luke iii. 30).

ELI'AS, a famous prophet, a native of Thesbe, dwelling at Galaad, shuts up the heavens from raining (3 Kings xvii. 1); fed by ravens (6); multiplies the corn and oil of the widow of Sarephta (9-16); restores her son to life (17-24); Achab summons him (xviii. 1-20); Elias challenges the priests of Baal, shows his divine mission, and puts them to death (21-46); fleeing from Jezabel, he is fed by an angel in the desert (xix. 1-7); instructed by the Lord, he anoints Hazael king of Syria, and Jehu and Eliseus cers and their men destroyed by fire from heaven for intending evil to him (9-16); walks through the Jordan (ii. 8); goes up to heaven in a whirlwind and a fiery chariot (11); present at the transfiguration of our Lord (Matt. xvii. 3); he is to come again (Mal. iv. 5; Eccus. xlvi. 10; Matt. xvii. 11; Mark ix. 11).

ELI'ASIB, a priest who went up with Zorobabel (2 Esd. iii. 1); high-priest (xiii. 28).

ELIC'ANS, the nation of king Erioch (Judith i. 6); supposed to be the Elamites.

ELIE'ZER DAMASCUS, Abraham's servant (Gen. xv. 2); goes to Mesopotamia to seek a wife for Isaac (Gen. xxiv. 10); brings Rebecca (61).

ELIE'ZER, son of Moses (Ex. ii. 22; xviii. 4); circumcised by his mother when the angel threatened the life of Moses for her neglect (iv. 24, 25); Jethro brings him to his father (xviii. 1-6).

ELIE'ZER, son of Dodau, a prophet who foretold to Joaphat that his fleet fitted out to co-operate with Ochozias should be wrecked in Asiongaber (2 Paral. xx. 37).

ELIE'ZER, a deputy sent by Esdras to the Jews at Chasphia (1 Esd. viii. 15-20).

E' LIM, sixth camp of the Israelites in the desert (Ex. xv. 27; Num. xxxiii. 9).

ELIM'ELECH, husband of Noemi, Ruth's mother-in-law, who went to the land of Moab (Ruth i. 2, etc.).

ELIO'DA, a son of David (2 Kings v. 16).

ELIPH'ALETH, or ELIPHALET, two sons of David (2 Kings v. 16; 1 Paral. xiv. 7; 1 Paral. iii. 6; iii. 8).

EL'IPHAZ, one of the friends of Job (Job ii. 11).

ELISE'US, son of Saphat, disciple and successor of the prophet Elias. He was of Abelmeula (3 Kings xix. 19; Eccus. xlvi. 13); anointed by Elias (3 Kings xix. 16); he crossed the Jordan by striking it with the cloak of Elias (4 Kings ii. 14); sweetens water (20); multiplies oil (iv. 1-6); raised to life the child of the Sunamites (iv. 32); heals the leprosy of Naaman, the Syrian (v. 14); blinds the Syrians (vi. 18); foretells plenty (vii. 1); his death (xiii. 14); his dead body restores a murdered man to life (21 Eccus. xlvi. 15).

ELI'U, one of Job's friends; his address to Job (Job xxxii.).

ELIZ'ABETH, daughter of Aminadab, and wife of Aaron; she was mother of Nadab, Abiu, Eleazar and Ithamar (Ex. vi. 23).

ELIZ'ABETH, wife of Zachary (Luke i. 5); her maternity foretold (13); visited by the Blessed Virgin (39); her salutation recognizing her as mother of the Lord (41-45); gives birth to St. John the Baptist (57).

E'LUL, one of the months of the Jewish year, nearly coinciding with August. The wall of Jerusalem was completed on the 25th (2 Esd. vi. 15; see 1 Mach. xiv. 27).

ELYMA'IS, a city in Persia, containing a temple of Nanea, which Antiochus endeavored to pillage (1 Mach. vi. 1-4; 2 Mach. i. 13).

EL'YMAS, or Barjesu, a magician who misled Sergius Paulus, governor of Cyprus, and was struck blind by St. Paul (Acts xiii. 7-9).

E'MATH, a city of Syria, assigned by Josue to the tribe of Nephthali (Jos. xix. 35); Thou, king of Emath, was on terms of amity with David (2 Kings viii. 9). It was taken by the kings of Juda and Israel (4 Kings xiv. 28); and by the Assyrians, who removed the people to Samaria (xvii. 24; xviii. 34).

EMBALM'ING, in use among the Jews (Gen. i. 2, 3; Luke xxiv. 1; John xix. 40).

EM'ERALD, a precious stone in the rational (Ex. xxviii. 17; xxxix. 10); alluded to (Tob. xiii. 21; Jud. x. 19; Eccus. xxxii. 8; Ezech. xxviii. 13); in the wall of the New Jerusalem (Apoc. xxi. 19).

EM'ISSARY GOAT, chosen by lot (Lev. xvi. 8), to be offered by the high-priest, who was to pray that the sins of the people should light on him, and then turn him into the desert (20-22).

EMMAN'UEL, God with us, the name of the Messiah (Isai. vii. 14; viii. 8; Matt. i. 23).

EM'MAUS, a hamlet near Jerusalem. Our Lord

DOOR INSCRIBED WITH PASSAGES FROM THE KORAN

revealed himself after his resurrection to two disciples on their way to Emmaus (Luke xxiv. 13).

EM'PIRES, visions concerning the rise and fall of empires (Num. xxiv.; Dan. iv.-v.; viii.; xi.; Hab. ii.; Apoc. xvii., xviii.).

E'NAC, ENA'CIM, a race of giants (Num. xiii. 23, 29, 34; Jos. xv. 13, 14; Judg. i. 20; Deut. i. 28; ii. 10, 11, 21; ix. 2).

EN'DOR, the witch of, visited by Saul (1 Kings xxviii. 7-20); she evokes Samuel (14).

ENE'AS, a man of Lydda, paralyzed for eight years, cured by St. Peter (Acts ix. 33, 34).

EN'EMIES to be prayed for (Num. xvi. 22;

EGYPTIAN MONARCH IN HIS CHARIOT.

(8-21); rebukes Achab for killing Naboth (xxi. 17-20); at the command of an angel he stops the messengers sent by king Ochozias to consult Beelzebub, and announces his death (4 Kings i. 3-8); two offi-

Luke vi. 28; xxiii. 34; Acts vii. 59); and loved Prov. xxv. 21; Matt. v. 44).

ENGAD'DI or ASASONTAMAR, a city near the Dead Sea; David dwelt in its strongholds (1 Kings xxiv. 1); Josaphat's enemies advance to (2 Paral. xx. 2); famous for vineyards (Cant. i. 13).

EN'GINES of war, what wood to be taken for (Deut. xx. 20); details as to (2 Paral. xxvi. 15; 1 Mach. v. 30; vi. 20, 31; 2 Mach. xii. 15, 27).

EN'NOM, En'non, the valley of the son of, east of Jerusalem (Jos. xv. 8; xviii. 16; 2 Esd. xi. 30); Topheth, where Moloch was worshipped, was here till defiled by Josias (4 Kings xxiii. 10; Jerem. vii. 31, 32).

EN'NON, near Salim, where St. John baptized (John iii. 23).

E'NOS, son of Seth (Gen. iv. 26; v. 11).

EN'VY, examples of (Gen. iv. 5; xxvi. 14; xxx., xxxi.; Exod. i.).

EPA'PHRAS instructs the Colossians (Coloss. i. 7); a fellow-prisoner with St. Paul in Rome (iv. 12; Philem. 23).

EPAPH'RODI'TUS, apostle of the Philippians (Phil. ii. 25); sent to Rome to minister to St. Paul (iv. 18).

EPENE'TUS, mentioned by St. Paul as the first-fruits of Asia in Christ (Rom. xvi. 5).

E'PHA or BATH, a Hebrew measure, holding, according to Josephus, a little more than eight gallons.

EPH'ESUS, a celebrated city in Ionia, Asia Minor. St. Paul visited it first A. D. 54 (Acts xviii. 19, 22); he soon returned and remained till 57, when Demetrius raised a riot which compelled him to retire; he was there again in 65; he wrote to the Christians of Ephesus from Rome (Eph.) Aquila, bishop of Ephesus (1 Tim. iv. 14; 2 Tim. i. 6). The bishop praised (Apoc. ii. 1); but reproached with the cooling of his charity (4, 5).

appointed to divide the land (xxxiv. 24); their territory (Jos. xvi.); Ammonites waste Ephraim (Judges x. 9); revolt against Jephthe, defeated (Judges xii. 4);

DEFACED.

DEFACED.

INSCRIPTIONS AT EMATH.

EPH'PHETA, a Hebrew word meaning Be thou opened (Mark vii. 32-34).

E'PHOD, a priestly vestment. That of the high-priest was of gold and violet, and purple and scarlet, and fine linen, with two onyxes on the shoulders engraved with the names of the twelve tribes (Ex. xxviii. 6-9); over it was the rational of judgment (15); it was worn on approaching the tabernacle (43); it was carried away by the high-priest Abiathar when he fled to David (1 Kings xxiii. 6; xxx. 7); an ephod made of the gold taken by Gedeon from the Ismaelites proves destructive to his house (Judg. viii. 27).

EPH'RAIM, second son of the patriarch Joseph by Aseneth. Jacob, in blessing the sons, placed his right hand on Ephraim (Gen. xli. 52; xlv. 20).

EPH'RAIM, tribe of. During the stay of the Israelites in Egypt, the sons of Ephraim attacked Geth and were slain (1 Paral. vii. 21); his descendants increased in Egypt so that they formed one of the twelve tribes; at the Exodus they numbered 40,500 men able to bear arms, under Elisama (Num. ii. 18, 19); their camp was on the west side (Num. ii. 18); their offerings (vii. 48-53); to view the land the fugitives detected at the ford of Jordan by the word Schibboleth (6); 42,000 of the tribe slain (6); formed part of the kingdom of Israel (3 Kings xii. 20; 2 Paral. x.); carried into captivity (4 Kings xvii. 5); Josue was of this tribe (1 Par. vii. 27).

EPHRA'TA, another name of Bethlehem (Gen. xxxv. 16, 19; xlviii. 7; Ruth iv. 11; Mich. v. 2).

EGYPTIAN ENSIGNS OR STANDARDS. (Fbn.) From Champollion, 1, 2, 3, 4. From Wilkinson, 5, 7, 8. From Rossellini, 6, 9.

EPH'RATHITES, natives of Bethlehem (Ruth i. 2; 1 Kings xvii. 12).

EPHRA'TA, used in Ps. cxxxi. for the territory of Ephraim, and Ephrathite for a man of the tribe of Ephraim (3 Kings xi. 26).

EPH'REE, Pharaoh, king of Egypt, his fall foretold (Jerem. xlv. 30).

SPECIMEN OF ANCIENT EGYPTIAN ART.

Priscilla, and Apollo also labored here (Acts xviii. 2-18; xviii. 24). St. Paul consecrated St. Timothy they sent Osee (Josue) son of Nun (xiii. 9); at Settim they numbered 32,500 (xxvi. 37); Camuel was EPH'RON, son of Seor, sells the double cave to Abraham (Gen. xxiii. 16, 17; xxv. 9; xlix. 29).

James, two Epistles of St. Peter, three of St. John, and one of St. Jude.

RUINS OF EPHEBUS.

EPH'RON, a mountain north of Juda (Jos. xv. 9).

EPH'RON, a city east of Jordan, taken by Judas Machabeas (1 Mach. v. 46; 2 Mach. xii. 27).

EPICURE'ANS, Greek philosophers, dispute with St. Paul (Acts xvii. 18).

EPIS'TLES, letters addressed by the apostles, and received as canonical books of the New Testa-ERAS'TUS, treasurer of Corinth, a disciple of St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 23); follows him to Ephesus (Acts xix. 22); sent to Macedon; returns to Corinth (2 Tim. iv. 20).

ERIC'IUS, the hedgehog (Isai. xiv. 23; xxxiv. 11, 15; Soph. ii. 14); mistranslated bittern in the King James Bible.

ER'IOCH, king of the Elicians (Jud. i. 6).

E'SAU, son of Isaac and Rebecca (Gen. xxv. 25); sells his birth-right to Jacob (xxv. 29-34); his wives (xxvi., xxviii., xxxvi.); sent out by Isaac to hunt for him (xxvii. 1-4); Jacob obtains his blessing by stratagem (5-30); he threatens Jacob's life (41); Jacob propitiates him (xxxii. 3-xxxiii. 3); their reconciliation (4).

ES'CHOL, an ally of Abraham at Mambre (Gen. xiv. 13, 24).

ES'COL, NEHEL-ESCOL, a vale in Juda where the spies cut an enormous bunch of grapes (Num. xiii. 24, 25; xxxii. 9; Deut. i. 24).

ES'DRAS, a holy priest raised up to effect the return of the Jews from Babylon. He is supposed to have returned first with Zorobabel, 536 B. C., of which he wrote a description. When the enemies of the Jews raised obstacles to the rebuilding of the temple he returned to Babylon, and was sent to Jerusalem by Artaxerxes, 467 B. C. (1 Esd. vii. 1); he set out with a large body, and at the river Ahara was joined by others from Chasphia. He carried back the sacred vessels and published a fast; he deposed priests and Levites who had married heathen women and would not dismiss them (1 Esd. ix.-x.); he governed the Jews till the arrival of Nehemias (2 Esd. i. 1); after the restoration of the temple he read the law to the people (viii.); and solemnly renewed the covenant (ix., x.); he was of the race of Eleazar (1 Esd. vii. 5).

ES'DRAS, two canonical books of the Old Testament, called the first and second of Esdras; the second being also called the book of Nehemias. They relate the return of the Jews from Babylon, the rebuilding of Jerusalem, and the temple (1 Esd., 2 Esd.).

ES'DRAS, a priest who read the law to the people before a battle with the Syrians (2 Mach. viii. 23).

ES'DRELON, a plain in the tribe of Issachar (Jud. i. 8; iv. 5; vii. 3).

ES'THER, or EDISSA, daughter of Abihail, of the tribe of Benjamin (Esth. ii. 7, 15); when Assuerus deposed Queen Vashti, Esther was one of the beautiful maidens gathered for him to select a new queen, and was chosen (ii. 9); Aman, the king's minister, in his anger at Mardochei, Esther's uncle, obtained orders for a general massacre of the Jews (iii.-xiii.); Esther interceded with Assuerus, her people were delivered and Aman was put to death (xiv.-xvi.); a feast was established called Phurim (xi.); which is still kept by the Jews.

ES'THER, a canonical book written by Mardochei (Esth.).

E'THAM, third station of the Israelites in the desert (Ex. xiii. 20; Num. xxxiii. 6).

E'THAN, the Ezrahite, one of the wisest men of his time (3 Kings iv. 31; 1 Paral. ii. 6); but excelled by Solomon.

E'THAN, the rivers of (Ps. lxxiii. 15).

ETH'ANIM, one of the Jewish months, afterwards called Tisri (3 Kings viii. 2).

EUNICE, THE MOTHER OF TIMOTHY.

ment. They are the Epistles of St. Paul to the Romans, Corinthians (2), Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, Thessalonians (2), Timothy (2), Titus, Philemon, and Hebrews, the Epistle of St.

EGYPTIAN MUMMY CASES.

ETHBA'AL, king of Sidon and father of Jezebel (3 Kings xvi. 31).

ETHIO'PIA, a country in Africa, the modern Abyssinia (Gen. ii. 13; 4 Kings xix. 9; Jud. i. 9; Esth. i., viii., xiii., xvi.; Job xxviii. 19; Ps. lxxvii. 32; Isai. xi., xviii., xx., xxxvii., xliii., xlv.; Jerem. xlvi. 9, etc.).

ETHIO'PIAN, Sephora so called (Num. xii. 1); Zara king of the Ethiopians (2 Par. xiv. 8); Candace queen (Acts viii. 27).

EUBU'LUS, a disciple of St. Paul (2 Tim. iv. 21).

EU'CHARIST, Holy, figured by the manna (Ex. xvi. 15; Ps. lxxvii. 24; John vi. 31); promised (5c); instituted by our Lord (Matt. xxvi. 26; 1 Cor. xi. 23; Mark xiv. 22; Luke xxii. 19).

EUME'NES, king of Bithynia and Pergamos, joins the Romans against Antiochus the Great, and receives India, Media, and Lydia (1 Mach. viii. 8).

EU'NICE, a Jewess, mother of St. Timothy (Acts xvi. 1, 2).

EU'NUCH. Castration forbidden (Lev. xxii. 24; Deut. xxiii. 1); eunuchs appear, however, in the time of the kings (4 Kings viii. 6; ix. 32; xx. 18; xxiii. 11; xxv. 19; Isai. lvi. 3; Jer. xxix. 2; xxxiv. 19; xxxviii. 7; xli. 16; lii. 25; Acts viii. 27). Our Lord speaks of those who, by chastity, make themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven (Matt. xix. 12).

EU'PATOR, surname of Antiochus, son of the Illustrious (1 Mach. vi. 17).

EUPHRATES, a river of Mesopotamia (Gen. ii. 14; Deut. xi. 24; 2 Kings viii. 3; Jer. xiii. 4; Apoc. ix. 14).

EUPOL'EMUS, one of Judas Machabeus' ambassadors to Rome (1 Mach. viii. 17; 2 Mach. iv. 11).

EU'ROAQUIL, the northeast wind (Acts xxvii. 14).

EU'TYCHUS, a young man of Troas, killed by falling from a gallery, but raised to life by St. Paul (Acts xx. 10).

EVAN'GELIST, a bearer of good tidings, the title given to Philip the deacon (Acts xxi. 8); St. Paul places evangelists as clergymen under the apostles and prophets (Eph. iv. 11); he bids Timothy do the duty of one (2 Tim. iv. 5). The title now applied to the authors of the four gospels, St. Matthew, St. Mark, St. Luke, and St. John.

EVE, the first woman, made out of a rib of Adam (Gen. ii. 21); induced by the serpent to eat the forbidden fruit (iii. 6); persuades Adam to eat thereof (6); her sentence (16); God makes her a garment of skins (21); mother of Cain (iv. 1); of Abel (2); of Seth (25); and of daughters (v. 4).

E'VILMER'ODACH, son and successor of Nabuchodonosor, takes king Joachin out of prison (16, 17, 18). (4 Kings xxv. 27).

E'VIL, not to be returned for evil (Prov. xx. 22; xxiv. 29; Rom. xii. 14; 1 Cor. iv. 12; 1 Thess. v. 15; 1 Pet. iii. 9); we are to avoid evil (Prov. iii. 7; Isai. i. 16; Ezech. xviii. 21).

EVOCA'TION of the spirit of Samuel by the witch of Endor (1 Kings xxviii. 15; Eccus. xli. 23).

EVO'DIA, a disciple mentioned by St. Paul (Phil. iv. 2).

EXCOMMUNICA'TION (Matt. v. 29; xvi. 19; 1 Cor. v. 3; 2 Thess. iii. 6; 1 Tim. i. 20; 2 Tim. iv. 15; Tit. iii. 10).

EX'ODUS, the second of the five books of Moses, and called in Hebrew Veelle Scmpt. It describes the departure of the Israelites from Egypt (Ex.).

EX'ORCISTS, men appointed to expel evil spirits (Matt. xii. 27); some Jews assumed to do so in the name of Jesus Christ (Mark ix. 37; Luke ix. 40); the sons of Sceva attempting it, maltreated by the possessed (Acts xix. 16).

EX'PIA'TIONS, or expiatory sacrifices prescribed by God (Lev. v. 2-18; xxiii. 27, 28, 36).

EX'PIA'TION, feast of, one of the solemn feasts of the Jews on the tenth day of the seventh month (Lev. xvi. 29-34).

THE TOMB OF ESTHER AND MORDECAI.

EXTERM'INANS, the Latin name of the angel of the bottomless pit (Apoc. ix. 11).

EXTREME' UNCTION, the use of the sacrament enjoined (James v. 14).

EYE, a good eye or intention (Eccus. xxxv. 12); the light of the body (Matt. vi. 22); an evil eye (Gen. vi. 2; Prov. vi. 13; Eccl. iv. 8; Eccus. xiv. 8; xxxi. 14; Matt. vi. 23; Mark vii. 22; 1 John ii. 16); the eye causes sin (Gen. iii. 6; xxxiv. 2; xxxviii. 15; xxxix. 7; 2 Kings xi. 2; xiii. 1; Prov. xxiii. 26; Eccus. ix. 5; xxv. 28; xli. 25; xlii. 12; Judith x. 18; xii. 16; Dan. xiii. 8; Matt. v. 28; 2 Pet. ii. 14).

EZECHI'AS, king of Juda (4 Kings xvi. 20; xviii. 1; 2 Paral. xxix. 1); he destroyed all idols and heathen worship, and restored religion (4 Kings xviii. 4; 2 Paral. xxix.); threw off the Assyrian yoke (7); defeated the Philistines (8); Sennacherib attacking him is defeated by an angel (xix. 35); his health miraculously restored (xx. 7); consults Isaias (7-18; Isai. xxxvi.-xxxix.); shows his treasures to the Babylonian ambassador; is reproved (Isai. xxxix.); makes an aqueduct (4 Kings xx.); his death (21; 2 Paral. xxxii. 33).

EZE'CHIEL, son of Buzi, a priest and prophet, taken to Babylon (Ezech. i. 3); where he prophesied (ii. 3); praised (Eccus. xlix. 10).

POOL OF EZECHIAS AT JERUSALEM.

E'VI, king of Madian, killed by Phineas (Num. xxvi. 8).

EXTER'MINA'TION, God did not wish that of all the nations (Deut. xx. 10; 11);

EZE'CHIEL, the canonical book containing the prophecies of Ezechiel, one of the four great prophets (Ezech.)

FACE. God promises that his face shall go before the Israelites (Ex. xxxiii. 14); Jacob said: "I have seen God face to face" (Gen. xxxii. 30); "Make thy face to shine upon thy servant" (Ps. xxx. 17).

FAIRS OF TYRE (Ezech. xxvii. 12).

FAITH, a theological virtue (Hab. ii. 4; Matt. viii. 13; ix. 22; Mark v. 34; Rom. iii. 22; iv. 3; v. 1); its efficacy (Matt. ix. 2; xxi. 22; Mark xvi. 16; Luke xviii. 42; John i. 12; iii. 15; vi. 35; vii. 38; xi. 25; xiv. 12; xx. 29; Acts iii. 16; x. 43; xv. 9; xvi. 5; Rom. i. 16; iii. 22; Gal. iii. 8; Eph. ii. 8; Heb. xi. 1-39); faith without charity is lifeless (1 Cor. xiii. 2; Gal. v. 6; James ii. 24); faith is one (Eph. iv. 5).

FAITHFUL, are delivered from the fate of sinners (Gen. vi., viii., xix.; Ex. viii.-xi.; xiv.; Num. xvi.; 1 Esd. viii. 22; Esth. vii.; 2 Pet. ii. 7).

FALSE PROPHETS, we are to beware of them (Deut. xiii. 1; xviii. 20; 3 Kings xxii. 6; Prov. xxviii. 10; Is. xxviii. 7; lvi. 10; Ezech. xiv. 9; xxii. 25; xxxiv.; Amos vii. 10; Mich. iii. 5; Zach. xiii. 2; Matt. vii. 15; Acts xx. 29; Col. ii. 8; 1 Tim. iv. 1; 2 Pet. ii. 1; 1 John iv. 1; Jude 4, 8).

FAM'INES (Gen. xii. 10; xxvi. 1; xli.; Ruth i. 1; 2 Kings xxi. 1; 3 Kings xvii.-xviii.; 4 Kings vi. 25; 2 Esd. v.; Acts xi. 28).

FARM, the term used (Luke xiv. 18; xv. 15).

FAR'THING, used for the Latin quadrans (Matt. v. 26; Mark xii. 42); for the as (Matt. x. 29); for the dipondium (Luke xii. 6).

FAST'ING recommended (Joel ii. 12; Matt. vi. 16; Mark ii. 20; Acts xiii. 2; xiv. 22; Rom. xiii. 13; 2 Cor. vi. 5; 1 Thess. v. 6; 1 Pet. i. 13; v. 8); fasting is meritorious (Judith iv. 8; viii. 6; Tob. xii. 8; Jer. xxxv. 14; Jonas iii. 7; Matt. xvii. 20); the Jews fasted when mourning for the dead (1 Kings xxxi. 13; 2 Kings i. 12; iii. 35; 1 Paral. x. 12; among the examples of fasting see Ex. xxxiv. 28; Judg. xx. 26; 1 Kings vii. 6; 2 Kings xii. 16; 3 Kings xix. 4; Ps. xxxiv. 13; Dan. x. 3; Joel i. 14; Matt. iv. 2; Acts x. 10; 1 Kings xiv. 24; 2 Paral. xx. 3; Jonas iii. 5; 1 Esd. viii. 21; Esth. iv. 16; Jerem. xxxvi. 9; fasting avails not without proper dispositions (Is. lviii. 3; Mark ii. 18; Luke xviii. 12).

FASTS. The appointed fasts of the Jews were in the fourth month for the breaking of the tables (Zach. viii. 19); in the fifth month for the destruction of Jerusalem (Zach. vii. 3); in the seventh month (viii. 19); also on the day of the atonement in that month (Levit. xxiii. 27); and in the tenth month (Zach. viii. 19).

FAT OF ANIMALS was prohibited as food (Lev. vii. 23, 25).

FEAR. We are to fear God and to keep him always before our eyes (Ex. xx. 20; Deut. iv. 10; vi. 2, 13; x. 12; xiii. 4; Jos. xxiv. 14; 4 Kings xvii. 36; 2 Paral. xix. 7; Ps. xxvi. 1; xxxii. 8; Prov. iii. 7; xiv. 2; xxiv. 21; Eccles. xii. 13; Ecclus. ii. 7; vii. 31; Jer. x. 7; xxxii. 39; Matt. x. 28; Luke xii. 5; 1 Pet. ii. 17; Apoc. vi. 7).

FEAR OF GOD is the beginning of wisdom (Prov. ix. 10); is not opposed to faith (Eccles. viii. 12; Ecclus. v. 5; Rom. xi. 20; Heb. iv. 1); it is the beginning of the love of God (Ecclus. xxv. 16; Prov. xiv. 27); it is praised (Gen. xx. 11; Deut. vi. 24; Job xxviii. 28; Ps. cii. 17; cx. 5; cxi. 1; cxxvii.; Prov. x. 27; xvi. 6; xxxi. 30; Ecclus. ii. 18-23; x.

23; xv. 1; xxxiii. 1; xxxiv. 16, 19; Bar. iii. 7; Acts viii. 2; ix. 31); God fills the wicked with fear (Gen. xxxv. 5; Ex. xxxiii. 27; Lev. xxvi. 36; Deut. ii. 25; xi. 25; xxviii. 10, 65; Jos. ii. 9; x. 10; Judg. iv. 15; vii. 21; 1 Kings vii. 10; 4 Kings vii. 6; 2 Paral. xiv. 14; xvii. 10; xx. 29; Judith xiv. 14; xv. 1; Ps. ix. 20; Jer. xlix. 37; 2 Mach. iii. 24). Abraham feared God (Gen. xxii. 12); the midwives (Ex. i. 17); the Israelites (xiv. 31); Abdias (3 Kings xviii. 3); Tobias (i., ii.); Sara (Tob. iii. 18; ix. 12; Judith viii. 8); Job (i. 8; xxxi. 23); Eleazar (2 Mach. vi. 30); Cornelius the centurion (Acts x. 2, 35).

FEASTS observed by the Jews; the Pasch, or feast of the azymes or unleavened bread on the fifteenth day of the first month (Ex. xxiii. 15; Deut. xvi. 2; Matt. xxvi. 2; Mark xiv. 1; John xi. 55; Acts ii. 1; xx. 6); the feast of the First Fruits (Ex. xxiii. 16; Lev. xxiii. 15); the feast of Trumpets (Lev. xxiii. 24; 2 Paral. v. 3); feast of Atonement (Lev. xxiii. 27; Num. xxix. 7); feast of Tabernacles (Ex. xxiii. 16; Lev. xxiii. 34; Deut. xxxi. 10; 1 Esd. iii. 4; 2 Esd. viii. 15; 2 Mach. i. 9; x. 6); feast of Purim (Esth. ix. 31); feast of the Dedication (1 Mach. iv. 56; John x. 22); on three great feasts of the year every male was required to appear before the Lord, by going up to the temple or tabernacle (Ex. xxiii. 17).

FE'LIX, governor of Judea, before whom St. Paul was brought at Cesarea, and who kept him two years in prison (Acts xxiii. 26, 27).

FES'TUS, governor of Judea, hears the cause of St. Paul (Acts xxiv. 27; xxv. 1-24).

FIGFAUNS, a desert creature (Jer. l. 39).

(FIG—Ficus Carica. (Fbn.)

FIG-TREE, a common tree in Palestine (Deut. viii. 8; 3 Kings iv. 25; Micheas iv. 4; Zach. iii. 10); the barren fig-tree cursed by our Lord (Mark xi. 13-21); the parable of the fig-tree (Luke xiii. 6-9).

FIL'LET. The golden fillet (Eccles. xii. 6).

FIR-TREE (Isai. xiv. 8); fir-trees of Sanir (Ezech. xxvii. 5).

FIRE from heaven destroys Sodom and Gomorrah (Gen. xix. 24, 25, 28); kills Nadab and Abihu (Lev. x. 2; xvi. 1); destroys the rebellious Israelites (Num. xvi. 46, 49); descends on sacrifices (Judg. vi. 21; 3 Kings xviii. 38); destroys soldiers sent to seize Elias (4 Kings i. 10, 12); sacred fire found by the Jews after their return from Babylon (2 Mach. i. 19; ii. 1).

FIRST-BORN of the Jews consecrated to God (Ex. xiii. 2; xxii. 29; Num. iii. 13; 1 Kings i. 24; Luke ii. 23); the first-born of the Egyptians slain (Ex. xii. 29).

FIRST-FRUITS to be offered to the Lord and his priests (Ex. xxii. 29; xxiii. 19; Lev. xxiii. 10, 39; Deut. xviii. 4; xxvi. 2; 2 Esd. x. 35; Num. xviii. 11).

FISH created on the fifth day (Gen. i. 20, 21); all without fins and scales declared unclean (Lev. xi. 9, 10); worship of forbidden (Deut. iv. 18); mode of taking (Hab. i. 15; Ezech. xxvi. 5; xlvi. 10; Isaiax xix. 8); miraculous draught of fishes (Luke v. 6).

FISH'-GOD. See DAGON.

FLAX grown in Egypt (Ex. ix. 31); in the Promised Land (Jos. ii. 6; Osee ii. 5, 9; Isaiax xix. 9).

FLEA, an insect (1 Kings xxiv. 15; xxvi. 20).

FLIGHT of the Holy Family into Egypt (Matt. ii. 13).

FLIGHT recommended in persecution (Matt. x. 23).

FLINT, a hard rock (Job xxviii. 9; Ezech. iii. 9).

FLOCK-TOW'ER (Gen. xxxv. 21).

FLUTE, a musical instrument (Dan. iii. 5-15).

FLUX. Bloody flux, dysentery, a disease (Acts xxviii. 8), of which St. Paul cured Publius.

FLY, an insect. All kinds of flies brought upon Egypt (Ex. viii. 21, 31; Ps. lxxvii. 45; civ. 31); dying flies spoil ointment (Eccles. x. 1); fly of Egypt (Isai. vii. 18).

FOR'EST of Bethel (4 Kings ii. 24); of Haret (1 Kings xxii. 5); near Bethaven (xiv. 25); castles in forests (2 Paral. xxvii. 4); forest of Libanus (3 Kings vii. 2); forest of Carmel, figurative (4 Kings xix. 24; Isai. xxxvii. 24).

FORGIVE'. We are to forgive one another (Matt. v. 24; vi. 14; xviii. 21; Mark xi. 25; Luke xi. 4; xvii. 4; Eph. iv. 32; Col. iii. 13).

FORGIVE SINS. The Son of man had power on earth to forgive sins (Matt. ix. 6; Mark ii. 10); he delegated the power to the apostles (Matt. xvi. 19; xviii. 18; John xx. 23); the thought of the scribes that God alone can forgive sins declared evil (Matt. ix. 4), and refuted by a miracle (Matt. ix. 6; Mark ii. 10; Luke v. 24).

FORGIVE'NESS of injuries. By Joseph (Gen. l. 21); taught by our Lord (Matt. v. 44; xviii. 35); practised (Luke xxiii. 34).

FORNICA'TION provokes God's anger (Deut. xxii. 21; Num. xxv. 6; Osee iv. 14; 1 Cor. vi. 9; Heb. xiii. 4); occasions of the sin to be avoided (Ecclus.

FISH-GOD. (From Nimroud. Layard.)

ix. 4; xlii. 12); forbidden in thought or desire (Ex. xx. 17; Matt. v. 28); idolatry often styled fornication (Judg. viii. 27), etc.

FORTUNA/TUS, disciple of St. Paul (1 Cor. xvi. 15, 17).

FOR/TUNE, a goddess, to whom apostate Jews offered libations (Isai. lxxv. 11).

FOUN/TAIN. The dragon-fountain (Esdras ii. 13); fountain of Siloe (Isai. viii. 6; John ix. 7, 11); mysterious fountain (Zach. xiii.); fountain of Daphnis (Num. xxxiv. 11); fountain sealed up (Cant. iv. 12); the fountain of gardens (iv. 15); fountain in Jezrahel (1 Kings xxix. 1); fountain of Misphat (Gen. xiv. 7); fountain Rogel (Jos. xv. 7; xviii. 16; 2 Kings xvii. 17; 3 Kings i. 9); Samson's fountain (Judg. xv. 19); fountain of the sun (Jos. xv. 7); fountain of Taphua (Jos. xvii. 7).

FOWL, fatted fowl (3 Kings iv. 23).

FOX/ES, sent by Samson among the corn of the Philistines (Judg. xv. 4).

FRANK/INCENSE, a resin burned in divine worship (Ex. xxx.

34-35; Isai. lx. 6; Jerem. vi. 20); offered to our Saviour by the wise men (Matt. ii. 11).

FRAUD condemned (Jerem. ix. 6; Ecclus. xxxiv. 25; Prov. xii. 17; Mark vii. 22; Acts v. 2; Rom. i. 29).

FRIEND, not to be listened to against God (Deut. xiii. 6; xxxiii. 9); a pretended friend (John xiii. 18); Joab's friendship (2 Kings iii. 27; xx. 9); Ethai's friendship for David (2 Kings xv. 19); the friendship of David and Jonathan (1 Kings xix. 1; xx. 2, 30); the rich have many friends (Prov. xiv. 20); a true friend loves one at all times (xvii. 17); tells the truth (xxiv. 26); better than a brother (xxviii. 24; xxvii. 10); some persons not to be taken as friends (xx. 19; xxii. 24); he who gives has many friends (xix. 6); marks of a true friend (xvii. 17; xxiv. 26; Eccles. iv. 9; Ecclus. vi. 11).

FRINGES. God commanded the Jews to have fringes, with ribbands of blue (Num. xv. 38; Deut. xxii. 12) on the garment, translated cloak, but evidently the taleth or vestment of prayer still worn by the Jews; skirt (Zach. viii. 23). The Pharisees accused of wearing them very large out of ostentation (Matt. xxiii. 5); it was apparently the fringe of our Lord's taleth that the women touched (Matt. ix. 20; Luke viii. 44); and others (Matt. xiv. 36; Mark vi. 56). The word fimbria, kraspedon, translated hem, being that used for the fringes.

FROGS, one of the plagues of Egypt (Ex. viii. 2, 7).

FRUITS of the promised land, their extraordinary beauty (Num. xiii. 25, 27; Deut. i. 24, 25); laws and ordinances concerning their gathering, and the offering of the first-fruits (Lev. xix. 23, 25).

FRU/MENTY or FUR/METY, polenta (Lev. xxiii. 14; Jos. v. 11; Ruth ii. 14; 1 Kings xvii. 17).

FUR/NACE, the three children cast into the fiery furnace (Dan. iii. 19); delivered (93).

GA/AL, son of Obed, rebels against Abimelech (Judg. ix. 26).

GAB/AA, or GAB/AATH, a town in Benjamin (Jos. xviii. 28); a crime against the wife of a Levite here drew on the tribe of Benjamin a war in which it under Jeroboam and form part of the kingdom of Israel; carried away captive by Theglathphalasar, king of Assyria (4 Kings xviii. 11).

TIBERIAS AND SEA OF GALILEE.

was nearly annihilated (Judg. xix.; xx.); the birth-place of Saul (1 Kings x. 26; xxvi. 1); called Gabaath of Saul (Isai. x. 29); taken by Jonathan (1 Kings xiii. 3).

GAB/AON, a city in Chanaan, whose people obtained a pledge of safety from Josue by stratagem (Jos. ix. 3); Josue aided it against the Chanaanite kings (x. 3); and during this battle caused the sun to stand still (12, 13); the Gabaonites were made hewers of wood and drawers of water to the Israelites (ix. 23); Saul slew many of them (2 Kings xxi. 1); the country was punished by famine till David gave the Gabaonites seven sons and grandsons of Saul, whom the Gabaonites crucified (2 Kings xxi. 1-14).

GAB/AON, pool of (2 Kings ii. 13); combat at (14, 15).

GAB/BATHA, in Greek lithostrotos, a court in Pilate's palace paved probably with marble (John xix. 13).

GABE/LUS, of the tribe of Nephthali, living at Rages. Young Tobias was sent to obtain payment from him of ten talents of silver lent by his father (Tob. i.-ix.).

GA/BRIEL (power of God), one of the arch-angels, appears to the prophet Daniel (Dan. viii. 16; ix. 21); to Zachary, father of St. John the Baptist (Luke i. 11, 19); to the Blessed Virgin (26).

GAD, son of Jacob by Zelpha, Lia's handmaid (Gen. xxx. 9-11); he had seven sons (xlv. 16); Jacob, in blessing him, announced that he was to lead the army (xlix. 19).

GAD, one of the twelve tribes, marched out of Egypt under Eliasaph, their prince (Num. i. 14; ii. 14); they numbered 45,650 (ii. 15); they were in the camp of Ruben on the south side (10-16); their offerings (vii. 42-47); their spy Guel (xiii. 16); numbered at Settim 40,500 (xxvi. 18); stood on Mount Hebal to curse (Deut. xxvii. 13); receives its share from Moses beyond the Jordan (Num. xxxii. 1-29; Deut. xxxiii. 20; Jos. xiii. 24); erect an altar which alarms the other tribes (Jos. xxii. 10); revolt

GAD, a prophet and friend of David (2 Kings xxiv. 11; 1 Kings xxii. 5); he gave David his choice of the three punishments for his sin (2 Kings xxiv. 12, 13); and directs him to raise an altar on the threshing-floor of Areuna (17).

GAD/DI, son of Susi, of the tribe of Manasses, one of the twelve spies (Num. xiii. 12).

GAD/DIS, surname of John, the eldest son of Mathathias (1 Mach. ii. 2).

GAD/ER, a city of the Chanaanites. Its king taken and put to death (Jos. xii. 13).

GAD/EROTH, a city south of Juda (2 Par. xxviii. 18).

GAD/GAD, a mountain in the desert of Pharan, the 29th station of the Israelites (Num. xxxiii. 32).

GAI/US or CAIUS, a disciple of St. Paul (Acts xix. 29; xx. 4; 1 Cor. i. 14; 3 John i.).

GAL/AAD, son of Machir, and grandson of Manasses (Num. xxvi. 29-31).

GAL/AAD, a part of Palestine, east of the Jordan (1 Kings xiii. 7). The mountains of Galaad were the commencement of Libanus (Jerem. xxii. 6); Jacob passed by the mountains of Galaad (Gen. xxxi. 21); Galaad was famous for its balm (Jerem. viii. 22; Gen. xxxvii. 25); Jephthe was of Maspha in Galaad, and was apparently buried there (Judg. xi. 34; xii. 7).

GALA/TIA, a province of Asia Minor, south of the Black Sea (Acts xvi. 6).

GALA/TIANS, the Celtic people of Galatia. St. Paul preached to them A. D. 51, 54 (Acts xvi. 6; xviii. 23); and St. Peter also, as he addresses his epistle to them (1 Pet. i. 1); an army of Galatians attacking Babylonia were routed by Jews (2 Mach. viii. 20).

GALA/TIANS, Epistle of St. Paul to the, one of the canonical books of the New Testament written from Ephesus, A. D. 56 (Gal.).

GALGAL, a district and place west of the Jordan. Josue conquered the king of the nations of Galgal (xii. 23); the Israelites encamped in Galgal after passing the river, and set up the stones from the river bed (Jos. iv. 19, 20); here the people were circumcised (v. 2), and kept the Pasch (10); Saul made king at Galgal (1 Kings x. 8); Saul offered a holocaust in Galgal sinfully (xiii. 4-15); as the ark had rested there, it was a place of pilgrimage (Osee iv. 15; Amos iv. 4); idols also there (Judges iii. 19).

GAL'ILEE, under the Romans a large province. It included the cities given by Solomon to Hiram (Jos. xx. 7; 3 Kings ix. 11); so many strangers settled there that it was called Galilee of the Gentiles (Isai. ix. 1; Matt. iv. 15); in the time of our bless those who kept the law, and six on Hebal to curse those who violated it (Deut. xi. 29; xxvii. 12; Jos. viii. 33); a temple was erected here by the Samaritans, Manasses, grandson of the high-priest Eliasib (2 Esd. xiii. 28), being, according to Josephus, the first schismatical high-priest; it became a temple of Jupiter, and was destroyed, but rebuilt as a temple to the true God. The Samaritan woman asked our Lord which public worship was right, that on Garazim or at Jerusalem, and he told her that salvation was with the Jews (John iv. 20-22).

GAR'LIC, a vegetable (Num. xi. 5).

GAR'MENT, woman healed by touching the hem of our Lord's garment (Matt. ix. 20); the soldiers cast lots for his garments (John xix. 23, 24); parable of the wedding garment (Matt. xxii. 11).

GAR'MENTS given by God to Adam and Eve after the fall (Gen. iii. 21); the Jews were accustomed to rend their garments in affliction (Gen. xlv. 13; Jos. vii. 6; Judg. xi. 35; 1 Kings iv. 12; 2 Kings xiii.

31; 3 Kings xxi. 27; 4 Kings v. 7; vi. 30; xi. 14; xviii. 37; xix. 1; xxii. 11, 19; Esth. iv. 1; Jer. xxxvi. 24; Joel ii. 13; 1 Mach. ii. 14; iii. 47; iv. 39; xi. 71; Matt. xxvi. 65; Acts xiv. 13; xvi. 22).

GAR'TERS (Num. xxxi. 50); slops (Douay); ornaments for the legs (Chall.), (Isai. iii. 20); were apparently gold anklets or bangles, still worn in the East.

GATES, used to represent a city or power (Gen. xxii. 17; xxiv. 60; Judg. v. 8; Ruth iv. 11; Ps. lxxxvi. 2; Matt. xvi. 18). Gates were then used for judgment, reception of ambassadors, etc. (Deut. xvi. 18; xxi. 19; xxv. 7; Jos. xx. 4; Judg. ix. 35; Ruth iv. 1, 11; Ps. cxxvi. 5). Gates of Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 1-31; xii. 38); at the gate of the temple called Beautiful St. Peter and St. John cured a lame man (Acts iii. 2).

GATH'ERER, the son of Vomiter. Chapter xxx. of Proverbs is given as his words. In Hebrew, it is Agur, the son of Jakeh.

GAT'ZA, one of the cities of the Philistines (Gen. x. 19); within the territory of Juda (Jos. xv. 47; Judg. i. 18; 1 Kings vi. 17); Samson carried off its gates (Judg. xvi. 3); taken by Solomon (3 Kings iv. 24); it fell into the hands of the Philistines, but seem to have been taken by Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 8).

GEB'BETHON, or Gabathon (Jos. xxi. 23), a city in the tribe of Dan, where Baasa killed Nabad, son of Jeroboam (3 Kings xv. 27).

GED'EON, son of Joas, of the tribe of Manasses, judge of Israel. He was raised up by God to deliver his people from the Midianites (Judg. vi. 11-24); he destroys the altar of Baal, from which he derives the surname of Jerobaal (25-32); God attests his mission by the miracle of the fleece (37-40); with only three hundred men he defeats the Midianites (vii.); he defeats and captures Zebec and Salmana, kings of Midian (viii. 4-12); destroys Succoth and Phanuel, which refused him aid (15-17); made a golden ephod, which was worshipped at Ephra (27); died and was buried at Ephra (32).

GEHEN'NA, GEHENNON, the valley of Ennom, near Jerusalem, where Moloch was worshipped (Jerem. vii. 31); Josias defiled it to prevent the idolatry (4 Kings xxiii. 10; 2 Paral. xxxiv. 4); in the New Testament the word is used to mean hell, and is so translated (Matt. v. 22, 29, 30; x. 28; xviii. 9; xxiii. 15, 33; Mark ix. 42-46; Luke xii. 5; James iii. 6).

GE'HON, one of the rivers of Paradise, compassing all the land of Ethiopia (Gen. ii. 13); its overflow in the time of the vintage (Ecclus. xxiv. 37).

GEL'BOE, a mountain east of the plain of Esdraelon, where Saul was defeated and perished (1 Kings xxxi. 1-6; 2 Kings i. 6; xxi. 12; 1 Paral. x. 1).

GENEAL'OGIES of the descendants of Adam and Noe (Gen. x. 1, 5; 1 Paral. i. 4); of the descendants of Japheth (Gen. x. 1-5; 1 Paral. i. 5-7); of Cham (Gen. x. 6-20; 1 Paral. i. 8-16); of Sem down to Abraham (Gen. x. 21-29; xi. 10-32; 1 Paral. i. 17-27); of Esau (Gen. xxxvi. 10-43; 1 Paral. i. 35); of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (1 Paral. i. 34; ii. 1-55); of Juda and David (1 Paral. ii. 3-15); of other descendants of Juda (iv. 1-23); of the sons of Simeon (Gen. xlv. 10; 1 Paral. iv. 24-37); of Ruben (Gen. xlv. 9; 1 Paral. v. 1-8); of Gad (Gen. xlv. 16; 1 Paral. v. 11-15); of Levi (Gen. xlv. 11; 1 Paral. vi. 1-53); of Issachar (Gen. xlv. 13; 1 Paral. vii. 1-5); of Nephthali (Gen. xlv. 24; 1 Paral. vii. 13); of Manasses (Gen. xlv. 20; 1 Paral. vii. 14-19); of Ephraim (Gen. xlv. 20; 1 Paral. vii. 20-29); of Aser (Gen. xlv. 17; 1 Paral. vii. 30-39); of Benjamin and Saul (1 Paral. viii. 1-40); of Jesus Christ (Matt. i. 1-17; Luke iii. 23-38).

GEN'ERATION used in the sense of creation (Gen. ii. 4); of genealogy (v. 1).

GENES'ARETH, lake of (Luke v. 1); or sea of Galilee (Matt. iv. 18; Mark vii. 31; John v. 1); or Sea of Tiberias (John vi. 1). It is called Sea of Cenereth (Num. xxxiv. 11); or Ceneroth (Jos. xii. 3). It is of oval shape, thirteen miles long, formed by the river Jordan. Much of our Saviour's public life was spent near it.

GEN'ESIS, the first book of the Pentateuch or Five Books of Moses. One of the canonical books of the Old Testament, and called in Hebrew Beresith. It contains the history from the Creation to the death of Joseph (Gen.).

GEN'TILES, a term used to express all other nations than the Jews (Ps. ii. 1, 8; ix. 6, 12, 21; Ezech. xxxvi. 6, 7, 23; Acts xvii. 4; 1 Cor. x. 32); conversion of the Gentiles (Gen. xlix. 10; Num. xxiv. 17; Deut. xxxii. 43; Ps. ii. 8; xxi. 28; lxxvii. 32; lxxix. 1, 8; lxxxvi. 4; Is. ii. 2; xi. 10; Jer. ix. 26; Osee ii. 1; Mich. iv. 2; Soph. iii. 9; Zach. ii. 11; Matt. viii. 11; John x. 16; Acts viii. 26; 1 Cor. xii. 2).

GERA'RA, a city of the Philistines (Gen. x. 19); between Cades and Sur; Abraham abode at it (xx. 1); Isaac also (xxvi. 1, 6, 17); Asa king of Juda defeated the Ethiopians at Gerara (2 Paral. xiv. 13, 14).

GER'ASENS. The country of the Gerasens was on the Sea of Galilee. Our Lord here cured two men possessed by devils (Matt. viii. 28-34).

GER'GESITES, one of the seven nations of the land of Chanaan (Gen. xv. 21; Deut. vii. 1; Jos. iii. 10; xxiv. 11).

GER'SON, son of Levi and head of one of the great Levitical families (Gen. xlv. 11; Ex. vi. 16; Num. iii. 21).

SEA OF GALILEE, FROM THE NORTHWEST COAST.

Lord it was one of the three Roman provinces, Judea and Samaria being the others (Luke xvii. 11; Acts ix. 31). Nazareth, Cana, Tiberias, Capharnaum were all in Galilee (Luke i. 26; John ii. 1; vi. 1; Matt. iv. 13; ix. 1). Our Lord frequently preached and wrought miracles here (Matt. iv. 12; Acts x. 37); the apostles were all Galileans (Acts i. 11; Matt. xxvi. 73). Our Lord called a Galilean (69).

GAL'ILEE, Sea of (Mark i. 16); called also, of Genesareth and Tiberias.

GALL, as an emblem of bitterness (Job xx. 14; Jerem. viii. 14); gall of a fish used by Tobias in a miraculous way (Tob. vi. 9; xi. 4, 8, 13); gall and vinegar offered to our Lord on the cross (Matt. xxvii. 34).

GAL'LEYS, Balaam foretells the coming of the Romans in galleys to overthrow Assyrian and Hebrew (Num. xxiv. 24).

GALL'IO, brother of Seneca, the philosopher, and proconsul of Achaia. He refused at Corinth to hear the complaints of the Jews against St. Paul (Acts xviii. 12, 13).

GAMA'LIEL, doctor of the law, a Pharisee, master of St. Paul (Acts xxii. 3); he advised the Pharisees not to molest the apostles (v. 34-38).

GAMA'RIAS, son of Helcias, sent to Babylon by king Sedecias (Jer. xxix. 3, 4); one of the counsellors of king Joakim (xxxvi. 12).

GAR'DEN is used also in the sense of orchard. Gardens of pleasure (Ezech. xxxvi. 35; Joel ii. 3); paradise of pleasure (Gen. ii. 8); the king's garden (4 Kings xxv. 4; 2 Esd. iii. 15; Jer. xxxix. 4; lii. 7); contained the tombs of the kings (4 Kings xxi. 18, 26); gardens were places of devotion (Matt. xxvi. 36; John xviii. 1); the Jews made them scenes of idolatry (Isai. i. 29; lxx. 3; lxxvi. 17); the garden of Solomon is referred to in Cant. iv. 12, 15; v. 1; vi. 1, 10; viii. 13).

GAR'AZIM, a mountain near Sichem, in Samaria. God commanded six tribes to stand on Garazim to GESE'EN, a district of Egypt which Joseph assigned to his father and brothers (Gen. xlvii. 28; xlvii. 6); called also Ramesses (xlvii. 11); and Gosen (Jos. x., xi., xv.).

GES'SURI, a district near the Philistines (1 Kings xxvii. 8).

GESSU'RI, a district beyond the Jordan (Deut. iii. 14; Jos. xii. 5; xiii. 13); the people recognized Isboeth a king (2 Kings ii. 9).

GES'SUR of Syria, whose king's daughter David married, and who bore him Absalom (2 Kings xiii. 37; xv. 8; 1 Paral. ii. 23).

GETH, a city of the Philistines (1 Kings vi. 17); birth-place of Goliath (xvii. 4); it was taken by David (1 Paral. xviii. 1); rebuilt and fortified by Roboam (2 Paral. xi. 8); it was reconquered by Ozias (2 Paral. xxvi. 6); and by Ezechias; it was the most southerly town of the Philistines, as Accaron was the northern (1 Kings vii. 14; xvii. 52).

GETH'EPHER, or Geth in Opher (Jos. xix. 13); was the birth-place of the prophet Jonas (4 Kings xiv. 25).

GETH'SEM'ANI, a village on the Mount of Olives beyond the Cedron (John xviii. 1); to which our Lord retired to pray, and where he had the bloody sweat in the garden (Matt. xxvi. 36; Mark xiv. 32; Luke xxii. 39). A few olive trees still mark the spot near the tomb of the Blessed Virgin.

GI'ANTS; among the descendants of Cain (Gen. vi. 4); in Chanaan the Raphaim or Arapha (Gen. xiv. 5; Jos. xiii. 12; 2 Kings xxi. 18; 1 Paral. xx. 4); Enac, Enacim (Deut. i. 28).

GIB'BET, the king of Hai hung upon (Jos. viii. 29); Aman hanged on the gibbet he had prepared for Mardochai (Esth. vii. 10).

GIB'LIANS, people of Giblos prepared timber and stone for the temple (3 Kings v. 18).

GI'EZI, the servant of Eliseus (4 Kings v. 25); struck with leprosy for seeking a reward from Naaman (v. 26, 27).

GI'HON, a fountain west of Jerusalem, where Solomon was anointed king (3 Kings i. 33); Ezechias in the hands of the prophet Agabus (Acts xxi. 11).

Job xlii. 2; Isai. xl. 10; xlv. 9; lix. 1; Jer. xxxii. 17, 27; Zach. viii. 6; 2 Mach. i. 24; Mark

THE EMISSARY GOAT SENT INTO THE DESERT.

GITH, a small grain raised in Palestine (Isai. xxxviii. 25, 27).

GIVE. We are to give without accepting of persons, but especially to the faithful (Ecclus. iv. 36; vii. 36; Matt. v. 42; Luke vi. 30, 38; Rom. xii. 13; Gal. vi. 10); it is more blessed to give than to receive (Acts xx. 35).

GLASS. A sea of glass before the throne (Apoc. iv. 6; xv. 2); the golden walls of the New Jerusalem compared to (xxi. 18).

GLO'RY of God to be sought in all things (Jos. vii. 19; Ps. cxiii. (2) 1; Matt. vi. 9; John xvii. 4; Acts iii. 13; xii. 23; 1 Cor. vi. 20; x. 31; Philip. i. 20; Col. iii. 17; Tit. ii. 10).

GOATS. Ceremony of the emissary goat (Lev. xvi. 10); goats offered in sacrifice (ix. 3; xxiii. 19; Num. xv. 27; xxviii. 15, 22, 29; xxix. 16); wild goats (1 Kings xxiv. 3; Job xxxix. 1); goats as type of the wicked (Matt. xxv. 32, 33).

GOB, a place where two battles were fought with the Philistines (2 Kings xxi. 18); called Gazer in 1 Paral. xx. 4.

GOD, he is one in essence (Deut. iv. 35; vi. 4; xxxii. 39; 1 Tim. ii. 5; 1 Kings ii. 2; 2 Kings vii. 22; Wisd. xii. 13; Isai. xlv. 21; Mark xii. 29; John xvii. 3; 1 Cor. viii. 4, 6); in three divine persons (1 John v. 7; Matt. xxviii. 19; Mark i. 10, 11; ix. 6; Matt. iii. 16, 17; Luke iii. 22; ix. 35; John xiv. 26; xv. 26; 2 Cor. xiii. 13); eternal (Gen. xxi. 33; Ex. xv. 18; Job xxxvi. 26; Isai. xli. 4; lvii. 15; Dan. vii. 9; 2 Mach. i. 24;

ix. 22; xiv. 36; Luke i. 37; xviii. 27; Eph. iii. 20; Apoc. xix. 6); omniscient and all seeing (Ex. iii. 19; Num. xii. 2; Deut. xxxi. 21; 1 Kings ii. 3; 2 Paral. xvi. 9; Job xiv. 16; xxviii. 24; xlii. 2; Ps. xxxii. 13; xxxvii. 10; Prov. xv. 3, 11; xxiv. 12; Isai. xxix. 15; xl. 27; xlviii. 4; Jer. i. 5; vii. 11; xvii. 10; xxiii. 24; xxxii. 19; Ezech. ii. 4; Wisd. i. 9; Ecclus. xvi. 16; xvii. 13; xxiii. 27; xxxix. 24, 29; 2 Mach. ix. 5; xii. 22; Matt. vi. 4; xxi. 2; Mark ii. 8; xiv. 13; John i. 48; xiii. 21; xvi. 30; xxi. 17; Acts ii. 23; xv. 8; Rom. viii. 27; 1 Thess. ii. 4; Heb. iv. 13; 1 John iii. 20); perfect (Matt. v. 48); infinitely good (2 Mach. i. 24; Matt. xix. 17; Luke xviii. 19); holy (1 Kings ii. 2; Apoc. xv. 4); just (2 Mach. i. 25); immortal (1 Tim. vi. 16); immense and not to be confined (3 Kings viii. 27; 2 Paral. ii. 6; vi. 18; Job xi. 8; Ps. cxxxviii. 8; Isai. lxvi. 1; Matt. v. 35); Creator and Lord of heaven and earth (Gen. i. 1; xiv. 19; 1 Paral. xxix. 11; Ps. lxxxviii. 12; cxiii. (2) 16; Isai. xxviii. 16; xl. 28; li. 13; Jer. x. 12; xxxii. 17; Bar. iii. 32; Jonas i. 9; Ecclus. xv. 12; 2 Mach. i. 24; Matt. x. 25; John i. 3; Acts iv. 24; xvii. 24; 1 Cor. viii. 6; Eph. iii. 9; Col. i. 16; Heb. i. 2, 10; iii. 4; xi. 3; Apoc. iv. 11; x. 6; xiv. 7); it is his right to be honored and glorified (Ps. cxiii. (2) 1; Isai. xlii. 8; 1 Tim. i. 17); to be served (Deut. vi. 13; x. 20; 1 Kings vii. 3; Matt. iv. 10; Luke iv. 8); it is his incommunicable right to be adored as God (Ex. xx. 5; Lev. xxvi. 1; Deut. v. 9; Matt. iv. 10); God governs all (Job xii. 10; Ps. cxiii. 3; cxv. 1; Prov. xvi. 4, 9; Isai. xlviii. 7; Jer. xxvii. 5; Dan. ii. 21; Matt. xxv. 32; John v. 17; 2 Cor. iii. 5; Apoc. iv. 11); directs the ways of man (Prov. xx. 24; Jer. x. 23; Job xxxiv. 21); the heart of kings is in his hand (Prov. xxi. 1, 30); he gives power and glory (Dan. v. 18); he shows mercy to whom he pleases (Rom. ix. 15); works in us to will and to do (Phil. ii. 13; Heb. xiii. 21); God is the Father of all who obey him (Deut. xxxii. 6; Ps. cii. 13; Isai. lxiii. 16; Jer. iii. 4, 19; Mal. i. 6; ii. 10; Ecclus. xxiii. 1; Matt. xxiii.

GARDEN OF GETHSEMANI.

led its waters into Jerusalem to supply water in case of siege (2 Paral. xxxii. 30).

GIR'DLE of the prophet Jeremias, its signifi-

Rom. xvi. 26; Heb. i. 8; Apoc. xxi. 6); almighty (Gen. xvii. 1; xxxv. 11; xlviii. 3; 1 Kings xiv. 6; 2 Paral. xiv. 11; Wisd. xi. 23;

9; Luke xi. 2; Rom. i. 7; viii. 15; 1 Cor. viii. 6; 2 Cor. vi. 18; Eph. iv. 6; 1 Thess. i. 3; 2 Thess. ii. 15); he is the Father of mercy and God of all comfort (2 Cor. i. 3); true, faithful and merciful (Ex. xxxiv. 6; Deut. vii. 9; xxxii. 4; Isaia. xlix. 7; John iii. 33; Rom. iii. 4; 1 Cor. i. 9; 2 Thess. iii. 3; Tit. i. 2; Heb. x. 23; 1 John i. 9; Apoc. iii. 7, 14); no man can see God (Ex. xxxiii. 20; Deut. iv. 12; John i. 18; vi. 46; 1 Tim. vi. 16; 1 John iv. 12); neither God nor the things of God can be perfectly known or comprehended by the mind of man (Job xxxii. 8; Ps. xciii. 8; cxviii.; Isaia. liv. 13; Matt. xiii. 11; xvi. 17; Luke viii. 10; x. 21; John i. 10; iii. 3; vi. 44, 64; xiv. 17; xvii. 6; Acts xvi. 14; Rom. i. 19; xi. 33; 1 Cor. ii.; Gal. i. 11; 1 Tim. vi. 16; Apoc. iii. 7); God is the protector of all who serve him (Gen. xvii. 1, 7; Ex. vi. 2; xx. 2; xxix. 45; Lev. xxvi. 11; Ps. xvii. 3; xlix. 6; Isaia. xxx. 19; Jer. xxx. 22; xxxii. 38; Ezech. xxxvii. 23; John x. 28); God is the judge of all (Gen. xviii. 25; Deut. x. 17; Job xxxiv. 11; Ps. lxi. 13; xciii. 2; xcv. 10, 13; Eccles. xxxv. 22; Isaia. xi. 4; Jerem. xvii. 10; xxv. 14; Matt. xvi. 27; xxv. 31; 2 Tim. iv. 8; Heb. xii. 23); God is not the author of sin (Ex. xxxiii. 7; 2 Paral. xix. 7; Judith v. 21; Job xxxiv. 10; Ps. xlv. 8; Prov. xv. 8; Eccles. xv. 21; Rom. ix. 14; 2 Cor. vi. 15); does not permit us to be tempted beyond what we are able (1 Cor. x. 13; James i. 13); punishes sin in this world (Deut. xxxii. 23; 3 Kings ix. 9; xxi. 29; Isaia. xlv. 7; Jer. xi. 11; xxxii. 42; Baruch ii. 2; Amos iii. 6; Jonas iii. 10; Mich. i. 12; ii. 3); and eternally in hell (Ps. ix. 18; xxx. 18; Wisd. v. 14; Bar. ii. 17; Luke xvi. 22; 2 Pet. ii. 4; Matt. v. 29, 30; xviii. 9; xxiii. 33; Luke xii. 5; Apoc. xx. 9, 10).

GODO'LIAS, son of Ahican, left as governor in Jerusalem by Nabuchodonosor after the destruction of the city and temple (Jerem. xl.-xli.; 4 Kings xxv. 25). Killed by Ismahel, an emissary of Baalis, king of Ammon (Jerem. xli. 2).

GOG, prince of Mosoch and Thubal, in the land of Magog, announced by Ezechiel as a persecutor of the church (xxxviii.-xxxix.); also by St. John (Apoc. xx. 7).

GOLD, a precious metal, the first mentioned in the Bible as found in the land of Hevilath (Gen. ii. 11, 12); Solomon obtained gold from Ophir (3 Kings ix. 28) and Saba (x. 10); Jeremias mentions gold from Ophaz (x. 9); it was used for personal ornaments, and for the most sacred objects used in the public worship of God (Eccles. xxxii. 7; Ex. xxv., xxviii., xxxvii.).

GOL'GOTHA, the Hebrew name of Calvary (Matt. xxvii. 33; Mark xv. 22; John xix. 17).

GOLI'ATH of Geth, a giant champion of the Philistines, who defied the armies of Saul (1 Kings xvii. 1-11); his height was six cubits and a span (10½ feet); David met him in the valley of Terebinth, armed only with a sling, and slew him (40-51).

GO'MER, son of Japheth (Gen. x. 2).

GO'MER, daughter of Debelaïm, an unchaste or idolatrous woman, whom Osee was commanded to marry (Osee i. 2, 3).

GO'MOR, a Hebrew measure, the tenth part of the epha (Ex. xvi. 16-36).

GOMOR'RHA, one of the Pentapolis or five cities of the plain (Gen. x. 19); Bersa, its king, revolts against Chodorlahomor (xiv. 3, 4); but is defeated with his allies in the Woodland Vale (10); its wickedness provokes the divine vengeance (xviii. 20); destroyed by fire from heaven (xix. 24). The punishment of these guilty cities is frequently referred to (Deut. xxix., xxxii.; Isaia. i., xlii.; Jer. xxiii., xlix., l.; Amos iv.; Sophon. ii.; Matt. x. 15; Rom. ix. 29; Jude i. 7; 2 Pet. ii. 6).

GOOD HAVENS, a port in Crete, near the city of Thalassa, reached by St. Paul on his way to Rome (Acts xxvii. 8).

GOOD'NESS of God (Ex. xxxiv. 6, 7; 2 Kings xxiv. 14; Wis. xi. 24; Ps. xxxv. 6; lxxxv. 5; cii.; cxxxv.; cxliv. 8; Luke vi. 36; John iii. 16; 1 Cor. i. 3; Eph. ii. 4; 1 Tim. ii. 4; Titus ii. 11; iii. 4).

GOR'GIAS, general of Antiochus Epiphanes, sent by Lysias against the Machabees (1 Mach. iii. 38); defeated by Judas, near Emmaus (iv. 13-22; 2 Mach. viii.); he defeats Joseph and Azarias near Jamnia (1 Mach. v. 59, 60); nearly captured by Dositheus (2 Mach. xii. 35).

GORTY'NA, a city of Crete (1 Mach. xv. 23).

GREEK SOLDIER.

GOS'PEL, applied to the books of the four evangelists, St. Matthew, St. Mark, St. Luke, and St. John; four canonical books of the New Testament, Matt., Mark., Luke, John; used in the Bible to mean the doctrine of Jesus Christ, the Messiah (Matt. iv. 23; ix. 35; xxiv. 14; xxvi. 13; Mark i. 14, 15; viii., x., xiii., xiv., xvi.; Acts xv. 7; xx. 24; 1 Cor. iv., ix., xv.; 2 Cor. ii., iv., viii.-xi.; Gal. i., ii.; Eph. i., iii., vi.; Phil. i., ii., iv.; Coloss. i.; 1 Thess. i., ii., iii.; 2 Thess. i., ii.; 1 Tim. i.; 2 Tim. i., ii.; Philem.; 1 Pet. iv. 17; Apoc. xiv. 6). The preaching of the gospel foretold (Gen. xxviii. 14; Is. lv. 5; lxi.); we must not be ashamed of the gospel (Mark viii. 38; Rom. i. 16; 2 Tim. i. 8); obligation of supporting the priests, ministers of the gospel (Deut. xii. 19; 1 Thess. v. 12).

GO'ZAN, a river or district to which the ten tribes were carried (4 Kings xvii.-xix.; 1 Paral. v. 26; Isaia. xxxvii. 11).

GRACE, a gratuitous gift of God (1 Cor. xii.; Eph. iv. 7; 1 Pet. iv. 10); it is supernatural, and makes the soul pleasing to God (Luke i. 28; ii. 40; John i. 16; Rom. i. 7; 1 Cor. xvi. 23; 2 Cor. i. 12; Gal. v. 4; Heb. xiii. 9; James iv. 6).

"GRACE to you and peace from God, our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ," a salutation used by St. Paul and St. Peter (Rom. i. 7; 1 Cor. i. 3; 2 Cor. i. 2; Gal. i. 3; Eph. i. 2; Phil. i. 2; Coloss. i. 3; 1 Thess. i. 2; 2 Thess. i. 2; Titus i. 4; Phil. 3; 1 Pet. i. 2; 2 Pet. i. 2); "Grace, mercy, and peace" (1 Tim. i. 2; 2 Tim. i. 2; see 2 John 3; Apoc. i. 4).

GRAPES, planted by Noe (Gen. ix. 20); in Egypt (xl. 10); not to be gathered in the year of jubilee (Lev. xxv. 5); could be eaten in another's vineyard but not carried away (Deut. xxiii. 24); Nazarites forbidden to eat (Num. vi. 3); immense clusters of grapes found in the Promised Land (xiii. 25); treading out grapes (Job xxiv. 11; Jer. xlviii. 33; Amos ix. 13). "Do men gather grapes of thorns?" (Matt. vii. 16).

GRATITUDE recommended (Num. xv. 18; Deut. iv. 9; 2 Paral. xv. 11; Wisdom xviii. 2; Acts xxiv. 21; Eph. v. 20; Phil. iv. 6; Col. ii. 7; iii. 15).

GRASS, a type of man's short life (Ps. xxxvi. 2; lxxxix. 6; Isaia. xl. 6; Matt. vi. 30; Luke xii. 28; James i. 10).

GREEKS, used for Hellenist Jews, that is, those who spoke Greek (Acts vi. 1; ix. 29).

GRIF'FON, a bird of prey, and therefore unclean (Deut. xiv. 12).

GROAT, an English coin, now obsolete, but used for the drachma, a coin worth about fifteen cents.

GROATS, our Lord's parable of the (Luke xv. 8, 9).

HAB'ACUC, a native of Bezocher, a prophet, carried by an angel to relieve Daniel in the lion's den (Dan. xiv. 32); he is one of the twelve lesser prophets, and foretold in Jude the invasion of the Chaldeans (Hab.).

HAB'ACUC, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament (Hab.).

HA'BER, the Cinite, husband of Jahel, who killed Sisara (Judg. iv. 11-22).

HA'BOR, a city of the Medes, on the river Gozan (4 Kings xvii.-xviii.; 1 Paral. v. 26), to which the ten tribes were carried.

HACEL'DAMA, the field of blood, the potter's field, bought as a burial-place for strangers by the chief priests, with the money Judas brought back (Matt. xxvii. 8; Acts i. 19).

HAG'GITH, wife of David, and mother of Adonias (2 Kings iii. 4; 3 Kings i., ii.).

HA'I, a city east of Bethel (Gen. xii. 8); besieged in vain (Jos. vii. 5); finally taken and destroyed with all its people (viii. 19-26; x. 1, 2; xii. 9); the king hanged on a gibbet (viii. 29).

HAIR, the Israelites not to cut the hair roundwise (Lev. xix. 27); Samson's strength lay in his hair (Judg. xvi. 19); Absalom noted for his beautiful hair (2 Kings xiv. 26); the hair was cut in time of sorrow (Isaia. iii. 17, 24; xv. 2; Jerem. vii. 29); or torn (1 Esd. ix. 3); the hair was anointed in time of joy (Ruth iii. 3; 2 Kings xiv. 2; Ps. xxii. 5; xlv. 8; Eccles. ix. 8; Matt. vi. 17; xxvi. 7; Luke vii. 46). The women curled their hair (Isaia. iii. 24), and plaited it (Judith x. 3).

HA'LA, a city of the Medes, to which the ten tribes were carried (4 Kings xvii. 6; xviii. 11).

HALL, used for court of the high-priest (Luke xxii. 55), and for Pilate's judgment-hall in Matt. xxvii. 27; John xviii. 28; court of the palace (Mark xv. 16).

HAN'ANEEL, the tower of, part of the wall of Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 1; xii. 38; Jerem. xxxi. 38; Zach. xiv. 10). It was near the Fish-Gate.

HANANI'AS, son of Azur, of Gabaon, a false prophet in the reign of Sedecias, king of Juda, who opposed Jeremias (Jerem. xxviii.). Jeremias foretold his death that year, which took place (16, 17).

HAND, ordered to be cut off (Deut. xxv. 12); hands of idol Dagon cut off (1 Kings v. 5); a mysterious handwriting on the wall (Dan. v. 5); the cure of the withered hand (Luke vi. 10).

HA'RAN, a town perhaps in Mesopotamia, to which Thare proceeded with Abram and Lot, and where he died (Gen. xi. 31, 32); Abram set out from it at the age of seventy-five, after being called by God (xii. 1-4); Jacob fled from Esau to his uncle Laban in Haran (xxvii. 43; xxviii. 10; xxix. 4).

HARD'ENING of the heart comes from the sinner alone, not from God (Ex. iv. 21; Deut. xv. 7; Ps. xciv. 8; Heb. iii. 8, 15; iv. 7).

HARD'NESS of heart punished (Job xx. 19; Prov. xxi. 10; Matt. xviii. 30, 34; xxv. 42; James ii. 16); examples (Ex. i. 13; Deut. xxiii. 4; Judges viii. 6; 1 Kings xxv. 10; Amos i. 6; Luke xvi. 21).

HARE, classed among unclean animals (Lev. xi. 6; Deut. xiv. 7).

HA'RIM, the third of the twenty-four priestly families (1 Par. xxiv. 8; 1 Esd. ii. 39; x. 21).

HAR'LOT, a warning against (Prov. v. 3; vi. 24-26; vii. 13-27); the law against (Deut. xxiii. 17).

HAR'MA or HORMA, a city in the tribe of Juda and afterwards of Simeon (Jos. xv. 30; xix. 4); it was captured by the Israelites (Num. xxi. 3); it was originally called Sephaath (Judg. i. 17); the Israelites bound themselves by vow to destroy all belonging to the king of Arad; and called it Horma, or the Anathema; Josue took the king of Herma (Jos. xii. 14).

HARP, invented by Jubal, son of Lamech (Gen. iv. 21); David played on the harp to free Saul from the evil spirit (1 Kings xvi. 23); used in weddings (Gen. xxxi. 27); in divine worship (1 Paral. xiii. 8; xv. 16, 21; xxv. 1; 2 Par. v. 12; Ps. xxxii. 2; xlii.; lvi., etc.; Amos v. 23); in the vision of St. John (Apoc. v. 8; xiv. 2; xv. 2).

HART, a kind of deer, reckoned among the clean animals (Deut. xii. 15; xiv. 5; xv. 22; 3 Kings iv. 23); used as a figure of fleetness (Gen. xlix. 21; 2 Kings xxii. 34; Ps. xvii. 34; xli. 1; Cant. ii. 7, 9; iii. 5; Hab. iii. 19).

HAR'VEST, the Mosaic law as to (Lev. xxiii. 22); mysterious harvest (Apoc. xiv. 15).

HA'TRED forbidden (Lev. xix. 17); hatred of God's enemies (Ps. cxxxviii. 21); reconciliation with our enemies commanded (Matt. v. 23); the world's HEARTH, cakes baked on the hearth (Gen. xviii. 6); it is used in Jerem. xxxvi. 22 for brazier or chafing-di-h.

HEBRON.

hatred of the disciples of Christ (Mark xiii. 13); hatred of evil (Ps. xcvi. 10; Amos vi. 8).

HAV'OTHJAIR, towns or hamlets beyond the Jordan conquered by Jair (Num. xxxii. 41; Deut. iii. 14; Judg. x. 4).

HAWK, a bird of prey, forbidden as food (Lev. xi. 16; Deut. xiv. 15; Job xxxix. 13, 26).

HAZ'AEL, king of Syria; Elias was directed to anoint him (3 Kings xix. 15, 16); Eliseus predicted his elevation to the throne (4 Kings viii. 13); he put Benadad to death, 884 B.C., and as king ravaged Israel during the absence of Jehu (4 Kings x. 32, 33); in the reign of Joas he attacked Juda, took Geth, and marched on Jerusalem; Joas purchased peace with the treasures of the temple, 839 B.C. (4 Kings xii. 17); his army the next year took Jerusalem, and put many of the princes to death (2 Paral. xxiv. 23); he also desolated Israel (4 Kings xiii. 3); he died about 839 B.C.

HEAD, directions as to covering the head in prayer (1 Cor. xi. 4-6).

HEART, the heart is purified and sanctified by God (Ps. i. 12; John xiii. 10; xv. 3; xvii. 19; Acts xv. 9; 1 Cor. vi. 11; Eph. v. 26; Heb. i. 3; ix. 14; x. 14; xiii. 12);

God accepts a man's heart or good-will for the deed (Gen. iv. 4; xxii. 12; Ex. xxv. 2; xxxv. 5; Deut. xix. 5; Matt. xv. 8; Mark xii. 43; Luke xxi. 3; 2 Cor. viii. 12).

HEATH'ENS, used in the New Testament in the sense of Gentiles (Matt. v. 47; vi. 7; xviii. 17).

HEAVEN, the firmament, created by God (Gen. i. 7, 8; Ps. xxxii. 6; cxxiii.; cxxxiii.; cxlv.); it proclaims his glory (Ps. xviii. 2; cxlviii. 4); heaven and earth shall pass away (Matt. xxiv. 35); a new heaven and new earth (Isai. lxv. 17; 2 Pet. iii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 1); heaven the abode of God and his angels and saints (Deut. iv. 39; Jos. ii. 11; 3 Kings viii. 23-49; 2 Paral. vi.; 2 Esd. ix. 6; Ps. x. 5; xiii. 2; xxxii. 23; lii. 3; cli. 19; cxxii. 1; Lament. iii. 50; Matt. v. 16, 45; vi. 9; vii. 10, 21; x. 32, 33; xxii. 30; Mark xii. 25; xiii. 32; Luke xxii. 43); manna styled bread from heaven (Ps. lxxvii. 24; civ. 40; John vi. 31, 32); the Holy Eucharist the true bread from heaven (32-52); the kingdom of heaven the church (Matt. iii. 2; iv. 17; v. 18; xiii. 11-47; etc.)

HE'BER, son of Sale (Gen. x. 24; xi. 14).

HE'BREW, the language of the Israelites. It is one of the Semitic languages, allied to the Phœnician and Arabic. It was written at first with the letters now called Old Hebrew or Samaritan, but during the captivity the square characters now used were adopted. The vowels generally were omitted. In the revival of Hebrew learning after the establishment of Christianity, a school at Masora introduced vowel points to fix the reading then in use. This differed from that previously in vogue, even as late as the time of the Septuagint; but as the Hebrew was a living tongue when the seventy translated into Greek, their rendering of names must be of higher authority than that of the Masoretic rabbis when the language was a dead one.

HE'BREWS, Epistle of St. Paul to the, one of the canonical books of the New Testament (Heb.)

HE'BREWS, the descendants of Abraham, and especially of Jacob (Gen. xiv. 13); chosen by God and separated from the other nations in Abraham (xii. 2, 7; xiii. 15; xv. 13; xvii. 8); the sons of Jacob go down to Egypt and dwell there (xli. 6); their rapid increase (Ex. i. 7); they are persecuted by Pharaoh (10);

HOUSE WITH A PARAPET.

HAS'EROTH, one of the stations of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xi. 34; xiii. 1; xxxiii. 17, 18; Deut. i. 1).

they are led out of Egypt by Moses (xii. 37); they wander in the desert (xiii. 18); they walk through the Red Sea (xiv. 22); cross the Jordan dry foot

HE'LI, of the race of Ithamar, high-priest, judged Israel forty years, 1156-1116 B. C. He succeeded Abdon (1 Kings i. 3); threatened by God for per-

(xv. 5; xxvi. 5); used for false doctrine by St. Paul (xxiv. 14; Acts xxiv. 5, Ch. sect.; 1 Cor. xi. 19); foretold (1 Tim. iv.)

COURT-YARD OF AN EASTERN HOUSE.

(Jos. iii.); occupy the promised land (iv. 12); each tribe receives the portion assigned to it (xiii.; xxii.); governed by Moses, and then by Josue (Ex.; Deut.; Jos.); then by judges (Judg.); they ask a king (1 Kings viii. 5); consequences (2 Kings v. 2); on the death of Solomon the kingdom divided into Juda and Israel (3 Kings xii. 16-19); the kingdom of Israel overthrown, 730 B. C., by Salmanasar, king of the Assyrians, and never restored (4 Kings xvii. 1-6); the kingdom of Juda overthrown, 590 B. C.; Jerusalem and the temple destroyed, the king taken and the people carried to Babylon (xxv.); Cyrus permits them to return and rebuild their city (1 Esd. i. 1); they are persecuted under the tyrant Antiochus (1 Mach. i.-iv.); revolt under the Machabees (v.)

HE'BRON, one of the oldest cities in the world (Num. xiii. 23); called also Cariatharbe (Jos. xiv. 15); Abraham dwells there (Gen. xiii. 18); he, with Sara and Isaac, interred there (xxxv. 27-29); assigned to Juda (Jos. xiv. 13); Josue takes it and kills king Oham (x. 3, 23, 37); taken by Othoniel (Judg. i. 10); a city of refuge (Jos. xx. 7; xxi. 11, 13); David reigns there (2 Kings ii. 3); Absalom revolts at (xv. 7-10); called also Mambre (Gen. xxiii. 19).

HE'BRON or HEBRONI, third son of Caath, head of one of the priestly families (Ex. vi. 18; Num. iii. 19-27; 1 Paral. vi. 2, 18; xxiii. 12, 19).

HEBRO'NA, one of the stations of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 34).

HE'LAM, a place where David defeated the Syrians and captured their chariots and horses (2 Kings x. 17; 1 Paral. xix. 18).

HEL'CIAS, grandson of Sellum, high-priest during the reign of Josias. In his time the law was found in the temple, 624 B. C.; (4 Kings xxii.-xxiii.; 2 Paral. xxxiv.)

HEL'CIAS, father of preceding; he flourished in the time of Ezechias (Baruch i. 7; 4 Kings xviii. 18).

mitting the misconduct of his sons (ii. 27; iii. 12); falls back and dies on hearing of the capture of the ark and the death of his sons (iv. 18).

HELIODO'RUS, prime minister of Seleucus Philopator, king of Syria (2 Mach. iii. 7); sent to carry off the treasures of the temple, but was chastised by angels and carried off insensible (v. 18); cured by the prayers of Onias the high-priest (iii. 33).

HELIOP'OLIS, a city of Egypt. Joseph marries Aseneth, daughter of Putiphare, priest of Heliopolis (Gen. xli. 45; xlv. 20); Ezechiel foretells that its sons shall fall by the sword (xxx. 17).

HELL, the pains of hell (Deut. xxxii. 22; Job xxiv. 19; Ps. xx. 10; cxi. 10; Eccus. xxi. 10; Isai. v. 14; xxxiv. 9, 10; Jer. xv. 14; Mal. iv. 1; Matt. viii. 12; Luke xiii. 28; Apoc. xiv. 10); the punishment proportioned to guilt (Wisd. xi. 17; Luke xvi. 25; Apoc. xix. 20); it is endless (Isai. lxvi. 24; Matt. xxv. 41; 2 Thess. i. 9).

HE'LON, a Levitical city of the tribe of Dan (1 Paral. vi. 69).

HEM. See FRINGES.

HE'MOR, prince of Sichem, sells land to Jacob (Gen. xxxiii. 19); his city taken and he is slain for the sin of his son (xxxiv.)

HE'NOCH, a son of Cain (Gen. iv. 17); and a city built by Cain and named after his son (17).

HE'NOCH, son of Jared, of the race of Seth (Gen. v. 18); father of Mathusala (21); he lived 365 years (23); "and he walked with God and was seen no more, because God took him" (24).

HER, eldest son of Juda, cut off prematurely on account of his wickedness (Gen. xxxviii. 7).

HER'CULES. Jason, a usurper of the high-priesthood, sends money for sacrifices to this demi-god (2 Mach. iv. 19).

HER'ESY, used by St. Luke for sect; heresy of the Sadducees (Acts v. 17); of the Pharisees (Ch. sect.), HER'ETICS, those who adhere to false doctrines. God permits them in order to try the faithful (1 Cor. xi. 19); there were heretics in the time of the apostles (1 Tim. i. 20; 2 Tim. ii. 18; 1 John ii. 18; 2 John 7; Apoc. ii. 15); it was foretold that there would be heresies (1 Tim. iv. 1; 2 Tim. iii.; 2 Peter ii. iii.; Jude 18); they and their favorers to be avoided (Matt. vii. 15; Rom. xvi. 18; 2 Thess. iii. 14; 2 Tim. ii. 16; iii. 5; Tit. iii. 10; 2 John 10).

HER'MA, or Horma, a city of Chanaan (Jos. xii. 14).

HER'MAS and HER'MES, disciples mentioned by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 14). A work called the Shepherd is ascribed to Hermas.

HERMOG'ENES, a disciple who deserted St. Paul (2 Tim. i. 15).

HER'MON, a mountain in the northeast of Palestine (Deut. iii. 8; iv. 48; Jos. xi. 17; xii. 1; Ps. cxxii. 3); called Sarion by the people of Sidon, and Sanir by the Amorrites.

HER'MON, or HERMO'NIIM, a mountain in the tribe of Issachar (Ps. xli. 7).

HER'OD THE GREAT, son of Antipater, appointed tetrarch of Judæa by Antony, B. C. 41; but was expelled by Antigonus, and fled to Rome. Appointed king of Judæa he took Jerusalem, B. C. 37; our Lord was born during his reign (Matt. ii. 1); when baffled by the wise men he ordered the massacre of the children of Bethlehem (16); his death (19).

HER'OD ANTIPAS, son of Herod the Great, made by his father tetrarch of Galilee (Matt. xiv. 1; Luke iii. 19; ix. 7; Acts xiii. 1); unlawfully takes Herodias, his brother's wife (Mark vi. 17), and casts St. John the Baptist into prison for rebuking him (Matt. xiv. 3; Mark vi. 18; Luke iii. 19, 20), and put him to death at the request of her daughter (Matt. xiv. 4; Mark vi. 19-27); Pilate sent our Lord to him (Luke xxiii. 7); he died in exile at Lyons, A. D. 39.

HER'OD PHILIP, son of Herod the Great and Mariamne, married Herodias, who left him for Herod Antipas (Mark vi. 17). Herod Philip II., son of Herod the Great and Cleopatra. He was tetrarch of Iturea and Trachonitis (Luke iii. 1); he built Cesarea Philippi, called after him (Matt. xvi. 13; Mark viii. 27).

HER'OD AGRIPPA, son of Aristobulus, and grandson of Herod the Great. Caligula made him king. He killed James, the brother of John, with the sword (Acts xii. 2); and imprisoned St. Peter (3); but the apostle was delivered by an angel (4-18); Herod then put the keepers to death (19), and went to Cesarea. He was incensed at Tyre and Sidon, but they appeased him (20). The people hailed him as a god, but he was struck by an angel, and died eaten up by worms (20-23).

HER'OD AGRIPPA II., called king Agrippa, went to Cesarea to salute Festus (Acts xxv. 13); hearing of St. Paul he wished to see him, and the apostle was brought before him (23); St. Paul addressed him eloquently (xxvi. 2-23); the sequel (24-32).

HERO'DIANS, a sect or party among the Jews. With the Pharisees they sought to ensnare our Lord (Matt. xxii. 16; Mark iii. 6; xii. 13).

HERODIAS, daughter of Aristobulus. She married Herod Philip I., but left him for Herod Antipas, who, to gratify her, put St. John the Baptist to death (Matt. xiv. 8).

HERODION, a kinsman of St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 11).

HER'ON, a wading bird, classed among the unclean (Lev. xi. 19; Deut. xiv. 16).

HETH, second son of Chanaan (Gen. x. 15; 1 Paral. i. 13).

HETH'ITES, descendants of Heth. They were friendly to Abraham (Gen. xxiii. 3); they opposed the Israelites (Jos. ix. 1; xi. 3); their kings are referred to (3 Kings x. 29; 4 Kings vii. 6); tributary (2 Paral. viii. 7).

HET'THIM, a land in which Luza was built by the house of Joseph (Judges i. 26).

HEV'ILATH, a land watered by the river Phison (Gen. ii. 14).

HE'VITES, a nation of Chanaan (Gen. x. 17; Ex. iii. 8, etc.).

HI'EL, of Bethel, rebuilt Jericho in the days of Achab. His son Abiram died when he laid the foundation, and his son Segub when he set up the gates, as Josue had foretold (3 Kings xvi. 34).

HIERA'POLIS, a city near Colosse and Laodicea (Coloss. iv. 13).

HIGH'-PLACES, in Hebrew Bamoth. Idolatrous rites and sacrifices were offered on summits of hills and other elevated spots, and these high-places were constantly condemned, as well as those who tolerated them (3 Kings iii. 2, 4; xii. 32; xiii. 2; xiv. 23). They were suppressed by Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 4, 22; 2 Paral. xxxi. 1); and by Josias (4 Kings xxiii.; 2 Paral. xxxiv. 3).

HIGH'-PRIEST. Aaron appointed high-priest by divine authority (Ex. xxviii.), and consecrated with especial ceremonies (xxix.); the dignity to descend in his family (xxviii.; Num. xx. 25); it descended first in the line of Eleazar to his son Phineas (Judges xx. 28); then to Heli, of the family ias, who was put to death at Reblatha by the king of Babylon (4 Kings xxv. 18-21). His successor, Josedec, died in captivity, but Jesus, his son, with Zorobabel, restored the temple and worship of God

HOLOCAUST, a sacrifice in which the whole animal was burnt on the altar, and no part eaten by the priest and offerer. Prescriptions in regard to them (Lev. vi. 9; vii. 8); the holocaust of a contrite heart (Ps. l. 21).

THE HOLY.

(1 Esd. iv. 3; Agg. i. 1, 2; Zach. iii. 1; Eccles. xlix. 14); in the persecutions of Antiochus, first to control, then to crush the Jewish church, the high-priesthood was degraded by Menelaus and Alcimus. The dignity was restored by the Machabees, priests of the course of Joarib, and apparently of the house of Eleazar, and remained with them till Aristobulus was put to death by Herod. It was then sought by ambitious men, and in our Lord's time seems to have been held annually in turn by Annas and Caiphas (Matt. xxvi. 57; Luke iii. 2; John xviii. 13), who were succeeded by Theophilus (Acts ix. 1). The high-priesthood could not be instituted by man, but needed a divine vocation and installation (1 Heb. v. 4). God prescribed the vestments to be worn by the high-priest (Ex. xxviii., xxxix.). The high-priest alone could enter the Holy of Holies (Lev. xvi. 2). Jesus Christ the high-priest according to the order of Melchisedec (Heb. iv. 14; v.).

HILL OF THE FORESKINS (Jos. v. 3).

HIL'LOCK of Testimony (Gen. xxxi. 47).

HIN, a Hebrew measure, the sixth part of the bath (Ex. xxix. 40; Ezech. xlv. 14).

HIND, the female of the stag, used as a figure of gentleness and affection (Prov. v. 19; Jer. xiv. 5).

HI'RAM, king of Tyre, a friend and ally of David (2 Kings v., vii.; 3 Kings v. 1); sent materials and workmen to erect David's palace (2 Kings v. 11; 1 Paral. xiv. 1); and also to erect the temple under Solomon (3 Kings v. 10; vii. 13; 2 Paral. ii. 13, 16); Solomon ceded twenty cities to him (3 Kings ix. 11); he aided in developing the commerce of the Jews (3 Kings ix. 27).

HO'BAB, son of Jethro, and brother-in-law of Moses, who persuaded him to accompany him (Num. x. 29).

HOLM TREE (Dan. xiii. 58).

HOLDA, a prophetess, wife of Sellum, consulted by king Josias and the high-priest Helcias, in regard to the book of the law (4 Kings xxii. 14).

HOLOFER'NES, a Ninivite general, besieges Bethulia (Judith ii.-vii.); is visited and slain by Judith (xiii. 10).

HO'LY. God is essentially holy (Osee xi. 9; Apoc. iv. 8); men should be holy (Lev. xi. 44; xix. 2; Deut. xxvi. 19; Eph. iv. 24).

HO'LY! holy! holy! the perpetual praise in heaven (Apoc. iv. 8; Isai. vi. 3).

HO'LY, THE. The part of the tabernacle before the Oracle or Holy of Holies. In it stood the Altar of Incense, the Seven Branched Candlestick, and the Table of the Loaves of Proposition. (See TEMPLE.)

HO'LY OF HOLIES, the sanctuary or inmost part of the tabernacle and temple, where the Ark of the Covenant was kept behind the veil (Ex. xxv. 8; xxvi. 33; 3 Kings vi. 16); a sacrifice was to be offered by the high-priest annually before entering it (Lev. xvi. 2); a guard was kept constantly before it (Num. iii. 38).

HO'LY GHOST, the third person of the Blessed Trinity (Matt. xxviii. 19; 1 John v. 7; Ps. l. 13; 1 Heb. ix. 14); proceeds from the Father (John xv. 26); and from the Son (xvi. 7, 14); he is the Paraclete (John xiv. 26); his mission (John xvi. 7); Mary, the Blessed Virgin, conceives by the Holy Ghost (Matt. i. 18, 20; Luke i. 35); he descends on Jesus at his baptism under the form of a dove (Matt. iii. 16; Mark i. 10; Luke iii. 22; John i. 32); our Lord commands baptism to be given in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost (Matt. xxviii. 19); the Holy Ghost promised to the apostles and to the church (Ezech. xi. 19; xxxix. 29; Joel ii. 28; Matt. iii. 11; John vii. 39; xvi. 7); given to the apostles (John xx. 22); descends on the apostles (Acts ii.); on Cornelius (x. 44); on the faithful at Antioch (xi. 15); of Corinth (xix. 6); presides in the Council of Jerusalem (xv. 28); forbids St. Paul to preach in Asia (xvi. 6); foretells his imprisonment in Jerusalem (xxi. 11); teaches and enlightens the faithful (Ex. iv. 12; Ps. xxxi. 8; Isai. liv. 13; Mark xiii.

THE HIGH-PRIEST IN HIS SACERDOTAL VESTMENTS.

of Ithamar (1 Kings iv. 18), in which it remained till the reign of Solomon, when it passed from Abiathar to Sadoc, of the house of Eleazar (3 Kings ii. 26). It descended in his family to the time of Sara-

11; John vi. 45; xiv. 16, 26; xvi. 3; 2 Cor. i. 22; Eph. i. 13; ii. 18; 1 John ii. 27; prays for us (Rom. viii. 26); quickeneth (John vi. 64); the Holy Scrip-

HOPOE, a bird classed as unclean (Lev. xi. 19; Deut. xiv. 18).

HOR, the mountain on which Aaron died (Num.

Kings xvii. 10); want of hospitality punished (Judg. viii. 5; xix. 18; 1 Kings xxv.; Wisd. xix. 13).

HOUSE built on the rock shall stand (Luke vi. 48; Matt. vii. 24; xvi. 18. See 2 Cor. v. 1; 2 Pet. i. 14).

HUMILITY commended, Eccclus. iii. 20; vii. 19; Matt. v. 3; xviii. 4; xxii. 7; Mark ix. 36; Rom. xi. 20; xii. 16; Philip. ii. 3; Col. iii. 12; James i. 9; iv. 10; God exalts the humble (1 Kings ii. 8; 2 Kings vi. 22; 2 Paral. xxxii. 26; xxxiii. 13; xxxiv. 27; Judith ix. 16; Ps. xxxiii. 19; Prov. xvi. 19; xviii. 12; xxix. 23; Isai. lxvi. 2; Matt. xi. 29; 1 Pet. v. 5); taught by our Lord's example (John xiii. 5).

HUR, king of Madian, killed by Phinees (Num. xxxi. 8).

HUSKS, mentioned in Luke xv. 16, are perhaps the pods of the carob (ceratonia siliqua), used to feed animals, and in times of scarcity for human food.

HYACINTH, a precious stone, one of the foundations of the New Jerusalem (Apoc. xxi. 20).

HYADES, a constellation (Job ix. 9).

HYMENEUS, condemned by St. Paul for false doctrines, declaring the resurrection past already (1 Tim. i. 20; 2 Tim. ii. 17, 18).

HYMN, sung by our Lord at the Last Supper (Matt. xxvi. 30; Mark xiv. 26); commended (Eph. v. 19; Col. iii. 16).

HYPOCRISY condemned and punished (Job viii. 13; xiii. 16; xv. 34; xx.; xxvii.; xxxiv.; Prov. xxx. 12; Eccclus. i. 37; xix. 25; Isai. xxix. 13; Jer. ix. 8; Ezech. xxxiii. 31; Mal. iii. 14; 2 Mach. vi.

HIGH-PRIEST OFFERING SACRIFICES.

tures inspired by (Mark xii. 36; Luke xii. 12; Heb. iii. 7; 2 Pet. i. 21; 2 Esd. ix. 30); fruits of the Holy Ghost (Gal. v. 22); gifts of the Holy Ghost (Isai. xi. 2); Elizabeth filled with the Holy Ghost (Luke i. 41); St. Peter (Acts iv. 8); Barnabas (xi. 24); blasphemy against the Holy Ghost (Mark iii. 29).

HOLY WATER, its use prescribed (Num. v. 17).

HONEY, the food laid up by the bee; sent by Jacob to Joseph (Gen. xliii. 11); abounded in Palestine (Ex. iii. 8, etc.; 1 Kings xiv. 25); sold to the Tyrian (Ezech. xxvii. 17); food of St. John the Baptist (Matt. iii. 4); eaten by our Lord (Luke xxiv. 42).

xx. 29); it was in the uttermost borders of the land of Edom (xxxiii. 37).

HO'RAM, king of Gazer, defeated by Josue, 1450 B. C. (Jos. x. 33).

HO'REB, a mountain in Arabia Petræa, west of Sinai. Here God appeared to Moses in a burning bush (Ex. iii.); and here Moses made water issue from a rock (xvii. 6); Elias fled to Horeb from Jezebel (3 Kings xix. 8); it is sometimes mentioned as the same as Sinai (Eccclus. xlvi. 7; Malachi iv. 4).

HOR'MA or HERMA, the place of the anathema (Num. xxi. 3).

HORN, used to signify strength and power (Deut. xxxiii. 17; 1 Kings ii. 1; Ps. xxi. 22; lxxiv. 5, 6, 11; lxxxviii. 18, 25; cxi. 9; Eccclus. xlvii. 13); the horns of the altar, projections at the four corners (Ex. xxvii. 2; xxix. 12; Lev. iv. 7; Judith ix. 11; Ps. cxvii. 27); Moses coming from Sinai appeared as with horns of light (Ex. xxxiv. 35); horn used as vessel for liquids (1 Kings xvi. 1).

HOR'NETS sent before the Israelites (Ex. xxiii. 28; Deut. vii. 20; Jos. xxiv. 12).

HORSE, mentioned as domestic animal in Egypt (Gen. xlvii. 17); Job describes the war horse (Job xxxix. 19); frequently alluded to as used in war and with chariots (Ex. xv. 1; Deut. xi. 4, etc.); no mention made of its use in agriculture.

HORSE-LEECH, used as a type of the insatiable (Prov. xxx. 15).

HOSAN'NA, the cry of the people to our Lord when he entered Jerusalem (Matt. xxi. 9, 15; Mark xi. 9, 10; John xii. 13); it was from Ps. cxvii. 25, 26).

HOSPITALITY commended (Isai. lviii. 7; Luke xiv. 13; Rom. xii. 13; 1 Tim. iii. 2; 3 John 5); examples of (Gen. xviii.; xix.; xxiv.; Judg. xiii. 15; 3 24; Matt. vi. 2; vii. 5; xxii. 18; xxiv. 51; 1 Thess. v. 22; 1 Tim. iv. 2; 2 Tim. iii. 5; 1 Pet. ii. 1).

HYSSOP PLANT.

HYS'SOP, a plant growing on walls (3 Kings iv. 33); it was used in various religious ceremonies, HUSKS OR PODS OF THE CAROB TREE.

estine (Ex. iii. 8, etc.; 1 Kings xiv. 25); sold to the Tyrian (Ezech. xxvii. 17); food of St. John the Baptist (Matt. iii. 4); eaten by our Lord (Luke xxiv. 42).

IMPOSIT'ION of hands. Instances of (Gen.

INCENSE, used in divine worship (Ex. xxx. 8; xxxvii. 29); the altar of incense (Ex. xxx. 1; xxxvii. 25); Nadab and Abiu slain for offering incense when not commanded (Lev. x. 1); Zachary offers (Luke i. 9); offered by angels in heaven, the prayers of the saints (Apoc. viii. 3); the incense offered to God was prepared by his command (Lev. xvi. 12). The Jews offered incense in the high places sinfully, and to false gods (3 Kings xxii. 44; 4 Kings xii. 3; xv. 35; xviii. 3, 4); and to the brazen serpent (4 Kings xviii. 4).

IN'CEST, carnal union between those related within the prohibited degrees. Its enormity (Lev. xviii. 6; xx. 12; Deut. xxii. 30; 1 Cor. v. 1); punished by St. Paul with excommunication (1 Cor. v. 1).

IN'DIA, mentioned as part of the kingdom of Assuerus (Esth. i. 1); mentioned (Job xxviii. 16; 1 Mach. viii. 8).

INDUL'GENCE granted by St. Paul to the incestuous man on his penance (2 Cor. ii. 10).

INFIDEL'ITY and incredulity punished (Num. xi. 33; xiv. 12; xx. 12; Judg. ii. 2; vi. 8; 2 Paral. xxiv. 22; Ecclus. ii. 15; Matt. xvii. 19; Mark xvi. 16; Luke i. 20; John iii. 18; viii. 24; Rom. xi. 20; Heb. iii. 18; iv. 2; xi. 6; Apoc. xxi. 8).

INGRATITUDE punished (Rom. i. 21; 2 Tim. iii. 2).

on the water at the word of Eliseus (4 Kings vi. 6).

I'SAAC, son of Abraham and Sara. His birth foretold (Gen. xvii. 19; xviii. 10); born (xxi. 3); Abraham commanded to offer him in sacrifice (xxii. 2); laid on the altar (9); saved (12); Abraham sends to Mesopotamia to obtain a wife for him (xxiv.); he obtains Rebecca (51); marries her (67); she bears to him Esau and Jacob (xxv. 21-25); God promises that in his seed all nations shall be blessed (xxvi. 4); abode in Gerara (6); makes peace with Abimelech (31); blesses his sons, giving the blessing of the first-born to Jacob (xxvii.); sends Jacob to Mesopotamia (xxviii.); his death (xxxv. 28), 1716 B. C.

I'SAI, or Jesse, father of David (Ruth iv. 17, 22; 1 Paral. ii. 13; Matt. i. 5).

ISAI'AS, son of Amos, and the first of the four great prophets. He began to prophesy after the death of Ozias, 758 B. C., and prophesied during the reigns of Joatham, Achaz and Ezechias. He de-

ISBOSETH or ISBAAL, son of Saul, was recognized as king on his father's death by all but the tribe of Juda (2 Kings ii. 10); after Abner's desertion (iii. 12) his power declined, and he was murdered by two of his officers, who took his head to David (iv. 6, 7).

IS'MAEL, son of Abraham by Agar, an Egyptian (Gen. xvi. 15); expelled with his mother on account of Sara (xxi. 14); they are miraculously relieved in the desert (15-20); dwells in Pharan and marries an Egyptian (21); he had twelve sons (xxv. 13-16); and a daughter Basemath who married Esau (xxxvi. 3, 10); he and Isaac buried their father in the double cave (xxv. 9).

IS'MAEL, son of Nathanias, kills Godolias, whom Nabuchodonosor had left as governor of Judea (Jer. xli. 2).

IS'RAEL, the name given to Jacob by the angel with whom he wrestled (Gen. xxxii. 28); it is also used for the people and inheritance of the Lord (Ex. iii. 1; vi. 6; xix. 2; Lev. xx. 2; Deut. vi. 9; ix. 3; x. 12; xxxii. 8; 1 Kings x. 18; xii. 1; 2 Kings vii. 23; 3 Kings viii. 53; Isai. xix. 25; xliii. 1; Jer. xiii. 11); the kingdom of Israel is that founded by Jeroboam, and including the ten tribes (3 Kings xii. 3); as foretold by the prophet Alias (xi. 29; 2 Paral. x. 15); its history is given in the third and fourth books of Kings, and incidentally in 2 Paralipomenon. In the reign of Phacee, king of Israel, the tribe of Nephthali and many of other tribes were carried captives into Assyria by Theglathphalasar (4 Kings xv. 29); in the reign of Osee, last king of Israel, Salmanasar, king of Assyria, took Samaria and carried all the people away captives and placed them in Hala and Habor (xvii. 6); the sins which brought this judgment on them (7-18). Their captivity had been foretold (Deut. iv. 27); the Levites and many who clung to the true faith went to Jerusalem (2 Par. xi. 13); some in captivity remained faithful (Tobias).

IS'SACHAR, fifth son of Jacob, by Lia (Gen. xxx. 18); he had four sons, Thola, Phua, Job and Semron (xvi. 13); in Jacob's blessing he is said to occupy fertile land, and to become tributary (xlix. 14).

IS'SACHAR, tribe of. In the Exodus they numbered 54,400 fighting men, under Nathanael, son of Suar, and camped next to Juda (Num. i. 28, 29; ii. 5, 6); their offerings (vii. 18-23); their spy, Igal, son of Joseph (xiii. 8); their prince to divide the land, Phaltiel (xxxiv. 26); they numbered at Settim 64,300 (xxvi. 25); Zabulon and Issachar blessed jointly (Deut. xxxiii. 18, 19); his allotment of the Promised Land was in the valley of Jezrael, between the Mediterranean and the Jordan (Jos. xix. 17-23); the captains of Issachar with Debbora and Barac (Judges v. 15); Thola, son of Phua, of the tribe of Issachar, judged Israel twenty-three years (x. 1, 2); after the revolt of Jeroboam, Baasa, of the tribe of Issachar, made himself king of Israel (3 Kings xv. 27; xvi. 6); succeeded by his son Ela (6-9); many of the tribe ate the Pasch of Ezechias, but unduly (2 Paral. xxx. 18); carried captives by Salmanasar (4 Kings xvii. 6).

IS'SUE OF BLOOD, a woman long afflicted with an issue of blood, cured by touching the fringes or hem of our Lord's garment (Matt. ix. 22).

IT'ALY, Balaam foretells the coming of conquerors from Italy to overthrow the kingdoms of Asia (Num. xxiv. 24); Isaias foretells the sign of salvation set up in (lxvi. 19); mentioned (Ezech. xxvii. 6; Acts xviii.; xxvii.; Heb. xiii. 24).

JACOB'S WELL.

INHER'ITANCE, Jewish law as to (Num. xxvii. 6; Lev. xxv. 30).

INN, term used for the caravansera of the East (Gen. xlii. 27; xliii. 21; Ex. iv. 24; 3 Kings xviii. 27; Luke ii. 7; x. 34).

IN'NOCENT, innocence, frequently associated with hands (Gen. xxxvii. 22; Ps. xxv. 6; lxxii. 13; Jerem. xlix. 12).

IN'NOCENTS, Holy, name given by the church to the children slain at Bethlehem by Herod (Matt. ii. 16-18). Their feast is celebrated (Dec. 28).

IN'STRUC'TION to be received with joy (Prov. i. 2).

IO'TA, the letter I in the Greek alphabet, which being the smallest letter, is used in the form of "jot" (Matt. v. 18) to express the least possible.

I'RA, priest of David (2 Kings xx. 26).

I'RON, Tubalcain, the first worker in (Gen. iv. 22); its hardness alluded to (Lev. xxvi. 19); its weight (Ecclus. xxii. 18); iron miraculously floats nounced the disorders of the Jews, and foretold the ruin of Judea, as well as Assyria, Babylon, Egypt, Moab, Tyre, etc. He announced the birth of the Messias under the name of Emmanuel (vii., viii.); he foretold the sufferings of the Messias, the call of the Gentiles, the rejection of the Jews, and the establishment of the church (xlix.-lvi. 8). He predicted the siege by Sennacherib and his defeat, the reign of Ezechias, and the reign of Cyrus. Isaias was consulted by Ezechias (xxxvii., xxxviii.); is praised by the son of Sirach (Ecclus. xlviii. 25); and is more frequently cited in the New Testament than any other prophet (Matt. iii., iv., viii., xii., xliii., xv.; Mark i., vii.; Luke iii., iv.; John i., xii.; Acts viii., xxviii.; Rom. ix., x., xv.) According to tradition he was sawn in two by king Manasses. He wrote also the acts of Ozias (2 Par. xxvi. 22).

ISAI'AS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament (Isai.) From 4 Kings xviii. 13 to xx. 19 are nearly identical with Isai. xxxvi. to xxxix. 8.

ITAL'IAN BAND, Cornelius was centurion of it (Acts x. 1).

ITHA'MAR, fourth son of Aaron. The high-priesthood came into his family in the person of Heli, and continued to the deposition of Abiathar (Ex. vi. 23; xxviii. 1; xxxviii. 21; Num. iii. 2; 1 Paral. vi. 3).

ITURE'A, a small province lying along Mount Hermon. It was settled by Jethur, son of Ismael (Gen. xxv. 15; 1 Paral. i. 31); the Itureans aided Ruben and Gad against the Agarites (1 Paral. v. 19); Philip was tetrarch of Iturea in the time of St. John the Baptist (Luke iii. 1).

IVORY, material of the tusks of elephants, imported by Solomon from Tharsis (2 Paral. ix. 21); he made a throne of it (3 Kings x. 18; 2 Paral. ix. 17); used in house adornings (3 Kings xxii. 39; Ps. xlv. 9; Amos iii. 15; vi. 4; Esth. i. 6; Ezech. xxvii. 6); Achaz used it so that his palace is called an ivory house (3 Kings xxii. 39).

JA'BEL, son of Lamech and Ada, father of those who lodge in tents, and shepherds (Gen. iv. 20).

JA'BES, praised for his piety (1 Paral. iv. 9, 10); he is mentioned among the descendants of Juda, but nothing is known of him.

JA'BES GALAAD, a city in the tribe of Manasses, sacked by the Israelites for not joining in the war against Benjamin (Judges xxi. 8); besieged by Naas, king of Ammon, but relieved by Saul (1 Kings xi. 1); in gratitude they buried Saul and his sons honorably (1 Kings xxxi. 11, 12).

JA'BIN, king of Asor, alarmed at the conquests of Josue, united the various Chanaanite kings and met Josue at the waters of Merom with a host like the sands of the sea (Jos. xi. 4); but Josue routed them completely, pursuing them to Sidon. Then he took Asor and slew Jabin (6-10).

JA'BIN, another king of Asor (Jud. iv. 2); oppressed the Israelites for twenty years, but after the defeat of his army under Sisara, they overpowered and destroyed him (4-24).

JA'BOC, a ford where Jacob wrestled with an angel (Gen. xxxii. 22).

JA'CHANAN of Carmel, a city whose king was defeated by Josue (Jos. xii. 22). It became a Levitical city in the tribe of Zabulon.

JA'CHIN, one of the two bronze pillars on the porch of Solomon's temple. It means firmly established, and was on the right (3 Kings vii. 21).

JA'COB, son of Isaac and Rebecca, born 1836 B. C.; he was younger than his twin-brother Esau

(Gen. xxv. 25); he bought Esau's birthright for a pottage of lentils (31); by his mother's aid he obtained his father's blessing as first-born by a stratagem (xxvii. 28); he fled to escape Esau's anger (42); and JA'HEL, wife of Heber the Cinite, who slew Sisara, general of Jabin's armies, by driving a nail into his head while asleep in her tent (Judg. iv. 17).

JAHA'ZIEL, son of Zacharias, moved by the

JACOB RETURNING TO THE PROMISED LAND.

went to his uncle Laban (xxviii. 10); at Bethel he had a vision of angels, and God promised that in his seed all nations of the earth should be blessed (Gen. xxviii. 11-22); served Laban for seven years for Rachel, but is deceived with Lia (xxix. 1-24); he served seven years more for Rachel (28); obtains the better share of the flocks (xxx.); returns home (xxxi. 17); fears Esau (xxxii. 7); wrestles with an angel at the ford of Jaboc (xxxii. 24); receives the name of Israel (xxxii. 28; xxxv. 10; 3 Kings xviii. 31); meets Esau and is reconciled to him (Gen. xxxiii. 1); has Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Juda, Issachar, Zabulon, and a daughter Dina by Lia; Joseph and Benjamin by Rachel; Dan and Nephthali by Bala, Rachel's handmaid; Gad and Aser by Zelpha, Lia's handmaid. He loved Joseph, and this excited the jealousy of his other sons, who proposed to kill him, but finally sold him to some merchants of Madian (Gen. xxxvii. 1-28); Jacob believes him dead (33); he sends his sons to Egypt in time of famine (xliii. 1); reluctantly allows Benjamin to go (13); his joy on learning that Joseph was alive and high in power in Egypt (xlv. 26-28); he goes down to Egypt with all his family (xlv. 22); adopts Joseph's two sons, Ephraim and Manasses (Gen. xlviii. 5); blesses his sons and dies (xlix.); he is buried with Abraham and Isaac (l. 7-13), as he had requested (xlix. 29); his praise (Ecclus. xlv. 25).

JA'COB'S WELL, near Sichar, where our Lord met the Samaritan woman (John iv. 5, 6).

JADA'SON, a river near which Nabuchodonosor vanquished Arphaxad (Judith i. 6).

spirit of the Lord, promises king Josaphat victory (2 Paral. xx. 14-17).

JAIL'OR, or keeper of the prison at Philippi, converted and baptized by St. Paul and Silas (Acts xvi. 23-34).

JA'IR, son of Manasses, took the cities in the land of Argob, and called it Havoth Jair (Num. xxxii. 41; Deut. iii. 14); he is supposed to be merely a descendant of Manasses through his mother, and to be JA'IR, son of Segub, of the tribe of Juda; he had twenty-three cities in the land of Galaad (1 Paral. ii. 22, 23).

JA'IR, the Galaadite, judge of Israel after Thola; he governed twenty-two years, and had thirty sons, princes of as many cities in the land of Galaad, called Havoth Jair. He was buried at Camon, A. M. 2817 (Judges x. 3-5).

JAIR'US, ruler of the synagogue at Capharnaum, besought our Lord to save his dying daughter; on the way our Lord cured the woman with an issue of blood, and word came that the girl was dead. Jesus said to Jairus, "Fear not, believe only and she shall be safe," and going to the house he raised her to life (Luke viii. 41-56).

JAMES the Greater, son of Zebedee and Salome, and brother of St. John the Evangelist (Matt. iv. 21); he was of Bethsaida in Galilee, and a fisherman (Mark i. 19); he and his brothers were partners with St. Peter (Luke v. 10); chosen one of the apostles (Matt. x. 3; Mark iii. 17); their mother asked the pre-eminence for them in our Lord's kingdom (Matt. xx. 21); he witnessed the transfiguration of our Saviour (Matt. xvii. 2); and wished him to draw down fire from heaven on a Samaritan city (Luke ix. 54); he and his brother called Boanerges or sons of thunder (Mark iii. 17); he saw Jesus Christ at the sea of Galilee after his resurrection (John xxi. 2, etc.), and at his ascension (Acts i.); he was put to death by the sword by Herod, A. D. 42 or 44 (Acts xii. 1).

JAMES the LESS, son of Alphaeus (Matt. x. 3; Mark iii. 18; Luke vi. 15; Acts i. 13); or Cleophas, and Mary, sister of the Blessed Virgin (John xix. 25), and hence called the Brother of the Lord (Gal. i. 19); our Lord appeared to him a week after his resurrection (1 Cor. xv. 7); he is considered the first bishop of Jerusalem; St. Paul went to him (Gal. i. 19); and at the Council of Jerusalem he made the final discourse (Acts xv. 13); he was regarded with great veneration by the Jews, but was killed in the temple

Madai, Javan, Tubal, Mosoc, and Thiras (x. 2); by these were divided the islands of the Gentiles in their lands (5); he honors his father (ix. 23); is blessed by Noe (27).

JAR'AMOTH, a Levitical city of refuge (Jos. xxi. 29).

JA'RED, son of Malaleel and father of Henoch (Gen. v. 15).

JA'SA or JAS'SA, a city beyond the Jordan near which Moses defeated Schon (Num. xxi. 23; Deut. ii. 32); it was assigned to the tribe of Ruben (Jos. xiii. 18); a Levitical city (1 Paral. vi. 78).

JA'SON, son of Eleazar, sent to Rome by Judas Machabeus to renew the alliance, 162 B. C. (1 Mach. viii. 17).

JA'SON, a Jew of Cyrene, who wrote the history of the persecutions under Antiochus Epiphanes and JAS'PER, a precious stone. It was the sixth in the rational (Ex. xxviii. 18; xxxix. 11); the wall of the New Jerusalem was of jasper stone (Apoc. xxi. 18); and the first foundation was jasper (19); its brilliancy was such that the appearance of Him who sat on the throne is compared to it (iv. 3).

JA'VAN, fourth son of Japheth (Gen. x. 2).

JEAB'ARIM, one of the encampments of the Israelites in the land of Moab (Num. xxi. 11).

JEAL'OUSY, Trial of. The form of the trial before the priest (Num. v. 12-31).

JE'BUS, son of Chanaan and father of the Jebusites (Gen. x. 16; Jos. xv. 63).

JE'BUS, afterwards called Jerusalem, founded by Jebus (Jos. xv. 8; Judges xix. 10; 1 Paral. xi. 4).

JE'BUSITES, descendants of Jebus; they were warlike, and Israel could not destroy them (Judg at the instigation of the high-priest Ananus; he was thrown down from a gallery and beaten to death; one epistle by him is in the New Testament.

JAI'RUS' DAUGHTER RAISED TO LIFE.

JAMES, EPISTLE OF, one of the Catholic Epistles written by St. James the Less; a canonical book of the New Testament, enforcing the necessity of good works (James).

JAM'BRI. The children of Jambri sally out from Madaba, and kill John, brother of Simon and Jonathan Machabeus; his brothers avenge him (1 Mach. ix. 36-42).

JAN'NES and MAMBRES, two magicians who resisted Moses in Egypt (2 Tim. iii. 8).

JA'PHETH, son of Noe, born when his father was five hundred years old (Gen. v. 31); he was older than Cham (ix. 24), and some suppose him older than Sem; his sons were Gomer, Magog, Eupator in five books (2 Mach. ii. 24). The second book of Machabees is abridged from it.

JA'SON, high-priest, bribed Antiochus Epiphanes to depose his brother Onias III. (2 Mach. iv. 8); he did all he could to abolish the worship of God, and introduce Greek idolatry (10-20); Menelaus, by similar bribery, then obtained the office (24); and Jason fled to the Ammonites (26); he subsequently attacked Jerusalem (v. 5-7); but failing to take it, fled, and was imprisoned by Aretas; then escaped to Egypt and finally to Lacedæmon, where he died (8-10).

JA'SON, St. Paul's host at Thessalonica, risking his life to save the apostle during a sedition (Acts xvii. 7). If he is the same mentioned by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 21) he was his kinsman. The Greeks honor him as bishop of Tharsis in Cilicia.

i. 21); they refused admission to David, who took the city (2 Kings v. 8); Solomon made them pay tribute (3 Kings ix. 20, 21; 2 Paral. viii. 7, 8).

JECH'E'LIA, wife of Amasias, king of Juda, and mother of Azarias (4 Kings xv. 2).

JECHONI'AS, son of Josias (Matt. i. 11; Esther ii. 6); called Eliacim (4 Kings xxiii. 34, 35). Nechao made him king in place of his brother Joachaz, and called him Joakim (1 Paral. iii. 15; Jer. xxxvi. 1). He reigned eleven years under the domination of Nabuchodonosor, who carried him in chains to Babylon, but restored him (4 Kings xxiii. 36; xxiv. 1; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 5-8); he was a wicked prince; he threw the prophecies of Jeremias in the fire (Jer. xxxvi. 23); he revolted, and Nabuchodonosor besieged Jerusalem; Joakim was slain and buried like a dead ass, out of the city (Jer. xxii. 19).

JECHONI'AS, son of Joakim, is the name given by Jeremias (xxii. 24); to Joachin (4 Kings xxiv. 6; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 8).

JEC'SAN, son of Abraham and Cetura (Gen. xxv. 2).

JEC'TAN, son of Heber; his descendants occupied from Messa to Sephar (Gen. x. 26, 30).

JEC'TEHEL, a rock taken by Amasias, and over which he threw ten thousand Idumean prisoners (4 Kings xiv. 7; 2 Paral. xxv. 12).

JE'HU, son of Hanani, a prophet, sent by God to Baasa, king of Israel (3 Kings xvi. 1); put to death by Baasa (7); and the prophet Jehu, son of Hanani, reproached Josaphat, king of Juda, for aiding a wicked prince (2 Paral. xix. 2).

JE'HU, son of Josaphat, king of Israel, consecrated by Eliseus (3 Kings xix. 16); by the hand of one of his disciples (4 Kings ix. 1); on which he slew Joram (24); put to death Jezabel (33); and the house of Achab (x. 7-11); he abolished the wor-42,000 (xii. 6); he judged Israel six years, and was buried in Galaad, 1181 B. C. (xii. 7).

JEREMI'AS, son of Helcias, of a priestly family, was born at Anathoth, in the tribe of Benjamin; he was sanctified by God as a prophet in his mother's womb (Jer. i., xxix. 27); he prophesied from 629 to 586 B. C.; he is forbidden to pray for the people (vii. 16); asks why the wicked prosper (xii. 1); commanded to buy a linen girdle (xiii. 1); forbidden to marry (xvi. 2); persecuted (xviii. 19; xxvi. 8); imprisoned by Phassur, the priest (xx. 2); complains that he is a laughing-

stock for announcing the words of God (7); has a vision of two baskets of figs (xxiv.); Ahicam saves him from being put to death under Joakim (xxvi. 24); Jeremias makes chains and sends them to several kings, as tokens of their coming bondage (xxvii.); he exhorts men to pray for Babylon (xxix. 7); he predicts the birth of the Messiah of a virgin mother (xxxi. 22); imprisoned by king Sedecias for announcing the coming ruin of the city (xxxii. 3); tries the Rechabites to show the Israelites how they neglected their duty (xxxv.); dictates his prophecies to Baruch (xxxvi. 4); God conceals him with Baruch (19); dictates his prophecies a second time after their destruction by Joakim (32); again imprisoned by Sedecias at the instigation of the nobles (xxxvii. 15; xxxviii. 6); he is saved by Abdelmelech, the Ethiopian (xxxviii. 12); finds favor with Nabuchodonosor (xxxix. 11); treated as a liar (xliii. 2); carries off the tabernacle, the ark, and the altar of incense, and hides them in the mountain where Moses saw the inheritance of God (2 Mach. ii. 5); advises Jews to remain at Jerusalem (Jer. xlii. 10); goes to Egypt (xliii. 6, 7); reproves the Jews there (xliv. 1); prophesies against the city of Hai (xlix. 3).

JEREMI'AS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament (Jerem.); Lamentations of Jeremias (Lament.) and the prophecy of Baruch (Bar.) are considered as one book with the prophecies of Jeremias.

JER'ICHO, a city in the tribe of Benjamin; the stream watering the valley was bitter (4 Kings ii. 19), till made sweet by Eliseus; Jericho was miraculously taken by Josue, who, after sending in spies, marched seven successive days around it, with the ark, blowing the trumpets, the walls fell, the city was taken and burnt (Jos. vi. 1-20); Josue cursed it (26); Hiel rebuilds it and incurs the curse (3 Kings xvi. 34); the scene of the good Samaritan is laid on the way to Jericho (Luke x. 33); called the city of the palm trees (Deut. xxxiv. 3; 2 Paral. xxviii. 15).

JERUSALEM AND ITS VALLEYS.

JEROBO'AM, son of Nabat, was an Ephrathite of Sareda; Solomon made him chief over the tribes of the house of Joseph (3 Kings xi. 28); Ahias the prophet foretold that he should rule over ten tribes (29-39); Solomon sought his life, but he fled to Egypt, where he remained till Solomon's death (40), and evidently fell into idolatry; returning, he put himself at the head of the discontented people (xii. 12); a revolt ensued, and ten tribes made Jeroboam king (20); to prevent the people from going up to Jerusalem, he set up a golden calf in Bethel, and another in Dan, for the people to worship, and instituted rites according to his own heart (27-33); he is reproved by a man of God (xiii.), and his hand withers when he tried to injure the prophet (xiii. 4), but is healed (6); Ahias prophesied the destruction of his family (xiv. 10); his death (20); his house destroyed (xv. 29); his idols continued, and constant reference is made to the sin of Jeroboam, son of Nabat, who caused Israel to sin (3 Kings xv.; xvi.;

PLAIN OF JERICHO.

xxii. 53; 4 Kings iii.; ix.; x.; xiii.-xv.; xvii.; xxiii.)

JEROBO'AM II., son of Joas, made king of Israel (4 Kings xiii. 13; xiv. 16); Osee prophesies in the reign of (Osee i. 1); prophesies against him (Amos vii. 9); his death (4 Kings xiv. 29).

A STREET IN JERUSALEM.

ship of Baal, but not the golden calves (18-29). He died after a reign of 28 years, 850 B. C. (4 Kings x. 35, 36); the prophet Osee foretold that the blood shed by Jehu should be avenged (Osee i. 4, 5).

JEM'INI, another name for Benjamin (Judg. iii. 15; 1 Kings ix. 1).

JEPH'TE, son of Galaad by a harlot, judge of Israel. Cast out of his father's house, he fled to Tob, and became the head of a predatory band (Judg. xi. 1-3). The people of Galaad promised to make him prince if he delivered them from the Ammonites (9, 10); he defeated them at Aroer (33); but he promised to offer as a holocaust the first that came out of the doors of his house when he returned (31), and the first was his only daughter; after she had mourned her virginity in the mountains with her companions for two months, Jephthe "did to her as he had vowed" (39); the Hebrew maidens used annually to mourn her for four days (40); he defeated Ephraim at the fords of Jordan, killing JER'UEL, Josaphat defeated the Ammonites, Moabites, etc., in the desert of Jeruel (1 Paral. xx. 16).

JERU'SALEM, called Salem (Gen. xiv. 18); called Jebus (Jos. xviii. 28); besieged and taken by the tribe of Juda (Judg. i. 8); David takes the castle of Sion from the Jebusites (2 Kings v. 7); God chooses it as his abode (2 Paral. vi. 6; vii. 16); the capital of David and Solomon (2 Kings), and of the kings of Juda; David flees from (2 Kings xv. 14); taken by Joas, king of Israel, who dismantles it, 827 B.C. (4 Kings xiv. 13); besieged by Rasin, king of Syria, and Phacee, king of Israel, A.M. 3263 (4 Kings xvi. 5); by Nabuchodonosor, 599 B.C. (xxiv. 10; xxv. 1); burnt and destroyed (9); rebuilt (2 Esd. iii. 15); prophecies against Jerusalem and its people (4 Kings xxi. 12; xxiii. 27; Isaias i. 8; iii. 1; xxii. 10, 18; xxix. 1, 7; lxiv. 10; Jer. iv. 3, 9; vii. 1; xliii. 19; xix. 3; xxi. 3; xxiii. 39; xxv. 9; xxxii. 3, 28; xxxiv. 1; xxxviii. 3; xxxix. 8; Ezech. iii.-v.; x.); its destruction by the Romans foretold (Dan. ix. 26; Zach. xiv. 2; Luke xix. 43; xx. 16; xxi. 6; John xi. 48); described by Esdras (2 Esd. iii.); captured by Judas Machabeus (1 Mach. iv. 37); Jerusalem in an allegorical sense as Holy Church (Ps. cxxi. 3; Isai. xxxiii. 20; liv. 11; lx.; lxii.; lxv.; Tob. xiii. 19; Bar. v. 1, 5; Gal. iv. 26; Heb. xi. 10; xii. 22; Apoc. iii. 12); our Lord presented in the temple of Jerusalem (Luke ii. 22-38); found in the temple (46); our Lord's address to (Luke xiii. 34); he heals a man at the Probatica in Jerusalem (John v. 1); there at the Feast of Tabernacles (vii. 14); at the Feast of the Dedication (John x. 22); goes out to in triumph (Matt. xxi.; Mark xi.; Luke xix. 37; John xii. 12); weeps over it (Luke xix. 41); announces its destruction (Matt. xxiv. 15; Mark xiii.).

JESBIB'ENOB, a gigantic Philistine, slain by Abisai (2 Kings xxi. 16, 17).

JES'BOC, son of Abraham and Cetura (Gen. xxv. 2).

JESSE' or ISAI, father of David (Ruth iv. 29; Matt. i. 5; Luke iii. 32); Isaias announces a miraculous rod from the root of Jesse (Isai. xi. 1, 10; Rom. xv. 12).

JESUS CHRIST, the Messias. See CHRIST.

JE'SUS, or JOS'UE, son of Josedec, high-priest of the Jews after the Babylonian captivity; regulated the order and offices of the priests and Levites (1 Esd. iii. 3, 8); the prophet Aggeus urged him to hasten the rebuilding of the temple (Agg. i. 2); foretelling that the desired of nations should come (Zach. iii. 1-9); saw him in spirit crowned with a tiara, and also in iv. 2; vi. 11; associated with promises of the coming of the Orient or Messias. The son of Sirach praises him (Ecclus. xlix. 14).

JE'SUS, son of Sirach, author of the book of Ecclesiasticus (Ecclus., Prolog.).

JETH'RO, priest of Madian, father of Sephora, wife of Moses (Ex. iii. 1); called also Raguel (ii. 18); unless we are to consider him son of Raguel and identical with Hobab (Num. x. 29); Moses remained forty years with Jethro before he returned to Egypt, and after reaching that country he sent back his wife and children to Jethro. After the Israelites reached Mount Sinai he came to the camp with them (Ex. xviii. 1); he offered sacrifice (12); advises Moses to appoint judges (21, 22); Moses seems to have invited him to accompany the Israelites (Num. x. 29-31).

JE'SUS, called Justus, praised by St. Paul as a helper in the kingdom of God (Coloss. iv. 11).

JEW'ELS (Isai. iii. 21; lxi. 10; Apoc. xxi. 2).

JEW'S, the name given first to the people of the kingdom of Juda, which consisted mainly of the tribe tion announced (Rom. x.); terrible judgment on that people (1 Thess. ii. 16); some saved (Rom. xi. 5); Christ promised to them (xv. 8); their future zeal (xi. 26).

JEZ'ABEL, daughter of Ethbaal, king of Sidon, and wife of Achab, king of Israel, a most impious woman (3 Kings xvi. 31); she and her husband maintained hundreds of idolatrous priests (xviii. 19); she kills many of the prophets of the Lord (4, 13); she menaced the prophet Elias with death (xix. 2); she employed false witnesses against Naboth in order to seize his vineyard, and compass his death (xxi. 7, 13); Jehu orders her to be cast down from a window, when the dogs devoured her (4 Kings ix. 33-36), as Elias had foretold (3 Kings xxi. 23). Her name has become proverbial for cruelty and wickedness. It is applied, in Apoc. ii. 20, to a false prophetess at Thyatira, who was leading the people to idolatry.

JO'AB, son of Sarvia, David's sister, and brother of Abisai and Azael, general of David's armies (2 Kings ii. 13); kills Abner treacherously after he had submitted to David (iii. 27); first to mount the walls of Sion when David took it (1 Paral. xi. 6); reconciles Absalom and his father (2 Kings xiv.); kills Absalom contrary to David's orders (xviii. 14); his haughty bearing to David (xix. 5); assassinates his cousin Amasa (xx. 10); put to death by Solomon (3 Kings ii. 28, 34), pursuant to orders left by David (3 Kings ii. 6).

JO'ACHAZ, king of Juda. (See OCHAZIAS.)

JO'ACHAZ, son of Jehu, king of Israel (4 Kings x. 35; xiii. 1); his death (2).

JO'ACHAZ, son of Josias, king of Juda, called also Johanan (1 Paral. iii. 15; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 1; 4 Kings xxiii. 30); stripped of his kingdom by Nechao, and led prisoner to Egypt, where he dies (34; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 1, 4); his captivity foretold by Ezechiel (Ezech. xix. 4); succeeded by his brother Eliacim, or Joachim (4 Kings xxiii. 34; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 4).

JO'ACHIN, son of Joakim, by Nohesta, daughter of Elnathan (4 Kings xxiv. 8); reigns over Juda (2 Paral. xxxvi. 3); carried to Babylon by Nabuchodonosor (4 Kings xxiv. 12, 15; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 10); taken out of prison and restored to honor (xxv. 27); called Jechonias (Matt. i. 12; Jerem. xxiv. 1); succeeded by his uncle Mathanias, or Sedecias (4 Kings xxiv. 17).

JO'AKIM, son of Josias, brother of Joachaz, made king of Juda by Nechao, king of Egypt (4 Kings xxiii. 34; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 4); burns the books of Jeremias (Jerem. xxxvi. 23); his cruelty to the prophet Urias (xxvi. 20-23); conquered by Nabuchodonosor (4 Kings xxiv. 1); carried in chains to Babylon (2 Paral. xxxvi. 8); restored and rebels (4 Kings xxiv. 1); punished (2); his death (5); Jeremias prophesies that his body should be thrown out of Jerusalem unburied like an ass (Jer. xxii. 19); called also Eliacim.

JOAN'NA, wife of Chusa, Herod's steward, one of that name; but after the captivity it was applied to all Israelites. Their history before the time of our Lord is given in Esdras and Machabees. Jews persecute the apostles (Acts v. 18); three thousand converted (ii. 41); five thousand (iv. 4); the Greek Jews murmur as to the alms (vi. 1); the Jews rise against St. Stephen (vii.); the gospel preached to (xi. 19); they resist St. Paul (xiii. 45); abandoned for the Gentiles (46); persecute St. Paul (50); they had received many privileges over the Gentiles (Rom. iii. 1); their incredulity opposed (21); the cross a scandal to the Jews (1 Cor. i. 23); their hearts veiled and their mind hardened (2 Cor. iii. 14); they were in tutelage under the law (Gal. iv. 2); their reprobaof the holy women, who ministered to our Lord of their substance (Luke viii. 3).

JESUS CROWNED WITH THORNS.

JOA'RIB, head of the first of the twenty-four priestly families established by David (1 Paral. xxiv. 7); the Machabees were descended from him (1 Mach. ii. 1).

JO'AS, son of Amalech, detained the prophet Micheas in prison by order of king Achab (3 Kings xxii. 26).

JO'AS, son of Ochozias; saved by his aunt Josaba when his grandmother Athalia slew all the children of Ochozias (4 Kings xi. 2); crowned king of Juda by Joiada, the high-priest; he repairs the temple (4 Kings xi. 12; xii. 4; 2 Paral. xxiii. 10); took all the treasures and precious vessels of the temple to purchase peace from Hazael, king of Syria (4 Kings xii. 18); kills Zacharias, the son of Joiada (2 Paral. xxiv. 22); slain by Josachar and Jozabad in the house of Mello (4 Kings xii. 20; 2 Paral. xxiv. 25); succeeded by Amasias (27; 4 Kings xii. 21).

JO'AS, son of Joachaz, king of Israel (4 Kings xiii. 10, 13).

JO'ATHAM or JO'ATHAN, king of Juda (4 Kings xv. 5, 32; 2 Paral. xxvi. 21; xxvii. 1); his death (xxvii. 9); succeeded by his son Achaz (4 Kings xv. 38); the prophets Isaias, Osce and Micheas prophesied in his reign (Isaias i. 1; Osee i. 1; Mich. i. 1).

JO'ATHAM, youngest son of Gedeon. He escaped when his brethren were massacred by Abimelech. At the coronation of the latter, he stood on Mount Garizim, reproached the people, and foretold woe to Sichem and Abimelech (Judg. ix. 5-20).

JOB, an upright man in the land of Hus (Job i. 1); a model of patience; his prosperity (i. 1-5); God permits Satan to afflict him (6-19); ii. 1-8); his wife mocks his faith (9); visited by his friends Eliphaz, Baldad and Sophar (11); Eliphaz accuses him of impatience (iv., v., xv., xxii.); Job maintains his innocence (vi.); Baldad accuses Job (viii.; xviii.; xxv.); Sophar reproves Job (xi.; xx.) Job maintains his innocence. Eliu also blames him (xxxii.-xxxvii.); God interposes (xxxviii.-xli.); Job submits and prays for his friends, and is restored to wealth and prosperity (xlii.).

JOB, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament, describing the trials and patience of the holy patriarch Job (Job).

JO'EL, eldest son of the prophet Samuel, made

JO'EL, son of Phatuel, the second of the minor prophets. He prophesied in the kingdom of Juda, as Calmet thinks, in the reign of Josias. He exhorts the people to penance and foretells the coming miseries, and promises a teacher of justice (Joel).

JO'EL, a canonical book of the Old Testament, containing the prophecies of Joel.

JOHAN'AN, son of Caree, warned Godolias that Ismahel was sent to slay him (Jer. xl. 13); and offers to cut him off (15); after the death of Godolias, he marched against Ismahel, who fled (xli. 11-15); Johanan then led the people to Egypt by way of Bethlehem (16-18; 4 Kings xxv. 23-26).

JOHAN'AN or JONATHAN (2 Esd. xii. 11, 22); son of Joiada, and high-priest.

JOHN THE BAPTIST, precursor of our Lord, son of Zachary and Elizabeth, born (Luke i. 13, 57); circumcised (59); Zachary's speech restored (64); John's preaching (Matt. iii.); his food locusts and wild honey (Mark i. 6); he baptizes our Lord (Matt. iii. 16); points him out as the Messias (John i. 29); his humility (i. 19; iii. 28); sends his disciples to Jesus (Matt. xi. 2, 3); reproves Herod's sin (Mark vi. 18); Herodias lays snares for him (19); Herod casts him into prison (17); Herodias bids her daughter ask his head (24); Herod orders him to be beheaded (27); his martyrdom (Matt. xiv. 9; Mark vi. 27-29); called Elias (Matt. xi. 14; xvii. 12; Luke i. 17).

JOHN THE EVANGELIST AND APOSTLE, son of Zebedee, his vocation (Matt. iv. 21); chosen to be one of the twelve (x. 3; Mark iii. 17; Luke vi. 14); the disciple whom Jesus loved (John xiii. 23; xix. 26; xx. 2; xxi. 7, 20); wrote what he saw (xix. 35; xxi. 24; 1 John i. 1; Apoc. i. 2); witnesses the transfiguration (Matt. xvii. 1); at the Last Supper (John xiii. 23); at the crucifixion (xix. 26); wrote one of the Gospels, three Epistles, and during his exile at Patmos the Apocalypse or Revelation.

JOHN, GOSPEL OF ST. One of the canonical books of the New Testament, written by the Apostle St. John (John).

JOHN, EPISTLES OF ST. Three epistles of St. John the Apostle, canonical books of the New Testament (1 John, 2 John, 3 John).

JOHN, APOCALYPSE OF ST. One of the canonical books of the New Testament, containing revelations made to St. John the Apostle, in the island of Patmos (Apoc.).

JOHN MARK, a disciple, cousin of St. Barnabas, son of a Christian woman named Mary, at whose house the faithful assembled. St. Peter went to it after his miraculous deliverance from prison (Acts xii. 12); John Mark accompanied St. Paul and Barnabas to Antioch (Acts xii. 25; xiii. 13); St. Paul did not wish him as companion in Asia (Acts

xv. 37); he then went to Cyprus with St. Barnabas (39); with St. Paul in Rome (Coloss. iv. 10; Philemon 24); then with St. Timothy in Asia (2

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN JEWELS.

Tim. iv. 11). He is believed to have died at Ephesus.

JOHN, kinsman of the high-priest (Acts iv. 6).

JOIA'DA, son of Eliasib, high-priest (2 Esd. xii. 20). His wife Josaba or Josabeth, sister of Ochozias, saved young Joas in a bedchamber. Joiada preserved him in the temple, and after seven years proclaimed him king, and put Athalia to death (4 Kings xi. xii.; 2 Paral. xxiii.; xxiv.); he overthrew the worship of Baal, and restored the temple of God; he died 844 B. C., aged one hundred and thirty (2 Paral. xxiv. 15).

JO'NADAB, son of Semmaa, and nephew of David, wickedly advised Amnon, and brought misery on the house of David (2 Kings xii. 3, etc.).

JO'NADAB, son of Rechab, chief of the Rechabites. Jehu takes him to witness his destruction of the house of Achab and of the priests of Baal (4 Kings x. 15, 16); forbids his followers to drink wine, plant fields or vineyards, or build houses (Jerem. xxxv. 6-10).

JO'NAS, son of Amathi, fifth of the minor prophets, was a Galilean, a native of Geth in opher (4 Kings xiv. 25); many have believed him to be the son of the widow of Sarepta raised to life by Elias (3 Kings xvii. 17); he lived in the reigns of Joas and Jeroboam II., kings of Israel. God ordered him to go and announce to Ninive its destruction (Jonas i. 1); he sought to avoid the mission by flight, and en-

ANCIENT JEWELRY. AN ENGRAVED CAMEO. judge by his father, but he rendered unjust judgments (1 Kings viii. 1, 2; 1 Paral. vi. 33).

barked at Joppe for Tharsis. A storm arising, the sailors cast lots to find who caused their peril. The lot fell on Jonas, who confessed who he was, and sought to save him from his father's anger (xix.; xx.); he met David secretly in the desert of Ziph when Saul was pursuing him (xxiii.); he was killed with Bacchides besieged him, 158 B. C. (ix. 64), but failed to capture the place and subsequently made peace. He then governed the people at Machmas. Alexander Bales and Demetrius Soter both sought his friendship. He declared for Alexander, and in 152 B. C. assumed the high-priesthood (1 Mach. x.); Alexander treated him with great honor, but in 148 B. C. Demetrius Nicator sent Apollonius against him. Jonathan took Joppe and defeated Apollonius at Jamnia (1 Mach. x.); he besieged the citadel of Jerusalem, then held by Demetrius, but finally obtained it by aiding the king to reduce Antioch (1 Mach. xi.); Demetrius soon became hostile, when Jonathan espoused the cause of young Antiochus and renewed alliance with Sparta and Rome (1 Mach. xii.); he overawed the armies of Demetrius, and punished the Zabadean Arabs. Tryphon allured Jonathan to Ptolemais, threw him into prison and massacred his attendants (1 Mach. xiii.); Simon, his brother, sent a large ransom which Tryphon demanded, but the treacherous general put Jonathan and his sons to death at Bascama, 143 B. C. Simon buried him at Modin and erected a magnificent tomb (1 Mach. xiii. 27).

JON'ATHAN, son of Absalom, one of the generals of Jonathan Machabeus, took Joppe (1

ANCIENT EASTERN JEWELS AND ORNAMENTS.

bade them cast him into the sea, and the sea would grow calm. A great fish swallowed Jonas, who was three days and nights in its belly. He cried to the Lord, who caused the fish to cast him on the shore. Then the Lord repeated his command to Jonas. He entered Ninive crying, "In forty days Ninive shall be destroyed." The king and his people were converted, and did penance in sackcloth and ashes, and God revoked the sentence against them. Jonas was grieved that his prophecy did not come to pass, and God made an ivy, which he had caused to grow up and shade the prophet, to wither away (Jonas i.-iv.); Jonas also foretold that Jeroboam II. would restore the ancient limits of the kingdom of Israel (4 Kings xiv. 25); our Lord refers to the preaching of Jonas (Matt. xii. 41; Luke xi. 32), and makes Jonas' three days' burial in the belly of the fish a type of his own burial and resurrection (Matt. xii. 39, 40; xvi. 4; Luke xi. 29-31); he was frequently painted in the catacombs as a type.

JON'ATHAN, a Levite, son of Gersam and grandson of Moses, became an idolatrous priest in the house of Michas, and then at Dan or Lais (Josue xvii. 7-xviii. 31).

JON'ATHAN, son of Saul and devoted friend of David. With no one but his shield-bearer, he attacked the Philistines at Machnas and caused a panic, in which they slew each other (1 Kings xiii.; xiv.); Saul, pursuing the enemy, cursed any one who ate before evening; Jonathan, ignorant of this, ate a little wild honey, and when it was disclosed by lot, Saul would have slain him, but the people interposed. Jonathan became attached to David from the time of his victory over Goliath (1 Kings xviii.), and his father in the battle at Mount Gelboe (1 Kings xxxi. 1, 2); David composed a touching lamentation for him (2 Kings i. 18-27), and befriended his son Miphiboseth (2 Kings ix. 7; xxi. 7).

JON'ATHAN, son of the high-priest Abiathar, informs Adonias that David had proclaimed Solomon his successor (3 Kings i. 42, 43).

JON'ATHAN, high-priest, son of Joiada (2 Esd. xii. 11).

JON'ATHAN, scribe of king Sedecias, and persecutor of the prophet Jeremiah (Jerem. xxxvii. 14-19).

JON'ATHAN, surnamed Apphus, son of Mathathias and brother of Judas Machabeus (1 Mach. ii. 5), succeeds his brother as commander of the army of Israel (ix. 28, 29); defeats Bacchides near the Jordan, and crosses the river in safety, 161 B. C. (ix. 44); when Bacchides returned with a fresh army Jonathan retired to Bethbessen in the desert, where Mach. xiii. 11).

JOP'PE, a city and port of Palestine, on the Mediterranean, now called Jaffa. Hiram sends rafts of timber for Solomon to Joppe (2 Paral. ii. 16);

THE JORDAN ON THE ROAD FROM NABULUS (ancient Sichem) TO ES-SALT (ancient Ramoth-galaad?).

Jonas embarked at (Jonas i. 3); St. Peter restores Dorcas to life at (Acts ix. 40); Cornelius by order of an angel sends messengers to St. Peter at Joppe (x. 5, 32)

JO'RAM, son of Thou, king of Emath in Syria, sent to congratulate David on his victory over Adad, king of Syria, 1004 B. C. (2 Kings viii. 10).

JO'RAM, son and successor of Josaphat, king of Juda (3 Kings xxii. 51; 4 Kings viii. 16); he married Athalia, daughter of Amri (2 Paral. xxii. 2), or Achab (4 Kings viii. 18; 2 Paral. xxi. 6); puts his six brothers to death (2 Paral. xxi. 4); the Edomites revolt, and though he defeated he could not subdue them (4 Kings viii. 20-22; 2 Paral. xxi. 8-10); Lobna also revolted (10), and his kingdom was ravaged by the Philistines and Arabs (16); he built high places, and encouraged idolatry (11); Elias wrote to rebuke him and announce his chastisement (12-15); he died miserably, and was not buried in the sepulchre of the kings (18-20); all his sons were killed by the Arabs except Ochozias, who succeeded him (xxii. 1).

JO'RAM, son of Achab, king of Israel (4 Kings i. 17; iii. 1); defeats Mesa, king of Moab (iii. 4-27); is saved by Eliseus, but tries to kill the prophet (4 Kings iii. vii.); makes war on Hazael, king of Syria, and is wounded at Ramoth-Galaad (4 Kings viii. 28, 29; ix. 14, 15); his wickedness (iii. 2, 3); he goes to meet Jehu at Jezrahel, who shoots him through the heart with an arrow (ix. 24); his body flung into Naboth's vineyard (25).

JOR'DAN, a river of Palestine, running from Anti-Libanus to the Dead Sea. There were fords opposite Jericho (Jos. ii. 7; Judg. iii. 28; xii. 5); at Bethbera or Bethabara (Gen. xxxii. 10; Judg. vii. 24; xii. 6); all the country beyond the Jordan selected by Lot (Gen. xiii. 10); villages beyond given to the Israelites (Num. xxxii.); Josue passes it miraculously with the children of Ismel (Jos. iii. 15-17; iv. 1); sets up a monument in the bed (iv. 8); the waters of the Jordan divided by the prophet Elias (4 Kings ii. 8); by Eliseus, with the mantle of Elias (14); St. John the Baptist at (Matt. iii. 5); he baptizes our Lord in the Jordan (Luke iii. 21).

JOS'ABA, daughter of Joram, and wife of the high-priest Joiada, saves Joas, the son of her brother Ochozias, when Athalia sought to murder all her grandsons (4 Kings xi. 2, 3).

JO'SACHAR son of Semaath, and Jozabad, son of Somer, kill Joas, king of Juda (4 Kings xii. 21).

JOS'APHAT, king of Juda, son of Asa, by his queen Azubia (3 Kings xv. 24; xxii. 41); he kept in check the king of Israel, fortified the cities of Juda, and those conquered by Asa from Israel; he abolished the idolatry in the high-places and groves. He sent Levites through his kingdom to instruct the people (2 Paral. xvii. 7); he made the Philistines and Arabs tributary. He made an alliance with the wicked king Achab to attack Ramoth, against the words of the prophet Micheas, and was nearly slain in battle (3 Kings xxii.; 2 Paral. xviii.) The prophet Jehu rebuked him (2 Paral. xix. 1, 2); the Moabites, Ammonites, and Meonians made war on him, but he from Moab, Ammon and Mt. Seir slew each other (22); others think it the valley between Jerusalem and Mount Olivet.

JOS'EDECH, high-priest, succeeds his father Saraias (1 Paral. vi. 14, 15; 1 Esd. iii. 2); he apparently died in Babylon, and his son Jesus restored the temple.

JO'SEPH, son of Jacob and Rachel, born 1745, B. C. (Gen. xxx. 24); God favored him with prophetic dreams (xxxvii. 5); he denounced the wickedness of his brothers (Gen. xxxvii. 2, 4); out of jealousy and revenge they resolved to put him to death, but sold him to the Ismaelites (xxxvii. 28; Ps. civ. 17), who took him to Egypt and sold him to Putiphar; his mistress, failing to lead him to sin, accused him and had him imprisoned (xxxix. 17, 20); having shown his ability in interpreting dreams, he was sent for to explain a dream of king Pharaoh (xli. 24, 25); the king, admiring his wisdom, set him over all Egypt, and he married the daughter of Putiphar (45); his brethren sent down by their father in the time of famine to obtain food in Egypt, where Joseph had accumulated grain, bow down reverently to him without recognizing him (xlii. 6; xliii. 26); he detains Simeon, and compels them to bring his own brother Benjamin, and then discovers himself to them (xlv. 1); his two sons Ephraim and Manasses blessed and adopted by Jacob (xlviii. 5); Jacob's words as to Joseph (xlix. 22); his death (l. 24), 1635 B. C.; his bones carried out of Egypt as he had directed (Ex. xiii. 19); buried at Sichem (Jos. xxiv. 32); words of Moses as to Joseph (Deut. xxxiii. 13). There was no tribe of Joseph, but his sons Ephraim and Manasses, having been adopted by Jacob, the descendants of each formed a tribe.

JO'SEPH, son of Jacob (Matt. i. 16); or Heli (Luke iii. 23); spouse of the Blessed Virgin Mary (Matt. i. 16); called a just man (19); his anxiety relieved by an angel (20); his obedience (24); warned by an angel to fly into Egypt (ii. 13, 14); and subsequently to return (19, 20); dwells at Nazareth (23); working as a carpenter (xiii. 55).

JO'SEPH or JOSE, son of Mary of Cleophas (Mark xv. 40; Matt. xiii. 55; xxvii. 56). He was brother of St. James the Less.

JO'SEPH BARSABAS, surnamed the Just, must have been one of the first disciples of our Lord, being one of those who companied with the apostles, begiwas delivered by prayer (2 Paral. xx. 1-3); he agreed with Ochozias, king of Israel, to fit out a fleet at Asiongaber, but God defeated his design (2 Paral. xx. 35, 36); he died in Jerusalem, and was buried in the royal sepulchre 889 B. C., after a reign of twenty-five years (2 Paral. xxi. 1; 3 Kings xxii. 51).

JO'SAPHAT, valley of. The Lord will assemble all nations there to judge them (Joel iii. 2, 12); some suppose it the Valley of Blessing, near the Dead Sea (2 Par. xx. 26), where Josaphat's enemies ning with the baptism of John until the Ascension (Acts i. 21, 22); he and St. Mathias were proposed for the apostleship left vacant by the fall of Judas (23). According to Eusebius, he was one of the seventy disciples, and once having drunk poison was miraculously preserved.

JOSEPH SOLD BY HIS BRETHREN.

JOSEPH OF ARIMATHEA or RAMATHA, was a senator among the Jews and a secret disciple of Christ (John xix. 38). He took no part in the councils against our Lord (Luke xxiii. 51); and after his crucifixion went boldly to Pilate and asked for the body to inter it (Mark xv. 43; John xix. 38); he laid it in a new tomb which he had made for himself on Calvary, and closed it with a heavy slab prepared for the purpose (Matt. xxvii. 60; John xix. 40, 41).

JOSIAS, son of Amon, king of Juda, and of Idida, daughter of Hadaiah, of Besecath (4 Kings xxii. 1, 2); he began to reign at the age of eight, 641 B. C. (4 Kings xxi. 24; xxii. 1); his birth foretold by a prophet (3 Kings xiii. 2); in his twentieth year he purified Juda and Jerusalem from high-places, groves, idols and superstitious figures (2 Paral. xxxiv. 1, 2, 3, etc.); he did so even in Ephraim, Manasses, Simeon, and Nephthali (6); he repaired the temple, and when the high-priest Helcias found the book of the law in the temple, he consulted the prophetess Holda, read the book to the people, made a covenant with the Lord, banished idolatry (4 Kings xxii., xxiii.; 2 Paral. xxxiii., xxxiv.); he celebrated the Pasch with solemnity (2 Paral. xxxv. 1; 4 Kings xxiii. 21); in 610 B. C., Pharaoh Necho, king of Egypt, marching to attack Carchemis, on the Euphrates, wished to march across Juda, but Josias opposed him and was mortally wounded at Mageddo, near Mount Carmel. He died in Jerusalem of his wounds, 610 B. C. (4 Kings xxiii. 30; 2 Paral. xxxv. 23); Jeremias wrote a lamentation on his death (2 Paral. xxxv. 25); and the son of Sirach extols him (Ecclus. xlix.); the prophets Jeremias, Baruch, Joel, and Sophonias flourished in his reign.

JOSUE, the son of Nun, or Nave (Osee, Num. xiii. 9, 17; Jesus, Ecclus. xlv. 1), was of the tribe of Ephraim born 1544 B. C.; he is at first called the minister of Moses (Ex. xxiv. 13; Deut. i. 38); his servant (Ex. xxxiii. 11); defeated the Amalecites, 1491 B. C. (Ex. xvii. 9, 10); he remained on Mt. Sinai while Moses received the divine communications (xxiv. 13); he was constantly at the tabernacle (xxxiii. 11); in his zeal for Moses he wished to prevent others from prophesying (Num. xi. 28, 29); he was sent from Cadesbarne with other spies to examine the Promised Land (xiii. 17); but only he and Caleb recommended it (xiv. 6). When Moses was near his end, by command of God he imposed hands on Josue before Eleazar the priest (xxvii. 18-23); and Moses then announced to the people that he was to be their leader (Deut. xxxi. 3); and gave instructions to Josue (7); and God gave him a charge in the tabernacle of the testimony (14, 23); and repeated it after the death of Moses (Jos. i. 1-9); he sent spies to Jericho (ii.); crossed the Jordan (iii.); raised a monument to commemorate the miracle (iv.); is visited by an angel (v. 13); captures Jericho by the sound of his trumpets (vi.); takes the city of Hai (viii.); blesses the people (33); is deluded by the Gabaonites (ix.); aids them (x.); the sun and moon stop at his command during his battle with the five kings of the Amorrites at Gabaon (x. 13); he defeats thirty-one kings (xii.); receives his share in the distribution of the land (xix. 49); assembles the princes of each tribe, gives them his last advice, and recalls God's benefits to them (xxiv. 1-24); dies at the age of one hundred and ten (29); and was buried liberated, with their wives and children (xxv. 9-34).

JU'DA, fourth son of Jacob and Lia, born in Mesopotamia, 1755 B. C. (Gen. xxix. 35); advised his brothers to sell Joseph, not kill him (xxxvii. 26); married Sue, a Chanaanite woman, who bore him Her, Onan and Sela. His two elder sons were punished by God. Juda had also by Thamar, widow of Her, Phares and Zara (xxxviii.); made himself responsible for the safety of Benjamin (xliii. 8, 9); his humble address to Joseph on Benjamin's arrest (xlv. 16-34); Jacob in his blessing foretold the royal power in the line of Juda, and that the sceptre should not be taken away from Juda till the Expectation of nations came (xlix. 8-12).

JU'DA. The tribe of Juda, descended from Juda, son of Jacob, marched out of Egypt with 74,600 fighting men under Nahasson, their prince (Num. i. 7, 27); they camped on the east (ii. 3, 4); first in rank among the tribes (Num. ii. 3; vii. 12; Judges i. 2); their offering (Num. vii. 12-17); Caleb was sent from Juda to view the Promised Land (xiii. 7); and to divide it (xxxiv. 19); at Settim they numbered 76,500 (xxvi. 19-22); Moses' blessing on Juda (Deut. xxxiii. 7); their share in the Promised Land (Jos. xv.); Achan, of the tribe of Juda, by his disobedience causes Israel to be defeated at Hai (Jos. vii.); the tribe could not destroy the Jebusites (xv. 63); with the tribe of Simeon it defeats the Chanaanite and Pherezite (Judg. i. 2-20); the Ammonites waste Juda (x. 9); deliver Samson to the Philistines (xv.); God appoints Juda the leader in the war against Benjamin (Judg. xx. 18); Booz, husband of Ruth, of the tribe of Juda (Ruth); David, his descendant, selected by God to succeed Saul (1 Kings xvi.); anointed king over Juda (2 Kings ii. 4); only the house of Juda followed David (10); becomes king of Israel and Juda (v. 5); all but Juda and Benjamin revolt from Roboam (3 Kings xii. 20, 23); the royalty remains in the house of David (2 Kings vii. 12; 1 Paral. xvii. 11; 2 Paral. vi. 6).

JU'DA. The kingdom of Juda is that governed by Roboam and his descendants, embracing the tribes of Juda and Benjamin, with the Levites. It lasted from 970 B. C. to 588 B. C.

JU'DAS MACHABE'US, son of Mathathias, a priest of the sons of Joarib (1 Mach. ii. 4); succeeded his father as leader of the faithful in their war against Antiochus Epiphanes (ii. 49, 70), B. C. 166; he defeated Apollonius (1 Mach. iii. 11); and Seron (13-23); Antiochus sent Gorgias against Judas, who defeated him at Emmaus (iv.); he then routed Lysias at Beththoron (iv. 28, 29), 160 B. C.; he then went up to Jerusalem, purified the temple, restored the altar and sacred vessels, and on the 25th of Casleu, the ninth month, renewed the worship of God after the dedication of the temple (iv. 37-52); soon after he defeated Timotheus and Bacchides, and returned laden with booty (2 Mach. viii. 30; x. 24).

JOSEPH INTERPRETING PHARAO'S DREAM.

at Thamnathsare, on Mount Ephraim (30; Judges ii. 8); his praise (Ecclus. xlv. 1-10).

JOUR'NEY. The Sabbath day's journey was limited by the Jewish law to 2,000 paces from the walls of the place (Ex. xvi. 29; Acts i. 12).

JU'BAL, son of Lamech and Ada, "he was the father of them that play on the harp and the organ" (Gen. iv. 21).

JU'BILEE. The year of jubilee was the fiftieth, that after seven weeks of years (Lev. xxv. 8); during this year no ground was sown, or reaped, only what grew spontaneously was gathered; lands returned to their original owners; Hebrew slaves were

He fortified Bethsura to protect Jerusalem from the Idumeans (1 Mach. iv. 61); he took Bosor, and marched to the relief of Datheman, defeated Timotheus and laid Astaroth Carnaim in ashes (1 Mach. v.); he defeated Lysias at Bethsura (2 Mach. xi. 1-28); he chastised Joppe and Jamnia, and took the strong city of Ephron. At Odollam he found idols on the persons of some of his fallen soldiers, and sent to Jerusalem to have sacrifices offered for them, a testimony to the Jewish practice of prayer for the dead (2 Mach. xii. 40). Antiochus Eupator came in person with a large army and besieged Bethsura, and then Jerusalem, till domestic troubles compelled him to make peace (1 Mach. vi.; 2 Mach. xiii.) Demetrius, the next king, sent Bacchides against Judas. Bacchides entered Jerusalem, set up Alcimus as high-priest (1 Mach. vii.; 2 Mach. xiv.) Judas soon drove him out and made terms with Nicanor, the next general sent against him, till Demetrius ordered Nicanor to seize Judas. The war was renewed; Nicanor, repulsed at Caphar Salama, threatened to destroy the temple unless Judas was delivered up, but the valiant priest defeated and slew him at Bethoron, 161 B. C. Demetrius then sent Bacchides against him. Judas was at Bethel with 3,000 men, but alarmed at the force approaching, most of these deserted him. Judas, with only 800 men, attacked Bacchides and routed his right wing, but was surrounded by the main body, and after a desperate action slain. He was buried by his brothers in the sepulchre of the family at Modin (1 Mach. ix. 19).

JU'DAS ISCAR'IOT (probably of Iscariot in the tribe of Ephraim), called to be an apostle (Matt. x. 4; Mark iii. 19; Luke vi. 16); entrusted with the money contributed (John xii. 6); yields to avarice and becomes a thief (6); betrays our Lord for thirty pieces of silver (Luke xxii. 4; Matt. xxvi. 21, 46, 49); a prey to remorse, he brought back the money to the chief-priests, hung himself with a halter, and burst asunder (Matt. xxvii. 4; Acts i. 18).

JU'DAS the Galilean, raises an insurrection, but his adherents are scattered (Acts v. 37).

convey the decision of the council (Acts xv. 22-33).

JUDE, surnamed Thaddeus, or Leb-beus (Matt. x. 3; Mark iii. 18), and Zelotes, sometimes called the brother of the Lord (Matt. xiii. 55; Mark vi. 3); brother of St. James the Less (Acts i. 13); one of the apostles (Matt. x. 3; Mark iii. 18; Luke vi. 16). At the last supper he asked our Lord why he did not manifest himself to the world (John xiv. 22).

JUDE, Epistle of St., one of the canonical books of the New Testament, a Catholic epistle, written by the apostle St. Jude (Jude).

JU'DAS writes in the name of the senate and people of Jerusalem to Aristobulus, preceptor of king Ptolemee (2 Mach. i. 10).

JU'DAS, host of St. Paul at Damascus (Acts ix. 11).

JUDE'A, the name given after the Babylonian captivity to the part occupied by the Jews.

JUD'GES. These were leaders raised up by God to govern or deliver his people after the death of Josue (Judg. ii. 16); their rule continued till Saul was made king (1 Kings viii.) They were Othniel, Aod, Debora and Barac, Gedeon (Abimelech), Thola, Jair, Jephthe, Abesan, Ahialon, Abdon, Heli the high-priest, Samson, Samuel, 1434-1095 B. C.

A ROMAN HALL OF JUSTICE.

JUD'GES, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament, written it is believed by the prophet Samuel, containing the history of the Israelites from death of Josue to the time of Heli (Judg.)

JUD'GES, instituted by Moses on the advice of Jethro (Ex. xviii. 25); their duties and functions (Ex. xxi.; xxii.; xxiii.; Lev. xxiv. 11; Deut. i. 13, 16; xvii.; xxv. 1.; xxvii. 19; 1 Kings viii. 3; xii. 5; 2 Paral. xix. 6; Ps. lxxxi. 2-8; Prov. xxviii. 21; Eccclus. iv. 5; x.; Isai. v. 16; x. 1-3; Jer. v. 1; Luke xviii. 2; xxiii. 13; John viii. 15; James ii. 4).

JUDG'MENT. We should examine before judging after the example of God himself (Gen. iii.

11; xi. 5; xviii. 21; Ex. iii. 8; xxiii. 2; Deut. xiii. 14; xvii. 9; xix. 18; Jos. vii. 19; xx. 1-5; Judg. xv.

3, 12; Prov. xviii. 13; 1 Mach. vii. 7); we must not judge others without authority (Eccclus. xi. 9; Luke vi. 37); nor judge according to appearance only (John vii. 24; Deut. i. 16); we must not judge rashly (Matt. vii. 1; xii. 7; Luke vii. 33; John ix. 16; Acts xxviii. 4; Rom. xiv. 4, 13; 1 Cor. iv. 5; 1 Tim. v. 21).

JUDG'MENT. The last judgment, foretold by our Lord, and reserved to him alone (John v. 22); described (Matt. xxv. 31-46; Apoc. vi. 17; vii.; xiv. 7).

JU'DITH, of the tribe of Ruben, daughter of Merari, and widow of Manasses. She lived in Bethulia, and passed her widowhood in holy seclusion (Judith viii. 4, etc.); when the city was besieged by Holofernes, and Ozias the ruler of the city promised to surrender if God did not send relief within five days (viii.), she rebuked them for tempting the Lord (viii. 11), and resolved to endeavor to save the city. She bade them pray for her (33); and putting on hair-cloth and ashes, implored the assistance of God (ix.); she then went with her handmaid to the camp of the Assyrians; Holofernes, taken by her beauty, gave her liberty to go forth each night to pray; and having invited her to a banquet, was overcome with wine. Then Judith, praying to God for strength, beheaded him with his own sword, and went forth, bearing his head to Bethulia (x.-xiii.); the Israelites attacked the Assyrians, who, finding their general slain, fled before the Hebrews (xiv., xv.); she praised God for his mercy in a canticle (xvi. 2-21); she died at the age of 105, and was buried in Bethulia (28).

JU'DITH, one of the canonical books of the Old

JUDEA AS DEPICTED ON COINS STRUCK BY THE EMPEROR VESPASIAN.

JU'DAS, surnamed Barsabas, sent from Jerusalem to Antioch with St. Paul and Barnabas to testament, describing the deliverance of Bethulia by Judith (Judith).

JU'LIA, a Christian woman of Rome saluted by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 15).

ANCIENT LAMPS.

JU'NIAS, kinsman and fellow-prisoner of St. Paul, "of note among the apostles" (Rom. xvi. 7).

JU'NIPER TREE. Elias rests under one near Bersabee when fleeing from Jezabel (3 Kings xix. 4).

JU'PITER, the chief deity honored by the Romans, and by the Greeks under the name of Zeus. Antiochus made the temple of Jerusalem a temple of Jupiter Olympius, and that in Garizim of Jupiter Hospitalis (2 Mach. vi. 2); when St. Paul and Barnabas cured the cripple at Lystra, the people took them to be gods, and wished to sacrifice to Barnabas as Jupiter (Acts xiv. 11, 12).

JUST, JUST'ICE. The perfection of justice cannot be attained in this life (Gen. vi. 5; Ex. xxxiv. 7; Num. xiv. 18; 3 Kings viii. 46; 2 Paral. vi. 36; Job iv. 17; ix. 2, 15, 20; xxv. 4; Ps. xlii. 1; l. 7; cxxix. 3; cxlii. 2; Prov. xx. 9; Eccles. vii. 21; Wis. xii. 10; Jer. xxx. 11; Mich. vii. 2; Nah. i. 3; Matt. vi. 12; Luke xvii. 10, 14; Rom. iii. 9, 23; vii. 13; Eph. ii. 3; 1 John i. 8). Increase in justice the fruit of good works (Eccles. xviii. 22; Rom. ii. 13; James ii. 22, 24; Apoc. xxii. 11); who are truly just (Luke i. 6; John viii. 36; xvii. 17, 19; 1 Cor. vi. 11; Heb. xi.).

JUST, book of the, referred to (2 Kings i. 18; Jos. x. 13).

JUST'ICE, regulations for administering (Ex. xviii. 21-26; xxiii. 1; Deut. xix.; xxi.).

JUST'IFICATION attributed to faith and other virtues (Ex. xx. 6; Prov. x. 12; Wis. xi. 24; Eccles. i. 27; Ezech. xviii. 21, 22; Matt. x. 28; Luke vii. xv., xviii., xix.; Rom. viii. 23; 1 Cor. xiii. 4; Gal. v. 6; 1 Pet. iv. 8; 1 John iv. 7); our merit comes from Jesus Christ, and there is no merit before the first justification and remission of sins (Gen. xv. 6; Isai. xlv. 26; liii. 8, 12; Jerem. xxiii. 6; xxxiii. 16; Dan. vi. 22; Hab. ii. 4; Zach. ix. 9; Acts x. 43; xiii. 39; Rom. vi. 16; x. 4, 10; 1 Cor. i. 30; Gal. ii. 16; v. 5; Phil. iii. 9; Tit. iii. 7; 1 Pet. iii. 18).

JUS'TUS, surname of Joseph, called Barsabas, (Acts i. 23); also of Titus, a Christian at Corinth, with whom St. Paul lodged (Acts xviii. 7); also of Jesus, a disciple of St. Paul (Col. iv. 11).

KEY, first mentioned (Judges iii. 25). The key of the house of David (Isai. xxii. 22; Apoc. iii. 7); our Lord gives St. Peter the keys of the kingdom of heaven (Matt. xvi. 19); the keys of death and hell (Apoc. i. 18; ix. 1; xx. 1).

KINE, fat and lean, seen in Pharaoh's dream (Gen. xli. 2).

KING'DOM OF HEAVEN (Matt. iii. 2); iv. 17; v. 3, 10, 19, 20; vii. 21; viii. 11; x. 7; xi. 11, 12; xiii. 11, 24, 31, 33, 44, 45, 47, 52; xvi. 19; xviii. 3, 4, 23; xix. 12, 14, 23, 24; xx. 1; xxii. 2; xxiii. 13; xxv. 1).

KING'DOM OF GOD (Matt. vi. 33; xii. 28; xiii. 38; xxi. 31, 43; Mark i. 14, 15; iii. 24; iv. 11, 26, 30; viii. 39; ix. 46; x. 14, 15, 23-25; xii. 34; xiv. 25; xv. 43; Luke i. 43; vi. 20; vii. 28; viii. 1, 10; ix. 1, 9, 11; xi. 13, 32; xiii. 18; xiv. 15; xvi. 16; xvii. 20, 21; xviii. 19, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100).

KING'DOM (Matt. vi. 10; viii. 12; ix. 35; xiii. 19; xxiv. 14); "kingdom of my Father" (Matt. xxvi. 29; Mark xi. 10).

KING'DOM OF GOD, spiritual, interior and eternal (Gen. xlix. 10; Num. xxiv. 17; 1 Kings ii. 10; viii. 7; 1 Paral. xvii. 14; xxviii. 7; Ps. ii. 2, 6; ix. 8; xxi. 28; xlv. 7; lxxix. 2; cix.; cxliv. 11; Isaias ix. 6; xi. 1; xxxii. 1; xl. 9; xlii. 1; Jerem. xxiii. 5, 6; xxxiii. 1; Ezech. xxxiv. 23; xxxvii. 24; Dan. ii. 44; iv. 23; vii. 14, 27; ix. 24, 25; Osee iii. 5; Mich. iv. 1, 3; v. 1; Zach. ix. 9; Matt. xiii.; Luke i. 32; xxi. 31; xxii. 29; xxiii. 2; John vi. 15; xii. 14-34; xviii. 33-36; 1 Tim. i. 17; Heb. i. 8; ii. 9).

KING'DOM OF ISRAEL, comprising ten tribes, founded by Jeroboam (3 Kings xii. 3, 9, 16).

KING'DOM OF JUDA, comprising the tribes of Juda and Benjamin with the Levites.

KINGS AND PRINCES: their duty and authority (Deut. xvii. 19; 1 Kings viii.; 3 Kings ii. 2; x. 9; 2 Paral. ix. 1; xix. 5; Job xxxiv. 30; Ps. ii. 10; Ps. c.; Prov. xiv. 28; xix. 12; xx. 8, 26; xxviii. 15; xxix. 4, 14; xxxi. 4; Wisd. vi. 10; Jer. xxii. 2). The heart of kings is in the hand of God (Prov. xxi. 1); kings first mentioned (Gen. xiv. 1, 2, 5, 6, 10, 18; xx.; xxvi. 1); the Israelites first have a king (1 Kings xi. 15).

KINGS, four canonical books of the Old Testament, called First and Second Kings or Samuel, the first written it is generally believed by the prophet Samuel and concluded by the prophets Nathan and Gad, who wrote the second also. The Third and Fourth of Kings called in Hebrew First and Second. These books contain the history of the Israelites from the time of Samuel to the commencement of the Babylonian captivity (1 Kings, 2 Kings, 3 Kings, 4 Kings).

KISS, a symbol of peace and charity (Gen. xxix. 13; xlv. 15; xlviii. 10; Ex. iv. 27; Luke xv. 20; Acts xx. 37; Rom. xvi. 15; 1 Cor. xvi. 20; 2 Cor. xiii. 12; 1 Thess. v. 26; 1 Peter v. 14); Joab's perfidious kiss (2 Kings xx. 9); Judas' (Matt. xxvi. 49).

KITE, a bird of prey, forbidden as unclean (Lev. xi. 14; Deut. xiv. 13).

KNEEL'ING IN PRAYER (3 Kings xix. 18; 2 Paral. vi. 13; xxix. 30; 1 Esd. ix. 5; Dan. vi. 10; Mich. vi. 6; Luke xxii. 41; Rom. xiv. 11; Philip. ii. 10).

KNOWL'EDGE of good and evil (Gen. ii. 9); knowledge of the holy (Prov. ix. 9, 10); knowledge puffed up (1 Cor. viii. 1); knowledge falsely called (1 Tim. vi. 20).

LA'ABIM, third son of Mesraim, son of Cham (Gen. x. 13).

LA'BAN, son of Bathuel and grandson of Nachor. He receives Abraham's servant, who comes to ask Rebecca as a wife for Isaac (Gen. xxiv. 29); Jacob takes refuge with him in Mesopotamia (xxviii.); agrees to serve him seven years for his daughter Rachel (xxix.); is deluded with Lia (24, 25); serves him seven years more for Rachel (27); their agreement for the division of the flocks (xxx. 25-43); he pursues Jacob and charges him with stealing away his gods (xxxi. 30); he makes a covenant with Jacob (45-55).

LA'BOR as well as sorrow, common to all men (Gen. iii. 17; Ex. xx. 9; xxxiv. 21; Deut. v. 13; Tob. ii. 19; Ps. cxxvii. 2; Prov. vi. 6; x. 4; xiv. 4; xx. 4; Eccles. v. 11; Eccles. xxix. 29; John xxi. 3; Acts xviii. 3; xx. 34; Eph. iv. 28; 1 Thess. ii. 9; iv. 11); labor does not enrich unless blessed by God (Gen. iii. 17; xxvi. 3, 12; xxx. 27; Deut. viii. 17, 18; Job xlii. 12; Prov. x. 22; Eccles. xi. 6); the laborer is worthy of his wages (Lev. xix. 13; Deut. xxv. 4; Eccles. vii. 22; xi. 18; Jerem. xxii. 13; Mal. iii. 5; Matt. x. 10; 1 Cor. ix. 9, 14; James v. 4); labor praised (Prov. xii. 11; xiii. 4; xiv. 23; xxiv. 27; xxviii. 19); labor forbidden at certain times (Ex. xvi. 23; xx. 10; xxxv. 2; Lev. xix. 3; xxiii. 3; xxvi. 2; Num. xv. 32; Deut. v. 12; 2 Esd. ix. 14; x. 31; xiii. 19; Matt. xii. 2).

LACEDEMON'NIANS, ancient allies of the Jews (1 Mach. xii. 5; see 2 Mach. v. 9).

LA'CHIS, a city of the Amorrites, the king of Lachis, with others besieged Gabaon (Jos. x. 5, etc.).

THE LAVER.

but was taken and hanged (26); Josue then took the city and destroyed it (31-34); Roboam rebuilt and fortified it (2 Paral. xi. 9); Amasias fled to Lachis and was slain there (4 Kings xiv. 19; 2 Paral. xxv.

27); taken by Sennacherib in the reign of Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 17); reoccupied after the captivity (2 Esd. xi. 30).

LAD'DER, Jacob's mysterious ladder (Gen. xxviii. 12).

LAKE AS'AN (1 Kings xxx. 30); probably near Asan, a town in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 42); and later of Simeon (xix. 7).

LAKE AS'PHAR, the same as Lake Asphaltites or the Dead Sea. It was originally the Woodland Vale (Gen. xiv. 3); the site of the Pentapolis, or the five Cities of the Plain, Sodom, Gomorrah, Adama, Seboim and Segor, which were almost entirely destroyed by fire from heaven (Gen. xix. 24, 25); and became the "Salt Sea" (Gen. xiv. 3); Jonathan and Simon encamped near it after the death of Judas (1 Mach. ix. 33).

LAKE OF TIBERIAS (see SEA OF GALILEE, or TIBERIAS).

LAHE'LA, a province beyond the Euphrates to which Theglathphalasar carried away the tribes of Ruben and Gad and the half tribe of Manasses (1 Paral. v. 26; 4 Kings xv. 19, 29).

LA'IS, a city in the land of Rohab, taken by the tribe of Dan and rebuilt under the name of Dan (Judg. xviii.).

LAI'SA, a place near Berea, where Judas Machabeus was defeated and killed by Bacchides and the apostate high-priest Alcimus (1 Mach. ix. 5).

LAMB, the young of the sheep offered in sacrifice by Abel, "firstlings of the flock" (Gen. iv. 4); given as a testimony (xxi. 28); used by Jacob in purchasing land at Sichem for an altar (xxxiii. 19); under the Mosaic law a lamb to be offered morning and evening (Ex. xxix. 38; Num. xxviii. 3); the rite of xix. 36; 1 Pet. i. 19); our Lord called the Lamb of God (John i. 29, 36; Apoc. v. 6; xiii. 8; xiv. 1); he is followed by virgins (xiv. 4).

LAODICE'A, a city in Phrygia, on the river Lycus. The angel or bishop of the church of Laodicea blamed for lukewarmness (Apoc. iii. 15, 16);

RUINS OF LAODICEA.

LAME, any descendant of Aaron who was lame was not to act as priest (Lev. xxi. 18); firstlings, when lame, not to be sacrificed (Deut. xv. 21); lame persons cured by our Lord (Matt. xi. 5; xv. 30; xxi. 14; Luke vii. 22; xiv.); a lame man cured by St. Peter at the beautiful gate (Acts iii. 3-8); the lame cured by St. Philip (viii. 8); by St. Paul (xiv. 7).

LAM'ECH, son of Mathusael, of the race of Cain, father of Jabel, and Jubal and Tubalcain (Gen. iv. 18-22).

LAM'ECH, son of Mathusala, and father of Noe; he lived to the age of 777 years (Gen. v. 25-31).

LAMENTA'TIONS OF JEREMIAS, a canonical book of the Old Testament, being the canticles of that prophet over the destruction of the holy city of Jerusalem and the temple of God (Lam.) His lamentations for king Josias were long preserved (2 Paral. xxxv. 25).

LAM'IA (Isai. xxxiv. 14); translated sea-monster (Lam. iv. 3).

LAMPS, vessels of pottery or metal in which oil was burnt to give light. Lamps were placed on the article improperly translated candlestick, placed before the veil of the tabernacle (Lev. xxiv. 2, 4); lamps in pitchers used by Gedeon in defeating the Madianites (Judg. vii. 16-20); Zacharias has a vision of a golden candlestick with seven lamps (Zach. iv. 2); seven lamps before the throne of God (Apoc. iv. 5); lamps borne in a wedding ceremony by virgins (Matt. xxv. 1). The word lamp is also used in the sense of flame (Gen. xv. 17; Job xli. 10; 1 Mach. vi. 39).

LAMP'SACUS, a city of Mysia. The consul Lucius writes to it in favor of Simon (1 Mach. xv. 16, 23).

LAM'UEL, king, author of ch. xxxi. Prov.; supposed to be a name for Solomon.

LAN'GUAGE of the whole earth confounded at Babel, giving rise to a diversity (Gen. xi. 9). The language in which most of the Old Testament was written was the Hebrew; part of Daniel in Chaldaic; Wisdom, Machabees, and the New Testament in Greek, except the gospel of St. Matthew, which some believe to have been written in Syriac.

his presumption (17); he may rise again by penance (19). The apostle St. Paul wrote an epistle to the church there (Col. iv. 16).

LAP'IDOTH, husband of the prophetess Debora (Judg. iv. 4).

LA'RUS, bird classed among the unclean (Lev. xi. 16; Deut. xiv. 15).

LAT'CHET, the strap of the shoe or sandal (Gen. xiv. 23; Luke iii. 16).

LAT'IN, the language of the Romans (Luke xxiii. 38; John xix. 20).

LAT'TICE, a screen to window or balcony (4 Kings i. 2; Prov. vii. 6; Cant. ii. 9).

LAUGH'TER, avoided (Eccles. ii. 2); turned into sorrow (James iv. 9).

LAVER, a vessel of brass in the tabernacle for the priests to wash their hands (Ex. xxx. 18); made of the metal mirrors of the women (xxxviii. 8); consecrated (Lev. viii. 10); in Solomon's temple (3 Kings vii. 26); (see SEA); Christ cleansed the church by the laver of water in the word of life (Eph. v. 26). He has saved us by the laver of regeneration (Tit. iii. 5).

LAW. The term is used to mean all that God commanded under the patriarchs and the Mosaic dispensation as contrasted with the gospel. First precepts imposed by God on Adam (Gen. ii. 16); violated (iii. 4, 6); the decalogue given to Moses (Ex. xx.; Deut. v.); the tables of the law given (Ex. xxxi. 18; Deut. v. 22); broken (Ex. xxxii. 19; Deut. ix. 17); second tables (Deut. x. 1); the law read to the people (xxxi. 9, 11; Jos. viii. 33; 4 Kings xxiii. 2; 2 Esd. viii. 8; ix. 4; 2 Mach. viii. 19, 23); the law gives only knowledge of sin (Rom. iii. 20; vii. 1, 7; Gal. iii. 19); produces wrath (Rom. iv. 15); makes sin abound (v. 20); good in itself (1 Tim. i. 8); ceremonial law abolished as impotent (Heb. vii. 18); the law of God cannot be fulfilled without the aid of his Spirit (Deut. v. 29; Ps. cxviii. 34; Luke xviii. 22; Acts xv. 10; Rom. viii. 2); Christ came to fulfil it (Matt. v. 17); he abolishes the ceremonies (Matt. xv. 20; Mark vii. 2; Acts x. 15; xv. 10; Rom. vi. 14; vii. 17; viii. 1, 3; Gal. iii. 13; iv. 5; Eph. ii. 13; 1 Pet. i. 11); the new law consists in the paschal lamb instituted to commemorate their deliverance from Egypt (Ex. xii. 5-46; Lev. ix. 3; xiii. 12); it was a type and figure of our Lord (John charity (Matt. v. 44; vii. 12; John xiii. 34; Rom. xiii. 10; Gal. v. 14; vi. 2; 1 Tim. i. 5).

THE BRAZEN LAVER.

LAW, doctor of the (Matt. xxii. 35).

LAWYER, used for one of the scribes (Mark xii. 28; Luke x. 25; xi. 45; Titus iii. 13).

THE LILY OF SYRIA.

LAY'MEN not to intrude into sacred things contrary to their duty (Lev. x. 1; Num. i. 51; iii. 10); nor rashly touch the sacred vessels (Num. i. 51; iv. 15, 19, 20; xviii. 7; 2 Kings vi. 6; 1 Paral. xiii. 10; 2 Paral. xxvi. 19).

LAZ'ARUS, the poor but just man at the door of the rich man (Luke xvi. 20).

LAZ'ARUS, brother of Martha and Mary (John xi. 1); they seem to have been children of Simon the leper of Bethania (Matt. xxvi. 7); he fell sick when our Lord was beyond the Jordan, and his sisters sent word to our Lord; but Lazarus died before he arrived and was buried. Jesus going to the tomb, called him, and he came forth alive (John xi. 1-45); our Lord entertained by them, and Mary anoints his head and feet (Matt. xxvi. 7; Luke vii. 37-50; John xi. 2; xii. 3); the chief priests think to kill Lazarus also (John xii. 10).

LEAGUE. God forbade the Israelites to form any league with the people of Chanaan (Ex. xxiii. 32); they are punished for disobeying (Judg. i. 24, 27; 2 Paral. xix. 2).

LEAV'EN (Lev. vii. 12; Deut. xvi. 3); used as a figure of corrupt doctrine (Matt. xvi. 6; 1 Cor. v. 6).

LEB'BEUS. See JUDE.

LEB'NA, a camp of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 21).

LEB'NA, a city besieged and taken by Josue (Jos. x. 29), and its king put to death (31).

LEEKs, a well-known vegetable (Num. xi. 5).

LE'GION, used to mean a large number (Matt. xxvi. 53; Mark v. 9; Luke viii. 30).

LEGS of persons crucified broken to hasten death (John xix. 31); our Saviour's were not broken on the cross, fulfilling a prophecy (Ex. xii. 46; Num. ix. 12).

LEND'ING commended (Deut. xxiii. 20; Ps. cxi. 5); usury forbidden (Ezech. xviii. 8).

LENT prefigured by the fast of Moses (Ex. xxiv. 18; xxxiv. 28); of Elias (3 Kings xix. 8); of our Lord (Matt. iv.).

LEN'TILs. Esau sells his birthright for a pottage of lentils (Gen. xxv. 33, 34).

LEOP'ARD, referred to for its fierceness (Isai. xi. 6; Jerem. v. 6; Osee xiii. 7); its spots (Jerem. xiii. 23); its swiftness (Hab. i. 8).

LEP'ERS excluded and kept in uninhabited places (Levit. xiii. 46; 4 Kings vii. 3; Luke xvii. 12); healed (4 Kings v. 14; Matt. viii. 2; Mark i. 40; Luke xvii. 14).

LEP'ROSY of men (Levit. xiii.); in houses (xiv. 34-48); of garments (xiii. 47-59); God strikes sinners with leprosy (Num. xii.; Deut. xxiv. 9; 4 Kings xv. 5); their dress prescribed (Lev. xiii. 45); sacrifices and rites for the cleansing of a leper (xiv. 2-32); for the purification of a house (48-53).

LE'SA, a town on the southern limit of Chanaan near the Dead Sea (Gen. x. 19).

LET'TER of the law killeth (2 Cor. iii. 6).

LET'TERS of the alphabet in Hebrew were twenty-two. See ALPHABET.

LET'TERS of Sennacherib to the king of Jerusalem laid before the tabernacle (4 Kings xix. 14); of the Samaritans to Artaxerxes accusing the Jews (1 Esd. iv. 11-16); reply (18); letter of the Jews to Darius (v. 6, 17); in form of edict, given by Artaxerxes to Esdras (vii. 11); of Jeremias to the captives (Baruch vi.); of the Machabees to the Lacedemonians (1 Mach. xii. 5); of the Jews in Jerusalem to those in Alexandria (2 Mach. i. 1-9); of the senate of Jerusalem and Judas to Aristobulus (i. 10-19); others (xi. 16, 22).

LE'VI, third son of Jacob and Lia, born in Mesopotamia, 1756 B. C. (Gen. xxix. 34); with his brother Simeon he massacres the Sichemites in revenge for the outrage on Dina (xxxiv. 25); Jacob's dying reproach (xlix. 5, 6); he went down into Egypt with his three sons, Gerson, Caath and Merari (Gen. xli. 11); he died aged 137; genealogy of the sons of (Ex. vi. 16).

LE'VI, tribe of, to be scattered among the other tribes (Gen. xlix. 7); Moses and Aaron of this tribe (Ex. ii.; iv. 14); selected by God for his special service (Num. viii. 6); they numbered 23,000 on leaving Egypt, but were not reckoned with the rest and received no possession (Num. xxvi. 62); Josue assigned them none (Jos. xiii. 33); Moses blesses the tribe (Deut. xxxiii. 8-11).

LEVI'ATHAN, a marine monster of great size (Job iii.; xl.) Leviathan, the bar serpent, and leviathan, the crooked serpent (Isai. xxvii. 1).

LE'VITES. Their zeal against the worshippers of the golden calf (Ex. xxxii. 26); God makes the Levites his ministers instead of the first-born of Israel (Num. iii. 12, 41; viii. 16); their abode, right, subsistence (Lev. x. 12; xxv. 32; Num. xviii. 21, 24; xxxv. 2-7; Deut. x. 8; xii. 12, 19; xiv. 27; xviii. 1; xxvi. 11; Jos. xiii. 14, 33; xviii. 7; xxi. 2; Esd. x. 33, 37; xiii. 10; Ecclus. vii. 32; Ezech. xlvi. 13);—their ministry (Num. i. 49; iii.; iv. 1; viii.; xviii. 2, 23; Deut. x. 8; Jos. iii. 6; 1 Paral. vi. 31; ix. 14; 2 Paral. xix. 8; Ezech. xliv. 10); cities assigned to the Levites in the various tribes (Jos. xxi.); Jeroboam expels them from their cities in the ten tribes (2 Paral. xi. 14); outrage committed against a Levite of Ephraim by the men of Gabaa (Judg. xix. 22); consequent destruction of the tribe of Benjamin (xx. 40-48).

LEVIT'ICUS, a canonical book of the Old Testament, one of the five books of Moses; it relates to the public worship of God, and is the ritual of the Mosaic law (Lev.).

LI'A, oldest daughter of Laban, imposed on Jacob as a wife by deceit (Gen. xxix. 23); she bore him six sons, Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Juda, Issachar, Zabulon, and a daughter Dina; she gave her handmaid Zelpha to Jacob as a wife. She died in the land of Chanaan, and was interred in the double cave (Gen. xlix. 31).

LIB'ANUS, a celebrated mountain, that separates Syria from Palestine (Deut. iii. 25; Jos. ix. 1; xi. 17; Judg. iii. 3; ix. 15); famous for its cedars (3 Kings iv. 33; 4 Kings xiv. 9; 2 Paral. ii. 8, 16; 1 Esd. iii. 7; Ps. xxxvi. 35; xci. 13; Cant. iii. 9; Ecclus. xxiv. 17; Isai. ii. 13).

LIBA'TION, or drink offering, a mode of sacrifice in which wine was poured out (Gen. xxxv. 14; Ex. xxix. 40; Num. xxviii. 7); not to be offered on the altar of incense (xxx. 9); David made a libation of the water of Bethlehem (2 Kings xxiii. 16); Achaz offered libations on the altar of Damascus (4 Kings xvi. 13; Jerem. i., vii., xi., xviii., xix., xxxii., xlv.; Ezech. xx. 28).

LIB'ERTY, evangelical (John viii. 32; Rom. vi. 18; viii. 2, 21; 1 Cor. vii. 22; Gal. v. 13; James i. 25; ii. 12; 2 Pet. ii. 19); evil and condemned liberty (Job xi. 12; Jer. xxxiv. 17; 1 Peter ii. 16).

LIB'ERTINES, a term meaning freedmen. There was at Jerusalem a synagogue of libertines, who procured the death of St. Stephen (Acts vi. 9).

LI'BRARY at Babylon (1 Esd. v. 17; vi. 1); of Nehemias at Jerusalem (1 Mach. ii. 13).

LIB'YA, an African province (Acts ii. 10).

LIGHT. Jesus Christ is the light of the world (Isai. ix. 2; xlix. 6; lx. 1, 19; John i. 5; viii. 12; ix. 5; xii. 36, 46; 1 John i. 5; ii. 8); how Christians are the light of the world (Prov. iv. 18; Isai. lxii. 1; Matt. v. 15; Rom. ii. 19; Phil. ii. 15).

LION.

LIL'Y. Parable of the lily (Matt. vi. 28; Luke xii. 27).

LI'NUS, a disciple mentioned by St. Paul (2 Tim. iv. 21); St. Irenæus, Eusebius, and other early writers attest that he succeeded St. Peter as bishop of Rome. He is commemorated Sept. 23; and by the Greek church Nov. 5.

LI'ON, a wild animal of tropical countries, famous for its majesty and strength. Samson kills a lion (Judg. xiv.); David (1 Kings xvii.); a lion kills a prophet (3 Kings xiii.); lions destroy the colonists sent to the kingdom of Israel (4 Kings xvii. 25); Daniel cast into the lion's den (Dan. vi., xiv.); the devil compared to a roaring lion (1 Pet. 5, 8); Juda to a lion's whelp (Gen. xlix. 9); Israel to a lion and a lioness (Num. xxiii. 24); Dan to a lion's whelp (Deut. xxxiii. 22); its strength (2 Kings i. 23); its boldness (Wis. xi. 18); its ravages (Ezech. xxii. 25); its terrible roar (Amos iii. 8; Soph. iii. 3). The lion of the tribe of Juda (Jesus Christ) (Apoc. v. 5).

LITHOSTROTOS, a place paved with stones or mosaic; the place was Pilate's judgment-seat; was called in Hebrew Gabbatha (John xix. 13).

LITTLE CHILDREN blessed by our Lord (Matt. xix. 14; Mark x. 14).

LIZ'ARD, forbidden as unclean food (Lev. xi. 30).

LOAVES OF PROPOSITION placed on the golden table every Saturday (Ex. xxv. 30; Lev. xxiv. 5-8); to be eaten only by the priests (9).

LOAVES, miraculously multiplied by our Lord (Matt. xiv. 19-21; xv. 32-38; Mark vi. 35-44; viii. 1-9; Luke ix. 13; John vi. 11).

LOB'NA, or LABANA, a city of Juda (Jos. xv. 42); given to the children of Aaron (Jos. xxi. 13); revolts from Juda (4 Kings viii. 22); besieged by Assyrians (xix. 8).

LO'USTS, a devouring species of grasshopper.

LOAVES OF PROPOSITION.

sent as a plague upon Egypt (Ex. x.); not forbidden to be used as food (Lev. xi. 22); their coming threatened as a punishment (Deut. xxviii. 38; Joel i.

4); the food of St. John the Baptist (Matt. iii. 4; Mark i. 6).

LO'IS, grandmother of Timothy (2 Tim. i. 5).

daughters (30); Moab and Ammon, his sons by them (37, 38).

LOTS, sometimes permitted to be cast (Lev. xvi.

PLAGUE OF LOCUSTS BROUGHT UPON EGYPT.

LOST BOOKS of the Bible. Book of the patriarch Enoch (Jude 14); Book of the Covenant (Ex. xxiv. 7); Book of the Wars of the Lord (Num. xxi. 14); Book of the Just (Jos. x. 13; 2 Kings i. 18); Book of the Law of the Kingdom, by Samuel (1 Kings x. 25); Book of the Words of the Days of Solomon (3 Kings xi. 41); Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Juda (3 Kings xiv. 29; xv. 7, 23, etc.); Book of the Words of the Days of the Kings of Israel (3 Kings xiv. 19; xv. 31); Book of Samuel the seer; Book of Nathan the prophet; Book of Gad the seer (1 Paral. xxix. 29); Books of Ahias the Silonite (2 Par. ix. 29); Book of the Prophet Semeias (2 Par. xii. 15); Book of the Prophet Jehu (2 Par. xx. 34); Book of Mardochai (Esth. ix. 20); Words of Hozai (2 Par. xxxiii. 19); Parables of Solomon (3 Kings iv. 32); Poems of Solomon; Natural History (3 Kings iv. 33); the Predictions of the Prophet Addo (2 Paral. ix. 29; xii. 15); Acts of Ozias, by Isaias (2 Paral. xxvi. 22); Book of the Days of the Priesthood of John Hircanus (1 Mach. xvi. 24); Descriptions of Jeremias (2 Mach. ii. 1); History of the Jews by Jason of Cyrene (2 Mach. ii. 24); Epistle of St. Paul to the Laodiceans (Col. iv. 16).

LOST COIN, parable of the (Luke xv. 8).

LOT, son of Aran, and nephew of Abraham (Gen. xi. 27); leaves Chaldea with Abraham (31); they separate to avoid the collisions between their herdsmen (xiii. 11); taken prisoner, but rescued by Abraham (xiv.); escapes from the destruction of Sodom (xix. 17; 2 Pet. ii. 7); his wife changed into a pillar of salt for looking back (Gen. xix. 26; Wis. x. 7; Luke xvii. 32); dwells in a cave with his 8; 2 Esd. xi. 1; Prov. xvi. 33; xviii. 18; Ezech. xxi. 19; Jon. i. 7); the promised land divided by lot among the tribes (Num. xxvi. 55; xxxiii. 54; Jos. xviii. 10; xix.); Josue casts lots to discover Achan's crime (Jos. vii. 14); Samuel casts lots to discover whom God has chosen as king of his people (1 Kings x. 20); Saul casts lots to discover who had transgressed his command (xiv. 41); the apostles cast lots to select a successor to Judas (Acts i. 26); the soldiers cast lots on our Saviour's garments (John xix. 24).

LOVE. We are to love God above all things (Ex. xx. 6; Deut. v. 10; vii. 9; x. 12; xxx. 6; Jos. xxii. 5; Eccus. vii. 32; Matt. x. 37; 1 Cor. ii. 9); love is the fulfilling of the law (Wis. vi. 19).

LUC'IFER, the king of Babylon, symbolically the devil (Isai. xiv. 12).

LU'CIUS of Cyrene, one of the prophets of the church at Antioch (Acts xiii. 1).

LU'CIUS, a relative of St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 22).

LU'DIM, son of Misraim (Gen. x. 13).

LUKE, evangelist, physician, a disciple of St. Paul (Col. iv. 14); his companion on his journeys (Acts xx. 6; 2 Tim. iv. 11); writes one of the gospels and the Acts of the Apostles.

LUKE, ST., Gospel of, one of the canonical books of the New Testament, embracing the history of our Lord, with many details evidently from the Blessed Virgin, her canticle, Zachary's, etc. (Luke).

LU'NATIC cured by our Lord after his apostle: had tried in vain (Matt. xvii. 14).

LUTE, a musical instrument (2 Kings vi. 5).

LU'ZA, the ancient name of Bethel (Gen. xxviii.)

LU'ZA, a town in Arabia Petraea, built by a man of Bethel (Judg. i. 25, 26).

LYC'AONIA, a province of Asia Minor, part of Cappadocia; St. Paul preached in Iconium and Lystra, cities of Lycaonia, A. D. 45 (Acts xiv.)

LYC'IA, a maritime province in Asia Minor. St. Paul landed at Lystra in Lycia on his way to Rome to appear before Nero, 60 A. D. (Acts xxvii. 5).

LY'DA (1 Mach. xi. 34); or Lydda, east of Joppe, founded by Samad (1 Par. viii. 12); St. Peter visited it (Acts ix. 32); and cured Eneas of the palsy (33, 34).

LYD'IA, a woman of Thyatira, a dealer in purple, residing at Philippi, in Macedonia; she was converted and baptized by St. Paul, with her whole family. The apostle, at her instance, took up his abode with them (Acts xvi. 14-40).

LYD'IA, a province of Asia Minor, settled by the descendants of Lud (Gen. x. 22; Isaias lxvi. 19).

LY'DIA, a province of Egypt, settled by Ludim, son of Misraim (Gen. x. 13; Jer. xlv. 9; Ezech. xxvii. 10; xxx. 5).

LYRE, a musical instrument (Isai. v. 12).

LYSA'NIAS, tetrarch of Abilene, at the time when St. John the Baptist began to preach (Luke iii. 1).

LYS'IAS, general of the army of Antiochus Epiphanes, left by him as regent (1 Mach. iii. 32); he sent a powerful army under Ptolemy, Nicanor and Gorgias against the Machabees, but Judas defeated them. The next year Lysias took the field in person, but was routed (1 Mach. iv. 28, 29). After the death of Antiochus, he seized the regency and continued the war, and advanced to Bethsura and was defeated (2 Mach. xi.) He returned with Eupator and laid siege to Jerusalem, but as Philip was at Antioch to claim the regency, Lysias made terms with Judas, but treacherously broke down the wall (1 Mach. vi. 62; 2 Mach. xiii. 2); then he took Antioch and killed Philip, but was the next year defeated and killed by Demetrius, 162 B. C. (1 Mach. vii. 4; 2 Mach. xiv. 2).

LYSIM'ACHUS, son of Ptolemy, translated Esther into Greek (Esth. xi. 1).

LYSIM'ACHUS, brother of Menelaus, the high-priest, killed by the people while he was endeavoring to plunder the treasury of the temple (2 Mach. iv. 39).

tribe of Manasse extended to (Deut. iii. 14; Jos. xii. 5).

MAA'CHA, son of Nachor (Gen. xxii. 24).

MAA'CHA, daughter of Tholmai, king of Gesur, and wife of David, to whom she bore Absalom and Tamar (2 Kings iii. 3; 1 Paral. iii. 2).

MAA'CHA, daughter of Abessalom (3 Kings xv. 2); wife of Roboam, king of Juda (Michaia, 2 Paral. xiii. 2); mother of Abia, and (grand) mother of Asa (3 Kings xv. 10, 13, 14).

MAA'RA OF THE SIDONIANS (Jos. xiii. 4).

MAASI'AS, son of Ananias, contributed to rebuild Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 23).

MAA'-SIA, one of the priests who assisted Esdras in reading the law (2 Esd. viii. 4).

MACE-DO'NIA, a Grecian kingdom; alms sent thence to the poor of Jerusalem (Rom. xv. 26; 2 Cor. viii. 1); St. Paul called to Macedonia (Acts xvi. 9).

MACH'-ABEES, seven brothers of this name and their mother put to death at Jerusalem in presence of Antiochus Epiphanes; their heroic fortitude (2 Mach. vii.)

MACH'-ABEES, two canonical books of the Old Testament, describing the attempt of Antiochus to force a state religion on

THE ADORATION OF THE THREE KINGS.

LYS'TRA, a city in Lycaonia, where St. Timothy was born. St. Paul and St. Barnabas having preached here and cured a cripple, the people wished to offer them sacrifice as gods, but they soon after stoned them (Acts xiv.)

LYS'TRA in Lycia (Acts xxvii. 5); is in Greek called Myra.

MAA'CHA, or MACHATI, a province which Josue spared (Jos. xiii. 13); the king of Maacha aided the Ammonites against David (2 Kings x. 8, 9); Seba took refuge there (2 Kings xx. 15); the Jews, and the heroic resistance and triumph of the faithful under the brave priests of the house of Mathathias (1 Mach.; 2 Mach.)

MACHABE'US, surname of Judas, one of the sons of Mathathias (1 Mach. ii. 4).

MAC'ELOTH, one of the stations of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 25).

MACH'MAS, a place east of Bethaven (1 Kings xiii. 2).

MADA'BA, or MEDA'BA, a city beyond the Jordan in the tribe of Ruben (Jos. xiii. 16); the Moabites seized it (Isai. xv. 2); the people of Madaba treacherously slew John Gaddes, brother of Judas Machabeus, and were punished (1 Mach. ix. 36.)

MAD'AI, third son of Japheth (Gen. x. 2).

MAD'AN, third son of Abraham and Cetura (Gen. xxv. 2; 1 Paral. i. 32).

MAD'IAN, fourth son of Abraham and Cetura (Gen. xxv. 2; 1 Paral. i. 32).

MAD'IANITES, a people lying east of the Red Sea (Ex. ii. 15; Hab. iii. 7); and east of the Dead Sea, south of Moab. They were defeated by Adad, king of Edom (Gen. xxxvi. 35); Moses took refuge among them and married Sephora, daughter of Jethro (Ex. ii. 15-22); the Madianites led the Israelites into debauchery and the worship of their idol Phogor (Num. xxii. 4; xxv. 6, 15); God's sentence on them (17); an army under Phinees, son of the high-priest Eleazar, attacked them and destroyed all their cities. He killed five of their kings, Evi, Recem, Sur, Hur, and Rebe (xxxii. 2-8); the Madianites oppressed the Israelites in the days of the Judges and were defeated by Gedeon (Judges vi., vii.).

MAD'ON, a city of Chanaan; Jobab, its king, joined Jabin, king of Asor, against Josue, but he was taken and put to death and his city destroyed (Jos. xi. 1; xii. 19).

MA'ELETH, a term in the title of Ps. lii.; and meaning a musical instrument, or the dance.

MAG'ALA, the place where the Israelites were encamped when David slew Goliath (1 Kings xvii. 20).

MAG'DAL, a place in Egypt near the Red Sea where the Israelites encamped (Ex. xiv. 2). Jews dwelt there in the time of Jeremias (Jerem. xlv. 1).

MAG'EDAN, a district in the Sea of Galilee (Matt. xv. 39).

MAG'DALEN, MARY, was delivered from seven devils by our Lord, and afterwards ministered to him of her means (Luke viii. 2; Mark xv. 40); she did remained there weeping (John xx. 11); our Lord appeared to her, though she did not at first recognize him (Mark xvi. 9; John xx. 15); he directed her to announce his resurrection to the other disciples (17).

Some suppose her to be the sinful woman who anointed our Lord's feet at the house of Simon the Pharisee (Luke vii. 37); and others suppose her to be the sister of Lazarus.

MAG'ETH, a city beyond the Jordan taken by Judas Machabeus (1 Mach. v. 36).

MAGIC'IANS, God threatens those who resort to them (Lev. xx. 6). Saul put them out of the land (1 Kings xxviii. 3).

MAG'ISTRATES, obedience to (1 Pet. ii. 14).

MAGNIF'ICAT, or Canticle of the Blessed Virgin (Luke i. 46).

MA'GOG, son of Japheth (Gen. x. 2); the land of Magog (Ezech. xxxviii. 2; xxxix. 6); the nation (Apoc. xx. 7).

MAHANA'IM, or MANAIM, scene of Jacob's vision, called also "The camp" (Gen. xxxii. 2); Levitical city arose there in the tribe of Gad on the torrent Jaboc (Jos. xxi. 37; 1 Paral. vi. 89); it was Isboseth's capital (2 Kings ii. 8, 12); David took refuge there during Absalom's rebellion (2 Kings xvii. 24; xix. 32).

MA'HATH, son of Amasai, assists king Ezechias in purifying the temple (2 Paral. xxix. 12).

MAH'ATH, an ancestor of our Lord (Luke iii. 26).

MA'HELETH, also called Basemath, daughter of Ismael, and wife of Esau (Gen. xxviii. 9).

MA'HELETH, a word in the title of Ps. lxxxvii.; the same as Macleth.

MAIDEN. The ravishing of a maiden caused the destruction of Sichem (Gen. xxxiv.); the violation of a maiden punished by the law of Moses (Deut. xxii. 23); a maiden sacrificed by her father (Judges xi. 39); a maiden restored to life by our Lord (Luke viii. 54).

MALACHI'AS, the last of the twelve minor prophets. The name means Angel of the Lord. Nothing is known of him.

MALACHI'AS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament containing the prophecies of Malachias. He foretells the coming of St. John the Baptist, the two advents of the Messiah (Mal. iii. 1); the abolition of the ancient sacrifice, and the perpetual offering of a clean oblation (Mal. i. 11); it is cited (Mark i. 2; ix. 11; Luke i. 17; Rom. ix. 13).

MAL'ALEEL, son of Chanaan (Gen. v. 12). He lived 895 years.

MAL'ASAR, the officer appointed over Daniel, Ananias, and their companions (Dan. i. 11).

MAL'CHUS, servant of Caiphas, the high-priest; he was one of the party sent to seize our Lord. St.

LOT'S WIFE—A PILLAR OF SALT.

Peter cut off his ear, but our Saviour cured the wound (John xviii. 10).

MAL'EDICT'ION, ceremonies of (Deut. xxvii. 15; xxviii. 16-68).

MAL'TA or MELI'TA, an island in the Mediterranean. St. Paul was shipwrecked there, A. D. 60. While taking up a bundle of sticks to make a fire, a serpent stung him. The people expected to see him die, but when he shook it into the fire, they regarded him as a divinity. The apostle cured Publius, the governor, of a fever, and remained there three months (Acts xxviii.).

MAM'BRE, an Amorrite, an ally of Abraham, who aided him to pursue the victorious kings (Gen. xiv. 13).

MAM'BRE, Vale of, a valley near Hebron (Gen. xiii. 18; xiv. 13), where Abraham long dwelt, and where the three angels appeared to him (xviii. 1); he purchased a double cave that looked towards Mam-bre for a burial-place for Sara (xxiii. 19); Isaac and Esau bury Abraham there (xxv. 9); Isaac continued to dwell there (xxxvii. 27); Jacob returned to it (27).

MAM'BRE. The torrent of Mambre (Judith ii. 14).

MAM'BRES, one of the two magicians who opposed Moses in Egypt (2 Tim. iii. 8).

MAM'MON, a Syriac word meaning riches. Our Saviour says we cannot serve God and mammon not desert him during his passion, but stood under the cross (John xix. 25); when the disciples discovered that the body was no longer in the sepulchre (Matt. xxviii. 5; Mark xvi. 5; John xx. 1) Mary (Matt. vi. 24; Luke xvi. 13); and again he bids us make to ourselves friends of the mammon of iniquity, that is, make for ourselves friends in eternity by the riches which lead so many to sin (9).

MANDRAKES.

MAM'UCHAN, one of the seven counsellors of king Assuerus (Esth. i. 14, 16).

MAM'ZER, a Hebrew term for bastard. They were not to be admitted to the church to the tenth generation (Deut. xxiii. 2).

MAN created to the image of God (Gen. i. 26; ii. 7; Eccles. xvii. 1; Job x. 8; Ps. cxviii. 73; James iii. 9); created just and upright (Eccles. vii. 30); created immortal (Wis. ii. 23); cursed after his sin (Gen. iii. 17); blessed in Christ (xii. 3); he is dust and ashes, and will return to the earth; compared to grass (Gen. iii. 7; Job xxxiii. 6; Ps. lxxxix. 7; Isai. xl. 6); to a tent (Isai. xxxviii. 12; 2 Pet. i. 13); he is in the hands of God like clay in the hands of a potter (Eccles. xxxiii. 13); his nothingness appears in his birth (Wis. vii. 1-3); wherein he is like unto the beasts (Eccles. iii. 19); his thoughts are timid (Wis. ix. 14); he is subject to error (Lev. x. 1; Num. xv. 39; Deut. xii. 8; 1 Kings xv. 9; 2 Kings vi. 6; Prov. xii. 15; xiv. 12; xxi. 2; Isai. v. 21; xiv. 13; lv. 8; Matt. iii. 14; xvi. 22; John xii. 5; xiii. 8); known by his words and actions (Eccles. ix. 27; xxvii. 7; Matt. vii. 16; Luke xi. 33); the duty and authority of man towards his wife (Gen. ii. 23; iii. 16; Num. v. 12-18; xxx. 7-13; Deut. xx. 7; xxiv. 1, 5; Prov. v. 18; xviii. 22; xxxi. 10; Eccles. ix. 9; Eccles. vii. 26; ix. 1; xv. 2; xxvi. 3; Mal. ii. 14, 16; 1 Cor. vii.; Eph. v. 22; Col. iii. 18; Tit. ii. 4; 1 Tim. ii. 11; 1 Pet. iii. 1); man must be born again in order to enter the kingdom of heaven (Matt. xviii. 3; John iii. 3; 1 Cor. iv. 15; Gal. iv. 19; Eph. iv. 22; Col. iii. 9).

MAN OF GOD. One who prophesied against Jeroboam (3 Kings xiii. 1-10); he ate and drank when God had forbidden him (18), and is killed by a lion (24); the prophet buries him (30); Josias spares his sepulchre (4 Kings xxiii. 18).

MAN'AHEN, son of Gadi, sixteenth king of Israel. He attacked and killed Sellum, who had slain Zacharias and usurped the throne, 771 B. C. He destroyed all the towns from Thapsa to Thersa, because they would not acknowledge him. He taxed his people very heavily in order to pay the tribute exacted by Phul, king of Assyria. He reigned ten years wickedly at Samaria (4 Kings xv. 14-22; 1 Paral. v. 26; Osee v. 13).

MAN'AHEN, foster-brother of Herod (Antipas) the tetrarch. He was one of the prophets at Antioch to whom the Holy Ghost revealed the mission of Saul and Barnabas (Acts xiii. 1, 2).

MANAS'SES, eldest son of Joseph (Gen. xli. 51; xlv. 20); adopted by Jacob (xlviii. 5); Joseph tried to place Jacob's hand on the head of Manasses (17-19); Jacob's prophecy as to Manasses (19, 20).

MANAS'SES, tribe of, one of the twelve tribes of Israel. On going out of Egypt, its prince was Gamaliel, son of Phadassur (Num. i. 10); his fighting men numbered 32,200 (ii. 20); at Settim 52,700 (xxvi. 34); they marched on the west side. They made their offerings the eighth day (vii. 54); Moses assigned to Gad, Ruben, and the half-tribe of Manasses the kingdoms of the Amorrites, or Galaad, and Basan, east of the Jordan (xxxii. 33), and they took host of heaven and an idol of the grove (Astarthe). He had his son passed through fire in honor of Moloch, and had recourse to all kinds of magic and superstition. He was cruel, and shed innocent blood (4 Kings xxi. 16); God by his prophets foretold the judgments to come on Juda and Jerusalem (10-15); Isaias is generally believed to have been one of these prophets, and to have been sawed in two by order of Manasses. In 676 B. C. the king of Assyria sent an army which carried Manasses a prisoner to Babylon (2 Paral. xxxiii. 11, 12). There he repented and prayed, and did penance. He was restored to his kingdom and abolished idolatry, doing much to restore the worship of the true God (12-17); his penitent prayer and the acts of his reign were written down by Hozai (19). He restored the walls of Jerusalem, and died after a reign of fifty-five years (4 Kings xxi. 18; 2 Paral. xxxiii. 20).

MANAS'SES, husband of Judith, died of a sunstroke at Bethulia (Judith viii. 2, 3).

MAN'DRAKE, a plant to which important powers were ascribed. Ruben finds some, and obtains a favor for his mother (Gen. xxx. 14).

MA'NE, one of the three Chaldean words that appeared on the wall at Baltassar's feast (Dan. v. 25).

MAN'GER. Our Lord laid in a manger at Bethlehem (Luke ii. 7, 12).

MAN HU, Hebrew word, meaning "What is this?" used by the Israelites on seeing manna, whence the name (Ex. xvi. 15).

MANIL'US, TITUS, Roman ambassador to the Jews 163 B. C. (2 Mach. xi. 34-38).

MAN'NA, or MAN, the food with which God nourished the children of Israel in the deserts of Arabia for forty years after the eighth encampment. The manna began to fall on Friday, the sixteenth day of the second month, 1491 B. C., and continued to fall till they crossed the Jordan, 1451 B. C. It was small, of the color of bdellium (Num. xi. 7); it had to be gathered early (Ex. xvi.

THE VIRGIN AND CHILD.

possession (39-42; Jos. xiii. 29); Josue allots lands to the other half-tribe, west of the Jordan (Jos. xvii. 1-18); Gedeon, of the tribe of Manasses, delivers Israel from the Madianites (Judg. vi.); carried into captivity (4 Kings xv. 29; xvii. 6); some remained, who ate the Pasch proclaimed by king Ezechias, but not according to the law (2 Paral. xxx. 18); carried away captive with the rest of Israel (4 Kings xvii. 6).

MANAS'SES, son of Ezechias and of Haphsiba, and king of Juda, began to reign 698 B. C. (4 Kings xx. 21; xxi. 1; 2 Paral. xxxiii.) He plunged into every form of idolatry, restoring the old Chanaanite worship, setting up altars to Baal, groves and high-places, and in the very temple he set up altars to the 21), a gomor for each person, and if more were gathered it measured no more (18); it was beaten or ground, then boiled and made into cakes (Num. xi. 8); if kept over for any day but the Sabbath, it swarmed with worms (Ex. xvi. 20); the book of Wisdom calls it "the food of angels, bread from heaven, prepared without labor, having in it all that is delicious, and the sweetness of every taste" (Wis. xvi. 20); it ceased after they ate the corn of the Promised Land (Jos. v. 12). Our Lord cites it as a figure of the Holy Eucharist (John vi. 31-35, 48-59); and St. John calls the Eucharist "a hidden manna" (Apoc. ii. 17).

MANU'E, of Saraa, in the tribe of Dan, father of Samson. An angel appeared to his wife, and promised her a son, who was to be a Nazarite (Judg. xiii. 2-7); at Manue's prayer the angel reappeared, Manue offered a kid in sacrifice, and the angel ascended in the flame of the altar (8-20).

MA'ON, a city in the southern part of the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 55). Nabal dwelt near it, and David spent a long time in those parts.

MA'OZIM, a god whom Daniel foretold Antiochus was to worship (Dan. xi. 38, 39); together with a strange god whom his fathers knew not.

MA'RA, or bitterness. The first camp of the Israelites in the desert of Etham; Moses sweetened the waters with wood (Ex. xv. 23; Num. xxxiii. 8).

MA'RA, a name adopted by Noemi (Ruth 20).

MARAI'OTH, son of Achitob, and high-priest (1 Par. ix. 11; 1 Esd. vii. 3).

MARANA'THA (The Lord cometh), an anathema or menace among the Jews (1 Cor. xvi. 22).

MARDOCHAI, son of Jair, of the race of Saul and tribe of Benjamin. He was taken to Babylon with king Jeconias by Nabuchodonosor, 599 B. C. (Esd. ii. 5, 6), and is identified by some with the one in 1 Esd. ii. 2. On the deposition of Vashti, Mardochai's niece Esther was selected by Assuerus as his queen. While at the palace door Mardochai heard a plot formed by two eunuchs against the king's life. He gave information, and the conspirators were put to death (Esd. ii. 21); but he received no reward. Aman became the king's favorite and received the highest honors, but all was as nothing because Mardochai did not do him reverence. In revenge he obtained of the king an edict for a general massacre of the Jews. Mardochai urged Esther to ask the king to recall it. Meanwhile, the king, while sleepless, had the chronicle of his reign read to him. When they came to Mardochai's service, he asked what reward had been bestowed on him. Finding that none had, he summoned Aman and asked what should be done to the man whom the king wished to honor. Aman thinking it to be himself, said that he should be clothed in the royal robes and be led through the city splendidly mounted, his horse held by the highest noble. The king bade him do all this for Mardochai. Esther inviting the king to a banquet, confessed her origin and her relationship to Mardochai. She pleaded for her people, the edict was revoked, and Aman hung on the gibbet he had prepared for Mardochai (Esd. vii.-xii.) The book of Esther is usually ascribed to Mardochai.

MARE'SA, a city of the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv.

MARK, ST., Gospel of, one of the canonical books of the New Testament (Mark).

MAR'RIAGE, instituted by God (Gen. i. 27; ii. 21-24); it is indissoluble (Gen. ii. 21; Matt. v. 32; xix. 7; 1 Cor. vii. 10); Mosaic law regarding marriage (Lev. xviii. 6); the brother in certain cases to marry the widow of his deceased brother (Deut. xxv. 5, 10); or the nearest kinsman if no brother survived (Ruth iii. 12; iv. 4-10); law for marriage of daughters inheriting on failure of sons (Num. xxxvi. 3, 4); form of marrying a captive woman (Deut. xxi. 13, 14); question of the Sadducees as to marriage (Mark xii. 18); marriage with unbelievers forbidden (Ex. xxxiv. 16; 2 Cor. vi. 14); holy virginity superior to marriage (1 Cor. vii. 27-40); but marriage not sinful (vii. 28, 36); those who forbade marriage condemned as heretics (1 Tim. iv. 3); marriage a figure of the union between Christ and his church (Cant. Eph. v. 32; Apoc. xix. 7).

MAR'RIAGE FEAST AT CANA honored by the presence of Jesus Christ and his first miracle (John ii.); the marriage feast of the Lamb (Apoc. xix. 7, 9); parable of the marriage feast (Matt. xxii. 2-14; Luke xiv. 7); parable of the wise and foolish virgins at the marriage feast (Matt. xxv.)

MAR'THA, sister of Lazarus and Mary, resided at Bethania. She complained to our Lord that Mary sat at his feet listening, while she had all the work to do, but he declared that Mary had chosen the better part (Luke x. 38-42); when Lazarus fell sick, both sisters sent to Jesus (John xi. 3); on his arrival, Martha went forth to meet him (20). She professed her belief in the resurrection (24); and in our Lord as the Christ the Son of God who had come into the world (22, 27). She told Mary of his arrival (28). Martha served at table to our Lord in the house of Simon, the leper (John xii. 2).

MA'RY, sister of Moses, watches him when exposed (Ex. ii. 4); her canticle (xv. 20); murmurs, and is struck with leprosy (Num. xii. 1-10; Deut.

MARY AND HER DIVINE SON, IN CHRISTIAN ART

44); scene of Asa's victory over Zara (2 Par. xiv. 9); birthplace of Micheas (Mich. i. 15).

MARK, ST., one of the four evangelists. He was a disciple of St. Peter (1 Pet. v. 13); he is believed to have accompanied the apostle to Rome, and to have written his gospel there. According to tradition, he was put to death at Alexandria, in Egypt, in the year 68.

xxiv. 9); Moses prays for her and she is cured after seven days (Num. xii. 13-15); a prophetess (Ex. xv.

i. 14); declared to be blessed by the angel Gabriel (Luke i. 28); by St. Elizabeth (42, 45); by a pious woman (Luke xi. 27); she declares that all generations shall call her blessed (i. 48); as seen by St. John in the Apocalypse (xii. 1).

MA'RY, the sister of Lazarus, and Martha, at Bethania. She sat at the feet of Jesus (Luke x. 39); commended (42); sends for our Lord when Lazarus was sick (John xi. 3); beloved by our Lord (5); falls at the feet of Jesus (32); anoints his head and feet and wipes them with her hair (xii. 3; Matt. xxvi. 7); her memory to be preserved (Matt. xxvi. 13).

MA'RY, wife of Zebedee and mother of James and John (Matt. xxvii. 56); called also Salome (Mark xv. 40).

MA'RY, mother of John Mark. Her house was a place where the apostles and the faithful assembled (Acts xii. 12).

MA'RY of Cleophas (John xix. 25), supposed to be the mother of James the Less, Joseph, Simon and Jude (Matt. xiii. 55; xxvii. 56; Mark vi. 3);

she followed our Lord to Calvary (John xix. 25), and prepared spices to embalm his body (Luke xxiii. 56); visits the sepulchre and learns that he is risen (Luke xxiv. 1); our Lord appears to her and the other women (Matt. xxviii. 9).

MA'RY, a convert who labored for the faith at Rome (Rom. xvi. 6).

MA'RY MAG'DALEN. See MAGDALEN.

MAS'AL, a city in the tribe of Aser, assigned to the Levites of the family of Gerson (Jos. xxi. 30; 1 Paral. vi. 74).

MASER'EPHOTH, the waters of, near Sidon. Josue pursued the Chanaanite kings to them (Jos. xi. 8; xiii. 6).

MAS'EPHA, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 38).

MAS'PHA, in the mountains of Galaad, in the tribe of Gad. Laban and Jacob make a covenant there (Gen. xxxi. 49); Jephthe resided there (Judg. xi. 11, 29, 34); the Moabites were in possession of a place called Maspha (1 Kings xxii. 3).

MAS'PHA, a district at the foot of Mount Hermon, inhabited by the Hevites (Jos. xi. 3, 8).

MAS'SA, seventh son of Ismael (Gen. xxv. 14).

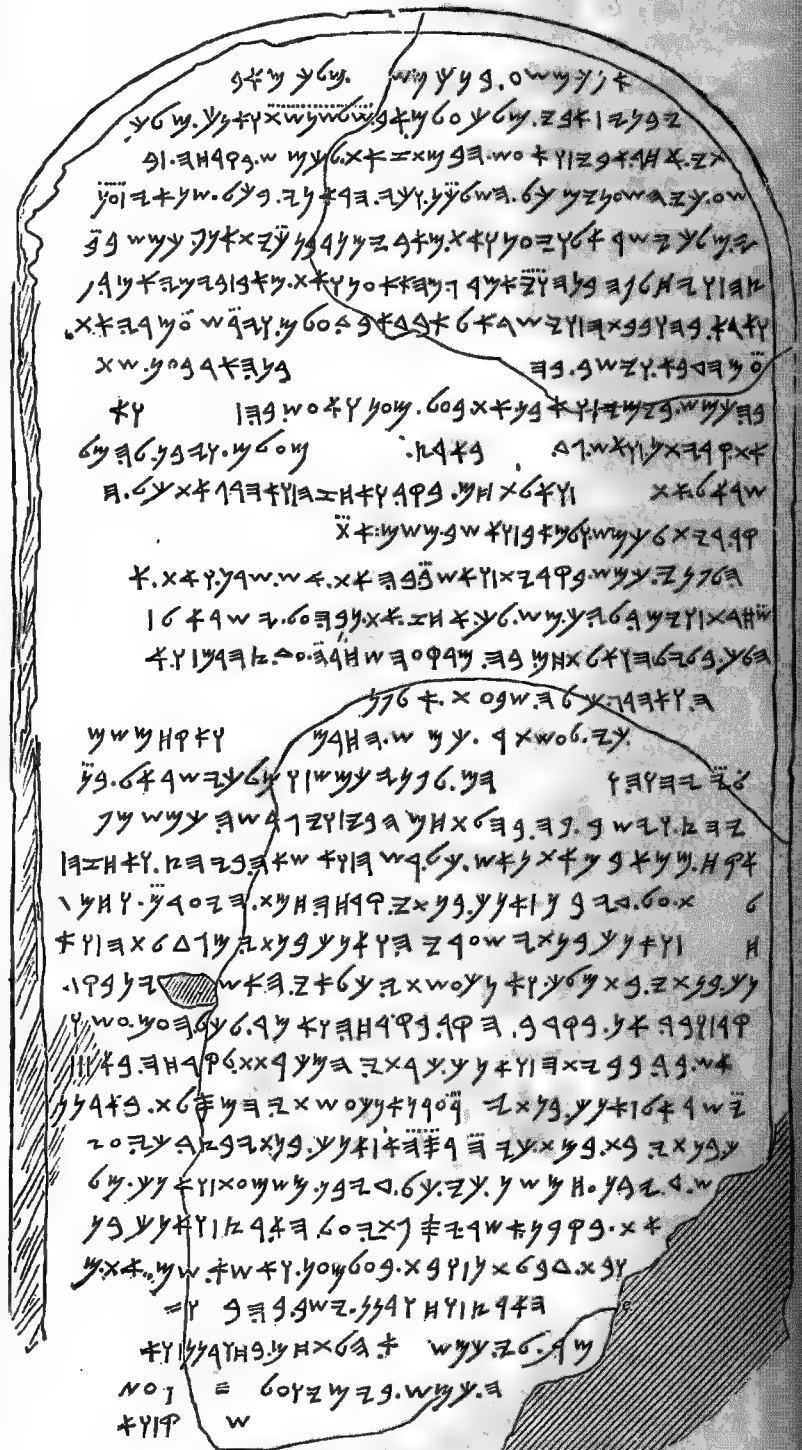

MASS. The holy sacrifice of the mass foretold in the Old Testament (Lev. xxvi. 9-12; Ps. xxii. 5; cix. 4; Isai. ii. 3; xix. 19; lvi. 7; lxi. 6; lxvi. 20; Jerem. xxxi. 31; xxxiii. 18; Dan. xii. 11; Am. ix. 11; Mal. i. 11); it is shown under various figures (Gen. xiv. 18; xv. 9; xxii. 13; Ex. xvi. 5, 24; xxv. 30; xxix. 2, 15; Lev. ii. 11; 1 Kings xxi. 4; 3 Kings xix. 6; 4 Kings iv. 41; Dan. viii. 12); it is called the continual sacrifice (Dan. xi. 31; xii. 11); there shall always be priests to offer it (Jerem. xxxiii. 18, 21); it is instituted by Jesus Christ (Matt. xxvi. 26-30; Mark xiv. 22-26; Luke xxii. 17-20; 1 Cor. xi. 24); the place of offering is an altar (1 Heb. xiii. 10; 1 Cor. ix. 13).

THE THREE MARYS AT THE SEPULCHRE.

20; Mich. vi. 4). She died at Cades in the desert of Sin, and was buried there (Num. xx. 1).

MA'RY, mother of God, foretold and prefigured (Gen. iii. 15; Ps. xlv. 11; xlv. 5; lxxxiv. 2; lxxxvi. 3; cxxxi. 8; Prov. xxxi. 10, 29; Cant.; Eccles. xxiv. 7; Isai. vii. 14; xi. 1; xix. 1; xlv. 8; Jer. xxxi. 22); called the mother of our Lord (Luke i. 43); the mother of Jesus (Matt. ii. 13; John ii. 3); the angel Gabriel sent to her to announce that she is to be the mother of the Messiah by the action of the Holy Ghost (Luke i. 26); her love of holy virginity (34); her humility and obedience to the will of God (38); she learns of Elizabeth's miraculous pregnancy (36, 37), and proceeds to visit her (39, 40); at her coming, John the Baptist leaps in his mother's womb, and Elizabeth is filled with the Holy Ghost, and recognizes her as mother of her Lord, her wonder that she should visit her (41-45); Mary's canticle, the Magnificat (46-55); she remained three months with Elizabeth and returned to her own home in Nazareth (i. 26-56); Joseph relieved by an angel from his anxiety as to Mary (Matt. i. 18-25); she sets out with him for Bethlehem to be enrolled according to the decree of Cesar Augustus (Luke ii. 4, 5); she gives birth to our Lord in a stable at Bethlehem (Matt. i. 16; Luke ii. 7); she kept in her heart all that the shepherds told (Luke ii. 19); the wise men find Jesus with Mary, his mother (Matt. ii. 11); she presents him in the temple (Luke ii. 22); Simeon foretells her sufferings (34); by the warning of an angel she flees to Egypt with Joseph and the infant Saviour (Matt. ii. 20); returns to Nazareth after the death of Herod (23); she loses her divine Son and finds him in the temple with the doctors of the law (Luke ii. 42-51); at the marriage feast of Cana in Galilee (John ii. 1); followed him in his ministry (Mark iii. 31; Luke viii. 19); at the foot of the cross (John xix. 25) St. John given to her as a son (xxvi. 26); she remains with that apostle (27); receives the Holy Ghost with the apostles (Acts

THE MOABITE STONE.

MASSO'RA, a Hebrew word meaning tradition. It is applied to the traditional reading of the Hebrew, and to the vowel points, accents, and punctuation introduced by Massoretic scholars.

MAS'TER and MIS'TRESS. Their authority and duty in regard to servants (Ex. xx. 10; xxi. 2, 20, 26; Lev. xxv. 48; Deut. v. 14, 21; Job xxxi. 13; Prov. xxix. 19; Jerem. xxxiv. 9, 14; Eccclus. ii. 22; xxxiii. 31; Eph. vi. 9; Col. iv. 1); masters, though wicked, to be obeyed (Matt. xxiii. 3; 1 Pet. ii. 18).

MAS'TIC TREE (Dan. xiii. 54).

MAT'HAN, priest of Baal, slain at his altar by order of the high-priest Joiada (4 Kings xi. 18).

MAT'HAN, son of Eleazar and father of Jacob (Matt. i. 15).

MATH'AT, son of Levi and father of Heli, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Luke iii. 23).

MATHA'TA, son of Nathan (Luke iii. 31).

MATHATHI'AS, sixth son of Idithun of the race of Core, head of the fourteenth family of Levites (1 Paral. xxv. 3).

MATHATHI'AS, son of John of the family of Jojarib. When Apollonius came to Jerusalem with the impious orders of Antiochus, he retired to Modin (1 Mach. ii. 1); the envoys of the king having reached Modin to establish idolatry, Mathathias protested, and slew a Jew who went to offer incense to an idol, and with him the king's officer (1 Mach. ii. 23-25). He overturned the altar and called on the faithful to follow him. He retired to the mountains with his five sons, John, Simon, Judas Machabeus, Eleazar, and Jonathan. Attacked by the idolaters on the sabbath day, they were massacred, not wishing to fight on that day (ii. 38); Mathathias then gathered the Assideans, punished idolaters, destroyed altars, and circumcised the people (45, 46); after beginning the war of liberation, he blessed his sons, exhorted them to observe the law (1 Mach. ii. 49-68), and died at Modin, 161 B. C. (1 Mach. ii. 69).

MATHU'SALA, son of Henoch (Gen. v. 22); he dies at the age of 969 years (27).

MAT'RIMONY, a sacrament (Eph. v. 22).

MATTHEW, ST., apostle and evangelist, called also Levi; was son of Alpheus (Mark ii. 14; Luke vii. 27); and a publican or tax-gatherer (Mark ii. 14). He was at his duties when our Lord called him (Matt. ix. 9; Mark ii. 14; Luke v. 27). He invited our Lord to his house, where Christ rebuked the Pharisees (Matt. ix. 10, etc.). The prevailing opinion is that he preached among the Parthians and died by martyrdom.

MATTHEW, Gospel of St., one of the canonical books of the New Testament, written by St. Matthew, and containing the earliest life of our Lord. It is by some said to have been written in Syriac, and by others in Greek (Matt.).

MATTHIAS, ST., apostle. He was one of those who had followed our Lord from his baptism by St. John (Acts i. 21, 22); after the ascension he was chosen to take the place of Judas Iscariot (23-26). He is supposed to have preached and died in Colchis.

MEAL, multiplied by the prophet Elias (3 Kings xvii. 16).

MEASURE (Metreta), (2 Par. ii. 10; iv. 5; John ii. 6).

MEASURE. With the same measure that men shall mete withal, it shall be measured to them again (Ex. xxi. 23; Judg. i. 7; 1 Kings xv. 33; 2 Kings xxii. 25; Prov. xxii. 23; Isai. xxxiii. 1; lxxv. 6; lxxvi. 4; Jer. l. 15, 29; li. 49; Ezech. xvi. 59; Joel iii. 7; Luke vi. 38); measures and weights must be just (Lev. xix. 35; Deut. xxv. 13; Prov. xvi. 11; xx. 10; Ezech. xlv. 10; Mich. vi. 11; Am. viii. 5).

ME'DAD and EL'DAD, two men whom God filled with his Spirit to aid Moses in governing his people (Num. xi. 26-30).

MEDES. The ten tribes of Israel removed as captives to the country of the Medes (4 Kings xvii. 6; xviii. 11; Tob. i. 16; v. 14); the Medes conquer Babylon (Dan. v. 31; Isai. xlii. 17, 18).

ME'DIA, the country of the Medes (Jerem. li. 28; 1 Mach. vi. 56; xiv. 1); Arsaces, king of Media and Persia (1 Mach. xiv. 2).

MEEK'NESS commended (Eccclus. i. 35; Matt. v. 4; Gal. vi. 1; Eph. iv. 2; Col. iii. 12; Tit. iii. 2); especially to ministers of the Lord (2 Tim. ii. 25); mildness is one of the fruits of the Holy Ghost (Gal. v. 23); we are taught meekness by the example of Josue (Jos. vii. 19); of David (1 Kings xxv. 32; 2 Kings xvi. 10); of our Lord (Matt. xi. 29).

MEGIL'LOTH, a name applied by the Jews to Ecclesiastes, Canticle of Canticles, Lamentations, Ruth, and Esther.

MEL'CHA, daughter of Aram, and sister of Lot. She married Nachor; her children were Hus, Buz, Camuel, Cased, Azau, Pheldas, Jedlaph, and Bathuel (Gen. xxii. 20; xxiv. 15).

MEL'CHI, son of Addi, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Luke iii. 28).

MEL'CHIAS, head of the fifth of the twenty-four priestly families (1 Paral. xxiv. 9).

MEL'CHIAS, son of Herem, aided in building the walls of Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 11).

MEL'CHIAS, son of Rechab, built the Gate of the Dung-hill at Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 14).

MEL'CHIAS, son of a goldsmith, built part of the wall of Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 30, 31).

MEL'CHIAS, son of Amelech. Jeremias is cast into the dungeon of Melchias (Jerem. xxxviii. 6).

MELCHIS'EDECH, king of Salem, and priest of the Most High God (Gen. xiv. 18); his genealogy is not given (Heb. vii. 1); when Abraham pursued and defeated the kings who had carried off Lot and his goods (Gen. xiv. 17-19) Melchisedech met him in the vale of Save, bringing forth bread and wine, for he was the priest of God; he blessed Abraham and gave him tithes (18-20); a figure of Christ (Ps. cix. 4; Heb. vii. 1).

MELCHISU'A, third son of Saul, slain with his father at Gelboe (1 Kings xxxi. 2).

MEL'CHOM, god of the Ammonites (4 Kings xxiii. 13; Sophon. i. 5).

MEL'ITA, same as Malta (Acts xxviii. 1).

MEL'LO, a city near Sichem; the people of these two places made Abimelech, son of Gedeon, king (Judg. ix. 6, 20).

MEM'MIUS, QUINTUS, one of the Roman ambassadors to king Antiochus Eupator, wrote to the Jews, ratifying all the acts of Lysias (2 Mach. xi. 34-36).

MEMPHIS, a city of Egypt. The princes of Memphis deceive Egypt (Isai. xix. 13); Jews resided there in the time of Jeremias (xlv. 1; xlv. 14; Osee ix. 6); its destruction foretold (Jerem. xlv. 19; Ezech. xxx. 16); God will destroy its idols (Ezech. xxx. 13).

MEN'ELAUS, son of Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, succeeded Jason as high-priest, 172 B. C., by usurpation and bribery. He betrayed his country and religion (2 Mach. iv. 24); and was put to death by Antiochus, 162 B. C. (xiii. 4-8).

MEN'NA, son of Mathatha, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Luke iii. 31).

MEN'NI, a kingdom invited to war on Babylon (Jer. li. 27).

MEPH'AATH, a city in the tribe of Ruben, given to the Levites of the house of Merari (Jos. xiii. 18; xxi. 36).

MERAI'OTH, son of Zariaas, one of the high-priests (1 Paral. vi. 6).

MER'CURY, a god worshipped by the Greeks and Romans as the god of commerce. Paul was taken for this deity by the men of Lystra (Acts xiv. 11).

MER'CY. We must show mercy to our neighbor (1 Kings xv. 6; 2 Paral. xxviii. 9, 15; Ps. cxi. 5, 8; Prov. xiv. 21, 22, 31; Osee vi. 11; Mich. vi. 8; Zach. vii. 9; Matt. v. 7; ix. 13; xii. 7; xxiii. 23; xxv. 42; Luke vi. 36; Rom. xii. 13; Gal. vi. 16; Col. iii. 12; 1 Tim. v. 10).

MER'IBBAAL, son of Jonathan, more generally called Miphiboseth (1 Paral. viii. 34; ix. 40; 2 Kings iv. 4).

MER'OB or MICHOL, eldest daughter of Saul, promised to David but given to Hadriel, son of Bezellai of Molathi (1 Kings xiv. 49; xviii. 17, 19); her six sons were crucified by the Gabaonites (2 Kings xxi. 8).

MER'ODACH, an ancient king of Babylon, worshipped as a god (Jer. l. 2).

MER'ODACH BALADAN, king of Babylon, hearing of the recovery of king Ezechias, sent to congratulate him (Isai. xxxix. 1).

MER'OM, waters of, Jabin and the other kings of Chanaan assembled here to resist Josue (Jos. xi. 5).

MER'OME, a district where the children of Zabulon and Nephthali exposed their lives (Judg. v. 18).

MER'OZ, a place near the torrent of Cison. The people of this place would not aid their brethren in the battle against Sisara, and were cursed (Judg. v. 23).

MER'RHA, a mercantile town or country (Bar. iii. 23).

MES or MOS'OCH, fourth son of Aram (Gen. x. 23; 1 Paral. i. 17).

ME'SA, king of the Moabites, rich in flocks. He paid a tribute of one thousand lambs and as many rams (4 Kings iii. 4). He revolted against Joram, king of Israel. Joram, with Josaphat, king of Juda, and the king of Edom, besieged him in his capital. Mesa offered his son in sacrifice on the wall, when they retired (iii. 5-27; 1 Paral. ii. 42).

MESOPOTA'MIA, a province between the Euphrates and Tigrus. It is famous in Scripture. Phaleg, Heber, Thare, Abraham, Nachor, Sara, Rebecca, Lia, Rachel, and the sons of Jacob were born there (Gen. xi.-xxx.).

MES'RAIM, son of Cham (Gen. x. 6); his descendants settled in Egypt.

MESSI'AS. He is promised to Adam (Gen. iii. 15); to Abraham (xii. 3; xxi. 12; xxii. 18); he is to have a precursor (Mal. iii. 1); his birth of a virgin announced (Isai. vii. 14; Jerem. xxxi. 22); the time of his coming revealed to Daniel (Dan. ix. 24); the place of his birth designated (Mich. v. 2; Matt. ii. 6); his reign described (Jer. xxiii. 5); he is to enter the second temple (Agg. ii. 8; Mal. iii. 1); he is to abide among men (Isai. xii. 6); he is to be rejected by his people (xlix. 7, 9); he is called Jesus or Saviour (Matt. i. 21, 25); Christ, or the Anointed (Matt. xxvi. 68; John i. 41; iv. 25; vii. 41; xi. 27; Acts xvii. 3; xviii. 28); he is the Lamb of God (John i. 29, 36).

METH'CA, encampment of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 28, 29).

MEZ'UZOTH, name given by the Jews to Deut. vi. 4-9, written on parchment, and hung on the doors or worn.

MI'CHAEI, an archangel, fights against Satan for the people of God (Dan. x. 13; xii. 1; Jude 9; Apoc. xii. 7).

MI'CHAS, son of a widow of Ephraim, made a silver ephod, and set it up in his house, making his son priest, and afterwards a Levite. The tribe of Dan carried off idols and priest, and the worship was established at Laish or Dan. Jonathan, grandson of Moses, became priest. This idolatry continued till the fall of the kingdom of Israel (Judg. xvii. xviii.).

MICH'EAS, son of Jemla, a prophet, summoned before Achab and Josaphat (3 Kings xxii. 10; 2 Paral. xviii. 12); he announces their defeat (3 Kings xxii. 17; 2 Paral. xviii. 16); struck on the cheek by Sedecias (3 Kings xxii. 24; 2 Paral. xviii. 23); Achab orders him to be imprisoned; his prophecy fulfilled (2 Kings xxii. 26-28; 2 Paral. xviii. 25-28).

MICH'EAS of Morasthi, one of the twelve minor prophets. He prophesied in the days of Joathan, Achaz, and Ezechias, kings of Juda, and was a cotemporary of Isaias, using similar language (Isai. ii. 2; Mich. iv.; Isai. xxvi. 21; Mich. i. 3).

MILETUS.

MICH'EAS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament, containing the prophecies of Micheas of Morasthi. He foretold the destruction of the ten tribes, and the destruction of Jerusalem. He foretold the coming of the Messiah, his birth at Bethlehem, and the establishment of the church (Mich.).

MI'CHOL, daughter of Saul, promised to David (1 Kings xviii. 21); given to him in marriage (xviii. 27); saves him from Saul's anger by letting him down from a window and placing a figure in his bed (xix. 12); Saul afterward gave her as a wife to Phalti or Phaltiel (xxv. 44); David demands her from Ishobeth, and she was restored to him (2 Kings iii. 13-16); she ridiculed David dancing before the ark of the covenant, and remains childless (vi. 16-23).

MID'WIVES, their courage saves the children of the Hebrews (Ex. i. 17).

MILE'TUS, a city of Ionia, St. Paul at (Acts xx. 15, 17); Trophimus left sick at (2 Tim. iv. 20).

MIL'ITARY MUSTERINGS among the Jews (Judg. vii. 1, 24; xii. 1; xix. 29; 1 Kings xi. 7, 9).

MIN'ISTERS OF THE GOSPEL, what is due them (1 Cor. iv.).

MIPHIB'OSETH, son of Jonathan and grandson of Saul (2 Kings iv. 4); David favors him on account of his father (ix. 7); a cripple (3, 13); his servant Siba calumniates him to David (xvi. 3); he alone of Saul's family escaped a violent death; he is called also Meribbaal (1 Paral. ix. 40); he justifies himself before David (2 Kings xix. 24-30).

MIR'ACLES, signs, prodigies, wonders decreed by God from all eternity, coeval with the laws of nature, and executed in time, to show his power, authority, or goodness. Moses works miracles to prove his mission (Ex. iv. 3, 9); he afflicts Egypt by a miracle with a series of plagues (vii.-ix., xiv.); he leads the Israelites through the Red Sea (xiv. 21); causes water to issue from a rock (xvii. 6).

MIR'ACLES OF ELIAS. He raises to life the son of the widow of Sarephta (3 Kings xvii. 17-24); draws down fire from heaven on his holocaust which he had soaked with water (xviii. 34-38); obtains rain (41-45); draws down fire from heaven on officers sent to arrest him (4 Kings i. 10); divides the water of Jordan and passes over on dry ground (ii. 8).

MIR'ACLES OF ELISE'US. He sweetens the waters of Jericho (4 Kings ii. 19-22); draws vengeance on disrespectful children (23, 24); multiplies the widow's oil (iv. 2-7); raises to life the child of the Sunamitess (iv. 18-37); cures Naaman's leprosy (v. 1-14); punishes Giezi's avarice and falsehood by leprosy (27); blinds the Syrians (vi. 18); his relics raise a dead man to life (xiii. 21).

MIR'ACLES OF JESUS CHRIST. He changes water into wine at the marriage feast of Cana in Galilee (John ii. 1-10); cures the sick and crippled (Matt. iv. 24; viii. 16; ix. 35; xi. 2; xiv. 14; xv. 30; Mark i. 34; vi. 5; Luke iv. 40; v. 15; vi. 18; ix. 11); cures the possessed (Matt. iv. 24; viii. 16;

Mark i. 26-29; iii. 23; Luke iv. 41; vi. 18; xi. 15); the deaf, dumb, and blind (Matt. xi. 5; xv. 30); cleansed lepers (Matt. xi. 5; viii. 2; Mark i. 40; Luke v. 12). He heals the centurion's servant (Matt. viii. 5; Luke vii. 2); the mother-in-law of Peter (Matt. viii. 14); he stills the tempest on the Sea of Galilee (Matt. viii. 26; Mark iv. 39; Luke viii. 24); cures a possessed man and allows the devils to enter swine (Matt. viii. 28; Mark v. 1; Luke viii. 27); he heals a paralytic (Matt. ix. 1; Mark ii. 3; Luke v. 18); cures the woman suffering from an issue of blood (Matt. ix. 20; Mark v. 25; Luke viii. 43); raises to life the ruler's daughter (Matt. ix. 22; Mark v. 22; Luke viii. 41); heals two blind men (Matt. ix. 27); a dumb man possessed (Matt. ix. 32; Luke xi. 14); feeds five thousand people with five loaves and two fishes (Matt. xiv. 17; Mark vi. 35; Luke ix. 12; John vi. 5); he walks on the water (Matt. xiv. 26; Mark vi. 48); he heals the daughter of the woman of Chanaan (Matt. xv. 22; Mark vii. 24); he cures a deaf mute (Matt. ix. 32; Mark vii. 32; Luke xi. 14); feeds four thousand persons with seven loaves and a few fishes (Matt. xv. 34; Mark viii. 5); cures a blind man (Mark viii. 22); a deaf and dumb man possessed (Matt. xvii. 14; Mark ix. 16; Luke ix. 37);

St. Peter by his direction obtains money from a fish (Matt. xvii. 26); he cures Bartimeus of blindness (Matt. xx. 30; Mark x. 46; Luke xviii. 35); he curses the barren fig tree and causes it to wither (Matt. xxi. 19; Mark xi. 13); he raises to life the son of the widow of Naim (Luke vii. 11); he heals a woman bent by infirmity for eighteen years (Luke xiii. 11); he cures a person of dropsy (Luke xiv. 2); he cleanses ten lepers (Luke xvii. 12); he restores the ear of Malchus which St. Peter had cut off (Luke xxii. 51); he gives sight to a man blind from birth (John ix. 6); he raises Lazarus to life (John xi. 44); he gives Peter and John a miraculous draught of fishes (xxi. 6); he strikes Saul with blindness (Acts ix. 8).

MIR'ACLES OF THE APOSTLES and Disciples of our Lord. Jesus Christ confers on them the power to work miracles (Matt. x. 1; Mark iii. 15; xvi. 17; Luke ix. 1); St. Peter and St. John cure a lame man at the Beautiful Gate (Acts iii. 1); St. Peter cures Eneas (ix. 33); he raises Tabitha to life (ix. 36); he cures many (Acts v. 12); he cures the sick by his shadow (15); St. Paul raises a young man to life (Acts xx. 9, 10); he heals a cripple (xiv. 9); works more than common miracles (xix. 11); cures the sick and possessed by handkerchiefs and aprons from his body (xix. 12); unharmed by the sting of a poisonous serpent; he cures Publius and all the sick of Melita (Acts xxviii. 5-9); strikes Elymas blind (Acts xiii. 6-11).

MIR'ACLES asked and refused (Mark viii. 11; Luke xxiii. 8).

MIR'ROR. The women of Israel give their mirrors (King James has absurdly looking-glasses) to make the laver of brass (Ex. xxxviii. 8). Wisdom is the unspotted mirror of God's majesty (Wisd. vii. 26). Looking-glass (Isai. lli. 23) and glass (1 Cor. xiii. 12; James i. 23) should also be mirror.

MI'SACH (Dan. iii. 12), or Misael (i. 7), one of the three companions of Daniel, the former being the Chaldean name given him. He was one of the three cast into the fiery furnace. See ANANIAS.

MIS'ERIES of human life (Job vii.; xiv.); they are the consequences of sin (Gen. iii. 16-19); described (Wisd. vii. 3; Eccles. iii. 19; ix. 3; Prov. xlii. 21; Eccles. iii. 29).

MI'SOR, a city in the tribe of Ruben, given to the Levites of the family of Merari (Jos. xxi. 36); supposed to be Mephaath (1 Paral. vi. 78, 79).

MIS'PHAT, the fountain of Misphat, "the same as that of Cades" (Gen. xiv. 7). It is the same as the Water of Contradiction (Num. xx. 13).

MITE (Latin minutum), a coin, value 1½ cents. The widow throws her mites into the treasury (Luke xxi. 2).

MI'TRE, worn by Aaron (Ex. xxix. 6; Eccles. xlv. 14), and his sons (Ex. xxix. 9; xxxix. 26, 30; Lev. viii. 13).

MITHRIDA'TES, the son of Gazabar. Cyrus delivered the vessels of the temple to prince Sassabasar, by the hand of Mithridates (1 Esd. i. 8).

MITHRIDA'TES. Beselam Mithridates writes against the Jews (1 Esd. iv. 7).

MITYLENE, capital of the island of Lesbos, visited by St. Paul on his way from Corinth to Jerusalem, A. D. 58 (Acts xx. 14).

MNA, fifteen sicles make a mna (Ezech. xlv. 12); the word is translated pound (3 Kings x. 17, etc.).

MO'AB, son of Lot and his eldest daughter (Gen. xix. 31-37).

MO'AB, the country of the Moabites, beyond the Jordan and the Dead Sea, on the banks of the river Arnon; prophecies against it (Num. xxi. 29; xxiv. 17; Ps. lix. 10; cvii. 10; Isai. xv. 1-9; Jerem. xlviii. 1; Ezech. xxv. 8; Amos ii. 1; Soph. ii. 8).

MO'ABITES, a people descended from Moab, son of Lot. The Amorrites conquer part of their country (Judg. xi. 13), which Moses conquered and gave to the tribe of Ruben. Moses spared the Moabites, and the Israelites were forbidden to attack them (Deut. ii. 9); Balac bribes Balaam to curse the Israelites (Num. xxii. 5; xxiii.); excluded from the temple (Deut. xxiii. 3); under Eglon they oppress the Israelites (Judg. iii. 12); David makes them tributary (2 Kings viii. 2); under Mesa they shake off the yoke of the kings of Israel (4 Kings i. 1; iii. 5); delivered into the hands of Israel (4 Kings iii. 24); make incursion into the land of Israel (xiii. 20); excluded from dignities (Deut. xxiii. 3; 2 Esd. xiii. 1); Ruth, a Moabitess (Ruth).

MO'DIN, a city in the tribe of Dan, on a mountain of the same name. It was the residence of Mathathias (1 Mach. ii. 1); near the sea (xiii. 29); Judas wins a victory near Modin (2 Mach. xiii. 9-14); the tombs of the Machabees at (1 Mach. ii. 70; ix. 19; xiii. 25, 30; xiv. 4).

MO'LOCH, god of the Ammonites (Lev. xviii. 21; xx. 2); called also in some places Melchom (4 Kings xxiii. 13; 1 Paral. xx. 2; Jer. xlix. 1; Amos i. 15; Soph. i. 5); the Israelites forbidden to consecrate their children to Moloch (Lev. xviii. 21; xx. 2-5); children were sacrificed to it (4 Kings xvii. 31; Ps. cv. 37; Isai. lvii. 5; Ezech. xvi. 21; xxiii. 39); David captured a rich crown used on the idol (1 Paral. xx. 2).

MON' EY struck in Judea (1 Mach. xv. 6); silver weighed passed as money (Gen. xxiii. 15, 16; xxxvii. 28; xliii. 21; xxiv. 22).

MOLOCH.

MONTHS of the Jewish year: Nizan or Abib (Ex. xiii. 4; 2 Esd. ii. 1), corresponding nearly to

March; Zio (April), (3 Kings vi. 1); Sivan (May), (Bar. i. 8); Thammuz (June); Ab (July); Elul afterwards when endeavoring to prevent two of his countrymen from quarreling, he was reproached with

MOSES' ROD CHANGED TO A SERPENT.

(August), (1 Mach. xiv. 27); Ethaniam (September), (3 Kings viii. 2); Bul (October), (3 Kings vi. 38); Casleu (November), (2 Esd. i. 1; 2 Mach. i. 9); Thebat (December); Sebat (January); Adar (February), (Esther iii. 7; 1 Mach. vii. 43).

MORI'A, a mountain on which Solomon's temple was built (2 Paral. iii. 1).

MORTIFICA'TION of the flesh inculcated (Rom. vi. 12; viii. 12; Gal. v. 16; Eph. iv. 22; Col. iii. 5; Tit. ii. 12; 1 Pet. ii. 1; iv. 6; Heb. xii. 1; 1 Cor. ix. 27).

MO'SA, son of Caleb (1 Paral. ii. 46).

MO'SA, son of Zamri, descendant of Jonathan (1 Paral. viii. 37; ix. 42, 43).

MO'SEL, a city mentioned by Ezechiel (xxvii. 19).

MOS'ERA, an encampment of the Israelites near Mount Hor, where Aaron died (Deut. x. 6).

MOS'EROTH, an encampment of the Israelites (Num. xxxiii. 30).

MO'SOCH, sixth son of Japheth (Gen. x. 2).

MO'SES, son of Amram and Jochabed, of the tribe of Levi, was born in Egypt, 1571 B. C. His sister Mary and his brother Aaron were older than he. Some time before his birth Pharaoh, king of Egypt, ordered all male Hebrew children to be killed at their birth (Ex. i. 16); his mother concealed him for three months (ii. 2); and then placed him in a basket of bulrushes and laid it in the river Nile. The daughter of Pharaoh going to bathe saw the child, and compassionately resolved to adopt it. A Hebrew woman was called to nurse it, and was really Jochabed herself (9); the princess after three months took him and gave him the name Moses, and he was brought up at court and instructed in all the wisdom of the Egyptians (Acts vii. 20-22); when he was forty years old he slew an Egyptian who was oppressing an Israelite (Ex. ii. 11, 12; Acts vii. 23, 24);

the death of the Egyptian (Ex. ii. 13, 14; Acts vii. 26-28); Moses then fled to Madian, and after defending the daughters of Raguel or Jethro, a priest, remained with him and married his daughter Sephora, who bore him two sons, Gersam and Eliczer (Ex. ii. 22); God appeared to him in a burning bush on Mount Horeb, and commanded him to assemble the ancients of Israel, and go with them to the king of Egypt and demand the release of his people (Ex. iii.); God gave him miraculous powers, and associated Aaron with him (Ex. iv.); Pharaoh refused to let the Israelites go, and oppressed them more grievously (Ex. v.); on which Moses smote Egypt with nine plagues, and finally with the death of their first-born (Ex. vii.-xii.); the Israelites escaped by observing the rite of the paschal lamb then instituted (Ex. xii.); he then led the Israelites out of Egypt after they had been there 430 years (xii. 40), to return to the land of Chanaan which God promised them (Ex. iii. 8; xiii. 5); he led them by the way of the desert, God showing the way by day in a pillar of cloud and by night in a pillar of fire (xiii. 18, 21); Pharaoh pursued them and overtook them at the Red Sea, which divided when Moses stretched forth his hand, allowing the children of Israel to pass through, but overwhelmed the Egyptian army when it followed (Ex. xiv.); Moses composed and sang a canticle to praise God (xv.); the people murmured for food, and God sent quails, also manna, a food which lasted for forty years (xvi.); when they murmured for water at Raphidim, Moses struck the rock and water came forth, but as he showed doubt, God declared that he should not enter the promised land (Ex. xvii.; Num. xx.); the Amalecites attacked them here but were defeated by the prayer of Moses (xvii. 8-14); Jethro here brought to Moses Sephora and her children (xviii. 5); Moses appointed judges over the people (25); he went up Mount Sinai, and received from God the ten commandments on two tables of stone and directions for the government of the people, the worship of God and the ministry (Ex. xix.-xxxii.; Levit.

the altars, lavers, and table, as well as the vestments for Aaron and his sons, to be made as God had directed (Ex. xxxvi.-xxxix.; Num. viii.-x.); when the tabernacle was set up God filled it with his majesty (xl.); the people frequently murmured against Moses, and even Aaron and Mary joined, but God justified his servant (Num. xi.-xii.); when they approached the Promised Land, Moses sent spies from each tribe to reconnoitre the land, but they all except Josue and Caleb spoke so strongly against it that the people refused to advance; in consequence the people were condemned to wander in the desert for forty years, and of all who came out of Egypt only Josue and Caleb lived to enter the Promised Land (Num. xiii.; xiv.); Moses condemned Core, Dathan, and Abiron, who rebelled against Aaron, and they were swallowed up alive (Num. xvi.); he defeated Arad, king of Chanaan, at Horma (Num. xxi. 3); Schon, king of the Amorhites, at Jasa (23); Og, king of Basan, at Edrai (33-35); the king of Moab, and the kings of the Madianites (xxii.; xxxi. 8); when the people were bitten by fiery serpents, he set up a brazen serpent, and all who looked on it were cured (Num. xxi. 9); Moses allotted lands to the tribes of Ruben, Gad, and half of Manasses, on the east side of Jordan (Num. xxxii.); he blessed the people, and having seen the Promised Land from Phasga, on Mount Nebo, and died there at the age of 120 (Deut. xxxiii.-xxxiv.); he was buried in the valley of Moab over against fire from heaven (3 Kings xviii.); Eliseus goes to Mount Carmel (4 Kings ii. 25); its beauty a type (Amos i. 2; ix. 3).

MOUNT EPHRAIM (Jos. xxiv. 30; Judges ii. 9; 2 Paral. xix. 4).

MOUNT ENGAD'DI, near the Dead Sea (Jos. xv. 62).

MOUNT GA'AS, in the tribe of Ephraim (Jos. xxiv. 30; Judg. ii. 9).

MOUNT GAR'AZIM, where the Samaritans had their temple.

MOUNT GEL'BOE, in the plain of Jezrael, where Saul and his sons perished in battle (1 Kings xxxi. 1; 1 Paral. x. 1; 2 Kings i. 6).

MOUNT HE'BAL, near Garizim, curses invoked at (Deut. xi. 29; xxvii. 13); Josue built an altar there (Jos. viii. 30).

MOUNT HER'MON, beyond the Jordan, near Libanus (Deut. iii. 8; Jos. xi. 3; xii. 4; xiii. 5; Judg. iii. 3; 1 Paral. v. 23; Ps. lxxxviii.; cxxxii. 3; Cant. iv. 8).

MOUNT HOR, in Edom or Idumea (Num. xx. 22); the Israelites at (xx.; xxi.); Aaron dies there (xxxiii. 38; Deut. xxxii. 50).

MOUNT HO'REB, near Sinai, in Arabia Petraea. God appears to Moses in a burning bush on (Ex. iii. 1; Deut. i. 2); the Israelites at (Ex. xxxiii.; Deut. i., iv., xviii.; 3 Kings viii., xix.); Moses draws water from the rock (Ex. xvii. 6); God makes a covenant with the Jews at (Deut. v. 2); Elias reaches it by miraculous food (3 Kings xix. 8).

MOUNT'AINS OF JUDA, the mountains in the south of their territory tending to Idumea (Luke i. 39, 65).

ANCIENT MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

i.-xxvii.; Deut. i.-xxxii.); during his stay on the mountain the people induced Aaron to make a golden calf, which they worshipped. Moses descending threw down the tables of the law and broke them. Then, at the head of the Levites, he cut his way through the idolaters, killing 23,000 men (Ex. xxxii. 1-28); Moses then hewed two tables, on which God inscribed the commandments (Ex. xxxiv.; Deut. x.);

Phogor (xxxiv. 6); and his burial-place is unknown to man. The archangel Michael disputed with the devil for his body (Jude 9); Moses prayed constantly for his people (Ex. xiv. 15; xvii. 4, 11; xxxii. 11, 13, 31; Num. xi. 2; xiv. 13, 17; xxi. 7; Deut. ix. 18, 26); he is praised (Deut. xxxiv. 7, 8, 10; Eccles. xlv. 1); he appears with Elias at the Transfiguration of our Lord (Matt. xvii. 3); he is the first of the inspired writers, having prepared the Pentateuch, that is, Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy.

MOUNT AB'ARIM, one of a chain of mountains connected with Phasga and Nebo, extending from the mountains of Galaad to the plains of Moab (Num. xxvii. 12-14; Deut. xxxii. 49-52).

MOUNT OF AM'ALECH, in the tribe of Ephraim (Judg. xii. 15).

MOUNT CAL'VARY, the place of our Lord's crucifixion (Matt. xxvii. 33; Mark xv. 22; Luke xxiii. 33; John xix. 17).

MOUNT CAR'MEL, on the Mediterranean, between Dora and Ptolemais, in the tribe of Aser (Jos. xix. 26); Elias confounds the priests of Baal at Mount Carmel by drawing down

THE MUSTARD OF PALESTINE.

MOUNT LIB'ANUS (Deut. i. 7; Jos. i. 4; Judg. iii. 3; 3 Kings iv. 33; 4 Kings xiv. 9; 2 Paral. ii. 8; 1 Esd. iii. 7, etc.) See LIBANUS.

THE MYRTLE.

when he came down his face was radiant with light so that he had to cover it (Ex. xxxiv. 30); he caused the tabernacle, with the Ark of the Covenant, and MOUNT MORI'A, on which the temple was built (2 Paral. iii. 1).

MOUNT NE'BO, part of the mountains of Abarim. Moses died there (Num. xxxii. 3; Deut. xxxiv. 1).

MOUNT OF OL'IVES or OLIVET, near Jerusalem (Zach. xiv. 4); our Lord arrives at (Matt. xxi. 1; Mark xi. 1; Luke xix. 29; John viii. 1); while sitting on he foretells the destruction of Jerusalem (Matt. xxiv. 3; Mark xiii. 3); he passes the night on (Luke xxi. 37); received with hosannas and palms on descending from it (Luke xix. 37); he went to it after the Last Supper (Matt. xxvi. 30; Mark xiv. 26; Luke xxii. 39); ascends to heaven from (Acts i. 12).

MOUNT PHA'LAN, in Arabia Petraea (Gen. xiv. 6; Deut. i. 1).

MOUNT PHAS'GA, beyond the Jordan (Num. xxi. 20; Deut. xxxiv. 1).

MOUNT SEIR or EDOM (Gen. xiv. 6).

MOUNT SEMERON, on which Samaria was built (2 Paral. xiii. 4).

MOUNT SI'NAI, in Arabia Petraea (Deut. xxxiii. 2), where Moses received instructions and the tables of the law from God. Spiritual meaning of (Gal. iv. 24).

MOUNT SI'ON, on which the city of David was built (Deut. iv. 48).

MOUNT THA'BOR, in upper Galilee, north of the Great Plain (Judg. iv. 6); it is generally regarded as the scene of the transfiguration of our Lord; it was in the tribe of Zabulon (Jos. xix. 22; 1 Paral. vi. 77); Barac defeats Sisara there (Judg. iv. 14); referred to (Ps. lxxxviii. 13; Jerem. xvi. 18; Osee v. 1).

MOUNT'AIN, our Lord's sermon on the (Matt. v.-vii.); our Lord is tempted by Satan on a mountain (Matt. iv. 8); he is transfigured on a mountain (Matt. xvii. 1; Mark ix. 1); he retires on a mountain to pray (Matt. xiv. 23; Mark vi. 46; Luke vi. 12); he enters Jerusalem in triumph from Mount Olivet (Luke xix. 37); he is crucified on the mountain (Matt. xxvii. 33; Mark xv. 22; Luke xxiii. 33; John xix. 17); ascends to heaven from a mountain (Acts i. 12).

MOURNING OF EGYPT, a place so called (Gen. l. 11).

MOUSE, MICE, rodent animals, classed as unclean (Lev. xi. 29); Azotus overrun with mice (1 Kings v. 6); the Philistines send to the Israelites golden mice according to the number of their cities in order to be delivered (vi. 18); Israelites compared to mice (Judith xiv. 12); those who ate them to be consumed (Isai. lxvi. 17).

MUR'DER, forbidden, committed, punished (Gen. iv.; ix. 5, 6; xxxvii. 18; Ex. xx. 13; Lev. xxiv. 17; Deut. xix. 11; xxvii. 24; 2 Kings iv. 7, 12; 3 Kings ii. 5; 4 Kings xxi. 16; Prov. vi. 17; xxviii. 17; Ecclus. xxxiv. 27; Lam. iv. 13; Ezech. xi. 6; xxii. 2; xxiv. 6; Osee iv. 2; Matt. xix. 18; xxiii.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, the harp and organ invented (Gen. iv. 21); trumpets used in divine worship (1 Paral. xvi. 42); psalteries, harps, cymbals (xv. 16-21; 2 Paral. xxix. 25; Ps. xxxii. 2; xci. 4; cvii. 3; cl. 3-5); timbrel (Ex. xv. 20; Ps. lxxx. 3); flute, sackbut and symphony (Dan. iii. 5).

MUS'TARD SEED, parable of the (Matt. xiii. 31; Luke xvii. 19; Mark iv. 31); faith as of a mustard seed (Matt. xvii. 19; Luke xvii. 6).

MYRRH, used in sacred oils (Ex. xxx. 23); as a perfume (Esth. ii. 12; Ps. xlv. 9; Cant. i. 12); one of the gifts offered to our Lord by the wise men (Matt. ii. 12); offered to our Lord on the cross (Mark xv. 23); used in embalming him (John xix. 39).

MYRTLE TREES, vision of the (Zach. i. 8).

MYS'IA, a province in Asia Minor. St. Paul preached there (Acts xvi. 7, 8).

MYSTERY of the kingdom of God confided to the apostles only (Matt. xiii. 11; Mark xiv. 11; Luke viii. 10); the apostles made the dispensers of the mysteries of God (1 Cor. iv. 1); the mystery of faith (1 Tim. iii. 9); the mystery of God complete (Apoc. x. 7).

NA'AMA, an Ammonitess, wife of Solomon, and mother of Roboam (3 Kings xiv. 21; 2 Paral. xii. 13).

NA'AMAN, general of the armies of Benadad, king of Syria, highly esteemed, but a leper (4 Kings v.); one of his slaves, a Jewish girl, induces him to go to the prophet Elisha, who bade him bathe seven times in the Jordan. He did it reluctantly, but was cured. He became a worshipper of the one true God. His leprosy passed to Giezi, the prophet's servant, in punishment of his avarice and falsehood (4 Kings v.; Luke iv. 27).

NA'AMATHITE, Sophar, one of Job's friends, is called "the Naamathite," but whether from the name of a tribe or town is unknown (Job ii. 11; xi. 1; xx. 1; xlii. 9).

NA'ARATHA, a city in the tribe of Ephraim (Jos. xvi. 7).

NAA'RIA, fifth son of Sechenias (1 Paral. iii. 22); he was one of the leaders of the 500 Simeonites who extirpated the Amelecites of Mount Seir (iv. 41).

NA'AS, king of the Ammonites, besieged Jabes of Galaad (1 Kings xi. 1), and demanded that every man should put out one eye. They sent for aid to Saul, who by threat of extirpation to all who did not rally to him, raised an army and cut the Ammonite army to pieces (1 Kings xi. 1-11); Naas subsequently SACRED MUSIC AND ITS PATRONESS—SAINT CECILIA.

35; John viii. 44; Rom. xiii. 9; Gal. v. 21); the law permits killing a night robber (Ex. xxii. 2); law as to involuntary killing (Deut. xix. 4; Jos. xx. 3); concealed murders (Deut. xxi. 1).

MUR'MURERS, their guilt and punishment (Ex. xiv. 11; xv. 24; xvi. 2-8; xvii. 3; Num. xi. 1; xii. 1, 9, 10; xiv. 2, 20; xvi. 3; xvii. 13; xx. 2; xxi. 5; Deut. i. 27; Jos. ix. 18; Wisd. i. 11; Matt. xx. 11; Luke xv. 2; xix. 7; John vi. 41; Acts vi. 1; 1 Cor. x. 10; Jude 16).

showed kindness to David (2 Kings x. 2), so that on his death David sent ambassadors to his son Hanon to condole with him (x. 1, 2).

MOUNT NEBO

NA'AS, father of David, Abigail and Sarvia (2 Kings xvii. 25); the same as Isai or Jesse (2 Kings xvii. 25; 1 Par. ii. 13).

NAAS'SON, a place in the tribe of Nephthali (Tob. i. 1).

NAB'AJOTH, oldest son of Ismael (Gen. xxv. 13; xxviii. 9; xxxvi. 3; 1 Par. i. 29; Isai. lx. 7).

NA'BAL, a rich man of the tribe of Juda, and house of Caleb, living in the wilderness of Maon. He refused provisions to David, and escaped David's vengeance by the intercession of Abigail. He died soon after apparently of fright at the danger he had incurred (1 Kings xxv. 2-38).

NA'BO, an idol of the Babylonians (Isai. xlvi. 1; Jerem. xlviii. 1).

NABO.—Assyrian Statue in British Museum.

NA'BOTH, an Israelite of Jezrahel. He refused to sell his vineyard to king Achab. Jezabel had Naboth falsely accused of blasphemy and treason, unjustly condemned and put to death. Achab then seized the vineyard, but Elias denounced the judgments of God on Achab and Jezabel (3 Kings xxi. 1-24).

NAB'UCHODONOSOR (Saosduchin), king of Ninive, defeats Arphaxad, king of the Medes (Judith i. 5); sends Holofernes to reduce the nations to him (ii. 1); his army defeated before Bethulia (xv. 1).

NAB'UCHODONOSOR, king of Babylon. He recon-quered Charcamis from Nechao, king of Egypt, and took Jerusalem, carrying away captive Joakim, whom Nechao had put on the throne (2 Paral.

2); in the second year of his reign he had a mysterious dream, which Daniel, a captive, interpreted (Dan. i. 1-44); Joachim, king of Juda, having revolted, Nabuchodonosor besieged and took Jerusalem, and carried off the king, and all but the poorest of the people, and all the treasures and vessels of the temple, 599 B. C. He left Sedecias as king, but he too revolted, and Nabuchodonosor again besieged the city, and after suspending the siege to meet and defeat Pharaoh, took Jerusalem, and destroyed the city and temple, 588 B. C. (4 Kings xxv. 11; Jerem. xxxix. 10). He reduced Sidon, Moab, Ammon, Edom and Tyre (Jerem. xlviii. xlix.; Ezech. xxvi.; Isai. xiv. 2, 8); he conquered Egypt, 571 B. C. (Ezech. xxix. 17-20); Daniel explained another mysterious dream (Dan. iv. 1); in 569 B. C. he was stricken with insanity, and ate grass like a beast, and was not restored for seven years (Dan. iv. 26-30); on his recovery he erected a golden statue, and cast the three Hebrew children into a fiery furnace for refusing to worship it (Dan. iii.) He died 562 B. C.

NAB'UTHEANS, a tribe in the desert, friendly to the Machabees (1 Mach. v. 25; ix. 35).

NAB'UZARDAN, general of Nabuchodonosor, destroyed the temple and walls of Jerusalem, and carried off the remnant of the people (4 Kings xxv. 8; Jerem. xxxix. 9, 11); on the death of Godolias, he ravaged Judca, and reduced the Ammonites (Jer. lii. 30).

NA'CHON. Oza was struck for his rashness at the floor of Nachon (2 Kings vi. 6).

NA'CHOR, son of Sarug, and father of Thare (Gen. xi. 22).

NA'CHOR, son of Thare (Gen. xi. 27).

NA'DAB, eldest son of Aaron, struck dead for offering fire not taken from the altar, 1490 B. C. (Lev. x. 1-3; Num. iii. 4).

NA'DAB, son of Jeroboam, king of Israel. He reigned two years, B. C. 954-2, and was assassinated by Baasa, at the siege of Gebbethon (3 Kings xiv. 20; xv. 25-28).

NAHA'LIEL, one of the encampments of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxi. 19).

NAHAS'SON, son of Aminadab (Ruth iv. 20); prince of the tribe of Juda on leaving Egypt (Num. i. 7; ii. 3; vii. 12).

NA'HUM, the Elcesite, the seventh of the twelve minor prophets. He was a native of Elcesai or Elcesai, supposed to be a town in Galilee. He prophesied after the captivity of the ten tribes, and foretold the destruction of Ninive.

NA'HUM. One of the canonical books of the Old Testament, containing the prophecies of Nahum (Nah.)

NA'IM, a village in Galilee, near Herson, where our Lord raised to life the widow's son, whom they were carrying to the grave (Luke vii. 11-18).

NA'JOTH, a place near Ramatha. David fled to it from Saul (1 Kings xix. 19); Samuel dwelt there with the sons of the prophets (23).

NA'KED. It is an obligatory work of mercy to clothe them (Isai. lviii. 7; Ezech. xviii. 7; Tob. i. 20; Matt. xxv. 36, 38).

NAME. The name of God to be revered, and not taken in vain (Ex. xx. 7; Deut. v. 11; xxviii. 58; Ps. cx. 9; Mich. iv. 5; 1 Tim. vi. 1).

NAME of Jesus announced by an angel (Matt. i. 21; Luke i. 31); given to him at his circumcision (Matt. i. 25; Luke ii. 21); the power of the name of Jesus (Phil. ii. 9, 10); miracles wrought in the name of Jesus (Acts iii. 6; iv. 10; xix. 13); all our works to be done in the name of (Col. iii. 17); baptism in the name of (Acts viii. 12, 16).

NANE'A, a Persian goddess. Antiochus Epiphanes endeavored to plunder her temple at Elymais, but his emissaries with their leader were entrapped and slain (2 Mach. i. 13-16; 1 Mach. vi. 1-4).

NARCIS'SUS, St. Paul mentions his household as converts (Rom. xvi. 11).

NA'THAN, a prophet; sent to David to prevent his building the temple (2 Kings vii. 4; 1 Paral. xvii. 1); reproves him for his adultery and murder (2 Kings xii. 4); induces David to anoint Solomon as king (3 Kings i.); wrote an account of the reigns of David and Solomon (1 Paral. xxix. 29; 2 Paral. ix. 29; xxxix. 25).

NA'THAN, son of David and Bethsabee (2 Kings v. 14); and father of Mathatha (Luke iii. 31).

NA'THAN, brother of Joel, one of David's bravest warriors (2 Kings xxiii. 36; 1 Paral. xi. 38).

NA'THAN, one of the leading Jews who returned with Esdras from Babylon, and was sent by him to Eddo (1 Esd. viii. 16).

NATHAN'AEL, prince of the tribe of Issachar in the exodus (Num. i. 8; vii. 18).

NATHAN'AEL, fourth son of Jesse, and brother of David (1 Par. ii. 14; 1 Kings xvi. 6, 8, 9).

NATHAN'AEL, a doctor of the law, sent by Josaphat through his kingdom to instruct the people (2 Paral. xvii. 7).

NATHAN'AEL, a disciple of our Lord. Philip told him that they had found the Messias, and our Lord showed his knowledge of him (John i. 45-49); our Lord appeared to him after his resurrection (xxi. 2). Many think him to be the same as Bartholomew, which is only a patronymic name.

NATHANMELECH, eunuch of king Manasses, having charge of the chariots consecrated to the sun (4 Kings xxiii. 11).

NATHIN'ITES, men given by David and the princes for the service of the Levites (1 Esd. viii. 20; ii. 58).

NAZ'ARETH, in Galilee, in the tribe of Zabulon, on the side of Thabor. Here our Lord resided most of his life, from his return from Egypt to the commencement of his public ministry (Luke ii. 51; iv. 16); he preached in the synagogue (iv. 16); the people would not hear him, but attempt to kill him (30). In the inscription placed by Pilate on the cross, he is called of Nazareth (John xix. 19).

NAZ'ARITES, persons bound to God by vows (Gen. xlix. 26; Num. vi. 18-21; Judg. xiii. 5, 7; xvi. 17; Matt. ii. 23; Acts xviii. 18); abstinence practised by them (Judg. xiii. 7; Amos ii. 12; Num. vi. 3).

NEAP'OLIS, a city in Macedonia, visited by St. Paul (Acts xvi. 11).

NEB'AHAAZ, god of the Hivites (4 Kings xvii. 31).

NE'BO, a mountain in Moab where Moses died (Deut. xxxiv. 1).

NECHA'O, king of Egypt, conquered Carchamis, and killed Josias, king of Juda, in battle at Mageddo 610, B. C. (4 Kings xxiii. 29, 30; 2 Paral. xxxv. 20); he deposed Joachaz at Rebla, and made Eliacim king, calling his name Joakim (4 Kings xxiii. 33-35; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 3, 4); he is defeated by Nabuchodonosor (4 Kings xxiv. 7).

NE'HELES'COL, the torrent of the cluster of grapes, the point reached by the spies, and called so from the immense cluster they found (Num. xiii. 25).

NEHEMI'AS, son of Helchias, born at Babylon during the captivity. He was of a priestly family (2 Mach. i. 18, 21; 2 Esd. i. 1; x. 1); he is called Athersatha (1 Esd. ii. 63; 2 Esd. vii. 65); he fasted, prayed, and humbled himself before the Lord to obtain from the king permission to rebuild Jerusalem. King Artaxerxes noticing his sadness, asked the reason, and granted his request. He went to Jerusalem, and finding the people well disposed, showed his authority, and they began to rebuild the walls. Sanaballat, and other enemies of the Jews, endeavored to thwart the plan and kill him; but the work was completed (2 Esd. i.-vi.); the walls and gates were then dedicated, and the Feast of Tabernacles celebrated (viii., xii.); as much of the city within the walls was unoccupied, he drew many into the city, and corrected many abuses (xi.); he compelled those who had married heathen women to dismiss them, provided for the maintenance of the priests, and the observance of the Sabbath, and all the people publicly renewed the covenant with the Lord (ix., x., xiii.); the fire of temple had been hidden in a well; water poured from this by Nehemias on the altar restored the sacred fire (2 Mach. i. 18); he also collected the sacred books (ii. 13, 14); he returned to Babylon to obey the king's orders (2 Esd. v. 14; xiii. 6), but is said to have died at Jerusalem, 424 B. C. The second book of Esdras bears the name of Nehemias, and seems drawn from the commentaries of Nehemias mentioned in 2 Mach. ii. 13.)

NEIGH'BOR. Who is our neighbor? (Luke x. 29); we are to love our neighbor as ourself (Matt. v. 43; xxii. 39; Mark xii. 31; Rom. xiii. 9); he that loveth his neighbor fulfilleth the law (Rom. xiii. 8); we are not to judge our neighbor (James iv. 13).

NEM'ROD, son of Chus, a stout hunter before the Lord (Gen. x. 8, 9); he founded the kingdom of Babylon (x.); it included Arach, Achad, and Chalanne in the land of Sennaar.

NE'OPHYTE, one newly converted, not to be made a bishop (1 Tim. iii. 6).

NE'PHI, or NEPHTHAR, the place where the fire from the altar had been hidden, and whence the water rekindled the fire at the prayer of Nehemias (2 Mach. i. 36).

NEPH'THALI, sixth son of Jacob, born of Bala, Rachel's handmaid (Gen. xxx. 8); his sons were Jasiel, Guni, Jeser, and Sallem (Gen. xli. 24); Jacob, in blessing him, says: Nephthali, a hart let loose and giving words of beauty (Gen. xlix. 21).

NEPH'THALI, the tribe of. On leaving Egypt it numbered 53,400, and at Settim 45,400, men able to bear arms (Num. i. 42, 43; xxvi. 50). Their prince was Ahira, the son of Enan (Num. ii. 29); the Promised Land was viewed by Nahabi, son of and began with a new moon. Sacrifices were appointed for this time (Num. xxviii. 11-15; x. 10; 1 Paral. xxiii. 31; 4 Kings iv. 23; Ezech. xlv. 17; that of the month Tizri was most solemn (Lev. xxiii. 24; Num. xxix. 1); God rejected the new moons on account of their sins (Isai. i. 14); Judith did not fast on the new moons, being holidays (Judith viii. 6).

NEW TESTAMENT, the new covenant in the blood of our Lord, foretold (Jer. xxxiii. 3); Christ the intermediary by his blood (Matt. xxvi. 28; Heb. ix. 15; xii. 24; xiii. 20). The term is used to comprise the collected canonical books since the birth of NAZARETH.

Vapsi (xiii. 15); Moses promised it abundance, and the possession of the sea and the south (Deut. xxxiii. 23); its share in the Promised Land was the sixth lot, on the Jordan, bounded by Zabulon on the south, Aser on the west, and Juda on the east (Jos. xix. 32); they failed to exterminate the Chanaanites (Judg. i. 33); with Zabulon they defeat Jabin's army under Sisara (Judg. iv. 6); they were the first to be carried captives to Assyria (4 Kings xv. 29); Isaias predicted that they should see the light of the Messias (Isai. ix. 1); and our Lord preached frequently in the territory of Nephthali (Matt. iv. 13, 15). See TOBIAS.

NE'REUS, a disciple of St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 15).

NER'GEL, a god of the Cuthites, worshipped at Samaria (4 Kings xvii. 30).

NER'EGEL and SERESER, mentioned among the princes of Babylon (Jer. xxxix. 3, 13).

NE'RO, Roman emperor, some of his household received the faith (Phil. iv. 22). St. Paul appealed to him when arrested in the temple of Jerusalem (Acts xxv. 10-12); and appeared before him (2 Tim. iv. 16, 17). According to tradition, Nero put St. Peter and St. Paul to death.

NES'ROCH, a god of the Assyrians, in whose temple Sennacherib was slain by his own sons (4 Kings xix. 37; Isai. xxxvii. 38).

NET. The parable of the net (Matt. xiii. 47); the net is mentioned in Exodus xxvii. 4; the apostles leave their nets (Matt. iv. 18, 20; Mark i. 18); their nets breaking at the miraculous draught of fish (Luke v. 6).

NETTLES, a stinging plant (Prov. xxiv. 31; Isai. xxxiv. 13; Osee ix. 6).

NEW MOON. The Hebrew months were lunar

Christ, namely, the four gospels, the Acts of the Apostles, Epistles of St. Paul, St. James, St. Peter, St. John, St. Jude, and the Apocalypse.

NICA'NOR, son of Patroclus (2 Mach. viii. 9); commander of the elephants under Antiochus Epiphanes, made governor of Judea (xiv. 12); sent into Judea by Lysias (1 Mach. iii. 38, 39; 2 Mach. viii. 9, 10); but was defeated by Judas with the loss of 9,000 men (2 Mach. viii. 24); Nicanor was sent again about four years later, and endeavored to entrap Judas, but was again routed at Capharsalama (1 Mach. vii. 26-32); he threatened to destroy the temple if Judas was not given up (33-35); being reinforced, he again met Judas at Adarsa, where he was defeated and slain (39-43) 161 B. C.

NICA'NOR, one of the seven deacons appointed at Jerusalem soon after the descent of the Holy Ghost (Acts vi. 5, 6).

NICODE'MUS, a Pharisee and disciple of Christ. He is called by St. John "a ruler of the Jews" (John iii. 1); and by our Lord "a master in Israel" (iii. 10); he came to our Lord by night and was instructed by him (iii. 1-21); when the Pharisees sent ministers to arrest our Lord, Nicodemus protested against judging any one unheard (vii. 50); they asked him whether he was a Galilean (52); after our Lord's crucifixion, he took a mixture of myrrh and aloes and went with Joseph of Arimathea, took down his body, bound it with spices, and laid it in the sepulchre (xix. 39-42).

NICOLA'ITES, early heretics mentioned by St. John (Apoc. ii. 6, 15).

NIC'OLAS, a proselyte (that is, a Gentile converted to Judaism) of Antioch. He was one of the seven deacons chosen at Jerusalem after the descent of the Holy Ghost (Acts vi. 5).

NICOPOLIS, a city of Epirus, where St. Paul passed the winter of A. D. 64, and to which city he summoned Titus (Tit. iii. 12).

NI'GER, surname of Simon, one of the prophets and doctors at Antioch (Acts xiii. 1).

NILE, the famous river of Egypt (Gen. xv. 18; 3 Kings viii. 65; 4 Kings xxiv. 7; Amos ix. 5); Isaiah alludes to its fertilizing the country (xxiii. 3); Josue calls it the troubled river that watereth Egypt overcome with wine (ix. 25); he lived 350 years after the flood, and died at the age of 950 (28, 29); St. Peter calls him a preacher of divine justice (2 Pet. ii. 5); and the son of Sirach praises him (Ecclus. xlv. 17).

NOE'MA, sister of Tubalcain; is one of the four antediluvian women mentioned by name (Gen. iv. 22).

NOE'MI, a Moabitess, widow of Elimelech, and mother-in-law of Ruth (Ruth i. 2-iv. 17).

NOHEST'A, daughter of Elnathan, wife of king Joachim, and mother of king Joachim (4 Kings xxiv. 8).

NOHEST'AN, the name given in the days of king Ezechias to the brasen serpent made by Moses (Num. xxi. 8), and which he destroyed, as it was worshipped (4 Kings xviii. 4).

NO'PHE, a city of the Moabites (Num. xxi. 30).

NO'PHETH, a province (Jos. xvii. 11).

NORTH, a Jewish priest making offerings was required to face the north (Lev. i. 11).

NOV'ELTY. We are to fly novelty, and adhere to the doctrine of the elders (Prov. xxii. 28; Ecclus. viii. 11; Jer. vi. 16; Rom. xvi. 17; Gal. i. 6-8; 1 Tim. vi. 20; 2 Tim. iv. 3; 2 Pet. iii. 17; 1 John ii. 24; 2 John 7; Jude 17-20).

NUMBERING AND GENEALOGY of the descendants of Adam (Gen. v. 1); of the descendants of Sem, Cham and Japheth (x. 1); of Nachor (xxii. 20); of Abraham by Ceturah (xxv. 1); of Ismael (xxv. 12-17); of Jacob and his sons when he went to Egypt (xvi. 8); of the Israelites in Egypt (Ex. i. 1); of the princes of Israel (vi. 14); of the articles intended for the worship of God (xxxix.); of men able to bear arms (Num. i. 1-46); of the tribe of Levi (iii. 1; iv. 2; xxvi. 57); of the heads of families at Mount Sinai (x. 13); of men twenty years old and over (xxvi. 4); of booty taken (xxxi. 26); of kings conquered by the people of God (Jos. xii. 1); of cities captured (xv.); the numbering of the people by David is punished by God (2 Kings xxiv.; 1 Paral. xxi. 5); of Asa's officers and troops (2 Paral. xiv. 8); of the people of the kingdom of Juda carried captive to Babylon (4 Kings xxiv. 14-16; xxv. 11; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 20); of those who returned from Babylon to Jerusalem under Cyrus (1 Esd. ii. 1-62); of those with Esdras under Artaxerxes (viii. 1-16); of those who married heathen women (x. 17, 44); of those who rebuilt the walls of Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 1); of those who returned with Zorobabel (vii. 6); of those who renewed the covenant (ix. 1); of those who settled in Jerusalem (xi. 3); a census of all nations under the Roman sway ordered by Augustus (Luke ii. 2); mysterious numbering of the elect (Apoc. vii. 4-8).

NUM'BERS, canonical book of the Old Testament, one of the five books of Moses (Num.)

NUNC DIMITTIS, the canticle of the holy old man Simeon in the temple at the Presentation of our Lord (Luke ii. 29).

OAK OF WEEPING. Debora, nurse of Rebecca, buried under it (Gen. xxxv. 8); Josue renews the covenant of the people with God under the oak of Sichem (Jos. xxiv. 26); the oak of Basan (Ezech. xxvii. 6).

OATH. Covenant between Isaac and Abimelech bound by oath (Gen. xxvi. 31); the force of an oath (Ex. xxii. 11; Lev. v. 4; vi. 3; Num. xxx. 3; Deut. i. 35; vii. 8; Jos. ii. 17; vi. 22). The oath of the children of Israel at Maspha (Judg. xxi. 1, 18); the breaking of an oath punished (3 Kings viii. 31).

O'BED, son of Booz and Ruth, and grandfather of David (Ruth iv. 21, 22); one of the ancestors of our Lord (Matt. i. 5).

OBE'D'EDOM, son of Idithun, a Levite (1 Paral. xvi. 38); after the death of Oza, David placed the Ark of the Covenant in the house of Obededom (2 Kings vi. 10-12; 1 Paral. xiii. 13); God blessed him with a numerous family (1 Paral. xxvi. 4); Obededom and his sons were appointed doorkeepers of the temple (1 Paral. xv. 18, 21).

OBE'DIENCE to God rewarded (Gen. xii. 4; xvii. 9; xxvi. 5; Ex. i. 17; xix. 5; xx. 6; xxiii. 22, 25; Lev. xx. 22; xxvi. 3; Deut. iv. 40; vii. xi; xiii. 4; xvii. 19; xviii. 15; xxiv. 8; xxvii. 10; xxviii. 1, 12; Jos. xxi. 43; 1 Kings xii. 14; 4 Kings x. 30; 2 Paral. vii. 17; Prov. i. 8, 33; xv. 31; Ecclus. xxxv. 7; Isai. i. 19; xlviii. 18; lv. 2; Jer. vii. 23; xi. 4; xvii. 24; xxxv.; Dan. iii.; 2 Mach. vii. 30; Matt. iv. 19; vii. 24; viii. 21; xv. 3; Luke v. 4; x. 16; John ii. 7; Acts iv. 19; v. 29; Rom. xvi. 19; Phil. ii. 8, 12; 1 Thess. iv. 1; 1 Pet. i. 14; Jam. i. 22).

OBE'DIENCE to superiors (Prov. xxi. 28; xxv. 12; Ecclus. iii. 7; Rom. i. 30; Eph. vi. 1, 5; Coloss. iii. 20, 22; 2 Tim. iii. 2; Heb. xiii. 17). Our Lord's example (Luke ii. 51; Phil. ii. 8).

O'BOL, the twentieth part of the siclo (Ex. xxx. 13).

O'BOTH, one of the encampments of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxi. 10; xxxiii. 43).

OCHO'ZATH, friend of Abimelech, who accompanied him to Isaac (Gen. xxvi. 26).

OCHOZI'AS, king of Juda, son of Joram and Athalia, began to reign 885 B. C., at the age of twenty-two (4 Kings viii. 24) or forty-two (2 Paral. xxii. 2); he was a wicked prince; he joined Joram, king of Israel, in a war against Syria. Joram was wounded in battle, and Ochozias visited him at Jezrahel, when Jehu approached. They went to meet him, and Jehu shot Joram with an arrow. Ochozias fled, but was struck by Jehu's servants and died at Mageddo (4 Kings ix. 21-27; 2 Paral. xxii. 9); Athalia, his mother, killed all his sons but one, and Jehu slew all his brothers' sons (8, 10).

OCHOZI'AS, son of Achab, king of Israel (3 Kings xxii. 40); he served Baal (54); he and Josaphat, king of Juda, built ships in Asiongaber to go to Thar-is (2 Paral. xx. 36); he fell through the lattices of his upper chamber, and sent to consult Beelzebub, the god of Accaron, whether he should recover (4 Kings i. 2); Elias met the messengers and told them that he should die (4); then Ochozias twice sent officers and soldiers, but they were destroyed by fire (9-12); a third officer begged the prophet to spare his life and go with him. Elias went to Ochozias and told him he was to die, and he did, 896 B. C. (13-16).

O'DED, a prophet of the Lord. When Phacee, king of Israel, had slain 120,000 of the people of Juda, and carried away 200,000 as captives to Samaria, Oded reproached him with his cruelty, urged them to

THE NILE AT LUXOR.

(xiii. 3); Jeremias speaks of the troubled water of Egypt (ii. 18). The name Nile is in Isaiah xxiii. 23.

NIN'IVE, a great city of Assyria, built by Assur (Gen. x. 11); it does penance at the preaching of Jonas (Jon. iii. 5); Sennacherib slain in (4 Kings xix. 36; Isai. xxxvii. 37); Nabuchodonosor reigns in (Judith i. 5); the Israelites were taken to as captives (Tob. i.); its destruction or desolation foretold (Tob. xiv. 5; Nah. i.; Soph. ii. 13); on the day of judgment it will condemn the Jews (Matt. xii. 41).

NI'SAN, one of the months of the Jewish year, called in the earlier books Abib; but Nisan in 2 Esd. ii. 1; Esther iii. 7, 12; xi. 2.

NI'TRE, an alkali mentioned (Prov. xxv. 20; Jerem. ii. 22).

NOADI'AS, a false prophet, who endeavored to thwart Nehemias (2 Esd. vi. 14).

NOBE, a priestly city. David here received from Achimelech loaves of proposition and the sword of Goliath (1 Kings xxii. 9; xxi. 1).

NO'DAB aided Ruben, Gad and Manasses against the Agarites (1 Paral. v. 19).

NO'E, son of Lamech, born 2948 B. C. (Gen. v. 28, 29); he begat Sem, Cham, and Japheth (v. 31; vi. 10); in the general wickedness, Noe found grace before the Lord (vi. 8); he was a just and perfect man, and walked with God (9); by God's command he built an ark, and entered it with his wife, his sons and their wives, and a certain number of all animals and birds (vi. 13-22; vii. 1-16); and they were preserved from the deluge which covered the whole earth (vii. 17-24); when the ark rested on the mountains of Armenia, he sent out a raven, and then a dove, but waited for God's direction to leave the ark. His first act was to build an altar, and offer a sacrifice to God (viii. 16-22); God blessed Noe, gave him certain precepts, and established a covenant with him (ix. 1-17); Noe cursed Chanaan, son of Cham, for disrespect to him when unwittingly release the captives. Some of the chief men of Israel seconded him, and the captives were released and clothed and taken back to Jericho, 741 B. C. (2 Paral. xxviii. 6-15).

ODOL'LAM, ODULLAM, the king of Odullam was slain by Josue (Jos. xii. 15); and David fled to the cave of Odollam (1 Kings xxii. 1).

OFFERINGS of Cain and Abel (Gen. iv. 3, 4); of Noe (viii. 20); of Melchisedech (xiv. 18); sin offerings (Ex. xxix. 36); the evening and morning offerings (39, 41; xxx. 7, 8, 20; Num. xxviii. 3-8); offerings made by the people to construct the tabernacle, the Ark of the Covenant, etc. (Ex. xxv. 2, 3; xxx. 12, 16; xxxv. 5-9; Lev. i. 2-15; ii. 1-13; iii. 3-8; iv. 3-28; v. 6-18; vi. 6-26; vii. 3-38; viii. 14, 22; ix. 7-18; xii.; xv.; Num. vii.; xviii.; Deut. xii.; Jos. viii. 31; xii.).

OG, king of Basan; he was the last of the race of giants, his iron bed long preserved in Rabbath measuring nine cubits long and four broad (Deut. iii. 11). When the Israelites had conquered the Amorrites, Og marched with all his people to Edrai, but Moses defeated him, slaying him, his sons, and his people (Num. xxi. 33-35; Deut. xxix. 7; xxxi. 4; Ps. cxxv. 20).

O'HAM, king of Hebron, one of the five who besieged Gabaon; he was defeated, taken, and hanged by Josue (Jos. x. 3-26).

OIL, the purest and clearest oil of olives was to be burned in the sanctuary (Ex. xxvii. 20; Lev. xxiv. 2); oil was used in anointing and consecrating (Ex. xxx. 24; Ex. xl. 11; Lev. viii. 2, 10; xiv. 25); the prophet Elias by a miracle causes the cruse of oil of the widow of Sarephta not to be diminished (3 Kings xvii. 14); Eliseus multiplies the oil of the widow of the prophet (4 Kings iv. 4); in the sacrament of extreme unction, the sick are anointed with oil in the name of the Lord (James v. 14).

OIL OF UNCTION, divine injunctions as to its importance, and the manner of making it (Ex. xxix. 7, 21; xxx. 25, 31; xxxi. 11; xxxv. 15; xl. 9, 11; Lev. viii. 2, 10; x. 7; xxi. 10, 12; Num. iv. 16).

OLIVE FRUIT.

OINT'MENT, use of among the Jews (Ex. xxv., xxx., xxxv., xxxvii., xxxix.; 4 Kings xx. 13; 1 Paral. ix. 30; Judith xvi. 10; Esth. xiv. 2; Ps. cxxxii. 2; Eccles. vii. 2; Ezech. xxiii. 41; Cant. i. 2; Dan. x. 3; Amos vi. 6; Matt. xxvi. 7, 12; Mark xiv. 3; Luke vii. 37; John xi. 2; xii. 3).

OLD MAN. The old man—meaning our sinful life—to be put away (Eph. iv. 22; Col. iii. 9); to be crucified with Christ (Rom. vi. 6).

OL'IVE. The dove let out by Noe brings him a branch of olive (Gen. viii. 11); our Lord on the Mount of Olives (John xviii. 1); the church compared to an olive tree (Rom. xi. 17, 24). See OIL.

OLIVET. Mount Olivet, or of Olives, the scene of the agony of our Lord, and his betrayal, and his seizure by his enemies (Zach. xiv. 4; Matt. xxi. 1; xxiv. 3; xxvi. 30; Mark xi. 1; xiii. 3; Luke xxii. 39; John viii. 1).

OLYM'PIAS, one of the early Christians saluted by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 15).

OLYM'PIAN JOVE, a deity of Greece and Rome. His statue set up in the temple of Jerusalem by Antiochus Epiphanes (2 Mach. vi. 2; 1 Mach. i. 62), where it remained three years, till Judas Machabeus restored the worship of God, 161 B. C. This idol was the abomination of desolation spoken of by Daniel (ix. 27).

O'MAR, second son of Eliphas, and grandson of Esau (Gen. xxxvi. 11, 15).

ONES'IMUS, a Phrygian, slave to Philemon, and subsequently a disciple of St. Paul, who converted him, and sent him back to his master (Philem. 10); he was sent to Colosse (Col. iv. 9).

ONESIPH'ORUS, served the church greatly in Asia, and came to Rome in the year 65, where he found St. Paul in prison and almost forsaken, and relieved him to the best of his power (2 Tim. i. 16-18).

ONI'AS, high-priest of the Jews to whom Arius, king of the Spartans, wrote a letter (1 Mach. xii. 20).

ONI'AS, high-priest of the Jews when Heliodorus was sent by Seleucus to plunder the temple, but was chastised by an angel. He recovered by the prayers of Onias (2 Mach. iii. 1-40); Simon, of the tribe of Benjamin, accused him as a traitor (iv. 2), but Onias went to Antioch and justified himself (4, 5); his brother Jason induced Antiochus, the Illustrious, by money to confer the high-priesthood on him, and did all in his power to introduce idolatry (7-22), till he was set aside for Menelaus, the brother of Simon. That wicked man sold the sacred vessels of the temple, and Onias who was at Antioch rebuked him. Andronicus, at the instigation of Menelaus, lured Onias from his sanctuary by a false oath and slew him (23-34). Antiochus mourned his death and punished his murderer (37, 38); his eulogy (2 Mach. iii. 1, 2).

ON'YCHA, an aromatic (Ex. xxx. 34); said to be a sea-shell.

ON'YX, a precious stone. There was one in the fourth row on the rational of judgment (Ex. xxviii. 20).

OXEN TREADING OUT CORN.

OO'LIAB, son of Achisamech, of the tribe of Dan, appointed with Bes-leel to manufacture the tabernacle and its contents (Ex. xxxv. 34).

OOL'IBA and OOLIA, names employed in Ezechiel to represent the kingdoms of Jerusalem of Juda, and Samaria or Israel (Ezech. xxiii. 4).

OOLIBA'MA, wife of Esau, and daughter of Ana, a Horrite (Gen. xxxvi. 18); she is called Judith (xxvi. 34); she bore three sons, Jehus, Ihe-lon, and Core (xxxvi. 18). Two of her descendants (xxxvi. 25), one of them a duke of Edom, bore the same name (41; 1 Paral. i. 52).

O'PHEL. The wall of Ophel was part of the walls of Jerusalem. Joathan built much on it (2 Paral. xxvii. 3); Manasses built a wall from the Fish-gate to Ophel (xxxiii. 14); after the return from Babylon, the Nathinites dwelt there (2 Esd. iii. 26; xi. 21).

O'PHER, second son of Madian, and grandson of Abraham and Cetura (Gen. xxv. 4).

O'PHER, a city, whose king was slain by Josue (Jos. xii. 17).

OPHIO'MACHUS, a kind of edible locust (Lev. xi. 22).

O'PHIR, one of the sons of Jectan (Gen. x. 29; 1 Paral. i. 23).

O'PHIR, a port or region from which the Jews in the days of Solomon received gold and thynne wood (3 Kings ix. 28; x. 11; xxii. 49; 1 Paral. xxix. 4; 2 Paral. viii. 18; ix. 10).

OPH'NI and PHINEES, sons of Heli, the high-priest, called children of Belial, that is, wicked men (1 Kings ii. 12); they robbed the sacrifices (13-17), and committed sins of impurity in the very temple (22); Heli rebuked, but feebly (23-25); their death foretold (34); both killed in battle by the Philistines (iv. 4, 11, 17).

OR'ACLE, the propitiatory on the Ark of the Covenant (Ex. xxv. 18, 20; xxxvii. 6; xl. 18; Lev.

xvi. 2, 13, 15); in Solomon's temple the term is applied to the inner temple, or holy of holies (3 Kings vi. 5-31; vii. 49; viii. 6, 8; 2 Paral. iii. 6; iv. 20; v. 7, 9). Moses consulted the oracle and God answered him from the propitiatory (Num. vii. 89); David consulted the oracle (2 Kings xxi. 1).

OR'DERS, a sacrament (Luke xxii. 19; John xx. 22; 1 Tim. iv. 14; v. 22; 2 Tim. i. 6; Tit. i. 5).

OR'DINA'TION of priests in the primitive church one of the cares of the apostles (Acts xiv. 22).

O'REB and ZEB, princes of the Madianites. They were taken by the tribe of Ephraim at the fords of the Jordan, while fleeing from Gedeon, and put to death, 1245 B. C. (Judg. vii. 24, 25).

O'RIENT, one of the names of the Messias (Zach. vi. 12; Luke i. 78).

ORIG'INAL SIN, the sin of Adam and Eve xxii. 9; xxxi. 17; Prov. xxiii. 10; Isai. i. 17, 23; James i. 27). They are under the protection of God (Ps. ix. 14, 18; lxvii. 6; cxlv. 9; Prov. xxiii. 10).

ORTHO'SIAS, a sea-port in Phœnicia to which Tryphon fled (1 Mach. xv. 37).

OR'YX, an animal mentioned (Deut. xiv. 5; Isai. li. 20); correctly translated in the Douay, but Chaloner introduced "wild goat" and "wild ox" from the King James.

O'SEE, the original name of Josue (Num. xiii. 9, 17).

O'SEE, son of Beeri, the first of the twelve minor prophets. He prophesied in the kingdom of Israel, in the reign of Jeroboam II., while Ozias, Joathan, Achaz and Ezechias reigned in Juda. He denounced the idolatry and vice of the ten tribes, and foretold their captivity.

Caleb promised his daughter Axa to the man who took Cariathsepher. Othoniel undertook it and succeeded, 1445 B.C. (Jos. xv. 15-17). After Josue's death, the Israelites fell for eight years under the sway of Chusan Rasathaim, king of Mesopotamia, but Othoniel defeated him, and delivered Israel, which enjoyed peace for forty years (Judg. iii. 8-11).

OVERREACHING or CIRCUMVENTING in business forbidden (1 Thes. iv. 6).

OWL, a nocturnal bird, classed as unclean (Lev. xi. 16, 17; Deut. xiv. 15).

OX, OXEN (Gen. xii. 16; xx. 14; xxi. 27, etc.); ox treading out the corn not to be muzzled (Deut. xxv. 4); an ox goring a man to be put to death (Ex. xxi. 28-31); the theft of an ox (xxii. 1); to rest on the Sabbath (xxiii. 12); cut in pieces by Samuel and sent to the tribes (1 Kings xi. 7); sacrifices of (Levit. i. 2; iii. 1; xxii. 19; Num. vii. 23; 2 Kings vi. 13; 3 Kings viii. 63; xviii. 23).

O'ZA, son of Abinadab, drives the cart containing the Ark of the Covenant (2 Kings vi. 3); takes hold of it at the floor of Naclion (6); struck dead (7); the place called the "Striking of Oza" (8).

O'ZI, son of Bocci, high-priest (1 Paral. vi. 5; 1 Esd. vii. 4).

OZI'AS, king of Juda, called also Azarias (4 Kings xv. 1); son of Amasias and Jechelia (2 Paral. xxvi. 1, 3; Matt. i. 9); ascended the throne at the age of sixteen, 900 B. C., and reigned fifty-two years (1 Paral. xxvi. 3); he built Ailath (2), and towers in Jerusalem and the wilderness (9, 10); and towns in the Philistine country (6); he defeated the Philistines, Arabians and Ammonites (7); encouraged agriculture (10); sought the Lord in the days of Zacharias (5); but, under Azarias, attempted to offer incense in the temple and was struck with leprosy and remained so till death, dwelling apart, his son Joatham being regent (4 Kings xv. 5; 2 Paral. xxvi. 4, 16-22); he was buried in the field of the royal sepulchres (23); he is reproached also with not abolishing the high-places (4 Kings xv. 4).

OZI'AS, son of Micha, prince of Juda (Judith viii. 34), and one of the ancients of Bethulia, receives Achior (Judith vi. 19); is rebuked by Judith for setting a time as a limit to God's mercy (viii. 10-27); he approves her plan (28-34); he praises her for her courageous act in killing Holofernes (xiii. 23-25).

O'ZIEL, son of Caath and grandson of Levi (Ex. vi. 18); he was brother to Amram, father of Moses and Aaron (20); his sons were Misael, Elisaphan and Sethri (22); his descendants (Num. iii. 27; 1 Paral. vi. 2).

PAINT'ING the eyes with stibic stone (kohl), a practice among Oriental women (4 Kings ix. 30; Jer. iv. 30; Ezech. xxiii. 40). Some editions of in eating the forbidden fruit (Gen. iii. 6); by reason of it all men are conceived in sin (Job xiv. 4; Ps. l. 7; Rom. v. 12; 1 Cor. xv. 21; Eph. ii. 3); Jeremias sanctified in his mother's womb (Jer. i. 5); St. John the Baptist (Luke i. 41, 44); Mary, mother of God, alone being conceived without sin (Gen. iii. 15).

THE ORACLE OR PROPITIATORY ON THE ARK OF THE COVENANT.

ORI'ON, a constellation mentioned by Job (Job ix. 9); and by Amos (v. 8).

OR'NAN, the Jebusite, owned the threshing-floor over which the angel appeared threatening Jerusalem for David's sin in numbering the people (1 Paral. xxi. 15-26); David bought the spot, and as directed by God, erected an altar there, and offered a sacrifice (2 Kings xxiv. 24). Ornan is also called Areuna. The site was afterwards taken for Solomon's temple.

ORONA'IM, a place in Moab (Isai. xv. 5).

OR'PHA, a Moabitess, wife of Chelion, son of Elimelech and Noemi (Ruth i. 4); she remained in the land of Moab (14).

OR'PHANS, to be cared for as a work of mercy (Ex. xxii. 22; Deut. x. 18; xxiv. 17; xxvii. 19; Job

O'SEE, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament, containing the prophecies of Osce (Os.)

O'SEE, son of Ela. He conspired against Phacee, son of Romelia, killed him, and made himself king of Israel, 739 B. C. (4 Kings xv. 30); he was wicked, but not one of the worst (4 Kings xvii.); he sought the aid of Sua, king of Egypt, to throw off the Assyrian yoke, but Salmanasar, after three years' siege, took Samaria, slaughtered the people, and destroyed the city (Osee xiv. 1; Mich. i. 6); the ten tribes were then carried captive to Assyria.

OS'PREY, a bird of prey, forbidden as unclean (Lev. xi. 13; Deut. xiv. 12).

OS'TRICH, a tall bird of the desert, forbidden as unclean (Lev. xi. 16; Deut. xiv. 15). The King James erroneously translates it owl. It is referred to as dwelling in deserts (Job xxx. 29; Isai. xxxiv. 13; xliii. 20); her mode of laying her eggs in the sand and her speed are mentioned (Job xxxix. 13-18); (King James has peacock) (Lam. iv. 3).

OTHO'NIEL, son of Cenez, of the tribe of Juda.

Challoner have incorrectly "paint the face," instead of "the eyes," an error adopted from King James.

PAINT'INGS on the walls among the Chaldeans (Ezech. xxiii. 14).

PAL'ACE OF KING SOLOMON, built in thirteen years (3 Kings vii. 1; ix. 10; x. 4); with a second or inner palace called "the house of the forest of Libanus" (vii. 2-12).

PAL'ESTINE, the country of the Palestines or Philistines (Jerem. xlvii. 1).

PAL'ESTINES, people of Palestine or Philistines (Gen. xxi. 33, 34; xxvi. 1; Ex. xxiii. 31; Amos ix. 7); the Sea of the Palestines (Ex. xxiii. 31).

PALM-TREE OF DEBBORA, where that prophetess judged Israel, between Rama and Bethel, in the mountains of Ephraim (Judg. iv. 5); the just man compared to a palm-tree (Ps. xci. 13); wisdom compared to (Ecclus. xxiv. 18).

PALM-TREES. The children of Israel encamped at Elim, where there were seventy palm-trees (Ex. xv. 27; Num. xxxiii. 9); Jericho called the city of the Palms (Deut. xxxiv. 3; Judg. i. 16; iii. 13; 2 Paral. xxviii. 15); in the decorations of Solomon's temple (3 Kings vi., vii.); in Ezechiel's (Ezech. xl., xli.); branches of palms borne as a sign of joy, and used in the Feast of Tabernacles (2 Esd. viii. 15; 1 Mach. xiii. 51; 2 Mach. x. 7; xiv. 4); the people of Jerusalem receive our Lord with branches of palms (John xii. 13); the elect seen by St. John with palms in their hands (Apoc. vii. 9).

PALM'ER-WORM (Joel i. 4; ii. 25; Amos iv. 9).

PALMI'RA, or PALMYRA, a city in the wilderness built by Solomon (3 Kings ix. 18; 2 Paral. viii. 4). It was in a desert on the confines of Arabia Deserta. It was called Tadmor in Hebrew.

PAL'SY, a disease. Our Lord cured several afflicted with it (Matt. iv. 24; viii. 6; ix. 2; Mark ii. 3; Luke v. 18); the apostle cures several in Samaria (Acts viii. 8); St. Peter cures Eneas (ix. 33).

PAMPHYL'IA, a province in Asia Minor, west of Cilicia and bordering on the Mediterranean (1 Mach. xv. 23); St. Paul and St. Barnabas preached in Pamphylia (Acts xiii. 13; xiv. 23); John Mark left them in Pamphylia (xv. 38); the sea of Pamphylia (xxvii. 5).

PA'PER. The term is used in Tob. vii. 16, 2 John 12, and was writing material made of papyrus or some similar substance.

PA'PHOS, in Cyprus. St. Paul there struck Elymas blind and converted Sergius Paulus (Acts xiii. 7-12).

PAR'ABLES. Apologues used to convey instruction. In the Old Testament: Balaam's (Num. xxiii. 18; xxiv. 5); Joatham's parable of the trees electing a king (Judg. ix. 7-15); Nathan's parable of the one ewe lamb (2 Kings xii. 1-4); that of the woman of Thecua (2 Kings xiv. 5-7); that of the prophet to Achab (3 Kings xx. 39); that of the thistle and the cedar (4 Kings xiv. 9); Isaias' parable of the vineyard (Isai. v. 1-6); Solomon composed three thousand (3 Kings iv. 32).

PAR'ABLES OF OUR LORD. That of the house built on the rock and the house built on sand (Matt. vii. 24; Luke vi. 48); that of the unclean spirit (Matt. xii. 43); the parable of the sower (Matt. xiii. 3; Mark iv. 1; Luke viii. 5); the parable of the good seed and the cockle (Matt. xiii. 24); the kingdom of heaven likened to a mustard-seed (Matt. xiii. 31; Mark iv. 31); to leaven (Matt. xiii. 33); to a hidden treasure (44); to a pearl of great price (45); to a net (47); the parable of the blind leading the blind (Matt. xv. 14; Luke vi. 39); the parable of the lost sheep (Matt. xviii. 12; Luke xv. 4); the parable of the unforgiving servant (Matt. xviii. 23); the parable of the laborers in the vineyard (Matt. xx. 1-16); the parable of the two sons (Matt. xxi. 28-30); the parable of the husbandmen (xxi. 33-41); the parable of the King's marriage-feast for his son (Matt. xxii. 2-14; Luke xiv. 16); the parable of the evil servant (Matt. xxiv. 43-51; Luke xii. 37); parable of the wise and the foolish virgins (Matt. xxv. 1-12); the parable of the talents (Matt. xxv. 14-30; Luke xix. 12-27); the parable of the vineyard and the husbandmen (Mark xii. 1-10; Luke xx. 9-16); the parable of the Good Samaritan (Luke x. 30-37); the parable of the importunate friend (Luke xi. 5-9); the parable of the rich man taken suddenly away (Luke xii. 16-21); the parable of the great supper (Luke xiv. 16-24); parable of the lost groat (Luke xv. 8, 9); the parable of the prodigal son (Luke xv. 11-32); the parable of the unjust steward (Luke xvi. 1-9); parable of the rich man and Lazarus (Luke xvi. 19-31); parable of the unprofitable servants (Luke xvii. 7-10); parable of the unjust judge (Luke xviii. 2-7); the parable of the Pharisee and the publican (Luke xviii. 10-14).

PAR'ACLETE', a Greek word meaning comforter, applied by our Lord to the Holy Ghost (John xiv. 16, 26; xv. 26; xvi. 7).

PAR'ADISE OF PLEASURE, God places man in (Gen. ii. 8); casts Adam and Eve from it (iii. 23, 24); a heavenly paradise promised (Luke xxiii. 43); called by St. Paul the third heaven (2 Cor. xii. 2, 4).

PARALIPOM'ENON or CHRONICLES, two canonical books of the Old Testament, being a supplement to the books of Kings (1 Paral., 2 Paral.).

PAR'ASCEVE', a Greek word meaning preparation, and applied by the Jews to Friday as the day when preparation was made for the Sabbath. Our Lord was crucified on the parasceve of the Pasch (John xix. 11, 31, 41); and St. Matthew calls the next day the day that followed the day of preparation or Parasceve (Matt. xxvii. 62).

PARCH'MENT. Skin dressed for writing material. St. Paul refers to his parchments (2 Tim. iv. 13).

PARD'ON. We are to pardon those who sin against us (Ecclus. xxviii. 8; Matt. v. 23; xviii. 22, 35; Luke xvii. 3; Eph. iv. 32).

PA'RENTS. The duties of parents to their children declared (Gen. xviii. 19; xxi. 19; xxiv. 2; xxv. 6; xxxiv. 4, 30; xlix.; Ex. x. 2; xii. 26; xiii. 14; xxi. 9; Lev. xix. 29; Num. xxx. 6; Deut. iv. 9; vi. 7, 20; xi. 19; xxi. 18; xxii. 15, 19; xxxii. 46; Jos. iv. 21; 1 Kings ii. 23; iii. 13; 3 Kings ii. 1; Tob. i. 10; iv.; x. 13; xiv. 5, 12; Job i. 5; Ps. lxxvii. 5; Prov. i. 8; iv. 1; v. 7; xiii. 1, 24; xix. 18; xx.

7; xxii. 6, 15; xxiii. 13; xxix. 17; Ecclus. iv. 23; vii. 25; viii. 11; xvi. 1; xxv. 10; xxvi. 13; xxx. 1, 11; xxxiii. 22; xlii. 5; Dan. xiii. 3; 1 Mach. ii. 49, 64; 2 Mach. vi. 24, 28; vii. 1-41; Matt. x. 37; Eph. vi. 4; Col. iii. 21; 2 Tim. iii. 15; Tit. ii. 4).

PAR'MENAS, one of the first deacons appointed by the apostles (Acts vi. 5).

PAR'OS. David prepared a great quantity of marble of Paros for the building of the temple (1 Paral. xxix. 2).

PARTH'ANS, people of ancient Persia, mentioned in Acts ii. 9.

PAR'TRIDGE, hatches eggs she does not lay (Jerem. xvii. 11); hunted in the mountains (1 Kings xxvi. 20); caged (Ecclus. xi. 32).

PASCH, a Hebrew word meaning passage, and applied to the greatest holiday of the Jews, instituted to commemorate their deliverance from Egypt when the angel of death passed over their houses sparing their first-born. Its institution, and the eating of the paschal lamb (Ex. xii. 43; xxiii. 15; Lev. xxiii. 5;

THE PALMER-WORM.

Ezech. xlv. 21); it was kept on the tenth day of the first month of the Jewish year (Ex. xii. 18); it was celebrated in the desert (Num. ix. 2-5); regulation as to those unable to eat it from uncleanness (10-12); penalty on those who wilfully neglect it (13); the Pasch kept at Galgal (Jos. v. 10); in the time of Josias, king of Juda (4 Kings xxiii. 21); in the time of king Ezechias (2 Paral. xxx. 1-27); in the time of Esdras (1 Esd. vi. 19); the Pasch celebrated by our Lord, the first time (John ii. 13); the second (v. 1); the third (vi. 4); the last (Matt. xxvi. 17).

PAS'CHAL LAMB, directions as to the mode of eating (Ex. xii. 7-11); it was a figure of our Lord (John i. 36; Apoc. v. 6; xxi. 9, 14, 22, 27; xxii. 3, 14).

PAS'SION, a term applied to the sufferings of our Lord. His passion was foretold by Isaias (Isai. lii. 14; liii. 1-6); foretold by himself (Matt. xx. 18, 19; Mark xiv. 18, 21, 27; Luke ix. 22; xxii. 15, 21, 22; John xiii. 21); passion according to St.

Matthew (Matt. xxvi., xxvii.); according to St. Mark (Mark xiv., xv.); according to St. Luke (Luke xxii., xxiii.); according to St. John (John xviii., xix.)

PAS'TORS. Duties of pastors, teachers, and other superiors, their authority (Ex. xviii. 13; Lev. xxiv. 22; Num. xi. 16, 24; xxv. 4; Deut. i. 13, 17;

x. 1; xiii. 1; xvii. 9; xviii. 8; xix. 11; Acts xx. 28, 31; Rom. ix. 3; xii. 8; xiii. 1; 1 Cor. iv. 14; 2 Cor. xi. 28, 29; Tit. ii. 1; iii. 1; Heb. xiii. 17; 1 Pet. ii. 13).

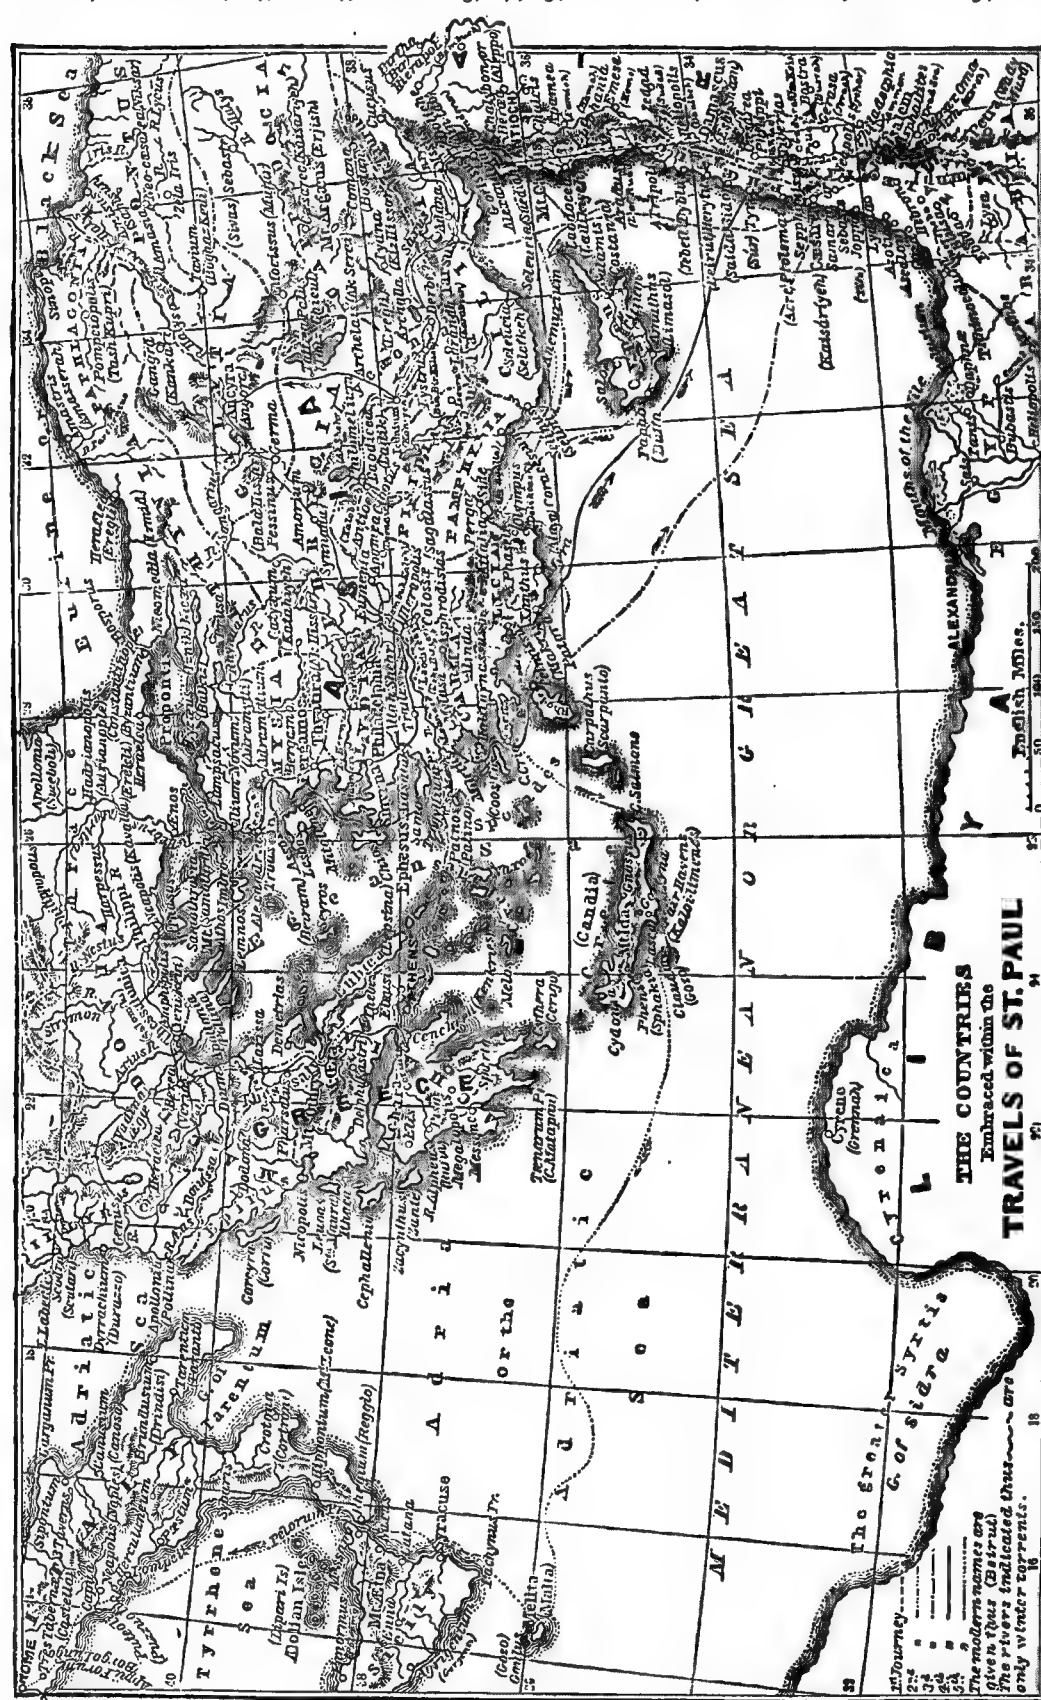

PA'TIENCE OF GOD towards men (Gen. vi. 3; Ex. xxxiv. 6; Num. xiv. 18; Ps. lxxxv. 15; cii. 8;

3; xii. 12; xv. 4; 2 Cor. vi. 4; Gal. v. 22; Eph. iv. 2; 1 Thess. v. 14; 1 Tim. vi. 11; 1 Peter ii. 20; 2 Pet. i. 6; Heb. xi. 25; James v. 7).

PA'TRIARCHS. This name is applied to the heads of families before the time of Moses, who worshipped the true God: Adam, Lamech, Noe, Sem, Phaleg, Heber, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and his twelve sons. (See 1 Paral. viii. 28; Tob. vi. 20; Acts ii. 29; vii. 8, 9; Heb. vii. 4).

PATRO'BAS, a Christian of Rome, saluted by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 14).

PAUL, ST., apostle of the Gentiles. His original name was Saul (Acts vii. 59; ix. 1; xiii. 1); he was of the tribe of Benjamin (Rom. xi. 1; Phil. iii. 5), born at Tarsus in Cilicia, and a Roman citizen by birth (Acts xxii. 3, 28); he was a Pharisee, brought up at the feet of Gamaliel (Acts xxii. 3); at first a fierce persecutor of the church at Jerusalem, dragging away men and women to prison (Acts viii. 3; xxii. 4); he obtained of the high-priest letters to Damascus to do the same there (ix. 2; xxii. 5); near Damascus he was surrounded by a bright light, and fell to the ground, when our Lord asked him, "Why persecutest thou me?" He asked, "Who art thou, Lord?" and was answered, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest." He at once yielded to grace, and was led blind to Damascus (ix. 4-9); Ananias, warned supernaturally, went to him, restored his sight, and baptized him (10-18; xxii. 6-16); he preached at Damascus, visiting Arabia for a time (Gal. i. 17), till the Jews sought his life, when he was let down from the wall in a basket, and he returned to Jerusalem (Acts ix. 20-26; 2 Cor. xi. 33); he labored there among Jews and Gentiles, till he received while in a trance in the temple a special call to the Gentiles (Acts xxii. 21; Rom. xi. 13; xv. 16; Gal. ii. 2, 8; 2 Tim. i. 11); he was then sent to Tarsus, by way of Cesarea (Acts ix. 30); St. Barnabas took him from Tarsus to Antioch, where they converted so many that the disciples were first called Christians (Acts xi. 25, 26); they took the alms of the faithful to Jerusalem in the time of famine (30); the Holy Ghost renews his vocation to the Gentiles (xiii. 2, 4), and he with Barnabas went to Seleucia, and then to Cyprus (4); there he struck blind Elymas, or Barjesu, a magician, who diverted people at Paphos, from the faith (6-11); converted the proconsul Sergius Paulus (7-12); from this time he is called Paul (xiii. 9, 13); he then preached in Perge, in Pamphylia (13), at Antioch, in Pisidia (14-50), at Iconium (xiii. 51-xiv. 5), at Lystra, where he cured a cripple, and where Sts. Barnabas and Paul were taken for Jupiter and Mercury, but where St. Paul was soon after stoned (6-18); at Derbe (19); thence they returned to Perge, and by way of Attalia to Antioch (20-25); they go to Jerusalem to consult the apostles on questions that had arisen (xv. 2); return with the decision of the council of Jerusalem (22, 30); St. Paul and St. Barnabas then separated, St. Paul visiting the churches in Syria and Cilicia to enforce the decree of the council (xv. 41; xvi. 4); at Derbe took Timothy as his associate (xvi. 1-3), and preached in Phrygia, Galatia, and Mysia (xvi. 6, 7); at Troas he was called in a vision to Macedonia (9), and sailed to Samothracia, Neapolis, Philippi (11, 12); converts Lydia (14); delivers a girl from an evil spirit (16-18); he and Silas condemned to be beaten and cast into prison; an earthquake followed, and the keeper was converted; set free by the magistrates (22-40); preaches at Thessalonica, Berea, and at Athens, in the midst of the Areopagus, con-

Jos. i. 10; 1 Kings viii. 11; 3 Kings iii. 9; 2 Paral. xix. 6; Ps. lxxx. 1; Prov. xx. 8; xxvii. 24; xxix. 4; 14; xxxi. 4; Wisd. i. 1; vi.; Eccles. vii. 6; x. 1, 24; Isai. i. 23, 26; x. 1; xxxii. 1; Jerem. xxii. 2; xxvii.; Ezech. xxii. 6, 12; xxxiv. 4; xlv. 9; Osee xiii. 10; Mich. iii. 9; Matt. xviii. 12; xxii. 21; xxiv. 45; John cxliv. 8; Eccles. viii. 12; Wisd. xi. 24; xv. 1; Isai. xxx. 18; Joel ii. 13; Jon. iv. 2; Nah. i. 3; Matt. xviii. 27; Rom. ii. 4; 1 Tim. i. 16; 2 Pet. iii. 9).

PA'TIENCE IN AFFLICTIONS (Gen. xl., xli.; Job ii. 9; vii. 2; Prov. xv. 18; xvi. 32; xxv. 15; Eccles. i. 29; Tob. ii. 12; Matt. v. 39; Rom. v.

verting Dionysius and Damaris (xvii.); preaches at Corinth, residing with Aquila and Priscilla a year and a half (xviii. 1-11); brought before the pro-consul Gallio (12-16); Paul then sailed to Syria, went to Ephesus, Cesarea, and Jerusalem to fulfil a vow (18-22); then to Antioch, Galatia, and Phrygia (23); miracles wrought by him in Ephesus (xix. 11, 12); sends Timothy and Erastus to Macedonia (xix. 22); paganism declines so that Demetrius raises a riot against him (23-40); preaches at Troas, and restores Eutychus to life (xx. 6-12); returns to Jerusalem by way of Assos, Mitylene, Samos, and Miletus, whence he sent for the ancients of the church of Ephesus (13-17); his address to them (18-35); then by way of Coos, Tyre, Ptolemais (xxi. 1-7); stays with St. Philip, the evangelist, one of the seven deacons at Cesarea (8), and is warned by Agabus, the prophet, of his coming imprisonment (10-14); reports to St. James the result of his missions (18); goes to the temple with four men who had a vow on them (26); seized and dragged out of the temple and beaten, but is rescued by the tribune (xxi. 29-37); he addresses the people (xxii. 1-22); the tribune orders him to be scourged, but he claims to be tried as a Roman citizen (24-29); brought before Ananias, the high-priest, and the council (xxii. 30; xxiii. 1, 2); his address (xxiii. 3-6); a plot formed to kill him (12-15); sent by the tribune to the governor Felix, at Cesarea (22-35); accused by Ananias; his defence (xxiv. 1-21); Portius Festus, his successor, asks St. Paul to go to Jerusalem to be tried (xxv. 9); he appeals to Cesar (11); appears before king Agrippa (xxv. 22-xxvi. 32); sent to Rome under Julius, the centurion, sails to Lystra, thence in an Alexandrian ship; at Good Havens, in Crete (xxvii. 1-8); keeping on against St. Paul's advice, they are wrecked on Melita; he is unharmed by the sting of a serpent, cures Publius, and all the sick on the island; after three months' stay, continue the voyage to Syracuse, Rhegium, Puteoli (xxviii. 1-13); reaches Rome, where he is allowed to dwell by himself with a soldier as guard (16); his address to the Jews (17-28); remains two years there (29-31); he wrote from Rome the Epistles to Philemon, to the Colossians, Ephesians, and Philippians (Philem., Col., Eph., Phil.), and also, as is most probable, the Epistle to the Hebrews (Heb. xiii. 24), after the release of Timothy, who joined him in the Epistle to the Philippians (Heb. xiii. 23); he may have carried out his promise to visit the Jewish converts in Palestine (Heb. xiii. 23); but he went to Ephesus, and left St. Timothy there (1 Tim. i. 3); preached in Crete, and made St. Titus bishop (Tit. i. 5), and visited Macedonia, as he had promised (Phil. ii. 24; i. 25, 26); the first Epistle to St. Timothy is supposed to have been written at this time from Macedonia; he wrote an Epistle to Titus, apparently from Nicopolis; he preached at Troas, and left some books and clothes with Carpus (2 Tim. iv. 13); then visited St. Timothy at Ephesus (2 Tim. i. 4), and went to Miletus, where he left Trophimus sick (2 Tim. iv. 20); his various sufferings (2 Cor. xi. 23-27); after this he returned to Rome, where he converted some of Nero's household, and was thrown into prison. Onesiphorus with difficulty found him (2 Tim. i. 16); when he wrote, St. Luke alone was with him (iv. 11); he appeared before Nero (iv. 16, 17); he urged St. Timothy to come to him quickly (8, 21), as he expected to be put to death (6, 7); according to the constant tradition of the church, he was beheaded June 29, A. D. 66, at Rome, and buried on the Ostian way. St. Paul labored with his hands so as to be a burthen to none (Acts xx. 33; 2 Cor. xi. 9, 11; xii. 13; 1 Thess. ii. 9; 2 Thess. iii. 8).

PAUL. Epistles of St. Paul. Fourteen epistles of St. Paul are held by the church as canonical Scriptures of the New Testament—one to the Romans (Rom.); two to the Corinthians (1 Cor.; 2 Cor.); one to the Galatians (Gal.); one to the Ephesians (Eph.); one to the Philippians (Phil.); one to the Colossians (Col.); two to the Thessalonians (1 Thess.; 2 Thess.); two to Timothy (1 Tim.; 2 Tim.); one to Titus (Tit.); one to Philemon (Phil.), and one to the Hebrews, or Jewish Christians in Palestine (Heb.).

PAULUS, SERGIUS, converted by St. Paul at Paphos. He was Roman pro-consul of Cyprus, and styled a prudent man (Acts xiii. 7-12).

PEACE offered to the cities of Chanaan before attacking them (Deut. xx. 10).

PEACE, temporal and spiritual (Gen. xiii. 6, 8; xxvi. 22; xlv. 24; Lev. xxvi. 6; Num. vi. 27; Eccclus. xxv. 2; xxviii. 15; Jer. xxix. 7; Matt. v. 9; Mark ix. 49; Luke xiv. 32; Acts ix. 31; Rom. xii. 18; 1 Cor. xiv. 33; Eph. iv. 3; 2 Tim. ii. 22; 1 Pet. iii. 11; Heb. xii. 14; James iii. 18; Apoc. vi. 4); interior peace between God and those who love him (Isai. ii. 4; ix. 7; xi. 7; lxvi. 12; Osee ii. 14, 20; Mich. iv. 3; Zach. ix. 10; Luke ii. 14; xxiv. 36; John xiv. 17; xvi. 33; xx. 19; Acts x. 36; Rom. v. 1; Eph. ii. 14; Phil. iv. 7); false teachers and worldlings promise peace when there is no peace (Jer. vi. 14; viii. 8-11; xiv. 13; xxiii. 17; Ezech. xiii. 10, 16; Mich. iii. 5; John xiv. 27; 1 Thess. v. 3).

PEACE be to this house, a salutation prescribed by our Lord (Matt. x. 12; Luke x. 5); Peace be to you, a salutation used by our Lord (Luke xxiv. 36; John xx. 21, 26).

PEACE-MAKERS blessed (Matt. v. 9; James iii. 18).

PEACE-OFFERINGS, directions in regard to (Lev. iii. 1; vii. 11); the portion of the priest (28).

PEACOCKS brought by Solomon's ships every three years from Tharsis (3 Kings x. 22; 2 Paral. ix. 21).

PEARL, used in comparison (Prov. xxv. 12); cast not pearls before swine (Matt. vii. 6); the pearl of great price (xiii. 45, 46); worn by women (1 Tim. ii. 9); in the gates of the New Jerusalem (Apoc. xxi. 21).

PEL'ICAN, a bird used in a simile in Ps. ci. 7.

PELU'SIUM, a city called the strength of Egypt, Ezechiel's prophecy against (Ezech. xxx. 15, 16). It is the modern Damietta.

PEN. David compares his tongue to the pen (calamus) of a scrivener (Ps. xlv. 2); Job wishes his words written with an iron pen (stylus) (Job xix. 24); a man's pen (stylus) (Isai. viii. 1); the lying pen of scribes hath wrought falsehood (Jer. viii. 8); the pen of iron with the point of a diamond (xvii. 1).

PEN'ANCE. The penance of Adam (Gen. iii. 17, 23); the Ninevites do penance at the preaching of Jonas (Jon. iii.; Matt. xii. 41); the penance of the Jews under Esdras (1 Esd. iii. 12, 13); penance preached by St. John the Baptist (Matt. iii. 2, 11; Mark i. 4; Luke iii. 3); by our Lord (Luke xiii. 3); baptism of penance (Mark i. 4).

PEN'ANCE and satisfaction for sin (Ps. vi. 7; 2 Cor. vii. 10).

PEN'CIL, a style for writing (4 Kings xxi. 13).

PEN'NY, used in English translations for the Roman silver coin denarius (value fifteen cents) (Matt. xx. 2; Mark vi. 37; xii. 15; Luke xx. 24; John vi. 7; Apoc. vi. 6).

PENTAPOLIS, the five cities of the Plain, Sodom, Gomorrah, Adama, Seboim and Segor (Wisdom x. 6).

PENTATEUCH, the Greek name (meaning five books) commonly applied to the five books written by Moses, Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy. Called "The Book of the Law of Moses" (2 Paral. xxv. 4; 2 Esd. viii. 1); "the book of Moses" (2 Paral. xxxv. 12; 1 Esd. vi. 18; 2 Esd. xiii. 1); "the law of Moses" (1 Esd. vii. 6); "the book of the law of the Lord by the hand of Moses" (2 Paral. xxxiv. 14).

PENTE'COST, a great Jewish feast kept on the fiftieth day after the Pasch, hence its Greek name. It is called the feast of the first-fruits (Ex. xxiii. 16; Lev. xxiii. 15-21); feast of weeks (Ex. xxxiv. 22); Pentecost (2 Mach. xii. 32; Acts ii. 1).

PERFUMES (Ps. xlv. 9; Cant. iv. 11; Prov. xxvii. 9; vii. 17; Isai. iii. 24).

PER'GE, a city of Pamphylia, where St. Paul and St. Barnabas preached (Acts xiii. 14; xiv. 24).

PER'GAMUS, a city of Mysia. Antipas, a faithful witness of Christ, martyred there (Apoc. ii. 13); the Nicolaites there (15); some who advised eating things offered to idols (14); called a place where Satan dwelleth (13); the angel or bishop urged to do penance (16).

PER'JURY, law relating to (Lev. v. 4; xix. 12); committed and punished (3 Kings viii. 31; Jer. vii. 9; Zach. v. 3; Mal. iii. 5; 1 Tim. i. 10); the perjury of Pharaoh (Ex. viii. 8, 15, 28); of Saul (1 Kings xix. 6); of Eupator (1 Mach. vi. 62); of Alcimus (vii. 15, 18); of Demetrius (xi. 53); of Trypho (xiii. 15, 19); of Andronicus (2 Mach. iv. 34); of the people of Joppe (xii. 3).

PERSECUTION. The persecution of Antiochus (2 Mach. vi., vii.); Saul's persecution at Jerusalem (Acts ix. 1; 1 Tim. i. 13); Herod's (Acts xii.); persecutions foretold by our Lord (Luke xxi. 12; Mark xiii. 9).

PERSEP'OLIS, a city of Persia; Antiochus Epiphanes defeated in an attempt to rob the temple (2 Mach. ix. 2).

PERSEVERANCE. The necessity of (1 Paral. xxviii. 7; Job ii. 3; Prov. iv. 13; xxiii. 17; Ezech. xviii. 24; Eccclus. ii. 3; xi. 21; xxv. 5; Matt. x. 22; xv. 22; xxiv. 13; Luke ix. 60; John vi. 65; Acts i. 14; ii. 42; xi. 23; xiii. 43; Heb. iii.; 2 Pet. ii. 20; 1 John ii. 24; Apoc. ii. 16).

PERSIA, a powerful kingdom in Asia. Daniel predicts three kings in Persia, and then a mighty one who shall make war on Greece (Xerxes), (Dan. ix. 2); Antiochus goes to levy tribute in Persia (1 Mach. iii. 31); Antiochus attempts to plunder the temple of Nanea, at Elymais, in Persia (1 Mach. vi. 1, 5, 56; 2 Mach. i. 12-16; ix. 1, 21); Jews led to Persia (i. 19); Nehemias sent by king of Persia (20); Arsaces, king of Persia and Media (1 Mach. xiv. 2). See ELAM.

PER'SIANS, people of Persia (Ezech. xxvii. 10; xxxviii. 5; Judith xvi. 12). See ELAMITES, PARTHIANS.

PER'SIS, a Christian woman of Rome saluted by St. Paul as "the dearly beloved who hath much labored in the Lord" (Rom. xvi. 12).

PERSONS. Respect of persons condemned (Jas. ii. 1; Rom. ii. 11; Col. iii. 25; Eph. vi. 9; 2 Paral. xix. 7).

PESTILENCE sent to punish the sin of David (2 Kings xxiv. 15).

PETER, ST., called originally Simon (Matt. iv. 18; x. 2); Barjona (Matt. xvi. 17), son of John or struction of Jerusalem (Mark xiii. 3, 4); at the Last Supper refuses to let Christ wash his feet (John xiii. 6-10); declares that he will not be scandalized (Matt. xxvi. 33); his denial of Christ foretold (34, 35;

x. 1-48); justifies it (xi. 5-17); arrested by Herod (xii. 3); miraculously delivered (4-19); presides in the council at Jerusalem (xv. 7-29); St. Paul tarried with him fifteen days at Jerusalem (Gal. i. 18); the gospel of the circumcision committed to Peter (ii. 8); addresses an epistle to the faithful in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia (1 Pet. i. 1); and also a second (2 Pet. iii. 1). According to the uninterrupted tradition of the church, he was put to death at Rome, at the same time as St. Paul, to whom he alludes in his second epistle, and he there (2 Pet. i. 14) says that our Lord had signified his approaching death to him. For his primacy, see Matt. x. 2; xvi. 18; Mark iii. 16; Luke vi. 14; his commission to confirm the faith as infallible guide (Luke xxii. 32); as pastor of pastors (John xxi. 17).

PHA'CEE, son of Romelia, king of Israel, kills Phaccia, and usurps his throne, 759 B. C. (4 Kings xv. 25, 27); made war on Jerusalem (Isai. vii. 1; 2 Paral. xxviii. 6); in one day he slew 120,000 men of Juda, and carried away 200,000 women, boys and girls, and immense booty (6-8), but releases his prisoners at the prayer of the prophet Oded (9-15); Theglathphalasar carried off the tribe of Nephthali and many others, and Phacee was slain by Osee, who formed a plot against him, 739 B. C. (4 Kings xv. 29, 30).

ST. PETER SET FREE BY AN ANGEL.

Jona (John i. 42; xxi. 15-17); our Lord bestows on him the surname Cephas (Rock), (John i. 42); a Syriac term, rendered into Greek and made masculine by the word Petros, Peter (Mark iii. 16); whence he is constantly styled Simon Peter (Matt. xvi. 16; Luke vi. 14; ix. 20; John vi. 8, 69; xx. 2, 6); and so styles himself (2 Pet. i. 1); he was a native of Bethsaida, and brother of Andrew (John i. 44); Andrew, a disciple of St. John the Baptist, on the testimony of St. John that Jesus was the Lamb of God, told his brother Simon, "We have found the Messiah," and brought him to Jesus (John i. 29-42); he afterwards called them while casting their nets into the sea (Matt. iv. 18; Mark i. 16); he cured Peter's wife's mother of a fever (Matt. viii. 14, 15; Luke iv. 38, 39); our Lord teaches from his ship (Luke v. 3); after the miraculous draught of fishes, Peter left all and followed him (Luke v. 2-11); the reward promised him (Mark x. 28-30); he names Peter the first of his twelve apostles (Matt. x. 2; Mark iii. 16; Luke vi. 14); walks on the water at the command of Jesus (Matt. xiv. 23-31); asks an explanation of a parable (xv. 15; Mark vii. 17); acknowledges Jesus as the Christ, the Son of the living God, by revelation from the father (Matt. xvi. 16, 17); our Lord blessed him, declared him to be the rock on which he should build his church, and that he would give him the keys of the kingdom of heaven with power to bind and loose (18, 19); rebuked for urging our Lord not to undergo his passion and death (23; Mark viii. 32, 33); his answer at Capharnaum (John vi. 69); witnesses the Transfiguration (Matt. xvii. 1-9; Mark ix. 1-8; Luke ix. 28-36); obtains the tribute-money from a fish (Matt. xvii. 23-26); asks about forgiving injuries (xviii. 21; Luke xvii. 4); asks about the destruction of Jerusalem (Mark xiii. 3, 4); at the Last Supper refuses to let Christ wash his feet (John xiii. 6-10); declares that he will not be scandalized (Matt. xxvi. 33); his denial of Christ foretold (34, 35; Mark xiv. 29, 30); he takes a sword (Luke xxii. 38); with our Lord in the garden of olives (Matt. 36-40); cuts off the ear of Malchus (51; John xviii. 10); denies Christ, is converted, and weeps bitterly (Matt. xxvi. 69-75; Luke xxii. 55-62; John xiii. 37, 38; xviii. 15-27); after the resurrection the holy women directed by the angel to tell St. Peter of it (Mark xvi. 7); Magdalen tells him (John xx. 2); he goes to the sepulchre (Luke xxiv. 12; John xx. 6); our Lord appears to him (Luke xxiv. 34; 1 Cor. xv. 5); at the Sea of Galilee, St. Peter casts himself into the water in order to reach our Lord quickly (John xxi. 7); draws in the net (11); our Lord questions him, and commissions him to feed his sheep and his lambs, and foretells the manner of his death (15-19); Peter inquires in regard to John (21); after the ascension he perseveres with the rest in prayer (Acts i. 13, 14); says that one must be made a witness in the place of Judas (16-22); after the descent of the Holy Ghost preaches (ii. 14-40); three thousand are baptized that received his word (41); Peter and John cure the lame man at the Beautiful Gate (iii. 1-8); addresses the people (12-26); they are apprehended (iv. 1); Peter's address to the high-priest and ancients (8-12); forbidden to speak or teach in the name of Jesus (18); their reply (19, 20); Peter condemns the sin of Ananias and Saphira (v. 1-10); his shadow cures the sick (15); the answer of Peter and the apostles to the high-priest after the angel delivered them from prison (29); Peter and John go to Samaria (viii. 14); Peter's answer to Simon Magus (20-23); Peter healeth Eneas at Lydda (ix. 32-35); raises Tabitha to life at Joppe (36-43); receives Cornelius, the centurion, into the church in consequence of a vision

CRUCIFIXION OF ST. PETER.

PHACE'IA, king of Israel, succeeds his father Manahem, 761 B. C. (4 Kings xv. 23); after a wicked reign of two years, he was killed by his captain Phacee, in Samaria, in the tower of the king's house near Argob (24, 25).

PHAL/TI, son of Raphu, one of the twelve spies sent to view the promised land (Num. xiii. 10).

PHAL/TI or PHALTIEL, son of Lais. Saul gave Michol, David's wife, to him, but David demanded her from Isboseth, and Phalti gave her up with grief (1 Kings xxv. 44; 2 Kings iii. 15).

PHAN'UEL, the name given by Jacob to the place where he wrestled with the angel (Gen. xxxii. 30); a city of the same name was afterwards built there, but Gedeon, after the defeat of the Midianites, destroyed the tower and the people, for refusing to join him (Judges viii. 8, 17); Jeroboam, son of Nabat, rebuilt it (3 Kings xii. 25).

PHA'RAM, king of Jerimoth, ally of Adonibeseck, put to death and hanged by Josue (Jos. x. 3, 24-26).

PHA'RAN, a desert in Arabia Petraea. Codorlahomor ravaged the country up to it (Gen. xiv. 6); Agar fled to it with Ismael (xxi. 21); the Israelites marched to it from Sinai (Num. x. 12); spies sent from it (xiii. 3, 27); Sinai called the mountain of Pharan (Deut. xxxiii. 2; Hab. iii. 3); David retires to it (1 Kings xxv. 1, 2); Adad taken there (3 Kings xi. 18).

PHA'RAO, a name common to several kings of Egypt. The first mentioned in the Bible lived in the days of Abraham; struck with ulcers for carrying off Sara (Gen. xii. 17). The second in the time of Jacob (Gen. xxxix. 1); his dreams interpreted by Joseph (xli. 16, 25); appoints Joseph minister (40); sends the people to Joseph for bread (55); receives Jacob and his sons, and gives them the care of his flocks (xlvii. 6, 7), and the land of Ramesses (11); acquires all the land of Egypt (20, 21); permits Joseph to go to Chanaan to bury his father (1. 6). The third oppresses the children of Israel (Ex. i. 8, 11); orders the male children to be destroyed (22); his daughter saves Moses (ii. 5-10); he seeks to kill Moses (15); refuses to allow the Israelites to depart (v. 2); his hardened conduct punished by a series of plagues (vi.-x.); the death of his firstborn (xii. 29); he allows the Israelites to depart (xii. 31; xiii. 17); and then pursues them (xiv. 5, 6); enters the Red Sea, which closes on him and his army (23-28). The fourth mentioned is the one whose daughter Solomon married (3 Kings iii. 1). The fifth, Pharaoh Necho, conquered Carchemish, killed Josias, king of Judah, and deposed Joachaz, but was defeated by Nabuchodonosor (4 Kings xxiii.-xxiv.; 2 Paral. xxxv.-xxxvi.). Against the sixth, Ephraim, Jeremiah prophesied (Jer. xlv. 30).

PHAR'ATHON, a place in the mountain of Amalec, in the tribe of Ephraim; birthplace of Abdon, judge of Israel, who was buried there (Judg. xii. 15); called Phara (1 Mach. ix. 50).

PHA'RES, son of Juda and Tamar (Gen. xxxviii. 29); his sons were Hesron and Hamul (Num. xxvi. 21).

PHA'RES, one of the words written on the wall during the sacrilegious banquet of Balthasar, and explained by Daniel (Dan. v. 28).

PHAR'ISEE and PUBLICAN, the parable of (Luke xviii. 10); a Pharisee invites Jesus to dine (Luke vii. 36); scandalized that he allows a sinful woman to approach him (39); our Lord proposes a parable to him.

PHAR'ISEES, a strict sect of the Jews, censured by our Lord (Matt. iii. 7; vii. 29; xvi. 6, 11, 12; xxiii.; Luke xi. 42, 43; xii. 1; Mark ii. 18; viii. 15; John viii. 15); conspire against him (Matt. xxvi. 4; Luke xxii. 2; John xi. 47); St. Paul appeals to their doctrinal pride (Acts xxiii. 6).

PHAR'PHAR, one of the rivers of Damascus, referred to by Naaman (4 Kings v. 12).

PHARU'RIM, a locality near the entrance of the temple (4 Kings xxiii. 11).

PHASE (passage), another name for the Pasch (Ex. xii. 11; Lev. xxiii. 5; Num. ix. 2).

PHAS'ERON. The children of Phaseron struck in their tents by Jonathan (1 Mach. ix. 66).

PHAS'GA, a mountain beyond the Jordan in the land of Moab, whence Moses saw the promised land (Deut. iii. 27; xxxiv. 1); Moses dies there (5); Balak builds seven altars on it (Num. xxiii. 14).

PHAS'SUR, son of Emmer, a priest, prince of the house of the Lord, struck Jeremias and put him in prison (Jerem. xx. 1-3); the prophet announced that he would die a captive in Babylon (xxi. 1); Sedecias sent him to Jeremias (xxxviii. 1).

PHATU'RES, a city and district of Egypt (Jer. xlv. 1, 15; Ezech. xxix. 14; xxx. 14).

PHAU, a city in Idumea, of which Adar was king (Gen. xxxvi. 39; 1 Paral. i. 50).

PHE'BE. St. Paul mentions her as in the ministry of the church that is in Cenehre (the port of Corinth) (Rom. xvi. 1); asks the Romans to receive her, as she had assisted many and him also (2).

PHEG'IEL, son of Ochran, prince of the tribe of Aser (Num. vii. 72).

PHEL'ETHI, guards of David (2 Kings viii. 18; xx. 23; 3 Kings i. 38; 1 Paral. xviii. 17).

PHEL'TIAS, son of Banaïas, prince of the people; Ezechiel sees him in a vision, as an announcement of his death (Ezech. xi. 1-4).

PHENENNA, second wife of Elcana (1 Kings i. 1).

PHENICE', a port in the island of Crete. St. Paul advised wintering there (Acts xxvii. 12).

PHER'EZITES, people of the land of Chanaan (Gen. xiii. 7); Josue told the tribe of Ephraim to attack them (Jos. xvii. 15); Solomon subjugated them (3 Kings ix. 20); in the time of Esdras some Jews had married among them (1 Esd. ix. 1).

PHERMES'TA, son of Aman, put to death with his father (Esther ix. 9).

PHESDOM'IM, a place in the tribe of Juda. The Philistines defeated at (1 Paral. xi. 13, 14); the borders of Dommim are mentioned (1 Kings xvii. 1).

PHETE'IA, the nineteenth course of priests (1 Paral. xxiv. 16).

PHET'RUSIM, son of Mizraim (Gen. x. 14).

PHI'COL, general of the army of Abimelech, king of Gerara, in the time of Abraham (Gen. xxi. 22); also in the time of Isaac (xxvi. 26).

PHIGEL'LUS, a disciple who abandoned St. Paul at Rome (2 Tim. i. 15).

PHIH/HAROTH. The children of Israel ordered to encamp over against it (Ex. xiv. 2).

PHILADEL'PHIA, a city of Mysia in Asia Minor. The bishop is praised for his zeal (Apoc. iii. 7, 9).

PHILAR'CHES, a wicked associate of Timotheus, slain in battle by Judas Machabeus (2 Mach. viii. 32).

PHIL'EMON, a rich man of Colosse, converted with his wife Appia by Epaphras, a disciple of St. Paul (Coloss. iv. 12; i. 7, 8). Onesimus, one of his slaves, robbed him and fled to Rome, where he was converted by St. Paul. The apostle sent him back to his master with an epistle (Philem.).

PHIL'EMON, St. Paul's Epistle to, one of the canonical books of the New Testament (Philem.).

PHILE'TUS, an early heretic condemned by St. Paul. He taught that the resurrection was already past, and subverted the faith of some (2 Tim. ii. 17, 18).

PHIL'IP, foster-brother of Antiochus Epiphanes, was a Phrygian (1 Mach. vi. 15, 55; 2 Mach. ix. 29); he was made governor of Jerusalem (2 Mach. viii. 8; v. 22); he used every means to force the Jews to renounce their faith (2 Mach. vi. 11). Antiochus at his death made him regent, but Lysias seized the government, and Philip went to Egypt for aid (2 Mach. ix. 29); he seized Antioch, but Lysias retook it and put Philip to death (1 Mach. vi. 55-63).

PHIL'IP, son of Herod the Great, and brother of Herod, tetrarch of Galilee. He was tetrarch of Iturea and the country of Trachonitis (Luke iii. 1); his wife Salome was the daughter of Herodias, who asked the head of John the Baptist (Matt. xiv. 6-11).

PHIL'IP, otherwise Herod Philip, son of Herod the Great and Mariamne II., daughter of Simon the high-priest. He married Herodias, who bore him Salome (see last article) (Mark vi. 17; Matt. xiv. 3).

PHIL'IP, ST., one of the twelve apostles, a native of Bethsaida in Galilee. Our Saviour called him by saying "Follow me" (John i. 43); Philip told Nathanael that he had found the Messiah, and took him to Jesus (45-51); the next year he was made one of the apostles (Luke vi. 14; Matt. x. 3); at the feeding of the five thousand our Lord asked Philip, "Whence shall we buy bread that these may eat?" (John vi. 5-7); he introduced some Gentiles to our Lord (John xii. 20, 22); at the Last Supper he asked to see the Father, and our Lord declared that he and the Father were one (John xiv. 8, 10). He is said to have preached in Phrygia.

PHIL'IP, ST., the deacon. He was the second of the seven deacons chosen by the apostles (Acts vi. 5); he resided at Cesarea in Palestine, where his four daughters, virgins, were endowed with prophecy (xxi. 8, 9); he preached in Samaria (Acts viii. 5); expelled unclean spirits, cured the palsied and lame (7, 8); baptized many (12); among other Simon Magus (13); at the bidding of an angel he went to the road from Jerusalem to Gaza (viii. 26); met and converted the eunuch of Candace, queen of the Ethiopians (27-39); Philip was then taken to Azotus, and preached as he returned to Cesarea (40); in the year A. D. 58 St. Paul tarried for some days with St. Philip at Cesarea (Acts xxi. 10).

PHILIP'PI, a city of Macedonia. St. Paul preached there, A. D. 52 (Acts xvi. 12, 13); converted Lydia, and delivered the pythonical girl (14-18); was scourged and imprisoned, but the jailer is converted by a heavenly light (22-33); the magistrates alarmed (35-39); the faithful there relieved St. Paul on several occasions (Philip. iv. 16); they sent money to him in Achaia, and sent Epaphroditus to him in Rome (Philip. iv. 16, 18).

PHILIP'PIANS, Epistle to, written by St. Paul. One of the canonical books of the New Testament (Philip.).

PHIL'ISTIA, PHIL'ISTHIM, the country of the Philistines, Palestine (Ex. xv. 14; Isai. xiv. 31).

PHIL'ISTINES, a people from the island of Capadocia (Amos ix. 7; Jerem. xlvii. 4); they expelled the Hevites (Deut. ii. 23); they persecute the Israelites (Judg. iii. 3; x. 7; 1 Kings iv. v.; xiii. 5; xvii. xxiii. 1; xxix. 1; xxxi. 1; 2 Kings v. 17, 22; xxi.

15, 18); they are defeated (Judg. iii. 31; xv. 9; 1 Kings vii. 11; xiv. xviii. 27; xix. 5; xxiii. 5; 2 Kings viii. 1; 4 Kings xviii. 8); prophecies against PHI'SON, one of the four great rivers that watered Paradise; it compassed all the land of Hevlath, where gold groweth (Gen. ii. 11).

PHI'THOM, a city in Egypt, built for Pharaoh by the Israelites (Ex. i. 11).

PHLEG'ON, a convert mentioned by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 14).

PHO'GOR, a mountain beyond the Jordan, near Nebo and Phasga (Num. xxi. 28; Deut. xxxiv. 6).

PHO'GOR, an idol of the Madianites (Num. xxv. 18; xxxi. 16); the Israelites encamped in the valley opposite the temple of Phogor (Deut. iii. 29; iv. 46).

PHRYG'IA, one of the provinces of Asia Minor; people from it at Jerusalem on Pentecost (Acts ii. 10); St. Paul passes through (xvi. 7); confirming the disciples (xviii. 23).

PHU'A and SEPH'ORA, midwives of the Israelites in Egypt (Ex. i. 15, 16), disobey the king's cruel order, and are rewarded by God (18-21).

PHUL, king of Assyria (4 Kings xv. 19), came into the land of the kingdom of Israel, at the prayer of king Manahem (Osee v. 13; 4 Kings xv. 19; 1 Paral. v. 26).

PHU'NON, one of the stations of the Israelites in the wilderness (Num. xxxiii. 42, 43).

PHU'RIM, meaning lots, the name of a solemn feast among the Jews, in honor of their delivery from Aman (Esth. ix. 26, 28, 31).

PHUTH, third son of Cham (Gen. x. 6).

PHYLAC'TERY, rolls of parchment, containing words of the law, worn on the forehead and left wrist, based on Ex. xiii. 9; our Lord reproached the Pharisees with making them wide out of ostentation (Matt. xxiii. 5).

PI'ETY. True piety to God recommended (Ex. xii. 24; xx. xxiii. 25; Deut. v. 11; x. 12; Jos. xxii. 5; Ps. ii. 11; xlix. 14; Zach. viii. 16; Rom. xii.-xiv.); includes obedience (1 Kings xv. 22; Ps. xxxix. 7; Prov. iii. 1; John xii. 26); serves God in spirit (Philip. iii. 3); flies evil (Isai. i. 16; lviii. 6; Jer. xxii. 3; Ezech. xviii. 6; Zach. vii. 9); does mercy (Mich. vi. 8); leads to reconciliation with our brother (Matt. v. 24); removes causes of scandal (29); causes us to offer the other cheek to the smiter (39); to give what we have (Luke iii. 11); to feed the hungry (Matt. xxv. 35; 1 Kings xxi. 6; 2 Kings xvi. 1); God punishes those who have no piety (Deut. xxxiii. 4; Judg. viii. 1; 1 Kings xxv.).

PIG'EONS offered in sacrifice (Gen. xv. 9; Lev. i. 14; xii. 6; xiv. 22; xv. 14, 29; Num. vi. 10; Luke ii. 24).

PI'LATE. Pontius Pilate, governor of Judea for the Roman emperor. Christ was brought before his tribunal (Luke xxiii. 1; Mark xv. 1; Matt. xxvii. 2); does not answer (14); warned by his wife not to condemn the just man (Matt. xxvii. 19); asks whether he is king of the Jews (Mark xv. 2; Luke xxiii. 3; John xviii. 33); finds no cause in him (Luke xxiii. 4); sends him to Herod (7); seeks to release him (John xix. 12); asks what is truth, but does not wait to hear (John xviii. 38); washes his hands, but condemns our Lord for fear of the Jews (Matt. xxvii. 24; Luke xxiii. 24); causes him to be scourged and delivered to them (Matt. xxvii. 26; Mark xv. 15; John xix. 1); his soldiers crown Jesus with thorns (Matt. xxvii. 29; John xix. 2); writes the inscription (John xix. 19); his answer to the Jews (22); Joseph of Arimathea asks him for our Lord's body (Matt. xxvii. 58; John xix. 38); the Pharisees ask him for a guard for the sepulchre (Matt. xxvii. 62-65).

PIL'GRIMAGES, their utility, when made with devotion (3 Kings viii. 41; 4 Kings v. 5; Acts viii. 27).

PIL'GRIMS or strangers to be received kindly (Ex. xii. 4, 49; xxii. 21; xxiii. 9; Lev. xix. 33; xxiii. 22; Num. xxxv. 15; Deut. i. 16; x. 18; xxiv. 14, 17; xxvi. 11; Ezech. xlvi. 22; Zach. vii. 10; Heb. xlii. 2); we are all pilgrims and strangers in this world (Gen. xv. 13; xxiii. 4; xlvii. 9; 1 Paral. xxix. 15; Ps. cxviii. 19; Phil. iii. 20; Heb. xlii. 14; 1 Pet. ii. 11).

PIL'LAR OF CLOUD AND FIRE guiding the Israelites in the desert (Ex. xlii. 21).

PINE TREE, mentioned by Isaias xlv. 14.

PIN'NACLE OF THE TEMPLE. The devil places our Lord on (Matt. iv. 5).

PISID'IA, a province of Asia Minor, north of Pamphylia. St. Paul preached at Antioch, in Pisidia (Acts xlii. 14; xiv. 23).

PITS OF SLIME (Gen. xiv. 10) were pits of bitumen, and the word is so in the Douay and in correct Bibles.

PLAGUES. Egypt is struck with a series of plagues for the obstinacy of Pharaoh (Ex. vii.-ix.; xiv.); plague brought on the people of Israel by the vain glory of David (2 Kings xxiv. 15).

PLAIN OF ESDRELON (Judith i. 8); of Jordan (Deut. iii. 10); of the wilderness (Deut. iii. 17).

PLEDGE, certain things not to be taken in (Deut. xxiv. 6).

PLEI'ADES, a constellation named in the book of Job (Job xxxviii. 31).

PLOUGH'SHARE. Samgar slays six hundred men with a ploughshare (Judg. iii. 31); the Israelites sharpen them for weapons (1 Kings xlii. 20). The King James has goad, but incorrectly.

POME'GRANATES, a fruit. The Israelites complain in the desert of Sin that they had none (Num. xx. 5); ornaments like the fruit were on the hem of the high-priest's ephod (Ex. xxviii. 33, 34); on the tops of the pillars in Solomon's temple (3 Kings vii. 18, 20); a paradise of pomegranates (Cant. iv. 13; vi. 10; vii. 12).

PILLAR OF FIRE.

PLOUGHS AND YOKES OF ASIA MINOR.

the Philistines (Isai. xiv. 29; Jerem. xlvii. 1, 4; Ezech. xxv. 15; Amos i. 8; Soph. ii. 5; Zach. ix. 6; Joel iii. 4); their country assigned to the tribe by Josue (Jos. xlii. 2, 3); oppress the Israelites in the times of Samgar (Judg. iii. 31); Samson (Judg. xv. xvi.); Samuel (1 Kings vi.); and Saul (1 Kings xlii.); and disarm them (1 Kings xlii. 19); reduced by David (2 Kings v. 17; viii. 1); revolt against Joram (2 Paral. xxi. 16; xxvi. 6, 7); ravaged Juda in the days of Achaz (2 Paral. xxviii. 18); reduced by Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 8).

PHILOLOGUS, saluted by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 15).

PHILOS'OPHERS, their false wisdom shown by their crimes (Rom. i. 21, 24; iii.).

PHIN'EES, son of Eleazar, and grandson of Aaron, third high-priest of the Jews, B. C. 1433-1414 (Ex. vi. 25; Judges xx. 28); by his zeal against the idolatry of the Madianites, he appeases the wrath of God (Num. xxv. 7; Ps. cv. 30); the priesthood promised to him (Num. xxv. 12); is sent to the tribes of Ruben and Gad, and half-tribe of Manasses (Jos. xxii. 13); his address to them (16-20); their reply (21-28); declares them not guilty of revolt (31); he is praised (Ecclus. xlv. 28-31); his family retained the high-priesthood till the time of Heli.

PHIN'EES, son of the high-priest Heli, united with his brother Ophni in wickedness (1 Kings i. 3); slain with him in punishment of his sins (iv. 11).

PONT'US. Arioch, king of Pontus, an ally of Codorlahomor, against the kings of the Pentapolis (Gen. xiv.). This Pontus, in Hebrew Ellasar, is supposed by some to have been in Arabia.

PONT'US, a province of Asia Minor, mentioned in the account of Pentecost (Acts ii. 9); St. Peter addresses his first epistle to the Christians there (1 Pet. i. 1); Aquila was of Pontus (Acts xviii. 2).

POOL OF BETHSAIDA or PROBATICA, at Jerusalem (John v. 2); miraculous cures when an angel stirred the water (4); Christ heals a man there who had been thirty-eight years infirm (8).

POOL OF EZECHIAS, at Jerusalem (2 Esd. iii. 16).

POOL OF FIRE (Apoc. xix. 20; xx. 9; xxi. 8).

POOL OF SILOE (Sent: John ix. 7), (2 Esd. iii. 15); flows silently (Isai. viii. 6); our Lord cures a blind man by sending him to wash in it (John ix. 7, 11).

POOR. God's commandments as to the poor (Ex. xxii. 22-26; xxiii. 3-11; Lev. xiv. 21; xix. 10; xxiii. 22; Deut. xv. 8-11); the Lord is a refuge for the poor (Ps. ix. 10); he hears the poor (lxviii. 34); he lifts up the poor man (exii. 7); the poor man better than a vain-glorious man (Prov. xii. 9); better than a perverse rich man (xix. 1; xxviii. 6); better a poor, wise child than a foolish old king (Eccl. iv. 13); he who giveth to the poor shall not want (Prov. xxviii. 27); we are to give alms to the poor (Eccl. iv. 1); blessed are the poor in spirit (Matt. v. 3; Luke vi. 20); the poor have the gospel preached to them (Matt. xi. 5; Luke iv. 18; vii. 22); our Lord tells us that we have the poor always with us to relieve (Mark xiv. 7; John xii. 8; Matt. xxvi. 11); no distinction between rich and poor is to be made in the church (James ii. 2-6).

POPE, or CHIEF BISHOP. St. Peter, by Christ's ordinance, was raised to this dignity (Matt. xvi. 18, 19; Luke xxi. 31, 32; John xxi. 15; Matt. x. 2; Acts v. 29; Gal. ii. 7, 8).

PORCH, before Solomon's temple (3 Kings vi. 3; 1 Paral. xxviii. 11; 2 Paral. iii. 4; viii. 12; xv. 8; xxix. 17; John x. 23; Acts iii. 11; v. 12); in Ezechiel's (Ezech. xlii., xlv.); in Solomon's palace (3 Kings vii. 6); at the Probaticea (John v. 2).

PORPHIR'ION, a river bird, apparently the purple gallinule, classed among the unclean birds (Lev. xi. 18; Deut. xiv. 17).

POS'IDONIUS, an officer sent by Nicanor to Judas Machabeus (2 Mach. xiv. 19).

POST (messenger) (Esth. iii. 13); couriers (15); runners (Prov. xxiv. 34); posts sent with letters (2 Paral. xxx. 6, 10); my days have been swifter than a post (Job ix. 25).

POT, full of flesh and bones, a figure used by the prophet Ezechiel (Ezech. xxiv. 3).

POTT'AGE (4 Kings iv. 39).

POTTER, referred to (Jerem. xviii. 3; Eccl. xxxviii. 32, 33); man is in the hand of God as clay in the hand of a potter (Eccl. xxxiii. 13); the clay cannot dictate to the potter (Rom. ix. 21); Judas' money used to buy a potter's field (Matt. xxvii. 7, 10).

POUND, the word used in English translations for the Greek mna, a coin worth $15 (1 Esd. ii. 69; 2 Esd. vii. 72; Luke xix. 13, 25); also a weight (3 Kings x. 17; 1 Mach. xiv. 24; v. 18).

POW'ER, in the sense of veil (1 Cor. xi. 10).

POW'ERS, every soul to be subject to the high powers (Rom. xiii. 1, 3; 1 Pet. ii. 13-16).

POW'ERS, an order of angels (Col. i. 16).

PRAISE. We are under obligation to chant the praises of God (Ps. xlii. 2; cxlii. 7; cxlix. 1; Isai. xii. 4; Eph. v. 19; Col. iii. 17; Heb. xiii. 15; James v. 13); we cannot do it worthily (Ps. xci. 2; cv. 2; cxviii. 164; cxliv. 3; Eccl. xliii. 2); to be chanted from the heart (Ps. lxxxiii. 3; Eccl. xliii. 32; Col. iii. 16).

PRAYER. Conditions of a good prayer (Num. xi. 16, 24; Deut. iv. 7; Judg. x. 10, 15; 1 Kings i. 11; 2 Kings xxii. 2, 7; 3 Kings iii. 7; Tob. iii. 11; Judith iv. 12; Eccl. xxxv. 26; Isai. lxv. 24; Amos vii. 2; Matt. vi. 5, 9; vii. 7; xviii. 19; xx. 20; xxvi. 39; Mark xiii. 33; Luke xviii. 1; xxii. 40; John iv. 23; xv. 7; xvi. 23; Acts i. 14; ii. 42; iv. 24, 31; Rom. viii. 26; xii. 12; 1 Cor. xiv. 13; Eph. vi. 18; Col. iv. 2; 1 Thess. v. 17; 1 Tim. ii. 1; Heb. xiii. 18; 1 Peter iii. 12; 1 John vi. 4; James iv. 3; v. 13; Apoc. xix. 5; xxii. 9); prayers duly made are heard (Gen. xvi. 11; xxi. 17; Ex. ii. 24; iii. 7; vi. 5; xxii. 23, 27; Deut. iv. 7; xv. 9; 1 Kings iii. 9, 10; ix. 16; xii. 18; 3 Kings xiii. 6; xvii. 22; xviii. 36; 4 Kings xiii. 23; xx. 5; 2 Paral. xxxii. 24; xxxiii. 13; Tob. iii. 24; Ps. iii. 5; iv. 4; ix. 13; xvii. 7; xxi. 25; xxxiii. 7; xlix. 15; liv. 17; cxvii. 5; cxix. 1; cxliv. 19; Prov. xv. 29; Eccl. iv. 6; xxi. 6; xxxv. 16-21; xlvi. 22; Isai. xxx. 19; xxxvii. 15, 21; lv. 6; Jer. xxix. 12; Lam. iii. 56; Dan. xiii. 44; Jon. ii. 3; Zach. xiii. 9; 2 Mach. iii. 22; John ix. 31; Acts x. 4); why some prayers are not heard by God (Deut. i. 45; xxxi. 18; Judg. x. 10; 1 Kings viii. 18; Ps. xvii. 42; Prov. i. 28; xxi. 13; xxviii. 9; Eccl. xxxiv. 29, 31; Isai. i. 15; Jer. vii. 16; xi. 11; xiv. 12; xv. 1; Ezech. viii. 18; xiv. 16, 20; Mich. iii. 4; Zach. vii. 13; 2 Mach. ix. 13; Heb. xii. 17); examples of the prayers of saints (Gen. xxxii. 9; Ex. xxxii. 11, 13; Num. xiv. 19; Deut. ix. 26; 3 Kings viii. 15; 2 Paral. vi. 16; xiv. 11; xx. 6, 12; 1 Esd. ix. 6; 2 Esd. i.; Tob. viii. 7; xiii. 1; Judith ix. 2; xvi.; Esth. xiv. 3; Wisd. ix.; Eccl. xxiii. 1; xxxvi. 1-11; li.; Isai. xxxiii. 2; lxiv.; Jer. x. 24; xvii. 13, 14; xviii. 19; xxxii. 16; Lam. v.; Bar. i. 17, 21; ii. 6; iii. 1, 9; Dan. ix. 4; xiii. 42; Jon. ii.; Hab. iii.; 1 Mach. vii. 37; 2 Mach. vi. 30; Acts iv. 24); praying in the name of Jesus (John xiv. 13; xv. 16; xvi. 23, 26; 1 John v. 14); of ourselves we cannot pray as we ought (Matt. xx. 20; Mark x. 35; Rom. viii. 26; James iv. 3); we must pray without ceasing (Ps. cxviii. 62; Matt. vii. 7; Luke xi. 9; xviii. 1; Acts x. 2; Col. iv. 2; 1 Thess. iii. 10; v. 17; 1 Tim. v. 5; 2 Tim. i. 3); we are bound to pray for those who preach (Eph. vi. 19); we are bound to pray for one another (Jer. xlii. 2, 20; Bar. i. 13; 2 Mach. i. 6; 1 Thess. v. 25; 1 Tim. ii. 1; James v. 16); prayers for the dead holy and wholesome (2 Mach. xii. 43).

PRAYER. A Jewish house of prayer (Acts xvi. 13).

PREACH THE GOSPEL. The apostles are commanded by our Lord to preach the gospel to all nations (Matt. xxviii. 19; Mark xvi. 15; Luke ix. 60; xxiv. 47; Acts ii. 14; iii. 12; iv. 8; x. 42; xiii. 16).

PREACH'ER (1 Tim. ii. 7; 2 Tim. i. 11).

PREDES'TINATED. Those whom God foreknew, he also predestinated (Rom. viii. 29); whom he predestinated, them he also called (30); God hath predestinated us unto the adoption of children (Eph. i. 5, 11).

PRES'ENCE OF GOD (1 Paral. xvi. 27; Ps. xv. 11; xvii. 7; lxvii. 9; Isai. lxiv. 1; Jer. v. 22; Ezech. i.; Dan. vii. 9; Nah. i.; Hab. iii.; Apoc. i.)

PRESENTATION, applied especially to the offering of the first-born son to God in the temple (Ex. xiii. 2; xxii. 29; Num. iii. 13); our Lord was presented in the temple by the Blessed Virgin (Luke ii. 22).

PRES'ENTS, bribes. God is not to be gained by bribes (Deut. x. 17); judges are forbidden to receive bribes (Ex. xviii. 21; xxiii. 8; Num. xxxv. 31; Deut. xvi. 19; xxvii. 25; Job xxxvi. 8; Eccl. iv. 36); those who receive bribes shall be punished (Job xv. 34; Ps. xxv. 10; Isai. i. 23; v. 23; Ezech. xiii. 19; xxii. 12; Mich. iii. 11); he who hates bribes shall live (Prov. xv. 27; Isai. xxxiii. 15); they pervert the order of justice (Prov. xvii. 23; xxviii. 21); they blind the judges (Eccl. xxix. 31); they make room for a man before princes (Prov. xviii. 16); many are the friends of him that giveth gifts (xix. 6); a secret present queneeth anger (xxi. 14); he that maketh presents shall purchase victory, but carrieth away souls (xxii. 9); Abraham refuses presents from the king of Sodom (Gen. xiv. 22); Jacob sends presents to Esau (Gen. xxxii. 13-21); Balaam refuses the presents of Balac (Num. xxii. 18); Samuel's sons, Ophni and Phinees, corrupted by presents (1 Kings viii. 3); Samuel never took a bribe (1 Kings xii. 3); a prophet refuses the presents of Jeroboam (3 Kings xiii. 8); Eliseus refuses the presents of Naaman (4 Kings v. 16); Daniel refuses the gifts of Balthasar (Dan. v. 17); those are happy who receive no bribes (Ps. xiv. 5; Isai. xxxiii. 15; xlv. 13; Acts xx. 35); the high-priesthood obtained by Jason through bribery (2 Mach. iv. 8); by Menelaus (24); Judas bribed to betray our Lord (Matt. xxvi. 15; Mark xiv. 10).

PRI'APUS, an obscene idol. Mazcha, mother of king, was priestess of Priapus (3 Kings xv. 13); Asa abolished the worship, broke the idol in pieces, and burnt it (13; 2 Paral. xv. 16).

PRIDE forbidden and punished (Gen. iii. 17; xi. 5, 7; Ex. v. 2; xiv. 26; 1 Kings xviii. 4; Kings xviii. 19; xix. 35; Tob. iv. 14; Judith ix. 16; xiii.; Prov. vi. 17; xi. 2; xiii. 10; xv. 25; xvi. 5, 18; xviii. 12; xxv. 6; xxix. 23; Eccl. x. 9-16; xxv. 4; Isai. iii. 15-17; ix. 9; x. 9; xiv. 9; xxxvi.-xxxvii.; xlvii. 8; Jer. xlviii. 29; xlix. 16; Ezech. xvi. 49; xxviii. 2; xxxi. 10; Dan. iv. 19, 27; v. 22; Abd. i. 3; Mal. i. 4; 2 Mach. ix. 4, 6; Luke i. 51; x. 15; xiv. 7, 11; xviii. 11; xxii. 24; Acts xii. 21; Rom. i. 30; xi. 20; 2 Tim. iii. 2; 1 Pet. v. 5; 2 Pet. ii. 10; Jude 16; Apoc. xviii. 1-24).

PRIESTS under the patriarchal law, Melchisedec (Gen. xiv. 18); Raguel or Jethro (Ex. ii. 16; xviii. 12); under the Mosaic law, confined to the family of Aaron; their duty and office (Ex. xxix. 44; xxx. 7; Lev. x. 1, 6; xxi.-xxii.; xxiv. 3; Num. iii. 10; iv. 5, 11; x. 8; xviii. 1, 7; Deut. xxi. 5; 1 Kings ii. 28, 35; 1 Paral. vi. 49; 2 Paral. xxvi. 17; Ezech. xlv. 15, 20; Heb. v. 7; x. 11); entitled to tithes (Num. xviii. 26-28); special tithes every third year (Deut. xiv. 28; xxvi. 12); the redemption money for the firstborn of man or beast (Num. xviii. 15, 16); to a portion of the spoil taken in war (Num. xxxi. 28); to the loaves of proposition, and parts of animals offered in sacrifice (Num. xviii.; Lev. vi., vii., x.); to the first fruits (Ex. xxiii. 19; Lev. ii. x., xxii.; Deut. xxvi.); after entering the promised land, thirteen cities were assigned to the priests, viz.: Hebron, Lobna, Jether, Estemo, Hholon, Dabir, Ain, Jera, Bethsames, Gabaon, Gabae, Anathoth, Almon (Jos. xxi. 13-18); in the time of David the priests numbered 38,000 (1 Paral. xxiii. 3), and were divided by him into twenty-four courses (1 Paral. xxiv. 1-19; 2 Paral. xxiii. 8), each of which served in turn for a week, the duties being assigned by lot (Luke i. 9); after the captivity only four courses could be found (1 Esd. ii. 36-39); punishment of wicked priests (Num. xvi.; 1 Kings ii. 22; iii. 17; 3 Kings ii. 26; Isai. i. 11; Jer. ii. 8; viii. 10; Osee iv. 6, 9; v.; Mal. i., ii.; 1 Mach. vii. 5, 9, 21); the priest was the judge of difficult questions (Deut. xvii. 9, 12; Mal. ii. 7); of leprosy (Levit. xiii.).

PRIESTS under the new law. Jesus Christ, priest forever, according to the order of Melchisedech (Ps. cix. 4); our high-priest (Heb. v. 6; x.

PRINCE OF DEVILS (Matt. ix. 34; xii. 24); Belzebub (Luke xi. 15), prince of this world (John xii. 31; xiv. 30; xvi. 11; 1 Cor. ii. 6, 8).

PRINCE of the kings of the earth, Jesus Christ (Apoc. i. 5).

PRINCES of the twelve tribes (Ex. vi.; Num. i., vii.; John vii. 48; Acts iv. 8; xiv. 5).

PRINCIPALITIES, an order of angels (Col. i. 16).

PRISCA or PRISCILLA, wife of Aquila, early converts. They were compelled to leave Rome when Claudius expelled all Jews (Acts xviii.

2), and settled in Corinth (1); St. Paul remained with them, as they were tent-makers (2); they went with St. Paul to Ephesus (18); they returned to Rome, where St. Paul salutes the church in their house (Rom. xvi. 5); calls them his helpers in Christ (3); and says that they laid down their own necks for his life; and that not only he but all the churches of the Gentiles thank them (1).

PRISONERS, Abraham delivers Lot when a prisoner (Gen. xiv. 16); David rescues the prisoners taken at Siceleg (1 Kings xxx. 18); Abimelech delivers Jeremias when a prisoner (Jer. xxxviii. 10); an angel delivers St. Peter (Acts xii. 7); we should visit the prisoners (Tob. i. 15; Matt. xxv. 36; 2 Tim. i. 16; Heb. xiii. 3); God does not forsake (Gen. xxxix. 21; Wis. x. 13; Isai. xlii. 7; Acts v. 19; xii. 7; xvi. 26).

PROBATICA, a pool at Jerusalem, called also Bethesda, with five porches (John v. 8). See POOL OF BETHSAIDA.

PROCHORUS, one of the seven deacons first appointed by the apostles at Jerusalem (Acts vi. 5).

PROCONSUL, a governor of a province, appointed by the Roman senate. Sergius Paulus, proconsul of Cyprus (Acts xiii. 7-12); Gallio, proconsul of Achaia (xviii. 12); at Ephesus (xix. 38).

PRODIGAL SON, the parable of the (Luke xv. 11).

PROFANE. Esau called profane for selling his birthright (Heb. xii. 16); the Jews considered it profane to eat with Gentiles (Gen. xliii. 32); one who did not eat of the peace-offering in season deemed profane (Lev. xix. 7); forbidden food styled profane (Isai. lxx. 4).

PROMISED LAND, God's promises in regard to it (Gen. xii. 7; xiii. 15; xv. 7, 8; xxii. 17); renewed to the Hebrew people (Ex. xiii. 5; xxxiii. 2); shown to Moses (Deut. xxxiv.); though he is not allowed to enter; its remarkable fruits (Lev. xxvi. 4, 5; Deut. i. 21, 25; iii. 25; xi. 10, 14); its limits (Num. xxxiv. 2); described (Jos. xiii.-xix.; Ex. iii.); portioned beyond the Jordan among the tribes of Ruben, Dan, and the half-tribe of Manasse (Num. xxxii. 1); among the other tribes (Jos. xiii.-xxi.).

PROMISES. God makes promises subject to conditions (Deut. xviii. 8, 9; xxviii.; Lev. xxvi.; 1 Kings ii. 30; Ezech. xxxiii.; xxxiii. 15, 19; Mark xvi. 16; John iii. 16, 36; vi. 47; viii. 31; xiii. 17; xv. 7, 14; Rom. viii. 17; Col. i. 23; Heb. iii. 14; 2 Pet. i. 4; Apoc. ii.-iii.; xxi. 7).

PROPHECIES. The use to be made of prophecies (2 Pet. i. 19; 1 Cor. xii. 10; 1 Thess. v. 20); of the Apocalypse (Apoc. i. 3; xxii.).

PROPHET, from a Greek word, means one who foretells. The Jews called them first Seers (1 Kings ix. 9); also men of God (4 Kings vi. 6); their disciples were called Sons of the Prophets (4 Kings ii. 3); Aaron is called the prophet, that is, the spokesman of Moses (Ex. vii. 1); Abraham is called a prophet (Gen. xx. 7); a prophet is promised by Moses (Deut. xviii. 15); alluded to afterwards (John i. 25; vii. 40); really our Lord Jesus Christ (Matt. xxi. 11; Mark i. 15; John iv. 19); no prophet arose like unto Moses (Deut. xxxiv. 10); a prophet sent to the Jews in the days of Gedeon (Judg. vi. 8); Samuel a prophet (1 Kings iii. 20); the prophet Gad (1 Kings xxii. 5; 2 Kings xxiv. 11); the prophet Nathan (2 Kings vii. 2; xii. 25; 3 Kings i. 8-45; 1 Paral. xvii. 1); the prophet Ahias, the Silonite (3 Kings xi., xiv.); an old prophet slain for disobedience (xiii.); the prophet Jehu (3 Kings xvi.); Elias, the prophet (3 Kings xviii., etc.; Eccles. xlviii. 1); Elisha (3 Kings xix. 16); the prophet Jonas (4 Kings xiv. 25; Jonas; Matt. xvi. 4); the prophet Isaias (4 Kings xix. 2; 2 Paral. xxvi. 22; Eccles. xlviii. 23; Isaias; Matt. viii. 17; Mark ii. 2; vii. 6; John xii. 38; Acts viii. 28, 30); the prophet Semeias (2 Paral. xii. 15); the prophet Addo (2 Paral. xlii. 22); the prophet Azarias (2 Paral. xv. 8); the prophet Hanani (2 Paral. xvi. 7); the prophets Asaph, and Heman, and Idithum (2 Paral. xxxv. 15); the prophet Jeremias (2 Paral. xxxvi. 12; Jer.; Lam.; Bar.; 2 Mach. ii.; xv.; Matt. xvi. 14); the prophet Aggeus (1 Esd. v. 1; Agg.); Zacharias (1 Esd. v. 1; Zach.); Noadiah (2 Esd. vi. 14); the prophet Amos (Tob. ii. 6; Amos); Baruch (Bar.); Ezechiel (Ezech.); Daniel (Dan.; Matt. xxiv. 15); Habacuc (Dan. xiv. 32; Hab.); Osee (Os.); Micheas (Mich.); Sophonias (Soph.); Zacharias (Zach.); Malachias (Mal.); Joel (Acts ii. 16; Joel); St. John the Baptist, a prophet and more than a prophet (Matt. xi. 9); a prophet of the Most High (Luke i. 76); he himself humbly says he is not the prophet (John i. 21); the prophet Agabus (Acts xi. 28; xxi. 10); prophets from Jerusalem (Acts xi. 27); at Antioch (xiii. 1); all the prophets and the law bear testimony to Christ (Matt. xi. 13); many prophets wished to see him (Luke x. 24); the city of Jerusalem reproached with slaying the prophets and then building them honorable tombs (Matt. xxiii. 37; Luke xiii. 34).

PROPHETS, false; our Lord warns us against them (Matt. vii. 15); it is foretold that there will be many (Matt. xxiv. 11, 24; Mark xiii. 22; Luke vi. 26; 2 Peter ii. 16; 1 John iv. 1); Hananias (Jerem. xxviii.); Barjesu (Acts xiii. 6).

PROPHETESSES, Mary, sister of Moses (Ex. xv. 20); Debhora (Judg. iv. 4); Holda (4 Kings

THE RETURN OF THE PRODIGAL SON.

21); there are priests of God and of Christ (Apoc. xx. 6); we have an altar, and priests who serve at it (Heb. xiii. 10; 1 Cor. ix. 13); priests ordained by the apostles (Acts xiv. 22), and by Titus, under the authority of St. Paul (Tit. i. 5); St. Paul consults the priests at Jerusalem (Acts xv. 2); priests are to rule well (1 Tim. v. 17); accusations against a priest to be under two or three witnesses (19); priests to be called in in time of sickness (James v. 14).

PRIESTHOOD in the old law. Laws relating to it (Lev. viii., xvi., xxi., xxii.); its insufficiency (Heb. ix., x.); the priesthood of Melchisedech (Heb. vii. 1-14); the excellence of the priesthood of Christ (Heb. vii. 19); the priesthood of the new law (1 Tim. iv. 14).

xxii. 14; 2 Paral. xxxiv. 22; Anna (Luke ii. 36).

PROPHETIATORY, otherwise called the Oracle. It was the cover of the Ark of the Covenant; it was of gold, with two cherubim at each end, facing, and their wings touching. From this God gave his oracles when consulted by Moses or the high-priest (Ex. xxv. 22; Num. vii. 89).

PROPOSITION, LOAVES OF. They were the twelve loaves which the priest of the week placed every Sabbath, that is Saturday, on the golden table in the Holy before the Lord. They represented the twelve tribes. When the fresh loaves were placed, those of the previous week were removed and could be eaten by the priests only. The offering was accompanied with incense and salt (Lev. xxiv. 5-9; Num. iv. 7; Heb. ix. 2); David, when pressed by hunger, ate the loaves of proposition (1 Kings xxi. 4; Matt. xii. 4).

PROSELYTE, a Gentile who was received into the Jewish church (1 Paral. xxii. 2; 2 Paral. ii. 17; xxx. 25; Tob. i. 7; Ezech. xiv. 7; Matt. xxiii. 15; Acts ii. 11).

PROVERBS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament written by Solomon (Prov.) Chapter xxx. is given as the words of Gatherer, the son of Vomiter, in Hebrew of Agur, the son of Jakeh. Chapter xxxi., the words of king Lamuel, Prov. i. 16, is cited, Rom. iii. 15; iii. 7; Rom. xii. 16; iii. 11, 12; Heb. xii. 5, 6; Apoc. iii. 19; iii. 34; James iv. 6; x. 12; 1 Pet. iv. 8; xi. 31; 1 Pet. iv. 18; xvii. 13; Rom. xii. 17; 1 Thess. v. 15; 1 Pet. iii. 9; xvii. 27; James i. 19; xx. 9; 1 John i. 8; xx. 20; Matt. xv. 4; Mark vii. 10; xxv. 21, 22; Rom. xii. 20; xxvi. 12; 2 Pet. ii. 22; xxvii. 1; James iv. 13, 14.

PSALMS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament, called in Hebrew Tehillim, that is, hymns of praise. The author of a great part of them was king David, while some are supposed to have been composed by those whose names they bear. They are one hundred and fifty in number, and are divided by the Hebrews into five books. In numbering the Psalms, the Hebrew makes two of what is Ps. ix. and Ps. cxiii. in the Vulgate, and in our English Catholic Bibles; and of what is Ps. cxiv. and cxv., and Ps. cxlvi., cxlvii., they make one. The Psalms are greatly used in the Jewish forms of prayer, whole psalms and verses said responsively, and the usage passed to the Catholic church, which uses them in the same way in her mass and office.

A WOMAN'S PURIFICATION AFTER CHILDBIRTH.

PSALMS, GRADUAL. The Gradual Psalms are cxix. to cxxxiii. They are so called either from the fifteen steps by which the people ascended to the temple, or that the voice in singing was raised by certain steps.

PSALMS, PENITENTIAL (Ps. vi., xxxi., xxxvii., l., ci., cxxix., and cxlii.) are so called as they all express sorrow and contrition.

PTOLEMAIS, a city of Phoenicia, on the Mediterranean (Accho, Judg. i. 31), (1 Mach. v. 15); Simon pursued the enemy to the gates of Ptolemais (22, 55); taken by Alexander Bales (x. 1); Demetrius allots it to the Jews (x. 39); Ptolemee and Alexander meet there, and Jonathan also (56-60); Demetrius at (xi. 22, 24); Jonathan entrapped into Ptolemais by Tryphon, and slain there (xii. 45, 48); Antiochus made Machabeus governor from Ptolemais to the Gerrenians (2 Mach. xiii. 24, 25); St. Paul stopped there on his way to Jerusalem (Acts xxi. 7).

PTOLEMEE, a name born by the kings of Egypt, from Ptolemee, son of Lagus, to the conquest of the country by the Romans.

PTOLEMEE, PHILOMETOR, son of Ptolemee Epiphanes. He was attacked by Antiochus Epiphanes, king of Syria (1 Mach. i. 19); forms an alliance with Alexander Bales (x. 51); makes war on him, takes Antioch, and assumes the crown of Syria (xi. 13); defeats Alexander in battle (15); dies (18).

PTOLEMEE MACER, governor of Cyprus for king Ptolemee Philometor, went over to Antiochus, the Illustrious (2 Mach. x. 13); bribed by Menelaus to obtain the favor of Antiochus (2 Mach. iv. 45, 46); Philip seeks his aid, but Judas defeated his troops (viii. 8; 1 Mach. iii. 38, 39); just to the Jews (2 Mach. x. 12); accused to Eupator, poisons himself (13).

PUBLICANS, farmers or gatherers of taxes. They were despised among the Jews (Matt. v. 46; ix. 11; xi. 19; xviii. 17; xxi. 32; Luke iii. 12); St. Matthew, the apostle, was one when our Lord called him (Luke v. 27); several converted by our Lord (Matt. xxi. 32; Luke v. 27; vii. 29; xv. 1); Zachaeus, the chief of the publicans at Jericho, converted (xix. 1-10); our Lord's parable of the publican and the Pharisee (Luke xviii. 10).

PUBLIUS, chief man of the island of Malta, received St. Paul into his house after his shipwreck (Acts xxviii. 7); St. Paul cures his father of a fever and dysentery (8).

PUDENS, a disciple mentioned by St. Paul in his second Epistle from Rome to Timothy (2 Tim. iv. 21). He is supposed to have been a Roman senator, converted by St. Peter.

PUPIL OF THE EYE, often referred to as a symbol of something to be carefully guarded (Deut. xxxii. 10; Ps. xvi. 8; Prov. vii. 2; Eccles. xvii. 18; Lam. ii. 18; Zach. xii. 8).

PURGATORY. Passages proving its existence (2 Mach. xii. 43, 46; Matt. v. 25; xii. 32; 1 Cor. iii. 15; Phil. ii. 10; 2 Tim. i. 18;

RACHEL'S TOMB

1 Pet. iii. 19; 1 John v. 16; Apoc. v. 3, 13; xxi. 27).

PURIFICATION. Purification a legal ceremony, to be performed by a woman after the birth of her child (Lev. xii. 6); the Blessed Virgin obeys the law (Luke ii. 22); purification part of the ceremonial of one who made a vow (Acts xxi. 25).

PURIFICATIONS, law relative to (Lev. xii. 4, 5; xiv. 23, 49; xv. 28; 1 Paral. xxiii. 28); purification of the temple after the heathen rites (1 Mach. i. 18, 36; ii. 20; x. 5; 2 Mach. x. 3, 6); water-pots for purifying according to the manner of the Jews (John ii. 6); dispute between John's disciples and the Jews concerning purifications (iii. 25).

PURITY, cleanness of heart and body recommended (Matt. xxiii. 25; Luke xi. 39; 2 Cor. vii. 1).

PUTEOLI, a city of Italy, reached by St. Paul on his way to Rome, A. D. 61 (Acts xxviii. 13); finding brethren there, he remained several days (14).

PUTIPHAR, a eunuch, chief captain of the army of Pharaoh (Gen. xxxvii. 36); he purchased Joseph, and made him steward of his house (xxxix. 4); his wife tempts Joseph (7), and being repulsed falsely accused him (8-18); Putiphar believing his wife cast Joseph into prison (20).

PUTIPHARE, priest of Heliopolis. His daughter Aseneth was given to Joseph as his wife by Pharaoh (Gen. xli. 45).

PYGARG', an animal with a white rump, a species of antelope, allowed to be eaten (Deut. xiv. 5).

PYGMEANS, are said to have hung their quivers on the walls of Tyre, and perfected its beauty (Ezech. xxvii. 11).

PYRAMIDS, Simon set up seven pyramids at Modin, for his father, mother and four brethren (1 Mach. xiii. 28).

PYTHONICAL SPIRIT. A girl with a pythonical spirit at Philippi, whose divinings were a great gain to her master, was delivered from the spirit by St. Paul (Acts xvi. 16).

QUAILS, a well-known bird. God sent flocks of them to feed the Israelites in the desert (Ex. xvi. 13; Ps. civ. 40; Wis. xvi. 2); they gathered and dried them (Num. xi. 32), but were punished by a plague (33).

QUARTUS, a Christian at Corinth (Rom. xvi. 23).

QUAR'RELS, to be avoided (Ecclus. viii. 2, 4, 19; Phil. ii. 15; iii. 6; 1 Thess. ii. 10; iii. 13; v. 23).

QUARTERS OF JERUSALEM, after the return from Babylon, named in 2 Esd. iii. 3.

QUEEN OF SABA, comes to visit Solomon (3 Kings x. 13; 2 Paral. ix. 1, 9, 12); the queen of the south will rise in judgment against the Jews (Luke xi. 31). Queen, used to mean the mother of the reigning king, who in the East exercised greater influence than the wife (4 Kings x. 13; 2 Paral. xv. 16; xxii. 10).

QUEEN OF HEAVEN, the goddess Astarte, or the moon. Hebrew women offered cakes to her (Jer. vii. 18; xlv. 17-19, 25).

QUESTIONS. Useless questions to be avoided (Gen. iii. 1, 6; Prov. xxv. 27; Eccles. vii. 11; Ecclus. iii. 22; Matt. xxiv. 3; John xxi. 21; Acts i. 6; 1 Tim. i. 4; vi. 3; 2 Tim. ii. 16; Tit. iii. 9).

RABBA, Rabbath of the children of Ammon, a strong place east of the Jordan, the chief town of the Ammonites. The iron bed of Og was preserved there (Deut. iii. 11); David sent Joab to besiege it (2 Kings xi. 1); they made frequent sallies (17); finally taken by David (xii. 26-31); Moloch was worshipped there in the days of Amos (Amos i. 14); still important in the days of Nabuchodonosor (Jerem. xlix. 2, 3; Ezech. xxi. 20).

RABBI, Rabboni, a term signifying master, applied to our Lord (Matt. xxiii. 7, 8; xxvi. 25, 49; Mark ix. 5; xi. 21; xiv. 45; John i. 38, 49; iii. 2, 26; iv. 31; vi. 25; ix. 2; xi. 8; Mark x. 51; John xx. 16).

RAB'SACES, general of the army of Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians; his horrible blasphemies (4 Kings xviii. 17; Isai. xxxvi., xxxvii.).

RAB'SARES, a prince of the court of Nabuchodonosor, at Babylon (Jerem. xxxix. 3).

RA'CA, a term of contempt (Matt. v. 22).

RA'CHEL, youngest daughter of Laban, feeds her father's flocks (Gen. xxix. 9); Jacob meets her and kisses her (10, 11); she announces his arrival (13); Jacob being in love with her offers to serve seven years for her (18); is deceived with Lia, but serves seven years more for Rachel, and marries her (28); Laban gives her Bala for her servant (29); she remained barren (31); her grief (xxx. 1); gives Bala to Jacob as a wife (3); Rachel bears Joseph (22-24); she steals her father's idols (xxxi. 19); and hides them (34); bears Benjamin near Ephrata or Bethlehem (xxxv. 16-18); dies and is buried there (19); Jacob erects a pillar over her sepulchre (20).

RAGAU (1 Paral. i. 25; Luke iii. 35), or Reu (Gen. xi. 18, 19); son of Phaleg.

RAGAU, a place where Nabuchodonosor, king of Ninive, defeated Arphaxad, king of the Elamites (Judith i. 5, 6).

RAGES, a city of Media, situated in the mountains of Ecbatana. Gabelus, to whom the elder Tobias had lent money, resided here, and he sent his son to obtain it (Tob.).

RAG'UEL, or Jethro, father-in-law of Moses. See JETHRO.

RAG'UEL, father of Sara, who married the younger Tobias. He lived at Rages, a city of the Medes (Tob. iii. 7); he had one daughter Sara (vi. 11); he receives Tobias and the angel (vii. 1); as instructed by the angel (vi. 13). Tobias asks Sara as his wife (vii. 10); Raguel gives her (15, 16); digs a grave for Tobias (viii. 11); blesses the Lord for his safety (16); gives Tobias half his possessions (24); sends Tobias and Sara home (x. 10-13).

RA'HAB, a woman of Jericho, entertains Josue's spies (Jos. ii. 1; Heb. xi. 31; James ii. 25); conceals them from the officers of the king (Jos. ii. 3-5); she recognized the true God (11); makes the spies swear to show mercy to her father's house, and give her a token (13); lets them down from a window (15); a scarlet cord made a sign of safety to her (18); Josue orders her and her family to be spared (vi. 17); she is saved with her kindred and goods (23); she married Salmon, prince of Juda (Matt. i. 5); to whom she bore Booz, great-grandfather of David (Ruth iv. 21, 22; 1 Paral. ii. 11).

RA'HAB, a city or country, by some supposed to be Egypt (Ps. lxxxvi. 4).

RA'HUEL, son of Esau and Basemath, daughter of Ismael (Gen. xxxvi. 4, 17).

RAIN'BOW, God set a rainbow in the sky as a sign of his covenant with Noe (Gen. ix. 12; Ezech. i. 28).

RAISINS, dried grapes (1 Kings xxv. 18; xxx. 12; 2 Kings xvi. 1).

RAM. Eliu is said to have been of the kindred of Ram (Job xxxii. 2); apparently the same as Aram.

RAM, the male of the sheep, offered in sacrifice by Abram, as directed by God (Gen. xv. 9); one given as a substitute for Isaac (xxii. 13); ram skins used in the tabernacle (Ex. xxv., xxvi., xxix., xxxv., xxxvi., xxxix.); offered in sacrifice under the law (Levit. v., vi., viii., ix., xvi., xix., xxiii.; Num. vi., vii., xv., xxii., etc.); seen in a vision by the prophet Daniel (Dan. viii. 3).

RA'MA, a city of Benjamin (Jos. xviii. 25); between Gabaa and Bethel (Judg. iv. 5; xix. 13); Jeremias restored to liberty at Rama (Jerem. xl. 1-3); Rachel mourning for her children at Rama (Jerem. xxxi. 15); applied to the massacre of the innocents (Matt. ii. 8).

RA'MA, a wooded height near Gabaa (1 Kings xxii. 6; 1 Esd. ii. 26; 2 Esd. vii. 30; Isai. x. 29; Osee v. 8).

RAMATH (Jos. xix. 21); Beer-Ramath (xix. 8); Ramoth to the south (1 Kings xxx. 27); a city in the tribe of Simeon.

RAMA'THA, a town in Samaria, given by Demetrius to Jonathan (1 Mach. xi. 34).

RAMATHAIMSOPHIM, in Mount Ephraim, the home of Elcana, father of Samuel (1 Kings i. 1).

RAM'ATHLE'CHI (The lifting up of the jawbone), the place where Samson slew a thousand Philistines with the jawbone of an ass (Judg. xv. 14-17).

RAMES'SES, a city built by the Hebrews during their bondage in Egypt (Ex. i. 11).

RAMES'SES, a district of Egypt assigned to Jacob and his family when they went to Egypt (Gen. xlvii. 11). The Israelites set out from it under Moses (Ex. xii. 37; Num. xxxiii. 3).

RAM'ETH (Jos. xix. 21), Ram'oth (1 Paral. vi. 73), a Levitical city in the tribe of Issachar.

RAMOTH GALAAD, a city in the tribe of Gad (Jos. xiii. 26); a city of refuge (Deut. iv. 43; Jos. xx. 8); given to the Levites (Jos. xxi. 37; 1 Paral. vi. 80); it became a source of contest between the kings of Israel and Syria (3 Kings xxii.); Joram, king of Juda, grievously wounded while besieging (4 Kings viii. 28, 29; 2 Paral. xxii. 5); Jehu consecrated king there (4 Kings ix.); Achab killed in battle with the Syrians before Ramoth (2 Paral. xviii.).

RAN'SOM OF LANDS AND HOUSES regulated by express law (Lev. xxv. 23-31).

RAPE, the law against (Deut. xxii. 28, 29).

RAPH'AEL, son of Semeias, a valiant man (1 Paral. xxvi. 7); a Levite and porter of the temple.

RAPH'AEL, one of the seven angels constantly before the throne of God (Tob. xii. 15); he appeared in human form (v. 5), and guided young Tobias to Ecbatana, expelled the devils who beset Sara, obtained her in marriage for Tobias (vi.-viii.), received the money from Gabelus (ix.), guided him safely home, and cured the blindness of the elder Tobias (Tob. xi.).

RAPH'AIM, a race of gigantic men in Chanaan. Chodorlahomor and his allies smite them in Astaroth-carnaim. Their territory promised to the descendants of Abraham (xv. 20); in Moses' time, Og, king of Basan, ruled over the remnant of the race (Jos. xii. 3); they were overthrown and destroyed by Moses (xiii. 12). The valley of Raphaim kept the name to the time of Isaias (Jos. xv. 8; 2 Kings v. 18; 1 Paral. xiv. 9; Isai. xvii. 5); Saphai, of the race of the Raphaim, was a Philistine champion, and was slain by Sobochai (1 Paral. xx. 4), as were Goliath and his brother (5, 6).

RAPH'IDIM, the encampment of the Israelites after leaving the desert of Sin (Ex. xvii. 1); there was no water there, and Moses obtained water by striking the rock (1-6; Num. xxxiii. 14, 15); they set out from it for Sinai (Ex. xix. 2).

RAPH'ON, a city beyond the Jordan, near Carnaim. Judas Machabeus defeated Timotheus there (1 Mach. v. 37).

RAPT TO THE THIRD HEAVEN, St. Paul was (2 Cor. xii.).

RAS'IN, king of Syria, with Phacee, king of Israel, invades Juda, and besieges Achaz in Jerusalem (4 Kings xv. 37, 38; xvi. 5, 6); Rasin also took Aila (4 Kings xvi. 6), and carried away great booty to Damascus (2 Paral. xxviii. 5); Theglathphalasar, king of the Assyrians, to protect Achaz, took Damascus, and slew Rasin (4 Kings xvi. 9).

RAT'IONAL OF JUDGMENT, a precious, embroidered vestment, worn on the breast of the high-priest, with four rows of precious stones, on each of which was graven the name of one of the twelve tribes (Ex. xxviii. 15-28).

RAZI'AS, one of the ancients of Jerusalem, called the "Father of the Jews," accused to Nicanor of observing the law (2 Mach. xiv. 37); 500 soldiers sent to seize him (39); strikes himself with his own sword (41-46).

RAZON, son of Eliada, fled from his master Aderezer, king of Soba (3 Kings xi. 23); became captain of a band of robbers, and finally king of Damascus (24); hostile to king Solomon (25).

REAP'ING, directions as to (Lev. xxiii. 22).

RE'BE, one of the five princes of the Midianites, slain by Phinees, son of Eleazer (Num. xxxi. 8; Jos. xiii. 21).

REBEC'CA, daughter of Bathuel, and wife of Isaac. Abraham sent Damascus Eliezer to Haran to obtain a wife for Isaac of his kindred (Gen. xxiv. 1-14); Rebecca met him at the well, and gave him to drink, and watered his camels (15-20); receives presents and reports his coming (22-28); Rebecca asked as wife to Isaac (49); Laban and Bathuel give her (51); she goes with her maids (58-62);

meets Isaac at the Well of the Living and Seeing, and becomes his wife (62-67; xxv. 20); she bears Esau and Jacob (25); with Isaac at the court of Abimelech in Gerara (xxvi. 8); aids Jacob to deceive Isaac and supplant Esau (xxvii. 1-41); advises him to flee to Laban (42, 43); complains of the daughters of Heth, whom Esau married (46); buried in the double cave (xlix. 31).

THE RATIONAL OF JUDGMENT.

REBLA'THA, a city in the land of Emath in Syria; Rebla was on the boundary of the promised land, over against the fountain of Daphnis (Num. xxxiv. 11); Pharaoh Nechao fined and bound Joachaz in Rebla (4 Kings xxiii. 33); Sedecias was brought before the king of Babylon and blinded in Reblatha (xxv. 6; Jerem. xxxix. 5, 6; lii. 9, 10); Saraïas, the high-priest, and others, put to death there (lii. 24-27).

RE'CEM, one of the princes of Midian, put to death by Phinees, after the abomination of Beelphegor (Num. xxxi. 8).

RE'CHAB and BAANA, assassins of Isboeth, son of Saul (2 Kings iv. 2); put to death by David (12).

RECH'AB, father of Jonadab, founder of the Rechabites (4 Kings x. 15, 23); Calor (Chamath) is given as the father of the house of Rechab (1 Paral. ii. 55).

RECH'ABITES, were Cinites, descendants of Jethro (1 Paral. ii. 55); they were employed in the service of the temple; they dwelt in tents (Jer. xxxv. 6, 7); they were to drink no wine, build house, sow seed, or plant vineyard, or have any (6, 7); their head in the time of Jeremias was Jezonias (3); he tempted them to drink wine (5); they refused to disobey the commands of Jonadab (6-10); and their fidelity was cited to the Jews to their confusion (11-18); and the promise made that there shall not be wanting a man of the race of Jonadab standing before the Lord forever (19). Melchias, apparently a Rechabite, aided in building the wall of Jerusalem after the captivity (2 Esd. iii. 14).

REC'OMPENSE due to works (Gen. iv. 7; xv.

1; Ps. cxviii. 112; Prov. xi. 18; Wis. v. 16; Eccles. ii. 8; xi. 24; xviii. 22; xxxvi. 18; li. 30, 38; Isai. iii. 10; Jerem. xxxi. 16; Matt. v. 12; xx. 8; John iv. 36; Rom. iv. 4; 1 Tim. v. 18).

REC'REA-TION, when becoming, permitted (1 Paral. xxix. 9; 2 Esd. xii. 42; Ps. lxvii. 4; Luke i. 14; 1 Thess. v. 16); not to be indulged in after the manner of the heathen (Eccles. ii. 2; vii. 3; Osee ix. 1; Amos vi.; Prov. ii. 14; James iv. 9).

REDEEM', REDEMPTION. Land among the Jews could not be sold forever. The owner who was forced to sell could always redeem, and in the year of jubilee, when all that was sold returned to the owner, except houses in cities. The houses of Levites in cities could always be redeemed (Lev. xxv. 23-32). Nothing consecrated to the Lord could be redeemed, except unclean beasts (xxvii. 28-33).

REDEEM'ER, a name applied especially to Jesus Christ, who has redeemed us from the bondage of Satan. Job declares his faith in a Redeemer to come (Job xix. 25); David (xviii. 15; lxxvii. 35); Isaias xli. 14; xliii. 14; xlv. 6, 24; xlvii. 4; xlviii. 17; xlix. 7, 26; liv. 5, 8; lix. 20; lx. 16; lxiii. 16; Jerem. l. 34; Lam. iii. 58.

REDEMPTION, Christ came to give his own blood as a redemption for many (Matt. xx. 28; Mark x. 45); we have redemption through him (Col. i. 14); he gave himself for our redemption (1 Tim. ii. 6).

ROMAN SOLDIER.

RED SEA, between Egypt and Arabia. Moses leads the Israelites to it (Ex. xiii. 18); the Israelites traverse it on foot through the bed miraculously (xiv. 20); Pharaoh and his host are overwhelmed in it (Ex. xv. 4; Ps. cv. 7, 9; cxxxv. 15; 1 Mach. iv. 9; Acts vii. 36; Heb. xi. 27); the Israelites march from the banks of the Red Sea (Ex. xv. 22); designated as a boundary (xxiii. 31). Solomon had ports on the Red Sea (3 Kings ix. 26).

COLOSSEUM AT ROME.

REED, placed in the hands of our Lord in mockery instead of a sceptre (Matt. xxvii. 29).

REEDS, valley of (Josue xvi. 8).

REE'MA, or REGMA, son of Chus (Gen. x. 7). His descendants sent spices, gold, and precious stones to Tyre (Ezech. xxvii. 22).

REF'UGE, cities and places of, assigned for cases of involuntary shedding of human blood (Ex. xxi. 13; Deut. iv. 41; xix. 2, 7; Jos. xx.; 3 Kings i. 50; ii. 28).

REGEN'ERATION, necessary for salvation (John iii. 5); it changes earthly to spiritual affections (Rom. viii. 5, 13); it makes men pass from infidelity to faith (John i. 12; Gal. iii. 16; 1 John v. 1); it is a renewal of the heart by the Holy Ghost (Titus iii. 5; Gal. iv. 6); it is a participation in the Divine nature (2 Pet. i. 4; Col. ii. 11); it is the justification of the sinner (1 Cor. vi. 11; Eph. v. 8); the regenerate must lead an entirely new life (Rom. vi.; vii. 6; xii. 1; Eph. iv. 22; Col. iii. 9; 1 Cor. v. 7; 2 Cor. v. 15; 1 Pet. iv. 1).

RE'I, one of David's counsellors who did not join the party of Adonias (3 Kings i. 8).

REINS, kidneys. The Hebrews regarded them as the seat of joy, grief, pleasure. God is called searcher of the heart and reins (Ps. vii. 10; Wis. i. 6; Apoc. ii. 23; Jerem. xvii. 10; xx. 12; xi. 20); Try me, burn my reins and my heart (Ps. xxv. 2).

REL'ICS. Virtue possessed by the relics and garments of the saints, and miracles wrought by their means exemplified in the mantle of Elias, dividing the waters of Jordan so that Eliseus passed over on foot (4 Kings ii. 14); in the bones of the prophet Eliseus which raised to life a man slain by robbers (xiii. 21); in the hem (fringe) of our Lord's garment (Matt. ix. 20; xiv. 36); in the handkerchiefs and linen of St. Paul (Acts xix. 12); in the shadow of St. Peter (v. 15).

REM'MON, a town in the tribe of Simeon (Jos. xix. 7; xv. 32; 2 Esd. xi. 29; Zach. xiv. 10).

REM'MON, a rock to which the remnant of the tribe of Benjamin escaped (Judg. xx. 45; xxi. 13).

REM'MON, AMTAR, a city or cities in the tribe of Zabulon (Jos. xix. 13).

REM'MON PHARES, an encampment of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxiii. 19).

REM'MON, an idol worshipped at Damascus.

ROME—THE OSTIAN GATE.

Naaman obliged to visit a temple of Remmon, with the king of Damascus, his master (4 Kings v. 18).

REM'PHAN. St. Stephen citing (Amos v. 25-27); speaks of "the star of your god Remphan," but the name is not now in Amos (Acts vii. 43).

REND'ING of garments a sign of grief (Gen. xxxvii. 30; 2 Paral. xxxiv. 27; 1 Esd. ix. 3; Job i. 20; ii. 12); we are to rend our hearts and not our garments (Joel ii. 13).

REPENT'ANCE, see PENANCE.

REPROBA'TION of the Jews, leads to the salvation of the world (Rom. xi. 1).

REPU'DIATION of a wife permitted among the Jews; the manner in which it was performed (Deut. xxiv. 1, 3; Jer. iii. 8; Matt. v. 31; xix. 7).

REP'UTATION preferable to riches (Prov. xxii. 1; Eccles. xli. 15, 16); it is lawful to defend our reputation and innocence against accusations (Jos. xxii. 22; 1 Kings i. 15; 3 Kings xviii. 18; Jerem. xxxvii. 13; John xviii. 23; Acts ii. 15; vi. 14; vii. 2; xxviii. 17).

REPU'TED unto justice (Rom. iv. 3-6; Gen. xv. 6).

RE'SA, son of Zorababel, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Luke iii. 27).

RE'SEN, a city of Assyria, built by Assur, between Ninive and Chale (Gen. x. 12).

RE'SEPH, a city of Syria (4 Kings xix. 12; Isai. xxxvii. 12).

RESPECT' of persons forbidden. There is none with God (Lev. xix. 15; Deut. i. 17; x. 17; 1 Kings xvi. 7; Prov. xviii. 5; xxviii. 21; Isai. xi. 3; Mal. ii. 9; Matt. xxii. 16; Gal. ii. 6; Eph. vi. 9; James ii. 9; 1 Pet. i. 17).

RES'PHA, daughter of Aia, concubine or inferior wife of Saul. She is abused by Abner (2 Kings iii. 8). Saul had on some occasion put to death a number of Gabaonites (1 Kings xxi.); God punished the crime by a three years' famine. David summoned the Gabaonites to know what they demanded. They asked seven sons or grandsons of Saul. David gave up Respha's two sons, and five sons of a daughter of Saul (xxi. 8); the Gabaonites crucified them (9); Respha watched the bodies, protecting them against the birds and beasts of prey, from the beginning of the harvest till the water dropped out of heaven (10).

RES'SA, a station of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 22).

REST of God promised to his people (Heb. iv. 9); the just have assured rest and peace (Wis. iii. 3; iv. 1; Isai. lvii. 2; Luke xvi. 22; Apoc. xiv. 13); to find rest for the soul (Jer. vi. 16; Matt. xi. 29); the day of the rest of the Lord (Ex. xxiii.); sabbath rest consecrated by law (Lev. xxiii. 3).

RES'URRECTION. The resurrection of Jesus Christ foretold by the prophets (Is. iii. 6; ix. 15; xv. 10; xxi. 31; xl. 11; Osee vi. 3; Isai. liii. 10-12; Zach. vi. 12, 13); foretold by himself (Matt. xxvi. 61; Mark xiv. 58; John ii. 19); it is the foundation of our faith (1 Cor. xv. 14, 17, 20; 2 Cor. v. 15; 1 Thess. iv. 13; 2 Tim. ii. 8).

RES'URRECTION of the dead (Ex. iii. 6; Job xiv. 12; xix. 25, 26; xxi. 30; Isai. xxvi. 19; lxvi. 14; Ezech. xxxvii. 1-10; Daniel xii. 2; Jonas ii. 11; Soph. iii. 8; 2 Mach. vii. 9; xii. 44; Matt. xxii. 23, 31; Luke xx. 35; John v. 21, 28; vi. 39; xi. 24; Acts xxiv. 15; 1 Cor. xv. 2; 2 Cor. iv. 14; v.; Coloss. iii. 4; Phil. iii. 21; iv. 3; 1 Thess. iv. 13, 16; 2 Tim. ii. 11; Apoc. xx. 12).

RETH'MA, an encampment of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 18).

REU or RAGAU, son of Phaleg. He died 1974 B. C., aged 239 (Gen. xi. 18, 20; 1 Paral. i. 25; Luke iii. 35).

REUM BELTEEM writes to the king to oppose the rebuilding of Jerusalem (1 Esd. iv. 8-23).

REVELATIONS and visions (Jos. v. 13; 1 Kings xxviii. 14; 2 Mach. iii. 24; v. 2; x. 29; xi. 8; Apoc.).

REVIEW' of the army of Israel by Saul (1 Kings xi. 8).

RHEG'IUM, a port in southern Italy. St. Paul arrives there on his way to Rome (Acts xxviii. 13).

RHINOCEROS. Strength of Egypt compared to (Num. xxiv. 8).

RHODE, a damsel at the house of John Mark (Acts xii. 13); in her amazement at the appearance of St. Peter she omits to open the gate (14).

RHODES, St. Paul reaches on his way to Rome (Acts xxi. 1).

RHOD'OCUS, a traitor in the army of Judas Machabeus; he is discovered and imprisoned (2 Mach. xiii. 21).

RICH. How the rich should treat the poor (Lev. xxv. 35; Deut. xv. 7, 10; Job xxxi. 16; Ps. lxi. 11; Prov. xiv. 31; xix. 17; xxi. 13; xxii. 7; xxviii. 27; Eccles. xi. 1; Eccles. iv. 4; vii. 36; xxix. 12; xxxi. 8; Matt. vi. 19; xix. 21; Luke xiv. 13; xvi. 9; xvi. 25; xviii. 22; Acts ii. 45; iv. 34). The vanity of riches, and contempt for them; we are not to put our trust in them (Ps. xxxviii. 7; xlvi. 1; li. 9; Prov. x. 2; xv. 16; xviii. 11; xxii. 16; xxiii. 4; xxviii. 11; xxx. 8; Eccles. v. 9, 12; vi. 2; Eccles. x. 10; xiv. 3; xxxi. 3; Isai. ii. 7; Jerem. xvii. 3, 11; xxii. 13; Ezech. vii. 19; Luke viii. 14; 1 Tim. vi. 9; James

i. 11); riches called unjust (Eccles. v. 10); the wicked rich are cursed (1 Kings xxv. 2; Job xx. 19; xxvii. 19; Jer. xv. 13; Am. vi. 1; viii. 4; Hab. ii. 6; Luke vi. 24; xvi. 19; James v. 1).

RICH MAN AND LAZARUS, a parable of our Lord (Luke xvi. 19-31).

RIN'NA, son of Simeon (1 Paral. iv. 20); compare Gen. xli. 10.

RIPH'ATH, second son of Gomer, and grandson of Japheth (Gen. x. 3; 1 Paral. i. 6).

RIV'ERS. Four rivers, Phison, Gehon, Tigris and Euphrates, water Paradise (Gen. ii. 11-14); rivers represented as exulting, clapping their hands at the coming of Christ to judge the earth (Ps. xcvii. 8); the waters of the Nile turned into blood (Ex. vii.); the Euphrates mentioned (Gen. ii. 14; Deut. i. 7; 2 Kings viii. 3; 4 Kings xxiii.; 1 Paral. v. 9); the Abana and Parphar, rivers of Damascus (4 Kings v. 12); the Tigris (Gen. ii. 14; Tob. vi. 1); Ezechiel at the river Chobar (Ezech. i. 3; iii. 15); our Lord baptized in the river Jordan. See JORDAN.

ROBO'AM, son of Solomon, by Naama, an Ammonite woman (3 Kings xiv. 21), began to reign 1014 B. C., at the age of 41; after Solomon's death he went to Sichem to be installed king (xii. 1); the people demanded a diminution of the taxes, but influenced by bad advisers, he answered roughly (xii. 11, 13); all the tribes except Juda and Benjamin revolt, and follow Jeroboam, and make him king (19, 20); God forbids Roboam to make war on Israel (2 Paral. xi. 3); Sesac, king of Egypt, made war on Roboam; took Jerusalem, and plundered the temple and palace (xii. 2-9); Roboam replaced the golden shields of Solomon with shields of brass (10); his death—he is succeeded by his son Abiam (16); Roboam's wife was Maacha, the daughter of Abessalou (3 Kings xv. 2).

ROCK, struck by Moses, gives water in abundance (Ex. xvii. 6); and the rock was Christ (1 Cor. x. 4); the remnant of the tribe of Benjamin flee to the rock of Remmon (Judg. xx. 47); Samson held the rock of Etam (xv. 8); David pursued by Saul, took refuge in caves in the rocks at Maon (1 Kings xxiii. 25, 28); at Odollam (1 Kings xxii. 1) Engaddi, there were caves to hold all his men, and where Saul abode for a time (1 Kings xxiv. 2, 5); Josue shut up the five captured kings in the cave of Maceda

ROME—THE PANTHEON.

(Jos. x. 16); during the Madianite oppression, the Jews took refuge in caves in the rocks (Judg. vi. 2); the Cinites dwelt in the hollows of the rocks (Num. xxiv. 21); Oreb slain at the rock Oreb (Judg. vii. 25);

xvii. 32; xxxi. 3); the rock of salvation (Deut. xxxii. 13); the apostle Simon is called Cephas, Peter, that is, the rock: "Thou art Peter, and on this rock I will build my church" (Matt. xvi. 18); a rock of offence (Rom. ix. 33); the sepulchre in which our Lord was laid was hewn out of a rock by Joseph of Arimathea (Mark xv. 46); at the crucifixion, the rocks were rent by an earthquake (Matt. xxvii. 51).

ROD. The rod of Moses was changed into a serpent near the burning bush (Ex. iv. 3); it was again changed before Pharaoh (vii. 10); Aaron's devours rods which the magicians had changed into serpents (12); it changes water into blood (20); Moses directed to lift up his rod, and stretch his hand over the Red Sea to divide it (xiv. 16); strikes the rock Horeb, and obtains water for the Israelites (xvii. 5, 6); the rod of Aaron blossoms, to prove the divine institution of his priesthood (Num. xvii. 8); God orders it to be kept in the tabernacle of the testimony (10).

ROD, as an instrument of correction (Prov. x. 13; xiii. 24; xxii. 8; xxvii. 15; Acts xvii. 22; 2 Cor. xi. 25).

ROE, used (Deut. xii. xiv., xv.; 2 Kings ii. 18; 3 Kings iv. 23; 1 Par. xii. 8; Cant. ii., iv.; vii., viii.; Eccclus. xi., xxvii.), evidently for an antelope, and probably the gazelle. The original Douay has doa in Deut.

RO'MA, concubine or inferior wife of Nachor (Gen. xxii. 24).

ROMANS, their fame (1 Mach. viii. 1); form an alliance with the Jews (1 Mach. viii. 17, 27, 29); their republican form of government praised (1 Mach. viii. 2, 14, 16); Roman Christians (Rom. i. 8); predictions that the Romans were to destroy Jerusalem and the temple of the Lord (Num. xxiv. 24; Isai. v. 26; vi. 14; Dan. ix. 16; Luke xix. 41; xxi. 20; John xi. 48); Judea subject to the Romans in the time of our Lord (Luke iii. 1).

ROMANS, Epistle to the, written by St. Paul, one of the canonical books of the New Testament (Rom.).

ROME. Judas Machabeus sends Eupolemus and Jason as ambassadors to Rome (1 Mach. viii. 17); the treaty (23-28); a second embassy (xii.); Jonathan's death heard in Rome (xiv. 16); strangers from Rome at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost (Acts ii. 10); Jews expelled from Rome by the em-

ROSE, wisdom compared to a rose-plant in Jericho (Eccclus. xxiv. 18; xxxix. 17; l. 8); used for crowns (Wisd. ii. 8).

RU'BEN, eldest son of Jacob and Lia, born (Gen. xxix. 32); commits incest with Bala, his father's concubine (xxxv. 22), therefore not accounted the first-born (1 Par. v. 1); endeavored to deliver Joseph out of the hands of his brethren (xxxvii. 21, 22); rends his garments on not finding him in the cistern (29, 30); makes himself responsible for the safe return of Benjamin (xlii. 37); not blessed on account of his sin (xlix. 3, 4); his sons, Henoah, Phallu, Hesron, and Charmi (xlvii. 9).

RU'BEN, tribe of, numbered 46,500 fighting men when they came out of Egypt (Num. ii. 10, 11), and 43,730 at Settim (xxvi. 7); they were under their prince Elisur, son of Sedear (i. 5; ii. 10); his gifts to the tabernacle (vii. 30-35). They ask lands beyond the Jordan (Num. xxxii. 1-5); the reply of Moses (6-15); their promise (16-19); Moses gives Ruben, Dan, and the half-tribe of Manasses Galaad, the kingdoms of Sehon and Og (29, 33; Deut. iii. 12; xxix. 8; Jos. iv. 12; xiii. 23); the children of Ruben built Hesebon, Eleale, Cariathaim, Nabo, Baalmeon, and Sabama (Num. xxxii. 37); last words of Moses as to Ruben (Deut. xxxiii. 6); the tribe erect an altar, and are called to account (Jos. xxii. 10); they fight against the Agarites (1 Paral. v. 19), and took great booty (21), and occupied their land (22); join David (xii. 37); Adina, son of Siza, their prince (xi. 42), and afterwards Eliezer, son of Zechri (xxvii. 16); Theglathphalasar, king of Assyria, carries them away into captivity, when Beera was prince (v. 6, 26; 4 Kings xv. 29); Judith was of the tribe of Ruben (Judith viii. 1).

RUE, a bitter herb. The Pharisees were so exact as to pay their tithe of it (Luke xi. 42).

RU'FUS, son of Simon, the Cyrenian (Mark xv. 21); supposed to be the one saluted by St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 13).

RU'IN. Temporal chastisements often foretold in the Scriptures (Ex. xxxiv. 12; Lev. xxvi. 30; Judg. viii. 27; 2 Kings xv. 14; Ps. cv. 29; cix. 6; Prov. xii. 13; xxix. 16; Eccclus. xxxi. 38); they are often announced by the prophets (Isai. iii. 6; viii. 14; xxiii. 13; lxiv. 11; Jer. vi. 21; Bar. iv. 31; Ezech. xxvi. 15; xxxi. 16; Os. ix. 8); the ruin of Jerusalem foretold (Luke xix. 41; xx. 16; xxi. 6; John xi. 48); the ruin of Jerusalem visited by Nehemias (2 Esd. ii. 13, 15).

RUTH, a Moabitess, marries Chelion, son of Elimelech and Noemi (Ruth i. 2-4); when Noemi, after the death of her husband and sons, resolved to return to the land of Israel, Ruth would not leave her (5-17); glean in the fields of Booz (ii. 1-8); she is favored by him (8-18); claims him as a husband by the law of affinity (iii.); on refusal of a nearer kinsman to marry her and take the field of Elimelech, Booz marries her (iv.); Isai, father of David, was their grandson (iv. 22).

RUTH, a canonical book of the Old Testament, giving the history of Ruth, and placed between Judges and Kings (Ruth).

ROME—THE MODERN CAPITOL.

SAA'NANIM, a city of the tribe of Nephthali (Jos. xix. 33).

SAA'RIM (1 Paral. iv. 31); or SARAIM (Jos. xv. 36), a city of the tribe of Juda, and then of Simeon.

SA'BA, son of Chus (Gen. x. 7); a son of Rhegma (x. 7); a son of Jectan (x. 28); a son of Jecsan (xxv. 3).

SA'BA, the queen of (3 Kings x.); the queen of the south (Matt. xii. 42; Luke xi. 13); having heard the fame of Solomon, she came to Jerusalem with a rich retinue and presents (3 Kings x. 1-3) she tried him with hard questions, but he answered all (1-3); she acknowledged his greatness and his wisdom: "the half hath not been told me; thy wisdom and thy works exceed the fame which I heard" (7); she blessed God who had raised him to the throne (8), and made him rich presents of gold, spices and precious stones (10; 2 Paral. ix. 1-9); the kings of Saba shall bring gifts to the Lord (Ps. lxxi. 10; Jerem. vi. 20; Isai. lx. 6); Saba sold gold, precious stones and spices to Tyre (Ezech. xxvii. 22, 23).

SABACTHA'NI, a Hebrew word that occurs in Ps. xxii. 2; cited by our Lord on the cross, and meaning "thou hast abandoned me" (Matt. xxvii. 46; Mark xv. 34).

SAB'AIM (Isai. xlv. 14), apparently Sabaeans.

SABA'MA, a city of the tribe of Ruben (Num. xxxii. 38; Jos. xiii. 19); taken by the Moabites after the tribe of Ruben was carried off (Isai. xvi. 8; Jerem. xlvi. 32); Saban (Num. xxxii. 3) is probably the same place; famous for its vineyard (Isai. xvii. 8, 9).

SAB'AOTH, a Hebrew word meaning hosts, armies, and retained in the expression Lord God of Sabaoth, or Lord God of Hosts (Jerem. xi. 20; Rom. ix. 29; James v. 4).

SAB'ARIM, a place near Hai and Bethel, to which Josue pursued the enemy after his miraculous victory (Jos. vii. 5); a frontier town (Ezech. xlvii. 16).

SABA'THA, third son of Chus (Gen. x. 7).

SABATHA'CA, fifth son of Chus (Gen. x. 7).

SAB'BATH, a Hebrew word meaning rest; God created the world in six days, and rested on the seventh, which is the Sabbath or rest. Hence, the seventh day of the week or Sabbath, our Saturday, was commanded to be kept holy by rest from all work (Gen. ii. 2, 3). Its sanctification commanded peror Claudius (xviii. 2); St. Paul at Rome (xxviii. 16, 30, 31).

ROME—THE MAUSOLEUM OF HADRIAN.

ROS, son of Benjamin (Gen. xlvii. 21).

(Ex. xvi. 23; xx. 8-10; xxiii. 12; xxxi. 14-17; xxxiv. 21; xxxv. 2; Lev. xix. 3; xxiii. 3, 15; xxv. 4; Num. xv. 32; xxviii. 9; Deut. v. 12-14; 2 Esd. xiii. 16-kidneys, etc., were burnt on the altar (iii. 9, 16), the rest eaten by the priests and offerer. 3. Sin offering, in which the same parts were burned on the altar, and the rest on a pile of wood without the camp (iv.); God forbids the sacrifices of children (Lev. xviii. 21; Deut. xii. 31; xviii. 10; Judg. xi. 38; 4 Kings iii. 27; xvi. 3; xvii. 17; xxi. 6; 2 Paral. xxviii. 3; Ps. cv. 37; Ez. xxiii. 37); the sacrifices of the wicked rejected by God (Gen. iv. 5; 1 Kings xv. 21; Ps. xxxix. 7; xlix. 8; l. 18; Prov. xv. 8; xxi. 27; Eccles. xxxv. 15; Isai. i. 11; xliii. 23; lxi. 8; lxvi. 3; Jer. vi. 20; vii. 21; xiv. 12; Osee v. 6; viii. 13; ix. 4; Amos v. 22; Mich. vi. 7; Mal. i. 7, 13; Matt. x. 13; Mark xii. 33; Heb. x. 5); the sacrifices and feasts, in which the victims were eaten, were to be celebrated with joy (Gen. xxxi. 46; Ex. xviii. 12; xxxii. 6; Num. xxv. 2; Deut. xii. 1; xxvii. 7; 1 Kings i. 4; ix. 12; xvi. 5; 2 Kings xv. 12; 3 Kings i. 9; iii. 15; 1 Paral. xxx. 21).

SAC'RIFICE of the new law announced by Malachias (Mal. i. 11); called the continual sacrifice (10); to be offered till our Lord comes to judge the world (1 Cor. xi. 6); sacrifice offered for the dead (2 Mach. xii. 43).

SACRILEGE committed in the temple by Lysimachus at the advice of Menelaus (2 Mach. iv. 39); St. Paul accuses the Jews of (Rom. ii. 22).

SADDUCEES, a sect among the Jews, so called from Sadoc, their founder. They denied the existence of angels, and the resurrection of the body (Matt. xxii. 23; Mark xii. 18; Luke xx. 27; Acts xxiii. 8; iv. 1); they persecute the apostles (Acts iv. 1-3; v. 17); divided against the Pharisees (xxiii. 6, 8).

SADNESS. The sad countenance of the just corrects the sinner (Prov. xxv. 23; Eccles. vii. 4); the heart of the wise is saddened at the sight of evil (5); the sadness of Jesus Christ in the garden of olives (Matt. xxvi. 38).

SADOC, high-priest of the race of Eleazar, made high-priest after Saul put Achimelech to death (1 Kings xxii. 17, 18); he followed David with the ark on the revolt of Absalom (2 Kings xv. 24); sent to by David (xix. 11, 12); did not join the adherents of Adonias (3 Kings i. 8); anoints Solomon king (39).

SAINTS. They are to pray for us (Jerem. xv. 1; 2 Mach. xv. 14; Apoc. v. 8; viii. 3); God confers grace on us, in view of their prayers and merits (Gen. xxvi. 5, 24; Exod. xxxii. 13, 14; 3 Kings xi. 12, 13, 32-34; xv. 4, 5; 4 Kings xix. 34; xx. 6; Isa. xxxvii. 35; Eccles. xlv. 24); prayer to the saints does not dishonor the Mediator (Rom. xv. 30; Col. iv. 3; Eph. vi. 19; 1 Thess. v. 25; 2 Thess. iii. 1; Heb. xiii. 18); they offer our prayers to God (Tob. xii. 12; Apoc. v. 8; viii. 3); they reign with Christ in heaven (2 Cor. v. 8; Philip. i. 23; Apoc. iv. 4); it is praiseworthy to call them to mind (Eccles. xlv. 1; John xii. 26; Ps. cxxxviii. 17); God is praised in his saints (Ps. cxlix. 5); they perform miracles in life and after death; they shall judge the world (Wis. iii. 8; v. 1; Matt. xix. 28; Jude 14); they shall be like angels of God (Matt. xxii. 30).

SALAM'IEL, son of Surisaddai, prince of the tribe of Simeon (Num. i. 6); his offerings (vii. 36 37; x. 19).

SALAMI'NA, a city of Cyprus, visited by St. Paul and St. Barnabas (Acts xiii. 5).

SALA'THIEL, son of Jechonias or of Neri (1 Paral. iii. 17); he died at Babylon during the captivity; he descended from Solomon through Roboam.

SAL'LA, son of Cainan and grandson of Arphaxad (Gen. xi. 12-15; Luke iii. 35). He died at the age of 433.

SALE and purchase of land. The earliest recorded is that of the double cave bought by Abraham for a burial-place (Gen. xxiii. 16). Sale of his birth-right by Esau (Gen. xxv. 29-34); sale of inheritance could not be perpetual among the Jews (Lev. xxv. 28).

SAL'EBIM, a city in the tribe of Dan (Jos. xix. 42; 3 Kings iv. 9; Judg. i. 35). It is mentioned in connection with Bethsames and Ajalon.

SALE'CHA, a city in Basan, in the half tribe of Manasses, beyond the Jordan (Deut. iii. 10; Jos. xii. 4; xiii. 11).

SAL'LEM, one of the names of Jerusalem. It means peace, and is so translated in Ps. lxxv. 3; Melchisedech was king of Salem (Gen. xiv. 18; Heb. vii. 1, 2).

SAL'LEM, a city of the Sicheonites, at which Jacob arrived on his return from Mesopotamia (Gen. xxxiii. 18).

SAL'LEPH, second son of Jectan (Gen. x. 26).

SAL' LIM, the district in which Saul sought the lost asses (1 Kings ix. 4).

SAL' LIM, a place on the Jordan where St. John the Baptist baptized (John iii. 23).

SALI'SA, the land of Salisa was near Mount Ephraim (1 Kings ix. 4).

SAL'LEM, fourth son of Nephthali (Gen. xvi. 24).

SAL'MA or SAL'MON, son of Naasson (1 Paral. ii. 11; Ruth iv. 20; Matt. i. 4); called the father, that is, founder of Bethlehem (1 Paral. ii. 51, 54). His son Booz married Ruth (Ruth iv. 10).

SALMA'NA, one of the princes of the Medianites defeated by Gedeon (Judg. viii. 5).

SALMANAS'AR, king of Assyria (Salmana, Osee x. 14); he invades the kingdom of Israel (Tob. i. 2); subdued it and compelled Osee, son of Ela, to pay him tribute (4 Kings xvii. 3); when Osee sought the aid of Sua, king of Egypt, Salmanasar besieged Osee, bound him, and cast him into prison (4); he besieged Samaria three years, and carried Israel or the Ten Tribes away, and placed them in Hala and Habor, cities of the Medes (6; xviii. 9-11); Tobias enjoyed the favor of Salmanasar (Tob. i. 14).

SAL'MON, the same as Salma.

SALMO'NA, one of the encampments of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 41).

SALMO'NE,

a port in the island of Crete, reached by St. Paul on his way to Rome, A. D. 60 (Acts xxvii. 7).

SALO'ME, is the name of the daughter of Herodias, who danced before Herod, and asked the head of St. John the Baptist (Mark vi. 17-24; Luke iii. 19).

SALO'ME, wife of Zebedee, and mother of St. James the greater, and St. John, the evangelist (Matt. xxvii. 56; Mark xv. 40); she was one of the pious women who followed our Lord

THE ROE (properly, Gazelle).

22; Isai. lvi. 2, 4; lviii. 13; lxvi. 23; Jer. xvii. 21-27; Ezech. xx. 12; xxii. 8; 1 Mach. i. 48; ii. 32, 41; 2 Mach. xv. 1; Matt. xii. 1, 10; Mark ii. 23; iii. 2; vi. 2; Luke iv. 16, 31; vi. 1; xiii. 10, 14; xiv. 1; John v. 10; vii. 22; ix. 14; Acts xiii. 14-27, 44; xv. 21; xviii. 4; Heb. iv. 10); violation of the commandment by doing work on the Sabbath day to be punished by death (Ex. xxxi. 14; xxxv. 2); a man detected gathering sticks on that day put to death by order of God (Num. xv. 32-36); journey which it was lawful to make on the Sabbath (Acts i. 12); our Lord accused of violating the Sabbath, and allowing his disciples to do so (Matt. xii. 1, 11; Mark ii. 23, 27; Luke xiii. 15; John vii. 23); he is Lord of the Sabbath (Matt. xii. 8).

SABE'ANS, carry off the flocks of Job (Job i. 15); children of Tyre to be sold by the Jews to the Sabeans (Joel iii. 8).

SACHA'CHA, a city of Juda (Jos. xv. 61).

SACKBUT, a musical instrument (Dan. iii. 5, 7, 11).

SACKCLOTH, worn by the orientals in time of mourning and penance (Gen. xxxvii. 34; Job xvi. 16; 2 Kings iii. 31; 3 Kings xx. 31; Esth. iv. 1-3; Ps. xxix. 12; Jonas iii. 5; Isai. xx. 2; Zach. xiii. 4; Matt. xi. 21).

SAC'RIFICE to be offered to God alone (Ex. xxii. 20; Lev. xvii. 3, 5, 8); victims offered to God to be without blemish (Lev. i. 3; iii. 1; xxii. 19; Num. xxviii. 3, 31; Deut. xv. 21; Ezech. xliii. 23; Mal. i. 8, 14); God shows by fire from heaven and otherwise what sacrifices please him (Gen. iv. 4; viii. 20; xv. 17; Lev. ix. 24; Judg. vi. 21; xiii. 19; 3 Kings xviii. 38; 1 Paral. xxi. 26; 2 Paral. vii. 1; 2 Mach. i. 22; ii. 10); the daily sacrifice under the Mosaic law (Ex. xxix. 38; Num. xxviii. 3; 1 Esd. iii. 2); the various sacrifices of the Mosaic law: 1. Holocaust, in which the whole animal was consumed on the altar (Gen. viii. 20; xxii. 2; Ex. x. 25; xviii. 12); there was a special altar of holocaust (Ex. xxxviii. 1); how and when offered (Lev. i. 1-17). 2. Peace offerings (Lev. iii.), in which certain parts, the fat, to minister to him (Matt. xxvii. 56); on one occasion she asked that her sons might sit at his right and left hand in his kingdom (Matt. xx. 20-22); she remained with the Blessed Virgin under the cross (Mark xv. 40; Matt. xxvii. 55, 56); she was one of those who bought spices to anoint Jesus, and went early on Sunday morning to the sepulchre (Mark xvi. 1, 2); and were met by Jesus as they returned to Jerusalem (Matt. xxviii. 9, 10).

SACKCLOTH.

SAL'PHAAD, son of Hopher, of the tribe of Manasses. He died without male issue, leaving five daughters, but they received their share in the promised land, with the rest of the tribe (Num. xxvi. 33; xxvii. 1, 2; Jos. xvii. 3).

SALT. Lot's wife is changed into a pillar of salt (Gen. xix. 26); salt was required to be offered with all oblations (Lev. ii. 13; Mark ix. 48); it was the symbol of a covenant with God (Num. xviii. 19); the city of salt (Jos. xv. 62); Abimelech sowed salt on the site of Sichem, after destroying it (Judg. ix. 45); the prophet Eliseus sweetens the waters of Jericho by putting salt in them (4 Kings ii. 20-22); its use as a seasoning (Job vi. 6); its weight referred to (Ecclus. ii. 18); frost compared to it (xliiii. 21); new-born children washed with salt (Ezech. xvi. 4); the apostles called by our Lord the salt of the earth (Matt. v. 13); salt worthless if it lose its savor (Matt. v. 13; Mark ix. 49; Luke xiv. 34); used in the sense of discretion and wisdom (Col. iv. 6).

SALT SEA. The Dead Sea called the most Salt Sea (Num. xxxiv. 3, 12; Deut. iii. 17; Jos. xii. 3; xv. 2, 5; xvi. 8; xviii. 19).

SALT WATER cannot yield sweet (James iii. 12).

SAL'UMITH, daughter of Dabri, of the tribe of Dan. Her son, by an Egyptian, blasphemed the name of God, and was stoned by order of God (Levit. xxiv. 10-23).

SALMANASAR PUTTING OUT THE EYES OF CAPTIVES.

SALUTA'TION. The angelical salutation, that of the angel Gabriel to the Blessed Virgin (Luke i. 29).

SALUTA'TIONS of St. Paul to various Christians (Rom. xv. 33; xvi. 3-16; Coloss. iv. 13; 2 Tim. iv. 19); general salutations (1 Cor. xvi. 19, 20; Phil. iv. 21; Coloss. iv. 15; 1 Thess. v. 26).

send St. Peter and St. John to Samaria to confirm the converts (14-25).

SAMARITANS, heathen nations sent by the SAMARIA.

SALVA'TION is the one thing necessary (Luke x. 42); to be worked out with fear (Phil. ii. 12); was with the Jews and not with the Samaritans; comes from the Jews (John iv. 22); the salvation of the world is the work of Jesus Christ alone (Matt. i. 21; Luke iii. 6; John iv. 42; Acts iv. 9-12; xi. 14, 17; Rom. xi. 14, 26; 1 Cor. i. 18, 21; iii. 15; ix. 21, 22; x. 33; 1 Tim. i. 15; ii. 4; Tit. iii. 5).

SA'MA, a city of the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 26).

SAMA'A, brother of David, and father of Jonathan, one of his heroes (2 Kings xxi. 21; 1 Paral. xv. 7).

SAMA'A and SAMAIAS join David, when he was persecuted by Saul (1 Paral. xii. 3, 4).

SAMA'OTH OF JEZER, commander of an army under David and Solomon (1 Paral. xxvii. 8).

SAM'ARITE. The Samarite is given as the tenth son of Chanaan (Gen. x. 18).

SAMA'RIA, a city built by Amri, king of Israel, on Mount Someron, which he bought for two talents of silver (3 Kings xvi. 24); it became the capital of the Ten Tribes, which Sichem and Thersa had been. Besieged by Benadad, king of the Syrians (3 Kings xx. 1); again by Benadad, king of Syria (4 Kings vi. 24); besieged for three years by Salmanasar, who took it after three years, and carried off all the people (xvii. 6); the prophets frequently foretold its ruin (Isai. vii. 30; Ezech. xxiii.; Osee viii.; xiv.; Amos iii. 12; Mich. i. 5); the king of the Assyrians sends colonies to occupy cities of Samaria (4 Kings xvii. 24); a priest carried captive came to teach them to worship the Lord (28); they worshipped him as well as their various false gods (29-34); these Samaritans opposed the rebuilding of Jerusalem by the Jews (1 Esd. iv.; 2 Esd. iv.); a city of the Samaritans refused to receive our Lord, because he was going to Jerusalem (Luke ix. 52, 53); our Lord passed through Samaria, and stopped at Sichar (John iv. 5); Philip preached Christ in the city of Samaria (Acts viii. 5); performs great miracles (6-8, 13); converts many, among others Simon Magus (9-13); the apostles king of Assyria to occupy Samaria (4 Kings xvii. 24); adopt the worship of the true God (29-34); had a temple on Mount Garizim (John iv. 20); oppose the rebuilding of Jerusalem (1 Esd. iv.; 2 Esd. iv.); one of their cities refuses to receive our Lord (Luke ix. 52, 53); our Lord converts a Samaritan woman at Jacob's well near Sichar (John iv. 5-38); abides there two days, and converts many (39-42); Philip preaches to the Samaritans (Acts viii. 5-13); St. Peter and St. John confirm them (14-25); they preach the gospel to many countries of the Samaritans (25); the parable of the good Samaritan (Luke x. 33).

SAM'GAR, son of Anath, third judge of Israel. He slew six hundred Philistines with a ploughshare, and defended Israel (Judg. iii. 31).

SA'MIR, a city in the tribe of Ephraim, residence of Thola, judge of Israel (Judg. x. 1).

SA'MOS. The Romans wrote to the governor of Samos in favor of the Jews in the time of Simon Machabeus (1 Mach. xv. 23); St. Paul lands there on his way to Jerusalem (Acts xx. 15).

SAMOTHRACIA, an island in the Egean Sea. St. Paul touched there on his way from Troas to Macedonia (Acts xvi. 11).

SAM'SAI, one of those who wrote to king Artaxerxes against the Jews (1 Esd. iv. 8, 9, 17, 23).

SAM'SON, judge of Israel, son of Manue, of the tribe of Dan (Judges xiii. 2-4); his birth foretold to his mother by an angel (3); he was to be a Nazarite (5); Manue himself sees the angel (11-14); Manue offers a kid to the Lord, and the angel went up in the smoke of the sacrifice (20). Samson is born A. M. 2849 (24); the spirit of the Lord comes upon him (25); tears a lion to pieces (xiv. 5); eats a honeycomb from the mouth of the dead lion (9); his riddle to the Philistines (14); his wife seeks the solution and reveals it (17); slays thirty men (19); his wife given to another (20); destroys the corn, vineyards, and oliveyards of the Philistines with fire (xv. 1-6); the Philistines kill his wife and her father (7); he makes a great slaughter of them (8); dwells in a cavern of rock Ectam (8); the Philistine army against Juda encamps at Lechi (9); he is bound and delivered to the Philistines, but bursts his bonds and witch of Endor (xxviii. 15; Eccus. xlv. 23); his praise (xlv. 16; Jerem. xv. 1; Acts iii. 24; xiii. 20).

SANABALL'AT, governor of the Samaritans,

SAPHATHI'A, son of David and Abital (2 Kings iii. 4; 1 Paral. iii. 3). He is mentioned as the fifth son, but no more is recorded of him or his mother.

SAPHATI'A, one of the sons of king Josaphat (2 Paral. xxi. 2).

SAPHATI'A, son of Nathan, accuses the prophet Jeremias of discouraging the people by his predictions (Jerem. xxxviii. 1).

SAP'PHIRE, a precious stone. It was in the second row of gems in the rational (Ex. xxvii. 18); Job mentions it (Job xxviii. 6, 16; Cant. v. 14; Ezechiel i., x., xxviii.); it is referred to as the first foundation of the new Jerusalem (Tob. xiii. 21; Isai. liv. 11; Apoc. xxi. 19).

SAPHI'RA, wife of Ananias, falls dead on hearing of the death of her husband (Acts v.).

SA'RAI, daughter of Thare, and wife of Abraham (Gen. xi. 29; xx. 12); she married him in the land of Ur (xi. 31); passes as his sister (xii.); Pharaoh takes her, but is punished (xii. 15-17); gives her handmaid Agar to Abraham (xvi. 3), but afflicts her so that she runs away (6); overhears the angel promise Abraham a son by her and laughs (xviii. 10); she denies it (15); her name changed to Sara (xvii. 15); Abimelech, king of Ger-rara, takes her (xx. 2); bears Isaac (xxi. 2, 3); asks to have Agar and Ismael cast out (10); she died in Hebron at the age of 127 (xxiii. 1, 2); Abraham buys the double cave, and inters her in it (3-20).

SA'RA, daughter of Raguel. She had been given to seven husbands, who were killed by a devil named Asmodeus (Tob. iii. 8); taunted by her maid-servant (7, 9, 10); her prayer (11-23); the angel Raphael tells Tobias to ask her hand (vi. 13); he does so (vii. 10); she marries him (15, 16); the devil is exorcised (viii.); she sets out with Tobias (x. 10); kills one thousand men with the jaw-bone of an ass (13-17); refreshed by a spring from a tooth in the jaw-bone (19); carries off the gates of Gaza (xvi. 1-3); his love for Dalila (4); she seeks to learn the secret of his strength, and discovers it (5-17); she betrays him, cuts his hair, and gives him up to the Philistines (18-20); they blind him, and put him in a prison to grind (21); after his hair had grown they took him into a temple of Dagon, to make sport for them (22-25); he pulls away the pillars, and the temple fell on the multitude, killing more in death than he had done in life (26-30); his burial (31). He judged Israel twenty years (xv. 20; xvi. 31).

SAMUEL, judge of Israel, son of Elcana and Anna; his mother's grief at her barrenness, and her prayers (1 Kings i. 1-19); birth of Samuel (20); she dedicates him to God at Silo (24-28); he ministers before the Lord, and becomes great (ii. 18, 21); he slept in the temple (iii. 3); receives a message from God for the high-priest Heli (4-18); Samuel recognized as a faithful prophet (20, 21); after the death of Heli, he addresses the people, and becomes judge (vii. 3-6); abolishes idolatry (3, 4); the Philistine army overthrown by thunder at Masphath (10, 11); recovers the cities from Accaron to Geth (14); dwells at Ramatha (17); appoints his sons Joel and Abia judges (viii. 2); the people ask a king (5); Samuel's reply by direction of God (6-18); the people insist (19); God reveals to him the coming of the man he had chosen (ix. 15, 16); Samuel anoints Saul (x. 1); he calls the people together in Maspha (17), and announces that God had chosen Saul (24); he writes the law of the kingdom (25); Samuel's address to the people (xii.); he rebukes Saul for offering sacrifice (xiii. 13); he rebukes him for keeping booty of the Amalecites, and slays Agag (xv. 12-35); consecrates David as king (xvi. 13); dies, and is buried in Ramatha (xxv. 1; xxviii. 3); he appears to Saul, evoked by the and an enemy of the Jews. He was a native of Horon, in the land of Moab (2 Esd. ii. 10); he taunts Nehemias (19); his anger at the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem (iv. 1, 7); forms a league against the Jews (vi. 2); writes to Nehemias (5-7); he gains a false prophet, Semeias (12-14); during the absence of Nehemias, he induced Manasses, grandson of the high-priest Eliashib, to marry his daughter, but Nehemias expelled him (xiii. 28).

SANC'TUARY. The Holy, or part of the tabernacle or temple before the veil (Ex. xxvi. 33; 3 Kings viii. 8). See HOLY.

SAND, used as a type of great number. God promises Abraham a posterity as numerous as the sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered (Gen. xxxii. 12); the harvest of Egypt compared to it (Gen. xli. 49); the armies of the Chanaanites (Jos. xi. 4); the camels of Madian (Judg. vii. 12); the Philistine armies (1 Kings xiii. 5); as a symbol of weight (Prov. xxvii. 3; Eccus. xxii. 18); a grain of sand as the most insignificant thing, "As a pebble of the sand, so are a few years compared to eternity" (Eccus. xviii. 8); instability, the house built on the sand (Matt. vii. 26).

SAN'DALS, a usual protection for the feet in warm countries (Judith x. 3; xvi. 11; Mark vi. 9).

SAPH or SAPHAI, of the race of giants, killed by Sabochai (2 Kings xxi. 18; 1 Paral. xx. 4).

SA'PHAN, the scribe, informs king Josias of the finding of the law of the Lord in the temple (4 Kings xxii. 10; 2 Paral. xxxiv. 20).

she bore him seven sons in Ninive (xiv. 5); they return to her father from Ninive after the death of the parents of Tobias (xiv. 14).

SAMSON'S RIDDLE.

RUINS OF SARDIS.

SARA'A, a city of Juda, fortified by Roboam (2 Paral. xi. 10).

SARA'A, in the tribe of Dan, birthplace of Samson (Judg. xiii. 2).

SARAI'A, the last high-priest of the Jews before the captivity. He was taken by Nabuzardan, and taken to Reblatha, where Nabuchodonosor put him to death, 588 B. C. (Jerem. lii. 24-27; 4 Kings xxv. 18-21).

SARAI'A, son of Helcias, high-priest (2 Esd. xi. 11).

SARA'IAS, brother of Baruch, went to Babylon with king Sedecias (Jerem. li. 59); he bore a letter from Jeremias.

SAR'ASAR, second son of Sennacherib, assassinates his father in the temple of Mesroch (4 Kings xix. 37; 2 Paral. xxxii. 21; Tob. i. 24; Isai. xxxvii. 38).

SAR'DIS, a city in Asia Minor. The angel or bishop of Sardis is blamed for his works (Apoc. iii. 1, 2); the faithful of the church of Sardis who persevere in good are praised (4).

SAR'DIUS STONE, a precious stone, in the first row on the rational (Ex. xxviii. 17); mentioned by Ezechiel (xxviii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 20).

SAR'DONYX, a precious stone (Job xxviii. 16).

SARE'A, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 53).

SARE'DA, a city in the tribe of Ephraim, birthplace of Jeroboam, son of Nabat (3 Kings xi. 26).

SAREDA'THA, a city in the tribe of Ephraim (2 Paral. iv. 17).

SAREPH'TA, or SAREPTA (Luke iv. 26), a city of the Sidonians. Elias is sent there (3 Kings xvii. 9); he is received by a widow woman, whose meal and oil he makes inexhaustible till rain fell (10-16); he raises her son to life (17-24); Sarepta mentioned (Abd. xx.).

SA'RID, a city of Zabulon (Jos. xix. 10).

SARO'HEN, a city of the tribe of Simeon (Jos. xix. 6).

SA'RON, a district beyond the Jordan in the tribe of Gad (1 Paral. v. 16; xxvii. 29); its fertility was proverbial (Isai. xxxiii. 9; xxxv. 2).

SA'RON, a city whose king was taken and slain by Josue (Jos. xii. 18).

SA'RON, a place near Lydda (Acts ix. 35).

SARSA'CHIM, one of the Babylonian generals (Jer. xxxix. 3).

SAR'THAN, a city on the Jordan, to which the waters rolled back when Josue crossed it (Jos. iii. 16); Solomon cast vessels for the temple near Sarthan (3 Kings vii. 46).

SA'RUG, son of Reu or Ragau (Gen. xi. 20-22); he died at the age of two hundred and thirty, 1955 B. C.

SAR'VIA, sister of David and mother of Joab, Abisai and Asael (2 Kings ii. 18; 1 Paral. ii. 16).

SAS'SABAS'AR, prince of Juda. Cyrus delivered to him the vessels of the temple of Jerusalem (1 Esd. i. 8); the name is probably the Babylonian term for Zorobabel; the foundation of the temple is ascribed to both (Zach. iv. 9; 1 Esd. v. 16).

SA'TAN, the devil, tempts Job (Job i. 6; ii. 1; xii. 7); tempts David to number his people (1 Paral. xxi. 1); opposes Jesus the high-priest (Zach. iii. 1); tempts our Lord (Matt. iv. 10; Mark i. 13); seeks to tempt the apostles (Luke xxii. 31); enters into Juda (Luke xxii. 3; John xiii. 27); taketh the good seed out of hearts (Matt. iv. 15); tempts Ananias (Acts v. 3); sinners will be delivered to (1 Cor. v. 5; 1 Tim.

i. 20); transfigures himself into an angel of light (2 Cor. xi. 14); the devil (Apoc. xii. 9; xx. 2); loosed from prison (xx. 7).

SAUL, son of Cis, of the tribe of Benjamin, first king of the Israelites. He goes to seek his father's asses (1 Kings ix. 3); resolves to consult Samuel (9); God reveals to Samuel that he was to be the king (15); anointed king by Samuel (x. 1); he prophesies (11); Samuel presents him to the people (24); some of the army join him (26); others deride him (27); he sets out from Gabaa to relieve Jabes of Galaad besieged by Naas (xi. 1-6); summons the people and raises an army of 330,000 men (8); slaughters the Ammonites (11); he is made king in Galgal (15); he waits in Galgal for Samuel, and as he delayed he offers sacrifice (xiii. 9, 10); is rebuked (13, 14); Jonathan attacks the Philistines and throws them into confusion, so that they slay each other (xiv. 14); the rash curse of Saul (24); he defeats Moab, Ammon, Edom, the king of Soba, and the Philistines (47); and Amalec (48); he had three sons, Jonathan, Jessui and Melchisua, and two daughters, Merob and Michol. His wife was Achinoam (49, 50); he is sent to destroy Amalec, but spares Agag the king and saves much booty; he is rebuked by Samuel, who hewed Agag to pieces (xv.); Saul is troubled by an evil spirit (xvi. 14, 15); David, by the music of his harp, relieves him from it (23); Goliath, the champion of the Philistines, defies the army of Saul, but is slain by David (xvii. 1-51); the Philistines are defeated (51, 52); the praise of David excites the anger and jealousy of Saul (xviii. 5-9); but he gives him his daughter Michol to wife on his slaying two hundred Philistines (17-27); he attempts to pierce David with his spear (xviii. 10; xix. 10); he pursues him (xx.-xxiii.); Doeg the Edomite, by his orders, slays the high-priest Achimelech and eighty-five priests, and destroyed Nob, their city (xxii. 18, 19); the Ziphites tell him of David's abode (xxiii. 19); pursues him to the desert of Maon (25); recalled to meet the Philistines (28); accidentally places himself in the power of David, who cut off the hem of his robe (xxiv. 5); David then addressed him (9-16); he is reconciled to David, who promised not to destroy his seed (22); he again pursues David (xxvi. 1-3); David enters his tent at night, and carried off his spear and cup of water, but would not let Abisai hurt him (3-13); he is again reconciled to David (17-25); he puts away all the magicians and soothsayers out of the land (xxviii. 3); when the Philistines invade the land, he camped at Gelboe (4); saw that his army was discouraged (5); consults the Lord in vain (6); goes to a woman with a divining spirit at Endor (7); she evokes Samuel, who tells him that he and his sons are to die the next day (15-19); defeated by the Philistines (xxxi. 1); his sons, Jonathan, Abinadab and Melchisua, slain (2); Saul himself wounded by arrows (3); falls on his sword (4); his head cut off (9); his armor put in the temple of Astaroth (10); his body hung on the wall of Buthsan (10); the men of Jabes Galaad recover the bodies of Saul and his sons and bury them (12, 13); his children by Respha crucified (2 Kings xxi. 9).

SAVE, a vale where Abraham defeated Chodorlahomor and his allies and rescued Lot (Gen. xiv. 17).

SA'VIOUR, our Lord Jesus Christ. See CHRIST.

SA'VIOUR OF THE WORLD, Pharaoh gives Joseph an Egyptian name with this meaning (Gen. xli. 45).

SA'VIOUR, Othniel called a Saviour (Judg. iii. 9); Aod (15; 2 Esd. ix. 27).

SA'VIOUR, Almighty God, Saviour of Israel (1 Kings xiv. 39; 4 Kings xiii. 5); David invokes

THE MOLTEN SEA.

God as his Saviour (2 Kings xxii. 2, 3; 1's. xvii. 1; Paral. xvi. 35); Esther (Esth. xv. 5).

SCAN'DAL. We are not to scandalize our neighbor by our life or words (Lev. iv. 3; Num. xxxi. 16; 2 Kings xi. 14; 1 Esd. viii. 22; Prov. xxviii. 10; 2 Mach. vi. 24; Matt. xvii. 26; xviii. 6; Mark ix. 41; Luke xvii. 2; Rom. xiv. 13, 21; 1 Cor. viii. 13; 2 Cor. vi. 3; 1 Thess. v. 22); we are obliged to flee from all that may prove a scandal to us (Ex. xxxiv. 12; Deut. vii. 2, 16; xiii.; Matt. v. 29; xvi. 22; Mark ix. 42; Rom. xvi. 17).

SCENOPEG'IA, the Greek term for the Jewish feast of tabernacles (1 Mach. x. 21; 2 Mach. i. 9. 18; John vii. 2).

SCEP'TRE, not to pass from Juda till the coming of the Messiah (Gen. xlix. 10).

SCE'VA, a Jewish priest. His sons attempt to exorcise an evil spirit in the name of Christ, but are put to flight by the demons (Acts xix. 11-16).

SCHIB'BOLETH, an ear of corn. The Ephraimites after their defeat by Jephthe detected at the ford of Jordan by this word (Judg. xii. 6).

SCIN'IPHS. Insects sent as a plague on Egypt (Ex. viii. 16-18).

SCOR'PION, a venomous insect (Deut. viii. 15; Ezech. ii. 6; Eccles. xxvi. 10; Apoc. ix. 3, 5).

SCOR'PION, the ascent of the (Num. xxxiv. 4; Jos. xv. 3).

SCOR'PIONS, scourges with sharp metal points, Roboam threatens his people with (3 Kings xii. 11, 14; 2 Paral. x. 11, 14).

SCOURG'ING. This punishment inflicted on our Lord (Matt. xx. 19; Mark xv. 15); on the apostles (Acts v. 40; xvi. 22; 2 Cor. xi. 25).

SCREECH OWL, forbidden as unclean (Lev. xi. 17).

SCRIBES, doctors of the law among the Jews (2 Kings viii. 17; xx. 25; 4 Kings xii. 10; 1 Paral. xxiv. 6; 2 Paral. xxxiv. 13; 2 Esd. viii. 1; Jer. xx. 36; 1 Mach. v. 42; vii. 12; 2 Mach. vi. 18); they and the Pharisees oppose and persecute our Lord (Matt. v. 20; vii. 29; xvi. 21; xvii. 10; xx. 18; xxiii. 2, 13, 14; xxvi. 57; xxvii. 41; Mark i. 22; ii. 6, 16; iii. 22; vii. 1, 6; viii. 31; ix. 10, 13; x. 33; xi. 18, 27; xii. 28, 32, 35, 38; xiv. 1, 43, 53; xv. 1, 31; Luke v. 21, 30; vi. 7; ix. 12; xv. 2; xx. 1, 19, 39, 46; xxii. 2, 66; xxiii. 10; John viii. 3; Acts iv. 5; vi. 12).

SCRIP, David puts stones in a shepherd's scrip to fight Goliath (1 Kings xvii. 40); the apostles forbidden by our Lord to carry a scrip for a journey (Matt. x. 10; Mark vi. 8; Luke ix. 3).

SCRIP'TURES. The origin of the Holy Scriptures, and how they are to be used (Ex. xvii. 14; xxxiv. 27; Deut. xvii. 18; xxxi. 9; Jos. i. 8; 2 Esd. viii. 3; Isai. xxx. 8; xxxiv. 16; Jer. xxx. 2; xxxvi. 2, 10; Bar. i. 14; Dan. x. 21; Matt. iv. 4; Luke xvi. 29; John v. 39; Acts xv. 21; xvii. 11; Rom. iv. 23; xv. 4; 1 Cor. ix. 9; x. 11); God gives the true understanding of them (2 Pet. i. 20); some abuse the difficult things therein (iii. 16); the apostles have not written all things (John xxi. 25; 1 Cor. xi. 34; 2 Thess. ii. 14; 2 John 12; 3 John 13); the priests are the depositaries and interpreters of the Scriptures (Deut. xxiv. 8; Ezech. xliv. 24; Mal. ii. 7).

SCULP'TURE, or graven image to the likeness of anything, expressly forbidden to the Jews, and why (Ex. xx. 4; Lev. xxvi. 1; Deut. iv. 16; Jos. xxiv. 14; Ps. xcvi. 7); sculptured figures in the tabernacle (Ex. xxxvii. 7, 8, 9); precious stones cut and engraved (xxxix. 6).

SCYTH'IANS mentioned as types of barbarity, scalping men (2 Mach. iv. 47); mentioned Col. iii. 11.

SEA, created (Gen. i. 10, 22); Job's description of the sea (Job vi. 3; vii. 12; ix. 8; xi. 9; xiv. 11; xxvi. 12; xxviii. 14; xxxvi. 30; xxxviii. 8-16; xli. 22); David's (Ps. viii. 9; xxiii. 2; xxxii. 7; lxiv. 6, 8; lxviii. 3; ciii. 25; cxxxiv. 6); Solomon's (Prov. viii. 29); the sea receives all the waters (Eccles. i. 7; Lam. ii. 13; Ezech. i. 16; xxvi. 3); Jesus stills the sea (Matt. viii. 26); he walks on the sea (Matt. xiv. 24; Mark vi. 48).

SEA, THE MOLTEN, set up in Solomon's temple instead of the laver, five cubits high and thirty in circumference, made of brass captured from Adazer (1 Paral. xviii. 8). It stood on twelve oxen, resting on bases; and the whole had wheels to move it (3 Kings vii. 33-37); Achaz took the sea down and placed it on a stone pavement (4 Kings xvi. 17); it was finally broken up by the Chaldeans (xxv. 13).

SEA OF THE DESERT, the Dead Sea, so called (Deut. iii. 17; Jos. xii. 3).

SEA OF GALILEE (which is that of Tiberias) (John vi. 1; xxi. 1); Jesus walking by the Sea of Galilee calls Peter, Andrew, James, and John (Matt.

iv. 18-22; Mark i. 16); he stills the tempest on the sea (Matt. viii. 24-27; Mark iv. 1-40; Luke viii. 25); the swine rush into the sea in the country of the Gerasens (Matt. viii. 28-34; Mark v. 13); teaches by the sea (Matt. xiii. 1; Mark v. 1-12); walks on the sea (Matt. xiv. 26-28; Mark vi. 47-49; John vi. 1-25); multiplies loaves on a mountain by the sea, and crosses to Magadan (Matt. xv. 29-39; Mark vii. 31); Peter obtains money from a fish in the Sea of Galilee (Matt. xvii. 36); Jesus teaches the multitudes near the sea, and calls Levi (Mark ii. 13, 14); appears to his disciples after his resurrection at the Sea of Galilee (John xxi.).

SEAL, Aman seals the orders of Assuerus with the king's ring (Esth. iii. 12); the priests of Bel ask king Nabuchodonosor to seal the temple door with his ring (Dan. xiv. 10); put me as a seal upon thy heart, and a seal upon thy arm (Cant. viii. 6); a sealed fountain (iv. 12); God's sealed treasures (Deut. xxxii. 34); Job says God has sealed up his offences (Job xiv. 17); Jeremias seals a deed for land (Jer. xxxii. 10); St. John sees in the Apocalypse a book with seven seals (Apoc. v.).

SEAT OF MAJESTY, the Son of Man sitting upon as judge (Matt. xix. 28; xxv. 31; Heb. viii. 1; xii. 2; Apoc. xxii. 3).

SE'BA, son of Bochri, of the tribe of Benjamin, revolts against David after the overthrow of Absalom (2 Kings xx. 1, 2); Joab besieges him in Abela beth Maacha (xx. 15); the people cut off his head and throw it over the wall (22).

SE'BAT, one of the months of the Jewish year.

SEBE'NIAS, a priest in the time of David who sounded the trumpet before the ark (1 Paral. xv. 24).

SEB'EON, the Hevite. Esau marries his granddaughter (Gen. xxxvi. 2); his sons (24).

SEB'IA, of Bersabee, wife of Ochozias, king of Juda, and mother of king Joas (4 Kings xii. 1; 2 Paral. xxiv. 1).

SEB'OIM, one of the cities of the Pentapolis, destroyed by fire from heaven (Gen. x. 19; xiv. 2, 8; Deut. xxix. 23; Osee xi. 8); the valley of Seboim (1 Kings xiii. 18); a city in the tribe of Benjamin (2 Esd. xi. 34).

SE'CHEM, of the tribe of Manasses, son of Galaad, and father of the Sechemites (Num. xxvi. 31; Jos. xvii. 2; 1 Paral. vii. 19).

SECHE'NIAS, son of Obdia, of the race of David (1 Paral. iii. 21-24).

SECHE'NIAS, head of the tenth family of priests (1 Paral. xxiv. 11; 1 Esd. viii. 3, 5).

SECHE'NIAS, son of Jehiel, advises the sending away of Gentile wives (1 Esd. x. 1-4).

SECHRO'NA, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 11).

SE'CRET OF A KING. It is good to hide (Tob. xii. 7).

SECTS, numbered among the works of the flesh (Gal. v. 20); originated by lying teachers, who bring upon themselves swift destruction (2 Pet. ii. 1); authors of described (10).

SECUN'DUS, a disciple of St. Paul. He was of Thessalonica, and followed St. Paul from Greece to Asia (Acts xx. 4).

SECURE' (JOAS), one of the descendants of Juda (1 Paral. iv. 22).

SEDA'DA, a city of Syria, on the frontier of the promised land (Num. xxxiv. 8; Ezech. xlvii. 15).

SEDECI'AS, called also Mathanias. He was uncle of Joachim, king of Juda, whom Nabuchodo-nosor deposed and carried away to Babylon (2 Paral. xxxvi. 11; Jer. xxxvii. 1; 4 Kings xxiv. 15); setting Mathanias on the throne, and calling him Sedecias (17); he was then twenty-one (18); his reign was wicked (19); he revolted against the king of Babylon, who besieged Jerusalem, and reduced it to terrible distress (xxiv. 20; xxv. 4); when the walls were breached Sedecias fled, but was overtaken, defeated, and taken in the plains of Jericho (5); he was carried to Reblatha, where Nabuchodonosor slew his sons, put out his eyes, and then took him in chains to Babylon (6, 7; 2 Paral. xxxvi. 11-20); all this had been foretold by the prophets Jeremias and Ezechiel (Jer. xxvii. 22; xxxvii. 16; Ezech. xiii. 3; xvii. 16; xx.). He reigned eleven years, and the kingdom of Juda ended with him.

SEDECI'AS, son of Chanana, a false prophet in Samaria (3 Kings xxii. 11; 2 Paral. xviii. 10); another false prophet burned alive by the king of Babylon (Jer. xxix. 22).

SEDI'TION punished (Num. xvi. 31).

SEDUCE'. We are warned not to allow evil teachers to seduce us (Matt. xxiv. 4-11; Mark xiii. 5-12; Luke xxi. 8; Rom. xvi. 18; 1 Cor. iii. 18; xv. 33; Eph. v. 6; 2 Thess. ii. 3); Satan seduceth the whole world (Apoc. xii. 9).

SEED. Parable of the seed (Matt. xiii. 24-30; Mark iv. 3-9).

SE'GOR, one of the cities of the Pentapolis, situated at the south end of the Dead Sea, preserved for the sake of Lot (Gen. xix. 22); called also Bala (Gen. xiv. 2).

SE'GUB, son of Hial, of Bethel, died when his father hung the gates of Jericho, having rebuilt it in defiance of Josue's prophetic curse (3 Kings xvi. 34; Jos. vi. 26).

SE'HON, king of Hesebon, defeated the king of Moab, and took much territory (Num. xxi. 26); commanded the Amorrites beyond the Jordan; Moses sent to him to ask permission to pass through his territory (Num. xxi. 21; Deut. ii. 26); he refused (Num. xxi. 21; Deut. ii. 30), raised an army to oppose them, and marched into the desert; gave them battle at Jasa (Num. xxi. 23; Deut. ii. 32); was defeated and slain (Num. xxi. 24; Deut. i. 4).

SE'HON, the city of Hesebon (Num. xxi. 27, 28; Jer. xlviii. 45).

SE'IR, the Horrite; his descendants (Gen. xxxvi. 20-30; 1 Paral. i. 38, 39).

SEIR, MOUNT, a range east and south of the Dead Sea (Deut. i. 2); mentioned (Gen. xiv. 6; Jos. xxiv. 4; Deut. ii. 5; 2 Paral. xx. 10; Ezech. xxxv. 2).

SE'IR, a mountain on the frontiers of the tribes of Juda and Dan (Jos. xv. 10).

SE'IRA, the mount or country of Seir, inhabited by the Edomites (4 Kings viii. 21).

SEI'RATH, a place to which Aod went after killing Eglon, king of Moab (Judg. iii. 26).

SE'LA, son of Juda by Sue (Gen. xxxviii. 5); his posterity (1 Paral. iv. 21).

SE'LA, a place in the tribe of Benjamin (Jos. xviii. 28).

SEL'CHA, a city in the kingdom of Og, beyond the Jordan (Deut. iii. 10; 1 Paral. v. 11).

SEL'EBIN, a city in the tribe of Dan (Jos. xix. 42).

SE'LEC, an Ammonite; one of the heroes of David's army (2 Kings xxiii. 37; 1 Paral. xi. 39).

SELE'MIAS, a priest appointed to receive the tithes and first-fruits (2 Esd. xiii. 13).

SELE'MIAS, son of Abdeel, sent by king Joakin to arrest Jeremias (Jer. xxxvi. 26).

SELE'MIAS, Juchal, son of, sent by king Sedecias to ask the prayers of Jeremias (Jer. xxxviii. 1, 3).

SELE'MITH, son of Zechri, a descendant of Moses, guardian of the treasures of the temple (1 Paral. xxvi. 26).

SELEU'CIA, a city of Syria, situated on the Mediterranean at the mouth of the Orontes. Ptolemy Philometor extends conquests to it (1 Mach. xi. 8); St. Paul and St. Barnabas embarked there to go to Cyprus (Acts xiii. 4).

SELEU'CUS (surnamed Philopator, son of Antiochus the Great), king of Asia, allowed out of his revenues the cost of the sacrifices in the temple of Jerusalem (2 Mach. iii. 3); sends Heliodorus to plunder the temple (7-40); called by Daniel "one most vile and unworthy of kingly honor" (Dan. xi. 20); the prophet foretold his death: "in a few days he shall be destroyed, not in rage nor in battle" (20); he was assassinated by Heliodorus.

SE' LIM, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 32.)

SEL'LA, wife of Lamech, and mother of Tubalcain and Noema (Gen. iv. 21, 22).

SEL'LA, the descent of. Joas, king of Juda, assassinated by his servants in the house of Mello, in the descent of Sella (4 Kings xii. 20).

SEL'LAI, one of the chief priests who returned from the captivity with Zorobabel (2 Esd. xii. 6, 20).

SEL'LEM, son of Nephthali (Num. xxvi. 49).

SELLERS and BUYERS driven out of the temple by our Lord (John ii. 14-16).

SEL'LUM, son or native of Jabes, conspired against Zacharias, king of Israel, and slew him publicly (4 Kings xv. 10); he usurped the throne, but reigned only one month in Samaria, 771 B. C. (4 Kings xv. 13).

SEL'LUM, son or native of Thecua, husband of the prophetess Holda, in the days of Josias, king of Juda (4 Kings xxii. 14).

SEL'LUM, fourth son of Josias, king of Juda (1 Paral. iii. 15; Jer. xxii. 11); he is the same as Joachaz, who was carried into Egypt (4 Kings xxiii. 30-34).

SEL'LUM, son of Nephthali (1 Paral. vii. 13; Gen. xvi. 24).

SEL'LUM, son of the high-priest Sadoc, and progenitor of the high-priest Helcias (1 Paral. vi. 12, 13); called also Mosollam (ix. 11).

SEL'LUM, son of Core (1 Paral. ix. 19, 31); apparently escaped when the rest were swallowed up (Num. xxvi. 11).

SEL'LUM, son of Cholhoza, restored the gate of the fountain, and the wall to the pool of Siloe (2 Esd. iii. 15).

SEL'LUM, Ezechias, son of, induces the Israelites to treat the people of Juda humanely (2 Paral. xxviii. 12).

SEL'LUM, son of Alohes, lord of half the street of Jerusalem, with his daughters built part of the wall (2 Esd. iii. 12).

SEL'MON, a mountain near Sichem. Abimelech's stratagem at (Judg. ix. 48); mentioned by David (Ps. lxxvii. 15).

SEL'MON, an Ahoite, one of David's heroes (2 Kings xxiii. 28).

SEM, son of Noe, born 2646 B. C., apparently younger than Japheth, and older than Cham (Gen. vi. 10); entered the ark with his father; blessed by Noe for not treating him with disrespect, like Cham (ix. 26); his sons were Elam, Assur, Arphaxad, Lud, and Aram (x. 22); he lived to the age of 600 (xi. 10, 11); Abraham descended from Sem through Arphaxad (11-27). He is the ancestor of the Semitic family of nations.

SEMAI'A, a false prophet gained by Tobias and Sanballat, endeavors to alarm Nehemias (2 Esd. vi. 1-14).

SE'MATHITES, a tribe allied to Cariathiarim (1 Paral. ii. 53).

SEME'BER, king of Seboim, one of the allies of the kings of the Pentapolis (Gen. xiv. 2).

SEM'EGARNABU, general of Nabuchodonosor (Jerem. xxxix. 3).

SEM'EI, second son of Gerson and grandson of Levi (Ex. vi. 17; Num. iii. 18; 1 Paral. vi. 17; xxiii. 7); head of the family of Semeites (Num. iii. 21; 1 Paral. xxiii. 7, 10; Zach. xii. 13).

RABSACES BEFORE SENNACHERIB.

SEM'EI, son of Gera, a kinsman of Saul, cursed and stoned David, as he left Jerusalem, at the time of Absalom's rebellion (2 Kings xvi. 5, 13); after his return he seeks and obtains pardon (2 Kings xix. 16, 17); David charges Solomon not to let him go unpunished (3 Kings ii. 9); Solomon ordered him to build a house in Jerusalem, and not to go out of it, under pain of death, if he passed Cedron (37); three years after he went to Geth in pursuit of runaway servants (40); and he was put to death (46).

SEMEI'AS, a prophet sent to Roboam, king of Juda, to forbid him to make war on the Ten Tribes (3 Kings xii. 22; 2 Paral. xi. 2; xii. 5, 7).

SEME'IAS, a Levite sent by king Josaphat to instruct the people (2 Paral. xvii. 8).

SEME'IAS OF NEHELAM, a false prophet at Babylon, wrote to Jerusalem against Jeremias (Jerem. xxix. 24-32).

SE'MER, sold Mount Somer or Semeron, on which Amri, king of Israel, built Samaria (3 Kings xvi. 24).

SEM'ERON or SOMER, the mountain on which Samaria was built (2 Paral. xiii. 4); a battle had been fought there between Abia, king of Juda, and Jeroboam, in which Abia was victorious (2 Par. xiii.)

SEM'ERON, a city of the Chanaanites (Jos. xi. 1; xii. 20).

SEM'LA, king of Masreca, in Idumea (Gen. xxxvi. 36).

SEM'MA, of Arari, son of Age, one of David's champions (2 Kings xxiii. 11); he defeats the Philistines (12); brings to David water from the cistern of Bethlehem (16).

SEM'MAA, brother of David, and father of Jonadab (2 Kings xiii. 3).

SEM'RAN, son of Issachar (Num. xxvi. 24).

SEN. Samuel set up the Stone of Help between Masphath and Sen, to commemorate a victory over the Philistines (1 Kings vii. 12).

SEN'AA. The children of Senaa were a body of 3950, who returned from Babylon (2 Esd. vii. 38).

SENE', steep cliffs like teeth between Machmas and Gabaa; Jonathan and his armor-bearer crept by it to attack the Philistines (1 Kings xiv. 4).

SEN'NA, a city in the south of the promised land (Num. xxxiv. 4).

SEN'NAAB, king of Adama, one of the cities of the Pentapolis, defeated by Amraphel and his allies (Gen. xiv. 2).

SEN'NAAR, a country of Babylonia. Calanne was built here by Nemrod (Gen. x. 10); here the descendants of Noe began to build the tower of Babel (Gen. xi. 2); Amraphel, king of Sennaar, was powerful in the time of Abraham (xiv. 1); the name is given to the country of Babylon (Dan. i. 2; Zach. v. 11).

SENNACH'ERIB, king of Assyria, son and successor of Salmanasar, reigned 714-704 B. C. Ezechias, king of Juda, threw off the yoke of the Assyrians (4 Kings xviii. 7), which Theglathphalasar had imposed on Achaz (4 Kings xvi. 10; 2 Paral. xxviii. 20, 21); Sennacherib marched against him, and took all the strong cities of Juda (4 Kings xviii. 13; 2 Paral. xxxii. 1); while besieging Lachis, he received proposals of submission from Ezechias, but he demanded 300 talents of silver and thirty talents of gold (4 Kings xviii. 14); Ezechias paid it, stripping the very doors of the temple (16), but Sennacherib, instead of retiring, sent a part of his army under Tharthan, Rabsares, and Rabsaces, to demand

SEPH'ORA, one of the seven daughters of Raguel, priest of Madian (Ex. ii. 16-21); driven away from the well by shepherds, but protected by Moses (16, 17); marries Moses (21); bears Gersam and Eliezer (22; xviii. 3, 4); went with him to Egypt, but on the way circumcised her son with a very sharp stone, when the Lord would have killed Moses for his negligence (iv. 25); sent back to Madian by Moses (xviii. 2); she and her two sons brought to Moses in Raphidiin, by Jethro her kinsman (5); Aaron and Mary call her an Ethiopian (Num. xii.)

SEPH'ORA, one of the mid-wives of the Israelite women in Egypt, who saved the children (Ex. i. 15).

SEPTUAGINT. The ancient Greek version of the Old Testament, made in Egypt, as is generally stated, in the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus, by seventy-two learned Jews, and the translation took the name Septuagint, meaning seventy, from this fact. As Greek became the prevailing language through Asia Minor, Palestine, and Egypt, this version came into general circulation. It was used by our Lord and his apostles, as is evident from places where it is cited in the New Testament, and does not correspond with the modern Hebrew text. The Septuagint version of Deut. vii. is cited (Matt. iv. 4); of Deut. vi. 16 in Matt. vi. 7; of Osee vi. 6 in Matt. ix. 13; of Lev. xix. 18 in Matt. xix. 19; of Ps. viii. 2 in Matt. xxi. 16; of Ps. cxviii. 22, 23, in Matt. xxi. 42; of Ex. iii. 6 in Matt. xxii. 32; of Ps. cx. 1 in Matt. xxii. 44; of Zach. xiii. 7 in Matt. xxvii. 31.

SEPULCHRE, HOLY. The tomb in which our Lord was laid on Mount Calvary. It had been hewn in the rock by Joseph of Arimathea, for his own use (Matt. xxvii. 60); our Lord's body was laid there by Joseph and Nicodemus (Matt. xxvii. 57-60; Mark xv. 43-46; Luke xxiii. 50-53; John xix. 38-42); the sepulchre was sealed and guarded at the desire of the Jewish priests (Matt. xxvii. 60, 66); Mary Magdalen and the other Mary, mother of Joseph, sat over against it (Matt. xxvii. 61; Mark xv. 47; Luke xxiii. 55); the same with Salome, went to the sepulchre early on the first day of the week. The stone rolled back by an angel who sat on it, terrifying the guards (Matt. xxviii. 1-4; Mark xvi. 4; Luke xxiv. 2; John xx. 1); they entered (Mark xvi. 5); but found not the body of the Lord (Luke xxiv. 3); but saw angels who told them that the Lord had risen (Matt. xxviii. 5, 7; Mark xvi. 5-7; Luke xxiv. 4-8); they went out of the sepulchre, and ran to tell the disciples (Matt. xxviii. 8; Mark xvi. 8); going back they told them (Luke xxiv. 9); St. Peter and St. John went to the sepulchre and entered it (Luke xxiv. 12; John xx. 3-8); our Lord appears to Mary Magdalen at the sepulchre (Mark xvi. 9; John xx. 11-17);

Isaiah predicts that his sepulchre shall be glorious (Isai. xi. 10).

SEPULCHRE of David (Acts ii. 29).

SEPULTURE. It is one of the works of mercy to bury the dead (Gen. xxiii. 19; xxv. 9; xxxv. 19, 29; Num. xx. 1; Deut. x. 6; xxi. 23; Jos. xxiv. 30; Judg. xii. 7; 1 Kings xxv.; 2 Kings ii. 32; 3 Kings ii. 10, 34; xi. 43; xiii. 30; xiv. 31; 4 Kings xiii. 20; 2 Paral. xvi. 14; xxiv. 16; xxxv. 24; Tob. i. 20; ii. 4, 7; iv. 3, 18; viii. 14; xii. 12; xiv. 12, 16; Eccles. vii. 37; xxxviii. 16; Matt. xiv. 12; xxvii. 58; John xix. 39; Acts viii. 2; xiii. 29; 1 Cor. xv. 4).

SER, a city in the tribe of Nephthali (Jos. xix. 35).

SER'APHIM, an order of angels, seen by Isaiah in a vision; they had six wings, covering their faces with two, their feet with two, and flying with two (Isai. vi. 2).

SERGIUS PAULUS, proconsul or governor of the island of Cyprus, converted by St. Paul (Acts xiii. 7). See PAUL.

SER'MON of our Lord on the Mount (Matt. v. 3, 12; Luke vi. 20); sermon or discourse to Nicodemus (John iii. 3); on his divinity (John v. 17-32); on St. John the Baptist (33, 35; Matt. xi. 2, 19; Luke vii. 24-35); on the incredulity of the Jews (Matt. xi. 20); on the bread from heaven (John vi. 26); on humility (Matt. xxiii. 1, 5); on correction and fraternal charity (15-22); on purity of heart (xv. 8; Mark vii. 6); on the cross (Matt. xvi. 24); on the love of God (Luke x. 27); on prayer (i. 13); before and after the Last Supper (Matt. xxvi.; Mark xiv.; Luke xxii.; John xiii. 12-38; xiv. xvi.); sermon of St. Peter on Pentecost (Acts i. 16; ii. 14); of St. Paul in the synagogue (xiii. 16); before the Areopagus (Acts xvii. 22); before Felix, the pro-consul (xxiv. 10).

THE BIRTH OF OUR SAVIOUR ANNOUNCED TO THE SHEPHERDS BY ANGELS.

SER'RON, general of the army of Antiochus Epiphanes (1 Mach. xiii. 13, 23); he undertook to overthrow Judas Machabeus, but was routed at the surrender of the city (17); they met envoys of Ezechias, and not only insulted them, but blasphemed the God of Israel (19-35); Sennacherib then besieged Lobna (4 Kings xix. 8), and wrote a letter to Ezechias in the same strain of insult and blasphemy (10-13; Isai. xxxvi. 1); hearing of the advance of Tharaca, king of Ethiopia, he advanced to meet him, and never invested the city of Jerusalem (4 Kings xix. 32), an angel of the Lord having slain 185,000 men in his camp in one night (35; Isai. xxxvii. 36; 1 Mach. vii. 41; 2 Mach. viii. 19; Tob. i. 21; Eccles. xlvi. 24); Sennacherib then returned to Ninive (4 Kings xix. 36), and was assassinated in the temple of Nesroch by his two sons Adramelch and Sarasar, as Isaiah had foretold (Isai. x. 33; xxxi. 8; xxxiii. 1).

CHURCH OF THE HOLY SEPULCHRE AT JERUSALEM

SENSEN'NA, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 3).

SE'ON, a city in the tribe of Issachar (Jos. xix. 19).

SEO'RIM, the fourth of the twenty-four courses of priestly families (1 Paral. xxiv. 8).

SEPH'A'ATH, a city in the tribe of Simeon (Judg. i. 17).

SEPHA'MA, a city of Syria, on the frontiers of the promised land (Num. xxxiv. 10, 11).

SEPH'AMOTH, David sent there the spoils he took from the Amalecites (1 Kings xxx. 28).

SEPH'AR, a mountain in the East, apparently in or near Armenia (Gen. x. 30).

SEPHARVA'IM, a tribe or people sent by Salamanazar to colonize the kingdom of Israel after the removal of the ten tribes (4 Kings xvii. 24, 31); they were perhaps from the Sephar mountains (Gen. x. 30); they were idolaters, and worshipped Ana and Ava as their gods or kings (4 Kings xviii. 34; Isai. xxxvii. 13; 4 Kings xix. 13); they offered their children in sacrifice to these gods (4 Kings xvii. 31); when they settled in Samaria many were destroyed by lions (xvii. 25, 26), and to propitiate the god of the country, a Jewish priest was sent to them (28), after which time they worshipped both the true God and their old divinities (33).

SEPHA'TA, a valley near Maresa (2 Paral. xiv. 10), where Asa defeated Zerah.

SEPHIE'LA, a district in which Simon built and fortified Adiada (1 Mach. xii. 28).

SE'PHER, one of the encampments of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 23).

SEPH'ET, a city in the tribe of Nephthali (Tob. i. 1).

Oethoron, and his army fled to the territory of the Philistines.

SER/PENT. The devil, under the figure of a serpent, seduces Eve (Gen. iii. 1, 5); it is cursed (14); prediction that the woman shall crush his head (iii. 15); miraculous serpent produced by the rod of Moses (Ex. iv. 3, 4; vii. 10); imitated by Pharaoh's magicians, who make their rods turn into serpents (12); that of Aaron devours those of the magicians (12); Moses sets up the brazen serpent in the wilderness (Num. xxi. 8); did not heal by its own power (Wisd. xvi. 7); was a figure of Jesus Christ (John iii. 14); worshipped by the Jews under the name of SHIELDS.

1. Assyrian. 2, 3. Persian. (From Layard, Ker Porter. Fbn.)

Nohestan, till destroyed by king Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 4).

SERPENT WORSHIP (Wis. xi. 16; Dan. xiv. 22-26).

SE/RUG, son of Ragau, and father of Nachor (Gen. xi. 20; 1 Paral. i. 26).

SER/VANTS and HANDMAIDS. Their duty (Gen. xxiv.; xxxi. 39; Ex. xxii. 28; 4 Kings v. 20, 25; Prov. xiv. 35; xix. 10; xxix. 19; Ecclus. x. 28; Luke xii. 37, 45; 1 Cor. vii. 21; Col. iii. 22; 1 Tim. vi. 1; Heb. xiii. 17; 1 Pet. ii. 18); how they should be treated by their masters (Deut. v. 14; xii. 12).

SER/VITUDE or BONDAGE. Law limiting the time during which a Hebrew might remain in bondage (Lev. xxv. 39, 40); the Hebrews rebellious to God's commandments, are reduced to servitude by Thelathphalasir, king of Assyria (4 Kings xv. 29); by Salmanasar (xvii. 6; xviii. 11); those who violate the law of God are under the servitude of sin (John viii. 34; Rom. vi. 17, 20).

SE/SAC (SESONCHIS), king of Egypt, declared war on Roboam, king of Juda, in the fifth year of Roboam's reign, 971 B. C. He took the strong places, and advanced to Jerusalem (3 Kings xiv. 25; 2 Paral. xii. 2); his army consisted of 1,200 chariots, 60,000 horsemen, and footmen beyond number (2 Paral. xii. 3); he took the strongest cities of Juda (4); he captured Jerusalem and plundered the temple and the palace (3 Kings xiv. 26; 2 Paral. xii. 9).

SE/SAC, a term in Jer. xxv. 26; li. 41, used apparently for Babylon.

SE/SAI, one of the three brothers, giants of the race of Enac, whom Caleb drove out of Hebron (Jos. xv. 14).

SETH, son of Adam and Eve, born after Cain and Abel. He died at the age of 912, 2962 B. C. (Gen. v. 3-8); his descendants long have served the true religion, and are called the sons of God (vi. 2); father of Enos (iv. 26; v. 6).

SET/IM WOOD, supposed to be the acacia or locust. The Ark of the Covenant was made of it (Ex. xxv. 5, 10; Deut. x. 3).

SEX/TARY, a measure (Lev. xiv. 10).

SHEEP, parable of the lost sheep (Luke xv. 4; Matt. xviii. 12); seven sheep offered by Abraham (Gen. xxi. 29); Jacob's sheep (Gen. xxx. 38); sheep offered in sacrifice (Lev. iii. 6; iv. 32; xiv. 10; Num. vi. 14; xv. 4); our Lord compares the good to sheep (Matt. xxv. 32, 33); his sheep know him (John x. 27), and hear his voice (x. 3); he gives his life for his sheep (x. 11); he had other sheep, but would bring all into one sheepfold (x. 16); he commands Peter to feed his sheep and his lambs (xxi. 17).

SHEET, containing mysterious animals seen in a vision by St. Peter (Acts x. 11).

SHEP/HERD, THE GOOD. A figure of Christ (John x. 2); he lays down his life for his sheep (John x. 11); he seeks the lost sheep (Luke xv. 4; Matt. xviii. 12); leaving this world after his resurrection, he commissions Peter to feed his sheep arias has a vision of shepherds' crooks (Zach. xi. 7).

SHIPS. Men trust their lives even to a little

AN ANCIENT SHIP.

wood, and passing over the sea by ship are saved (Wis. xiv. 5); the course of a ship through the waves a type of earthly things (v. 10); the ark (Gen. vi.); Zabulon in the road of ships (Gen. xlix. 13); Dan applied himself to ships (Judg. v. 17); Solomon built a fleet of ships at Asiongaber, near Ailath, on the Red Sea (3 Kings ix. 26); Josaphat built ships at the same place, but as he did it in conjunction with the wicked king of Israel, they were destroyed (3 Kings xxii. 49; 2 Paral. xx. 36, 37); Jonas thrown into the sea from a ship (Jon. i. 5); ships on the Sea of Galilee (Matt. iv. 21; Mark i. 19); Jesus preaches from a ship (Mark iv. 1; Luke v. 3); Jesus in a ship during a storm on the Sea of Galilee (Mark iv. 37; vi. 47); St. Paul's voyages in ships from Philippi to Troas (Acts xx. 6); from Coos to Rhodes and Patara (xxi. 1); thence in another vessel to Tyre (3); on a ship of Adrumetum to Lystra in Lycia (xxvii. 5); then in a ship of Alexandria, which was wrecked off Melita (xxvii. 6; xxviii. 10); then in the Castors, an Alexandrian ship, to Puteoli (ii-13).

SHOE, meaning of the custom of taking off a shoe and presenting it to another (Deut. xxv. 9; Ruth iv. 7, 8); St. John the Baptist declares himself unworthy to loose our Lord's shoe (Matt. iii. 11; Mark and his lambs (John xxi. 17); his birth first revealed to shepherds (Luke ii. 8).

ANCIENT JEWISH SHIELDS AND SPEARS.

SHEPHERD'S ROD, the prophet Zach-

SICL, SHOWING THE CUP OF MANNA PRESERVED IN THE ARK.

i. 7; John i. 27); the apostles directed not to carry shoes (Matt. x. 10; Luke x. 4); Moses commanded to take off his shoes, as the ground whereon he stood was holy (Ex. iii. 5); those eating the paschal lamb to have shoes on their feet (xii. 11); the shoes of the Israelites did not wear out in the desert (Deut. xxix. 5); the shoe of Aser to be iron and brass (Deut. xxxiii. 25).

SHOULDER OF VICTIMS OFFERED IN SACRIFICE. Directions as to (Ex. xxix. 22; Lev. vii. 34; x. 14; Num. vi. 19).

SI'BA, Saul's servant, appointed to take care of Miphiboseth (2 Kings ix. 9); he slanderously accuses his master of ingratitude and treachery to David, and obtains his property (xvi. 2); he goes to David, and proves his innocence (xix. 17); David restores half his property (29).

SIC'ELEG, a city in the tribe of Simeon (Jos. xix. 5), given to David by Achis, king of Geth (1 Kings xxvii. 6); in David's absence the Amalecites took and burned it, and carried off David's wives and children (xxx. 1, 2); he pursued them, and recovered what he lost (18, 19).

SI'CHEM, son of Hemor, ravishes Dina (Gen. xxxiv. 2); killed by Simeon and Levi (26).

SI'CHAR or SI'CHEM, a city near which Jacob bought a field (Gen. xxxiii. 19); Joseph's bones laid there (Jos. xxiv. 32; Acts vii. 16); our Lord converts the Samaritan woman there (John iv. 5).

the coast of (Matt. xv. 21; Mark vii. 24); reaches Sidon (31); the people of Sidon come to hear him (Luke vi. 17); St. Paul visits (Acts xxvii. 3).

SIDO'NIANS, people of Sidon. They called Mount Hermon Saron (Deut. iii. 9); Maara, one of their cities (Jos. xiii. 4); left by the Lord that by them he might instruct Israel (Judg. iii. 1-3); oppressed the Israelites (x. 11, 12); their easy mode of living (xviii. 7); worshipped the goddess Astarte, or Astaroth, as Solomon did also (3 Kings xi. 5; 4 Kings xxiii. 13); they were great workers in wood (3 Kings v. 6); Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Sidonians (xvi. 31).

SI'DRACH, the Chaldean name of Ananias (Dan. i. 7).

SIEGE of Bethulia by Holofernes (Judith vii.); of Bethsura (1 Mach. xi. 65); of Gabaa by the tribes of Israel (Judg. xx. 19, 43); of Gaza (i. 18; Amos i. 6, 7; 1 Mach. xiii. 43); of Hai (Jos. vii. 5; viii. 1-26); of Jebus by David (1 Paral. xi. 5); of Jericho by Josue (Jos. vi. 1-21); of Jerusalem by the chil-

Josue's covenant with Rahab (Jos. ii. 18); the death of Ophni and Phineas a sign that the priesthood was to pass from the house of Heli (1 Kings ii. 34); Samuel anointed and killed Saul as a sign that God had anointed him to be prince over his inheritance (x. 1); the sound of one going on the tops of the pear trees a sign that God gave David victory over the Philistines (2 Kings v. 24); the destruction of Sennacherib's army a sign to Ezechias (4 Kings xix. 29); the shadow turning back on the dial of Achaz a sign that Ezechias would recover, and he and Jerusalem be delivered from the king of the Assyrians (Isai. xxxviii. 8); the swaddling clothes and manger a sign that the infant is the Saviour, Christ the Lord (Luke ii. 11, 12). Signs and monuments in memory of things past: the paschal lamb a memorial of the deliverance of the Israelites from Egypt (Ex. xii. 1-14); the fringes or hem worn by the Jews a memorial of the commandments of God (Num. xv. 38, 39); the censers of Core, Dathan, and Abiron beaten into plates and nailed on the altar as a sign that no stranger should offer incense (xvi. 38-40); Aaron's rod that blossomed kept as a token of the rebellious children of Israel (xvii. 10); twelve stones set up by Josue as a sign of the miraculous crossing of the Jordan (Jos. iv. 6); God sends signs to show his omnip-

ANCIENT SHIPS.

SI'CLE, a Hebrew weight (10 dwts.), and also a coin, 46 cents (Gen. xxiii. 15; 1 Mach. x. 40).

SIC'YON, a city of Peloponnesus, to which the Romans wrote in favor of the Jews (1 Mach. xv. 23).

SIDE, a port in Pamphylia, to which the Romans wrote in favor of the Jews (1 Mach. xv. 23).

SI'DON, a famous city of Phoenicia, on the limits of the Promised Land (Gen. x. 19); and of Zabulon (xlix. 13); Josue pursued Jabin and his allies after the battle of Merom as far as great Sidon (Jos. xi. 8); the land of Aser extended to (xix. 28); but Aser could not take it (Judg. i. 31); the Jews worship the gods of Sidon (x. 6); Lais at a distance from Sidon (xviii. 7); the census takers of David go to Sidon (2 Kings xxiv. 6); its destruction foretold (Isai. xxiii.; Jer. xxvii. 3; xlvii. 4; Ezech. xxviii.; Joel iii. 4, 8); our Lord declares that if he had wrought his miracles in Tyre and Sidon they would have been converted (Matt. xi. 21, 22; Luke x. 13, 14); he visits dren of Juda (Judg. i. 8); by those of Benjamin (21); by David (1 Paral. xi. 5); by the Philistines and Arabians, 836 B. C. (2 Paral. xxi. 16); by Joas, king of Israel, 839 B. C. (2 Paral. xxv. 23, 24); by the king of Egypt (2 Paral. xxxvi. 3); by Nabuchodonosor, 607 B. C. (2 Paral. xxxvi. 6); 597 B. C. (4 Kings xxv. 1); by Nabuzardan, B. C. 586 (4 Kings xxv. 8, 9); by Antiochus Epiphanes, 170 B. C. (1 Mach. iii. 45; vi. 62); by Judas Machabeus (2 Mach. x. 1; 1 Mach. iv. 37); that by Titus foretold by our Lord (Luke xix. 43); of Rabba by Joab (2 Kings xi. 1); of Samaria (3 Kings xx.; 4 Kings xviii. 9, 10); of Sichem and Thebes by Abimelech, 1235 B. C. (Judg. ix. 26-30); of Tyre (Ezech. xxvi. 4).

SIGNS of things to come. The rainbow a sign of God's covenant with Noe (Gen. ix. 12); circumcision a sign of God's covenant with Abraham (Gen. xvii. 11); the Sabbath a sign of God's covenant with the Israelites (Ex. xxxi. 13); a scarlet cord a sign of otence, his truth, his justice, and his goodness: the changing of Moses' rod into a serpent (Ex. iv. 2-6); the turning of the waters of Egypt into blood (vii. 17); the sending of quails and manna to the Israelites (xvi.); the dividing of the waters of the Jordan (Jos. iii. 10-17); the rending of the altar, a sign that Josias would immolate heathen priests there (3 Kings xiii. 1-5); the widow's pot and cruse a sign (xvii. 14); the fire consuming the sacrifice of Elias (xviii. 38); Achab's miraculous victory over the Syrians (xx. 13-29); the cure of Naaman's leprosy (4 Kings v. 14); the going back of the shadow on the dial of Achaz (xx. 9); Christ stilling the sea (Matt. viii. 26); the cure of the palsy a sign of the forgiveness of sin (ix. 2); Peter's walking on the water a sign that the vision was really our Lord (xiv. 28); our Lord reproaches the people that unless they saw signs and wonders they did not believe (John iv. 48); the scribes and Pharisees ask a sign from him (Matt. xii.

38, Mark viii. 11; Luke xi. 16); no sign to be given that generation but the sign of Jonas, the prophet (Matt. xii. 39; Mark viii. 12; Luke xi. 29); the Pharisees and Sadducees ask a sign (Matt. xvi. 1); the sign of the prophet Jonas again said to be the only one to be given (4); the sign of his second coming (xxiv. 3-5; Mark xiii. 4-37; Luke xxi. 7-36); the sign of the Son of man in heaven (Matt. xxiv. 30); signs shall follow them that believe (Mark xvi. 17); the Lord confirmed the work of the apostles with signs that followed (20); our Lord a sign which shall be contradicted (Luke ii. 34); signs in the sun and moon (xxi. 25); Herod hoped to see some sign wrought by our Lord (Luke xxiii. 8); the Jews ask a sign, and he replied, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will build it up," speaking of the temple of his body (John iii. 18-21); many believed, seeing the signs he did (23); the word sign used for miracle in John iii. 2; iv., vi., vii., ix.-xii., xx.; Acts ii. 22, 43; iv., v., vii., viii., xiv., xv.; 2 Cor. xii. 12; 2 Thess. ii. 9); the sign of the living God (Apoc. vii. 2; ix. 4); signs in heaven (xii. 1, 3; xv. 1).

SI'HOR, a place in the tribe of Aser (Jos. xix. 26).

SILAS or SYLVANUS, one of the chief men among the brethren (Acts xv. 22), sent by the apostles with Judas to Antioch, with the decrees of the council of Jerusalem (27); after Barnabas parted from him, St. Paul chose Silas, who accompanied him to Syria and Cilicia (40, 41), then to Lystra, Phrygia, and Galatia, and finally to Macedonia (xvi. 1-12); at Philippi they were beaten and imprisoned (22, 23); while praying and praising God at midnight, an earthquake shakes the prison (25, 26); the jailer falls at the feet of Paul and Silas (29), and is baptized (33); at Thessalonica (xvii. 1); sent away to Berea (10); remains there with Timothy (14); apparently the same as the Sylvanus in whose name as well as those of Paul and Timothy, the two epistles to the Thessalonians are written (1 Thess. i. 1; 2 Thess. i. 1); and the one mentioned in 2 Cor. i. 19.

SILENCE, usefulness of (Prov. xvii. 28; Eccles. iii. 7; Eccles. xx. 6; xxxii. 12).

SILK, worn by Mardochai (Esth. viii. 15); merchants of silk mourn the destruction of Babylon (Apoc. xviii. 12).

SIL'LO, a famous city in the tribe of Ephraim (Jos. xviii.), not far from Sichem. The tabernacle of the testimony was set up here, B. C. 1444 (Jos. xviii. 1); lots cast here to divide the land among the tribes (10; xix. 51); the ark remained there till it was taken by the Philistines (Judg. xviii. 1; 1 Kings iv. 17); Israel assembled at Silo to fight against the tribes beyond the Jordan, who had erected an altar (Jos. xxii. 12); they went to Silo to consult the Lord as to the war against Benjamin (Judg. xx. 18); they returned to Silo to mourn over the destruction of the tribe of Benjamin (xxi. 2-25); Elcana went up on the appointed days to adore and to offer sacrifice to the Lord of Hosts in Silo (1 Kings i. 3). Anna brings Samuel to the house of the Lord in Silo (24); the Lord appeared to Samuel in Silo (1 Kings iii. 21); the Ark of the Covenant taken from Silo to the camp of Israel (iv. 3, 5); Heli falls dead in Silo (18); Jeroboam's wife goes to the prophet Ahias in Silo (3 Kings xiv. 2-4); the Almighty bids the Jews see what he had done in Silo (Jerem. vii. 12, 14); and the destruction of the temple to be like that of Silo (xxvi. 6, 9); men came from Silo after the death of Godolias (xli. 5).

SIL'O'E (Sent), a fountain at the foot of the walls of Jerusalem, on the east side, between the city and the brook Cedron, supposed to be the same as Rogel (Jos. xv. 7; xviii. 16; 2 Kings xvii. 17; 3 Kings i. 9); the waters flowed silently (Isai. viii. 6); the Jews represented as rejecting them (6); after the captivity, Sellum, son of Cholhoza, built the walls of the pool of Siloe unto the king's garden (2 Esd. iii. 15); our Lord sent a blind man, telling him go, wash in the pool of Siloe, and when he did so he saw (John ix. 1-41).

SIL'OE, a tower which fell and crushed eighteen men (Luke xiii. 4).

SIM'EON, son of Jacob and Lia, born 1757 B. C. (Gen. xxix. 33; xxxv. 23); he, with Levi, avenges the violence done to Dina by the slaughter of the Sichemites (xxxiv. 25-31); taken and bound by Joseph in Egypt (xlii. 25, 36); Jacob, in his prophetic words, calls Simeon and Levi vessels of iniquity waging war (xlix. 5); and he cursed their fury and wrath (6, 7); his sons were Jamuel, Jamin, Ahod, Jachin, Soar, or Zare, and Saul (Ex. vi. 15; Num. xxvi. 12-14).

SIM'EON, one of the twelve tribes of Israel. When they left Egypt their prince was Salamiel, the son of Surisaddai (Num. i. 6; x. 19); and they numbered 59,300 fighting men, in the camp of Ruben, on the south side (ii. 13); and at Settim, 22,200 (xxvi. 14); the offerings of the tribe (vii. 36-41); Saphat, the son of Huri, was sent by Moses from this tribe to view the land (xiii. 6); Zambri, son of Salu, prince of the tribe of Simeon, slain by Phinees for sinning with Cozbi, a Midianite, when the people fell into idolatry and vice (xxv. 6-18); in the division of the land their representative was Samuel, son of Ammiud (xxxiv. 20); they were among the tribes on Garizim, to bless the people (Deut. xxvii. 12); the lands allotted to Simeon in the possession of Juda (Jos. xix. 1-9); Simeon and Juda attack the Chanaanites and Pherezites, and slew 10,000 in Beze, capturing Adonibezec, cutting off his fingers and toes (Judges i. 3-7); Simeon, with Juda, defeated the Chanaanites of Sephaath, and captured Henna (17); 7,100 of the tribe of Simeon joined David in Hebron (1 Paral. xii. 25); Ozias, of the tribe of Simeon, one of the rulers in Bethulia (Judith vi. 11); twelve thousand of the tribe signed in the Apocalypse (Apoc. vii. 7).

SIM'EON, son of Ruben, one of the ancestors of Judith (Judith viii. 1; ix. 2).

SIM'EON, grandfather of Mathathias, of the house of Phinees, the high-priest (1 Mach. ii. 1).

SIM'EON, a just and devout man in Jerusalem, waiting for the consolation of Israel (Luke ii. 25); the Holy Ghost promised that he should not see death before he had seen the Christ of the Lord (26); at the time of the purification of Mary, and the presentation of the child Jesus, he came by the spirit into the temple (27); he took the child into his arms and uttered the canticle "Nunc Dimittis" (29-32); blessed Joseph and Mary, foretold that the child is for the fall and the resurrection of many (34), and told Mary that a sword should pierce her own heart (35).

SIM'EON, son of Juda, one of the ancestors of our Lord (Luke iii. 30).

SIM'ERON, fourth son of Issachar (1 Paral. vii. 1). See SEMRON.

SIM'MAA (SAMUA, 2 Kings v. 14; 1 Paral. xiv. 4), son of David and Bethsabée (1 Paral. iii. 5).

SIMON, cousin of our Lord (Matt. xiii. 55; Mark vi. 3), son of Cleophas and Mary, one of the twelve apostles of our Lord. He was surnamed the Chananeau (Matt. x. 4), or Cananean (Mark iii. 18), or Zelotes (Luke vi. 15; Acts i. 13); according to Eusebius, he was crucified by Atticus, governor of Palestine, in the reign of Trajan, A. D. 107.

SIMON, son of Ozias, high-priest of the Jews; he founded the height of the temple, the double building, and the high walls (Eccles. i. 2); he enlarged the entrance and the court (5); his eulogy (6-23).

SIMON MACHABEUS, surnamed Thasi, son of Mathathias, prince and high-priest till 135 B. C. His father commended him as a man of counsel (1 Mach. ii. 65); he commanded 1,500 men in the successful battle against Nicanor, 166 B. C. (2 Mach. viii. 22); in 163 B. C., with 3,000 men, he fought many battles in Galilee, killed 3,000 of the enemy, delivered the Jews there, and returned with them and rich spoils (1 Mach. v. 17-23); he joined battle with Nicanor in 161 B. C., although surprised at the sudden coming of his superior forces (2 Mach. xiv. 17); in 148 B. C. he aided Jonathan to take Joppe (1 Mach. x. 74-76), and to defeat Apollonius at Azotus (82); young king Antiochus made him governor from Tyre to Egypt (xi. 59); he took Bethsura (65), and Joppe (xii. 33), and built Adiada in Sephela (38); on the arrest of Jonathan by Tryphon, he exhorted the people, and was hailed as leader (xiii. 8); he marched to Addus to meet Tryphon (13), and sent money and hostages to obtain the release of Jonathan (19); he followed Tryphon closely (20), buried Jonathan in Modin (25), and set up seven pyramids (27-30); fortifies and provisions the towns (33); sends to king Demetrius, who confirms him in his possessions (34-41), and people began to write: "The first year under Simon, the high-priest, the great captain and prince of the Jews" (42); he took Gaza (43-48), and made it his habitation, after cleansing it from idols (65); the castle of Jerusalem surrenders to him (49, 50); he enters it 142 B. C., with great solemnity (51); fortifies the mountain, and dwells there (53); rules in peace (xiv. 1-15); renews alliance with Rome and Sparta (16-49); Antiochus, son of Demetrius, confirms his authority (xv. 1-5); Simon aids him (26), but Antiochus refused aid, and demanded Joppe, Gazara, and Jerusalem (27-31); Simon offers him a hundred talents (35), but Antiochus sent Cendebeus against him (38, 39); Simon's sons defeat him (xvi. 8); Ptolemee his son-in-law slays Simon and his sons at Doch (11-16).

SIMON, of the tribe of Benjamin, overseer of the temple, quarrels with Onias, the high-priest, tells Apollonius, governor of Celcysria, that there was great wealth in the temple, and induced king Selcucus to send Heliocerus to seize it (2 Mach. iii. 4-7); calls Onias a traitor (iv. 2).

SIMON, THE CYRENIAN, forced by the Jews to carry the cross of our Lord (Matt. xxvii. 32), as he was coming out of the country (Mark xv. 21); he was apparently a disciple, for he is mentioned as father of Alexander and Rufus (21).

SIMON, THE PHARISEE, desired our Lord to eat with him (Luke vii. 36); while our Lord was at meat, a sinful woman anointed his feet, washed them with her tears, and kissed them (37, 38); Simon's reflections (39); the lesson taught him by our Lord (40-50).

SIMON, THE LEPER, resided at Bethania, near Jerusalem (Matt. xxvi. 6; Mark xiv. 3; John xi., xii.); he invites Jesus to his table; Lazarus, Mary and Martha are there, and a woman anoints our Lord's head (Matt. xxvi. 7; Mark xiv. 8); and Mary anoints his feet, and wipes them with her hair (John xi. 2; xii. 1-3).

SIMON BARJONA, or son of John. See PETER.

MOUNT SION

SIMON NIGER, a prophet at Antioch (Acts xiii. 1); one of those who imposed hands on St. Paul and Barnabas (3).

SIMON, a tanner at Joppe. St. Peter abode many days with him (Acts ix. 43) in his house by the sea (x. 6); here Peter had a vision, and is called to visit Cornelius the centurion (19-23).

SIMON MAGUS, converted at Samaria by Philip, the deacon, after he had seduced the people and bewitched them with his magical practices (Acts viii. 9-13); when he saw the gifts of the Holy Ghost, after the imposition of hands by the apostle, he offered St. Peter money to obtain the power (18); St. Peter bid him keep his money to perish with him, for imagining that the gift of God could be purchased with money (20), and exhorted him to penance (22, 23); Simon asked the apostle to pray for him (24), but he fell away. From him any sale of ecclesiastical functions is called Simony.

SIM'ONY. It is forbidden to sell the gifts of God (4 Kings v. 22, 26; Dan. v. 17; Matt. x. 9; Acts xx. 35; 1 Cor. ix. 15; 2 Cor. xi. 9; xii. 13).

SIMPLE OF HEART. God reveals himself to them (Isai. xxix. 18, 24; xxxii. 4; Eccles. ix. 15;

ROMAN SLINGER. (From Column of Antoninus. Fbn.)

Matt. xi. 25; Luke ii. 9; v. 8; x. 21; Acts iv. 13; 1 Cor. i. 26; ii. 1); simplicity and uprightness of heart commended (Gen. xx. 6; Job i. 8; Matt. x. 16; Acts ii. 46; Rom. xvi. 18; Eph. vi. 5; Col. iii. 22.)

SIN. Its origin (Gen. ii. 17; iii. 6; Rom. v. 12; 1 Cor. xv. 21). Original sin, of our first parents, through which we are conceived and born in sin (Job xiv. 4; xv. 14; Ps. l. 7; Rom. iii. 9, 23); effects of sin (Gen. viii. 21; Eccles. xvii. 30; Rom. vi. 23; vii. 8, 11, 13, remits sin by his own authority (Ex. xxxiv. 7; Ps. xviii. 13; xxxi. 5; cii. 12; Isai. xlii. 25; xlv. 22; Jer. xxxi. 34; xxxiii. 8; Mich. vii. 18; Matt. xviii. 18; John xx. 23); Christ had power to forgive sins (Matt. ix. 6; Mark ii. 10; Luke v. 24); he delegated the power to the apostles (Matt. xvi. 19; xviii. 18; John xx. 23); all sin is remitted through the merits of Christ (Isai. liii.; Dan. ix. 24; Matt. i. 21; ix. 2; xi. 27; xx. 28; xxvi. 28; Luke xxiv. 47; Acts ii. 38, x. 47; xiii. 38; Rom. iv. 25; 1 Cor. vi. 11; xv. 3; 2 Cor. v. 15; Gal. i. 4; Eph. i. 7; Col. i. 14; 1 Tim. i. 15; Tit. ii. 14; Heb. i. 3; ix. 12-14; 1 Pet. i. 19; iii. 18; 1 John i. 7; ii. 12; iii. 16; Apoc. i. 5).

SIN against the Holy Ghost (Mark iii. 29; Luke xii. 10; Heb. vi. 6); sin which cries to heaven for vengeance (Gen. iv. 10; xviii. 20; Ex. xxii. 23, 27; Eccles. xxxv. 18; James v. 4); it frequently occurs that many are punished for the sin of one (Gen. iii.; Num. xvi. 21; Jos. vii.; Judg. xix. 25; 2 Kings xxiv.); sin against nature (Gen. xix.; Judg. xix. 22; Lev. xx.; Rom. i. 27; 1 Cor. vi. 10; 1 Tim. i. 10); sin of ignorance (Lev. iv. 2; v. 15; Num. xv. 27; Luke xxiii. 34; John ix. 41; xv. 24; Acts iii. 17; 1 Tim. i. 13); sin committed through malice (Num. xv. 30; Eccles. x. 14; Matt. xxviii. 13; John xi. 53; Acts iv. 18; v. 3; Heb. vi. 5; x. 6); confession of sins (Gen. xli. 9; Lev. xvi. 21; xxvi. 43; Num. v. 7; Jos. vii. 19; 2 Kings xxiv. 17; 1 Esd. ix. 6; 2 Esd. ix. 2; Ps. xxxi. 5; xxxvii. 19; Prov. xvi. 3; xviii. 17; xxviii. 13; Eccles. iv. 25, 31; vii. 34; xvii. 27; Dan. ix. 5; Matt. iii. 6; xvi. 19; Luke xi. 4; xviii. 13; James v. 16; 1 John i. 8); the penalty of sin is not always remitted although the sin is forgiven (Num. xiv. 20; 2 Kings xii. 14; xxiv. 12-25; 1 Paral. xxi. 10); the sinful woman at the feet of our Lord (Luke vii. 37).

SIN, a desert south of the Promised Land, in Arabia Petræa, near Edom (Num. xxxiv. 3); the Israelites reached it after crossing the Red Sea, between Elim and Sinai (Ex. xvi. 1; xvii. 1; Num. xxxiii. 11, 12); here the Israelites murmured (Ex. xvi. 2); and God sent manna (xvi. 4-35); they left it and advanced to Raphidim (xvii. 1); Moses obtains water for them by striking a rock in the desert of Sin (Deut. xxxii. 51; Num. xxvii. 14); the spies viewed the land from the desert of Sin to Rohob (Num. xiii. 22); it was one of the limits of the Promised Land (Num. xxxiv. 3).

SIN'NA or SIN'NAI, a mountain in Arabia (Gal. iv.

25; Heb. xi. 18); the Israelites reached it after leaving Raphidim (Num. xxxiii. 15; Ex. xix. 2); God commands Moses to sanctify the people, promising to come down on Mount Sinai on the third day (11); every one touching the mountain menaced with death (12); the Lord comes in a cloud with fire and smoke, and the sound of a trumpet (18, 19); he calls Moses into the mount (20); God gives the law to Moses (xx.-xxxi.); Moses, Aaron, Nadab, Abiu, and seventy ancients of Israel go and behold the God of Israel (xxiv. 9, 10); Moses was there forty days and forty nights (18); and received the two tables of stone engraved by the hand of God (xxiv. 12; xxxii. 15, 16); during his absence the people fall into idolatry (xxxii.); their punishment (xxxii. 28); the tables are renewed (xxxiv. 1); the tabernacle set up (xl.); the people are numbered at Sinai (Num. i. 1); they march from Mount Sinai (x. 33).

SINCERITY commended (1 Cor. v. 8; 2 Cor. i. 12; ii. 17; Phil. i. 10, 17; ii. 20; 2 Pet. iii. 1).

SIN'EW. Jews forbidden to eat the sinews of the legs of animals (Gen. xxxii. 32).

SIN'ITE, eighth son of Chanaan (Gen. x. 17).

SION, the mountain in Jerusalem on which the temple was built. David's city was north of the ancient one (Ps. xlvii. 3; 2 Kings v. 7); David captures the castle of Sion (2 Kings v. 7; 1 Paral. xi. 5); the ark of the covenant carried to (2 Kings vi.); hence it is called the holy mountain (Ps. ii. 6); and God is said to dwell there (Ps. ix. 12; xix. 3; lxxiii. 2; lxxv. 3; cxlv. 10; Eccles. xxiv. 15; Joel iii. 21); and to love it (Ps. lxxvii. 68; lxxxvi. 2; cxxxi. 13); Jerusalem called the Daughter of Sion (Ps. ix. 15; lxxii. 28; Cant. iii. 11; Isai. i. 8; iii. 16; x. 32; xvi. 1; Jer. iv. 31; vi. 23; Lam. i. 6; Mich. iv. 10; Soph. iii. 14; Zach. ii. 10; ix. 9); salvation to come from Sion (Ps. xlii. 7; lii. 7; Isai. xxxvii. 32).

SION. Mount Hermon also so called (Deut. iv. 49; Ps. cxxxii. 3; Eccles. xxxiv. 17).

SIOR, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 54).

SIRA. Abner was brought back from the cistern of Sira, before Joab slew him (2 Kings iii. 26).

SIRACH, father of Jesus, the author of Ecclesiasticus, who is often called merely the son of Sirach, Ben-Sira (Eccles. i. 29; li. 1).

SMYRNA.

SIRENS, to dwell in the ruined temples of pleasure in Babylon (Isai. xiii. 22).

SIS, an ascent near Jerusalem (2 Paral. xx. 16).

SI'SAI, a giant of the race of Enac (Num. xiii. 13; Jos. xv. 14).

SIS'ARA, general of the army of Jabin, king of Asor, sent against the army of Barac and Debhora, on Mount Thabor, composed of the men of Nephthali and Zabulon (Judg. iv. 1-6); he marched from Haroseth of the Gentiles, his abode (iv. 2), with 900 chariots (13); defeated by Barac, and leaping from his chariot, fled on foot (15); came to the tent of Jahel, wife of Haber, the Cinite (17), who drove a nail into the temple of his head, as he lay asleep (21); he had oppressed the Israelites for twenty years (3).

SI'VA, secretary of King David (2 Kings xx. 25).

SI'VAN, one of the months of the Jewish year (Bar. i. 8).

SLIME. Man formed out of the slime of the earth (Gen. ii. 7). In most editions of Challoner's Bible, slime, adopted from the King James Bible, is incorrectly used for bitumen, the correct word in the old Douay, in Gen. vi. 14; xi. 3; xiv. 10; Ex. ii. 3.

SLING, or SLINGER, one of the earliest weapons used to throw stones. The tribe of Benjamin were so expert in its use that they could hit even a hair (Judges xx. 16). David used it in defeating Goliath (1 Kings xvii. 40-50); slingers in the war with Moab (4 Kings iii. 25).

SLOTH, SLOTH'FULNESS, causes David to fall into sin (2 Kings xi.); produces poverty (Prov. x. 4; xx. 13; xxviii. 19); casteth into a deep sleep (xix. 15); it led to the iniquity of the people of Sodom (Ezech. xvi. 49); teaches much evil (Ecclus. xxxiii. 29).

SLOTH'FUL, SLUG'GARD. The sluggard referred to the ant (Prov. vi. 6, 11); compared to vinegar and smoke (x. 26); a fool (xii. 11); always poor (xxi. 5); willeth and willeth not (xiii. 4); cast down by fear (xviii. 8); will not bring his hand to his mouth (xix. 24); toils not in spring; begs in summer (x. 5; xx. 4; xxvi. 15); hideth his hand under his armpit (xxvi. 15); saith "There is a lion in the way" (13); is wiser in his own conceit than seven men that speak sentences (16); his path a hedge of thorns (xv. 19); the sluggard is pelted with a dirty stone (Ecclus. xxii. 1); if any man will not work, neither let him eat (2 Thess. iii. 10).

SMYR'NA, a city of Asia Minor, on the Archipelago. The church in Smyrna is one of the seven to which our Lord sent messages (Apoc. i. 10); the message (ii. 8-11).

SO'BA, a kingdom in the land of Hemath, in Syria (1 Paral. xviii. 3); Saul defeated the king of Soba (1 Kings xiv. 47); David defeated Aderezer, son of Rohob, king of Soba (2 Kings viii. 3; 1 Paral. xviii. 3, 4); the Syrians of Damascus attempted to aid Aderezer, but were also defeated (1 Paral. xviii. 5; 2 Kings viii. 5); David took great spoil, especially brass, out of Bete and Beroth (8, 12); cities of Soba, Thebath, and Chun (1 Paral. xviii. 8); the Syrians of Soba aid the Ammonites against David (2 Kings x. 6-8; 1 Paral. xix. 6); but he defeats them at Helam (2 Kings x. 17, 18). Razon fled from Aderezer, king of Soba (3 Kings xi. 23); Solomon's brazen sea and pillars made of brass captured from Soba (1 Paral. xviii. 8).

SO'BAB, son of David and Bethsabee (2 Kings v. 14; 1 Paral. iii. 5; xiv. 4).

SO'BACH, general of Aderezer's army from beyond the Euphrates; defeated by David and mortally wounded at Helam, 1036 B. C. (2 Kings x. 16, 17).

SO'BAL, the same as Soba (Judith iii. 14).

SO'BI, son of Naas, of Rabbath, brings provisions to David during his flight from Absalom (2 Kings xvii. 27).

SOB'NA, scribe of king Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 18); he was sent to Rabsaces, to hear Sennacherib's terms (19-27); he was a priest, and had charge over the temple (Isai. xxii. 15, 19); had prepared a magnificent sepulchre for himself (16); to be deposed from the ministry (19); carried off like a cock (17); died in exile (18).

SO'BOCHAI, of Hurathi, one of David's heroes, slew the giant Saph, at Goli (2 Kings xxi. 18; 1 Paral. xx. 4).

SOBRI'ETY and TEMPERANCE commended (Tob. vi. 17; Eccles. v. 11; Ecclus. xxxi. 9, 32-41; Dan. i. 8, 11; Rom. xiii. 13; xiv. 17; 1 Cor. vii.; Gal. v. 23; 1 Tim. iii. 2; 2 Tim. i. 7; Tit. i. 8; ii. 6, 12; 1 Pet. i. 13; 2 Pet. i. 6).

SOC'COTH, a city beyond the Jordan, between the torrent Jaboc and the river. Jacob returning from Mesopotamia pitched his tents there, and built a house, called it Socoth (Gen. xxxiii. 17); the people of Socoth refuse provisions to Gedcon (Judg. viii. 5); he takes and destroys it (16, 17).

SOC'COTH, a station of the Israelites in the desert. They marched to it from Ramesse (Ex. xii. 37; Num. xxxiii. 5); the sacrifice of the paschal lamb, enjoined annually, and the consecration of the first-born to God (Ex. xiii.); they marched thence to Etham (xiii. 20; Num. xxxiii. 6); guided by the pillar of cloud and of fire.

SO'CHOTHBE'NOTH, a god worshipped by the Babylonian colonists sent to Samaria (4 Kings xvii. 30).

SO'DI, a river of Babylon (Bar. i. 4).

SOCI'ETY. We are to seek the company of the good and fly that of the wicked (Gen. xix. 15; Lev. xiv.; Num. xvi. 25; xxv. 2; Jos. xxiii. 7; 2 Paral. xix. 2; Tob. i. 5; Job xxxi. 1; Ps. xxv. 4, 8; xxxvi. 1; Prov. i. 10; iv. 14; vi. 25; xiii. 20; xx. 19; xxii. 10, 24; xxiii. 6, 17; xxiv. 1, 21; xxix. 27; Ecclus. vi. 35; viii. 1, 18; ix. 21; xii. 10; xiii. 1, 20; Jer. xvi. 8; 2 Tim. iii. 5; iv. 14; 1 John iii. 10; 2 John i. 11; Apoc. xviii. 4).

SOD'OM, the chief city of the Pentapolis, situated in a beautiful and fertile plain, like the paradise of the Lord (Gen. xiii. 10); Lot, Abraham's nephew, resided there (xiii. 12); the people exceedingly wicked (13); it is sacked by Chodorlahomor and his allies (xiv. 11); the king of Sodom went out to meet Abraham after his victory in the vale of Save (17); God threatens its destruction (xviii. 20-22); Abraham intercedes for it (23-33); angels received by Lot in Sodom (xix. 1); they bid Lot leave the city with his wife and daughters (15); God rains brimstone and fire on Sodom and Gomorrha (Gen. xix. 24; Deut. xxix. 23; Wis. x. 6, 7); pride, fulness of bread, abundance, idleness, and cruelty to the poor led to her destruction (Ezech. xvi. 49).

SO'HAR, fifth son of the patriarch Simeon, son of Jacob (Gen. xlv. 10; Ex. vi. 15); called Zara, Zare (Num. xxvi. 13; 1 Paral. iv. 24).

SOLEM'NITY, a great holiday (Ex. x. 9; xiii. 6; xxiii. 15; Lev. xxiii. 6; Num. xxviii. 17; Deut. xvi.; 2 Paral. vii., viii.; 1 Esd. iii. 4); the solemnities of the old law rejected (Mal. ii. 3).

SOLIC'ITOUS. We are not to be too solicitous for the goods of this world (Ex. xxxiv. 21; Lev. xxv. 20; Deut. viii. 3; Job v. 5; Ps. liv. 23; cxliv. 15, 16; Prov. x. 3; xiii. 25; Matt. vi. 25; x. 9, 29; xiii. 22; xvi. 7; Luke viii. 14; xii. 22; xiv. 18; xxi. 34; Philip. iv. 6; Heb. xiii. 5; 1 Pet. v. 7)

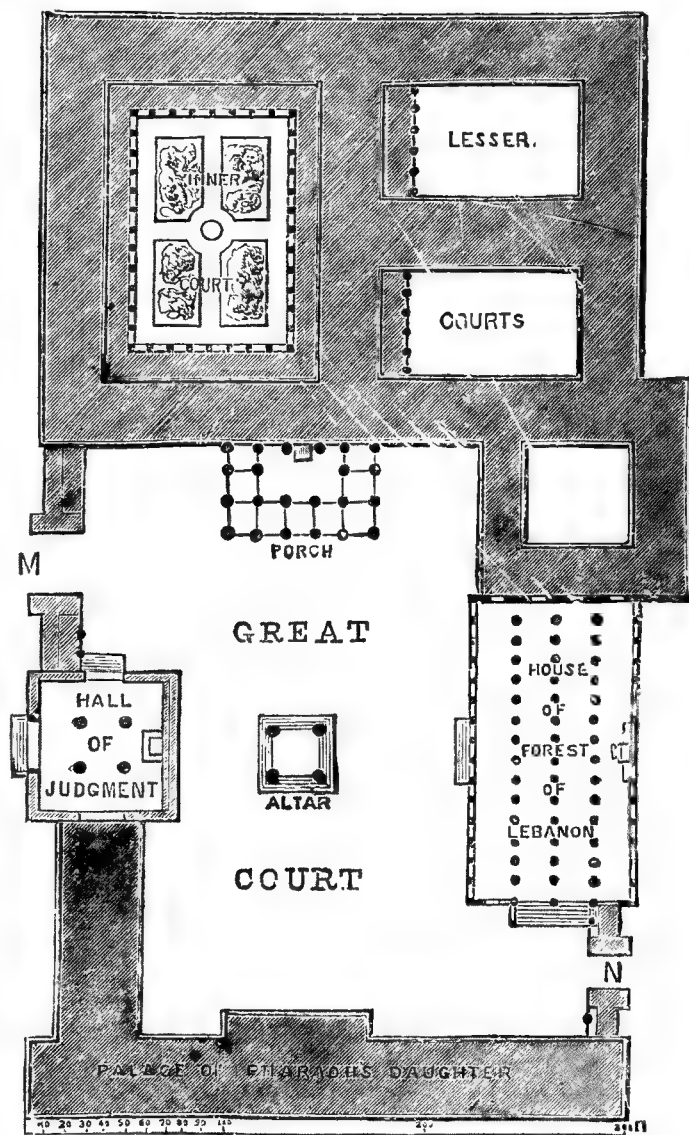

DIAGRAM PLAN OF SOLOMON'S PALACE. By J Ferguson, Esq.

SOLID, a coin; the word in Hebrew seems to be the Persian daric. The princes of the people, in the time of David, offered 10,000 silver solids for the erection of the temple (1 Paral. xxix. 7); after the captivity the heads of families contributed 60,000 solids of gold (1 Esd. ii. 69; viii. 27); the borrower will pay only one-half solid (Ecclus. xxix. 7).

SOL'OMON, king of Israel, son of David and Bethsabee, born 1033 B. C.; his birth foretold (2 Kings vii. 12); his birth (xii. 24); David swears to Bethsabee that her son Solomon shall succeed him (3 Kings i. 17); Adonias seeks to be proclaimed king (i. 5); David renews his promise to Bethsabee (28); Solomon is anointed king in Gihon, by Sadoc, the high-priest (39); he receives the last charge of David (ii. 1-9); he succeeds to the throne (12); put his brother Adonias to death (25); deposed Abiathar:

boam (40); Solomon died 975 B. C., after reigning forty years (3 Kings xi. 43; 2 Paral. ix. 30, 31).

SO'MER, sold to Amri, king of Israel, the village and mountain where Samaria was built (3 Kings xvi. 24).

SOMO'RIA, son of Roboam and Abihail (2 Paral. xi. 18, 19).

SON' OF MAN. The Messiah so called by the prophet Daniel (Dan. vii. 13); our Lord constantly so styled himself (Matt. viii. 20; ix. 6; xi. 19; xii. 32, 40); the term used by St. Luke and St. John (Acts vii. 55; Apoc. i. 13; xiv. 14).

SONS' OF GOD, the descendants of Seth so called (Gen. vi. 2); they are corrupted by intermarriage with the descendants of Cain (Gen. vi. 2).

SOOTH'SAYERS. It is forbidden to ask anything of soothsayers, to be defiled by them (Lev. xix. 31); Saul put all the magicians and soothsayers out of the land (1 Kings xxviii. 3); the Jews reproached with resorting to soothsayers like the heathen (Isai. ii. 6); the soothsayers of Nabuchodonosor cannot explain his dream (Dan. ii. 27); the soothsayers of Baltassar cannot explain the mysterious handwriting on the wall (v. 7, 11).

SO'PATER, son of Pyrrhus, of Berea, set out from Ephesus, and stayed for St. Paul at Troas (Acts xx. 4); he is supposed by some to be identical with Sosipater, spoken of by St. Paul as a kinsman (Rom. xvi. 21).

SO'PHACH, general of Aderezer's army (1 Paral. xix. 16).

SO'PHAR,

the Naamathite, one of the friends of Job (Job ii. 11); reproves Job for justifying himself (xi.); Job's reply (xii.); Sophar declares the shortness of the prosperity of the wicked, and their sudden downfall (xx.); Job's answer (xxi.); Sophar is refuted by God himself (xxxviii.); he went and did as the Lord had spoken to him (xlii. 9).

SOPHONI'AS, son of Maasias, second priest next to Saraias, the high-priest (4 Kings xxv. 18); he is sent on several occasions to the prophet Jeremias, by king Sedecias (Jer. xxi.; xxix.; xxxvii.; lii.); after the capture of Jerusalem by the Chaldees, he was sent to Reblatha, where Nabuchodonosor put him to death (4 Kings xxv. 21).

SOPHONI'AS, son of Chusi, and grandson of Godolias, one of the twelve minor prophets. His name means watchman of the Lord, or The Hidden of the Lord. According to common opinion he was a native of Sarabatha, and of the tribe of Simeon.

He prophesied in the reign of Josias, king of Juda (Soph. i. 1); he announced the coming judgment on the kingdom of Juda for its sins; the captivity and return; the destruction of Ninive; and judgments on the Philistines, Moab and Ammon.

SOPHONI'AS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament (Soph).

SO'REC, a torrent in the tribe of Dan. Dalila, the betrayer of Samson, dwelt there (Judg. xvi. 4).

SOR'ROWFUL. Men to be made sorrowful to lead them to penance (2 Cor. vii. 9).

SOS'IPATER and DOSITHEUS, two captains under Judas Machabeus, defeat ten thousand men of the army of Timotheus, left in a hold (2 Mach. xii. 19); they capture Timotheus himself, but release him on his promise to set free the Jews in his hands (24, 25).

SOS'IPATER. See SOPATER.

SOS'THENES, ruler of the synagogue at Corinth, beaten before Gallio's judgment seat (Acts xviii. 17).

SOS'THENES, a Christian whose name is joined with St. Paul's as addressing the Corinthians (1 Cor. i. 1).

SOS'TRATUS, governor of the castle built by the Greeks in the upper city at Jerusalem, demands of Menelaus the money he had promised Antiochus Epiphanes (2 Mach. iv. 27, 28); both summoned before the king (28); made governor of the Cyprians (29).

SOUL. God breathed into man's face the breath of life, and he became a living soul (Gen. ii. 7). The soul is immortal (Eccles. xii. 7); he that gaineth it is wise (Prov. xi. 30); the Lord loveth souls (Wis. xi. 27); God wishes our whole soul (Isai. xxviii. 20); what doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his own soul? Or what exchange shall a man give for his soul? (Matt. xvi. 26; Mark viii. 36, 37); we are to love the Lord with our

THE SOWER.

from the high-priesthood (27); makes Sadoc high-priest (35); puts Joab to death (34); his judgment on Semei (36-46); marries Pharaoh's daughter (iii. 1); offers sacrifice at Gabaon (2 Paral. i. 3); asks of the Lord wisdom; God's promise (3 Kings iii. 11-14; 1 Paral. 7-12); judgment as to the child claimed by two women (3 Kings iii. 16-28); his riches and wisdom (3 Kings iv.; x. 4, 24; 2 Paral. ix.; Luke xi. 31); Hiram, king of Tyre, agrees to furnish material and workmen for the temple (3 Kings v.; 2 Paral. ii.); Solomon builds the temple (3 Kings vi.; 2 Paral. iii., iv.); he erects palaces for himself and his queen (3 Kings vii.); he dedicates the temple (viii.; 2 Paral. v.-vii.); the Lord appears to him (3 Kings ix. 1-9); he gives Hiram, king of Tyre, twenty cities (12); he built Gazer, Bethhoron, Baalath, and Palmyra (3 Kings ix. 17, 18; 2 Paral. viii. 4, 5); the queen of Saba visits him; his commerce and riches (3 Kings x.; 2 Paral. ix.; Luke xi. 31); the Chananites made tributary (1 Paral. viii. 7); anointed king the second time (1 Paral. xxix. 22); married women of idolatrous nations (3 Kings xi. 1); had seven hundred wives, and three hundred concubines (3); led by his wives to idolatry, he worshipped Astarthe and Moloch (5); and built a temple for Chamos and Moloch (7, 33); God declares that in punishment he will take the kingdom out of his son's hand, and give ten tribes to Jeroboam (35); the peace of his kingdom troubled by Adad. Razon, and Jeroboam (14-40); Solomon seeks the life of Jere-whole soul (Deut. vi. 5); the souls of the just are in the hand of God (Wis. iii. 1); the souls of the just dwell with God after death (2 Cor. v. 8; Phil. i. 23; Apoc. xiv. 13).

WOMEN WITH THE DISTAFF SPINNING.

SOWER, parable of the sower (Matt. xiii. 3; Mark iv. 3; Luke viii. 5).

SPAN, a measure (1 Kings xvii. 4; Ex. xxviii. 16).

SPARROW. Not a sparrow falls to the ground without God's will (Matt. x. 29); we are not to fear, as we are of more value than many sparrows (Luke xii. 6, 7); sparrows offered as a sacrifice (Lev. xiv. 4).

SPARTANS, Arius, king of the Spartans, forms an alliance with the high-priest Onias (1 Mach. xii. 20); claims to be of the stock of Abraham (21); Jonathan renews the alliance (6); his death lamented at Sparta (xiv. 16).

SPEAK. There is a time to speak (Prov. xv. 23; Eccles. viii. 5; Eccles. xi. 8; xx. 6; xxxiii. 9; xxxiii.); how we are to speak (Job vi. 29; Prov. xv. 1; xvi. 20, 23; xxix. 11; Eccles. iii. 24; v. 16; vi. 5; Col. iv. 6; James v. 12); we are not to speak rashly, but to examine what is said (Ps. cxi. 5; Prov. xx. 15; xxi. 23; Eccles. xii. 10; Eccles. xxiii. 7; xxviii. 29; xxxii. 16; James i. 19; iii. 7).

SPICES, use of (Ex. xxv. 6; xxx. 23, 34; Cant. iv. 16; vi. 1; Luke xxiii. 56).

SPIDER'S WEB. The hypocrite's trust compared to (Job viii. 14; Isai. lix. 5).

SPIES. Twelve men, one from each tribe, sent by Moses to view the Promised Land; all but Caleb and Josue exaggerate the dangers of attempting to conquer it (Num. xiii.; xiv. 6; Deut. i. 22).

SPIKENARD, an aromatic (Cant. i. 11; iv. 13, 14; Mark xiv. 3).

SPINNING, mentioned (Ex. xxxv. 25; Prov. xxxi. 19; Matt. vi. 28).

SPIRIT. God a spirit (John iv. 24; 2 Cor. iii.

SPIRIT to be tried (1 Cor. xiv. 32; 1 Thess. v. 21; 1 John iv. 1).

SPONGE, a sponge full of vinegar was raised to our Lord on the cross (Matt. xxvii. 48; Mark xv. 36; John xix. 29).

SPRINKLING of blood (Ex. xii. 22; Heb. ix. 19; Lev. xvi. 14); sprinkling with hyssop (Ps. l. 9); with water (Num. viii. 7; xix. 12); of the blood of Jesus Christ (1 Pet. i. 2).

STACHYS, a disciple of St. Paul, saluted by him (Rom. xvi. 9).

STACITE, a precious gum used in compounding the holy incense (Ex. xxx. 34); mentioned (Gen. xxxvii. 25; xliii. 11; Ezech. xxvii. 19).

STARS, names of remarkable stars, Arcturus, Orion, the Hyades (Job ix. 9); Arcturus, Pleiades (xxxviii. 31); Joseph sees himself worshipped by eleven stars (Gen. xxxvii. 9); a star shall rise out of Jacob (Num. xxiv. 17); the morning stars praised God (Job xxxviii. 7); the wise men led by a star to Bethlehem (Matt. ii. 2); the woman in the Apocalypse crowned with stars (Apoc. xii. 1).

STATER, a coin (46 cents) (4 Kings vii. 1; xvi. 18; Jer. xxxii. 9; Ezech. iv. 10); found miraculously in the mouth of a fish caught by St. Peter at our Lord's direction (Matt. xvii. 26).

STATIONS or ENCAMPMENTS of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 1-49).

STATUE OF SALT. Lot's wife changed into a statue or pillar of salt (Gen. xix. 26); a mysterious statue seen by Nabuchodonosor (Dan. ii. 31-36); its meaning explained by Daniel (37-45); a golden statue erected by Nabuchodonosor for all to adore (iii. 1-15).

STEALING forbidden (Ex. xx. 15).

STELLIO, a kind of lizard, reckoned unclean (Lev. xi. 30); in kings' houses (Prov. xxx. 28).

STEPHEN, ST., protomartyr. One of the seven deacons first chosen by the apostles at Jerusalem (Acts vi. 5); a man full of faith and the Holy Ghost (5); ordained by imposition of hands (6); full of grace and fortitude, he did great wonders and signs among the people (8); Jews of various synagogues dispute with him, but are unable to resist the wisdom and spirit that spoke (9, 10); false witnesses suborned to accuse him of blasphemy against Moses and God (11); brought before the council (12); false witnesses (13, 14); his face like the face of an angel (15); his reply to the high-priest (vii. 2-53); the Jews gnash their teeth at him (54); looking up he saw the glory of God and Jesus standing at the right hand of God, and so declared (55); they rushed upon him, dragged him out of the city and stoned him, laying their garments at the feet of Saul (57); his last words: Lord Jesus, receive my spirit (58); Lord, lay not this sin to their charge (59); Saul consented to his death (59).

STERILITY in Egypt foretold by Joseph (Gen.

EMBLEMS ON THE STANDARDS OF THE TRIBES.

xli. 30); in Israel foretold by Eliseus (4 Kings vi. 25).

STERILITY in a wife, a disgrace among the Jews, as in Sarai (Gen. xi. 30); Rebecca (xxv. 21); the wife of Manue (Judg. xiii. 2); Anna (1 Kings i. 2); Michol (2 Kings vi. 23); God promises his faithful freedom from it (Deut. vii. 14; Ps. cxii. 9; Cant. iv. 2); in view of the woes to befall Jerusalem our Lord pronounces the barren blessed (Luke xxiii. 29).

STEPHANAS, one of the first converts at Corinth, baptized with his whole family by St. Paul, A. D. 52 (1 Cor. i. 16); he went to Ephesus to meet St. Paul, A. D. 56 (xvi. 17); and apparently was one of the bearers of the first epistle to the Corinthians to the faithful there.

STHARBUZANAI, an officer of the Persian kings, demands of the Jews their authority for rebuilding the temple and walls of Jerusalem (1 Esd. v. 3); he writes a letter to king Darius (6); the letter (7-17).

STIBIC STONE (kohl), a preparation of antimony used in the East by women to paint the eyes (4 Kings ix. 30; Jer. iv. 30; Ezech. xxiii. 40). The Douay has painted the eyes; many editions of Challoner, following King James', incorrectly altered it to face. Job's daughter, Cornu Stibii (Heb. Keren happuch), means a horn of Stibic stone (Job xlii. 14).

STING OF THE FLESH (2 Cor. xii. 7).

STOMACHER or GIRDLE worn by women (Jer. ii. 32).

STONE, set up as a title by Jacob (Gen. xxviii. 22; xxxi. 45, 46, 51, 52); Hebrews ordered to set up stones after passing the Jordan and to inscribe the commandments on them (Deut. xxvii. 2, 4); Josue renews the order (Jos. iv. 5); stones set up in Gaigai (Jos. iv. 19); Josue sets up a great stone under the oak that was in the Sanctuary of the Lord (Jos. xxiv. 26, 27); Samuel sets up the Stone of Help (1 Kings

ANCIENT SWORDS.

17; Gen. i. 2; Job xxvi. 13; xxxiii. 4; Ps. cxxxviii. 7; Eccles. i. 9).

SPIRIT in the sense of life (Job xii. 10; Ezech. xxxvii. 8).

vii. 12); a mysterious stone, figure of the church, seen by Daniel in a vision (Dan. ii. 35); Chanaanites slain by stones from heaven (Jos. x. 11); altars built of untrimmed stones (Deut. xxvii. 5).

STO'RAX, Jacob sends some as a gift to Joseph (Gen. xliii. 11).

STRIFE forbidden (Prov. xxvi. 20; xvii. 14; xxv. 8; xxvi. 17; Rom. xiii. 13; 1 Cor. iii. 3; Gal.

9); stopped in its course by Josue (Jos. x. 13); its motion (Eccles. i. 5, 6); worshipped by the heathens (Wis. xiii. 2; Job xxxi. 26; 4 Kings xxiii. 5-11); darkened at the death of Christ (Luke xxiii. 45); at the last judgment (Matt. xxiv. 29; Luke xxi. 25; Apoc. vi. 12; ix. 2); the Sun of Understanding (Wis. v. 6).

SU'NAM, a city in the tribe of Issachar (Jos. xix. 18); the Philistines encamped there (1 Kings xxviii. 4); Eliseus raised to life the child of his hostess at Sunam (4 Kings iv. 8).

SUNAMI'TESS, a woman of Sunam. Abisag, wife of David, is so called (3 Kings i. 3, 15; ii. 17-22); the hostess of Eliseus (4 Kings iv. 12-36).

SUN-DIAL of Achaz. The shadow moves back on it at the prayer of Isaias (4 Kings xx. 11).

SUPERSTIT'ION. Festus applies the term to the Jewish faith (Acts xxv. 19); St. Paul applies it to heretical ideas (Col. ii. 23); he calls the Athenians too superstitious (Acts xvii. 22).

SUPH, a Levite, ancestor of Elcana, and founder of the family of Suphim or Sophim (1 Kings i. 1; 1 Paral. vi. 35); the land of Suph was named from him (1 Kings ix. 5).

SU'PHAM, son of Benjamin (Num. xxvi. 39); called Mophim (Gen. xlvi. 21).

SUP'PER, the Paschal, or last celebrated by our Lord (Luke xxii. 14).

SUR, a city in Arabia Petrea, giving name to the desert of Sur (Gen. xvi. 7; Ex. xv. 22; 1 Kings xv. 7; xxvii. 8).

SUR, the gate of Sur was one of the gates of the temple (4 Kings xi. 6).

SURISAD'DAI, father of Salamiel, prince of the tribe of Simeon in the exodus (Num. i. 6).

SU'SA, scribe of David (1 Paral. xviii. 16).

SU'SA or SU'SAN, capital of Persia (Dan. viii

STONE OF BOSRA, son of Ruben, one of the bounds of Juda (Jos. xv. 6); the Stone of Help (1 Kings iv. 1; v. 1; vii. 12); Adonias gives a feast at the stone of Zoheleth (3 Kings i. 9); David and Jonathan at the stone Ezel (1 Kings xx. 19); Christ, the corner-stone (Eph. ii. 20); the stone rejected (Ps. cxvii. 22; Matt. xxi. 42; Mark xii. 10; Luke xx. 17).

STONE KNIVES, used in circumcision (Ex. iv. 25; Jos. v. 2).

STONES, PRECIOUS (3 Kings vii. 9, 11; 1 Paral. xxix. 2; 2 Paral. xxxii. 27); two onyxes engraved in the ephod (Ex. xxxix. 6); twelve stones in the rational of judgment, viz.: Sardius, topaz, emerald, carbuncle, sapphire, jasper, ligurius, agate, amethyst, chrysolite, onyx and beryl (10-13; xxviii. 17-20); amethyst (Apoc. xxi. 20); beryl (Ex. xxviii. 20; Ezech. xxviii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 20); carbuncle (Ex. xxviii. 18; Eccles. xxxii. 7; Ezech. xxviii. 13); chrysolite (Ezech. x. 9; xxviii. 13; Dan. x. 6; Apoc. xxi. 20); chrysoprase (Apoc. xxi. 20); emerald (Tob. xiii. 21; Judith x. 19; Eccles. xxxii. 8; Ezech. xxviii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 19); jasper (Isai. liv. 12; Ezech. xxviii. 13; Apoc. iv. 3; xxi. 11, 18, 19); onyx (Gen. ii. 12; Ex. xxv. 7; xxviii. 9, 20; xxx. 34; xxxv. 9, 27; xxxix. 6, 13; 1 Paral. xxix. 2; Ezech. xxviii. 13); sapphire (Tob. xiii. 21; Job xxviii. 6, 16; Cant. v. 14; Isai. liv. 11; Lam. iv. 7; Ezech. i. 26; x. 1; xxviii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 19); sardius (Ezech. xxviii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 20); topaz (Job xxviii. 19; Ps. cxviii. 127; Ez. xxviii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 20).

STO'NING, a punishment among the Jews (Lev. xx. 2, 7; xxiv. 14, 16, 23; Num. xv. 35; Deut. xiii. 10; xxii. 21, 24; 3 Kings xxi. 13; Acts vii. 58).

STORK, forbidden as food (Deut. xiv. 16).

STORM, stilled by our Lord on the Sea of Galilee (Matt. viii. 26; Mark vi. 51; Luke viii. 24); St. Paul wrecked by a storm on Melita (Acts xxvii. 41).

v. 20; Philip. ii. 3; 2 Tim. ii. 23; Tit. iii. 9; James iii. 14).

STRIPES, when inflicted (Deut. xxv. 2); stripes inflicted on St. Paul (2 Cor. xi. 24; Acts xvi. 23).

STUB'BORNNESS (2 Paral. xxx. 8; Ps. xciv. 8; Heb. iii. 13).

STUMB'LING-BLOCK, Christ a stumbling-block to the Jews (1 Cor. i. 23; Isai. viii. 14; Rom. ix. 32; 1 Pet. ii. 8).

SUB'URBS of the cities of refuge assigned to the Levites (Num. xxxv. 3-5).

SU'A, king of Egypt (Sevechos); his aid is sought by Osee, king of Israel (4 Kings xvii. 4), 717 B. C.

SU'AL. The Philistines made an irruption into the land of Sual (1 Kings xiii. 17).

SU'BA, a kingdom of Syria (2 Paral. viii. 3). See SOBA.

SUB'AEL, son of Amram, head of a family of Levites (1 Paral. xxiv. 20).

SUB'AEL, eldest son of Gersom, son of Moses (1 Paral. xvi. 24).

SUB'AEL, son of Heman, a Levite (1 Paral. xxv. 20).

SUB'UEL, son of Gersom, and grandson of Moses (1 Paral. xxii. 16).

SUE, sixth son of Abraham and Cetura (Gen. xxv. 2).

SUE, daughter of a Chanaanite, and wife of Juda (Gen. xxxviii. 2); she bore Her, Onan and Sela.

SU'HITE. Baldad, one of the friends of Job, was a Suhite (Job ii. 11); supposed to mean a descendant of Sue, son of Abraham.

SULAMI'TESS, a name given to the spouse in the Canticles (vi. 12; vii. 1).

SUN, created (Gen. i. 16; Job ix. 7; xxxi. 26; xli. 21; Ps. ciii. 19); seen in a dream (Gen. xxxvii.

2); its castle (2); here Daniel had the vision of the ram and the goat (viii.); it is the scene of the events recorded in the book of Esther (Esth.); Nehemias

THE TABERNACLE IN THE WILDERNESS

PERSIAN SWORD, OR ACINACES.

was at Susan when he obtained permission to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem (2 Esd. i. 1).

SUSAN'NA, daughter of Helcias, and wife of Joakim, of the tribe of Juda, during the captivity of Babylon. She was falsely accused of adultery by two impious and impure judges, but her innocence was shown by Daniel (Dan. viii.).

SUSAN'NA, one of the holy women who followed our Lord and ministered to him (Luke viii. 2, 3).

SWALLOW alluded to (Isai. xxxviii. 14; Jer. viii. 7; Bar. vi. 21; Tob. ii. 11).

SWEAR. When and under what conditions it is lawful to swear (Gen. xiv. 22; xxi. 24; xxii. 16; xxiv. 2; xxvi. 31; xxxi. 53; xlii. 15; xlvii. 31; Ex. xxii. 11; Lev. v. 4; Num. xiv. 21; xxx.; Deut. vi. 13; Jos. ii. 12; 1 Kings xix. 6; xxiv. 23; xxx. 15; 2 Kings iii. 35; xix. 7; 3 Kings i. 29; 2 Paral. xv. 14; 1 Esd. x. 5; Job xxvii. 2; Ps. xiv. 4; xxiii. 4; Eccles. xxiii. 9, 12; Isai. xiv. 24; xlv. 24; Jer. iv. 2; xii. 16; li. 14; Heb. vi. 13, 17; Apoc. x. 6); unlawful oaths forbidden (Gen. xxv. 33; Ex. xx. 7; xxiii. 13; Jos. ix. 15; xxiii. 7; Judg. xxi. 1, 7, 18; 1 Kings xiv. 24; xxviii. 10; 3 Kings xix. 2; Jer. v. 2, 7; Soph. i. 5; Zach. viii. 17; Matt. xxiii. 16-22); we should not swear without due cause (Matt. v. 34; James v. 12).

SWEAT. Man condemned to eat his bread in the sweat of his face (Gen. iii. 19); our Lord's bloody sweat in the Garden of Olives (Luke xxii. 44).

SWORD, a flaming sword placed before the paradise of pleasure (Gen. iii. 24); Abraham carried one when going to sacrifice Isaac (xxii. 6); Esau to live by the sword (xxvii. 40). The ordinary swords had apparently only one sharp edge, as two-edged swords are specially alluded to (Heb. iv. 12; Apoc. i. 16); figuratively, the Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God (Eph. vi. 17).

SYCAMORE, a tree growing in the plains (3 Kings x. 27; 2 Paral. i. 15; ix. 27; Isai. ix. 10); Zacheus ascended a sycamore tree in order to see our Lord (Luke xix. 4).

Thess. i. 1); St. Peter sends his first Epistle by him (1 Pet. v. 12).

SYN'AGOGUE, or Assembly of the Ancients whose servant our Lord healed, had built a synagogue for the Jews at Capharnaum (Luke vii. 5). The Pharisees sought the first seats in (Matt. xxiii. 6).

THE ARK OF THE COVENANT, THE ALTARS, TABLE OF LOAVES OF PROPOSITION, AND OTHER FURNITURE OF THE TABERNACLE.

(Num. iv. 34; xxxi. 13; Luke viii. 41, 49); it persecutes Jesus Christ (John ix. 22); gives letters to Saul to persecute the church (Acts ix. 2); accursed (Apoc. ii. 9; iii. 9). The word is sometimes rendered Congregation.

SYNAGOGUE, place where Jews met on the Sabbath to read the law and pray. There were at Jerusalem, besides those of the ordinary residents, synagogues of the libertines or freedmen, Cyrenians, Alexandrians, Cilicians (Acts vi. 9); the presiding officer of a synagogue called a ruler (Luke viii. 41; John iv. 46; Acts xviii. 8, 17); our Lord habitually taught in the synagogues (John xviii. 20; Matt. iv. 23; ix. 35; xii. 9; xiii. 54; Mark i. 21-29, 39; iii.

SYRACUSE', a city in Sicily, at which St. Paul touched on his way to Rome (Acts xxviii. 12).

SYRIA. Mesopotamia of Syria, between the Euphrates and Tigris (Gen. xxviii. 2, 5, 6; xxxiii. 18; xxxv. 9, 26; xlv. 15); Syria of Damascus (2 Kings viii. 5); Syria of Soba or Celesyria (Judith iii. 1; 1 Mach. x. 69; 2 Mach. iii. 5, 8; iv. 4; viii. 8); Benadad, king of Syria (2 Kings xx.; 4 Kings vi.); Rasin, king of Syria (Isai. vii.).

SYRIANS, become tributary to David (2 Kings viii. 6); Syrians of Soba, Rohob, Istob and Maacha, join the Ammonites against David (x. 6, 8); defeated (13, 18); the Syrians, under Benadad, besiege Samaria, and are defeated (3 Kings xx.); again at Aphec (26-30); war against Israel (4 Kings vi. 8); blinded and led into Samaria (vi. 18); under Benadad besiege Samaria (vi. 24); panic-struck they raise the siege (vii. 6, 7); conquered and led away captive by the Assyrians (4 Kings xvi. 9); their desolation and ruin foretold (Isai. xvii. 1; Jer. xlix. 23; Amos i. 3).

SYROPHŒNICIAN WOMAN, her daughter cured by our Lord (Mark vii. 25).

TAB'EEL, one of those who opposed the rebuilding of the temple (1 Esd. iv. 7).

TAB'EEL, Rasin, king of Syria, and Phacee, king of Israel, conspire to make the son of Tabeel king of Israel (Isai. vii. 1, 6).

TAB'ERNACLE, the tent in which the worship of God was conducted before the erection of the temple. Its construction and adornment prescribed by God (Ex. xxvi. 1-35); it was rectangular, thirty cubits long, ten wide, and ten high, with curtains at the sides (1-6); the roof of goats' hair, and a second one of rams' skins (7, 14); it was upheld by boards

THE TABERNACLE.

SYLVANUS (see SILAS), a disciple of St. Paul, preaches to the Corinthians (2 Cor. i. 19); joins in the address of the Epistle to the Thessalonians (1

i. vi. 2; Luke iv. 15-44; vi. 6; xii. 10; John vi. 60); St. Paul preaches in (Acts ix. 20; xiii. 5, 14; xvii. 1, 10, 17; xviii. 4, 19; xix. 8); the centurion of setim wood, mortised and joined (15-29); it was divided into two parts (1), the holy, twenty cubits long and ten wide. In this stood the table of the loaves of proposition, the seven-branched candlestick, and the altar of gold, on which incense was burned (xxvi., xl.) Within was (2) the sanctuary or holy of holies, ten cubits square, containing the ark of the covenant. It was separated from the outer part by a precious veil hung on four columns of setim wood, plated with gold (xxvi. 36); and a similar curtain was at the entrance of the holy. Around the tabernacle was a court, one hundred cubits long, and fifty wide, enclosed by curtains hanging from silver-plated setim pillars, in brass sockets (xxvii. 9-18); the altar of holocaust stood in this court, opposite the entrance to the holy (xl. 6); it was made and set up as God golden crown, and a smaller crown above. It had four gold wings at the corners under the crown, and was carried by gold-plated setim wood bars, passed through the rings (Ex. xxv. 23-28).

TABLES OF STONE. God gave to Moses two tables on Mount Sinai, of testimony written with the finger of God (Ex. xxiv. 12; xxxi. 18); as he came down from the mountain, seeing the idolatry of the people, being very angry, threw the tables out of his hand, and broke them at the foot of the mount (xxxii. 19); then God commanded him: Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the former, and I will write upon them the words which were in the tables which thou brokest (xxxiv. 1); Moses cut the tables, such as had been before (4); and God wrote upon the tables the ten words of the covenant (28); and TAPH'ETH, daughter of Solomon, and wife of Ben Abinadab (3 Kings iv. 11).

TAPH'NES, queen of Egypt. Pharaoh gave her sister in marriage to Adad, son of the king of Edom (3 Kings xi. 19, 20).

TAPH'NIS, a city of Egypt (Jer. ii. 16; xliii. 7-9); xlv. 1; xlv. 14); some of the Jews retire to it contrary to the voice of the Lord (xliii. 7); Jeremias hid stones in the vault under the brick wall at the gate of Pharaoh's house in Taphnis (9), and foretold that Nabuchodonosor would set his throne there (10); the sceptres of Egypt to be broken there (Ezech. xxxi. 18); Jeremias is said to have been buried there.

TAPH'SAR, a word used in Jer. li. 27, and supposed to mean S. traps.

REARING THE TABERNACLE.

had commanded, and he filled it with his majesty (xl. 32); it was carried by the Levites (Num. i. 50, 53); the various vessels and articles used there are described (Num. iv. 5-14); its ministers or servants (iv. 15-28; xviii. 2, 3, 5, 7).

TAB'ERNACLES, Feast of, or Scenopægia; a feast during which the Jews lived in tents or booths, made of bough, in memory of their wandering in the desert (Lev. xxiii. 34-42); our Lord observed the feast (John vii. 2).

TABITHA, a pious widow of Joppe, called in Greek, Dorcas. She was full of good works, clothing the widows (Acts ix. 36, 39); she fell sick and died (37); but the disciples sent for St. Peter, who was at Lydda (38); he went and saw the evidence of her good works (39); then kneeling down he prayed, and said: "Tabitha, arise," and she sat up (40).

TABLE FOR THE LOAVES OF PROPOSITION. It was of setim wood, two cubits long, one broad, and one and a half high, overlaid with the purest gold, with a golden ledge, having a when he came down he held the two tables of the testimony (29); these were deposited in the ark of the covenant (xl. 18); and remained there till the destruction of the temple and city of Jerusalem, when the ark was removed by the prophet Jeremias (2 Mach. ii. 5).

TAD'MOR, a city built by Solomon; called also Palmyra (3 Kings ix. 18; 2 Paral. viii. 4).

TAL'ENT, a weight used in computing money (Ex. xxv. 39; xxxviii. 24, 27; 2 Kings xii. 30; 3 Kings xvi. 24; xx. 39; Matt. xviii. 24; xxv. 15). The talent of silver was worth $1,663; the talent of gold $26,608.

TAM'ARICK, a plant in the desert (Jer. xvii. 6).

TALITHA CUMI, Syriac words, meaning "My daughter, arise," used by our Lord (Mark v. 41).

TAN'IS, an ancient city of Egypt, built seven years after Hebron (Num. xiii. 23); miracles wrought there by Moses (Ps. lxxvii. 12, 43); Isaias reproaches its princes with folly (Isai. xix. 11, 13); the Jews send for aid to Tanis (xxx. 4).

TAPH'UA, a city on the border of Manasses (Jos. xvi. 8; xii. 17); also a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 34).

TAPH'UA, a fountain, the land of that name (Jos. xvii. 7).

TAPH'UA, a district on the borders of the half tribe of Manasses, but belonging to the tribe of Ephraim (Jos. xvii. 8).

TAR'SUS, capital of Cilicia, spoken of by St. Paul as "no mean city" (Acts xxi. 39). He was born and long resided there (Acts ix. 11; xxi. 39; xii. 3); St. Barnabas preaches in (xi. 25).

TEB'BATH, the Medianites, after their defeat by Gedeon, fled to Tebbath (Judges vii. 23).

TE'BETH, fourth month of the civil year of the Jews (Esth. ii. 16); the feast of the dedication of the temple (1 Mach. iv. 59; John x. 22) fell in this month.

TEHIN'NA, father of the city of Naas; one of the men of Recha (1 Paral. iv. 12).

TE'LEM, a city of the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 24).

TEMPEST on the sea of Galilee stilled by our Lord (Matt. vii. 26; Mark vi. 51; Luke viii. 24).

TEMPLE OF JERUSALEM. God forbids David to build it (2 Kings vii. 5-12); he foretells that Solomon shall build it (13); Solomon agrees with Hiram for materials and workmen (3 Kings v. 1-18); he began it in the month Zio, the 480th year after their departure from Egypt (vi. 1), 1003 B. C.; it was sixty cubits long, twenty cubits broad, and twenty cubits high, with a porch in front ten cubits deep (2, 3); the front of the porch was supported by two great pillars of brass called Jachin and Booz, with lily work at the top (3 Kings vii. 21). The door-posts were of olive wood, and the doors of fir, with cherubim and palm trees in high relief plated with gold (vi. 33, 34); the holy was forty cubits long by twenty broad (vi. 17); beyond that was the oracle or holy of holies, twenty cubits square (20); the walls of the temple were of stone cut and dressed before they were brought there (3 Kings vi. 7); the holy and holy of holies or oracle were wainscoted with cedar, wrought and carved (18); the ceiling of deal (2 Paral. iii. 5); the floors of precious marble (6), overlaid with gold (3 Kings vi. 30); the inner walls were covered with plates of gold (3 Kings vi. 21; 2 Paral. iii. 5); these gold plates were carved with divers figures and carvings, cherubim, and palm trees in relief (3 Kings vi. 29), and little chains interlaced one with another (2 Paral. iii. 5); at the entrance to the oracle were little doors of olive wood, with pentagonal posts, and doors of olive wood, with cherubim and palm trees in high relief, all overlaid with gold (3 Kings vi. 31, 32); before it hung a veil of silk, wrought with cherubim in colors (2 Paral. iii. 14). In the holy of holies were two cherubim of olive wood ten cubits high, their wings touching the opposite wall; these were overlaid with gold (3 Kings vi. 23-28); and the ark was placed so that they covered it with their wings (2 Paral. v. 7, 8). The temple was finished in Bul, the eighth month in the eleventh year, the work having lasted seven years (3 Kings vi. 38); it was dedicated in Ethanim, the seventh month, 1003 B. C., and the ark carried to its place (3 Kings vii. 1-9; 2 Paral. vii. 10); a cloud filled the house of the Lord, the glory of the Lord filled it (2 Paral. v. 14; 3 Kings viii. 11); Solomon addressed the assembly of Israel (12-21); his prayer (23-61; 2 Paral. vi.); after the prayer fire from heaven consumed the immense number of holocausts offered (vii.); the ceremonies lasted for seven days (3 Kings viii. 65; 2 Paral. vii. 8, 9); God appeared to Solomon and declared that he had chosen that as a place of sacrifice (12-22); Achaz profanes the temple, stripping it to give to the king of the Assyrians (xxviii. 21); he took away all the vessels and broke them and closed the temple (24); he removed the brazen altar and set up a heathen one (4 Kings xvi. 15); Ezechias reopened it and restored the service of God (2 Paral. xxix.); it is profaned by Manasses, who set up heathen altars and a molten statue in it and in the courts (xxxiii. 4, 5, 7); but, repenting, removed them (15); the ark removed by Jeremias (2 Mach. ii. 4); Solomon's temple burned down by Nabuchodonosor (4 Kings xxv. 9). SECOND TEMPLE: God chargeth Cyrus to build him a house in Jerusalem (1 Esd. i. 2); the Jews contribute means (5, 6); Cyrus restores the vessels of the temple (7-11); Josue, the son of Josedec, collects material and workmen (iii. 8); the foundations laid with hymns (10, 11); enemies oppose the work and it is suspended till the second year of the reign of Darius (iv. 1-25); it was then resumed by his order to be sixty cubits long and sixty high (vi. 3); it was completed the third day of the month of Adar, in the sixth year of Darius, 515 B. C., and was dedicated with great solemnity (15-22); it was plundered by

Antiochus, the Illustrious (1 Mach. i. 23, 24); profaned by heathen altars and idols, and immolation of unclean beasts (49, 50); Judas Machabeus, after defeating Lysias, restored the temple and altars, and adorned the front of the temple with crowns of gold and escutcheons, and celebrated the dedication with great pomp (1 Mach. iv. 38-58; 2 Mach. x. 1-8); and instituted the yearly feast of the dedication in the month Casleu (1 Mach. iv. 59; 2 Mach. x. 8); the temple was adorned with rich presents (2 Paral. i.-v.; 2 Mach. iii. 2); prophecies against the temple (Lev. xxvi. 31; 3 Kings ix. 7; 4 Kings xxi. 12; Ps. lxxiii. 7; Is. lxvi.; Jer. vii. 4, 30; xxvi. 6, 12; Dan. ix. 26; Am. ix. 1; Mich. iii. 12; Zach. xi. 1; Matt. xxiv. 2); profaners of the temple punished (Isai. lxvi. 3; 2 Mach. iii. 25, 26; Matt. xxi. 12; John ii. 15); the spiritual temple and house of God (2 Kings vii. 13; Prov. ix. 1; Agg. ii. 8; Matt. vii. 24; xvi. 18; John ii. 19; 1 Cor. iii. 16; vi. 19; 2 Cor. vi. 16; Eph. ii. 20; 1 Tim. iii. 15; Heb. iii. 6; 1 Pet. ii. 5); the

xiv. 9); temple of Babylon (Dan. i. 2); of Nanea in Persia (2 Mach. i. 13).

TEMPT. It is forbidden to tempt God (Ex. xiv. 11; xvii. 2; Deut. vi. 16; Judith viii. 11; Matt. iv. 7; 1 Cor. x. 9); how God tries and tempts his own (Gen. xxii. 1; Ex. xv. 25; xvi. 4; xx. 20; Deut. viii. 2; xiii. 3; Judg. ii. 22; iii. 1; 2 Paral. xxxii. 31; Tob. ii. 12; Job i. 12; Wisd. iii. 5; Ecclus. ii. 4; xxxii. 18; Zach. xiii. 9; Rom. v. 4; 1 Cor. x. 13; 2 Pet. ii. 9; Apoc. ii. 10).

TENT. Jabel the father of such as dwell in tents (Gen. iv. 20); the Lord appeared to Abraham as he was sitting in the door of his tent at Mambre (xviii. 1); he pitched his tent at Bersabee (xxvi. 25); the Israelites pitch their tents at Sinai (Ex. xix. 2).

TEPID/ITY in the service of God, terrible warning against (Apoc. iii. 15, 16; Luke ix. 62).

TER'EBINTH, valley of the (1 Kings xvii. 2; xxi. 9).

TER'PHALITES, one of the nations scit-

TARSUS.

temple is the house of prayer, God hears those who pray there (Isai. lxvi. 7; Matt. xxi. 13; 3 Kings ix. 3; viii. 29; 2 Paral. vi. 19); Jesus and his disciples often went up to the temple to pray (Matt. xxiv. 1; Mark xi. 11; xii. 35; Luke ii. 27; Acts ii. 46; iii. 11; v. 20, 21. 25; xxii. 17); God needs no temple to serve as his abode; the prophet Ezechiel sees in a vision the temple rebuilt, and describes it in detail (Ezech. xl.-xlviii.).

TEM'PLE, schismatic, erected by the Samaritans on Mount Garizim (2 Mach. v. 23); under the reign of Antiochus, Jupiter Hospitalis worshipped there (vi. 2); although the worship of the true God was restored there, our Lord condemned it (John iv. 22).

TEM'PLES. Many heathen temples are mentioned; that of Dagon at Gaza (Judg. xvi. 23); at Azotus (1 Kings v. 2; 1 Mach. x. 84); of Astaroth (1 Kings xxxi. 10); of Baal at Samaria (3 Kings xvi. 32); of Remmon at Damascus (4 Kings v. 18); of Chamos and Moloch erected by Solomon on the hill over against Jerusalem (3 Kings xi. 7); of Nesroch at Ninive (Isai. xxxvii. 38); of Bel at Babylon (Dan.

to occupy the country of the ten tribes (1 Esd. i. 9).

TER'TIUS, the secretary of St. Paul, who wrote the epistle to the Romans (Rom. xvi. 22).

TERTUL'LUS accuses St. Paul before Felix (Acts xxiv. 2-9).

TEST'AMENT, the Old and the New (Gal. iv. 24; Heb. ix. 15; xiii. 20).

TEST'AMENT, OLD, the collection of inspired books written before the coming of our Lord.

TEST'AMENT, NEW, the collection of inspired books written since the coming of our Lord.

TEST'IMONY, false testimony forbidden (Ex. xx. 16; xxiii. 1; Deut. v. 20; Ps. xxvi. 12; xxxiv. 11; Prov. xix. 5, 9; xxi. 28; xxiv. 28; xxv. 18; Matt. xix. 18; Rom. xiii. 9); false testimony given against Naboth (3 Kings xxi.); against Susanna (Dan. xiii. 34); against Jesus (Matt. xxvi. 59; xxviii. 13); against St. Stephen (Acts vi. 11); against St. Paul (Acts xxi. 28); a faithful witness (Apoc. ii. 13); no one is to be condemned on the testimony of a single witness (Num. xxxv. 30; Deut. xix. 15; John viii. 17; 1 Tim. v. 19; Heb. x. 23).

TET'RARCH, the ruler of the fourth part of a country. Herod called tetrarch of Galilee (Matt. xiv. 1; Luke iii. 1, 19; ix. 7; Acts xiii. 1); Philip, tetrarch of Iturea and Trachonitis (Luke iii. 1); Lysanias, tetrarch of Abilina (Luke iii. 1).

THA'BOR, a mountain of Galilee, on the borders of Issachar (Jos. xix. 22); Debhora and Barac assembled their army on Thabor (Judg. iv. 6); Osee reproaches the princes of Israel for spreading a net upon Thabor (Osee v. 1); it is by tradition regarded as the place of our Lord's transfiguration.

THA'BOR, the oak of, on the way to Bethel (1 Kings x. 3).

THA'DAL, king of the nations, one of the kings allied against the Pentapolis (Gen. xiv. 1).

THAD'DEUS, surname of the apostle St. Jude (Mark iii. 18).

THA'HATH, one of the encampments of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 26).

THALAS'SAR, a province of Asia; Rabsaces, officer of Sennacherib, alludes to it (Isai. xxxvii. 12); written Thelassar (4 Kings xix. 12).

THALAS'SA, a city in Crete (Acts xvii. 8).

THA'MAR, wife of Her, and then of Onan, sons of Juda (Gen. xxxviii. 6); returns to her father's house (11); tempts Juda (13-18); bears him Phares and Zara (27; xlv. 12).

THA'MAR, daughter of David, by Maacha, daughter of Tholmai, king of Gessur; she is violated by her brother Amnon (2 Kings xiii. 14).

THA'MAR, daughter of Absalom, remarkable for her beauty (2 Kings xiv. 27).

THA'MAR, a city of Judea (Ezech. xlvii. 19; xlviii. 27).

THAM'NA or THAMNA'THA, a city of the Philistines (Jos. xv. 10, 57); where Samson married a wife (Judg. xiv. 1, 2, 5; 1 Mach. ix. 50).

THAM'NA, concubine of Esau, and mother of Amalec (Gen. xxxvi. 12).

THAM'NA, duke of Edom, after Adad (1 Paral. i. 51; Gen. xxxvi. 40).

THAM'NAN, a city near Ajalon (2 Paral. xxviii. 18).

THAM'NATHSARA (Jos. xix. 50) or THAM'NATHSARE', a city in the tribe of Ephraim, where Josue was buried (Jos. xxiv. 30).

THA'NAC, a city in the half tribe of Manasse beyond the Jordan (Jos. xxi. 25).

THAN'ATHS'ELO, a city of Ephraim (Jos. xvi. 6).

THANKSGIV'ING, enjoined (2 Cor. ix. 12; Philip. iv. 6; Col. ii. 7; iv. 2; Apoc. vii. 12).

THAP'SA, a city in the tribe of Ephraim, taken by Manahem, king of Israel, who perpetrated horrible cruelties there (4 Kings xv. 16, 17).

THAP'SA, an important city near the Euphrates (3 Kings iv. 24).

THA'RA, a eunuch who conspired against Asuerus (Esth. xii. 1).

THARA'CA, king of Ethiopia, marches with a large army to support king Ezechias against Sennacherib (4 Kings xix. 9; Isai. xxxvii. 9).

THARE', son of Nachor, and father of Nachor, Aran, and Abram. He went with Abram from Ur of the Chaldees, to Haran in Mesopotamia, and died THA'SI, the surname of Simon Machabeus (1 Mach. ii. 3).

THATHAN'AI, governor of Samaria, opposes the rebuilding of Jerusalem (1 Esd. v. 6); writes against the Jews to king Darius (7); he is ordered to leave them in peace (vi. 6); obeys (13).

THAU, the last letter of the Hebrew alphabet; in the ancient character it had the form of a cross. It is the sign put on the forehead of God's elect (Ezech. ix. 4, 6).

THE'ATRE, a place of public amusement or assembly (Acts xix. 29).

THE'BATH, a town of Syria, taken by David (1 Paral. xviii. 8).

THEBES, a city in the tribe of Ephraim. Abimelech killed by a woman while besieging it (Judg. ix. 50; 2 Kings xi. 21).

THEB'ET, one of the months of the Jewish year.

THEB'NI, son of Gineth, contends with Amri for the crown of Israel (3 Kings xvi. 21); Thebni died (22).

THEC'EL, "weighed in the balance." One of the mysterious words written on the wall at Balthasar's feast and interpreted by Daniel (Dan. v. 25).

THEC'UE, a city built by Roboam (2 Paral. xi. 6); Amos was among the herdsmen of Thecue (Amos i. 1).

THEFT forbidden (Ex. xx. 15; xxii. 1; Lev. xix. 11; Deut. xxiv. 7; Jos. vii. 1; Tob. ii. 21; Prov. vi. 30; Osee iv. 2; 2 Mach. xii. 40; Matt. xix. 18; John xii. 6; 1 Cor. vi. 10; Apoc. ix. 21); laws relative to restoration (Ex. xxii. 4); relative to a stolen deposit (7); a night robber breaking into a house may be slain (32); cannot be killed by day without homicide.

THEG'LATHPHALASAR, king of the Assyrians, defeats the Assyrians, and carries off most of the ten tribes to Assyria (4 Kings xv. 29).

THELHAR'SA and THEL'MALA, Babylonian cities (1 Esd. ii. 59).

THE'MA, son of Ishmael (Gen. xxv. 15; Job vi. 19).

THE'MAN, son of Eliphaz and grandson of Esau (Gen. xxxvi. 11).

THE'MANITES, land of (Gen. xxxvi. 34).

THE'ODAS, a man who rose up according to Gamaliel, affirming himself to be somebody; but he was slain, and those who believed in him, some 400 were scattered (Acts v. 36).

ISOMETRICAL ELEVATION
of
SOLOMON'S TEMPLE
After Calmet.

there (Gen. xi. 31, 32); he fell into idolatry (Jos. xxiv. 2, 14).

THARE', a camp of the Israelites in the desert (Num. xxxiii. 27).

THARE'LA, a city in the tribe of Benjamin (Jos. xviii. 27).

THA'RES (Esth. ii. 21; vi. 2). See THARA.

THAR'SIS, second son of Javan (Gen. x. 4).

THAR'SIS, one of the highest satraps in Persia (Esth. i. 14).

THAR'SIS, a country to which Solomon sent his fleets (3 Kings x. 22; 2 Paral. ix. 21); Holofernes pillaged the children of Tharsis (Judith ii. 13); silver in plates was imported from Tharsis (Jer. x. 9); the kings of Tharsis mentioned (Ps. lxxi. 10); Jonas fled to (Jon. i. 3).

THAR'THAC, a false god of the Hevites (4 Kings xvii. 31).

THAR'THAN, one of the officers sent by Sennacherib to Ezechias (4 Kings xviii. 17).

THEODO'TIUS, a Syrian, one of the deputies sent by Nicanor to Judas Machabeus to treat of peace (2 Mach. xiv. 19).

THEOPH'ILUS, the person to whom St. Luke addressed his gospel, and the Acts of the Apostles.

THER'APHIM, "that is to say, idols" (Judg. xvi. 5; xviii. 14; Osee iii. 4).

THER'SA, a city whose king was slain by Josue (Jos. xii. 24); it became a city in the kingdom of Israel. Jeroboam made it his abode (3 Kings xiv. 17); it was also the capital under Baasa (xv. 21, 33); under Ela (xvi. 9); under Zambri (15); under Amri (23), till he built Samaria (24); Manahem went from Thersa to Samaria to slay Sellum and usurp his throne (4 Kings xv. 14).

THER'SA, youngest of the five daughters of Salphaad (Num. xxv. 33; xxvii. 1; xxxvi. 2, 3; Jos. xvii. 3).

THES'BE, a city in Galaad beyond the Jordan, the native place of the prophet Elias, who is called Elias the Thesbite (3 Kings xvii. 1; 4 Kings i. 3, 8; ix. 36).

THESSALONI'CA, capital of Macedonia; St. Paul preached Christ in the synagogue there, A. D. 52; converting many Jews and Gentiles (Acts xvii.); the Jews raised a riot, and failing to seize St. Paul and Silas, dragged Jason and others to the rulers. The faithful sent St. Paul and Silas away by night (Acts xvii. 1-10); St. Paul thanks the Philippians for sending twice to Thessalonica means for his use (Phil. iv. 16); mentions Demas going there (2 Tim. iv. 9); with Sylvanus and Timothy wrote two epistles from Corinth to the faithful at Thessalonica (1 Thess.; 2 Thess.).

THESSALO'NIANS', two Epistles of St. Paul to the; canonical books of the New Testament (1 Thess., 2 Thess.).

THIEVES, those who corrupt the Word of God called thieves (Jer. xxiii. 30; John x. 1).

THIGH, touched in taking an oath (Gen. xxiv. 2, 9; xlvii. 29).

THI'RAS, seventh son of Japheth, son of Noe (Gen. x. 2).

THOBADO'NIAS and THOBIAS, Levites sent by king Josaphat through the cities of Juda to instruct the people in their religion (2 Paral. xvii. 8).

THO'CHEN, a city of Simeon (1 Paral. iv. 32).

THOGOR'MA, third son of Gomer (Gen. x. 3; 1 Paral. i. 9).

THOGOR'MA, a country that sent horses and mules to Tyre (Ezech. xxvii. 14); it lay in the north (xxxviii. 6).

THO'HU, grandfather of Samuel (1 Kings i. 1; 1 Paral. vi. 34).

THO'LA, eldest son of Issachar (Gen. xlvi. 13; Num. xxvi. 23; 1 Paral. vii. 1, 2).

THO'LA, tenth judge of Israel, son of Phua, the uncle of Abimelech (Judg. x. 1); he was of the tribe of Issachar, and dwelt at Samir, in Mount Ephraim (1); he judged Israel twenty-three years, and was buried at Samir (2).

THO'LAD, a city in the tribe of Simeon (1 Paral. iv. 29).

THOL'MAI, son of Enach, of the race of giants; he was slain by the Israelites (Num. xiii. 23; Jos. xv. 14).

THOL'MAI (2 Kings iii. 3); or Tholomai (2 Kings xiii. 17). He was son of Ammiud, king of Gessur, and father of Maacha, wife of David (2 Kings iii. 3; 1 Paral. iii. 2); Absalom, after killing (John xiv. 5); after the resurrection, when told that our Lord had appeared to the other apostles, he refused to believe, unless he actually saw and touched him (John xx. 25); eight days after, our Lord appearing again, made him place his finger and hand in the wounds, and reproached him with his incredulity (27); St. Thomas exclaimed: "My Lord and my God" (28); our Lord replying, said: "Blessed are they that have not seen, and have believed" (29).

THO'PHEL, a place beyond the Jordan on the borders of the wilderness (Deut. i. 1).

THO'PO, a fortified city (1 Mach. ix. 50).

THORNS, part of man's punishment (Gen. iii. 18); a figure of the cares of life (Matt. xiii. 22; Mark iv. 19); our Lord crowned with thorns (Matt. xxvii. 29; Mark xv. 17; John xix. 2); earth bringing forth thorns and briars is reprobate (Heb. vi. 8).

THOU, king of Emath, in Syria, sent his son Joram to congratulate David on his victory over Aderezer, and to offer him vessels of gold, silver and brass (2 Kings viii. 8-11).

THOUGHTS, God abhors wicked thoughts (Matt. xv. 19; Mark vii. 21; Zach. viii. 17; Prov. vi. 18); God knows the thoughts of the heart (3 Kings viii. 39; 2 Paral. vi. 30; Job xlii. 2; Eccles. xlii. 20; Isai. xxix. 15; Matt. ix. 4; John ii. 25; Heb. iv. 12); known to those to whom God reveals them (4 Kings v. 26; vi. 12; Dan. ii. 29).

THRAC'IANS, in the army of Gorgias, one saves him (2 Mach. xii. 35).

THREE TAVERNS, St. Paul arrives at a place so called near Rome (Acts xxviii. 15).

THRESHING-FLOOR of Arcuna, or Ornan, the Jebusite; the angel of Lord sent to strike the people for David's sin stood by it (2 Kings xxiv. 16; 1 Paral. xxi. 15); the angel commanded Gad to tell David to build an altar there (18; 2 Kings xxiv. 18); David bought it of Arcuna, and built an altar there (24, 25; 1 Paral. xxi. 25, 26); the temple of Solomon was erected there. Oza killed at the threshing-floor of Chidon (1 Paral. xiii. 9).

THRONE. Description of Solomon's throne (3 Kings x. 18); of the mysterious throne of the Lord (Apoc. iv. 2-10).

THRONES, an order of angels (Coloss. i. 16).

THU'BAL, fifth son of Japheth (Gen. x. 2; 1 Paral. i. 5; Ezech. xlvii., xxxii., xxxviii., xxxix.).

THUN'DER, in Egypt (Ex. ix. 23); at Mount Sinai (xix. 16); in Mardochoi's dream (Esth. xi. 5); in Job (xxvi., xxxviii.); voice like thunder in testimony of our Lord (John xii. 29); in the Apocalypse (Apoc. iv., vi., viii., x., xiv. 2; xv., xix. 6).

THYATI'RA, a city on the borders of Mysia and Lycia. The church there was one of the seven in Asia, to whom bishops are sent in the Apocalypse PRIEST.

HIGH PRIEST

LEVITE.

TABLE OF LOAVES OF PROPOSITION.

THE ARK OF THE COVENANT.

GOLDEN CANDLESTICK.

ALTAR OF INCENSE.

ALTAR OF HOLOCAUSTS.

LAVER.

DRESS OF PRIESTS AND FURNITURE OF THE TEMPLE.

his brother Amnon, fled to his grandfather Tholmai in Gessur (2 Kings xiii. 37).

THOM'AS, SAINT, one of the twelve apostles, called also Didymus (John xx. 24), the name meaning twin; he was called to the apostleship (Luke vi. 13-15); on hearing of the death of Lazarus, he said, "Let us go and be with him" (John xi. 16); at the Last Supper he said to Jesus: "Lord, we know not whither thou goest, and how can we know the way?"

(Apoc. i. 11); the bishop praised for his faith, charity and patience (ii. 19); reproached with allowing a woman to spread false doctrines (20-24).

5); St. Paul circumcised him before taking him to aid him in the ministry (Acts xvi. 3); he was ordained with imposition of the hands of the priesthood (1 rites. The bishop of Ephesus reproached in the Apocalypse (Apoc. ii. 1-3); is by some supposed not to be St. Timothy.

TIM'OTHY, St. Paul's two Epistles to; canonical books of the New Testament (1 Tim.; 2 Tim.)

TISRI', the first month of the civil year, and the seventh of the ecclesiastical year.

TITAN. Judith, in her canticle, says of Holofernes: "Neither did the sons of Titan strike him" (Judith xvi. 8).

TITHES, first paid by Abraham to Melchisedech (Gen. xiv. 20); Jacob promises to offer tithes to the Lord (xxviii. 22); prescribed by the law of Moses (Ex. xxii. 29; Lev. xxvii. 30-34).

TITLE, used in the sense of a monument (Gen. xxviii. 18; xxxi. 45; xxxiv. 14; xxxv. 20; Levit. xxvi. 1; 2 Kings xviii. 18).

TIT'US, a disciple of St. Paul, a Gentile by birth (Gal. ii. 3); converted by St. Paul who calls him his son (Tit. i. 4); St. Paul took him to Jerusalem, A. D. 51 (Gal. ii. 1); he would not consent to be circumcised; he was sent to Corinth to still the troubles there, A. D. 56 (2 Cor. xii. 18); he joined St. Paul in Macedonia (2 Cor. vii. 6, 15); he set out for Corinth (2 Cor. viii. 5-17); carrying St. Paul's second Epistle to the Corinthians. He was made bishop of Crete, A. D. 63 (Tit. i. 5); and St. Paul summoned him to Nicopolis (Tit. iii. 12). He is said to have died and been buried in the island of Crete.

TIT'US. St. Paul's Epistle to, one of the canonical books of the New Testament (Tit.)

TIT'US JUSTUS, St. Paul abides with him at Corinth (Acts xviii. 7).

TOB, a country beyond the Jordan (Judg. xi. 3, 5); called Tubin (1 Mach. v. 13); suffering of Jews there (13); Judas among them (2 Mach. xii. 17).

TOBI'AS THE ELDER, of the tribe of Nephthali (Tob. i. 1); faithful to the Lord (6); marries Anna (9); his works of mercy, especially burying the dead (19, 20); fled during persecution of Sennacherib (23); buries a dead man (ii. 1-9); blinded by dung from a swallow's nest (11); his patience (12-

THEBES, IN EGYPT—THE RAMESSION

THY'INE TREES brought from Ophir (3 Kings x. 11); the rails of Solomon's temple and palace, citterns and harps made of it (12).

TIBE'RIAS, sea of, the sea of Galilee so called (John vi. 1; xxi. 1).

TIBE'RIAS, a city on the sea of Galilee (John vi. 23).

TIBE'RIOUS, adopted son and successor of Augustus. St. John the Baptist began his preaching in the fifteenth year of his reign (Luke iii. 1).

TI'CHON. The prophet Ezechiel speaks of the house of Tichon, which is by the border of Aaran (Ezech. xlvii. 16).

TI'GRIS, one of the four great rivers of Paradise (Gen. ii. 14); Tobias reaches it (vi. 1); Nabuchodonosor defeated Arphaxad near it (Judith i. 5, 6); the son of Sirach alludes to its floods in the days of the new fruits (Ecclus. xxiv. 35); Daniel has a vision near the Tigris (Dan. x. 4).

TILL'AGE of the soil a penalty imposed on the human race (Gen. iii. 17).

TI'GER, a wild animal mentioned (Job iv. 11).

TIM'BREL, a musical instrument (Gen. xxxi. 27; 1 Kings xviii. 6; Isaias v. 12; 1 Mach. ix. 39).

TIME. Things should be done in their time (Ecclus. iii. 2; viii. 5; Ecclus. xx. 6; xxxii. 29; Rom. xiii. 11); the seventh angel in the Apocalypse declares that Time shall be no longer (Apoc. x. 6). Time used in Daniel for year (Dan. iv. 13).

TIMON, one of the first seven appointed deacons (Acts vi. 5).

TIMOTHEUS, general of king Antiochus Epiphanes, defeated by Judas Machabeus, with the loss of 20,000 men (2 Mach. viii. 30); again beyond the Jordan (1 Mach. v. 6, 7); killed at Gazara (2 Mach. x. 37).

TIMOTHEUS, another general under the same king, and governor of the countries beyond the Jordan, defeated by Judas and Jonathan (1 Mach. v. 11, 12; 2 Mach. xii. 20); flees to Carnion (21); falls into the hands of Dositheus and Sosipater, who spare his life (25).

TIMO'THY, SAINT, a disciple of St. Paul, son of Eunice, a Jewess, and a pagan father (Acts xvi. 1); he was born at Derbe or Lystra. St. Paul praises the piety of Eunice and her mother Lois (2 Tim. i.

Tim. iv. 14; 2 Tim. i. 6); he accompanied St. Paul to Macedonia (Acts xvi. 12); Philippi, Thessalonica and Berea (Acts xvii. 1-14); he remained at Berea till St. Paul summoned him to Athens (15); he was then in Corinth (xviii. 5); and from Ephesus St. Paul sent him again to Macedonia (xix. 22); St. Paul, in writing to the Thessalonians, joins St. Timothy and St. Silas with himself (1 Thess.; 2 Thess.); he labored at Corinth (1 Cor. iv. 17; 2 Cor. i. 19); he was with St. Paul in Macedonia when he wrote his second Epistle to Corinthians (2 Cor. i.); he salutes the Romans (Rom. xvi. 21); St. Timothy accompanied St. Paul on his way to Jerusalem (Acts xx. 4); and was with him, A. D. 60-62, when he wrote to the Philippians, the Colossians and to Philemon; the next year St. Paul mentions that St. Timothy was out of prison (Heb. xiii. 23); in A. D. 64, he left him at Ephesus (1 Tim. i. 3, 4); of which city he is always reckoned the first bishop.

THESSALONICA.

St. Paul addressed two epistles to him (1 Tim.; 2 Tim.) He is recorded to have suffered martyrdom at Ephesus while endeavoring to prevent heathen

23); his instructions to his son (iv.); sends his son to collect money of Gabelus at Rages (v.); the angel Raphael sent as a guide (v. 5, 6); cured of his blindness by Raphael's directions (xi. 8-15); seeks to reward the guide (xii.); praised by Raphael (xii. 12, 15); his canticle (xiii.); died at Ninive, aged 102 (xiv. 2).

TOBI'AS THE SON. Instructions given him by his father (Tob. i.); sent to Rages to collect money of Gabelus (Tob. v.); the angel Raphael becomes his guide (22-28); takes a fish in the Tigris (2-4); keeps parts by command of the angel (4, 8, 9); is directed by him to marry Sara (12); entertained by Raguel (vii. 1-9); he asks Sara as his wife (10); their marriage (15, 16); exorcises the devil who had afflicted her by following the angel's directions (viii.); asks Azarias to go to Gabelus (ix. 1); sets out for his father's home (10, 11); his parents long for him (x. 1-7; xi. 5, 6); he reaches home and cures his father's blindness (9-17); buries his parents and leaves Ninive (xiv. 14); his death (16).

TOBI'AS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament, containing the history of Tobias (Tob.)

TOBI'AS, one of the four from whom God orders the prophet Zachary to receive gold and silver for a crown for Jesus, the high-priest (Zach. vi. 10, 14).

TOMB, bought by Abraham in the land of Hebron (Gen. xxiii. 16); Sara buried there (19); Rachel's tomb erected near Bethlehem (xxxv. 20; xlviii. 7); Jacob's tomb in the land of Hebron (xlvii. 30); Joseph's tomb at Sichem, in land bought by Jacob (Jcs. xxiv. 32); Aaron's tomb on Mount Hor (Num. xx. 29); tomb of Moses in the valley of Moab, unknown to men (Deut. xxxiv. 6); Josue's tomb at Thamnath-sare (Jos. xxiv. 30); Samson's (Judg. xvi. 31); that of Absalom (2 Kings xviii.); that of Ochozias at Je-TONGUE. We are to beware of an evil tongue (Lev. xix. 16; Job v. 21; Ps. li. 4; cxxxix. 4, 12; cxl. 3; Prov. iv. 24; xv. 2; xvi. 28; xvii. 20; xviii. 21; xxi. 23; xxx. 11; Eccles. v. 2; Wis. i. 11; Eccles.

their children through fire to Moloch (4 Kings xxiii. 10; Jerem. vii. 31); defiled by king Josias (4 Kings xxiii. 10); a place of burial (Jer. vii. 32; xix. 11); unclean (13); used as a figure of hell (Isai. xxx. 33);

SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY. (After Raphael.)

v. 16; xxv. 11; xxviii. 1; 1 Cor. xv. 33; James i. 19; iii. 5, 8); the tongue is to be bridled (Prov. xii. 14; xiii. 2, 3; xvii. 27; xviii. 21; Eccles. xiv. 1; xx. 5; xxii. 33; xxiii. 17; Matt. xii. 36; Luke vi. 45; 1 Pet. iii. 10).

TONGUES, confusion of tongues at Babel (Gen. xi. 7, 9); the apostles and primitive Christians receive the gift of tongues (Acts ii. 4; x. 46; xix. 6); gift of tongues useless without that of interpretation (1 Cor. xiv. 13).

TO'PAZ, a precious stone (Ex. xxviii. 17; xxxix.

to be called the Valley of Slaughter (Jer. vii. 32; xix. 6).

TOR'MENTS, endured by the seven brethren (2 Mach. vii.); inflicted on the just (Wis. ii. 19); of the wicked (Wis. iv. 19; v. xi. 10; Luke xvi. 23, 28; Apoc. xiv. 11; xviii. 7).

TOR'RENTS. The torrent of Arnon (Num. xxi. 14); torrent of Besor (1 Kings xxx. 9, 21); torrent Cadumim (Judg. v. 21); torrent of Carith near Socoth (3 Kings xvii. 3); torrent of Cedron (2 Kings xv. 23; 3 Kings xv. 13; 4 Kings xxiii. 12; Jerem. xxxi. 40; John xviii. 1); of Cison (Judg. iv. 7, 13); torrent of the Cluster (Num. xiii. 24, 25); torrent of Egypt (Num. xxxiv. 5; Jos. xv. 47); torrent of Ephraim (Jos. xvii. 9); torrent of Gaas (2 Kings xxiii. 30; 1 Paral. xi. 32); torrent of Gerara (Gen. xxvi. 17); torrent of Jeboc (Deut. ii. 37; iii. 16); torrent of Thorns (Joel iii. 18); torrent of Zared (Num. xxi. 12; Deut. ii. 13, 14).

TOR'RENT, or GREAT WATERS, taken figuratively to mean great joy or deep sorrow (2 Kings xxii. 5; Job xx. 17; Ps. xvii. 5; xxxv. 9; cix. 7; cxxiii. 5; cxxv. 4; Isai. viii. 7, 8).

TOR'TURERS (Matt. xviii. 34); leave St. Paul, finding him to be a citizen (Acts xxii. 29).

TOWER OF BABEL. The descendants of Noe attempt to erect it (Gen. xi. 4); the tower of Thebes and Sichem (Judg. ix. 49, 53); tower of the flock (Mich. iv. 8); tower of the watchmen (4 Kings xvii. 9); the tower that fell in Siloe (Luke xii. 4).

TOW'ERS of the city of Jerusalem; tower of Hananeel (2 Esd. iii. 1; xii. 38); great tower (iii. 27); of the furnaces (xii. 37); of Emath (38).

TOWN-CLERK (Douay, Scribe), used by Challoner in Acts xix. 35 from the King James.

TIBERIAS.

rusalem (4 Kings ix. 28); Judith's at Bethulia (Judith xvi. 28); tombs of the Machabees at Modin (1 Mach. xiii. 25, 29); tomb of our Lord sealed and guarded (Matt. xxvii. 60, 66).

10; Job xxviii. 19; Ps. cxviii. 127; Ezech. xxviii. 13; Apoc. xxi. 20).

TO'PHETH, a place near Jerusalem, in the valley of the son of Ennom, where the Jews passed TRADIT'ION. We are to preserve the traditions of the apostles (2 Thess. ii. 14; iii. 6; 1 Cor. xi. 2; 2 Tim. i. 13; ii. 2; iii. 14); the apostles did not commit to writing all the instructions of our Lord (John xxi. 25).

TRANSFIGURA'TION. Our Lord took Peter, James and John into a high mountain apart to pray. They fell asleep, and on awaking he was transfigured before them; his face shone like the sun, and his garments became white as snow. Moses and Elias in glory appeared, speaking to him of his death to be accomplished in Jerusalem. St. Peter, in holy joy, wished to remain, and proposed erecting three tents, but a voice from a cloud declared, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him." The disciples fell on their faces in terror, and Mach. iii. 4; iv. 1); in Rhodocus (xiii. 21); in Judas Iscariot (Matt. xxvi. 48; xxvii. 5).

TREAS'URE. Where our treasure is, there is our heart (Matt. vi. 21; xix. 22).

TREASURY OF THE TEMPLE. Sesac carries away the treasures of the temple (2 Paral. xii. 9; 3 Kings xiv. 26); Asa took from the treasures of the temple to send to Benadad (2 Paral. xvi. 2); Joiada made a chest for the offerings of the people for the temple and set it by the altar (4 Kings xii. 9-11; 2 Paral. xxiv. 8-11); Ezechias gave all the silver in the house of the Lord to the Assyrians (4 Kings xviii. 15); Josias orders the treasure of the temple to be applied to its restoration (xxii. 4); the treasures of the temple carried off by Nabuchodonosor (xxiv. 13); our Lord approves the widow's contribution to it (Mark xii. 41; Luke xxi. 2); Jesus spoke in the treasury of the temple (John viii. 20).

TREE of the knowledge of good and evil in Paradise (Gen. ii. 17); prohibition against planting trees around the altar of the Lord (Deut. xvi. 21); Joatham's parable of the trees choosing a king (Judg. ix. 7-15).

TREMBLING. We are to work out our salvation with fear and trembling (Phil. ii. 12).

TRESPASS OFFERINGS (Lev. v. 6).

TRIALS allowed by God to test the fidelity of the Israelites (Judg. iii. 1).

TRIBES. The twelve tribes of Israel descended from Ruben, Simeon, Juda, Issachar, Zabulon, Benjamin, Dan, Aser, Gad and Nephthali, sons of Jacob, and from Ephraim and Manasses, sons of Joseph, adopted by Jacob (Num. i. 5-15); first census of their numbers (20-46); second census (xxvi. 5-51); the tribes are blessed by Moses before his death with prophetic words as to each (Deut. xxxiii. 6-25); the Levites, or descendants of Levi, not numbered in the first census (Num. i. 47-49); counted in the second (xxvi. 62); the Promised Land allotted to the tribes (Num. xxxii. 33-42; Josue xiii.-xix.); the twelve tribes remain united under the Judges and Saul, Jos., Judges, 1 Kings, 2 Kings i.; David, king of Juda (2 Kings ii.); Isboeth for two years king of the other tribes (2 Kings ii. 8-11); David and Solomon, kings of the twelve tribes (2 Kings v.-3 Kings xii. 20); Roboam remains king of Juda and Benjamin only, forming the kingdom of Juda (3 Kings xii. 21); Jeroboam becomes king of the other ten tribes, known as the kingdom of Israel (3 Kings xii. 20); the kingdom of Israel overthrown, 730 B. C., by Salmanasar, king of Assyria, and the ten tribes carried away into captivity (4 Kings xvii. 6); the kingdom of Juda overthrown by Nabuchodonosor and Juda, Benjamin and Levi carried away to Babylon (4 Kings xxv. 11).

TRIB'ULATION, God our refuge in (Gen. xxxv. 3; 2 Kings xxii. 7; 2 Paral. xx. 9; Ps. iv. 2; xvii. 7; xxxi. 7; xlv. 2; lxxiii. 9; lxxvi. 3; xc. 15) to be gloried in (Rom. v. 3); work patience (ib.).

TRIBUNES at Herod's supper (Mark vi. 21); at our Saviour's mocking (John xviii. 12); Lysias, a tribune, arrests St. Paul (Acts xxi. 33); about to scourge him (xxii. 24); rescues him (xxiii. 10); provides for his safety (23).

TRIB'UTES paid to the kings of Egypt by their subjects (Gen. xlvii. 20); the obligation to pay tribute to the ruling powers (Matt. xvii. 24; xxii. 17; Rom. xiii. 7).

TRINITY. The mystery of the Holy Trinity prefigured (Gen. i. 26; xviii. 2; Ex. iii. 6, 15, 16; iv. 5; Ps. xxxii. 6; Eccles. i. 9; xxiv. 5; Isai. vi. 3; xxxiv. 16; xlviii. 16; lxi. 1); declared explicitly (Matt. iii. 16; x. 20; xvi. 5; xxviii. 19; Luke iv. 18; John iii. 35; xiv. xv. 26; xvi. 1; 1 John v. 7; 2 Cor. xiii. 13).

TRIP'OLIS, a city of Phoenicia, on the Mediterranean. Deinetrius, son of Seleucus, enters the haven with a fleet and army, 162 B. C. (2 Mach. xiv. 1).

TRO'AS, a city of Phrygia or Mysia, on the Hellespont. St. Paul was in Troas in A. D. 52, when he had a vision of a man calling him to Macedonia (Acts xvi. 8); he preaches to the faithful assembled to break bread (xx. 6, 7); raises Eutychus to life (9, 10); another visit to Troas is alluded to (2 Cor. ii. 12); he left a cloak and books there (2 Tim. iv. 13).

TROG'LODYTES, cave-dwellers (2 Paral. xii. 3).

TROPH'IMUS, a disciple of St. Paul. He was a Gentile and a native of Ephesus. He accompanied him to Corinth and Jerusalem (Acts xx. 4); St. Paul was seized for having, as the Jews supposed, taken Trophimus into the temple (Acts xxi. 29); in his second epistle to Timothy, written from Rome not long before his death, St. Paul says he left Trophimus sick at Miletus (2 Tim. iv. 20).

TRUMPETS. God directed Moses to make two trumpets of beaten silver in order to call the people together when the camp was to be removed (Num. x. 1, 2); at one blast, the princes were to come to the tabernacle (4); at a long broken blast, the tribes on the east side were to march (5); at the second sound, those on the south (6); when the sound was plain, all the people were to gather (3, 7); they were to sound for a foreign war (9); at banquets and on festivals (10); none but the priests of the house of Aaron could sound them (8); they were to be sounded on the first day in the seventh month of the year of the feast of trumpets (Lev. xxiii. 24); and on the tenth day of the seventh month in the year of jubilee (xxv. 9); at Jericho the priests sounded the seven trumpets, as in the year of jubilee, going before the Ark of the Covenant seven times around the city each day for seven days (Jos. vi. 4-16); at the last blast of the trumpets and shout of the people the walls fell (20); the holy trumpets used by the Machabees in battle (1 Mach. xvi. 8); on the day of judgment the last trumpet shall sound and the dead shall rise again (1 Cor. xv. 52); in the Apocalypse seven angels sound trumpets—after the first to fifth, scourges came upon the earth (Apoc. viii. 6-13; ix. 1-21); when the seventh begins to sound the trumpet the when aroused by our Lord, saw no one but him (Matt. xvii. 1-9; Mark ix. 1-7; Luke ix. 28-36). St. John alludes to his transfiguration in John i. 14, and St. Peter in 2 Pet. i. 16, 17. According to the constant tradition, the scene was Mount Tabor.

THE VALLEY OF TOPHETH.

TRANS'LA'TION, of Henoch (Gen. v. 24; Heb. xi. 5); of the prophet Elias (4 Kings ii. 11).

TRANS'MIGRA'TION OF BABYLON, the captivity so called in some Catholic Bibles (Matt. i. 11).

TRANS'SUBSTANTIATION. The real presence of our Lord in the Eucharist evident from Matt. xxvi. 26; Mark xiv. 22-24; Luke xxii. 19; John vi. 51; 1 Cor. x. 16; xi. 24-29.

TREACH'ERY, in Joseph's brethren (Gen. xxxvii. 17-36); in Simon, overseer of the temple (2 mystery of God shall be finished (x. 7); the sounding of the seventh (xi. 15).

TRUTH. Isaias complains that it is forgotten (Isai. lix. 15); Jesus was full of grace and truth (John i. 14); grace come through Jesus (John i. 17); the truth will set us free (John viii. 32); Jesus Christ is the truth (xiv. 6); Pilate asks our Lord: "What is truth?" (John xviii. 38); the Holy Ghost to teach the apostles all truth (John xvi. 13); every one should speak according to the truth (Eph. iv. 25); if we say we have not sin, the truth is not in us (1 John i. 8).

TRYPHE'NA and TRY-PHO'SA, converts at Rome, whom St. Paul salutes as laboring in the Lord (Rom. xvi. 12).

TRY'PHON, king of Syria. He had been an adherent of Alexander Bales; finding the army murmur against Demetrius, he espoused the cause of young Antiochus (1 Mach. xi. 39, 40); crowns him and proclaims him king (54); defeats Demetrius and takes Antioch (56); Tryphon then aspired to the throne (xii. 39); he treacherously entraps Jonathan (40-48); sent an army into Galilee (49; xiii. 1); obtains money and hostages of Simon, but lied and did not let Jonathan go (19); slew Jonathan and his sons (23); slew young Antiochus while journeying with him (31); put the crown of Asia on his own head (32); ravaged the country (34); Antiochus, son of Demetrius, claims the throne, and the forces go over to him (xv. 10); Tryphon fled to Dora (11); besieged by Antiochus (13, 14, 25); he fled by ship to Orthosias (37); pursued by Antiochus (39).

TU'BALCAIN, son of Lamech and Sella (Gen. iv. 22); a hammerer and artificer in every kind of brass and iron (22).

TU'BIANITES, Jews of Characa so called (2 Mach. xii. 17).

TU'BIN, Jews mentioned as slain in the places of Tubin (1 Mach. v. 13).

TURPENTINE. Jacob buries idols under a turpentine tree (Gen. xxxv. 4); Jacob sends turpentine as a gift to Joseph (xliii. 11); a prophet under a turpentine tree (3 Kings xiii. 14); wisdom compared to one (Ecclus. xxiv. 22; Isai. vi. 13); heathen rites under (Osee iv. 13).

TURTLE DOVE to be offered in sacrifice (Gen. xv. 9; Lev. i. 14; v. 7; xii., xiv., xv.; Luke ii. 24; Num. vi. 10); referred to (Ps. lxxxiii. 4; Cant. i. 9; ii. 12; Jer. viii. 8).

TYCH'ICUS, a disciple of St. Paul, often employed by the apostle to bear his letters. He was a native of the province of Asia, and accompanied St. Paul from Corinth to Jerusalem (Acts xx. 4); he was the bearer of the Epistle to the Colossians, A. D. 61 (Coloss. iv. 7); that to the Ephesians, A. D. 65 (Ephes. vi. 21; 2 Tim. iv. 12); he calls him his dear brother, a faithful minister, and his companion in the service of God; he proposed to send him to Crete to replace Titus (Titus iii. 12).

TYRE, a famous commercial city of Phoenicia; a strong city (Jos. xix. 29); Hiram, king of Tyre, an ally of David (2 Kings v. 11; xxiv. 7); of Solomon (3 Kings v. 1; vii. 13; ix. 11; 1 Paral. xiv. 1; 2 Paral. ii.); mentioned (Ps. xlv. 1; lxxxii. 1; Osee ix. 13; Joel iii. 4; Zach. ix. 2); games held at under Antiochus (2 Mach. iv. 18); Antiochus, there (44); our Lord alludes to the destruction of Tyre and Sidon (Matt. xi. 21, 22; Luke x. 13, 14); people from Tyre and Sidon came to hear him (Mark iii. 8; Luke vi. 17); he himself went into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, and cured the possessed daughter of a Chanaanite or Syrophœnician woman (Matt. xv. 21-28; Mark vii. 24-30); St. Paul on his way to Jerusalem landed at Tyre, as the ship was to unlade there (Acts xxi. 3, 7).

UBIL, an Ismahelite, superintendent of David's camels (1 Paral. xxvii. 30).

U'LAI. Daniel had a vision when over the gate of Ulai, that is, the gate facing that river (Dan. viii. 2).

U'LAM, of the tribe of Manasses (1 Paral. vii. 16, 17).

UNBELIEF, sinfulness of (John iii. 18; xvi. 9; Rom. xi. 32; Heb. iii. 12; Tit. i. 15; 1 John v. 10).

UNCLEANNES, legal purifications enjoined for (Lev. xi. 24, 25, 32-40; xv. 1-33; xvi. 16).

UNCLEAN ANIMALS. those that chew the cud, but divide not the hoof (Lev. xi. 4-7; Deut. xiv. 7); things bred in the waters that have not fins and scales (Lev. xi. 10-12; Deut. xiv. 10); unclean birds (Lev. xi. 13-19; Deut. xiv. 12-18); flying or hopping quadrupeds (Lev. xi. 20, 21); quadrupeds (Lev. xi. 27); other unclean animals (Lev. xi. 30, 41, 42; Deut. xiv. 19).

UNC'TION, anointing, prescribed by law (Ex. xxix. 7, 21; xxx. 25, 31; xxxi. 11; xxxv. 15; xl. 9, 11; Lev. viii. 2, 10; x. 7; xxi. 10, 12; Num. iv. 16); the unction of the Holy Spirit (1 John ii. 20, 27); the sacrament of Extreme Unction, the anointing of the sick (James v. 14).

U'NITY OF THE CHURCH (Cant. vi. 8; 9; John x. 16; xvii. 12-14; Eph. iv. 4, 5); unity of Christians in the Eucharist (1 Cor. x. 17).

UN KNOWN GOD. An altar in Athens erected to the Unknown God. St. Paul uses the fact in argument (Acts xvii. 23).

UNLEAV'ENED BREAD. See AZYMES.

UR, a city of the Chaldees, native place of Thare and Abraham. God orders Abraham to leave it, and proceed to the land of Chanaan (Gen. xi. 31; xv. 7).

UR, father of Eliphaz, one of David's champions (1 Paral. xi. 35).

URBA'NUS, a convert whom St. Paul salutes as his helper in Christ Jesus (Rom. xvi. 9).

U'RI, father of Beseleel (Ex. xxxi. 2).

URI'AS, a Hethite, a brave and faithful soldier in

THE TRANSFIGURATION OF OUR LORD.

lxxxvi.); her merchants princes, her traders the nobles of the earth (Isaias xxiii. 8); its luxury and commerce with different nations described eloquently (Ezech. xxvii. 1-34); the destruction foretold by Isaias, to come in seventy years (Isai. xxiii. 15); its proud king to be cast down, and to die by the hand of strangers (Ezech. xxviii.); its total destruction by Nabuchodonosor foretold (Ezech. xxvi.); to become like a naked rock, a drying place for nets (5, 14); never to be built up again (14; xxvii. 36); description of the fall (xxvi. 15-21; xxvii. 26-36; Amos i. 10;

David's army, besieging Rabba (2 Kings xi. 1, 6); his wife, Bethsabee, seen and seduced by David (2-5); David sends for Urias, and endeavors to conceal valley of Achor (Jos. vii. 24, 26; Isai. lxxv. 10; Osee ii. 15); valley of the Reeds (Jos. xvi. 8; xvii. 9); valley of Jephthahel or Jephthael (Jos. xix. 14, 27);

GREEK AND ROMAN BOXES.

his sinful act, but is baffled by the soldierly pride of Urias (7-13); sends him back to the army with a letter to Joab, directing him to put Urias in the post of danger (14, 15); he is killed (17); Bethsabee mourns for him (26).

URI'AS, high-priest of the Jews, builds an altar by order of King Achaz, like one at Damascus (4 Kings xvi. 10, 11); offers holocausts and libations on it by order of the king (15, 16).

URI'AS, a prophet of the Lord, son of Semei, of Cariathiarim (Jerem. xxvi. 20); prophesied at the same time as Jeremias, and predicted similar woes to Jerusalem and the country as that prophet (20); Joakim, king of Juda, sought to put him to death, but he fled to Egypt (21); the king sent to Egypt for him, and slew him with the sword, casting his dead body into the graves of the common people (23).

UR'IEL, of Gabaa, father of Michaiia, wife of Roboam (2 Paral. xiii. 2).

US, son of Aram (Gen. x. 23).

US'URY forbidden (Ex. xxii. 25; Lev. xxv. 36; Deut. xxiii. 19; 2 Esd. v. 7; Ps. xiv. 5; Prov. xxii. 16; xxviii. 8; Jer. xv. 10; Ezech. xviii. 8, 13; xxii. 12; Luke vi. 34; xix. 8).

UZAL, sixth son of Jectan (Gen. x. 27); called Huzal (1 Paral. i. 21).

VAGA'O, eunuch of Holofernes, directed by him to summon Judith (Judith xii. 10, 12); closes the doors (xiii. 1); discovers his master's death, and Judith's flight (xiv. 13-16).

VALE, the Woodland Vale, which now is the Salt Sea (Gen. xiv. 3); vale of Mambre, where Abram dwelt (Gen. xiv. 13; xviii. 1); vale of Save, which is the king's vale (Gen. xiv. 17); the noble vale (Gen. xii. 6); vale of Gad (2 Kings xxiv. 5); vale of Sephata (2 Paral. xiv. 10); vale of Tabernacles (Ps. cvii. 8).

VALECASIS, a city (Josue xviii. 21).

VALLEY OF THE CLUSTER (Num. xxxiii. 9); valley of Seboim (Gen. x.; 1 Kings xiii. 18); valley of Sorec (Judg. xvi. 4); valley of Sennim (Judg. iv. 11); valley of Raphaim (2 Kings v. 18; xxiii. 13); valley of Terebith (1 Kings xvii. 2); valley of Blessing (2 Paral. xx. 26); valley of the Salt Pits (2 Kings viii. 13; 4 Kings xiv. 7); valley of Josaphat (Joel iii. 12); valley of the Artificers (1 Paral. iv. 14; 2 Esd. xi. 35); valley of Tears (Ps. lxxxiii. 7); valley of Vision (Isai. xxii. 1); valley of Topheth, or of the Son of Ennon, or of Slaughter (Jerem. vii. 32), or of Dead Bodies (xxx. 40); valley of the Passengers—valley of the Multitude of Gog (Ezech. xxxix. 11); valley of Cedron (4 Kings xxiii. 4); valley of Gihon (2 Paral. xxxiii. 14).

VAN'ITY OF EARTHLY THINGS (Eccles. i. 1).

VAP'SI, a Nephthalite (Num. xiii. 15).

VASH'TI, wife of Assuerus, refuses to obey his order to appear in the banquet to show her beauty to all the people and the princes (Esth. i. 10-12); had made a feast for the women (9); Assuerus consults what sentence should be passed upon her (12-15); by the advice of Mamuchan, Assuerus repudiates and deposes her, lest by her example wives of princes slight the commands of their husbands (16-22); Assuerus repents, remembering Vashti, what she had done, and what she had suffered (ii. 1).

VASSE'NI, eldest son of the prophet Samuel (1 Paral. vi. 28).

VEIL, separating the oracle, or holy of holies, from the rest of the tabernacle; its form, material and color (Ex. xxvi. 31, 32); how hung and fastened (33); it was under the care of the family of Gerson (Num. iii. 23, 25, 31; iv. 24-26); another veil in the entry that was before the tabernacle (Ex. xxxviii. 18; Num. iv. 25, 26); the veil before the oracle in Solomon's temple wrought with cherubim (2 Paral. iii. 14); Antiochus carried off the veil of the second temple (1 Mach. i. 23); Judas restores both veils (iv. 51); the veil of the temple rent at the death of our Lord (Matt. xxvii. 51; Mark xv. 38; Luke xxiii. 45).

VEIL, a sign of woman's dependence (Gen. xx. 16; xxiv. 65; xxxviii. 14; 1 Cor. xi. 10; Isai. i. 23).

VEIL, Moses kept his face veiled at the request of the people, after descending from Sinai (Ex. xxxiv. 33).

VEN'GEANCE belongs to God alone, and his ministers, and is forbidden to others (Gen. xv. 14; Lev. xix. 18; Deut. xxxii. 35; Judg. vii. 19; xvi. 30; Ps. vii. 7; ix. 13; xciii. 1; Prov. xxiv. 29; xxix. 22; Ezech. xxv. 12, 14; Nah. i. 2; Matt. v. 39; Luke xvii.; ix. 54; 1 Thess. v. 15; 2 Tim. iv. 14; James v. 4; Apoc. vi. 10).

VERMIL'ION, a red coloring material (Wisd. xiii. 14).

VERSIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES. The Old Testament down to the time of the captivity was written in Hebrew; some portion was then written in Chaldaic, and after the conquests of Alexander the Great, all these portions were translated into Greek, and are known as the Septuagint. Later books were written in Greek; and, as is generally believed, the whole of the New Testament. In the early period of Christianity Greek was spoken from the mouth of the Rhone to the banks of the Jordan and the Nile. As the use of the language declined, the whole Bible was translated into Latin, and this version is known as the Vetus Italâ. St. Jerome, a learned and holy priest, who had retired to the Holy Land, there with the aid of Jewish and other scholars, revised this old Latin translation by the Hebrew. His version or revision is known as the Vulgate, and it has ever since been in use in the Catholic church. The Psalms alone belong to the earlier version. See Introduction.

VES'SEL, parable of the potter's vessel broken (Jer. xix. 11).

VES'SELS of the temple of Jerusalem transported to Babylon (Jer. xxvii. 19-22; 4 Kings xxv. 13-16); put by Nabuchodonosor in the temple of his god (1 Esd. i. 7); profaned by Balthasar (Dan. v. 2); restored by Cyrus (1 Esd. i. 8-11); carried off by Antiochus (1 Mach. i. 23); new vessels made by Judas Machabeus (iv. 49).

VESTIBULE, the altar of holocausts, in the entry or vestibule of the tabernacle (Ex. xl. 27); victims immolated there (Lev. iii. 8).

VESTMENTS of the Jewish priests (Ex. xxviii.; xxix. 5-9).

VETCHES, a legume (Isai. xxviii. 25; Ezech. iv. 9).

VIAL, Samuel took a little vial of oil to anoint

THE VEIL WORN IN THE EAST.

Saul (1 Kings x. 1); vials full of odors (Apoc. v. 8); vials of God's wrath (xv. 7; xvi.).

VICTIMS, qualities required in victims to be offered to God (Lev. xxii. 19).

VICTORY comes from God (Ex. xvii. 9; Deut. vii. 18; Jos. xi. 6; Judg. vii. 7; 1 Kings xiv. 6; xvii. 45; 2 Paral. xiv. 11; xvi. 8; xxiv. 24; xxv. 8; Judith ix. 15; Ps. cxvii. 16; Prov. xxi. 31); God enables a few to overcome powerful armies (Gen. xiv. 14; Judg. vii. 2; 2 Paral. xiii. 14; 1 Mach. iii. 16, 22); rejoicings over victory (Num. xxxi. 54; Judg. xi. 34; 1 Kings xviii. 6); Christ's victory over death (1 Cor. xv. 54).

VIGILANCE. We are always to watch and to pray (Ps. lxi. 2; ci. 8; Prov. viii. 17; Cant. v. 2; Wis. vi. 15, 16; Ecclus. xiii. 17; xxxii. 18; xxxix. 6; Isai. xxix. 20; Jer. i. 11, 12; Matt. xxiv. 42; xxv. 13; xxvi. 38; Mark xiii. 13-37; xiv. 38; Luke xii. 37; xxi. 36; Acts xx. 31; 1 Cor. xvi. 13; Eph. vi. 18; Col. iv. 2; 1 Thess. v. 6, 10; 1 Pet. iv. 7; Apoc. iii. 3).

VILLAGES (Jos. xiii. 17; xv. 32, 44-47, 51, 57, 59, 60, 62; xviii. 24, 28; Esth. ix. 19; Mark vi. 36, 56; Luke viii. 34; ix. 12).

VINE, planted by Noe (Gen. ix. 20, 21); generally cultivated in Egypt and Palestine (Gen. xl. 9; xlix. 11); vines with prodigious clusters (Num. xiii. 23); for every one to dwell under his own vine and fig-tree, a type of peace and happiness (3 Kings iv. 25; Mich. iv. 4); a wife compared to a fruitful vine (Ps. cxxvii. 3); choice vines (Isai. v. 2, 4); Israel a vine full of branches (Osec. x. 1); our Lord compares himself to a vine, and his apostles to the branches (John xv. 1); the church compared to a vineyard (Ps. lxxix. 9; Cant. ii. 15; Isai. v. 2; Jer. ii. 21; xii. 10; Matt. xx. 1; Mark xii. 1; Luke xx. 9).

VINEGAR. Nazarites forbidden to drink (Num. vi. 3); Booz gives Ruth bread and vinegar (Ruth ii. 14); used as a type of sourness (Prov. x. 26); vinegar on nitre (xxv. 20); vinegar on a sponge given to our Lord on the cross (Matt. xxvii. 48; Mark xv. 36; Luke xxiii. 36; John xix. 29, 30).

VINEYARD, the first mentioned is that planted by Noe (Gen. ix. 20); our Lord, in the person of Juda, represented in Jacob's blessing as "tying his foal to the vineyard, and his ass to the vine" (Gen. xlix. 11); law as to injury to vineyard (Ex. xxii. 5); grapes that fall in vineyard, or are left ungathered, not to be gathered, but left for poor (Deut. xxiv. 21; Lev. xix. 10); vineyard not to be pruned in the seventh year (xxv. 4); Nazarites to eat nothing coming from the vineyard (Num. vi. 4); Israelites promise not to touch the vineyards of the nations on their march (Num. xx., xxi.); vineyards enclosed by walls (xxii. 24); a person going into a neighbor's vineyard might eat but not carry away (Deut. xxiii. 24); vines of the vineyard of Sodom (xxxii. 32); God gave the Israelites vineyards they had not planted (Jos. xxiv. 13); Sichemites trample down vineyards (Judg. ix. 27); Samson destroys the vineyards of the Philistines (Judg. xv. 5); Achab kills Naboth to obtain his vineyard (3 Kings xxi. 1-16); vineyards referred to (Ps. lxxvii. 47; lxxix. 9; civ. 33; cvi. 37; Cant. i. 5; ii. 13; vi.-viii.); our Lord's parable of the vineyard (Matt. xx. 1); parable of the laborers in the vineyard (Luke xx. 9; Matt. xxi. 34; Mark xii. 2); mysterious gathering of the vineyard of the earth by the son of man (Apoc. xiv. 18).

VI'PER, a venomous serpent (Job xx. 16; Isai. xxx. 6).

VIR'GIN. Isaias prophesies clearly that the Messiah is to be born of a Virgin (Isai. vii. 14); the angel Gabriel announces to the Blessed Virgin Mary that she is to be the mother of the Messiah (Luke i. 26); Elizabeth hails her as mother of her Lord (43).

VIRGIN'ITY recommended (Matt. xix. 12; 1 Cor. vii. 25; Apoc. xiv. 4); preferred by St. Paul to marriage (1 Cor. vii. 38, 40); vow of virginity evidently made by the Blessed Virgin (Luke i. 34); the VIR'TUES OF SOLOMON (2 Paral. ix. 5).

VIR'TUOUS WOMAN, Ruth declared to be (Ruth iii. 11).

VIS'ION, land of. Abraham is ordered to go into the Land of Vision to sacrifice Isaac (Gen. xxii. 2).

VIS'IONS, the most remarkable: Abraham's vision of the destiny of his posterity (Gen. xv. 12, 17); Jacob's vision of the ladder (Gen. xxviii. 12); vision of an angel with whom he wrestles (Gen. xxxii. 24); Joseph's vision of the sheaves of his brethren bowing to his sheaf (xxxvii. 5-9); Pharaoh's vision of the fat and lean kine, the full and blasted ears (xli.); Nabuchodonosor's vision of a statue of metals and clay (Dan. ii. 31-45); Nabuchodonosor's vision of a tree (iv. 7-14); its interpretation (16-24); Daniel's vision of the four beasts (vii. 1-28); his vision of the ram and the he-goat (viii. 3-27); his vision of an angel (x. xi.); Ezechiel's vision of the four living creatures (Ezech. i. 4-28); vision of the sins of Jerusalem (viii.); vision of the dry bones (xxxvii. 1-14).

VISIT, St. Paul desires to visit the saints (Rom. i. 11; xv. 23, 32; Gal. iv. 20; 1 Thess. ii. 17).

VOCAT'ION of the Jewish people in Abraham (Gen. xii.); of the Gentiles instead of the ungrateful Jews (Acts xviii. 6); vocation of the twelve apostles (Matt. x. 2); we are to make our calling (2 Pet. i. 10).

VOICE OF GOD to be hearkened to (Ex. xv. 26; xix. 5; Num. xiv. 22; Deut. v. 25; viii. 20; xiii. 18; xxviii. 1; 1 Kings xii. 15; 4 Kings xviii. 12; Ps. lxxx.; Prov. v. 13; viii. 4; Isai. lxvi. 6-8; Jerem. iii. 13; vii. 29; xxvi. 13); the voice of many waters (Ps. xli. 8; xcii. 3; Apoc. i. 15); voice of one crying in the wilderness (Isai. xl. 3, 6; Matt. iii. 3; Mark i. 2, 3, 4; Luke iii. 4; John i. 23); the voice of ruins (Jer. xlix. 21).

VOW AND PROMISE to be made to God (Gen. xxviii. 20; Lev. xxvii. 2; Num. vi.; xxi. 2; xxx.; Deut. xxiii. 21; Judg. xi. 31; 1 Kings xiv.; 2 Kings xv. 8; Ps. lxxv. 12; Eccles. v. 4; Baruch vi. 34; Matt. xiv. 7; Acts xviii. 18; xxi. 23; xxii. 12).

VULTURE, a bird of prey (Job xxviii. 7); forbidden as unclean (Lev. xi. 14; Deut. xiv. 13).

WA'FERS used in the divine worship (Ex. xxix. 2, 23); unleavened (Lev. ii. 4; vii. 12; Num. vi. 15).

WA'GES of the hired servants not to be detained (Deut. xxiv. 14; Tob. iv. 15); wages promised to the mother of Moses (Ex. ii. 9); wages of a hireling (Deut. xv. 18); illgotten wages not to be offered to God (xxiii. 18); the wages of iniquity (2 Pet. ii. 15).

WALL, St. Paul calls the high-priest a whited wall (Acts xxiii. 3).

WAN'DERING of the Israelites in the desert, its length (Ex. xiii. 17).

WAR, the penalty of sin (Lev. xxvi. 25; Deut. xxviii. 36; Judg. ii. 14; iii. 8; iv. 2; vi. 1; x. 7; xiii.; Isai. v. 25; Jer. v. 15); Abraham makes war in order to rescue Lot (Gen. xiv. 14); Israel makes war to avenge the wrong done a Levite (Judg. x.).

THE LAST COMMUNION OF ST. JEROME, WHO PREPARED THE VULGATE OR REVISED LATIN VERSION OF THE BIBLE.

violation of the vow of chastity draws down God's anger (1 Tim. v. 12).

VIR'GINS. In the slaughter of the Madianites only virgins are spared by God's order (Num. xxi. 18); the virgins of Jabes in Galaad and Silo carried off by the Benjamites (Judg. xii. 21, 23; xxi.); some virgins shut up in the days of the Machabees (2 Mach. iii. 19); our Lord's parable of the wise and the foolish virgins (Matt. xxv. 1-13); virgins prophesying (Acts xxi. 9); virgins who follow the Lamb (Apoc. xiv. 4).

VIR'TUES, one of the choirs of angels (1 Pet. iii. 22).

Josue makes war by order of God (Jos. vi.; vii. 11-18; x. 30; x.-xii.); David makes war on the Amalecites (1 Kings xxx.); conduct to be observed in war

2, 3); our Lord washes his disciples' feet (John xiii. 5); Pilate washes his hands to show that he took no part in the death of Christ (Matt. xxvii. 24).

A CITY TAKEN BY ASSAULT, AND THE INHABITANTS LED AWAY CAPTIVE. From Kouyunjik. (Layard's Nineveh, ii. 285.)

(Deut. xx. 1-20); prayer offered to God in battle by Moses (Ex. xvii. 8-12); David's trust in God before his combat against Goliath (1 Kings xvii. 45); Asa's prayer to God in war against the Ethiopians (2 Paral. xiv. 11); Josaphat's prayer (xx. 6-12; Ezechias' (xxxii. 20); Judith's prayer (Judith viii.-ix.); prayer of the Machabees (1 Mach. iii. 21; iv. 10; 2 Mach. viii. 16, 19); God fights in behalf of his own (Ex. xiv. 14; Deut. i. 30; iii. 22; 1 Kings xvii. 46; 2 Paral. xx. 15; Ps. xvii. 35; cxliii. 1; Isai. xxx. 15).

WARLIKE ENGINES, not to be made of fruit trees (Deut. xx. 19, 20); engines to shoot arrows and great stones (2 Paral. xxvi. 15; 1 Mach. vi. 20); engines to attack walls (1 Mach. v. 30; vi. 31; 2 Mach. xii. 15); on elephants (1 Mach. vi. 37); engines of war (2 Mach. xii. 27).

WARRIORS, names and exploits of the greatest warriors in David's army (2 Kings xxiii. 8-39; 1 Paral. xii. 1-37; xxvii. 2-15).

WASH. Our Lord washes his apostles' feet (John xiii. 5); washing of feet an oriental act of hospitality (Gen. xviii. 4; xix. 2; xxiv. 32; xliii. 24; Luke vii. 44; 1 Tim. v. 10).

WASH. Scruples of Pharisees in regard to washing the hands rebuked (Matt. xv. 2, 20; Mark vii.

WAX formed by bees (Ps. xxi. 15; lxvii. 3; xcvi. 5; Mich. i. 4).

WAY. What should be the way of the true faithful (Ps. cxviii. 5; Prov. iii. 6, 17; xvi. 5, 17; Eccles. v. 12; Isai. xxvi. 7; xxx. 21; xxxiii. 16; xxxv. 8; lx. 3; Jer. xxxi. 21; Osee xiv. 10; 1 Thess. iv. 1; Heb.

xii. 13); the Lord guides the way of the just (Tob. iv. 20; Ps. xvi. 5; xxiv. 4; cxviii. 35; Prov. iv. 12, 18; xiii. 6; xvi. 9; xx. 24; Isai. xlviii. 17; Jer. x. 23; Mich. iv. 2); what is the way of the wicked, and the end thereof (Job vi. 18; Ps. i. 6; cxviii. 3; Prov. iv. 19, 27; xii. 15; xiv. 12; xxi. 2; xxii. 5; xxviii. 18; Eccles. ii. 16; xxi. 11; Isai. lvii. 10; Jer. ii. 36; iv. 18); there is a way which seemeth just to a man, but the end thereof leads to death (Prov. xiv. 12).

WEDDING. The riddle proposed at Samson's wedding (Judg. xiv. 14); wedding and marriage of Esther (Esth. ii. 18); description of a wedding (1 Mach. ix. 37, 39); we are to be like men who wait for their Lord when he shall return from the wedding (Luke xii. 36); we are not to take the first place at a wedding (xiv. 8). See MARRIAGE.

WEIGHTS. False weights and measures forbidden (Deut. xxv. 13, 14).

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

| | | | |
|-----------|------|----------|---------------|
| 10 ghras | make | 1 beka | 5 dwts. |
| 2 bekas | | 1 sicle | 10 " |
| 60 sicles | | 1 mna | 2 lbs., 6 oz. |
| 50 mnas | | 1 talent | 125 lbs. |

HEBREW MEASURE.

| | | |
|----------|----------|-------------|
| 4 digits | 1 palm | 3.6 inches. |
| 3 palms | 1 span | 10.9 " |
| 2 spans | 1 cubit | 1 ft. 9.8 " |
| 4 cubits | 1 fathom | 7 ft. 3.5 " |

LONG MEASURE.

| | | |
|----------------------|----------------------|----------------|
| 400 cubits | 1 stadium or furlong | 729.6 feet. |
| 5 furlongs | 1 Sabbath-day journ. | 3648 " |
| 2 Sabbath-day journ. | 1 mile | 1 mile, 2016 " |
| 3 miles | 1 parasang | 4 " 768 " |
| 8 parasangs | 1 day's jour. | 33 " 864 " |

LIQUID MEASURE.

| | | |
|--------------|--------------------|----------------|
| 1 1/3 caplis | 1 log or rebah | .833 pints. |
| 4 logs | 1 caba | 3.333 " |
| 3 cabs | 1 hin | 1 gal., 1 qt. |
| 2 hins | 1 satum or measure | 2 gal., 3 qts. |
| 3 sata | 1 bate or ephi | 7 gal., 2 " |
| 3 ephi | 1 nebel | 22 gal., 2 " |
| 10 ephi | 1 core | 75 gal. |

DRY MEASURE.

| | | |
|-------------|----------|-----------------------|
| 20 gachals | 1 caba | 2.83 pints. |
| 36 gachals | 1 omer | 5.1 " |
| 3 1/2 gomor | 1 satum | 1 peck, 1 pt. |
| 3 sata | 1 ephi | 3 pecks, 1 qt., 1 pt. |
| 5 ephis | 1 letech | 2 bushels. |
| 2 letech | 1 core | 4 " |

THE VIPER.

COINS.

| | | |
|-----------|----------|--------------|
| 20 obols | 1 sicle | 46.19 cents. |
| 60 sicles | 1 mna | $27.7 |
| 60 mnas | 1 talent | $1663.02 |

WEDDING GARMENT. The man who had not on a wedding garment cast out into exterior darkness (Matt. xxii. 11-13).

WELL OF AGAR (Gen. xxi. 19), dug by Abraham (xxi. 25-30); called Well of Bersabee, or of the Oath (31); Well of the Living and Seeing, where Isaac dwelt (Gen. xxv. 11); Well of Bethlehem (1 Paral. xi. 17); Jacob's well near Samaria, where our Lord converted the Samaritan woman (John iv. 6-12).

WHALE, mentioned by Job (Job vii. 12); by Isaiah (Isai. xxvii. 1); swallows the prophet Jonas (Jon. ii. 1-11; Matt. xii. 40).

WHEAT and COCKLE, our Lord's parable of the (Matt. xiii. 24).

WHELPS, parable of the lion's whelps (Ezech. xix. 2-9; Nah. ii. 11, 12).

WHIRLWIND, the Lord answered Job out of a whirlwind (Job xxxviii. 1).

WICKED LIFE is worse than death (Ecclus. xxii. 12); the wicked court death (Wis. i. 16); the punishment of the wicked (Wis. v. xvi.; xix.); it is eternal (Matt. iii. 12; xxv. 41, 46; Mark ix. 43-48; Luke iii. 17; 2 Thess. i. 7-9; Jude 6, 7; Apoc. xiv. 10, 11; xx. 10; Isai. xxxiii. 14).

WIDOW of Sarephta entertains and lodges the prophet Elias (3 Kings xvii. 10); our Lord raises to life the son of the widow of Naim (Luke vii. 11-18); our Lord praises the charity of the widow who gave her mites to the temple (Mark xii. 42; Luke xxi. 2); under the law, a brother married the widow of a brother dying without issue (Gen. xxxviii. 8; Deut. xxv. 5, 10); the obligation of assisting widows (Ex. xxii. 22; Deut. xvi. 14; xxiv. 17, 19; xxvi. 12; xxvii. 19; Judith ix. 3; Job xxiv. 3; xxxi. 16; Ecclus. iv. 10; Isai. i. 17; Jer. xxii. 3; Zach. vii. 10; Mal. iii. 5; Matt. xxiii. 14; 1 Tim. v. 3, 16; James i. 27); God will not despise the prayer and complaint of a widow (Ecclus. xxxv. 17); the tears from her cheek go up even to heaven (18); how widows should live and employ their time (1 Tim. v. 3, 9, 16); examples of holy widows: the widow of Sarephta (3 Kings xvii. 10); Judith (Jud. viii. 4); the mother of the Machabees (2 Mach. vii.); Anna (Luke ii. 37); Tabitha or Dorcas (Acts ix. 36, 39).

WILL, the will of God should be the rule of ours (1 Kings iii. 18; 2 Kings x. 12; xv. 20; 1 Mach. iii. 60; Matt. vi. 10; xxvi. 39; Acts xxi. 14; 1 Cor. iv. 19; Heb. vi. 3; James iv. 15); we are to do the men should be saved (Ezech. xviii. 23; John vi. 39; 1 Tim. ii. 4; 2 Pet. iii. 9); God accepts the sincere will for the act desired (2 Kings vii.; Gen. xxii. 16); free

WINE, first recorded to have been made by Noe (Gen. ix. 21); Jewish priests forbidden to use (Lev. x. 9); Nazarites forbidden (Num. vi. 3); Rechabites will remained in man after and in spite of Adam's fall (Gen. iv. 7; Deut. xxx. 19; Jos. xxiv. 15; Ps. xxiv. 12; Wis. ix. 10; Ecclus. xv. 18; xxxi. 10; 1 Cor. iii. 8; vii. 37); the will of man co-operates with the grace of God (1 Kings vii. 3; 2 Paral. xii. 12; Ps. ix. 17; lxi. 13; Prov. xvi. 1, 5, 9; Ecclus. ii. 20; Isai. i. 16; xl. 3; xli. 8; lv. 6, 7; Jer. iii. 1-22; iv. 3-14; xxv. 5; xxvi. 13; Ezech. xviii. 21-32; Zach. i. 3; Mal. iii. 7; Matt. vi. 23; xi. 21; John vi. 37; Acts iii. 19; viii. 22; ix. 6; Rom. x. 13; 1 Cor. iii. 9; xv. 10; 2 Cor. vii. 1; Eph. v. 14; Phil. ii. 12, 13; iv. 13; Col. i. 29; iii. 10; 1 Tim. iv. 16; 2 Tim. ii. 21; Heb. iv. 16; xii. 12; James iv. 8; 1 Pet. i. 22; 1 John iii. 3; Apoc. iii. 20).

EASTERN WINDOW AND CASEMENT.

WILLOW, a tree; willows of the brook (Lev. xxiii. 40; Job xl. 17; Isai. xlv. 4); torrent of the willows (Isai. xv. 7); willows of Babylon (Ps. cxxxvi. 2).

WINDOWS (Cant. ii. 9; Judg. v. 28; Prov. vii. 6).

WINDS, the east wind (Job i. 19); the north wind (Ecclus. xliii. 22; Prov. xxv. 23); the east northeast wind (Euro Aquilo), (Acts xxvii. 14); the west wind (Ex. x. 19); the south wind (Ezech. xxvii. 26; Acts xxvii. 13); a burning wind (Gen. xli. 27; Ex. x. 13; Job xxvii. 21; Jer. iv. 11; xviii. 17; Ezech. xvii. 10; xix. 12; Osee xiii. 15; Agg. ii. 18); the four winds (Ez. xxxvii. 9; xlii. 20; Dan. vii. 2; viii. 8; xi. 4; Zach. ii. 6; vi. 5; Matt. xxiv. 31; forbidden by their founder, Jonadab (Jer. xxxv. 6), cautions as to the use of wine (Prov. xx. 1; xxi. 17; xxiii. 20, 31; Ecclus. xix. 2; xxxi. 38; Joel i. 5); the use of wine in moderation not forbidden (Ecclus. xxxi. 32, 35; 2 Mach. xv. 40; John ii. 3; 1 Tim. v. 13); use of wine in the worship of God (Ex. xxix. 40; Num. xv. 5); used in the institution of the holy Eucharist (Matt. xxvi. 27; Mark xiv. 23; Luke xxii. 20; 1 Cor. xi. 25); wine of the wrath of God (Jer. xxv. 15; Apoc. xiv. 10; xvi. 19; xix. 15); wine of Libanus (Osee xiv. 8); wine which maketh virgins to spring forth (Zach. ix. 17); water changed into wine by our Lord (John ii. 1-11).

WINE-PRESS, used in crushing the grapes to make wine (Num. xviii. 27; Deut. xv. 14; xvi. 13; Judg. vi. 11; vii. 25; 4 Kings vi. 27; 2 Esd. xiii. 15; Job xxiv. 11); the word is used in a figurative sense (Isai. lxiii. 3; Matt. xxi. 33; Apoc. xix. 15).

WINTER, one of the seasons (Gen. viii. 22); a season of rain (Job xxxvii. 6); its departure (Cant.

WINE-PRESS.

WASHING OF HANDS IN THE EAST.

will of God in all things (Matt. vii. 21; xii. 50; Mark ii. 35; Rom. xii. 2; Eph. v. 17; Col. i. 19; 1 Thess. iv. 3; 1 John ii. 17); it is the will of God that all Apoc. vii. 1); the wings of the wind (2 Kings xxii. 11); the winds and the sea obey our Lord (Matt. viii. 26, 27; Mark iv. 39, 40; Luke viii. 24, 25).

ii. 11); our Lord directs his disciples to pray that their flight from Jerusalem be not in winter (Matt. xxiv. 20; Mark xiii. 18).

WIS'DOM, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament, written by Jesus, the son of Sirach (Wis.)

WIS'DOM. Divine wisdom, its origin, properties (Deut. iv. 6; xxxiv. 9; Job xxviii. 20; xxxii. 7; Eccles. vii. 12; ix. 13; Wis. vi., vii., viii., ix., x., xi., xii.; Ecclus. i., iii., iv. 12, 29; xxi. 13; xxiv., xxxix. 1-14; Luke xxi. 15; Rom. x. 33; 1 Cor. i. 17; ii. 6, 10; iii. 19; Col. ii. 3; James i. 5; iii. 15); human wisdom rejected by God (1 Cor. i. 19); Jesus Christ our wisdom (1 Cor. i. 30); the wisdom of the philosophers exposed by St. Paul in the crimes they perpetrated (Rom. i. 21-24; iii.); wisdom granted to Solomon to other gifts (3 Kings iii.); our faith not to rest on human wisdom, but on the power of God (1 Cor. ii. 5); the foolishness of God is wiser than man (1 Cor. i. 25); the wisdom of the flesh is an enemy of God (Rom. viii. 7).

WISE MEN came from the East to Jerusalem when Jesus was born in Bethlehem (Matt. ii. 1); saying that they had seen his star in the East, and had come to adore him (2); Herod inquired the time of the appearing of the star (7); and sent them to Bethlehem, as the chief priests and scribes said that Christ was to be born there (3, 4); the star went before them till it stood over where the child was, they entered and adored him, offering gifts (9-11); warned in sleep they returned to their country by another way (12).

WITCH OF ENDOR, evokes Samuel by order of Saul (1 Kings xxviii. 15; Ecclus. xlv. 23); a pythical girl delivered from the devil by St. Paul (Acts xvi. 18).

WIT'NESS. False witness forbidden (Ex. xx. 16; Prov. vi. 16, 19; xix. 5, 9, 28; xxi. 28; xxv. 18).

WIT'NESSES. Two witnesses required (Num. xxxv. 30; Deut. xvii. 6; xix. 15; Matt. xviii. 16; 2 Cor. xiii. 1; 1 Tim. v. 19).

WIZ'ARD. The Jews forbidden to go aside after wizards (Lev. xix. 31).

WO. Why God menaces men and kingdoms with wo (Joel i. 15; Amos v. 18; Apoc. viii. 13; wo to Moab (Num. xxi. 29; Jer. xlviii.); wo to him that is alone (Eccles. iv. 10); wo to the land whose king is a child (Eccles. x. 16); wo to the Jews, the sinful nation (Eccles. xli. 11; Isai. i. 4, 24; xvii. 12; xxiv. 16; xxix.-xxxi.; xlv. 10; Jer. xlii. 27; Ezech. ii. 9; xvi. 23; Osee vii. 13; Mich. ii. 1; Soph. ii. 5; iii. 1); wo to him who is hardened in evil (Isai. iii. 9, 11); to those who seek only to lay up goods (v. 8, 18; Amos vi. 1; Hab. ii. 6-12; Luke vi. 24); wo to him who speaks not when he should (Isai. vi. 5; 1 Cor. ix. 16); wo to unjust judges (Isai. x. 1; Jer. xxii. 13); wo to Ethiopia (Isai. xlviii. 1); wo to the proud and the drunkard (xxviii. 1); wo to Sennacherib (xxxiii.); wo to pastors (Jer. xxiii.; Ezech. xxxiv. 2); to false prophets (Ezech. xiii. 3, 18; Jude 11); wo to Egypt (Ezech. xxx.). wo to Ninive (Nah. iii. 1); wo to the double heart (Ecclus. ii. 14); wo to impenitent cities (Matt. xi. 21); wo to him who gives scandal (xviii. 7); wo to the world on account of scandal (xviii. 7); wo to the scribes and Pharisees (xxiii. 13); wo to Babylon (Apoc. xviii. 10).

WOLF, its ferocity (Gen. xlix. 27; Ezech. xxii. 27; Hab. i. 8; Matt. vii. 15); its nocturnal habits (Jer. v. 6; Soph. iii. 3; Hab. i. 8); attacking sheep and lambs (Matt. x. 16; Luke x. 3; John x. 12); under the Messiah the wolf shall lie down with the lamb (Isai. xi. 6; lxxv. 25); cruel persecutors compared to wolves (Matt. x. 16; Acts xx. 29).

WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING, a well-known apologue, cited Matt. vii. 15.

WOM'AN. Eve, the first woman, formed from a rib taken from the side of Adam (Gen. ii. 22); created for him (1 Cor. xi. 9); subject to man (Gen. iii. 16; Eph. v. 22); seduced by the serpent (Gen. iii. 1-6); leads man to sin (6); under the Jewish law a woman could not make a vow without her husband's consent (Num. xxx. 13); forbidden to wear the dress of a man (Deut. xxii. 5); duties of a married woman (Tob. x. 13; 1 Cor. vii.; 1 Tim. iii. 11; v. 10; Tit. ii. 3, 4); her modesty elevates her in glory (Prov. xi. 16); vigilance renders her the crown of her husband (xii. 4); woman to have her head covered in prayer (1 Cor. xi. 5); to listen in silence (1 Tim. ii. 11); captive women and strange women sent away (1 Esd. x.).

WOM'AN (individuals), a woman condemned to have her hand cut off (Deut. xxv. 11); a wise woman saves Abela, and causes Seba to be beheaded (2 Kings xx. 16-22); Respha watches the bodies of her sons (2 Kings xxi. 8, 10); Debhora judges Israel and defeats Sisara (Judges iv.); Jahel, wife of Haber, kills Sisara with a nail (iv. 21); Abimelech killed by a woman (ix. 53); Judith slays Holofernes (Judith xiii. 10); Esther saves the Jewish nation (Esth.); women endowed with the spirit of prophecy: Mary, sister of Aaron (Ex. xv. 20); Holda (4 Kings xxii. 14); Anna (Luke ii. 36); the daughters of St. Philip (Acts xxi. 9); our Lord converts the Samaritan woman (John iv. 7); cures the daughter of the Syro-phenician woman (Mark vii. 26); the woman with the issue of blood (Matt. ix. 20); pardons the sinful woman (Luke vii. 48); the woman taken in adultery (John viii. 11). Woman in visions: woman seated in the midst of a vessel (Zach. v. 7); woman pursued by a dragon (Apoc. xii. 13); woman seated on a beast (xvii. 3).

WON'DERFUL WORKS OF GOD (Acts ii. 11; 1 Paral. xvi. 12; Tob. xii. 20, 22; Job xxxvii. 14; Ps. xxxix. 6; cxliv. 5).

WON'DERS, miracles (Ex. iii. 20; xv. 11; Jos. iii. 5; Judg. xiii. 19; 1 Paral. xvi. 9, 12, 24; 2 Esd. ix. 17; Ps. lxxxviii. 6, etc.; Dan. vi. 27; xiv. 42; Matt. xxi. 15; Luke v. 26; Mark xiii. 22; John iv. 48).

WORD. Jesus Christ, the Word of the Father, made flesh (John i. 14).

WORD OF GOD. We should always have it before our eyes (Deut. iv. 1; vi. 6, 17; xi. 18; Num. xv. 39; Ps. i. 2; Prov. iii. 1; iv. 1; vi. 20; vii. 1); we are not to depart from the Word of God (Deut. v. 32; xxviii. 1; Jos. i. 7; xxiii. 6; Prov. iv. 27; Isai. xxx. 21); the Word of God to be heard and practised (Deut. v. 1, 27; vi. 1; xxxi. 12; Isai. xxix. 13; Ezech. xxxii. 31; Matt. v. 19; vii. 24; xv. 8; xix. 20; Luke vi. 47; xi. 28; xii. 47; John xiii. 17; Heb. iv. 2; James i. 22); contempt of the Word of God punished (3 Kings xiv. 10; 4 Kings xvii. 14, 19; 2 Paral. xxx. 6, 10; xxxvi. 15; Prov. i. 24, 28; xxviii. 9; Isai. xxviii. 14; xxx. 9, 14; lxxv. 11; lxxvi. 4; Jer. ii. 5; v. 12, 22; vii. 13; xvi. 9; xix.; xxv. 4; Ezech. xxxiii. 31; Matt. x. 14; xi. 20; Luke x. 10; Acts xiii. 45; xvii. 6; Rom. i. 20, 32; 2 Thess. ii. 10; Heb. ii. 3); the word of God remains forever (Num. xxiii. 19; Tob. xiv. 6; Ps. xxxii. 11; cxvi. 2; cxviii. 89; Isai. xl. 8; li. 6; liv. 10; Matt. v. 18; xxiv. 35; Mark xiii. 31; Luke xvi. 17; xxi. 32; 1 Pet. i. 25); its efficacy (Gen. i.; Ps. xxxii. 9; Job xxxviii. 11; Isai. xxvi. 12; lv. 11; Matt. viii. 13, 26; Mark i. 27; Luke v. 13, 24; viii. 24; xviii. 42); the word of God is the nourishment of the soul (Deut. viii. 3; Wis. xvi. 26; Jer. xv. 16; Ezech. iii. 3; Matt. iv. 4; Luke iv. 4); the word of God is precious (1 Kings iii. 1; Ps. xviii. 11; Prov. iii. 15; Wis. vii. 9); compared to a sword (Isai. xi. 4; xxvii. 1; xxxi. 8; xlix. 2; lxvi. 16; Eph. vi. 17; Heb. iv. 12; Apoc. i. 16; xix. 15).

WORK'MEN, appointed by God himself for the construction of the tabernacle (Ex. xxxv. 30, 34); inspiration given them (31, 35); special laws for the payment of workmen (Deut. xxiv. 14; 3 Kings v. 6; Tob. iv. 15).

WORKS. Good works have merit, and will be rewarded (Gen. iv. 7; Ps. cxviii. 112; Prov. xi. 18; Ecclus. xxxvi. 18; li. 30, 38; Matt. v. 12; x. 42; xvi. 27; xxv. 34; Rom. ii. 6; 1 Cor. xv. 29; 2 Cor. v. 10; 2 Tim. iv. 8; Heb. vi. 10; x. 35; xi. 26; James ii. 24; Apoc. xx. 13; xxii. 7); good works agreeable to God and merit reward (Gen. iv. 4, 7; v. 24; vi. 8, 9; viii. 20, 21; xx. 7; xxii. 16; xxvi. 4, 5; xxix. 32; Ex. i. 20; xx., xxiii. 22, 25; Lev. xi. 43-45); it is not forbidden to do good works for the sake of the reward (Ps. cxviii. 112; Matt. v. 12; 2 Tim. iv. 8; Heb. xi. 26); man does not sin in all his works (2 Pet. i. 10; 1 John iii. 6, 9; v. 18); God regards as done to himself the good works done to our neighbor (Isai. xxxvii. 23; Jer. i. 19); evil works displease God, and deserve punishment (Gen. iii. 11; iv. 7; vi. 3-6; vii. 4; ix. 6; xi. 4; xvii. 14; xviii. 20; xix. 11, 24-26; xx. 3; xlii. 21; xlv. 16; Ex. iii. 9; vii., xii., xiv., xx., xxi., xxii.; xxxi. 13; xxxii.; Lev. xi. 44); men will be judged according to their works (Apoc. xx. 12).

WORLD created (Gen. i., ii.); overwhelmed by the deluge (vii. 21); condemned by Christ on account of its scandals (Matt. xviii. 7; John xii. 31; xv. 18; xvi. 8, 11); its end foretold by our Lord (Matt. xxiv. 29; Luke xxi. 9); the time hidden from us (Mark xiii. 32).

WORM. Manna kept over became full of worms (Ex. xvi. 20); vineyards wasted by worms as a punishment (Deut. xxviii. 39); bodies consumed by worms (Job xxi. 26; xxiv. 20; Isai. li. 8); the worm of the sinner shall not die (Is. lxvi. 24; Mark ix. 43-47; Ecclus. vii. 19); Herod devoured by worms (Acts xii. 23); worm used as a term of humility (Ps. xxi. 7; Isai. xli. 14).

WORM'WOOD. The harlot's end is as bitter as wormwood (Prov. v. 4); God threatens to feed his people with wormwood (Jerem. ix. 15; xxiii. 15; Lam. iii. 15, 19); a star called wormwood falls from heaven, and waters become wormwood (Apoc. viii. 10, 11).

WOR'SHIP OF GOD. Besides the exterior act, God requires the affection of the heart (Deut. v. 32; vi. 5; x. 12; xxvi. 16; xxviii. 47; xxx. 2; Jos. xxii. 5; 1 Kings xii. 20; Ecclus. vii. 31; Isai. xxix. 13; John iv. 23); God requires an exterior worship, adoration and service rendered to himself (Gen. iv. 3-5; viii. 20; Ex. xxiv. 5; xxv.-xxx.; xxxvi.-xl.; Lev. i.-ix.); and forbids such adoration of false gods or idols (Ex. xx. 3-5; Deut. v. 9); or worship of himself in a form not appointed (John iv. 22).

WOR'SHIPPER. The city of Ephesus called a worshipper of Diana (Acts xix. 35).

WRANG'LING to be avoided as contrary to charity (2 Tim. ii. 24; Tit. iii. 9).

WRATH OF GOD on him that believeth not in the Son (John iii. 36).

WREST'LING, Jacob's mysterious wrestling with an angel (Gen. xxxii. 24).

WRITE, WRITING, Moses commanded to write in a book (Ex. xvii. 14); God writes the commandments on tables of stone (xxiv. 12; Deut. ix.

10); the law to be written on stone (xxvii. 8); writing on plates of lead (Job xix. 23, 24); on wood (Ez. xxxvii. 20); on writing table or tablet (Luke i. 63); an altar at Athens, on which was written: "To the Unknown God" (Acts xvii. 23); St. John commanded to write what he had seen (Apoc. i. 19); he wrote the gospel, and his testimony is true (John xxi. 24); he is commanded to write to the seven churches (Apoc. ii. 1-22); Jesus writes on the ground (John viii. 6, 8); the apostles did not write all things (John xxi. 25; 1 Cor. xi. 34; 2 Thess. ii. 14; 2 John 12; 3 John 13); the gospel written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God (John xx. 31); written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God, on the fleshy tables of the heart (2 Cor. iii. 2).

XAN'THICUS, a month, referred to, 2 Mach. xi. 30-38.

XER'XES, king of Persia, not named, but is the fourth king spoken of in the prophecy of Daniel (Dan. xi. 2); his war against Greece (2).

YEA. Let your speech be: yea, yea (James v. 12).

YEAR, the beginning of the Jewish year (Ex. xii. 2; Lev. xxiii. 5); the months of the Jewish Ecclesiastical year, beginning in March: Nisan, Jiar, Sivan, Thammuz, Ab, Elul, Tizri, Marschebhon, Cas'eu, Thebet, Sebat or Sabat, Adar. Of the civil year, beginning in September: Tizri, Marschevan, Casleu, Thebet, Sebat, Adar, Nisan, Jiar, Sivan, Thammuz, Ab, Elul. Feasts of the Jewish year: Pasch, 14, 15 Nisan; Pentecost or Feast of Weeks, fifty days after the Pasch; Feast of Trumpets, 1 Tizri; Feast of Expiation, 10 Tizri; Feast of Tabernacles, 15 Tizri; Feast of Phurim or the Lots, 14, 15 Adar; Feast of the Dedication of the Temple or Encoenia, 25 Casleu.

YEAR OF JUBILEE (Lev. xxv. 10).

YES'TERDAY. A thousand years in God's sight are but as yesterday (Ps. lxxxix. 4); Jesus Christ yesterday, and to-day, and to-morrow (Heb. xiii. 8).

YOKE, used metaphorically. An iron yoke upon thy neck (Deut. xxviii. 48; Jer. xxviii. 14); used in this sense in 3 Kings xii. 4, 9-11; Isai. ix. 4; Jer. v. 5; xxviii. 11; yoke used on animals (Num. xix. 2; Deut. xxi. 3; 2 Kings xxiv. 22); in the sense of authority or law (Judg. xix. 22; 3 Kings xii. 4; 2 Paral. x.; Eccclus. li. 34; Lam. iii. 27); our Lord declares his yoke to be easy (Matt. xi. 29, 30; 1 John v. 3); in the sense of a pair of oxen (Job i. 3; xlii. 12; 1 Kings xiv. 14; Luke xiv. 19); metaphorically of marriage: Bear not the yoke with (2 Cor. vi. 14).

YOUTH. We are to serve God from our youth (Ps. lxx. 5, 17; Prov. xxii. 6; Eccclus. xi. 9; xii. 1; Wis. viii. 2; Eccclus. vi. 18; xxx. 12; xlvii. 15; Matt. xix. 20; Luke xviii. 21; Lam. iii. 27; 1 Tim. iv. 14); the sins of youth (Job xlii. 26; xx. 11; Ps. xxiv. 7).

YOUNG. The young should cultivate silence (Eccclus. xxxii. 10); fortitude in young men (2 Mach. vi. 28; vii.); young men to be subject to the ancients (1 Pet. v. 5); St. John expressly addresses young men (1 John ii. 13).

ZABADI'A, son of Asael, grand-nephew of David, and one of his generals (1 Paral. xxvii. 7).

ZABADE'ANS, an Arabian tribe defeated by Jonathan Machabeus (1 Mach. xii. 31).

ZAB'DI, grandfather of Achan (Jos. vii. 17, 18). In many Catholic Bibles there is an omission here.

ZAB'DIEL, father of one of David's champions (1 Paral. xxvi. 2).

ZAB'DIEL, leads back some from the captivity (2 Esd. ii. 14).

ZAB'DIEL, the Arabian, killed Alexander Bales, who had fled to him for protection, and sent his head to Ptolemee Philometor, king of Egypt (1 Mach. xi. 17).

ZAB'UD, son of Nathan, an officer of king Solomon (3 Kings iv. 5).

ZAB'ULON, sixth son of Jacob and Lia, born 1748 B. C. (Gen. xxx. 20; 1 Paral. ii. 1); his sons were Sared, Elon, and Jafelel (Gen. xli. 14); Jacob blessing him before his death said: "Zabulon shall dwell on the sea-shore, and in the road of ships, reaching as far as Sidon (Gen. xlix. 13).

ZAB'ULON, tribe of, descended from Zabulon. When it left Egypt its prince was Eliab, son of Helon (Num. i. 9; ii. 7; x. 16); and it numbered 57,400 men able to go to war (i. 31); they formed part of the camp of Juda, on the east side (ii. 7, 8); their offerings for the tabernacle (vii. 24-29); its representative among those sent to view the Promised Land, was Geddiel, son of Sodi (xiii. 11); in the census at Settim they numbered 60,500 (xxvi. 26, 27); Elisaphan was chosen for Zabulon, to divide the land (xxxiv. 25); it was one of the tribes that stood on Hebal to curse (Deut. xxvii. 13); in blessing the tribes Moses said: "Rejoice, O Zabulon, in thy going out" (xxxiii. 18); in dividing the third lot fell to Zabulon (Jos. xix. 10-16); it destroyed not the inhabitants of Cetron and Naalol (Judg. i. 30); they, with the tribe of Nephthali, under Barac, defeated Sisara (iv. 6-22); it furnished leaders of the army (v. 14); respond to the call of Gedeon (vi. 35); Ahialon, one of the judges, was of Zabulon (xii. 11, 12); fifty thousand join David's army (1 Paral. xii. 33); revolt from Roboam to form kingdom of Israel (3 Kings xii. 20); a few only went to Jerusalem to celebrate the pasch under king Ezechias (2 Paral. xxx. 10, 11); carried away captive (4 Kings xv. 29; xvii. 6).

ZAB'ULON, a city (Jos. xix. 27); Ahialon was buried there (Judg. xii. 12).

ZACHARI'AS, son of Barachias, grandson of Iddo (1 Esd. v. 1; vi. 13), one of the twelve minor prophets. He was a priest, and with Ageus labored to re-tore religion after the captivity (1 Esd. vi. 14); his vision of the four horns (Zach. i. 18, 19); on Jerusalem (ii. 2); of the two candlesticks (iv. 2); of the winged book (v. 2); of the four chariots (vi. 1); of the winged woman (vii. 9); of the Messiah (the Orient) (iii. 8; vi. 12; ix. 9; xiv.).

ZACHARI'AS, one of the canonical books of the Old Testament (Zach.).

ZACHARI'AS, king of Israel, succeeded his father Jeroboam II., 772 B. C. (4 Kings xiv. 29); he continued the wicked career of his predecessors, but after six months was struck publicly and killed by Sellum, who conspired against him (xv. 9); with him ended the fourth generation prophesied to the house of Jehu (12).

ZACHARI'AS, the high-priest, the son of Joiada. When Joas fell into idolatry, the Spirit of the Lord came upon Zacharias, and he publicly rebuked the people (2 Paral. xxiv. 20); Joas, unmindful of what he owed to Joiada, ordered him to be put to death (22), and he was stoned in the court of the temple (21); his dying words were: "The Lord see and require it" (22).

ZACHARI'AS, one of the princes of Ruben (1 Paral. v. 7).

ZACHARI'AS, a prince sent by king Josaphat to teach in the cities of Juda (2 Paral. xvii. 7).

ZACHARI'AS understood and saw God (2 Paral. xxvi. 5).

ZACHARI'AS, a priest next to Helcias, in the days of Josias (2 Paral. xxxv. 8).

ZACHARI'AS, son of Barachias, called by Isaias as a faithful witness (Isai. viii. 2).

ZACHARI'AS, son of Barachias, killed by the Jews between the temple and the altar (Matt. xxiii. 35; Luke xi. 51). There is much uncertainty as to the person intended, whether the prophet or the one mentioned by Isaias, while many think him to be the son of Joiada.

ZACH'ARY, priest of the course of Abia, husband of St. Elizabeth, and father of St. John the Baptist (Luke i. 5); while offering incense in the temple, the angel Gabriel announced to him that he was to have a son, to be named John, who was to go before the Lord in the spirit of Elias (9-18); he was struck dumb for his incredulity (18-22); on writing his name John he recovered his speech (63, 64), and uttered the canticle Benedictus (68-79).

ZACH'EUS, a corrupt officer of Judas Machabeus (2 Mach. x. 19).

ZACH'EUS, a rich man, chief of the publicans at Jericho (Luke xix. 1, 2); being short, but anxious to see our Lord, he climbed a tree. Our Lord bade him come down, as he would abide with him (3-6); some murmured, but Zacheus promised half his goods to the poor, and full restitution to all whom he had wronged (8); our Lord declared that salvation had come to his house (9).

ZAM'BRI, son of Salu, and prince of the tribe of Simeon, slain by Phinees the priest, while sinning with Cozbi, a Medianite (Num. xxv. 14).

ZAM'BRI, captain of half the horsemen of Ela, king of Israel, killed that monarch while drunk in the house of Arsa, governor of Thersa, 930 B. C. (3 Kings xvi. 10; 4 Kings ix. 31); he reigned only seven days (3 Kings xvi. 15); the army at Gebbethon made Amri king, and Zambri, besieged in Thersa, burnt himself in the palace (16-18).

ZAM'BRI, a country mentioned by Jeremias in connexion with Persia and Media (Jer. xxv. 25).

ZAM'RAM, oldest son of Abraham by Cetura (Gen. xxv. 2).

ZANO'E, a city of Juda (Jos. xv. 2; 2 Esd. iii.).

ZA'RA, grandson of Esau (Gen. xxxvi. 13).

ZA'RA, son of Juda (Gen. xxxviii. 28, 30).

ZA'RA, son of Simeon (Num. xxvi. 13).

ZA'RA, king of Ethiopia (2 Paral. xiv. 9); he attacked Asa, king of Juda, with an army of a million men, but was utterly defeated in the vale of Sophata, near Maresa, 941 B. C. (2 Paral. xiv. 9-15).

ZA'RED, a torrent (Num. xxi. 21).

ZA'RES, wife of Aman, advised her husband to put Mardochai to death (Esth. v. 10, 14).

ZEAL of the sons of Jacob to avenge the deflowering of their sister Dina (Gen. xxxiv. 2, 25, 27); of Moses against the worshippers of the golden calf (Ex. xxxii. 19, 27); of Phinees, against immorality (Num. xxv. 7); of the tribes of Israel, occasioned by the wrong done the Levite (Judg. xx.); of Saul against the Ammonites (1 Kings xi. 6); of Samuel against Saul (xv. 32); of Elias against the prophets of Baal (3 Kings xviii. 40); of Elias against Israel (xix. 10); of Jehu against the house of Achab and the worshippers of Baal (4 Kings x.); of Mathathias (1 Mach. ii. 24); of our Lord against those who profaned the temple (Matt. xxi. 12).

ZEB and OREB, princes of Midian, taken by the tribe of Ephraim, and put to death, Zeb in the press of Zeb, and Oreb in the rock of Oreb (Judg. vii. 24, 25).

ZEB'EDEE, husband of Salome, and father of the apostle St. James and St. John (Matt. iv. 21; x. 3; xx. 20; xxvi. 37; xxvii. 56; Mark x. 35; Luke v. 10; John xxi. 2).

ZEB'EE, king of the Midianites. He and Salmana opposed Gedeon (Jos. viii. 5-10); fled and are pursued (12); they had slain Gedeon's brothers on Thabor (18); he slew them (21).

ZEB'IDA, mother of Joachim, king of Juda. She ZEL'PHA, hand-maid of Lia, given to Jacob by Lia, and bears him Gad and Aser (Gen. xxx. 9-13; xlv. 16-18).

ZE'NAS, a lawyer and disciple of St. Paul. The apostle asks Titus to send Zenas to him (Tit. iii. 13).

ZEPHRO'NA, a city north of the Promised Land (Num. xxxiv. 9).

ZETHU'A, leads back 940 Jews from the captivity (1 Esd. ii. 8).

ZI'O, second month of the Jewish Ecclesiastical year (3 Kings vi. 1).

ZORO'BABEL, son of Salathiel, of the royal race of David (2 Esd. xii. 1; Matt. i. 13; Luke iii. 27); or he may have been the son of Phadaia (1 Paral. iii. 19); and grandson of Salathiel. Cyrus delivered to him the sacred vessels of the temple (1 Esd. i. 11); and he was prince of those who returned (ii. 2; iii. 8; v. 2); he laid the foundations of the temple (1 Esd. iii. 8, 9; Zach. iv. 9); and restored the worship of God, and the accustomed sacrifices. After the interruption of the work the prophets Aggeus and Zacharius were inspired to encourage Zoro-was daughter to Phadaia, of Ruma (4 Kings xxiii. 36).

THE ANGELS OF THE APOCALYPSE WITH THE VIALS.

ZE'BUL, made governor of Sichem, by Abimelech (Judges ix. 28); he informed Abimelech of Gaal's revolt (31) and drove Gaal out of the city (41).

ZECH'RI, a powerful man of the tribe of Ephraim, under Phacee, king of Israel, slew Maasias, son of Achaz, king of Juda, with Ezriea, governor of the palace, and Elcana, who was next to the king (2 Paral. xxviii. 7).

ZELO'TES or CANANEUS, a surname of the apostle St. Simon (Luke vi. 15; Acts i. 13).

ZIPH, a city in the tribe of Juda (Jos. xv. 24); apparently named after Ziph, son of Jalaleel (1 Paral. iv. 16).

ZI'ZA, son of Roboam, king of Juda, by Maacha (2 Paral. xi. 20).

ZO'HELETH. Adonias gave a banquet at the stone of Zoheleth, near the fountain Rogel (3 Kings i. 9).

ZOMZOMIM, ancient gigantic inhabitants of the country of the Ammonites (Deut. ii. 20).

ZO'OM, son of Roboam by Abihail, daughter of Eliah (2 Paral. xi. 19).

babel to continue the work (Agg. i. 1; ii. 3; Zach. iv. 6, 7; 1 Esd. v. 1-3); Zacharias had a vision of two olive trees by the golden candlestick, supplying the lamps with oil, and was told by the angel that they were Zorobabel and the high-priest Jesus (Zach. iv. 6-8). Zorobabel had seven sons, Mosollam, Hananias, Hasaba, Ohol, Barnehiar, Hasadiah, and Josabhesed, and one daughter, Salomith (1 Paral. iii. 19); one of these sons is called by St. Matthew Abiud (Matt. i. 13); and by St. Luke, Resa (iii. 27).

ZU'ZIM, giants beyond the Jordan conquered by Chodorlahomor (Gen. xiv. 5).

THE HOLY OF HOLIES.

FURNITURE OF THE TABERNACLE.

THE TABERNACLE.

BREAST PLATE.

ALTAR OF BURNT OFFERING.

CENSERS.

THE MOLTEN SEA.

BRAZEN LAVER.

A COMPREHENSIVE HISTORY OF THE BOOKS OF THE HOLY CATHOLIC BIBLE, WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THIS EDITION

BY

REV. BERNARD O'REILLY, L. D. (LAVAL)

AUTHOR OF "HEROIC WOMEN OF THE BIBLE AND THE CHURCH," "A LIFE OF PIUS IX.," "THE MIRROR OF TRUE WOMANHOOD,"
"TRUE MEN AS WE NEED THEM," ETC., ETC.

The Whole Beautifully Illustrated with Appropriate and Select Scripture Subjects.

Copyright, 1884.

INTRODUCTORY.

MOST dear to the hearts of children in a family blessed with the best of parents and brought up to the practice of all that is most ennobling, is every monument of the dead or absent father's love.

Were it so to happen that such a father, whose whole life had been one of self-sacrifice and incomparable devotion to the interest of his dear ones, should bequeath them in dying, not only a share forever in his wealth and honor, but his last will and testament to be kept continually before their eyes in the home he had created for them—how would they not reverence this ever-present memorial of their worshipped parent's loving care? How would they not, in perusing every line and word of this last declaration of a father's tender forethought, find their own hearts moved by its undying eloquence—as if a hidden fire lived in each word to warn their own souls to gratitude, to generosity, and to all nobleness of life? This is precisely what we have in that Book of books, the BIBLE.* What we know of God's dealings with man proves Him to be much more of the parent than of the lord and master. Indeed when the Son came down in person to redeem and to teach the world, He taught us to call the Infinite God, with whom He is eternally one in the unity of the Godhead, by the sweet and endearing name of FATHER.

This was only restoring the supernatural relation which existed between God and man from the beginning of the latter's creation. For it is a doctrine of the Catholic faith, that Adam was raised by his all-bountiful Creator to the divine rank of adopted child of God. This rank with its privileges and prospective glory Adam forfeited by his sin; and this rank Christ, the Second Adam, restored to us, thus repairing the ruin caused by our first parent.

And because the Heavenly Father's purpose was, from the beginning, to raise us all up in Christ to the dignity from which we had fallen in Adam, therefore His wisdom provided means by which Adam and his descendants could still recover a claim to their lost rank and inheritance. A Saviour was promised them in Christ; and they were required to believe in that Saviour, to hold fast to that promise, to profess that faith openly, and fulfil all the other conditions required by their Divine Benefactor as distinguishing those who were to have a share with the future Redeemer and Restorer.

This new covenant or testament, made by our merciful Father between Himself and Adam with his posterity, was preserved and cherished among the descendants of Seth, who were, in view of their living faith in the one true God and the promised Saviour, called "the Sons of God" in the midst of a sinful world. It was this same living faith that saved Noe and his sons from the flood which swept their guilty brethren off the face of the earth. And when they came forth from the Ark, or ship, in which the hand of God had guarded them, their Preserver renewed His covenant with them, and once more enjoined, with increased solemnity, the duty of holding on invincibly to the Faith of Adam, of Abel, of Seth, and of Enoch.

When, in the course of time, the great bulk of mankind, now spread over the earth, forgot God and the faith in His most merciful Promise, Abraham was raised up as Noe had been to keep that faith alive in his family and descendants. To that family, become a people—God's own chosen people—the covenant was renewed more solemnly than ever before on Mount Sinai; and Moses, the deliverer and guide of that people, was inspired to write, for the instruction of all future time, the story of the creation of the world, of man's origin, of his elevation and fall, and of the Promise thus successively committed, like God's will and testament, to Adam, to Seth, to Noe, to Abraham, and to Moses in behalf of our fallen and disinherited race.

To the five books (Pentateuch) left us by Moses others were added age after age, completing the story of God's dealings with mankind, till God's own Son at length came down on earth, uniting our human nature with His Godhead, and to all who receive him as their Redeemer He giveth "power to be made the Sons of God."

Of Him—the Saviour, the Promised One—the Old Testament is full as well as the New. What wonder, then, seeing that God's faithful servants under the law of nature, and God's chosen people under the Mosaic law, were alike, upon earth, the Family of the Almighty Father—what wonder, if in that family, men and women, generation after generation, loved to make of the Sacred Scriptures the subject of devout and most profitable meditation?

Before the coming of Christ, how believing and yearning souls were wont to weigh the words of the oft-repeated Promise, and to feed their hopes upon the study of the succession of events which, each as it happened, foreshadowed His redemption, and made the heart, sick with the spectacle of contemporary degeneracy, look forward to the establishment of the Kingdom of God, to His sweet sovereign sway over the spirits and lives of all men!

* The word "bible" is of Greek origin. The Egyptian reed papyrus (ancient Egyptian papu) was called βιβλος byblos, by the Greeks, and from its innermost bark or cuticle, covering the ὀστέον, was made the papyrus or paper which, when written upon, was denominated βιβλος. A bundle of these scrolls was given the name of βιβλίον—and the nominative plural βιβλία, was adopted by the Latins, and employed to designate what we now call the BIBLE, that is, the collection of inspired books of both the Old and the New Testaments.

And since His coming and His return to Heaven, how earnestly do His followers the whole world over bathe their souls in the light of that everlasting glory into which He has entered to prepare us a place, and the ravishing perspectives of which lift man heavenward and enable him to bear every most bitter trial, to undertake the most arduous labor, and to fulfil the most painful sacrifices in view of the eternal reward and of the Infinite Love which bestows it!

In the immense Christian family, spread all over the earth, there is not a household in which "the words of eternal life" (St. John vi. 69) do not thus furnish sweetest food to the souls of young and old. For it is most sweet for enlightened and pious Christian parents to select from the Prophetical Books of the Old Testament the passages in which, so many centuries in advance, the Holy Spirit had prompted the inspired writers to describe the manner of Christ's coming, His sacred person, the labors, persecutions and death by which He was to redeem the world; His miracles, His wisdom, and the immortal society He was to found. It is still, as it ever has been, most sweet to contemplate in the mighty events recorded in the Historical Books, the types of the great realities to be accomplished in the life of Christ, or in that of His church. Even the personages whose characters and deeds are recorded therein, when viewed with the eye of faith, all seem to point to Christ, whom they resemble in many wondrous ways, while still preserving their own identity, their own littlenesses and weaknesses.

Nor is it less delightful and refreshing to the soul to take up any one of the merely didactic or moral Books. Job still teaches the world and stirs the soul of every reader from amid the ruins of his home and the utter wreck of all his greatness and prosperity. Solomon still instructs princes and peoples, the highest and the lowliest, in the pregnant works which reflect his wisdom, and contain the manifold lessons of his long experience, of his days of innocence and wide-spread earthly dominion, and of his maturer years obscured by ingratitude to God, by boundless sensuality, and that worship of self which so easily leads to the worst forms of heathenish idolatry.

The author of Ecclesiasticus, Jesus, the son of Sirach, sings a hymn in praise of all the virtues, private and public, most dear to the heart of God, and sets before us, in succession, the images of the godlike men, who, since Adam, have glorified the Creator of mankind as well as human nature itself.

But sweeter than all the other inspired writers of the Old Law is the King-Prophet, David, the ancestor of Mary and her Divine Son, "the sweet singer of Israel." The church, spread all over the earth, uses his Psalms of prayer and praise in her solemn offices; and her children, in their private devotions, ever find in these heart-cries of the much-tried David the very sentiments and words most suited to their needs in good and ill fortune, in trial and in temptation.

And so has the word of God, coming to us through the inspired books of the Old Testament, borne to every household, and to every soul within it, both during our darkest and during our sunniest days, comfort and peace, light, and warmth, and unfailing strength from the all-loving heart of our Father in Heaven!

But, oh, what shall we say of the books of the New Testament? Of the Gospels, which set before us the simple and soul-stirring narrative of Christ's incarnation, birth, labors, miracles, sufferings and death? Of the Acts of the Apostles, relating the birth of Christ's Church, and the struggles, sufferings, labors and triumphs of His two chief apostles, Peter and Paul? And finally, of the other divinely beautiful instructions left to the Christian world by these same Apostles, its glorious parents under God, the fathers of the new "people of God," to be made up of all the tribes of earth gathered together and held in the bonds of a true brotherhood by the one faith in Christ and the all-pervading love of the Father?

Do we not all remember, we children of Christian parents, how we hung in childhood and youth on the lips of father and mother as they read to us the sublime story of Christ's life and death? how we fancied ourselves to be kneeling with the Shepherds around His crib, or travelling with Him and His parents across the desert to Egypt and back again to Nazareth? How we loved to behold Him in imagination as He grew up in the carpenter's shop—the lovely child, the graceful and modest youth, the son lovingly obedient to Mary and Joseph during all these years of obscure toil and patient preparation for His great missionary work? And then how we followed the Mighty Teacher, during the three years of His public life, as He ran His giant race—preaching, healing, enlightening the whole land as with the steady, but brief splendors of a heaven-sent meteor, till the young life was quenched amid the dark and shameful scenes of Calvary?

Have we not, in our turn, read to our dear parents in their hour of darkness and trial—in poverty, or sickness, or when the shadow of death was over the home—some one sweet passage, more pregnant with heavenly light and consolation than the others, which made once more sunshine in their souls, which lifted up the fainting heart, which filled the spirit of our sorely-tried dear ones with renewed hopes and strength to do and to endure, which enabled them to bear the bitter pang of present losses in view of the eternal reward—or which made the passage from this life to the next bright, lightsome, joyous and exultant, like the blessed bridal of the children of God?

And see how wonderfully that all-wise Providence, which clearly seeing things from end to end ordereth all things sweetly and surely, has taken means for preserving these sacred writings amid the rise and fall of kingdoms and empires, amid the revolutions, the destruction and the decay, which lift one hitherto obscure or barbarous race into power and long rule, while other races, till then prosperous, irresistible and enlightened, disappear forever from history.

Here we have, at this very moment, the same Hebrew descendants of Abraham, to whom Moses committed, with the Tables of the Law delivered on Sinai, the Pentateuch or five volumes written by himself, subsisting in our midst, clinging to their ancient faith with heroic tenacity, and cherishing not only the five books of Moses, but what they conceive to be the original Hebrew Scriptures with a religious fervor that will tolerate no change in substance or in letter.

Have we often reflected on the miraculous co-existence, side by side, and in every part of the globe, of the children of the Synagogue and of those of the Church—the former bearing undying testimony to the divinity of the Old Testament Scriptures—the latter vouching for the authority of the New? Only think of the singular phenomenon which the presence of Abrahamite Hebrews amid the peoples of Christendom offers to the historian and philosopher! They remain distinct from all other peoples while living among them; mingling with Europeans, Africans, Asiatics and Americans in every walk of life and field of industry, and yet preserving their own national characteristics and physical type as clearly and persistently as they preserve their ancient religious faith and time-honored customs. In the tents of the Mohammedan Bedaween they protest against the monstrous reveries of the Coran and the pretensions of the Arabian visionary; amid the crowded cities of China and India they uphold, as against idolatry, the doctrine of the one living God; and in our midst, in the temple of Christian civilization, they bear witness unceasingly to the divinity of the Old Testament Scriptures.

and to the abiding faith of their ancestors and themselves in the promised Redeemer.

The conquering and widely dominating races of Babylon, Nineveh, Persia, and Egypt have utterly disappeared from the face of the earth. We can dig up from the Mesopotamian plains gigantic statues—the ornaments of palaces and temples contemporary with Heber and Abraham—and we discover far beneath the surface of the ruin-strewn earth whole chambers crowded with inscribed bricks and cylinders, the fragmentary annals of kingdoms grown old before Rome had been founded. But the wild nomadic tribes who aid the discoverer in his researches are not the descendants of the mighty races who ruled there upward of three thousand years ago. These have left upon earth no lineal heirs to the land, to its ruins, or to its glories.

So is it with Egypt. Modern curiosity and modern science have found their way into the very heart of the Pyramids, and rifled the tombs of the monarchs who built them; we have penetrated the deepest cave-sepulchres of the Valley of Kings at Thebes the magnificent and incomparable. But the sordid Arab and ignorant Fellah, who serve as guides and workmen to the explorer, have no thought of claiming descent from or kinship with the ancient people who inhabited the Nile Valley in its days of surpassing glory.

The descendants of Joseph and Aaron do, indeed, still live and thrive amid the modern cities along the shores of the great river; but of the warlike people who went forth under the Pharaohs to enslave the surrounding nations, no trace is left save in the tombs where the mummies of princes, priests, and warriors have slept for three thousand years beside the remains of the dumb animals they had, in life, worshiped in place of the living God!

Even so is it in the once imperial Rome. Not even the proudest of her living nobles, much less the lower and middle classes of her actual population, can establish any claim to direct descent from the families who dwelt there under the consuls or under the emperors.

Thus, in every civilized country beneath the sun, and every day on which that sun rises, we have these two immortal societies standing before us, side by side—the Jewish synagogue and the Catholic Church—and presenting to us the Old and the New Testaments as the Revealed Will of the one true and living God who is the Creator and the Judge of the whole race of man. For the divinity of the Old Testament Scriptures and the faith in the Promised Messiah the Jewish race has borne unfaltering and heroic witness for three thousand years; to the divinity of the New Testament and the fulfillment of all these promises in the person of Christ Jesus the Catholic Church has borne her witness during eighteen centuries. And this twofold testimony fills all historic time with a light as self-evident as the radiance of the noonday sun. What a spectacle to the religious mind! What a consolation to the Christian who sets more store on the promises of the eternal life and the glories of Christ's everlasting kingdom than on all the greatness and the glories, the possessions and the enjoyments of time!

THE OLD TESTAMENT.

Of the inspired writings thus committed to the care of the people of God before the birth of Christ the first in importance, as well as in the order of time, are five books of Moses, therefore called THE PENTATEUCH* or THE LAW. Then come the historical books, comprising: Josue, Judges, Ruth, the four Books of Kings, first and second Paralipomenon, first and second Esdras, first and second Machabees, together with Tobias, Judith, and Esther. Next in order are the doctrinal or didactic books: Psalms, Job, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Canticle of Canticles, Wisdom, and Ecclesiasticus. Lastly we have the prophetic books, which are subdivided into the greater and the lesser prophets.

* From the Greek word τεῦχος, a vessel. The designation arose, most probably, from the fact that the ancient manuscripts or rolls of writing were placed in cylinders or vessels when not in use.

Anciently the Jews divided these books into "the Law and the Prophets." Down to the time of our Lord the Jewish teachers had devised various arbitrary divisions of the Old Testament books. They were agreed in giving to the Pentateuch, or five books of Moses, the appellation of Torah, "the Law." But under the designation of "The Prophets" they included, together with the twelve lesser prophets and the three greater (Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel), Josue, Judges, and the Four Books of Kings. Under the designation of Hagiographa (Hebrew, Chetubim, "writings") they classed all the other Scriptures of the Hebrew canon, whether historical, prophetic, didactic, or poetical.

The Jewish authors of the Greek or Septuagint version of the Old Testament deviated from this classification, giving the books of Scripture in the order which we have them both in the Latin Vulgate and in the Douay Bible.

However, as modern biblical scholars have agreed to treat of these venerable books in the more convenient order of

THE PENTATEUCH, THE HISTORICAL BOOKS, THE PROPHETS, THE POETICAL BOOKS,

We shall follow this classification in our remarks.

I. THE PENTATEUCH.

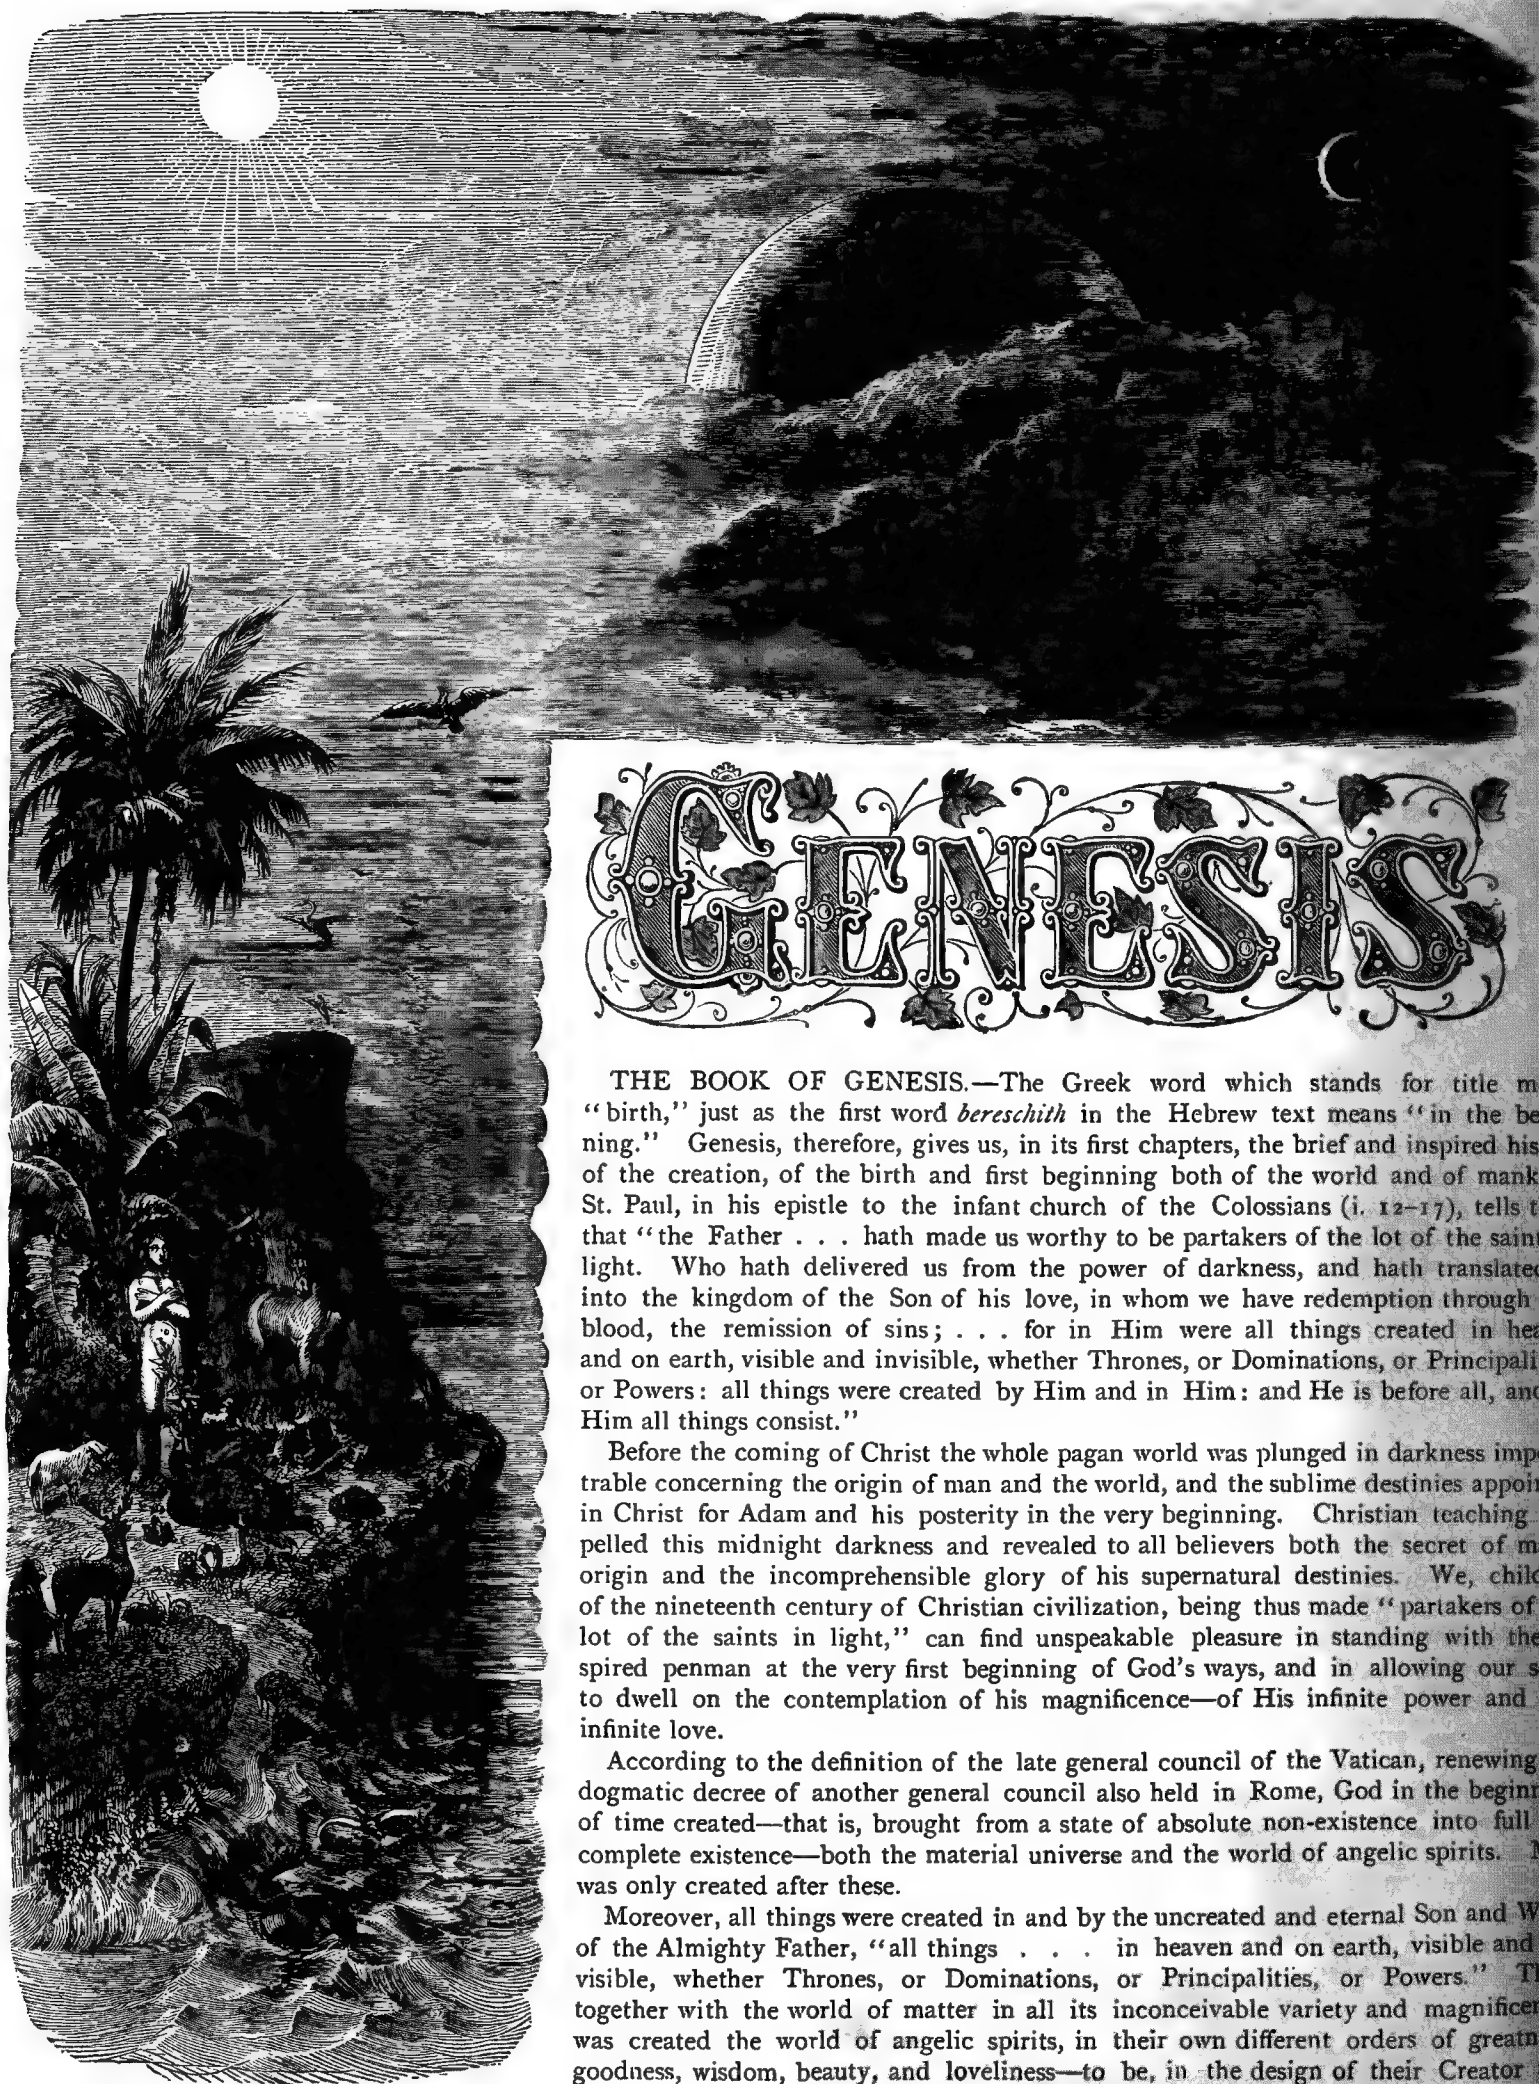

It is most probable that these "five books" formed in the original Hebrew only one volume or roll of manuscript. The present title—ἡ πεντάτευχος (βιβλος), "the fivefold book"—was bestowed on it by the Greek translators. To them also may be, in all likelihood, attributed the division of the books as each now stands, together with the Greek titles which distinguish them. In the Hebrew manuscripts the only division known was that into small sections called parshiyoth and sedarim, which had been adopted for the convenience of the public reader in the synagogue.

Of all books ever written, this fivefold book of Moses is the only one that enlightens us with infallible certainty on the origin of all things in this universe, visible and invisible; on the creation of mankind and their destinies; on their duties, during this life, toward their Almighty Creator and toward each other, and on the rewards and punishments of the eternal life hereafter.

In its first pages we see how our Divine Benefactor prepares this earth to become the blissful abode of our first parents and their descendants. We read of the compact or covenant which He makes with Adam and Eve; then comes the violation of that compact; and then the fall and banishment of the transgressors from their first delightful abode. We see the human race, divided into faithful servants of God, on the one hand, and despisers of his law, on the other, spreading themselves over the face of the globe, while wickedness goes on increasing to such a pitch that the offended Creator destroys the entire race, with the exception of one good man and his family.

With this man, Noe, and with his three sons, God once more renews the covenant made in the beginning. They are the parents of the human family as it now exists. But their descendants, counting, probably, on the long life of many centuries hitherto enjoyed by mankind as a privilege not to be taken away from themselves, soon fall into the old self-worship, the abominable sensuality, and the demon-worship begotten of pride, and following it as its sure chastisement. God, to preserve as a living faith the Promise in the Redeemer, and to secure a nation of faithful worshipers of his holy name, separates from the sinful crowd Abraham; and from his grandson, Jacob or Israel, spring the twelve patriarchs, the fathers of God's people. Of the history of this chosen race, their captivity in Egypt, their sufferings, their miraculous deliverance, the new covenant made with them by their divine Deliverer, down to the death of Moses and their arrival on the confines of the national territory reserved to them, the Pentateuch tells in detail.

It is a wonderful story. But let us glance rapidly at it, as we review in succession each of these five books.

GENESIS

THE BOOK OF GENESIS.—The Greek word which stands for title means “birth,” just as the first word bereschith in the Hebrew text means “in the beginning.” Genesis, therefore, gives us, in its first chapters, the brief and inspired history of the creation, of the birth and first beginning both of the world and of mankind. St. Paul, in his epistle to the infant church of the Colossians (i. 12–17), tells them that “the Father . . . hath made us worthy to be partakers of the lot of the saints in light. Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of the Son of his love, in whom we have redemption through His blood, the remission of sins; . . . for in Him were all things created in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether Thrones, or Dominations, or Principalities, or Powers: all things were created by Him and in Him: and He is before all, and by Him all things consist.”

Before the coming of Christ the whole pagan world was plunged in darkness impenetrable concerning the origin of man and the world, and the sublime destinies appointed in Christ for Adam and his posterity in the very beginning. Christian teaching dispelled this midnight darkness and revealed to all believers both the secret of man’s origin and the incomprehensible glory of his supernatural destinies. We, children of the nineteenth century of Christian civilization, being thus made “partakers of the lot of the saints in light,” can find unspeakable pleasure in standing with the inspired penman at the very first beginning of God’s ways, and in allowing our souls to dwell on the contemplation of his magnificence—of His infinite power and His infinite love.

According to the definition of the late general council of the Vatican, renewing the dogmatic decree of another general council also held in Rome, God in the beginning of time created—that is, brought from a state of absolute non-existence into full and complete existence—both the material universe and the world of angelic spirits. Man was only created after these.

Moreover, all things were created in and by the uncreated and eternal Son and Word of the Almighty Father, “all things . . . in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether Thrones, or Dominations, or Principalities, or Powers.” Thus, together with the world of matter in all its inconceivable variety and magnificence, was created the world of angelic spirits, in their own different orders of greatness, goodness, wisdom, beauty, and loveliness—to be, in the design of their Creator and King, associated afterward with man and his heavenly destinies. They, too—before man appeared on earth—had their own eventful history. They were created free—free to love their Divine Benefactor and to consecrate to Him in dutiful and devoted service the life and exalted powers He had given them—or free to refuse such service to the Highest.

Many chose to serve their own pride, and were forever separated from God and from the glorious abode of everlasting bliss, where He reveals His inmost being and shares His inmost life with His faithful ones. Many more yielded rapturous submission and lowly service to their most loving and magnificent Lord and Father, and they were forthwith exalted to the unchangeable possession of Himself and His Kingdom.

So, in these first verses and pages of Genesis—the Book of Origins—we are treading on abysses of revealed truth—of truth which explains to us both the world beneath and around us, and that unmeasured world which extends on all sides above and beyond our little globe, both the world we can see with the bodily eye and touch with this hand of flesh, and the unseen realities of that world far otherwise glorious, in which the Lord of Hosts Himself is the central Sun of spiritual beings innumerable, whose brightness and glory is shadowed forth dimly in the starry hosts of the firmament above our heads.

Man was made “a little less than the Angels” in natural excellence; but he was at the same time raised by the divine adoption to the supernatural rank and destiny of the Angels. He, too, was created free to choose between good and evil: between a loving submission and devoted service to his Maker, and obedience to his own weak will. Raised so high, surrounded with such lavish wealth of gifts and graces, “crowned with glory and honor, and set over the works” of God’s hands here below, he too freely disobeyed and sinned, and was separated from the Most Holy God.

Not separated hopelessly and forever; for the merciful Son, whose work man was, took on Himself to expiate, in His own good time, the awful guilt of man’s ingratitude and disobedience.

The promise that He would do so was deposited in the sorrowing hearts of our first parents, when they were justly banished from their beautiful abode in the earthly paradise. This is the Promise and the Hope kept alive in the long line of patriarchs extending from Abel and Seth to Abraham.

Genesis, from the end of the third chapter to its close, is but the history of this immortal Hope, and the other books of the Pentateuch do but describe the national institutions, political and religious, by and through which this Hope was to be preserved undimmed among the universal darkness of Heathendom, till the Star of Bethlehem warned Israel that the Light of the World was come.

THE BOOK OF EXODUS.—The title is a Greek word, meaning “a going out” or “departure,” because its chief purpose is to describe the miraculous means by which God enabled Moses to lead the people of God out of Egypt in order that He might, in the wilderness of Mount Sinai, renew more solemnly His covenant with them, and give them such national laws and institutions as would distinguish them from all other peoples.

The sacred historian describes the wonderful increase of the descendants of Israel in the land of the Pharaohs, which had been saved from utter ruin by the genius of Joseph, Israel's youngest son. Then, after the death of the wise minister, the hatred of the idolatrous Egyptians against the worshipers of the one true God was aroused by the spectacle of the latter's wonderful increase in numbers. Egypt was full of enslaved foreign races whom their pitiless masters forced to work both in cultivating the land and in building the beautiful cities and stupendous monuments whose ruins survive to this day. To this slavery the Israelites were condemned one and all; and to check effectually their further increase—indeed, to extinguish the race altogether—the male children were ordered to be strangled at their birth.

Here comes in the story of Miriam or Mary, a little Hebrew maiden, who succeeds in saving from destruction her infant brother, ever afterward known as Moses, the most illustrious figure of our Lord, and the destined deliverer of his race. Adopted as her own son by Pharaoh's daughter, Moses is brought up amid the splendors of the Egyptian court and in all the varied learning of its schools, till he is old enough to prefer openly God's cause to the service of Pharaoh. He does not hesitate to cast his lot with his down-trodden brethren, but is repelled with unnatural ingratitude by them. After forty years of exile, he is commanded to return to "the House of Bondage," clothed with authority from on high and commissioned to lead his people forth free in spite of every obstacle.

The central fact and miracle in the book is the passage of the Red Sea—so strikingly typical of Christ's passion in Jerusalem, and of the manner in which the Cross wrought our redemption. The paschal lamb, whose blood on the Hebrew door-posts saved the believing households from the visit of the devastating angel, had its counterpart in the mystic oblation of Christ on the very eve of His death, and in the divine and ever-present reality of the commemorative sacrifice He then instituted for all coming time. "This is My Blood of the new testament which shall be shed for many unto remission of sins" (Matt. xxvi. 28), clearly points out the identity of the Victim, and of the redeeming Blood, both in the eucharistic celebration and in the fearful consummation of Calvary. The Cross was the instrument of victory used by the Redeemer in His supreme struggle; it was symbolical of the extremity of weakness and shame in the Sufferer—the Almighty Power thus shining forth in this very extremity. Even so did the aged Aaron's staff in the hand of Moses open a pathway through the waves for God's people in their dire need, and overwhelm in utter destruction Pharaoh and his pursuing hosts.

The fatal tree had been in the Garden the occasion of Adam's downfall and of the ruin of his posterity; a feeble staff in the hands of Moses works out the liberation of the chosen race and effects the destruction of their enemies: even so did our Divine Deliverer tread the Red Sea of His passion with all its abysses of shame and degradation, dividing the waves of the sanguinary multitude by His cross of ignominy, and allowing Himself to be nailed to the accursed Tree and to hang therefrom in death as the true fruit of saving Knowledge and eternal Life for the nations.

The Law afterward given to Israel on Mount Sinai, together with the detailed legislation concerning the chosen people's religion and government, all foreshadowed the more perfect Law to be given by Christ to His church and for the benefit of the whole world. Equally typical and prophetic of the sacraments and graces of the New Law were the manna, the water from the rock, the brazen serpent, and, indeed, all the incidents of the people's life during the forty years' wandering in the wilderness.

The whole of Exodus must be read in the light of the Christian revelation to be understood and appreciated.

THE BOOK OF LEVITICUS.—This book is so called because it chiefly treats of the ceremonies of divine worship to be performed under the direction of the Levites, the priestly order among the Jews. It is the detailed Ritual of the Jewish church.

It must never be forgotten, both in studying the solemn religious worship of the Jewish sanctuary and temple, and in assisting at the sacrificial service of the Christian church, that what God commanded to be done on earth is only the shadow, the preparation, and the foretaste of what takes place in the Heavenly City above, in that divinest of sanctuaries, where He receives unceasingly the worship of Angels and Saints, and in return eternally pours out on them the flood of His blissful love.

The Christian temple with its altar, its one sacrifice, its unchanging Victim, and its adorable and unfailing Presence, is but the lively image of that supernal Holy of Holies, in which the Lamb ever slain and ever immortal is the central object of praise and love and adoration (Apocalypse, chapters iv., v., and following). Thus the sweet and ever-abiding Presence in our tabernacles and the Communion in which in the Gift we receive the Giver, are but the foretaste and the pledge of the unchangeable union of eternity, and of that ineffable Possession destined to be the exceeding great reward of all the faithful children of God.

This blissful life of Angels and men, made perfect by charity in the City of God on high, being the END for which we are created, has, on earth, its nearest resemblance in the Church. But inasmuch as the Hebrew people of old were the forerunners of the Christian people, God so ordained it that the Jewish ritual and worship should be a preparation for the Christian liturgy.

Hence, the Mosaic sanctuary, first, and the Temple of Solomon, afterward, were, each in its turn, THE HOUSE OF GOD, in which He dwelt in the midst of His people—having, between the Cherubim of the Ark, His throne, on which He received their adorations, their hymns of praise, and their petitions, as well as His Mercy Seat for granting special favors in dire need.

Thus the Temple, the House of God, was also the house of the nation, who were God's family, just as every family dwelling in Israel was, in God's thought, and in the belief of the people, to be hallowed as God's own house and kept pure from moral evil. Wherefore, holiness in the heavenly as well as in the earthly temple, spotlessness and perfection in the principal sacrificial victims that typified the Lamb of God immaculate; purity in the pontiffs, priests, and inferior Levites who ministered at the altar, and purity also in the people who offered the victims for sacrifice or assisted at its celebration; all these are inseparably connected with the notion of worship; all these form the subject of the various ordinances of Leviticus; and all point most significantly to the far greater moral perfection and far higher purity of heart and hand required of the priests and people of the New Law, when they approach its altar.

THE BOOK OF NUMBERS.—It is so named from the double numbering or census of the Israelites mentioned, the first, in chapters i.-iv., and, the second, in chapter xxvi. It contains, moreover, the history of their wanderings in the desert, from their departure from Sinai till their arrival on the confines of their promised national territory, in the fortieth year of the Exodus. Both the census and the history are interspersed with various ordinances and prescriptions relating to the divine service and the moral purity of the nation.

Among the remarkable incidents which stand out in the narrative are: the sin and punishment of Aaron and his sister Mary (chap. xii.), and their death (chap. xx.); the prophecy of Balaam (chaps. xxii.-xxiv.); and the appointment of Josue as lieutenant to Moses.

THE BOOK OF DEUTERONOMY.—The title comes from a Greek word, meaning "a republication of the Law," because in it

Moses promulgates anew, with extraordinary solemnity, the law delivered on Mount Sinai. The adult people whom he had brought forth from "the house of bondage" had all died in the wilderness in punishment of their repeated sins and forgetfulness of the divine power and goodness shown in their deliverance. Of the "Three Deliverers," Aaron and Mary had been called to their rest; even Moses, because he had once publicly doubted the power of his good God, was not to set foot within the promised land.

The new people, who obeyed Moses as they came within sight of the beautiful country of Palestine, were nearly all born in the wilderness; they had not tasted of the bitterness of Egyptian servitude, nor had they witnessed the terrible display of Jehovah's power at the passage of the Red Sea. It was necessary, therefore, that he who, under God, had been the guide and parent of the nation in the crisis of its fate, should remind his followers of what God had done for them, and explain how truly the law which He gave them was a law of love—that the Covenant of the Most High with Israel was one pregnant with untold blessings to all who would faithfully observe it, while its violation was sure to be visited by the most awful chastisements.

Hence the Book is mainly taken up with the record of three discourses of the great Hebrew Lawgiver, delivered, all of them, in the plains of Moab, on the lofty eastern side of the Jordan, overlooking the Dead Sea. The country itself, the theatre of the most terrible vengeance of the outraged Majesty of Heaven on a favored but deeply sinning race, was eloquent of the suddenness and certainty of the divine retribution. Abraham, the father of the mighty multitude now assembled around Moses, had in his day witnessed the fate of the guilty "cities of the plain" of Jordan. A brackish sea now rolled its sullen waters where they had once stood in their beauty and pride amid all the fairest fruits of earth. Beyond and above toward the north, extended the fertile regions amid which Abraham and Sara had once tarried as pilgrims, and which had been promised as a lasting homestead to their posterity.

How well might Moses, himself about to close his earthy career, urge upon that posterity with all the fervor of a patriot and a parent the duty of being true to the God of Israel, of observing lovingly that Law which distinguished them from all the peoples of the earth, and fidelity to which should ensure them victory over every foe, with all the blessings of uninterrupted peace and prosperity!

1. The first discourse (chaps. i. to iv. 40) vividly recalls the causes for which their immediate ancestors were not allowed to take possession of the national territory. Then follows a most touching and eloquent exhortation to the perfect obedience in which their fathers had been so lamentably deficient. "And now, O Israel, hear the commandments and judgments which I teach thee: that doing them, thou mayst live, and entering in mayst possess the land which the Lord the God of your fathers will give you" (iv. 1).

There is nothing in the Old Testament more impressive or more fruitful in lessons of heroic generosity for parents and children and all who fear God, than these sublime pages, into which the dying Moses seems to have poured his great soul. "Behold, I die in this land (of Moab); I shall not pass over the Jordan: you shall pass and possess the goodly land. Beware lest thou ever forget the covenant of the Lord thy God which He hath made with thee!" iv. 22, 23.

2. The second discourse, beginning with the fifth chapter, is, properly, the solemn and renewed promulgation of the Law. One feels the fire of divine inspiration glowing in every page of these soul-stirring chapters. "Hear, O Israel: the Lord our God is one Lord. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole strength" (vi. 4, 5)! He reminds this singularly privileged people that God's severe dealings with themselves and their parents was the wise love of a father seeking to restrain the waywardness of an unruly child. "He afflicted thee with want, and gave thee manna for [thy] food, which neither thou nor thy fathers knew: to shew that not in bread alone doth man live, but in every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God. Thy raiment, with which thou wast covered, hath not decayed for age, and thy foot is not worn; lo! this is the fortieth year! That thou mayst consider in thy heart, that as a man traineth up his son, so the Lord God hath trained thee up" (viii. 3, 4, 5).

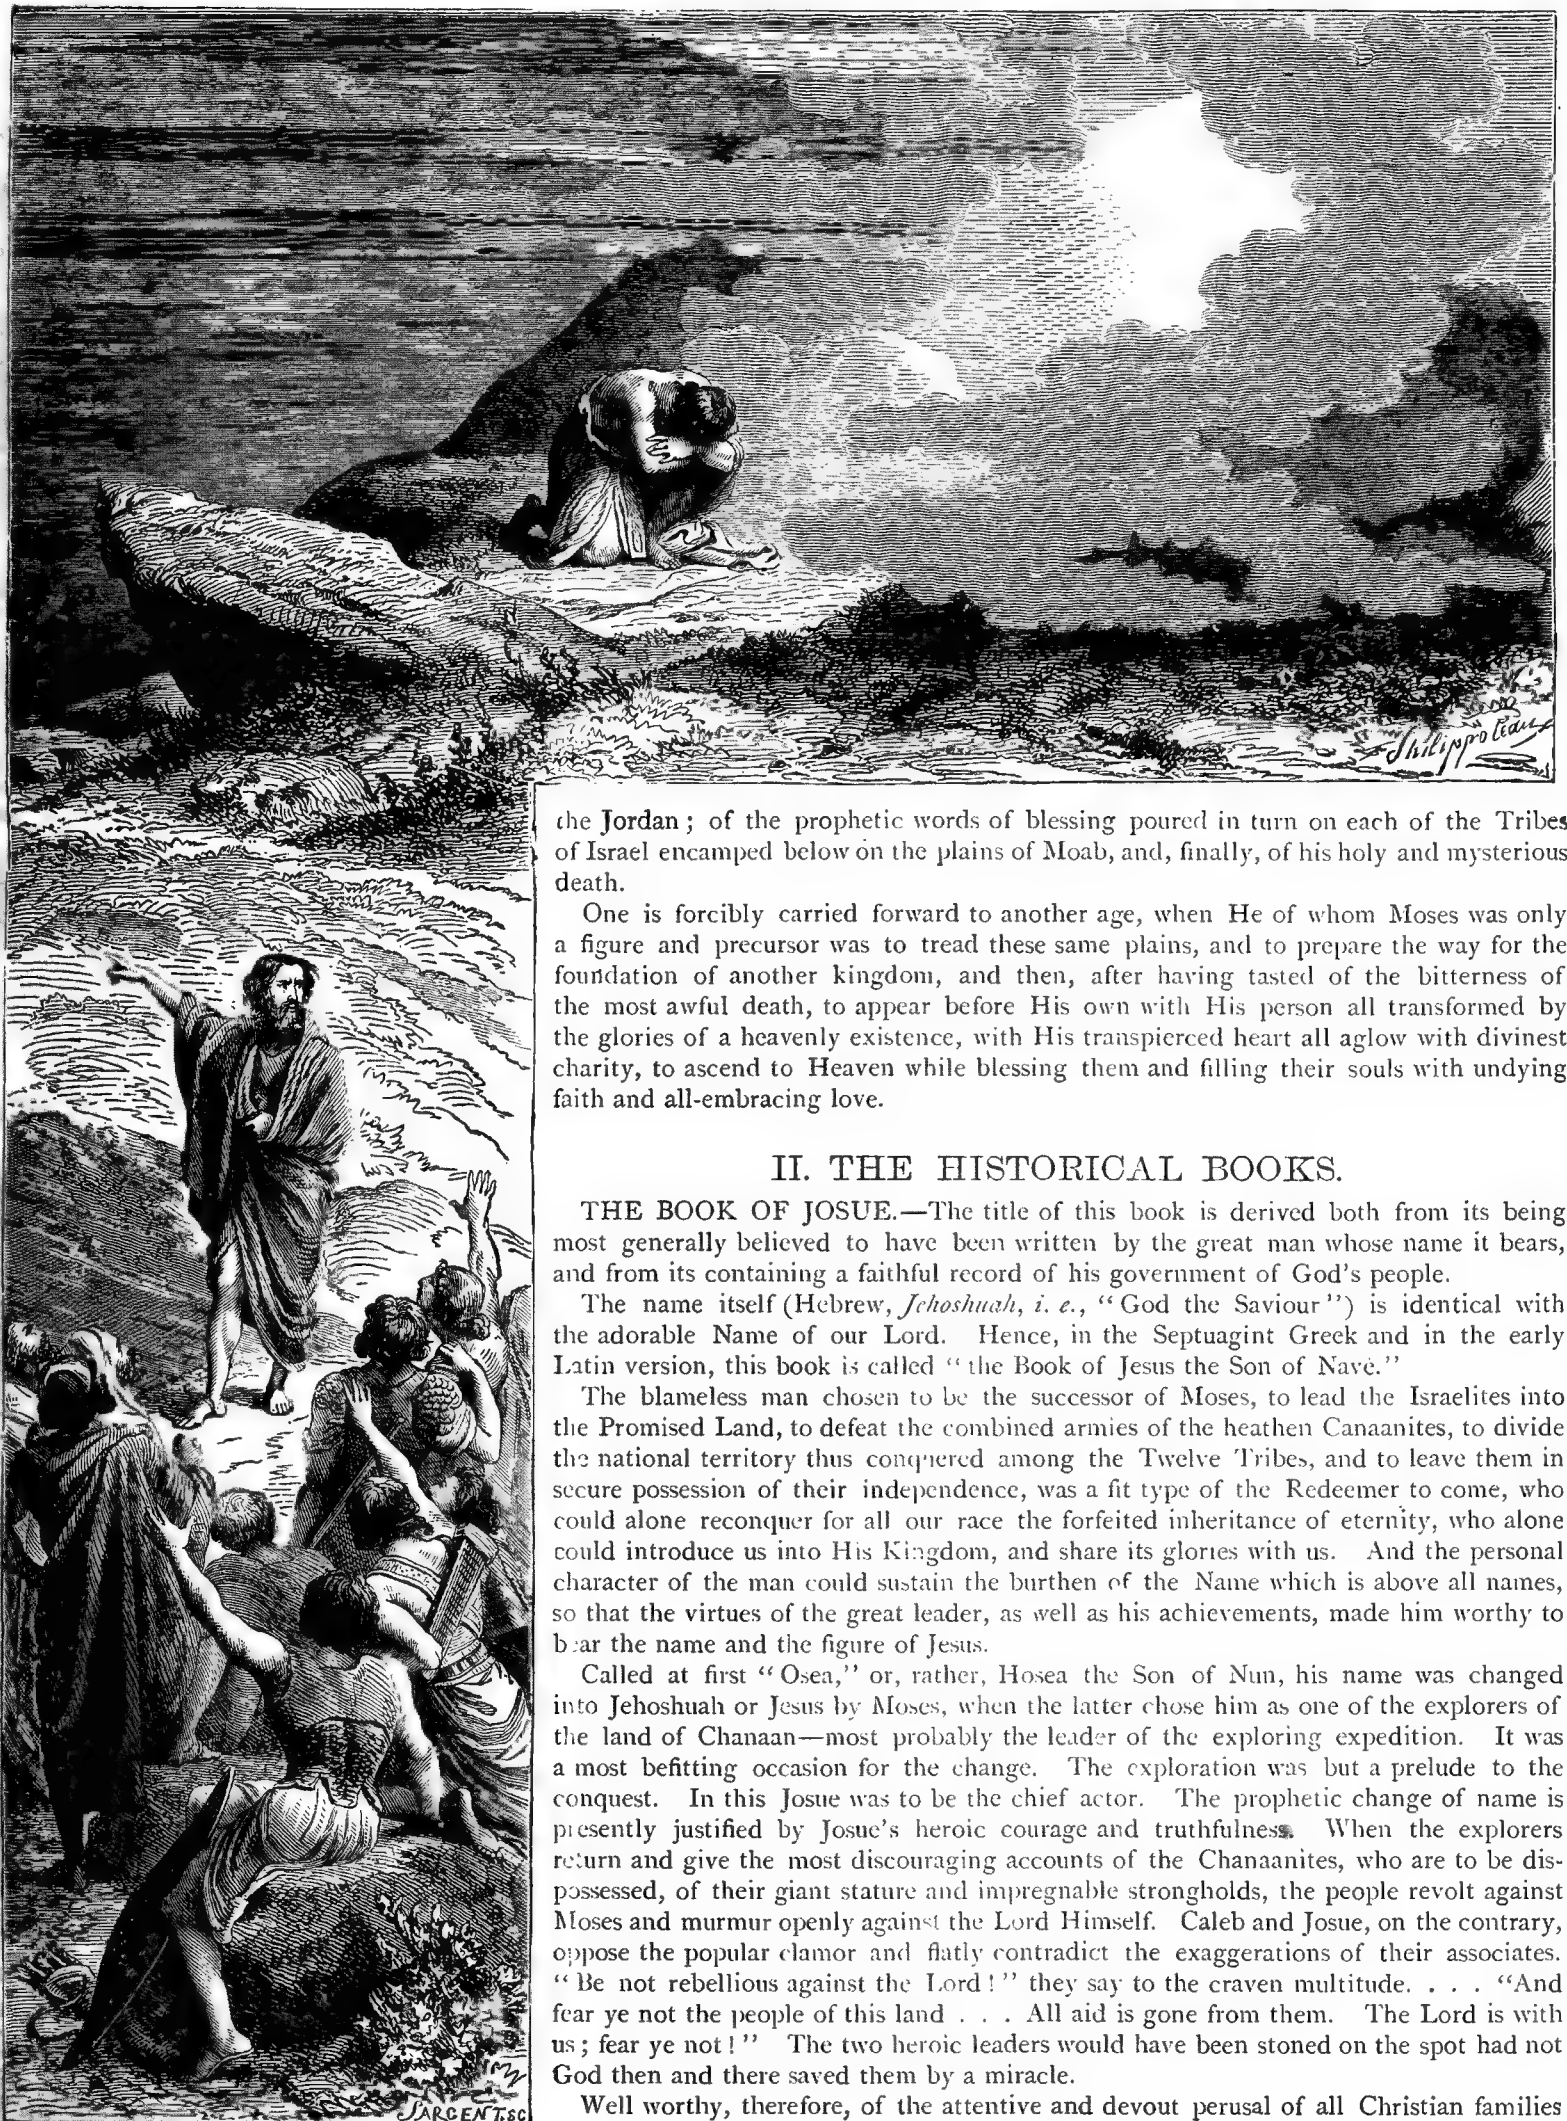

3. The third discourse (chaps. xxvii.—xxx. 20) enjoins on those who are to lead and govern the people after Moses the duty of binding the whole nation, when in possession of the land of Chanaan, to give themselves a solemn sanction to this covenant with God, by the alternate blessings on the obedient observers and curses on the transgressors, to be uttered near the grave of Joseph in the Valley of Sichem. The entire ceremonial to be observed in this memorable national solemnity is minutely detailed by the legislator.

God's grace, vouchsafed abundantly even then to His children in view of the future merits of His incarnate Son, will not fail the subjects of this law. "This commandment that I command thee this day, is not above thee, nor far off from thee. Nor is it in heaven, that thou shouldst say, 'Which of us can go up to heaven to bring it unto us, and we may hear and fulfill it in work?' Nor is it beyond the sea, that thou mayst excuse thyself and say, 'Which of us can cross the sea and bring it unto us, that we may hear and do that which is commanded?' But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth and in thy heart, that thou mayst do it. . . . I call heaven and earth to witness this day, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing. Choose therefore life, that both thou and thy seed may live" (xxx. 11-19)!

There is not a family in which these inspired lessons should not still be repeated by parents to their children. The Spirit of God, who spoke by Moses, is ever near at hand to give efficacy to the dear voice of father or of mother, rehearsing these immortal teachings, and faithfully laboring to bring down on their loved ones the blessings promised by the Almighty Father, and to turn away from their homes the terrible curses sure to follow on the neglect of God and the contempt of His Law.

4. Most beautiful, too, and most touching is what is related in the concluding chapters of the parting of Moses with his people; of the sublime Canticle or hymn which he composed for them, and which is still one of the most triumphant songs of the Christian Church; of his going up to the summit of Mount Nebo to have a first and last look at the Promised Land, where it lay in all its beauty, across the Dead Sea and the Jordan; of the prophetic words of blessing poured in turn on each of the Tribes of Israel encamped below on the plains of Moab, and, finally, of his holy and mysterious death.

One is forcibly carried forward to another age, when He of whom Moses was only a figure and precursor was to tread these same plains, and to prepare the way for the foundation of another kingdom, and then, after having tasted of the bitterness of the most awful death, to appear before His own with His person all transformed by the glories of a heavenly existence, with His transpierced heart all aglow with divinest charity, to ascend to Heaven while blessing them and filling their souls with undying faith and all-embracing love.

II. THE HISTORICAL BOOKS.

THE BOOK OF JOSUE.—The title of this book is derived both from its being most generally believed to have been written by the great man whose name it bears, and from its containing a faithful record of his government of God's people.

The name itself (Hebrew, Jehoshuah, i. e., "God the Saviour") is identical with the adorable Name of our Lord. Hence, in the Septuagint Greek and in the early Latin version, this book is called "the Book of Jesus the Son of Nave."

The blameless man chosen to be the successor of Moses, to lead the Israelites into the Promised Land, to defeat the combined armies of the heathen Canaanites, to divide the national territory thus conquered among the Twelve Tribes, and to leave them in secure possession of their independence, was a fit type of the Redeemer to come, who could alone reconquer for all our race the forfeited inheritance of eternity, who alone could introduce us into His Kingdom, and share its glories with us. And the personal character of the man could sustain the burthen of the Name which is above all names, so that the virtues of the great leader, as well as his achievements, made him worthy to bear the name and the figure of Jesus.

Called at first "Osea," or, rather, Hosea the Son of Nun, his name was changed into Jehoshuah or Jesus by Moses, when the latter chose him as one of the explorers of the land of Chanaan—most probably the leader of the exploring expedition. It was a most befitting occasion for the change. The exploration was but a prelude to the conquest. In this Josue was to be the chief actor. The prophetic change of name is presently justified by Josue's heroic courage and truthfulness. When the explorers return and give the most discouraging accounts of the Chanaanites, who are to be dispossessed, of their giant stature and impregnable strongholds, the people revolt against Moses and murmur openly against the Lord Himself. Caleb and Josue, on the contrary, oppose the popular clamor and flatly contradict the exaggerations of their associates. "Be not rebellious against the Lord!" they say to the craven multitude. . . . "And fear ye not the people of this land . . . All aid is gone from them. The Lord is with us; fear ye not!" The two heroic leaders would have been stoned on the spot had not God then and there saved them by a miracle.

Well worthy, therefore, of the attentive and devout perusal of all Christian families are the inspired pages in which Josue relates how he crossed the Jordan at the head of the embattled Tribes—God's Ark and the priestly bands leading the way, while the waters of Jordan stood still. Then the half-peaceful, half-military processions around the walls of Jericho (chap. vi.); the terrible punishment of the avaricious and hypocritical Achan (vii.); the utter extermination of a people given body and soul to the abominable idolatry of which even modern science is ashamed, and the purification by fire of the very site of the polluted cities; the sublime scene offered in the beautiful vale of Sichem by the victorious Israelites, when they solemnly dedicate themselves to Jehovah (viii.); the miraculous prolongation of daylight to enable Josue to complete his victory over God's enemies:

"Move not, O Sun, toward Gabaon !
Nor thou, O Moon, toward the valley of Ajalon !"

In seven years Josue completed the work of conquest. "And the land rested from the wars." Then the venerable chief of God's people enters upon the more difficult task of allotting to each tribe a portion of the national territory. Here occurs a heroic incident deserving of everlasting remembrance. Caleb demands that Hebron and its territory be allotted to him in fulfillment of a previous promise made by God through Moses, and because the city itself and the mountainous district around it were then the abode of a race of gigantic warriors (Anakim or Enachim), giants not only in stature but in wickedness. He takes on himself and his sons the task of driving out this evil brood, three tribes or families of whom held the place and seemed to render it impregnable. "Give me therefore this mountain, which the Lord promised, in thy hearing also, . . . if so be the Lord be with me. And Josue blessed him and gave him Hebron in possession. And from that time Hebron belonged to Caleb, . . . until this present day: because he followed the Lord the God of Israel."

Josue himself emulated this splendid example of his friend: he asked and received from the nation another of these mountain-strongholds, situated on the confines of the hostile heathen nations who held the sea-coast, the possession of which must oblige his posterity to be perpetually in arms for the defence of their country and their religion.

His last solemn appearance before assembled Israel was in the Vale of Sichem, near the tomb of Joseph, on the spot hallowed so long before by Abraham and Jacob, looked upon not only as the birthplace of the nation but as "the sanctuary of the Lord" (xxiv. 26). To the people over whose welfare he has watched so long and so faithfully the venerable leader, now one hundred and ten years old, delivers a prophetic message from the Most High, rehearsing briefly the History of His own providence over Abraham and his descendants, from the calling of the great patriarch in Chaldæa to the present hour of triumph and blissful security amid their predestined inheritance. Again this most privileged race are challenged by their Divine Benefactor to use their free will. "Now therefore fear the Lord and serve Him with a perfect and most sincere heart . . . But if it seem evil to you to serve the Lord, you have your choice . . .

And the people answered and said: God forbid we should leave the Lord, and serve strange gods!"

"Josue therefore on that day made a covenant, and set before the people commandments and judgments in Sichem. And he wrote all these things in the volume of the law of the Lord: and he took a great stone, and set it under the oak that was in the sanctuary of the Lord" (xxiv. 14-26).

The power to serve the Lord freely or freely to turn their backs on Him, so clearly set forth in this striking passage of Holy Writ, was, as Josue foresaw and foretold, to be time and again most shockingly abused. How often was this same lovely vale to witness the dreadful retribution brought down on Israel by its incurable fickleness and ingratitude, till He whose Name Josue bore and honored by his glorious life came Himself to make another and an everlasting Covenant with mankind! On that same spot, seated, footsore and weary, at noontide by the side of Jacob's well, the Good Shepherd was one day to address to the Samaritan Woman—the type of erring humanity—the creative words that were to renew her soul and to renew the face of the earth as well.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES.—The engraving on page 10 is but too eloquent an illustration of the sad fate of those who, chosen to be God's children and His privileged instruments for good, forget Him, are shorn of all their glory, and become the thralls and playthings of His enemies. Behold one of the Judges of Israel, the mighty Samson, condemned to do the work of a brute beast and grind corn in a mill!

But what and who were the Judges of Israel? They were men raised up from time to time, during a period of about three hundred and forty years, to deliver the recreant Hebrews from the foreign oppression brought on them by their own sins, and to rule the land under the immediate direction of the Most High. Under Moses and Josue, and till the election of Saul, the Hebrew commonwealth was a theocracy, or a republic with God as its real head, and chosen leaders under Him to rule the people and secure the execution of His laws. Of these deliverers and rulers, called Judges, however, only a few are mentioned in Scripture. In ordinary times, and when no foreign yoke weighed on the whole people, they were governed by their tribal princes, elders, and chief-priests.

Thus we see Josue before his death (xxiv. 1) calling together "the ancients, and the princes, and the judges, and the masters." He chose no one to succeed to his office; nor did God appoint any one to be his successor. Of the people, after his death, it is said (Judges ii. 7-14): . . . "They served the Lord all his (Josue's) days, and the days of the ancients that lived a long time after him, and who knew all the works of the Lord, which He had done for Israel . . . And all that generation was gathered to their fathers: and there arose others that knew not the Lord, and the works which He had done for Israel. And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and they served Baalim. . . . And the Lord being angry against Israel, delivered them into the hands of plunderers, who took them and sold them to their enemies that dwelt round about."

The first chapters in the book clearly account for this state of things. Thus, in chap. i., we see the joint efforts made by the neighboring tribes of Juda and Simeon, who held an extreme position in the south, to exterminate or expel the Chanaanites. Each of the two tribes acts as sovereign within its own territory, and invokes the aid of the other as that of a co-sovereign power. They gave no quarter to their foes and made no truce with them.

Not so with the other tribes mentioned in the sequel of the chapter. "The sons of Benjamin did not destroy the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem." "Manasses also . . . And the Chanaanites began to dwell with them." So with the other tribes on both sides of the Jordan. Even in Egypt the seductions of idolatry amid the splendors of a superior civilization had been too much for the early Hebrews, the immediate progeny of the twelve patriarchs. It required the hardships of slavery and all the wrongs of the most pitiless oppression to make the poor victims hate the gods as well as the persons of their oppressors.

But in the enchanted land of Palestine, with its lovely climate and its teeming soil, there were in the pleasant lives of the heathen population a thousand things capable of turning the brain and perverting the heart. God had made there the earth a paradise; and God's capital Enemy, the Devil, had turned it into a scene of perpetual riotousness and debauchery.

The bitter waters of the Dead Sea only covered up a few of the more guilty cities: others not less sinning against God and nature flaunted their iniquity all over the land. Even modern scholars do not dare to fathom the dark depths of this idolatry, or care to reveal the hateful mysteries of what they have fathomed. No wonder that He who is the Creator of man, and the lover of the soul and its purity, should have decreed the extermination of this gigantic wickedness and forbidden all intercourse with neighbors whose very breath was contamination.

Of the thirteen Judges whose names are mentioned in this book, the record is as follows: Othniel, a younger brother of the great Caleb, chap. iii. 7-11; Aod and Samgar, iii. 12-31; Debbora and Barac, iv. and v.; Gedeon, vi. -ix; Abimelech, son of Gedeon, ix.; Thola and Jair, x. 1-5; Jephthe, x. 6-18; xii. 7; Abesan, Ahialon, and Abdon, xii. 8-15; finally, Samson, xiii. -xvi.

The remaining five chapters are a fearful story of the degeneracy of the tribe of Dan—the open practice of idolatry under the cover of the name of the true God beginning with one house and then adopted by the whole tribe; fast upon the heels of this apostasy comes a terrible outrage committed by the inhabitants of one Benjamite city, Gabaa, of which the entire tribe of Benjamin assume the responsibility, and which leads to a war of extermination waged against the offenders by the other tribes.

Some portions of this record of three centuries and a half are deserving of a close study. The deliverance wrought by Debbora, and the glorious hymn in which she pours forth her feelings of thanksgiving and triumph, recall the dark days of Egyptian servitude and the heroic part played by Mary, the sister and saviour of Moses. Then we come upon Gedeon and his chosen band of warriors—men who could refuse to drink even their fill of water from the brook; examples of heroic temperance in an age when unbridled sensuality reigned supreme over their own countrymen; men worthy to achieve the liberation of their people from the twofold slavery of vice and idol-worship; what a lesson for all future time!

More forcible still is the lesson taught by Samson in his incomparable strength and resistless prowess while faithful to his Nazarite vows and observant of the divine law, as well as by the extremity of his weakness when yielding to pleasure and preferring self-indulgence to the heroic abstemiousness and unwearying zeal demanded of God's representative and the champion of Israel. The lively image of Christ who fought single-handed the battle of our salvation and triumphed by his infinite self-abasement over Lucifer and all the hosts of pride—Samson, by his single arm, defeated the embattled Philistines, and, blind and degraded, brought down destruction on his oppressors, triumphing in death over the enemies of his God and of his people.

"Samson hath quit himself
Like Samson, and heroically hath finished
A life heroic, . . .

To Israel
Honor hath left and freedom, . . .
To himself and father's house eternal fame;
And, which is best and happiest yet, all this
With God not parted from him, as was feared,
But favoring and assisting to the end."

THE BOOK OF RUTH.—This book, received as canonical, by both Jews and Christians, formed, in early times, a portion of or an appendix to the preceding book of the Judges. The Talmud ascribes its authorship to Samuel. The Septuagint makes it a separate book; and in this, as well as in placing the Book of Ruth between Judges and the four Books of Kings, the Latin Vulgate and the English Version have followed the Septuagint.

It tells with exquisite and most touching simplicity the story of a young Moabite woman, the widow of a Jewish exile, who will not forsake her poor mother-in-law, Noemi, when the latter, having lost everything and every one dear to her, sets out on her return to her native city of Bethlehem. Ruth's devotion to her forlorn parent not only leads her to forsake country, relatives, and friends for Noemi's sake, but to support the latter by such labor as the very poorest had recourse to in an agricultural country. This heroic devotion, as well as the young woman's native grace and modesty, win the respect of Booz, a rich kinsman of her deceased husband's, who marries her.

From this auspicious union springs Obed, the father of Jesse, and the ancestor of King David and of the Redeemer Himself. Thus the purpose of the author was to point out clearly the genealogy of the Prophet-King and the descent from him of Mary and her Divine Babe. The Holy Spirit also intended to show how tenderly Providence watches over the souls of those who put their whole trust in Him, and give up for Him all earthly affections and possessions. The Holy Fathers have seen in Ruth the figure of the Church of the Gentiles whose heart was solely set upon faith and hope in Jesus, the blessed fruit of life and salvation borne by the stem of Jesse.

Moreover, the book itself is a sweet picture of rural home-life among the people of God. Our hearts, while reading it, are deeply touched by Noemi's yearning for Bethlehem, her native spot; for the religious atmosphere of her early home, and the companionship of her own kindred; by the single-mindedness of Ruth, her self-sacrificing attachment to her poor, lone kinswoman; her generous determination to support the latter by her own toil, and the docility, simplicity, and modesty which characterize her whole conduct in the most difficult and delicate circumstances; and by the manly piety and conscientious uprightness of Booz.

It is a lovely page of Holy Writ, full of precious teaching, from parents to children, when the former have applied both mind and heart to glean the precious ears of truth from a field that has given abundant harvest of edification to Jews and Christians for thousands of years. (See also the story of Ruth and Noemi in HEROIC WOMEN OF THE BIBLE AND THE CHURCH, chap. x. p. 103.)

THE FOUR BOOKS OF KINGS.—This portion of the historical books of the Old Testament is so called, because it describes the rise of the kingly dignity in the person of Saul, and gives the history of all those who ruled as kings over God's people both while Israel formed one kingdom and after its division into two. In the Hebrew text the two first Books of Kings formed but one and was called the Book of Samuel, the third and fourth also forming one single volume called the Book of Kings or Kingdoms. In the Septuagint Greek all four were designated as the Books of Kings or Kingdoms; and this was adopted by the early Latin translators and is followed in the Vulgate—Protestants affecting and preferring in this as in other things to follow the Hebrew text and the Jewish authorities.

The first book contains the history of Samuel down to his death, in the beginning of chap. xxv. Hence the first twenty-four chapters are generally attributed to him; and as he had anointed both Saul and David to be kings over Israel, these two first books, which narrate the history of their reigns, may seem a continuation of the record begun by Samuel. The continuators are thought to be the Prophets Nathan and Gad, as one may gather from 1 PARALIPOMENON xxix. 29: "Now the acts of King David, first and last, are written in the book of Samuel the Seer, and in the book of Nathan the Prophet, and in the book of Gad the Seer."

FIRST AND SECOND KINGS.—As we travel down the road of history from the days of Samson and the other Judges, we come upon the grand figure of Samuel, one which arrests our attention and challenges our admiration equally with the sublime personages of Josue and Moses. Samson died gloriously, and by his heroic death expiated the sad weaknesses which marred his career and prevented him from effecting the complete independence of his people and reigning in undisputed power over a united and regenerated Israel.

There are no such weaknesses to dim the lustre of Samuel's saintly life. His birth is a boon granted to the prayers and tears of his pious mother, Anna. By her he is consecrated to God from the first instant of his existence, and placed from childhood in the sanctuary as a thing that exclusively belongs to the Most High and Most Holy. Even at that tender age, he is the privileged organ of the divine Will toward the aged and over-indulgent High Priest Heli, announcing to him, who was both the secular and religious head of the nation, the terrible judgments brought down on Israel by his sacrilegious and tyrannical sons.

There is no break in the beautiful life thus begun in the sanctuary. The soul nurtured and kept pure by the deep spirit of prayer, increases constantly in strength and holiness, till we find Samuel, now arrived at the age of manhood, delivering to guilty and oppressed Israel solemn exhortation couched almost in the last words of Josue: "If you turn to the Lord with all your heart, put away the strange gods from among you, Baalim and Astaroth; and prepare your hearts unto the Lord and serve Him only, and He will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines" (1 vii. 3). Would you know the secret of that resistless energy with which the Son of Anna thenceforward to his dying day sought to promote the cause of God and the cause of His people? Listen to the adjuration which the Israelites in their despair, and surrounded by their cruel foes, address to Samuel: "Cease not to cry to the Lord our God for us, that He may save us out of the hand of the Philistines! . . . And Samuel cried to the Lord for Israel, and the Lord heard him." Then comes the great victory for Israel on the spot made memorable by former disastrous defeat; and there too a monument is set up called Eben-ezer or "The House of Help."

The man of prayer, of good counsel, and unsleeping energy, thus goes on from victory to victory: "And the hand of the Lord was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel."

It is most touching to read of the humility of this illustrious man, who, when his people reject him and demand a king to rule over them, submits like a little child to the divine will, anoints Saul for the kingly office, without ever ceasing to direct and counsel him, or to guide both prince and people in the faithful observance of the law of God. "Far from me be this sin against the Lord, that I should cease to pray for you; and I will teach you the good and right way. Therefore fear the Lord, and serve Him in truth and with your whole heart . . . But if you will still do wickedly, both you and your king shall perish together" (xii. 23-25).

Alas, both king and people do forget the "great works" done among them by their Divine Benefactor, and forget, as well, the fatherly counsels of Samuel, and go on from bad to worse till Saul and Jonathan and the strength of Israel go down together in one common ruin on the red field of Gilboe!

David, who had been anointed king in the life-time of Saul, does indeed profit by the terrible examples of the divine justice, bringing on himself and his people blessings in proportion with his fidelity. Most gifted himself—poet, musician, brave warrior and wise statesman, fitted by all these gifts to shine in peace as well as in war—David makes of Israel a united, prosperous, and mighty nation.

But he too forgets God in the intoxication of prosperity and power; he sins, sacrificing to the gross sensuality prevailing in the nations round about, and brings on his house, his people, and himself the terrible retribution which never fails to overtake the man who is placed on high to shine by his great virtues, and whose dark deeds are an incitement to evil in those beneath him.

But David, when guilty and visited with punishment for his guilt, differed from Saul in this: that, whereas the latter's proud self-will refused to bend beneath the chastising hand, or to confess his sin and make atonement for it, David put on sackcloth and ashes, invoked the spirit of repentance, sent up to the God of his heart continual cries for forgiveness, and watered his couch by night with the bitter tears wrung from him by his grief. David was a man after God's own heart, because, even in his fall, he forgot not the God of his youth; and the sense of his guilt only made him seek to serve the Divine Majesty with tenfold fervor and increased humility. Saul, guilty, turned his back on God and sought from demons the knowledge of his own future and of the fortunes of his house. David, guilty, prostrated himself in the dust and sent up his heart-cries to heaven for mercy on his people and on himself. "The Lord is my Rock, and my strength, and my Saviour; God is my strong One: in Him will I trust: my shield and the horn of my salvation. He lifteth me up and (is) my refuge: my Saviour! And thou wilt deliver me from iniquity" (2 Kings xxii. 2, 3).

THIRD AND FOURTH BOOKS OF KINGS.—More terrible even than the end of Saul is that of the wise and magnificent Solomon, David's son. God lavished on this prince the rarest gifts of mind and heart, together with the undisputed possession of his father's kingdom. To him whose reign was "established in peace," and who was the illustrious figure of the Prince of Peace, Christ, it was given to build the first glorious temple ever erected for the worship of the one true God. His reign forms a central point toward which all preceding events in Sacred History seemed to tend, and whose surpassing glories were to be reflected downward on succeeding ages till He appeared who was to fulfill all promises in His person, and to eclipse all glories in the divine achievements of His humility and His charity. And yet the student of the Bible is filled only with sadness, and something like discouragement, in seeing this most wise prince become the most besotted and depraved of sensualists—an object of contempt and loathing to all true manhood, while the early piety which impelled him to build the most magnificent of temples to the God of his fathers is forgotten in the disgusting and insatiable appetite for pleasure, which with pagan wives brings into the City of David the fearful scandal of the idol-worship of the Egyptians and Chanaanites.

To this most foolish and most guilty king succeeds a son who inherits some of his father's worst vices without any of his great qualities. And then the curse of Heaven falls on Israel in the form of irremediable political division. Ten of the Twelve Tribes fall away from Roboam, and constitute an independent kingdom which is to have gods of its own. Thus, divided, Israel—divided in religious belief and political allegiance—goes on, reign after reign, with the consuming cancer of idolatry, and of the fearful immorality it begets, fastened on the majority of the nation, while the minority in the southern kingdom are ruled by a few good princes, whose reforms and examples are neutralized by the pagan vices of their successors. At length both kingdoms are blotted out and their people scattered abroad in captivity.

We see, during the period covered by these two last books—427 or 405 years—we see a people of brothers, instead of remaining united in the one religious faith and under one strong government, forming two rival and hostile nationalities, each of which, when the other prevails, calls in the aid of the stranger and the heathen to help restore the balance. A fatal mistake against sound policy—that is, against the laws of nature. But amid the gloom and the guilt of that long period grand figures loom up: the men of God, the prophets commissioned to keep alive the true faith among populations given over to doubt, to ignorance, to idolatry, and manifold corruption; or sent to save the national life from utter extinction: Elias, and Elisæus, and Jeremias, who wrote these same two last books of Kings, what names and what undying glory are theirs! No less illustrious and combining with the prophetic gifts of the others the glory of being, like Jeremias, an historical writer, Isaias has, moreover, the honor of being numbered among the martyrs of the Old Testament. But although living under several of the princes whose reigns are chronicled in the Books of Kings, this great Prophet-Martyr's name is not mentioned therein.

PARALIPOMENON OR CHRONICLES.—The original Hebrew title of these two books literally means “daily records,” because they contain the substance of journals kept by the official annalists of the two kingdoms of Juda and Israel. In the Septuagint they are called “The First and Second Book of Paralipomenon,” or of things overlooked in the Books of Kings. The books of Paralipomenon are therefore supplementary to the preceding historical works of the Bible. The title “Chronicles,” adopted in the Protestant version, was suggested by St. Jerome. The books themselves are considered to be the work of Esdras, the restorer of the temple and of Jewish worship after the captivity. He evidently made use of documents prepared by others and dating from previous times.

One of his main objects, if not his chief purpose, seems to have been to place on record a series of genealogies which might assist the rulers of the restored remnants of tribes toward giving to each Jewish family the inheritance of its fathers, as allotted under Josue. As, moreover, the perfect regulation of divine worship in the Temple was in his eyes and those of the nation a matter of the most practical importance, he drew up also genealogies of the priestly and levitic families, so that they might perform their functions in the order and with the regularity prescribed under David and Solomon. These families had to live on the tithes and offerings given them while discharging their sacred functions, each in their turn, in Jerusalem. It thus became imperative to have a public and authentic list of these families and their numbers, so as to secure perfect regularity and discipline in the successive bands of priests and levites called to minister in the sanctuary. This Esdras did, as may be seen in the books themselves.

As to the purely historical portion of the books, it contains what is the very heart of the national life—the detailed story of David's glorious reign, the great promise and performance of Solomon's youth, together with the incredible splendor and luxury that were to be his bane. Of his licentiousness and open encouragement of idolatry within his own capital and household, there is no mention here. The writer refers us back on this subject to the Second Book of Kings. The inspired Chronicler, however, is careful to describe Solomon's stolid and vicious son in such a way, that we are forced to behold in this precocious despot's conduct the natural result of the paternal training and examples.

Roboam had for mother an Ammonite princess, one of those women which God had so often and so solemnly forbidden his people to connect with themselves by marriage. What the influence of this idolatrous woman over the perverted and prematurely old monarch (he died at sixty) may have been, we know not from authentic history. The mere fact that her son became Solomon's successor allows us to suppose that she ruled supreme over the silly, pleasure-seeking king. Her son, as well as "the young men . . . brought up with him in pleasures," and his evil counselors from the beginning of his reign, had not more of faith than he had of kingly prudence. Even after the disruption of his kingdom, he refuses to profit by the terrible prophetic lessons delivered to Jeroboam during Solomon's lifetime (3 Kings xi. 29). "When the kingdom of Roboam was strengthened and fortified, he forsook the law of the Lord, and all Israel with him." And what is the consequence? "In the fifth year of the reign of Roboam, Sesac king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem (because they had sinned against the Lord)." . . . There is terror and a show of that kind of repentance which is begotten of mortal fear. "The Lord is just!" both prince and people exclaim in their extremity. But the Lord, who is ever more merciful than just, will not allow the Egyptian to exterminate the guilty ones. They become vassals and tributaries of their old-time foes and oppressors. "So Sesac king of Egypt departed from Jerusalem, taking away the treasures of the house of the Lord, and of the king's house" (2 Paral. ii. 9).

The gold with which Solomon had so magnificently enriched the Sanctuary had been, every bit of it, the gift of David, the fruit of his conquests and pious economies. The lavish profusion of gold and silver with which Solomon had adorned and enriched his own palaces and harems, had been ground out of his impoverished and over-taxed people. All is now swept into the coffers of the Egyptian! Brass replaced gold in the temple as well as in the palace. But the faith, the love, the heart service which Jehovah solely prized, and which would have made Roboam and his people invincible against every enemy, neither the king nor his subjects thought of bringing to the house of God or to their own homes. "He did evil, and did not prepare his heart to seek the Lord!" But "even in Juda there were found good works;" and so God will keep to the promise made through Ahias (3 Kings xi. 36), "that there may remain a lamp for My servant David before Me always in Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen, that My Name might be there."

And so, through the gloom of the long succeeding centuries, this "lamp," the steady light of the Promise, shall continue to cheer faithful hearts both in Jerusalem and amid the sorrows and despair of exile, till our Day Star, our "Orient from on high," shines out above the hill-tops of Bethlehem.

THE FIRST BOOK OF ESDRAS.—Esdra, the author of this book, as well as the probable author of the preceding Chronicles, is justly revered as the second parent of the Hebrew nation. But before we speak of his personal merit or of his deeds, let us give one glance at the last chapter of Paralipomenon.

Here we have King Eliakim or Joakim placed on the throne of Jerusalem by the Egyptian conqueror who has deposed Joachaz. "Joakim was five and twenty years old," the sacred historian says, "when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; and he did evil before the Lord his God. Against him came up Nabuchodonosor King of the Chaldeans, and led him bound in chains to Babylon."

On the throne of this unworthy prince is placed his son of nearly the same name. "Joachin was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem, and he did evil in the sight of the Lord. And, at the return of the year, King Nabuchodonosor sent and brought him to Bābylon." Sedecias, an uncle of this boy-king, and brother to the two deposed and exiled monarchs, now succeeds to this precarious sceptre. "Sedecias was one and twenty years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. And he did evil in the sight of the Lord his God, and did not reverence the face of Jeremiah the Prophet speaking to him from the mouth of the Lord. . . . And he hardened his neck and his heart from returning to the Lord the God of Israel."

In the footsteps of this wicked prince walk the leading men or priests and people. Their patient God vainly warns them of the coming evils. "But they mocked the messengers of God, . . . until the wrath of the Lord arose against His people. For he brought upon them the King of the Chaldeans." . . . City, temple, everything strong and fair, all is swept from the face of the earth by the Babylonian conqueror, and the miserable remnants of Juda are driven away into captivity. Is it not terrible? and is not such blindness, such perseverance in evil, a something so incredible that one is staggered by the recital of such monstrous perverseness?

With regard to the Book of Esdras itself, it is, manifestly, a continuation of the preceding book of annals or chronicles. Cyrus the Great is moved to restore the Temple of Jerusalem and to revive thereby the Hebrew nationality. In captivity such holy priests as Esdras and Nehemias, and such prophets as Jeremias and Daniel, had shed on the Hebrew name and religion such extraordinary splendor, that the great and right-minded Cyrus was drawn toward the true faith and toward a people whose supernatural virtues formed such a contrast with the surrounding corruption of heathendom. So, both priests and people had been chastened by the terrible trials of exile and bondage! And God would once more gather together His scattered ones! There is an accurate list of the exiles whom Cyrus permitted to accompany Zorobabel and Esdras on their touching patriotic mission. And what pregnant lessons for the most generous souls aspiring to build up anew the ruins of country and home are found in these monumental pages! How the story of patriotic self-sacrifice and religious faith belonging to these far-off times and countries apply literally to this our nineteenth century and the long-cherished aspirations of more than one struggling people! It would be so profitable to parents themselves in every Christian family to study, with their whole mind and heart, this and the following book, and then hold up to their dear ones the golden lessons gleaned from such attentive perusal!

THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAS, OR THE SECOND OF ES-DRAS.—When Esdras had succeeded in building up the Temple and in restoring and reforming the remnants of his people, he returned to Mesopotamia to report on his accomplished mission. Alas, it required the eloquent voice, the strong hand, and conciliatory temper of the truest of priests and wisest of statesmen to keep the fickle people to their resolutions. Such of the Hebrews as had been living in Judæa before the arrival of Esdras and his colony of exiles had either become as heathenish and corrupt as the neighboring Chanaanites, or had made of the little religion they retained a mixture of idolatrous practices and Hebrew superstitions. They were, at best, but poor auxiliaries to Esdras and his zealous band of restorers. But what shall we say of the non-Hebrew populations, the old enemies of God and of his people? They used every exertion and every artifice to prevent the restoration of Jerusalem and the rebuilding of the Temple. When force and fraud failed, they tried on the faithful Israelites the old fascination of their idolatrous customs, of their licentious celebrations, and pompous pagan festivals. And they succeeded.

Nehemias had to return with Esdras to Jerusalem to begin anew this unfinished labor of social and religious reform and material reconstruction. The story grows in interest from chapter to chapter, as the two great men, brother priests laboring together with one mind and one heart, rekindle by voice and example the faith and zeal of their fellow-countrymen. They proclaim the Law anew, and induce the people to celebrate with extraordinary fervor and solemnity the Feast of Tabernacles (2 Esdras viii. and ix.) With one voice priests, princes, and people confess God's infinite goodness in their behalf and their own inconceivable ingratitude. "Our kings, our princes, our priests, and our fathers have not kept Thy law . . . And they have not served Thee in their kingdoms, and in Thy manifold goodness, . . . and in the large and fat (wide and fruitful) land which Thou deliveredst before them . . . Behold, we ourselves this day are bondmen: and the land, which Thou gavest our fathers, . . . we ourselves are servants in it! . . . And because of all this we ourselves make a covenant, and write it, and our princes, our Levites, and our priests sign it" (Ibid. ix. 34-38).

THE BOOK OF TOBIAS.—We have, in the saintly man after whom this book is called, another illustrious instance of the living faith and heroic virtue displayed in exile by so many of God's people. No book in the Old Testament affords such touching examples of filial piety, domestic simplicity and purity, and that unflinching devotion to one's brethren in their darkest days of suffering and oppression. The virtues which shine forth in the life and home of Tobias are those which must be eternally the very soul of domestic happiness and public welfare. The morality of the whole book is a most beautiful commentary on the law of life delivered through Moses; a splendid mirror in which even Christians may see what they ought to be and are not, as compared with the saintly men and women of twenty-six hundred years ago.

Tobias was born in Cades (Kedesh)-Nephtali, in the northern part of Galilee. It was the native city of Barac, in which Debbora had organized the little army that was to prove victorious over the proud hosts of Jabin and Sisara. From time immemorial the place was a famous stronghold, one of the "cities of refuge" established by Josue. Near it Jonathan the Machabee fought against the treacherous generals of Demetrius, changing a disastrous defeat into a glorious victory. Beneath its very walls was shown the spot where the stout-hearted Jael completed Debbora's triumph by slaying with her own hand the cruel Sisara.

Tobias, nurtured in this eagles' nest, displayed from earliest boyhood qualities far superior to those of the soldier and conqueror. He learned even when a child in years, to do "no childish thing in his work," and when his fellow-countrymen and townsmen "all went to the golden calves" of Jeroboam in Samaria, "he alone fled the company of all, and went to Jerusalem to the temple of the Lord." He appears to have been a wealthy youth who delighted in devoting generously his wealth to the support of the true religion. What he had been in childhood and youth he continued to be in manhood and all through life. "He took to wife Anna of his own tribe, and had a son by her whom he called after his own name; and from his infancy he taught him to fear God and to abstain from all sin." Carried with his wife and child into captivity by Salmanasar (Shalman-Ezor) IV., King of Assyria, Tobias shone so pre-eminently above his fellow-captives and the Assyrian nobles and courtiers at Niniveh that he attracted the notice and won the favor of the monarch himself, and was by him loaded with honor and wealth. For in the midst of this idolatrous and sensual race, when his Hebrew fellow-captives shared in the forbidden rites and pleasures of their captors, Tobias "kept his soul and never was defiled," being ever "mindful of the Lord with all his heart."

The book, from the first chapter to the end, reads like a glorious epic in praise of exalted piety and patriotism. Two kindred families, bound still more closely together by the same deep, practical faith, are the principal personages, while evil spirits and God's own archangel display respectively their baneful influences and healing power. What a picture is that household in the mighty Niniveh, in which the now poor and sightless Tobias is made the butt of his wife's unfeeling sarcasm and headlong temper! He had risked and spent everything on his persecuted countrymen; and now as he sits at home, blind and destitute of all earthly comfort, a woman's foolish tongue ceases not to lash him. "Where is thy hope, for which thou gavest alms, and buriedst the dead?" It was in vain that he replied, "We are the children of the saints, and look to that life which God will give to those that never change their faith from Him." The pitiless tongue ceased not for all that to scourge him with the reproof: "It is evident thy hope is come to nothing, and thy alms now appear!" And the poor, helpless sufferer, seeing no further aim in life, would lift his soul to God on high: "Thou art just, O Lord, and all Thy ways mercy and truth and judgment! . . . Command my spirit to be received in peace; for it is better for me to die than to live."

At the same hour, in the city of Northern Ecbatane, a dear friend and kinsman of Tobias, Raguel by name, was suffering deep affliction in the person of his only child, Sara. This man was both virtuous and wealthy. But, through some mysterious dispensation of Providence, evil spirits were allowed to persecute him and his. Every one who had till then sought the hand of his innocent and pious daughter had fallen a victim to the Evil One. This drew suspicion on Sara, so much so, indeed, that even her servant maid openly and bitterly taunted her with being a murderess. Prostrate before the Divine Majesty in the privacy of her own chamber, the distressed girl was sending up her heart-cry for help: "I beg, O Lord, that Thou loose me from the bond of this reproach, or else take me away from the earth." But Northern Ecbatane (the capital of Cyrus) is on the road to Rages (the modern Rhey, a few miles southeast of Teheran); and in this last city lived one of Tobias' tribesmen, Gabelus, to whom in the days of his great prosperity the former had lent a large sum of money. This sum, before dying and in the interest both of his wife and of his son, Tobias is now anxious to recover. And here comes in the sweet and loving providence of the Father. The succor needed by the two suffering families will not be delayed. Then is told the marvelous story of the Archangel Raphael's undertaking to guide the younger Tobias all the way to the distant home of his kinsman, where God was keeping in store for him the spotless soul of a true woman as well as part of the riches which were to raise his aged parents once more to affluence. To his father also the angelic guide, on their joyful return to Niniveh, restores the sight so long lost. How magnificent is the hymn of prophetic praise and exultation which goes up from this tried and grateful soul! "I and my soul will rejoice in Him. Bless ye the Lord all His elect; keep days of joy, and give glory to Him. Jerusalem, city of God, the Lord hath chastised thee for the works of thy hands. Give glory to the Lord for thy good things, and bless the God eternal; that He may rebuild His tabernacle in thee, and call back thy captives to thee, and thou mayst rejoice for ever and ever!"

THE BOOK OF JUDITH.—Here is another thrilling page of sacred history taken from the annals of that same epoch of partial restoration from captivity and exile. Moses had been saved from the waters of the Nile by the watchful love of his sister, Mary, who also continued to be the angel of his life in the court of Pharaoh, and till her great brother could openly choose between the service of the Egyptian oppressor and that of his own oppressed kinsmen. With him, when sent on his divine mission of liberation, was associated Mary, who thus deserved the name of Deliverer. Then came Debbora and Jael to work out the freedom of Israel during the period of the Judges; and now Judith stands forth to deliver the restored tribes from the threatened renewal of their subjugation and expulsion from their native land. No mere analysis of the story can give the reader a truthful idea of the condition of things in Palestine or of the desperate extremities from which a woman's inspired heroism freed her country and people. Even those who see in Judith's artifice a something exceedingly like criminal fraud, must remember that Sacred History records more than one deed of the most illustrious personages which the historian does not pretend to excuse or justify. But, to one who calmly considers the circumstances of the age and country—the brutal lust for conquest and plunder which animated the Nabuchodonosors and Holophernes of these pagan times—there can occur no valid reason for refusing to Judith the glorious praise due to a woman, who devotes her own life and imperils her honor in order to save the honor of her countrywomen and the independence of her own nation, then struggling to confirm its long-lost and scarcely recovered freedom. (See the Author's reasoning on this subject in HEROIC WOMEN OF THE BIBLE AND THE CHURCH, chap. xvii. pp. 180-81.)

THE BOOK OF ESTHER.—Just as the God, who watched so lovingly over the destinies of that race which was to give to the world Christ and His Apostles, showed again and again how easily and surely He could employ the hand of a single man to work out the salvation of an entire people, even so does He use again and again a weak and timid woman as His instrument, in order to render still more irresistible the demonstration of His almighty Power. Modern scholars judge it probable, that the Assuerus who raised Esther to the throne, was no other than the blindly proud and blundering Xerxes who attempted, at the head of the united armies and fleets of all Western Asia, to conquer and subjugate the little republics of Greece. The indescribable splendor and magnificence of this royal despot forms a kind of background for the picture of Esther's loveliness and piety, of the utter helplessness of her Hebrew fellow-exiles, and of the implacable animosity existing between them and their old Amalekite foes. The book, although affording us but a glimpse of that fairy-like luxury and incredible servility prevailing in these great eastern capitals, enables us, nevertheless, to see the fearful extent of the corruption from which God wished to preserve His people, by keeping them from intimate communication with their heathen neighbors, and binding them to his own service by inviolable fidelity within their own national territory.

Their existence as a free people in Palestine was to be the consequence of this fidelity to the law of Jehovah. His overshadowing protection secured them from disaster, defeat, and subjugation, so long as they served Him with their whole heart. And in their exile among the nations, while they were taking to heart the bitter lessons of experience, He ever showed Himself ready and prompt to assist them and to protect them from utter extinction, when the cry of their heart went up to Him.

Aman, the all-powerful favorite of Assuerus, has taken every means to annihilate the scattered remnants of the Hebrew race by one fell blow, and throughout the vast Persian empire. The young Hebrew Empress knows, as well as her uncle and foster-father, Mardochæus, that the hand of God alone can arrest the blow about to fall, and that united prayer to Him can make Him stretch forth His arm to save the innocent and strike down the guilty aggressor. Trusting in the intervention of that Power and Goodness which will have us entreat it in our direst need, Esther employs meanwhile all the means which human prudence suggests to enlighten the Emperor on his favorite's character and designs. Woman's wit comes to the aid of woman's loveliness and patriotism; iniquity falls into the net it had itself spread for the guiltless, and cruelty perishes by its own devices. These are pages to be read again and again, as one reads the most enchanting tale of eastern romance. For here no romance can come up to the reality.

FIRST AND SECOND MACHABEES.—The two books bearing this title contain the history of a heroic family of priests who conquered the national independence under the Greek kings of Syria, and were also the successful champions of religious liberty. The surname of "Machabee," first borne by Judas, son of the priest Mathathias, arose, according to some, from a Hebrew word signifying "hammer"—both the father and his sons having been in the hand of God a hammer for shattering the might of their oppressors. Others, on the contrary, derive the appellation from the initial letters of the Hebrew sentence in Exodus xv. 11: "Who is like to Thee among the strong, O Lord?" These letters, it is said, were inscribed by Judas on his victorious banners: and hence the surname. The name is bestowed not only on Judas and his brethren, but on a generous widow and her seven sons most cruelly put to death in Antioch by the pitiless tyrant Antiochus Epiphanes.

The first book of Machabees—a manuscript copy of which in Hebrew, or, rather, in the popular Syro-Chaldaic of the Machabean age, was seen by St. Jerome—is the history of forty years, from the beginning of the reign of Antiochus Epiphanes to the death of the High Priest Simon Machabee. The second book is the abridged history of the persecutions under Antiochus Epiphanes and Ptolemy Eupator, his son, being compiled from a full and complete history of the same in five books, written by Jason, and now lost. This abridgment describes in detail many of the principal occurrences related in the first book. Both historians, however, seem to have written independently of each other, neither having seen the other's work.

No history, ancient or modern, contains a more vivid and thrilling story of living faith and heroic valor.

THE PROPHETS.

We must not, if we would form a correct conception of Sacred History, separate the Prophets and their utterances from their proper connection in the series of contemporary events. They, their prophecies, and their lives, form an integral portion of the annals of the epoch in which they lived. The very historical books we have been just passing in review are incomplete, and, in some parts, incomprehensible, if severed from the words and actions of such men as Isaias, Jeremias, Ezechiel, Haggæus, and other prophets, who acted such an important part under the Kings of Jerusalem and Samaria, while striving, under divine inspiration, to correct and convert bad sovereigns and their sinful people, or to direct and encourage the good.

The name of prophets is sometimes given in Scripture to persons who had no claim to prophetic inspiration. In classic Greek, the word προφήτης, "prophet," designates any person who speaks for another, especially one who speaks in the name of the Godhead, and thus declares or interprets His will to men. The primary meaning of the word prophet is, therefore, that of an interpreter. In the Bible the word has several significations: 1st. It applies to all persons of superior learning or uncommon intellectual gifts, whether their knowledge regards divine or human things. Thus in 1 Corinthians xiv. 6, "prophecy" means the supernatural knowledge of divine things bestowed as a gift on certain persons, and in the infancy of the Church, to enable them to teach others; whereas, in Titus i. 12, "a prophet of their own," means a Cretan author who had accurately described his own countrymen as "always liars, evil beasts, etc." 2d. He is called a prophet who has either of things past or present a knowledge exceeding the power of nature. Thus Elisæus knew that his servant Giezi had secretly obtained rich presents from Naaman. Thus also when the soldiers buffeted our Lord the night before his death, they asked Him to "prophesy" who had struck Him. 3d. Again, a man is said to be a prophet when he is inspired to say what he does not understand, as Caiphas (St. John xi. 51) "prophesied that Jesus should die for the nation." 4th. In the proper and primitive sense of the word, Aaron is to be the "prophet;" that is, the interpreter, of his brother Moses (Exodus vii.) Hence both our Lord and St. Stephen upbraided the Jews with having persecuted all the prophets; that is, all those who had been sent to declare to them the will of God. 5th. The designation of prophets was also given to all those who sang hymns or psalms with extraordinary enthusiasm, so as to seem beyond themselves. In 1 Kings x. 12, Saul meets a troop of these singers, joins them, is seized with their divine enthusiasm, and it is therefore said: "Is Saul also among the Prophets?" This same meaning applies on several occasions to David and Asaph and to the young men trained as singers for the temple, and who are therefore called "the sons of the prophets." 6th. The word "to prophesy," again, is understood of the power of working miracles. Hence (Ecclesiasticus xlviii. 14) it is said of Elisæus: "After death his body prophesied," because the contact with the holy man's corpse raised a dead man to life. 7th. But this gift of miracles was the seal which stamped with the divine authority the utterances of the Prophet properly so called; that is, the man to whom God has revealed and enjoined to announce to the world future events which no created mind could of itself have foreseen. (See Bergier, Dictionnaire de Théologie.) Such are the divinely commissioned men whose books we are now to consider.

THE FOUR GREAT PROPHETS.

ISAIAS.—By the universal consent both of the Jewish Church and of the Christian, Isaias is given precedence in rank over the other prophets, though he cannot claim priority in time. He was of royal birth, and the elevation and beauty of his style are in keeping with his high rank and nobility of soul. He is by far the most eloquent of the Prophets. Besides, he describes so minutely the person of Christ and His sufferings, as well as the birth and destiny of the Christian Church, that one might think he was recording past events or describing what was present before his eyes, rather than announcing to the world what was still hidden in the night of ages, and could only be the secret of the divine mind and power. For this reason the book of Isaias has been called a fifth Gospel, so clearly does he perform the task of an evangelist.

The prophetic mission of this great man and great saint runs through the reigns of four kings of Juda—Ozias, Joathan, Achaz, and Ezechias, his life having been gloriously crowned with a cruel martyrdom under Manasses. Like the Prophet Elias before him, and like John the Baptist long ages after him, Isaias in performing his sublime mission wore the penitential garb of the Nazarites, the long blackish-gray tunic of haircloth fastened round the loins with a rope or girdle of camel's hair. Thus habited, the man of God would, most probably, go into one of the spacious courts of the Temple, while the people were flocking in to some solemn sacrifice, and from one of the lofty flights of steps leading up to the altar of burnt offerings, would pour forth the words of his divine message on the multitude beneath and around. The very first words of these inspired oracles still thrill the coldest reader with emotion: "Hear, O ye Heavens! and give ear, O Earth! For the Lord hath spoken. I have brought up children and exalted them; but they have despised Me. The ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib. But Israel hath not known Me, and My people hath not understood!"

No words could more aptly state God's case as against His blind and ungrateful people under the Old Law, as well against the professed or nominal followers of Christ under the New Law of Grace. We are, all of us who believe in Christ and through Him in the Father, the adopted children, the family of God. How He has exalted the sons of Adam! How tenderly He has provided for the bringing up of the human race to a God-like resemblance with their all-bountiful Parent and Benefactor! And is not our life one long act of contempt of that Adorable Majesty?—one long and persistent ignoring and misunderstanding of that ever-present and patient Goodness?

To understand even the literal sense of these most pregnant chapters, it will be necessary to read not only the history of the four kings under whom Isaias preached and taught and performed miracles, but also the two preceding reigns of Amasias and his father Joas. Joas, saved in infancy, and by a miracle, from the slaughter of all the male descendants of David, and brought up by his aunt Josabet in the very sanctuary of the Temple, would, one might think, be sure to be worthy of David and lovingly faithful to God his Protector. And yet, in the very flower and pride of his manhood, he introduces among his people the abominable worship of Baal and Ashtarte—murders in the very sanctuary which had sheltered his infancy and childhood his cousin and foster-brother, the High Priest Zacharias, and runs, uncontrolled, his race of wickedness, till he is himself cut off by the hand of a murderer. Not much better is his son Amasias. He was a cruel king: he caused 10,000 Edomite prisoners to be cast, in cold blood, headlong from the cliffs of Petra, while he hesitated not in the hour of victory to cause sacrifices to be offered in honor of the idols worshiped by his victims. A cruel soldier is rarely a brave man; and a coward is always a vain one. So Amasias provokes his father's namesake, Joas, King of Samaria, to war; is shamefully beaten, taken prisoner, brought in chains to Jerusalem, which is partially dismantled by the victor, and at length, like his father, is cut off by the red hand of murder. There is no use in teaching or warning these purblind princes, in whose veins the heroic blood of David is changed into mud: they will neither be taught, nor enlightened, nor warned. Such were the men who had ruled the Kingdom of Juda immediately before the birth of Isaias.

Now read in the first five chapters the prophetic denunciations and warnings which apply to the latter part of the long reign of Ozias. Like Solomon, he began his reign young—at the age of sixteen—and by his piety and his genius raised the Kingdom of Juda to a height of glory it had not known since Solomon. Though he did not end his long reign like this prince, so unwise with all his wisdom, Ozias forgot himself in his old age, and, like Saul, attempted to usurp the functions of the priestly office. He was stricken with leprosy at the very altar, and had thenceforward to yield his kingly functions to his son Joathan, and live in the rigorous seclusion imposed on lepers. That there was degeneracy in the body of the nation, as well as in the ruler himself, we may well believe. And in this light we can understand the denunciations of the first five chapters of Isaias. “O my people, they that call thee blessed, the same deceive thee, and destroy the way of thy steps (that is, ‘lead thee along the way to destruction.’). The Lord standeth up to judge, and He standeth to judge the people.” Listen to the fearful description, at the end of the fifth chapter, which he gives of the coming of the Babylonians and Assyrians to chastise the insolence and ingratitude of this wilfully blind people. The hostile armies coming on from the shores of the Persian Gulf are like a mighty tidal wave which rises and advances swiftly, bearing down all resistance. “And they shall make a noise against them that day like the roaring of the sea. We shall look towards the land, and behold darkness of tribulation, and the light is darkened with the mist thereof!”

2. With chapter vi. begins another series of prophetic teachings. “In the year that King Ozias died, I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne high and elevated; and His train filled the temple.” The dead monarch had dimmed the glory of his long reign and splendid services to religion and country, by an obstinate attempt to thrust himself into the sanctuary and to offer with hands unanointed incense upon the altar. In contrast with this sacrilegious presumption stands out the shrinking humility of Isaias—called and chosen, as he knew himself to be, to the sublime and perilous functions of the prophetic office. “And I said, ‘Woe is me . . . because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people that hath unclean lips, and I have seen with my eyes the KING the Lord of Hosts.’”

Touched by the terrors of the prophet's humility, one of the attendant Seraphs takes a live coal from the altar of the heavenly temple, and touches therewith the lips which are to speak such mighty things to the world. The reign of Joathan was a continuation of the best traditions of the preceding reign. In one particular only did the son of Ozias fail in magnanimity and firmness of purpose. “The high places he took not away: the people still sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places” (4 Kings xv. 35). Had the people of Juda, then, become so addicted to these clandestine practices of idolatry that the very best princes dared not attempt their suppression? This was, therefore, the sin of the people, and argues to what extent the abominable idol-worship of Palestine and Syria had taken hold of the popular heart in Jehovah's special inheritance. This fact will furnish a key to the most terrible denunciations and predictions of the first chapters in the book, particularly to that uttered by the prophet after his lips had been purified by the sacred fire. “Go and say to this people, ‘Hearing hear, and understand not! And see the vision and know it not!’ . . . And I said: ‘How long, O Lord?’ And He said: ‘Until the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man, and the land shall be left desolate.’”

This brief and magnificent vision of the Heavenly Temple on high, and of the enthroned Majesty of the infinite God, was, doubtless, proclaimed in the temple of Jerusalem to the assembled multitude of tepid, half-hearted worshippers. It reminded them that the splendors of God's earthly house was but a faint image of the everlasting, and that the holiness demanded of both priests and people was only a preparation for the perfection of the beatified state. This sublime revelation, together with the clear and definite announcement of coming ruin to both temple and nation, hung over Juda and its rulers like a cloud big with coming storm during the entire reign of Joathan.

3. The prophecies in the three following chapters, vii., viii., and ix., were delivered during the reign of Joathan's successor, the weak-minded and unprincipled Achaz. The league formed against Jerusalem by the Kings of Israel and Syria had always been baffled by the unflinching and prudent policy of Joathan. His son inherited none of his religious faith or statesmanship; and, threatened as he was by the allied armies, he bethought him of calling in to his aid the King of Assyria. Besides, one chief purpose of the King of Israel was to dethrone the descendants of David and set up a Syrian to rule in Jerusalem. This moved to its depths the patriotic soul of Isaias. He knew that the Kingdom of Juda had nothing to fear from the designs or power of the allied kings; and he scorned the idea of invoking the aid of the foreigner and the heathen to fight the battles of Jehovah and to protect the throne of David. The enemy is already in the neighborhood of Jerusalem, and it becomes a matter of life or death to prevent him from cutting off its supply of water. So Achaz marches out to protect the Upper Pool whence the chief supply was derived. Thereupon Isaias is bidden to take his son Sheas-Jashub (“Remnant shall Return”) and to confront Achaz with these words: “See thou be quiet. Fear not, and let not thy heart be afraid! . . .” Speaking of the formidable league and its designs against the House of David, the divine oracle is most emphatic: “It (the league) shall not stand, and this shall not be!”

But the unbelieving and timid Achaz cannot set aside either his terrors at the sight of the hostile armies, or his doubts about the victory promised by Isaias. Here comes in the famous prophesy about the Deliverer to be born of a Virgin-Mother: “Hear ye, therefore, O house of David! Is it a small thing for you to be grievous to men, that you are grievous to my God also? Therefore the Lord Himself shall give you a sign. Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and his name shall be called EMMANUEL (God with us).” It was in vain that the prophet had assured Achaz that “within three score and five years Ephraim (that is, the Ten Schismatic Tribes forming the Kingdom of Israel under the leadership of the powerful tribe of Ephraim) shall cease to be a people.” The young king will not believe and will not be dissuaded from calling in the Assyrians. Then comes the bitter reproof and the renewal of the glorious Promise made in the Garden to Eve and Adam guilty: “Behold a Virgin shall conceive,” and God shall become Man, Our God, “God with us” for ever—the Son of David of whose Kingdom there shall be no end.

Let this unbelieving king, who will not trust to Jehovah's power and protection, call in the Heathen from the banks of the Tigris, and let his idol-worshipping people become the allies of the worst enemies of God. “The Lord shall bring upon thee (Achaz), and upon thy people, and upon the house of thy father, days that have not come since the time of the separation of Ephraim from Juda, with the King of the Assyrians.” And all through the desolation and the long captivity of these coming years, there is for Juda a twofold consolation, like a twin beacon to light its path through the gloom: their “Remnant shall Return,” and in the fulness of time Emmanuel shall be born to them. As for the prophet himself, with the clear foresight both of the devastation that is soon to come, and of the future Redemption of Israel and the entire race of man, he will put his sole trust in the Lord: “Behold, I and my children whom the Lord hath given me for a sign, and for a wonder in Israel from the Lord of hosts, who dwelleth in Mount Sion . . . I will wait for the Lord who hath hid His face from the house of Jacob, and I will look for Him!" His two sons as they grow up and walk by his side in Jerusalem and through the land shall be "a sign," and a standing prodigy or "wonder" sent to Israel from the Lord of hosts. We have seen that the elder Shear-Jashub, or "Remnant shall Return," was an ever-present warning, by the very name he bore, both of the coming desolation and exile and of the restoration of a remnant of the race. The boy, therefore, was a sign of the Divine justice as well as of the Fatherly mercy soon to be displayed. In chapter viii. the birth of another son is described as attended with extraordinary solemnities. Isaiah is commanded to set up a large scroll or tablet bearing the words, Maher-Shalal-Hash-Baz; that is, "Hasten, Booty, Speed, Spoil;" and when his younger son is born he is bidden to call him by this prophetic name so full of terrible significance to the kingdom of Judah. Already the King of Assyria had come down with an army on his allied enemies, the Kings of Damascus and Samaria, and had depopulated not only a portion of Syria but the valley of the Jordan around the Lake of Galilee, carrying the inhabitants away into exile. This does not make King Achaz heed any the more the warnings and exhortations of Isaiah; this prince more than ever courts an alliance with the Assyrian. The people, however, without ceasing to cling to their vices and their idolatry, are frightened into favoring a league with Damascus and Samaria. This only hastens the coming of the Assyrian. It is in vain that the great prophet tries to fire the national heart with the only flame that should burn therein, the love of their fathers' God and the love of their fatherland. Vainly does he exhaust himself in repeating that no enemy can harm Judah and Jerusalem so long as they repose a loving trust in Jehovah. "Sanctify the Lord of hosts Himself; and let Him be your fear, and let Him be your dread. And He shall be a sanctification to you" (viii. 13, 14). . . . "By the wrath of the Lord of hosts the land is troubled, and the people shall be as fuel for the fire: no man shall spare his brother" (ix. 19). "What will you do in the day of visitation, and of the calamity which cometh from afar? to whom will ye flee for help? and where will ye leave your glory? . . . As my hand hath found the kingdoms of the idol, so also their idols of Jerusalem and of Samaria. Shall I not, as I have done to Samaria and her idols, so do to Jerusalem and her idols?" (ix. 3-11). Then will come the turn of the Assyrian empire itself. "Shall the axe boast itself against him that cutteth with it? . . . As if a rod should lift itself against him who taketh it up!" And again, after repeating for the twentieth time His promises of mercy and final restoration, the Lord adjures Jerusalem in these touching words: "Therefore, thus saith the Lord the God of hosts: O, my people, that dwellest in Sion, be not afraid of the Assyrian. He shall strike thee with his rod, and he shall lift up his staff over thee in the way of Egypt. For yet a little and a very little while, and My indignation shall cease, and My wrath shall be upon their wickedness. And the Lord shall raise up a scourge against him."

Meanwhile, in favor of the "true Israelites," the men of pure lives, unfaltering faith, and unshaken hope in the promises, the Prophet ever holds up their sure fulfillment. "And there shall come forth a rod out of the root of Jesse, and a flower shall rise up out of his root. And the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him" (xi. 1, 2).

Surely it was the same Spirit who rested upon the patriot prophet himself.

3. Chapters xi. and xii. form one of these exultant hymns which we conceive Faith to be wont to sing amid the darkness of the densest idolatry and the wrecks of home and country. "And it shall come to pass in that day, that the Lord shall set His hand the second time to possess the remnant of His people, which shall be left from the Assyrians. . . . And thou shalt say in that day: I will give thanks to Thee, O Lord, for Thou wast angry with me: Thy wrath is turned away, and Thou hast comforted me.

Behold, God is my Saviour, I will deal confidently and will not fear: because the Lord is my strength and my praise, and He is become my salvation."

Then come, under the designation of "burdens," the prediction of the terrible retribution which is to be dealt out on each of the enemies of God and His people—on Babylon, the Philistines, the Moabites, on Damascus, Samaria, the Assyrians and Egyptians. He pauses, in chapter xxii., while describing the devastation of Judah, to utter against Sobna, one of the blind and vicious counselors of blind and vicious princes and people, the divine judgment gone forth against him. "Thou hast hewed thee out carefully a monument in a high place, a dwelling for thyself in a rock. Behold the Lord will cause thee to be carried away, as a cock is carried away, and He will lift thee up as a garment. He will toss thee like a ball into a large and spacious country."

Nor shall the maritime powers of that age be spared by the scourge of divine justice. Tyre and Sidon shall fall. "The Lord of hosts hath designed it, to pull down the pride of all glory, and bring to disgrace all the mighty ones of the earth. . . . The earth is infected by the inhabitants thereof; because they have transgressed the laws, they have changed the ordinance, they have broken the everlasting covenant. Therefore shall a curse devour the earth, and the inhabitants thereof shall sin. . . . It shall be thus in the midst of the earth, in the midst of the people, as if a few olives that remain should be shaken out of the olive-tree, or grapes, when the vintage is ended. . . . With breaking shall the earth be broken, with crushing shall the earth be crushed, with trembling shall the earth be moved." This moral and social convulsion, like the mighty upheavals that are recorded in geology, is now a matter of history. And how very nearly its terrible teachings come home, at this hour, to the guilty Christendom of the nineteenth century, with the decline of faith, the weakening of all authority, human and divine, the spread of intellectual and moral corruption, and the breaking up of the whole order of society in opposition to the laws of nature and the solemn ordinances of nature's God!

Together with this breaking up of the old Pagan order there is present to the eye of the prophet the end of all things, the final judgment and doom; the wicked ones both of heaven and of earth "gathered together as in the gathering of one bundle into the Pit," and the eternal reign of God with His faithful servants in the heavenly Jerusalem. At this prospect the rapt soul of Isaiah bursts forth into a shout of triumphant song: "O Lord, Thou art my God, I will exalt Thee, and give glory to Thy name; For Thou hast done wonderful things. Thy designs of old faithful, Amen! . . . Therefore shall a strong people praise Thee, the city of the mighty nations shall fear Thee. Because Thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress: a refuge from the whirlwind, a shadow from the heat. . . . And they shall say in that day: Lo, this is our God; we have waited for Him, and He will save us: this is the Lord, we have patiently waited for Him, we shall rejoice and be joyful in His salvation."

From this vision of the Eternal Rest on which thrills the soul of the prophet, he passes to the return of Israel from captivity, and the heart of the patriot bursts forth into a still more lofty strain, because with the vision of his restored people is mingled that of the glory of the Christian church. "Sion, the city of our strength—a Saviour! A wall and a bulwark shall be set therein. Open ye the gates, and let the just nation that keepeth the truth enter in! The old error is passed away: Thou wilt keep peace, peace, because we have hoped in Thee! You have hoped in the Lord for evermore, in the Lord God mighty for ever. . . . And in the way of Thy judgments, O Lord, we have patiently waited for Thee: Thy name and Thy remembrance (are) the desire of the soul!"

Full of divinest eloquence, most sublime poetry, of tender piety that stirs every pulse of the reader's heart, the stream of Isaias' inspiration flows onward in its rapid and majestic course, unlike anything else in sacred or profane literature,—the glory of the Hebrew intellect, the wonder and light of the Christian church.

The above beautiful canticle may have been written and uttered when Jerusalem, during the invasion of Salmanasar (Shalmanezar) IV., was preserved from capture and spoliation, while Samaria fell into the hands of the invader. This was during the reign of the incomparable Ezechias, the most perfect prince who ever sat on the throne of David, and who was of one mind and one heart with his kinsman, the great prophet of Juda. Ezechias had made a clean sweep of the "high places," and of every other relic of idolatry within his kingdom. Without positively neglecting what is called political prudence in his dealings with other sovereigns, he placed his whole trust in Jehovah alone, and spurned every alliance that might imperil the faith or weaken the proud self-reliance under God with which he inspired his people. There were, however, those among them, Sobna (Shebna), the high treasurer, for instance, who hankered for a close union with Egypt as a means of resisting Assyria. But neither the prophet nor the king showed any mercy to these politicians. We have seen above how Sobna was disgraced, and can judge from his case how it fared with all those of his class. "Woe to them that go down to Egypt for help, trusting in horses, and putting their confidence in chariots, because they are many; . . . and have not trusted in the Holy One of Israel! . . . Egypt is man, and not God, and their horses flesh, and not spirit: and the Lord shall put down (stretch out) his hand, and the helper shall fall, and he that is helped shall fall, and they shall be confounded together" (xxx. 1-3). Formidable and resistless as then appeared the power of the Assyrians, their utter defeat is announced repeatedly and with such detailed circumstances as could not but challenge the attention of the whole people. "Behold the NAME of the Lord cometh from afar, His wrath burneth. . . . You shall have a song as in the night of the sanctified solemnity. . . . And the Lord shall make the glory of His voice to be heard. . . . For at the voice of the Lord the Assyrian shall fear being struck with the rod" (xxx. 27-31). But with these notions and predictions of deliverance from temporal evils and earthly foes are always mixed up visions of the Divine Liberator and of the long-delayed Redemption. "Behold a king shall reign in justice!" (xxii. 1); and the Spirit is "poured upon us from on high" (xxxii. 15).

Meanwhile the flood-gates of the Assyrian invasion are opened, and the mighty hosts of Sennacherib inundate Syria and Palestine. Jerusalem, at length, is beset by the victorious host. To the faithful and brave-hearted King Isaias, in this extremity, utters messages of the most cheering import. "Thus saith the Lord: Be not afraid of the words that thou hast heard, with which the servants of the King of the Assyrians have blasphemed Me. . . . I will send a spirit upon him, . . . and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own country." When the invader concentrates at length all his forces round the beleaguered city, Ezechias, in answer to his blasphemous insolence, challenges the fatherly love of Jehovah for His people: "O Lord our God, save us out of his hand, and let all the kingdoms of the earth know that Thou only art the Lord!" (xxxvii. 20). While still kneeling before the Mercy Seat, Ezechias receives through Isaias the answer to his prayer. It is Jehovah who speaks to the proud and blasphemous Assyrian: . . . "I will put a ring in thy nose and a bit between thy lips, and I will turn thee back by the way by which thou camest" (xxxvii. 29). That very night, . . . "The angel of the Lord went out, and slew in the camp of the Assyrians a hundred and eighty-five thousand."

This miraculous deliverance had been the great event toward which all the preceding prophecies, all the denunciations, and all the unceasing activity of Isaias pointed. From the very first page he knew what was to be the dreadful fate of the schismatic and idolatrous Ten Tribes forming the Northern Kingdom, that of Israel or Samaria. They were to be swept away by the hand of the Assyrian, and for them, as a nation or a body politic, there was to be no restoration. To avert from the Kingdom of Juda and Jerusalem, its capital, a similar fate, was the cherished purpose for which Isaias lived, labored, wrote, and prophesied. To inspire his people and their rulers with an absolute and unwavering trust in Jehovah,—in His love, His willingness and power to protect and shield them from all dangers, he bent all the resources of his genius and influence, and discharged most faithfully the duties of his recognized calling as a Seer and Prophet. When the epoch of the dreaded Assyrian invasion was near at hand, God sent to his people a perfect king in Ezechias, and to the Prophet a most zealous auxiliary in his mission of religious reformation and patriotic revival. Even the wretched remnants of the Ten Tribes which had escaped the sword or the greed of the Assyrian, understood the lesson which both Isaias and their own prophets Micheas, Osee, and Amos had vainly taught them throughout all these years of delusion and guilt. When they found the glory of Samaria gone, and their country wasted like a stubble-field over which the fire had passed, they turned their eyes and their hearts to Jerusalem and its God, and sought with them an asylum in their utter despair.

But history tells us that the turn of Juda and Jerusalem was yet to come. The Babylonian captivity awaited them. This God had revealed in advance to Isaias,—and this forms the subject of the last twenty-seven chapters of this book. Chapters xxxviii. and xxxix. are out of their place in the order of time; the sickness of Ezechias happened before the deliverance of Jerusalem and the flight of Sennacherib. But as the Prophet's soul was occupied with this central event in his life, he postponed what related to the illness and cure of the holy king to the thrilling recital of Jehovah's victory. This illness had occurred two years before the siege of Jerusalem by the Assyrians, and fifteen years before the close of the royal life. But connected with the King's restoration to health is an incident which had great influence on the events that were soon to follow on the flight of the Assyrian host.

Merodach-Baladan IV., King of Babylon, anxious to cultivate friendly relations with the enemies of the Assyrians, had sent ambassadors to compliment the King of Juda on his recovery. "Ezechias rejoiced at their coming, and he showed them the storehouse of his aromatical spices, and of the silver, and of the gold, . . . and all things that were found in his treasures. There was nothing in his house nor in all his dominion that Ezechias showed them not." It was a display prompted by a vanity unworthy of so great a character, and condemned by sound policy as well as by sound sense. Forthwith the divine messenger is at hand to question the imprudent sovereign, and to receive a frank answer. "And Isaias said to Ezechias: Hear the word of the Lord of hosts. Behold the days shall come, that all that is in thy house, and that thy fathers have laid up in store until this day, shall be carried away unto Babylon. There shall not be anything left, saith the Lord. And of thy children that shall issue from thee, . . . they shall take away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the King of Babylon."

4. This Babylonian captivity and the means to be employed by Providence to restore Juda become henceforth to the prophet not only a subject of continual and absorbing interest, but one which he speaks of as present. Cyrus, the destroyer of the Babylonian power, though yet unborn, is mentioned by name again and again, and the providential mission that he is to fulfill is clearly sketched out. But the crimes which bring on Juda this visitation, and the manifold evils of exile and bondage which are the chastisement of these crimes,—only remind the Prophet of the sad condition of the entire race of man, miserably degraded by the captivity of sin and serving false gods in their degradation. Side by side with the restoration by Cyrus is described the Redemption by the Messiah:

and together with the person of Cyrus we are made to behold the person of Christ. The birth, education, labors, sufferings, and death of the Redeemer are set forth in colors so vivid, minute, and life-like, that Isaias may be well said to be fulfilling the office of Evangelist rather than that of Prophet.

It is, however, to the book itself that you must go, dear Reader, to find in its inspired pages so much of light, and sweetness, and strength. For the Spirit who spoke by this great and holy man never fails to open the eyes and move the hearts of those who study his writings with humble and earnest faith.

THE BOOK OF JEREMIAS.—Two of the darkest reigns that ever disgraced any country, or saddened the hearts of men who believe in a Supreme Being and in the eternal laws of morality, separate Isaias from Jeremias. Manasses, born to the good King Ezechias after the latter's recovery from the mortal illness mentioned above, and about the very period of the siege and deliverance of Jerusalem, was as unlike his pious and public-spirited parent as a son could well be. The alliance which the former contracted with the Babylonians, and from which Isaias foretold the direst consequences, became a state necessity with his successor. Worse than that, however—worse indeed than any calamity which had ever before befallen the Kingdom of Juda—was the formal and open apostasy of Manasses. Not only did he forsake the faith of his father, but he introduced in its stead the foulest idol-worship of Babylon and Syria, banishing from the Temple every remnant of the worship of Jehovah, desecrating its precincts and the Holy of holies itself with the most odious heathen rites; blotting out, so far as he could, from the laws and institutions of his native country every trace of the Law of God, every memorial of His past mercies to Israel. Not content with this, he persecuted with the most unsparing cruelty all those who were faithful to their conscience, the priests and prophets, especially, and, among these, Isaias. This great man, the stay of religion and nationality, the glory of his race and age, was now past eighty. Of course, years had not diminished his zeal in the service of his God and his country. And the last chapters in his prophecies are there to tell us that the beautiful mind had lost none of its power, and the prophet's divine eloquence none of its inspiration. Had the Holy Spirit disclosed to him the secret of his own cruel death at the hands of the impious Manasses? We cannot say. But there is a touching appositiveness in the last utterances recorded by Isaias. "For Sion's sake, I will not hold my peace; and for the sake of Jerusalem, I will not rest till her Just One come forth as brightness, and her Saviour be lighted as a lamp" (lxii. 1). "Who is this that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bosra, this Beautiful One in His robe, walking in the greatness of His strength? Why then is Thy apparel red, and Thy garments like those that tread in the wine-press" (lxiii. 1, 2)? Are these the words of a martyr, conscious of his approaching fate, and gazing from afar on the form of the King of Martyrs, as He stands alone, with blood-stained garments and torn head and limbs on the wood of His cross, about to stretch forth His hands to the nails? For it is the constant tradition of both the Jewish and Christian churches that Manasses caused the great-souled prophet to be inclosed in the trunk of a tree and sawn in the middle.

It was the privilege of Jeremias to be called to fulfill his prophetic mission during the reign of Josias, the grandson of Manasses and the son of a father who rivaled Manasses in impiety and wickedness. During the reign of the saintly Josias and till the destruction of Jerusalem by the Chaldæans—that is, during a period of forty years—Jeremias continued to discharge the duties of his sacred office with a heroism and eloquence that make him rank only after Isaias. Like St. John the Baptist, he was sanctified before his birth for the sublime mission to which he was destined. And he needed all the extraordinary graces of which this first one was a pledge. For to none of the prophets or of the saints of the Old Law was assigned a mission so barren in consolation, so full of that intense bitterness which arises from the spectacle of prolonged national degeneracy and apostasy, and from the utter ruin of the dearest hopes of the priest and the patriot. It was a life-long martyrdom. When he first heard the Divine Voice calling him to his long struggle with ignorance and iniquity—a woman Holda (Huldah) was the sole organ of the divine will in all Juda. Though afterward he was to have as his auxiliaries in the prophetic office not only Holda and his disciples, the brothers Baruch and Saraïas, but Sophonias, Habacuc, and Urias, still, scattered as were the remnants of God's people both in Egypt and Mesopotamia, utterly desolate as was the land of Juda and Israel, and obstinately perverse as his countrymen and their leaders continued to be, Jeremias encountered nothing but contradiction, hatred, and persecution. He is imprisoned by his countrymen during the siege of Jerusalem, because he counsels them to make terms with the enemy, knowing supernaturally, as he does, that on a conditional surrender depends the preservation of the city and the Temple, as well as immunity from the frightful evils of a place carried by storm. He opposed, as did Isaias before him, every alliance with foreigners, and advocated as the only safeguards to national independence a total reform in manners and religion and unbounded loyalty to Jehovah. Even the good King Josias was continually hesitating between an alliance with Babylon and a league with Egypt. In spite of Jeremias' earnest remonstrances, the prince did attach himself to the Chaldæans, and perished by the hands of the Egyptians whom he persisted in attacking without cause. Thus the Prophet was assailed with equal hostility by both political parties in Jerusalem who happened to incline either for the Babylonian alliance or for the Egyptian. After the death of Josias began that succession of deplorable reigns each of which recalled the worst crimes of Manasses and Amon—princes and people continuing in exile and slavery what they had been in their own country, God-defying and God-forsaken.

As to the order in which these prophecies were given and con-signed to writing, we are informed that, up to the fourth year of Joakim, King of Juda, Jeremias had not recorded his prophecies in writing. He, therefore, by divine command commits to writing "all the words" that he had spoken from the Lord "against Israel and Juda, and against all the nations." In this task his disciple Baruch fills the office of secretary. This first volume is destroyed in the wicked King's own chamber, and Jeremias is bidden to write another volume. This contains all that had been put down in the first "besides many more words than had been before" (chap. xxxvi. 1-32).

We can thus take these first thirty-six chapters as containing the first and principal portion of the prophecies of Jeremias, as well as the chief incidents of his own personal history as given by himself. Chapters xxxv. and xxxvi., however, interrupt the chronological order, the first to set forth the heroic fidelity of the Rechabites as a lesson to a sensual and faithless generation, and the other to give a history of the book itself, as well as to warn more solemnly both the nation and its King that the Babylonian captivity so long threatened was near at hand.

In chapter xxxvii. the prophet resumes the account of his mission under King Sedecias just where his narration ended in chapter xxxiv. At this point we find the Babylonians besieging Jerusalem, and the recreant King and his counselors send, in their terror, to consult Jeremias about the final issue. For the enemy had withdrawn his forces momentarily to meet the Egyptians advancing to the rescue. There is but one answer—the prediction so often repeated in vain: "The Chaldæans shall come again, and fight against this city, and take it, and burn it with fire." He cannot deliver to them a false message from the God of truth; and they will not bring themselves to believe in the destruction of Jerusalem as foretold. So, he is cast into prison, first, and then the Egyptian faction demand that he shall be put to death (xxxviii. 4). The King consents, and the prophet is cast into the worst of dungeons as a preliminary to his execution. Saved from this peril by an Ethiopian slave, he is pressed more vehemently by Sedecias to tell him, the King, the truth as he desires it. "And Jeremias said to Sedecias, Thus saith the Lord of hosts the God of Israel: If thou wilt take a resolution and go out to the princes of the King of Babylon, thy soul shall live, and this city shall not be burnt with fire; and thou shalt be safe and thy house." Of course the King would not assent.

And then the end came (xxxix). The remaining chapters, as far as xlv., recount the taking of Jerusalem and the evils which followed. The Prophet remains among the ruins of his country still bent on helping the miserable remnants of his people left behind by the conqueror to return sincerely to the God of their fathers. He knows what the Almighty can do with a few faithful, repentant, and resolute hearts to build up even a destroyed nationality. And so his crushing grief is lightened in the endeavor to make of the few who remain of Juda and Israel true worshipers and true citizens. But political division and party rivalries, the bane of falling commonwealths and the curse of such as strive to rise, set the Jews against each other; caused one faction to massacre the leaders of the other, and then to seek a refuge in Egypt against the vengeance of the Babylonians. The Prophet and his disciple, Baruch, are compelled to follow them thither. In vain did Jeremias announce that Egypt should not protect them; and equally in vain, during his captivity in that land, did he try to convert these men from their evil ways. The very accomplishment of the prophecies which they had so often derided before the event, only made them the more bitterly hostile to him, and only rendered more intolerable his denunciation of the crimes which his fellow-exiles in Egypt added to all their former wickedness. At length—so the most ancient and venerable traditions say—they put him to death, in order to silence forever the voice which no bribe could buy and no fear intimidate. But they could not thereby still the voice of their own conscience nor remove from above their own heads the Almighty Hand and the sword of the divine justice toward which Jeremias had so often directed their eyes in vain.

The remaining chapters of the book must be read in the light of contemporaneous history and with the aid of the most scholarly critics.

THE PROPHECY OF BARUCH.—All agree that the illustrious man, who has given his name to this book, was the disciple, secretary, and associate of Jeremias. His noble birth and powerful connections were so well known, as well as the esteem in which he was held by his master, that the court party under Joakim attributed to Baruch's persuasion the great prophet's constancy in proclaiming the certain destruction of Jerusalem by the Chaldæans. Both were imprisoned together, and both would have doubtless perished together had not the bad King's fears caused them to be reprieved; the taking of Jerusalem found them still in prison. The conquerors spared them. But their fate, according to the most ancient traditions, united them in life and death. They both died together in Egypt, witnessing to the end to the truth of Jehovah's prophecies. So must you, dear reader, study the writings and the lives of these two heroic men as one inseparable whole, full of elevating examples and divinest teachings.

EZECHIEL.

EZECHIEL, the son of Buzi, was of a priestly family, a contemporary of the two preceding prophets, and carried off a prisoner to Babylonia by Nabuchodonosor, together with King Jechonias, eleven years before the final capture and destruction of Jerusalem. He tells us that he was called to fulfill his prophetic mission "in the thirtieth year." And it has puzzled scholars not a little to find out from what event he reckons these years up to the "thirtieth." Be that event what it may, we know that the thirtieth year here mentioned coincided with the fifth of the captivity of Jechonias, as well as the fifth of the reign of his son, Sedecias. During the twenty years which followed Ezechiel did not cease to fill his sacred office. His chief purpose is to confirm in the faith his fellow-captives in Chaldæa. They despaired, in their bondage, of ever seeing their race restored to Palestine, many and clear as had been the declarations of Jeremiah on this subject. What this great prophet had so often announced in his own country, what indeed he continued to predict in Jerusalem all through these first years of the captivity, Ezechiel was called to proclaim on the banks of the Euphrates. So that these two illustrious contemporaries were like two inspired singers taking up alternately the burden of the same song, the one in the far northeast amid the splendors of Babylonia, the other in the southwest and among the blindly-sinful multitudes of fore-doomed Jerusalem.

No other prophet has clothed his predictions and teachings under such varied and striking forms. Sometimes he gives his utterances the shape of distinct predictions (vi., vii., xx., etc.); sometimes they are proposed as allegories (xxiii., xxiv.); again as symbolical actions (iv., viii.), or similitudes (xii., xv.), or parables (xvii.); or as proverbs (xii. 22; xviii. 1 and following); or, finally, as visions (viii.-xi.) "The book," says Dr. Smith (Dictionary of the Bible, art. "Ezekiel"), "is divided into two great parts, of which the destruction of Jerusalem is the turning-point; chapters i.-xxiv. contain predictions delivered before that event, and xxv.-xlvi. after it, as we see from xxvi. 2. Again, chapters i.-xxxii. are mainly occupied with correction, denunciation and reproof, while the remainder deal chiefly in consolation and promise. A parenthetical section in the middle of the book (xxv.-xxxii.) contains a group of prophecies against seven foreign nations."

Another very convenient grouping of the prophecies, according to the same author, is that of Hävernicks, who divides the book into nine sections, as follows: I. Ezechiel's call, i.-iii. 15. II. The general carrying out of the commission, iii. 16-vii. III. The rejection of the people because of their idolatry, viii.-xi. IV. The sins of the age rebuked in detail, xii.-xix. V. The nature of the judgment and the guilt which caused it, xx.-xxiii. VI. The meaning of the now commencing punishment, xxiv. VII. God's judgment denounced on seven heathen nations: Ammonites, xxv. 1-7; Moab, 8-14; the Philistines, 15-17; Tyre, xxvi.-xxviii. 19; Sidon, 20-24; Egypt, xxix.-xxxii. VIII. Prophecies after the destruction of Jerusalem concerning the future condition of Israel, xxxiii.-xxxix. IX. The glorious consummation, xl.-xlviii.

One most touching incident in the prophet's life deserves especial mention. During the ninth year of his captivity, his wife died at the very time that Jerusalem was sorely pressed by Nabuchodonosor. "Son of man, write thee the name of this day on which the King of Babylon hath set himself against Jerusalem. . . . Woe to the bloody city of which I shall make a great bonfire. . . . I will judge thee according to thy ways, and according to thy doings, saith the Lord. And the word of the Lord came to me, saying: I take from thee the desire of thy eyes with a stroke; and thou shalt not lament, nor weep; neither shall thy tears run down. Sigh in silence, make no mourning for the dead: let the tire of thy head be upon thee, and thy shoes on thy feet, and cover not thy face, nor eat the meat of mourners. So I spoke to the people in the morning, and my wife died in the evening; and I did in the morning as He had commanded me. And the people said to me: Why dost thou not tell us what these things mean that thou doest? And I said, The word of the Lord came to me, saying, Speak to the house of Israel: Thus saith the Lord God, 'Behold, I will profane My sanctuary, the glory of your realm, and the thing that your eyes desire, and for which your soul feareth: your sons and your daughters shall fall by the sword.' And you shall do as I have done; you shall not cover your faces, nor shall you eat the meat of mourners. You shall have crowns on your head, and shoes on your feet" (xxiv. 1-23).

Alas, grievous as was the lot of these poor wrong-headed exiles in Babylonia at the moment of this particular prediction, it was to become incomparably worse after the return of Nabuchodonosor. They were to be separated and scattered through the length and breadth of the empire, most of them to perish through misery and hardship. This is the reason why the latter misfortune is so great as compared with the former, that even the loss of the nearest and dearest, and the annihilation of the most cherished national hopes are as nothing compared with the intolerable bitterness of their coming ills.

DANIEL.—While the Hebrews were enduring all the humiliations and hardships of captivity and exile under the yoke of their Assyrian masters, Providence was preparing avengers for all the impiety and cruelty displayed in Palestine and elsewhere by Sennacherib and his successors. The Chaldæans had ever borne with impatience the rule of Nineveh; and before this proud city fell forever Babylon began to reassert its own independence and superiority. Nabopolassar, the father of Nabuchodonosor, firmly established the Babylonian supremacy, and with the assistance of the Medes under Cyaxares effected the utter and final destruction of Nineveh.

For the exiled Hebrews the annihilation of the Assyrian power only meant a change of masters, not freedom from the yoke or restoration to their native land. The most extravagant despotism and the most repulsive forms of idolatry marked the new Chaldæan empire, as we may judge not only from the Book of Daniel, but from the very annals which are daily brought to light from the ruins of the Babylonian cities.

Daniel too, like Isaias, was of the royal race of David, was carried away into captivity in the third year of King Joakim, and with three young companions was brought up as a page in the royal palace. As the idolatrous practices of the Chaldæans demanded that all animal food served on the royal tables should have been previously offered to the gods, to partake of them implied a participation in this idol-worship. This to the worshipers of the true God was a defilement and an abomination. And such meats Daniel and his companions refused to touch, preferring to feed exclusively on vegetable food. On this fare they grew up to robust and comely manhood. And, as had long before happened to Joseph in the house of Putiphar, heroic temperance brought them supernatural wisdom. Though scarcely emerged from boyhood, Daniel, as the story of Susanna proves, was known among his fellow-captives to be possessed of a knowledge all divine. In the fourth year of the noble youth's exile happened the famous vision sent to the king of the statue made of divers metals, and the stern interpretation given of the monarch's dream by Daniel. The despot is awed for the moment into acknowledging the God of Israel as the only living God. But his subsequent career of conquest turns his head, and he, too, will have himself worshiped after the manner of his ancestor Bel or Baal. Then comes a second terrific dream (iv. 8-27) which Daniel also explains, and is followed by the proud king's salutary expiation. Finally, under Baltassar (Belshazzar), a third fearful vision is sent, prophetic of the impending doom of the empire itself. Daniel is again sent for to read "the hand-writing on the wall;" and that very night Babylon is taken by Cyrus and his Persians, and by Darius and his Medes.

The seven first chapters of the Book of Daniel are partly historical and partly prophetical, while the four following relate to the rise and fall of the great empires which are to rule the earth, and among which shall be cast the lot of the children of God till the end of time. In chapter ix. occurs the celebrated prophecy of the "seventy weeks of years" after the expiration of which Christ the Messiah was to consummate the work of redemption. In the last two chapters, xiii. and xiv., are found the story of Susanna and that of Bel and the Dragon.

THE TWELVE MINOR PROPHETS.

All the writers, who in the Old Testament are designated under the title of Prophets, lived within the period elapsed from the year before Christ, 784 to 445, the date of Nehemias' governorship over Judæa, a space, therefore, of about three hundred and forty years. Of the Four Greater Prophets we have already spoken. But, as the Twelve Lesser Prophets have lived at the same time with their more illustrious brethren in the prophetic office, giving to these, under God's inspiration and direction, the aid of their ministry, so it seems but rational to group them together in the order in which they lived. Thus we shall have four groups: 1st. Osee, Amos, Jonas, Michæas, and Nahum, who were contemporaries of Isaias. 2d. Sophonias, Joel, and Habacuc, who belong to the epoch of Jeremias. 3d. Abdias, who lived during the period of the captivity, thus is a contemporary of Daniel and Ezechiel. 4th. Aggias, Zacharias, and Malachias belong to the time of the Restoration, extending from Zorobabel in 546 to Nehemias in 445.

So, dear reader, it will help you not a little toward the understanding of what is most important in each prophecy, if you will go to the table on page 00, and then read a brief summary of the reigns of the contemporary kings whether of Israel or Juda. Thereby you will be better able to see the drift of the prophecy and to compare each prediction with what is contained in the book of the Greater Prophet, who lived at the same epoch, and for whose assistance God inspired and sent the Minor Prophets of his age.

Another advice we must here give parents or others who are desirous or accustomed to read for the young and innocent select passages from the Scripture, is—to be very careful not to allow their pure-minded and unsuspecting charge to read for themselves and without discrimination the books of the prophets. There are passages in them which might and would disedify or shock the sense of English readers.

Eastern nations, in the days of Isaias and Daniel, were anything rather than refined in their manners, their sentiments, or their language, although they were far advanced in the arts of mere material civilization. Even in Palestine, all through the centuries over which extended the lives and teachings of the prophets, there existed a sensuality in manners, derived from the too common practice of the abominable idolatry of their Chanaanite and Babylonian neighbors, and a corresponding coarseness of language, of which but few among us, happily, have any conception.

Hence it is, that the prophets sent to rouse men steeped in vice and almost brutified by the prevailing idol-worship from their deep sleep of forgetfulness or insensibility to divine things, use figures, comparisons, parables, allegories, expressions which to us are most shocking, but which conveyed the truth in the only form calculated to strike and startle the God-forgetting generations among whom they lived. Over these passages the guides of youth will pass to find what is edifying and beautiful and instructive in these inspired writings.

I. OSEE, AMOS, JONAS, MICHÆAS, AND NAHUM.—

I. OSEE began his mission most probably in the last year of Jeroboam II., King of Israel (died B. C. 784), and continued his labors during sixty years down to the reign of Ezechias, King of Juda. He with his brother prophets in the northern kingdom did for the enlightenment and salvation of the Ten Tribes what Isaias was at the same time doing for the Kingdom of Juda. Jeroboam II. had been the most fortunate of all the rulers of the northern kingdom; had wrested from the surrounding Pagan nations not only the territories belonging to his own subject tribes, but also that which belonged to Juda and Benjamin and which had been long held by their enemies. This restoration of the entire patrimony of God's people had been the subject of more than one prophecy, and the restorer had even been designated as a deliverer in the inspired utterances. However Jeroboam II. was not the man to unite piety toward the true God with the courage of the soldier and the wisdom of the statesman. He could not or would not understand that unity of belief and worship was the great secret of national strength, prosperity, and invincibility. In religious matters he was the worthy successor of Jeroboam I. and of Jehu, favored idolatry to the exclusion of the worship of Jehovah, and allowed himself and his people to float unresistingly down the stream of drunkenness and licentiousness. As we shall see, Amos (vii. 9) predicted the utter overthrow of this prevaricating dynasty.

The first three chapters of Osee are filled by one terrible allegory full of light and menace for both kingdoms. God again and again in Scripture speaks of His love for this chosen race as that of a husband for the woman whom he has made his wife, choosing her from among all living women. The favors conferred on Israel He continually likens to the extraordinary proofs of affection, tenderness, and profuse liberality, which the most devoted of husbands never wearies in bestowing on the bride of his choice. It was the divine purpose to make of the privileged people a queen among nations. This purpose had been thwarted by the incurable perversity of the chosen one, and all the divine liberality and magnificence made the occasion of the foulest guilt. What reason would not favored Israel have of accusing the Most High of being untrue to His covenant, if He had neglected His own people despite their inviolable fidelity and heroic devotion, and lavished on the idolatrous nations round about the favors promised exclusively to His own? What if all the transgressions and the odium of faithlessness and inconstancy could be laid to His account? This is what is implied in the fearful allegory of these first chapters. Their thought, imagery, and expressions, are borrowed from the life and language of a people lost to all sense of guilt and shame, and accessible only to the terrible threats implied in the converse of the above supposition, and suggested by the awakened consciousness of a nation that had so often in the past experienced the prodigies of Jehovah's love, and which is now threatened with the extremity of His vengeance. "The children of Israel shall sit many days without king, and without prince, and without sacrifice, and without altar. . . . And after this the children of Israel shall return, and shall seek the Lord their God, and David their King: and they shall fear the Lord and His goodness in the last days" (iii. 4, 5). This first portion may well apply to the close of Jeroboam's brilliant reign, while the troublous interregnum of eleven years which followed on his death may have filled the popular mind with serious apprehensions about the near fulfillment of the prophet's threat.

The succeeding chapters strike the reader of biblical history with the same feeling of singular aptness, when one remembers that the popular leaders in the northern, as well as in the southern kingdom were always hankering after an alliance with the Egyptian or the Mesopotamian kings, while they and the blind multitude they misled were plunging deeper every day into the criminal excesses reprobated by the divine law. "Ephraim saw his sickness and Juda his band: and Ephraim went to the Assyrian, and sent to the avenging king. And he shall not be able to heal you, neither shall he be able to take off the band from you. For I will be like a lioness to Ephraim and like a lion's whelp to the house of Juda: I will catch, and go: I will take away, and there is none that can rescue" (v. 13-15). "Ephraim himself is mixed among the nations: Ephraim is become as bread baked under the ashes, that is not turned. . . . They called upon Egypt and went to the Assyrians" (vii. 8-11). . . . "Egypt shall gather them together, Memphis shall bury them: nettles shall inherit their beloved silver, the bur shall be in their tabernacles. The days of visitation are come, the days of repaying are come: Know ye, O Israel, that the prophet was foolish, the spiritual man was mad, for the multitude of thy iniquity, and the multitude of thy madness. . . . My God shall cast them away, because they hearkened not to him: and they shall be wanderers among the nations!" (ix. 6-17.)

So Osee in Samaria, as Isaias in Jerusalem, was looked upon by the scheming politicians as a madman, and by the pleasure-seeking populace as a fool, because he dared threaten the nation in the noonday of its prosperity and pride with defeat and dispersion. And yet the burthen is laid on them both to proclaim the coming doom to every prince who ascended the throne, and to the daily crowd who rushed to the groves and high places, to the altars of Ashtarte and haunts of forbidden pleasure.

But these incorruptible and fearless men, in whose hearts the love of country and race was inseparable from the love of their Master, ceased not to bear their witness in the midst of the sinful crowd. "Ephraim feedeth on the wind, and followeth the [changes of the] heat: all the day long he multiplied lies and desolation: and he hath made a covenant with the Assyrians, and carried oil into Egypt. Therefore there is a judgment of the Lord with Juda, and a visitation for Jacob: He will render to him according to his ways, and according to his devices. . . . Therefore turn thou to thy God: Keep mercy and judgment, and hope in thy God always" (xii. 1-6).

Would you, dear reader, understand both the purpose and the mission of such prophets as Osee, then go back to 2 Paralipomenon xviii., and peruse the entire chapter carefully. Few scenes in sacred or profane history are so full of salutary instruction, or so powerfully drawn as that in which the wily and impious Achab and the pious but inconsistent Josphat are placed, in presence of the population of Samaria, directly beneath the successive influence of the lying prophets of Baal and the cruelly-treated minister of Jehovah. Samaria is the capital of "Ephraim" or the Kingdom of Israel. From the perusal of that single chapter you can understand what enemies the worshipers of the true God found among their own brethren, the descendants of Jacob, the descendants even of Ephraim, the favored son of Joseph.

2. AMOS.—This man of God had not been trained in the schools of the prophets, and, as we may judge from his style, knew little, if anything, of book-learning. He was by profession a dresser of sycamore or wild fig trees, and one of the numerous “herdsmen of Thecua,” alternately pasturing his flocks or dressing his trees on the hills that stretch around his native town between Hebron and the Dead Sea. He was older than Osee, and exercised the prophetic office before him, about the middle of the reign of Jeroboam II.; that is, about the year 800 before Christ. If you have read, as we suggested, of the visit paid to the idolatrous Samaria and its dissolute court by the good King Josaphat, you may begin to have some conception of the dreadful apostasy of Ephraim or the Northern Kingdom. Not content with the Egyptian idols—the images of the ox worshiped on the banks of the Nile, and which Jeroboam I. had solemnly set up in the sanctuary of Bethel—Achab had filled Samaria with the abominable statues of Baal, and its palaces and temples with hundreds upon hundreds of priests, magicians, and prophets devoted to the service of the Sidonian god. These were the sights and this the worship with which Josaphat did not fear to defile his own soul and those of his followers in visiting the beautiful city where reigned Achab and Jezabel. But the power and splendor of Jezabel, Achab, and the First Jeroboam were cast into the shade by the military genius, the conquests, and the prudent administration of the Second. Israel (Ephraim) was then at the very highest point of glory, and with the prosperity of the Kingdom had increased the splendor of idolatry, the corruption of all classes, and the uncontrolled oppression of the poor by the rich.

Just when Samaria was thus steeped in sensual pleasure, and intoxicated with its recent greatness and glory, God sent the poor, illiterate herdsman of Thecua all the way to Samaria and Bethel to rebuke the prince, the priests, and the people for their crimes, and to announce the approach of the Assyrians with chains and a yoke . . . “Hear ye this word, ye fat kine that are in the mountains of Samaria—you that oppress the needy, and crush the poor. . . . Come ye to Bethel and do wickedly; to Galgal, and multiply transgressions; and bring in the morning your victims, your tithes in three days . . . I destroyed [some of] you, as God destroyed Sodom and Gomorrha, and you were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: yet you returned not to Me, saith the Lord . . . Hear ye this word which I take up concerning you for a lamentation. The House of Israel is fallen, and it shall rise no more” (iv., v.)! “And the high places of the idol shall be thrown down, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste: and I will rise up against the house of Jeroboam with the sword” (vii. 9).

Thereupon Amasias the High Priest of Bethel expels the prophet from the land. But the fearless Seer, ere he departs, declares to Israel one last vision, in which the terrible justice which strikes the unrepentant is blended with the tender mercy that will spare and not destroy utterly. “Behold, the eyes of the Lord God are upon the sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the face of the earth: but yet I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, saith the Lord. For behold I will command, and I will sift the house of Israel among all nations, as corn is sifted in a sieve: and there shall not a little stone fall to the ground” (ix. 8, 9).

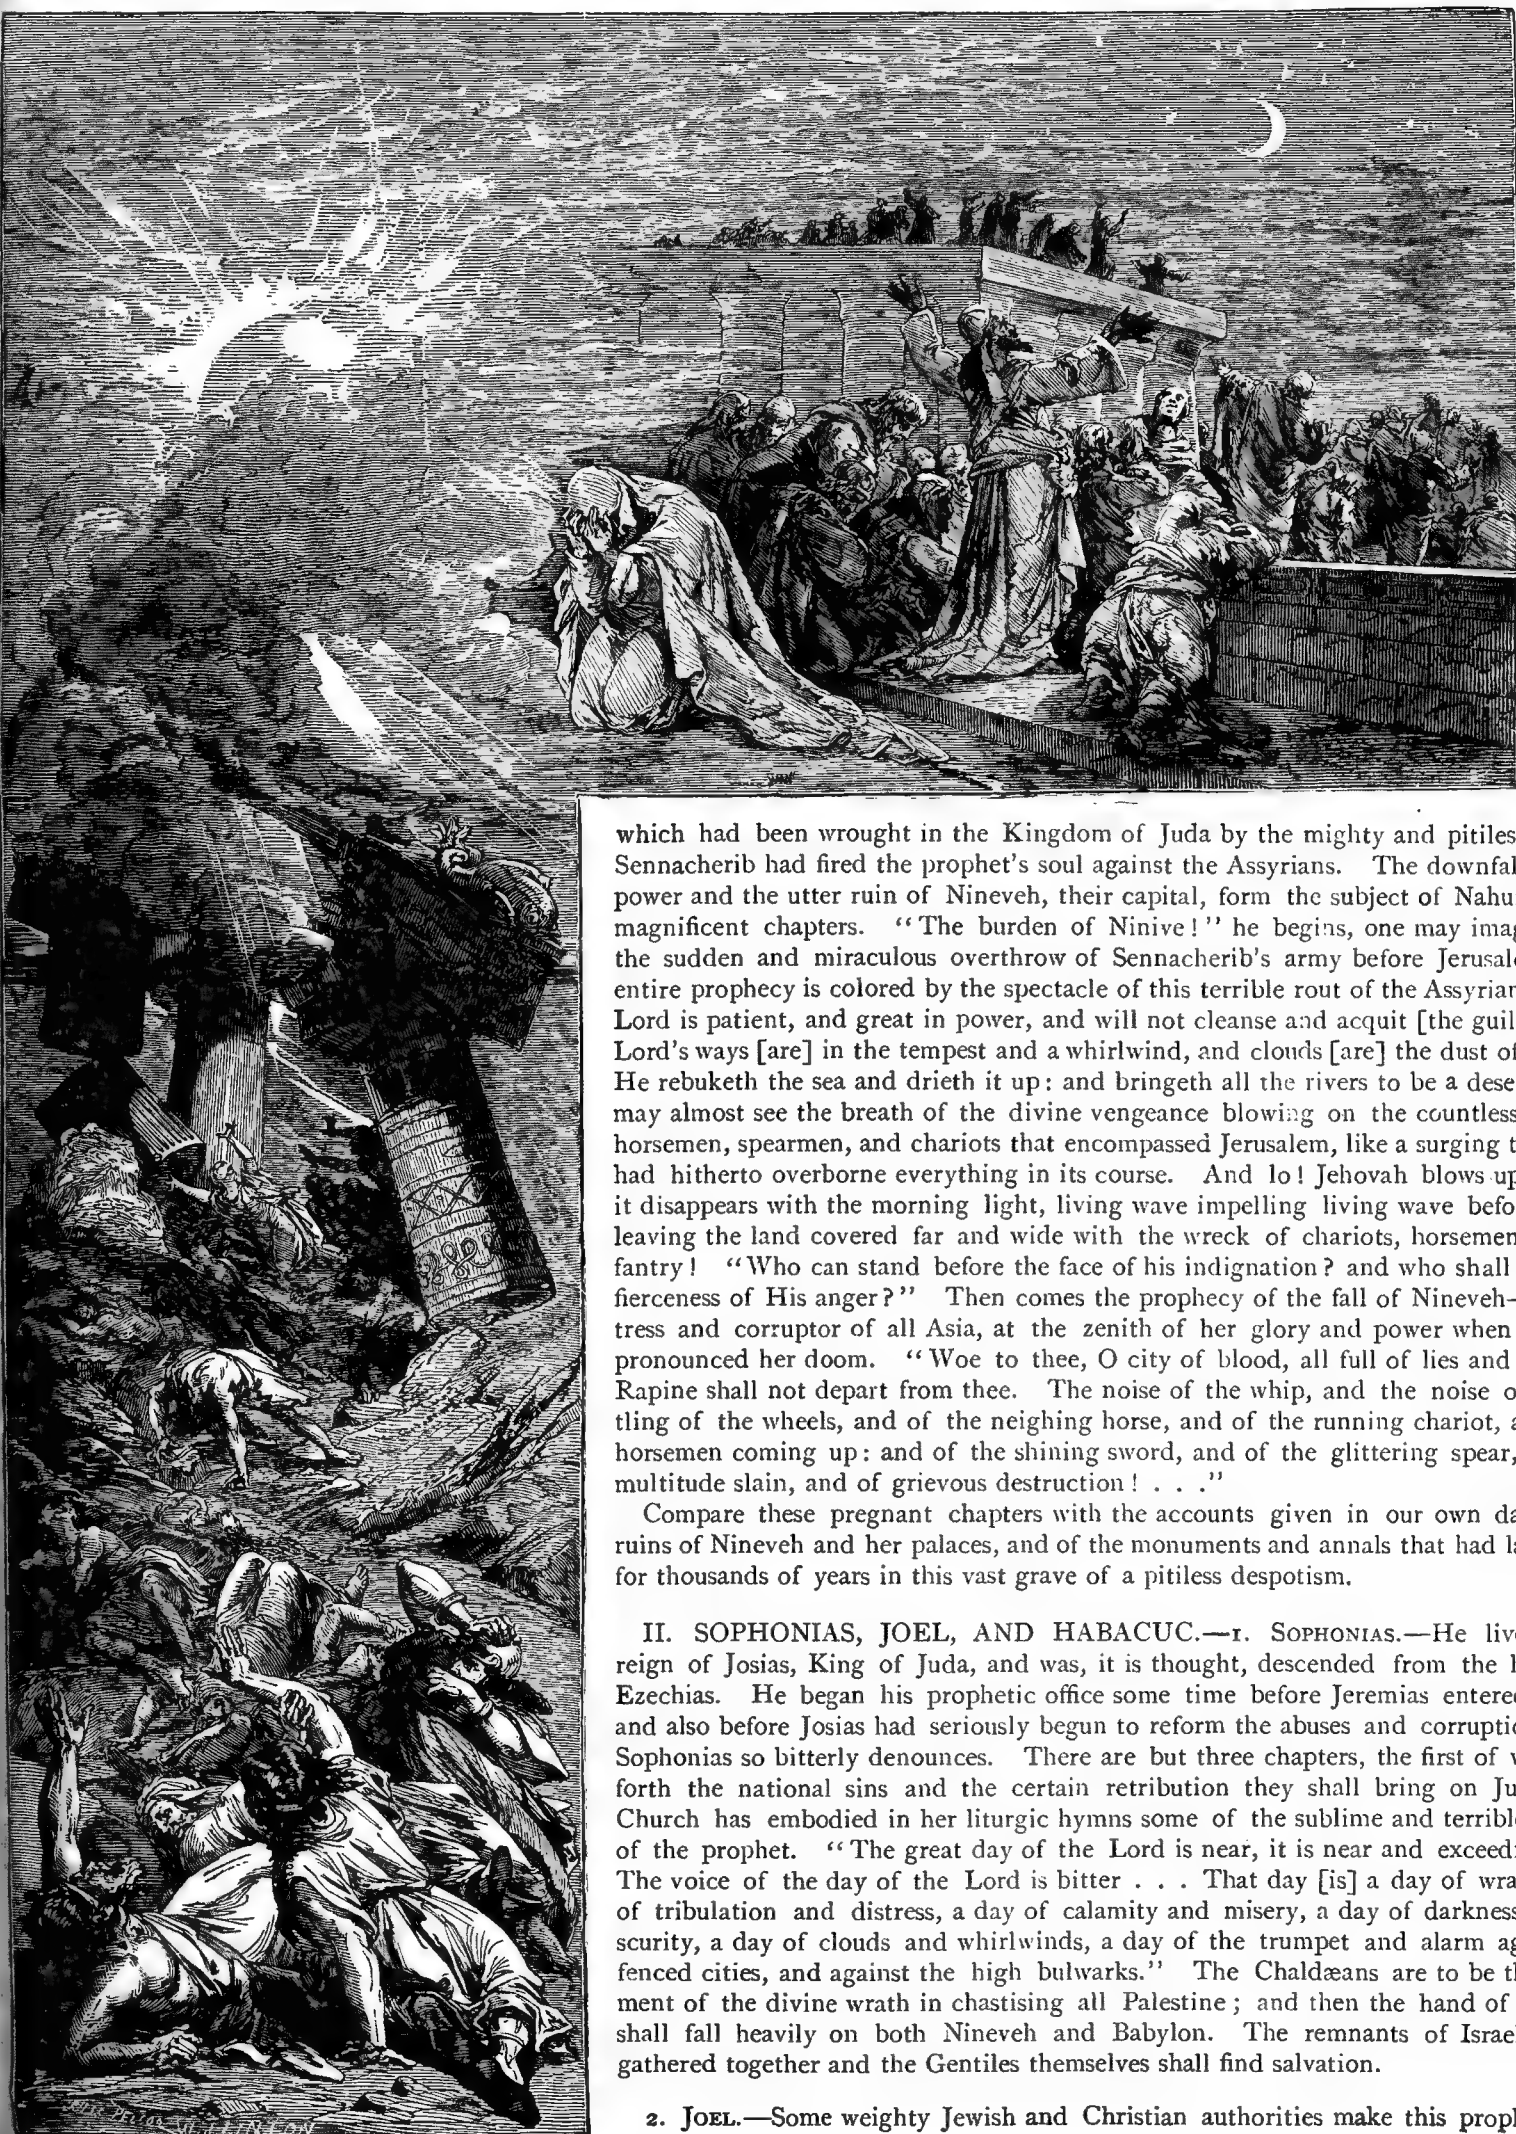

3. JONAS.—It is a not improbable opinion among biblical scholars that Jonas was anterior in time to both Amos and Osee. He is generally thought to have exercised his ministry during the reigns of Joas, King of Israel, and of his son, Jeroboam II. He is the representative of our Lord both in His death and in His glorious resurrection. The mission on which the prophet was sent—that of procuring the conversion and the salvation of an entire people; his being cast into the sea during a storm to save the remaining ship’s crew from perishing; the miracle by which his life is preserved amid the depths of the sea, and he is cast ashore the third day to continue his journey and perform the errand on which he is divinely sent; all this is most wonderful, even in the history of that people whose life was a series of stupendous miracles, and whose existence down to the present day is a miracle that arrests the attention of all serious-minded persons. The resurrection of Christ—the basis of the Christian’s faith and highest hopes—is the great central miracle in the history of Revealed Religion. The conversion of the pagan world hinged on a belief in it. The men who proclaimed it, and who had witnessed it, sealed their testimony both by miracles and their own blood. It was a supernatural fact, supernaturally proven to the world. The miracle of Jonas, which prefigured it, was also a supernatural fact to which God’s people bore constant witness. The Divine Power which shone forth so transcendently on Calvary, shone also with surpassing evidence in the case of him who bore the figure of Christ buried in the sepulchre and arisen on the third day. To one who believes in the Living God and in His omnipotence, it is worse than folly to question the power of preserving life amid the most terrible dangers, and where no hope of escape appears to the eye of mere reason. If I believe in that Fatherly Hand which saved Daniel in the Lions’ Den, and his three young companions amidst the flames of the Chaldean furnace, why should I hesitate to believe that the same Hand could shield from harm in the deepest depths of ocean—the servant, albeit a momentarily recreant one—on whose mission a nation’s welfare depended?

We cannot measure by the rule and square the power of Him who made the heavens and the earth, and with whom alone are the incommunicable secrets of life and death.

4. MICHEAS.—He was a native of Morasthi or Mareseth, a village in the southwestern part of the territory of Juda, and a contemporary of Isaias, whose phraseology he sometimes borrows (compare Micheas iv. 1–13; Isaias ii. 2, and xli. 15). During the reign of Ezechias, as we learn from Jeremias xxvi. 6–18, Micheas prophesied the chastisements about to befall both the northern and the southern kingdom. He foretells the coming of Salmanazar, the ruin of Samaria, which shall be made to resemble “a heap of stones in the field when a vineyard is planted.” Then he predicts the evils which the invasion of Sennacherib will bring on Juda and Jerusalem. “I am filled with the strength of the Spirit of the Lord, with judgment and power, to declare unto Jacob his wickedness, and to Israel his sin. Hear this, ye princes of the house of Jacob, and ye judges of the house of Israel; you that abhor judgment, and pervert all that is right . . . Because of you, Sion shall be ploughed as a field, and Jerusalem shall be as a heap of stones, and the mountain of the Temple as the high places of the forests” (iii. 8–12). By the side of these clear and stern denunciations of coming woe and dispersion, are found no less clear and comforting promises of redemption from captivity, especially of the universal Redemption to be wrought by Christ. “And thou, Bethlehem Ephrata, art a little one among the thousands of Juda; out of thee shall He come forth unto Me that is to be the Ruler in Israel: and His going forth [is] from the beginning, from the days of eternity” (v. 2). Then come touching adjurations in which the Most High recalls to his ungrateful people the miracles performed of old for their deliverance, and the worthlessness of their present sacrificial worship, while they themselves lack all the virtues which are alone pleasing to the Deity. “I will show thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: Verily, to do judgment, and to love mercy, and to walk solicitous with thy God!” Such are the divine lessons of righteousness and piety which these inspired men ceased not to teach, not for their own generation only, but for all time.

5. NAHUM.—He prophesied under Ezechias; and the desolation which had befallen the northern kingdom, as well as the destruction which had been wrought in the Kingdom of Juda by the mighty and pitiless hosts of Sennacherib had fired the prophet's soul against the Assyrians. The downfall of their power and the utter ruin of Nineveh, their capital, form the subject of Nahum's three magnificent chapters. "The burden of Ninive!" he begins, one may imagine after the sudden and miraculous overthrow of Sennacherib's army before Jerusalem. The entire prophecy is colored by the spectacle of this terrible rout of the Assyrians. "The Lord is patient, and great in power, and will not cleanse and acquit [the guilty]. The Lord's ways [are] in the tempest and a whirlwind, and clouds [are] the dust of His feet. He rebuketh the sea and drieth it up: and bringeth all the rivers to be a desert." One may almost see the breath of the divine vengeance blowing on the countless army of horsemen, spearmen, and chariots that encompassed Jerusalem, like a surging tide which had hitherto overborne everything in its course. And lo! Jehovah blows upon it and it disappears with the morning light, living wave impelling living wave before it, and leaving the land covered far and wide with the wreck of chariots, horsemen, and infantry! "Who can stand before the face of his indignation? and who shall resist the fierceness of His anger?" Then comes the prophecy of the fall of Nineveh—the mistress and corruptor of all Asia, at the zenith of her glory and power when the Seer pronounced her doom. "Woe to thee, O city of blood, all full of lies and violence! Rapine shall not depart from thee. The noise of the whip, and the noise of the rattling of the wheels, and of the neighing horse, and of the running chariot, and of the horsemen coming up: and of the shining sword, and of the glittering spear, and of a multitude slain, and of grievous destruction! . . ."

Compare these pregnant chapters with the accounts given in our own days of the ruins of Nineveh and her palaces, and of the monuments and annals that had lain buried for thousands of years in this vast grave of a pitiless despotism.

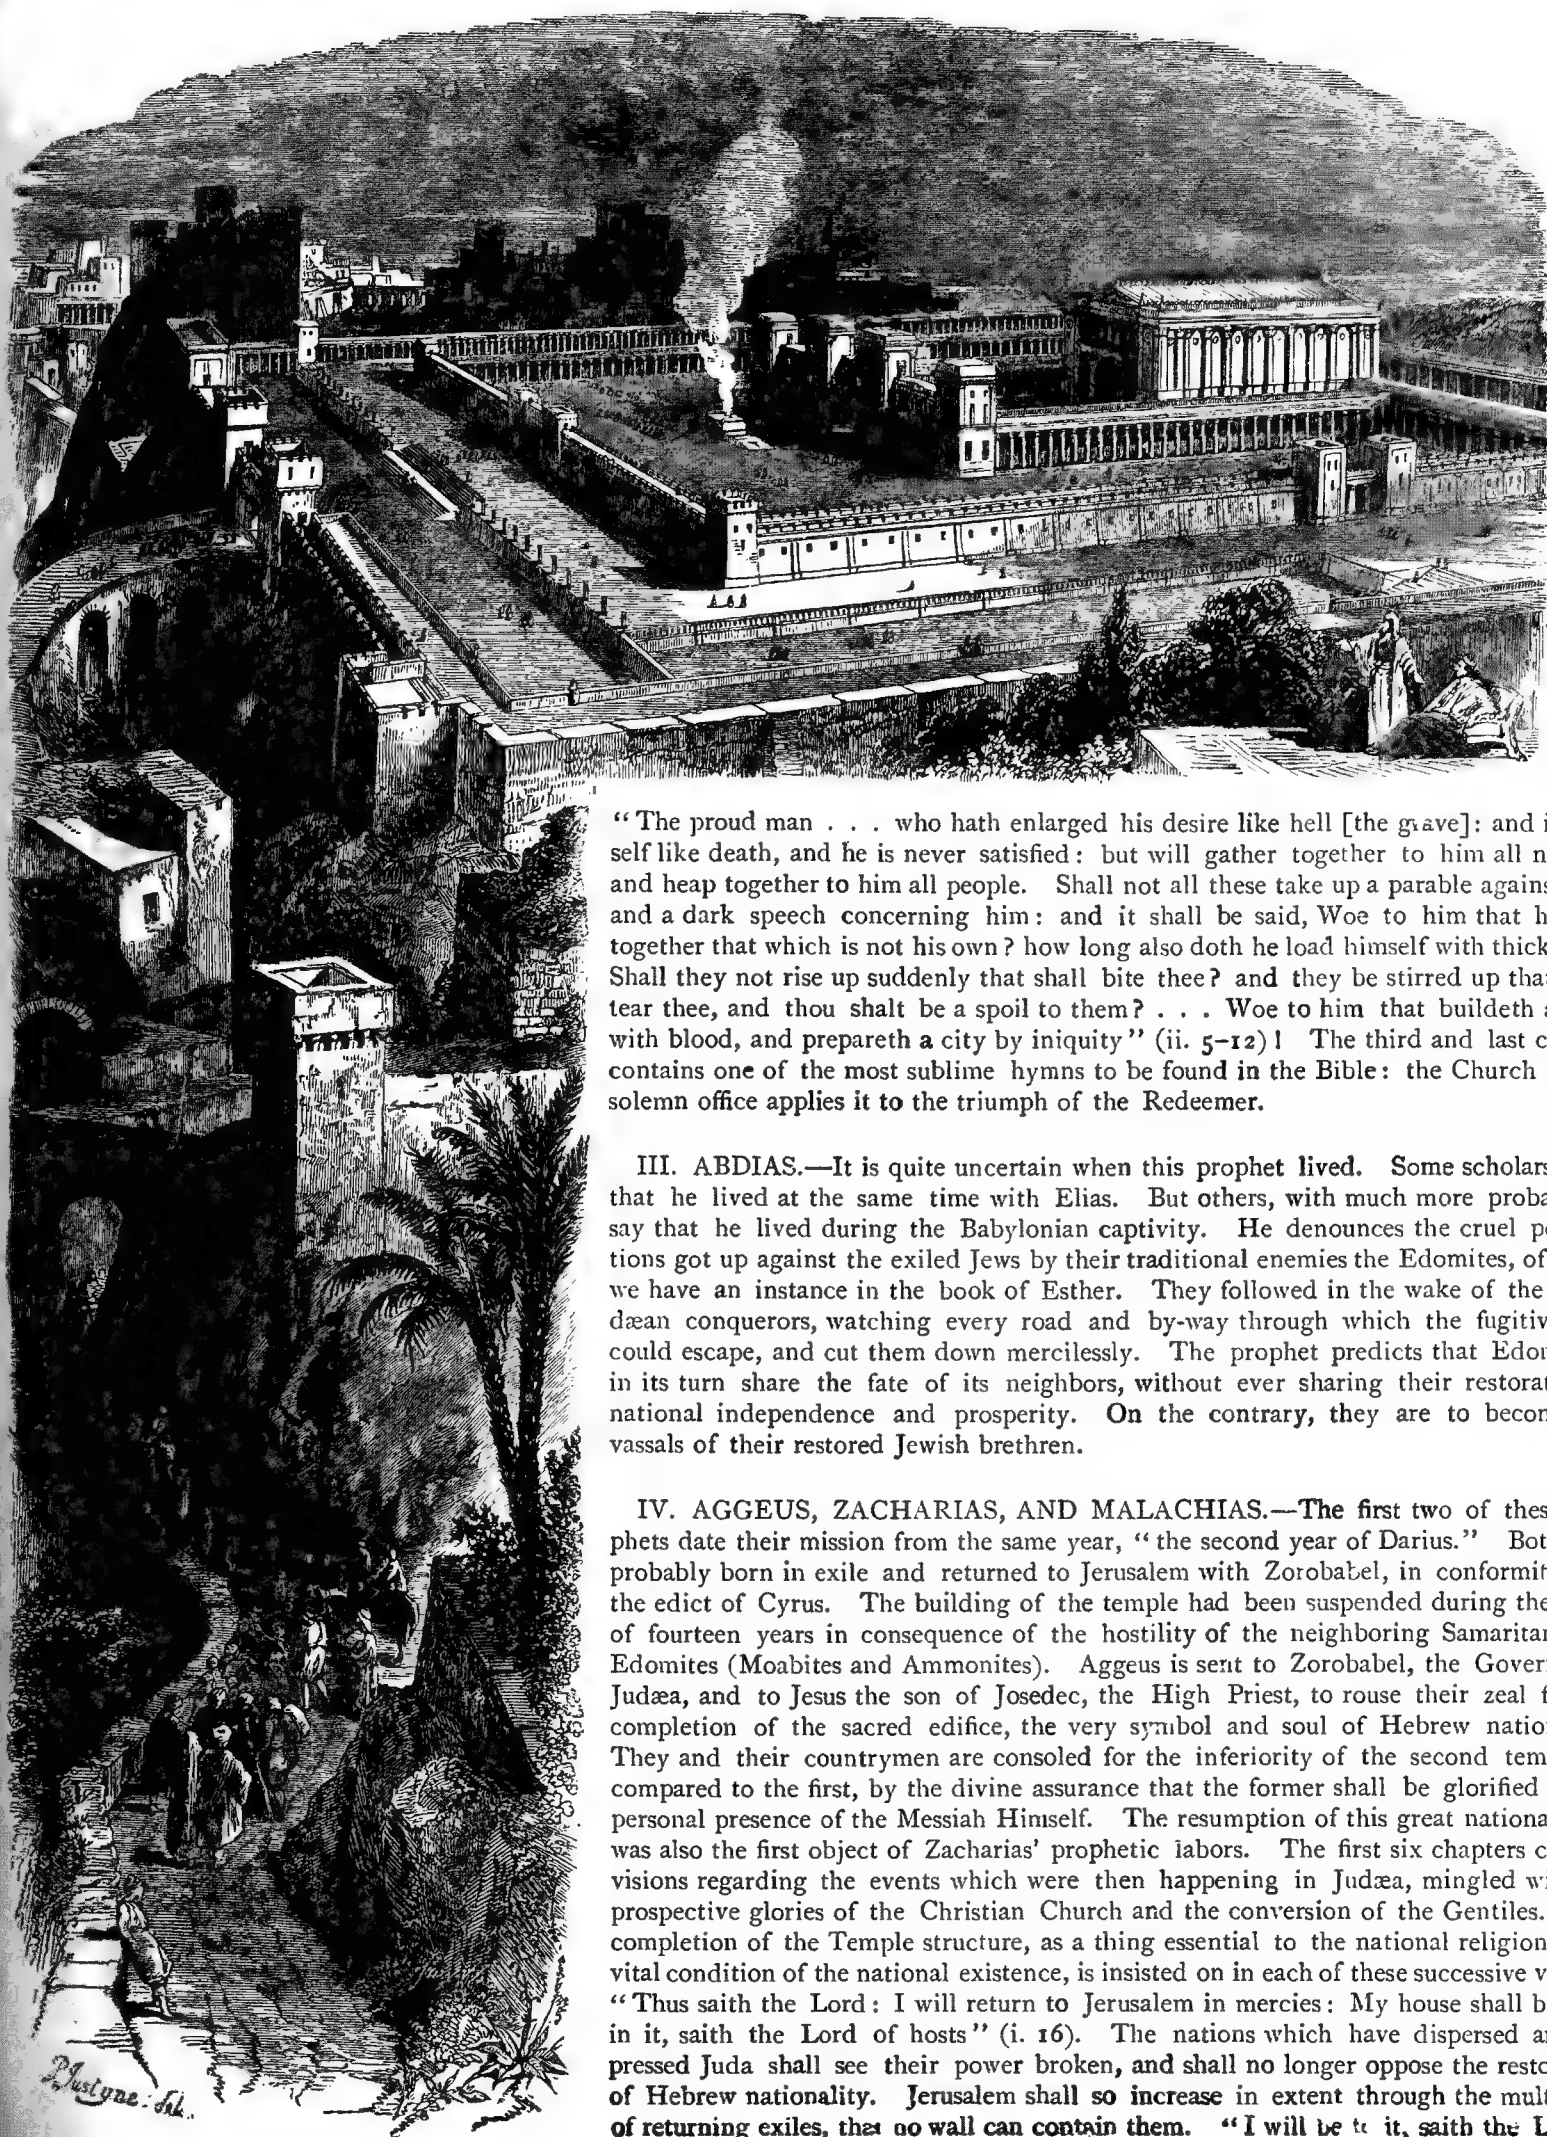

II. SOPHONIAS, JOEL, AND HABACUC.—I. SOPHONIAS.—He lived in the reign of Josias, King of Juda, and was, it is thought, descended from the holy King Ezechias. He began his prophetic office some time before Jeremias entered on his, and also before Josias had seriously begun to reform the abuses and corruptions which Sophonias so bitterly denounces. There are but three chapters, the first of which sets forth the national sins and the certain retribution they shall bring on Juda. The Church has embodied in her liturgic hymns some of the sublime and terrible imagery of the prophet. "The great day of the Lord is near, it is near and exceeding swift: The voice of the day of the Lord is bitter . . . That day [is] a day of wrath, a day of tribulation and distress, a day of calamity and misery, a day of darkness and obscurity, a day of clouds and whirlwinds, a day of the trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high bulwarks." The Chaldeans are to be the instrument of the divine wrath in chastising all Palestine; and then the hand of the Lord shall fall heavily on both Nineveh and Babylon. The remnants of Israel shall be gathered together and the Gentiles themselves shall find salvation.

2. JOEL.—Some weighty Jewish and Christian authorities make this prophet a contemporary of Joram, son of Achab, and King of Israel, who died in the year 889 B. C. For the mention by Joel of a great famine similar to that which occurred during the reign of that prince afforded a foundation for their opinion. If, however, this famine is identical with that mentioned by Jeremias (viii. 13), then this as well as other reasons allow us to make Joel a contemporary of the latter prophet. Jeremias says: "There is no grape on the vines, and there are no figs on the fig-tree, the leaf is fallen: and I have given them the things that are passed away." Joel, on the other hand, says: "That which the palmerworm hath left, the locust hath eaten: and that which the locust hath left, the bruchus (cankerworm) hath eaten: and that which the bruchus hath left, the mildew hath destroyed." This plague, however, is only sent in mercy to rouse men to do penance for their sins. "Because the Day of the Lord is at hand, and it shall come like destruction from the mighty." The description of this dreadful day reminds one forcibly of that given in the prophecy of Sophonias, as quoted above. From this twofold picture of the temporal visitation of famine and the terrible judgment of the Last Day, Joel turns to the first coming of Christ—the "Teacher of Justice, and He will make the early and the latter rain to come down to you as in the beginning." Thus with the visions of judgment, and rigorous judgment, are always blended visions of mercy and reconciliation; and with the calamities and miseries of the present are mixed the glorious perspectives of future redemption and everlasting peace.

3. HABACUC.—The Rabbinical traditions assign the reign of Manasses as the time of this prophet's mission. The latest researches, however, place him with Sophonias in the reign of Josias, thereby making him contemporary with the beginning of Jeremias' career. He and his two brother-prophets, Joel and Nahum, are looked upon by Hebrew scholars as classical models of diction. He predicts the downfall of the Chaldean empire, brought on by the national vices, insatiable ambition, greed, cruelty, drunkenness, and manifold idolatry. How aptly the prophet's description and denunciation of all and each of these vices apply to the conquerors, statesmen, and politicians of our own day! . . .

"The proud man . . . who hath enlarged his desire like hell [the grave]: and is himself like death, and he is never satisfied: but will gather together to him all nations, and heap together to him all people. Shall not all these take up a parable against him, and a dark speech concerning him: and it shall be said, Woe to him that heapeth together that which is not his own? how long also doth he load himself with thick clay? Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee? and they be stirred up that shall tear thee, and thou shalt be a spoil to them? . . . Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood, and prepareth a city by iniquity" (ii. 5-12). The third and last chapter contains one of the most sublime hymns to be found in the Bible: the Church in her solemn office applies it to the triumph of the Redeemer.

III. ABDIAS.—It is quite uncertain when this prophet lived. Some scholars think that he lived at the same time with Elias. But others, with much more probability, say that he lived during the Babylonian captivity. He denounces the cruel persecutions got up against the exiled Jews by their traditional enemies the Edomites, of which we have an instance in the book of Esther. They followed in the wake of the Chaldean conquerors, watching every road and by-way through which the fugitive Jews could escape, and cut them down mercilessly. The prophet predicts that Edom shall in its turn share the fate of its neighbors, without ever sharing their restoration to national independence and prosperity. On the contrary, they are to become the vassals of their restored Jewish brethren.

IV. AGGEUS, ZACHARIAS, AND MALACHIAS.—The first two of these prophets date their mission from the same year, "the second year of Darius." Both were probably born in exile and returned to Jerusalem with Zorobabel, in conformity with the edict of Cyrus. The building of the temple had been suspended during the space of fourteen years in consequence of the hostility of the neighboring Samaritans and Edomites (Moabites and Ammonites). Aggeus is sent to Zorobabel, the Governor of Judæa, and to Jesus the son of Josedec, the High Priest, to rouse their zeal for the completion of the sacred edifice, the very symbol and soul of Hebrew nationality. They and their countrymen are consoled for the inferiority of the second temple, as compared to the first, by the divine assurance that the former shall be glorified by the personal presence of the Messiah Himself. The resumption of this great national work was also the first object of Zacharias' prophetic labors. The first six chapters contain visions regarding the events which were then happening in Judæa, mingled with the prospective glories of the Christian Church and the conversion of the Gentiles. The completion of the Temple structure, as a thing essential to the national religion and a vital condition of the national existence, is insisted on in each of these successive visions. "Thus saith the Lord: I will return to Jerusalem in mercies: My house shall be built in it, saith the Lord of hosts" (i. 16). The nations which have dispersed and oppressed Juda shall see their power broken, and shall no longer oppose the restoration of Hebrew nationality. Jerusalem shall so increase in extent through the multitudes of returning exiles, that no wall can contain them. "I will be to it, saith the Lord, a wall of fire round about" (ii. 4). The zealous priests who devote themselves to this great work of reconstruction shall be divinely protected against the calumnies of their enemies and the disfavor of the Chaldean Kings. Jesus the son of Josedec, to whom this personally applies, brings, by his very name, the vision of the future JESUS before the prophet's mind. "Hear, O Jesus, thou High Priest, thou and thy friends that dwell before thee, . . . behold, I WILL BRING MY SERVANT THE ORIENT" (iii. 8). And so the prophetic visions continue, consoling and encouraging the toilers under Zorobabel, and strengthening their faith with the reiterated promise of His coming, who should reign over the whole earth. "Thou shalt take gold and silver, and shalt make crowns, and thou shalt set them on the head of Jesus the son of Josedec the High Priest. And thou shalt speak to him, saying: Thus saith the Lord of hosts, . . . BEHOLD A MAN, THE ORIENT IS HIS NAME . . . He shall build a temple to the Lord: and He shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon His throne; and He shall be a priest upon His throne" (vi. 11-13).

To the zealous men who desire to see the great ordained fasts kept solemnly as a means of propitiating the divine favor, Zacharias gives a reasonable answer. In the days of their former prosperity, the solemn fasts were kept in a narrow and selfish spirit. God had commanded them, while they fasted, "Judge ye true judgment, and show ye mercy and compassion every man to his brother. And oppress not the widow, and the fatherless, and the stranger and the poor; and let not a man devise evil in his heart against his brother" (vii. 9, 10). Now that they and their fathers have paid so dearly for the violation of these divine precepts, the new generations must observe the spirit of the law while attending to the letter. "These then are the things which ye shall do. Speak ye truth every one to his neighbor: judge ye truth and judgment of peace in your gates. And let none of you imagine evil in his heart against his friend: and love not a false oath: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord" (viii. 16, 17). Let true religion but shine forth in these godly virtues, "And many peoples and strong nations shall come to seek the Lord of hosts in Jerusalem. . . . In those days . . . ten men of all languages of the Gentiles shall take hold, and shall hold fast the skirt of one that is a Jew, saying: 'We will go with you; for we have heard that God is with you'" (viii. 22, 23). Are we not made to assist at the preaching of the Twelve Fishermen of Galilee among the proud nations of the Roman Empire?

The three succeeding chapters, ix.-xi., are different in character from the preceding. They contain threatening prophecies against the cities of Syria, Phœnicia, and the Philistine seaboard—threats which soon afterward found their realisation through the arms of Alexander the Great. Juda is comforted with the assurance that, meanwhile, no harm shall befall its children. These prophetic utterances, however, are in many cases only applicable to the epoch of the Messiah; for here we find the very words which the Evangelist St. Matthew applies to our Lord on his last entrance into Jerusalem: "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Sion! shout for joy, O daughter of Jerusalem! BEHOLD THY KING will come to thee, the Just and Saviour: He is poor and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass" (ix. 9)! There are menaces against guilty priests; a glowing description of the triumphs of Christianity; a distinct prediction of the final destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple under the Romans, and of the rejection of the Jews. The three last chapters, xii.—xiv., have for heading "The burden of the word of the Lord upon Israel." The events of the life of Christ, and the characters of His Person and sufferings, are portrayed with extraordinary vividness. A few pregnant sentences point out the trials of His church: xiii. 8, 9.

Zacharias is the most diffuse and obscure of all the Minor Prophets.

MALACHIAS, the last of these inspired men, has been thought by some scholars to be an angel in human form—the name itself meaning in Hebrew "a messenger of Jehovah," Malachijah. Some writers have identified him with Esdras. What, however, seems most probable is that he lived after Aggeus and Zacharias, and during the rule of Esdras and Nehemias. In spite of the reformation which these great men labored so strenuously to effect in the morals and religious discipline of the restored people, Malachias, like his two elder brother-prophets, was offended by the scandals and abuses which were constantly occurring, and which inspired but little hope of a general and lasting improvement. The leading classes, whose example was to be the light of the nation, were themselves a prey to corruption even at this early stage of the Restoration. "To you, O Priests, that despise My Name, and have said, Wherein have we despised Thy Name? You offer polluted bread upon My altar, and you say, Wherein have we polluted Thee? In that you say, The table of the Lord is contemptible. . . . Who is there among you that will shut the doors, and will kindle the fire on My altar gratis? I have no pleasure in you, saith the Lord of hosts" (i. 9, 10). And then comes the famous prophecy of "the clean oblation," to be offered in His Name "in every place from the rising of the sun even to the going down." Besides, the priests, who are the guardians and expounders of the law, were giving at that very time the fatal example of marrying Gentile wives, thereby renewing the sin which, more than any other in the past, had led to the national corruption, apostasy, and ruin. To this incurable inconsistency and unfaithfulness there remains but one remedy, the rejection of the Jewish dispensation and worship. "Presently the Lord whom you seek, and the Angel of the Testament whom you desire, shall come to His Temple. Behold, He cometh, saith the Lord of hosts" (iii. 1).

IV. POETICAL AND DIDACTIC BOOKS.

THE BOOK OF JOB.—This book—the authorship of which the most respectable Hebrew tradition, that of the Targum, attributes to Moses—is now acknowledged to resemble in style the Pentateuch and other most ancient Hebrew writings. It is generally believed among scholars that Job, whose name signifies "one persecuted or afflicted," lived in the northern part of Arabia. Indeed, St. Jerome, in his day, remarked, that Job's diction bore a wonderful resemblance to the best Arabic compositions. Be that as it may, the great lesson taught by the life of Job is, that one who had "none like him in the earth, a simple and upright man, and fearing God, and avoiding evil," remains faithful to God and true to his own conscience, amid the most terrible afflictions. There is also that other sweet and consoling lesson taught at the same time, that the Father who permits His own to be most sorely tried, never allows the trial to be too much for the sufferer. His own Divine Spirit is ever nigh flooding the soul with light from above, even when the night of suffering is darkest, and always warming the heart to love, to bear, to hope, when all human joys fail and all earthly affection is turned into bitterness. He who marks out for each star its fixed orbit in the heavens, and who sets to the ocean the limits beyond which its fury cannot prevail, also knows how to limit our misfortunes, to revisit us even here below with hours of sunshine and felicity that give us an earnest of the eternal joys. Read for yourselves, O children of God, and learn from Job how to bear, and how to hope in the Living God.

THE BOOK OF PSALMS.—David, “the sweet singer of Israel,” is not only the great national poet of the chosen race, but the loved songster of the Christian church, whose words of prayer, praise, and triumph all true Christian homes and hearts have ever made their own. These inspired songs reflect the whole personal history of David from the time that he was secretly anointed King by Samuel, called to become the defender of the Kingdom against Goliath and his Philistines, obliged to charm with the sweet sounds of harp and voice the evil spirit of jealousy that possessed Saul, tried by persecution, exile, and treachery all through the remaining years of Saul’s ill-starred reign, down to the dark days of Gilboe. The shepherd-lad of Bethlehem, the young conqueror of the Philistines, the son-in-law of Saul, the fugitive among the desert places of Israel, was still the man whose heart “thirsted after God,” and whose frequent songs breathe the faith and hope and fervent love of these chequered years. How he delighted, when in possession of the throne, to form bodies of singers for the service of the Tabernacle, and to compose the most thrilling hymns for the solemn feasts of the nation! When he brought, at length, the Ark in triumph to the city of David, he would himself be foremost among the singers, casting aside the warrior’s armor and the kingly robes, to sing and dance in a simple linen tunic before the Ark—the visible resting-place of his loved and adored Jehovah in the midst of the people. And when the Queen ridiculed her royal husband for what she thought so unseemly an exhibition, how David’s indignation breaks forth! “Before the Lord who chose me rather than thy father (Saul) and than all his house, . . . I will both play, and make myself meaner than I have done: and I will be little in my own eyes.” . . . David is still in heart the shepherd-lad of Bethlehem, whom God had so often protected against the assault of beasts of prey prowling in the night, and whose soul even then delighted in singing the praises of his Almighty Protector. So will he continue to the end. His one dreadful fall in the heyday of his power, only creates in his repentant soul a deeper humility, and calls forth those penitential psalms which are the comfort of all souls acquainted with sin and sorrow.

To the people whom he had made so great and so happy his psalms continued to be the cry of the national heart on all solemn festivals. Even in captivity they found in these inspired and prophetic strains incentives to sincere repentance for their past ingratitude, and the most cheering promises of future restoration to country and freedom. The Christian Church, ever since the day of Sion’s final destruction, has continued to make of David's psalms her own book of praise and prayer. Around the altar of the Lamb in Jerusalem, as well as around every altar where He abides from the rising to the setting sun, we sing evermore the canticles of Sion's prophet-King. Other Hebrew poets, inspired like David himself, have added song after song to his immortal book; theirs, however, are only a few. David is still rightly called the PSALMIST.

THE BOOK OF PROVERBS.—This is the production of King Solomon. The first nine chapters excel the remainder of the book in poetic beauty of diction as well as in continuity of thought. The next twelve chapters are composed of separate and, apparently, independent maxims. Chapters xxv.–xxix. were composed under the reign of the best and greatest of Solomon's successors, the saintly King Ezechias, who collected the scattered maxims and utterances of his ancestor and added them to Solomon's book. The last two chapters are of uncertain authorship.

THE BOOK OF ECCLESIASTES.—This is also the work of Solomon, who throughout the book speaks of himself as the Kohleleth, "preacher," ecclesiastes in Greek. We know from sacred history how wisely Solomon began his reign, and with what shameful folly and guilt he tarnished its premature close. This book is the composition of a man who has had his fill of worldly greatness and enjoyment, who has drunk to the dregs the cup of life, and found only bitterness and weariness at the bottom. It is as if the Spirit of God had forced the guilty King to confess that all is "vanity of vanities," save to fear God from one's youth and inviolably to keep His commandments. "And all things that are done God will bring to judgment!" What must have been, at its latest hour, the terrors of that soul so privileged and so guilty!

SOLOMON'S CANTICLE OF CANTICLES.—The God of Israel had designed that the chosen nation should be, under Solomon (Hebrew, Shelomoh, peaceful, pacific), a living and ravishing picture of the state of the Christian people under the Redeemer, the Prince of Peace. Solomon, on whom had descended in youth the spirit of supernatural wisdom as well as prophecy, afterward proved utterly unfaithful to the graces lavished on him. Still, just as the unworthy Balaam was forced by the Divine Spirit to prophesy the blessedness and final triumph of the Church, even so was the apostate soul of Solomon forced to sing in this Song the undying mutual love which binds the true Solomon to His Bride, the Church, and the Church to Him through all the struggles and persecutions of ages.

THE BOOK OF WISDOM.—The author of this book has for his chief object to teach rulers, statesmen, and judges. By many scholars the work is ascribed to Solomon. The authorship, however, remains uncertain. The first six chapters are a compendium of the first nine chapters of Proverbs. In vii., viii., ix., the writer describes the road by which he attained the possession of Wisdom, as well as her innate excellences. From the tenth chapter to the end a series of examples are quoted from sacred history to demonstrate the manifold utility of Wisdom, to show the wickedness of sin, the blissful reward of faithful souls, the undying punishment of the wicked.

THE BOOK OF ECCLESIASTICUS.—This book is also entitled "The Wisdom of Jesus the Son of Sirach," or "Ecclesiasticus," i. e., preacher. Like the book of Ecclesiastes, the present work contains a body of moral precepts and exhortations tending to enforce the practice of all virtue and to exalt the excellence of wisdom. The author would appear to have aimed at following the plan of the three preceding books in composing his own. Hence we have first a body of maxims in imitation of the Proverbs, then a series of reflexions somewhat in the style of Ecclesiastes, and finally a long poetical panegyric of great and holy men, recalling the style of the Canticle of Canticles. It was written in the second century before Christ under the Asmonean or Machabean dynasty. It gives a very high idea of the culture of the Jewish schools of the period. Some passages recall the poetry and eloquence of Isaiah.

THE NEW TESTAMENT.

Most fittingly does the word "testament" apply to the body of inspired writings which contain the record of His death and last will, who is the great "Father of the world to come." From the lamb, the firstling of his flock, offered up in sacrifice by the martyred Abel in the first age of human history, and whose blood was mixed with the life-blood of the holy priest himself, all the victims offered to God by the patriarchs before Moses and by the sons of Aaron after him, only pointed to the one infinite and all-atoning Victim, CHRIST JESUS, "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the world." He came as our true brother, flesh of our flesh and bone of our bone, to teach us how to sanctify the present life by labor and suffering and God-like charity, in order thereby to make ourselves worthy of the eternal life to come and the everlasting Kingdom that He reconquered for His own redeemed. From His blood sprang up an immortal and world-wide society, the Church, which He made the heir to His Kingdom, the unfailing depositary of His power, the infallible interpreter of His last Will and Testament for the sanctification and salvation of the nations.

So, then, as the Old Testament was the Will of God solemnly and repeatedly expressed to send us a Saviour and sanctifier, even so is the New Testament this same Will carried out in the death of the Saviour and in the ordinances by which the fruit of His redemption, the means of salvation and sanctification, are secured to the entire race of man in all coming ages. The Second Adam, the Father of the new life, has left us a Mother upon earth to hold His place, to love us, to teach us, to train us to walk in the royal road of generosity and holiness marked out for us by the precepts and examples of God made Man.

"The Old Testament," says Cardinal Erra, "shows God creating the universe by a word; the New, on the contrary, shows God repairing the world by His death. The former, by repeating the promises relating to a future Redeemer, kept alive, without satisfying them, the ardent hopes of mankind, while shadowing forth dimly the design of Redemption. But no sooner has Christ come into the world, and the new covenant taken the place of the old, than the former obscurities disappear in the light of His coming, and all the ancient figures, all the predictions of the Prophets are verified in His Person. The covenant made on Mount Sinai was only in favor of the single house of Israel; the covenant signed on Calvary regards all mankind. The one was sealed with the blood of goats and oxen, the other with the blood of God's own Son. The spirit of the Old Law was one of fear and bondage; the glory of the New is the Spirit of Love and adoption. The one was the covenant of a brief period of time; the other is to be everlasting. Christ's Gospel promises rewards that are to be perpetual, infinite, spiritual, and heavenly; the law of Moses only held out a perishable, limited, visible, and earthly recompense. The Jews did, in deed, hope for the life to come; but they could only attain to its unspeakable felicity through faith in Christ." (Historia utriusque testamenti, lib. xi., chap. i.)

The New Testament writings contain twenty-seven books, divided by biblical scholars as follows:

Five Historical Books; namely, the four Gospels and the Acts of the Apostles. Fourteen Epistles of St. Paul. Seven Catholic or General Epistles. The Apocalypse or Revelation of St. John.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW

I. THE FIVE HISTORICAL BOOKS.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW.—Independent of all the curious learning which fill the books published in our day about the distinctive characters of each of the four Gospels, is the exquisite pleasure which the devout Christian mind never fails to find in reading and meditating the history of our dear Lord's life and death. The naked text of St. Matthew, or of any one of his brother Evangelists—take it up wherever you will—affords to the soul athirst for Him who is the Life of our life so much of sweet instruction, so much of consolation and strength, that one arises from the study of the chosen page with a great desire to return to it again. To all who sincerely and humbly seek to know Christ more and more, and to become more and more like to Him in thought and word and deed, God never fails to open, in every page of the Gospels, and sometimes in every verse, springs of thought so abundant, so unfailing, so refreshing, that one can scarcely tear one's lips away from these living waters. St. Ignatius Loyola was but a young and half-educated soldier, when he shut himself up behind the bushes and brambles of the Cavern of Manresa to study the mysteries of eternal life with only two books, the New Testament and the "Imitation of Christ." While there, as he afterward was impelled to declare for our edification, he learned more in a single hour spent alone with God in meditating on the life of our Lord, than years spent in listening to the most learned theologians could have taught him. And ever since his day, all who take up the Mysteries of Christ's life, passion, and resurrection, as laid down in the Saint's book of Spiritual Exercises, and meditate them reverently and humbly as he did, will learn more of Christ and of heavenly things than a lifetime of study could impart. "Was not our heart burning within us, whilst He spoke in the way, and opened to us the Scriptures?" said the two disciples of Emmaus to each other, when Christ had disappeared from their sight. To you, dear Reader, remembering our own sweet and frequent experience, we can only say: "Oh, taste and see that the Lord is sweet: blessed is the man that hopeth in Him!"

Let a modern writer, one—we would venture to affirm—who has drawn from this same source his deep knowledge of the Gospel and of its divine doctrines, instruct us on what distinguishes St. Matthew in particular. His Gospel, Father Coleridge says, "is penetrated from beginning to end with the thought that in our Lord were fulfilled all the types, all the anticipations, all the prophecies of the older dispensation. This and other features lie on the surface of St. Matthew's Gospel. It is not so obvious, but it seems equally true, to say that it is penned with a carefulness of design which makes it almost as much a treatise as a narrative: with a distinct purpose of embodying our Lord's general teaching to an extent and with a completeness which can be asserted of no other of the Gospels. It alone contains the Sermon on the Mount, and it gives us a far greater number of the parables and of the teachings of our Lord as to the counsels of perfection than any other. To these purposes St. Matthew has frequently, as might be expected in the writer of such a treatise, made the order of time subservient. . . . The plan of this Gospel is very simple and very obvious, and explains in a manner quite sufficiently satisfactory that apparent neglect of order which is, in truth, the faithful adherence to an order of a higher kind than that of mere historical sequence."

The sections into which St. Matthew's Gospel may be naturally divided are as follows: I. The birth, infancy, private life of Christ at Nazareth; the mission and preaching of the Precursor; the baptism of our Lord, with His fasting and temptation; chaps. i.-iv. II. The first mission of our Lord in Galilee, together with the pregnant summary of His doctrine, known as the Sermon on the Mount; chaps. iv. 11-vii. III. The seal of our Lord's divine mission in the various displays of His miraculous power; chaps. viii., ix. IV. The mission of the Apostles and the instructions delivered to them by the Master and destined for all future apostolic laborers; chap. x. V. St. John Baptist sends his disciples to Christ, and Christ's formal recognition of the Precursor's holiness, as well as the responsibility incurred by rejecting both the Precursor and the Messiah; chap. xi. VI. The doubts and opposition which neutralized the effects of Christ's miracles and preaching; chap. xii. VII. Christ's teaching by parables; chap. xiii. VIII. The missionary work in Galilee described, as well as the miracles with which it was accompanied, and the opposition of Christ's enemies; chaps. xiv., xv., xvi. 12. IX. The confession of Peter in Northern Galilee, and the solemn announcement of the Passion; xvi. 13. X. The Transfiguration and the preaching of the mystery of the Cross; xvii.-xx. XI. Christ enters Jerusalem on the Day of Palms, and His teaching in that city till the beginning of His Passion; xx. 17; xxv. XII. The Passion; chaps. xxvi., xxvii. XIII. The Resurrection; chap. xxviii.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. MARK.—It is thought that Mark the Evangelist is the same person as "John who was surnamed Mark" (Acts xii. 12). In this case his mother, Mary, is one of the most illustrious and blessed women of the early Church. For, beside being the sister of St. Barnabas, her son would thus have the twofold privilege of being an Evangelist and the associate of St. Paul in his apostolic labors. It is, moreover, a most venerable tradition, dating from the infancy of the Church, that St. Mark the Evangelist was even more closely bound to St. Peter by constant companionship; and that the Gospel which bears his name was written in Rome under the direction of the Prince of the Apostles, and at the request of the Roman Christians. Hence it is that St. Irenæus calls St. Mark "the interpreter and disciple of Peter," interpret et sectator Petri. St. Mark was, therefore, the son of the heroic and generous woman whose home in Jerusalem was not only that of Peter and his fellow-laborers, the asylum of the faithful in the first persecution, but the house which was the very first temple of the Christian religion in the City of David. It is no wonder that the son of such a mother should have been the loved and trusted companion of the two great Apostles.

The Gospel itself, as compared with that of St. Matthew, is more simple and elementary in its character. Some scholars have even considered it to be only an abridgment of the latter. Nevertheless, although St. Mark omits much of our Lord's teaching, whether discourses or parables, he dwells at greater length upon His miracles, as being more fitted to strike the pagan mind. "He drops the incidents and sayings which require special knowledge of the Jewish system or customs . . . The departures from the chronological order, which St. Matthew has made . . . are usually corrected by St. Mark" (Father Coleridge).

He begins with the missionary labors of John the Baptist, and his baptism of our Lord, the Temptation, and the first preaching in Galilee. At the close of the second chapter we have, in the controversy about the Sabbath, a key to the opposition which the Pharisees are getting up against the Master and His teaching. In the third chapter Christ's labors and miracles are at once introduced; then the selection of the Apostles. The multitude drawn by the new Teacher and His wondrous cures is such, and the labor of the little band of workmen is so unceasing and overwhelming, "that they could not so much as eat bread." The Scribes from Jerusalem declare the miracles to be the effect of Satanic power. There is a mighty fermentation of opinion and a passionate contention among the masses. There is such danger, too, in the bold speeches of Jesus, that "when His friends heard of it, they went out to lay hold on Him. For they said, He is become mad." Presently His mother and His near relatives or "brethren" appear on the scene, anxious about His safety. But He, who knows that His time of suffering has not yet come, and who is solely anxious to impress upon His hearers the divine value of His own message to them, and the renovating virtue of the supernatural truth and grace He brings to His nation, only answers: "Who is My Mother and My brethren? . . . Whosoever shall do the will of God, he is My brother, and My sister, and Mother." With the fourth chapter begins the teaching by parables, which, however, is but briefly dwelt on, the Evangelist insisting chiefly in the four following chapters on Christ's labors and miracles in Galilee. The tenth chapter describes the Divine Master's work in Peræa or "Judæa beyond the Jordan." The remainder of the book, from the eleventh chapter inclusively, recounts our Lord's teaching, trials, and sufferings in Jerusalem down to His death, resurrection, and ascension.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. LUKE.—St. Luke wrote his Gospel at a time when the faith had spread, and several attempts had been made to compose a satisfactory history of its Author, its origin, and its progress. He had been the companion of St. Paul, as he relates himself in the Acts of the Apostles, which he also wrote. It has been the constant tradition, both of the eastern and the western churches, that St. Luke was by profession a physician. Another but less accepted tradition attributes to him some skill as a painter. He remained the associate of St. Paul till after this apostle's first imprisonment in Rome; and obtained himself the crown of martyrdom like his beloved master. St. Irenæus, Tertullian, Origen, and Eusebius bear witness to the general and early belief that he wrote his Gospel under the direction of St. Paul, as St. Mark had written his under that of St. Peter.

Being a native of Antioch, Luke was familiar with the Greek language and culture. Hence the superior purity of his diction. "His work," says Father Coleridge, "is more like a regular history than that of the other Evangelists. He covers the whole ground from the Annunciation to the Ascension, and there is no prominent or important feature in the whole series of the mysteries and actions of our Lord's Life which he has left untouched. At the same time, his Gospel is to a great extent new—new either in the events which it relates or in the fresh incidents which it adds to the history of what has been already related, and he seems to make it his rule to supply omissions, and to illustrate the method and principles of our Lord's conduct by anecdotes or discourses, which resemble very much those which others have inserted, but which are not the same . . . If we consider St. Matthew as addressing himself primarily to the Hebrew Christians, or rather to their teachers, and St. Mark as turning upon the direct converts from heathenism, we may look upon St. Luke as the Evangelist of the Churches in which the Jewish element had been more or less absorbed by the larger influx of Gentiles . . . He dwells with particular care upon the sacerdotal character of our Lord, upon the healing and compassionate aspect of His life, upon His love for penitents and sinners, and the like. . . ."

The first section, chaps. i., ii., supplies the omissions of the other Gospels, giving the history of the conception and birth of our Lord and John Baptist, together with His presentation in the Temple, His hidden life at Nazareth, and His appearing among the Doctors in Jerusalem at the age of twelve. The incidents of this early portion of Christ's career mentioned by the two preceding Evangelists are passed over by St. Luke. The second section comprises chaps. iii., iv. and v., bringing the narrative down to the first preaching in Galilee. Chaps. vi.—ix. 20 give the entire second period of our Lord's life down to the Confession of St. Peter. From chap. ix. 21 to chap. xviii. 30 St. Luke relates what regards the doctrine of the Cross, the Transfiguration and our Lord's labors in Judæa, a portion of his life—the last year—not mentioned in the other Gospels. From chap. xviii. 31 to chap. xix. 27 are detailed the occurrences and sayings that took place between Christ's leaving Peræa and His arrival in Jerusalem. The remaining chapters are the history of His labors and sufferings in Jerusalem, of His resurrection, His manifestation to His disciples, and His ascension.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN.—John, as well as James the Elder or Greater, was by his mother, Mary-Salome, the first cousin of our Lord; James the Less or Younger and Jude or Thadæus being the sons of another sister—all four, on account of their near relationship, being designated in Jewish phrase as the brothers of our Lord. John was especially dear to Him; and this special affection has ever been attributed in the Church to John's virginal purity of heart. Of the life of this Evangelist we shall speak more fully when we treat of his Epistles. At present it is very important that the reader should have a clear notion of what is distinctive in his Gospel.

St. Irenæus states that John published his Gospel while he was residing in Ephesus. St. Jerome says that he wrote it at the request of the Asiatic bishops, who besought him to treat in a special manner of the divinity of Christ. It is thought that this Gospel, although completed and published in Ephesus, was chiefly, if not wholly, written in the isle of Patmos, and, not improbably, after the destruction of Jerusalem.

In its contents and scope it is evidently supplementary to the three other Gospels. "In truth, St. John's Gospel touches the others only at one single point before he comes to the last few days of our Lord's Life, and even as to those, nine-tenths of what he relates are altogether supplementary. St. John is distinguished for the great length at which he relates the words of our Lord, and the large space which he spends upon single incidents or occasions. Thus no Gospel is so easily broken up into its component parts as this; its arrangement becomes perfectly simple as soon as its supplementary character is recognized." Such is the judgment of Father Coleridge.

The book may be divided into two very distinct parts; the first part embracing eleven chapters ending with the recalling Lazarus to life; and the second, ten chapters, the incidents and discourses pertaining to the Last Supper, the Passion, the Resurrection, and the Ascension. The first part comprises two sections: I. Chaps. i.-iv. describe incidents and events of which nothing is said by the other Evangelists. The time they cover extends from Christ's baptism to the beginning of his first missionary tour through Galilee. The occurrences take place alternately in Judæa—on the banks of the Jordan, in Jerusalem or the adjacent territory—and in Galilee. II. The scene of the next six chapters, v.-x., is mostly in Jerusalem. Chapter v. recounts the healing on the Sabbath of the man sick for thirty-eight years, and the assertion by Christ of His own divinity during the public discussion occasioned by this miracle. Chapter vi. describes the multiplication of the loaves and fishes in Galilee, just before the second Pasch of Christ's public ministry, together with the discussion relating to the Manna and the Bread of Life figured by the Manna. The next four chapters, vii.-x., relate our Lord's sayings and doings during the last year of His Life, at the Feast of Tabernacles in the beginning of October, and at the Feast of the Dedication of the Temple in the December following. III. This section, comprising the eleventh chapter, gives an account of the miracle performed in favor of Lazarus. The Second Part of this Gospel gives, chapter after chapter, the Evangelist's additions to what had been already recorded in the other Gospels.

To the attentive and devout student of the New Testament, St. John's Gospel will give much light to understand the Life of our Lord as a whole, and much food for pious contemplation. The Beloved Disciple has been called "the Theologian" by the early Church Fathers, because he alone affirms again and again the divinity of our Lord. He knew him to be true man, born of his own near kinswoman, reared in his own country among his own kinsfolk, and, during the last period of the life ended so tragically, admitted into the closest companionship and loving intimacy with Him who was the true Son of God as well as the true Son of the Virgin Mary. It is the Divine Sonship of the Master that John proclaims in the very preface to his Gospel, lifting our souls up to these eternal splendors amid which the Word dwells evermore in the bosom of the Father.

THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES.—This book, which is also the work of the Evangelist St. Luke, is the only inspired history—even though a very partial one—of the infancy of the Christian Church. The events which it records cover a space of about thirty years. As the very title, "Acts," indicates, it is the record of an eye-witness. Still it is not, and does not purport to be, a full and complete history of the acts or labors of all the Apostles during that period. It relates, in the first part, principally the labors of St. Peter, and those of St. Paul in the second. Around these two great figures, indeed, are grouped subordinate laborers; these two, nevertheless, stand out in the narration as the central personages.

We see, in the very first chapter, the promise of Christ about the coming of the Holy Spirit fulfilled, and the timid Galilæan fishermen transformed into the dauntless and eloquent apostles of their crucified Master. Peter and John, the first in authority and the foremost in love, are also the boldest in confessing Him before the very people who had put Him to death. "Immediately after the Ascension," writes the Protestant Henry Alford, "St. Peter, the first of the Twelve, designated by our Lord as the Rock on which the Church was to be built, the holder of the Keys of the Kingdom, becomes the prime actor under God in the founding of the Church. He is the centre of the first group of sayings and doings. The opening of the door to the Jews (chap. ii.) and Gentiles (chap. x.) is his office, and by him, in good time, is accomplished." Let us listen to the great Bossuet as he resumes the belief of the Church on this point. "Peter appears as the first (among the apostles) in every way: the first to confess the faith (St. Matt. xvi. 16); the first in the obligation of exercising brotherly love (St. John xxi. 15 and following); the first of all the apostles who saw Christ risen from the dead (1 Cor. xv. 5), as he was to be the first to bear witness to the Resurrection in presence of the whole people (Acts ii. 14); the first to move in filling up the vacant place among the apostles (Acts i. 15); the first to confirm the faith by a miracle (ib. iii. 6, 7); the first to convert the Jews (ib. ii. 14); the first to admit the Gentiles (ib. x.); the first in everything." Hear him again tracing out the design of Providence in the career of the two great Apostles. "Christ doth not speak in vain. Peter shall bear with him, whithersoever he goeth, in this open confession of the faith (St. Matt. xvi. 16), the foundation on which stand all the churches. And here is the road the Apostle has to follow. Through Jerusalem, the holy city in which Christ manifested Himself; in which the Church was to "begin" (St. Luke xxiv. 47), before continuing the succession of God's people; in which consequently Peter was to be for a long time the foremost in teaching and in directing; whence he was wont to go round about visiting the persecuted churches (Acts ix. 32), and confirming them in the faith; in which it was needful for the great Paul—Paul come back from the third heaven—to go "to see Peter" (Galat. i. 18), not James, though he, so great an apostle, the "brother of the Lord," the Bishop of Jerusalem, surnamed the Just, and equally revered by both Jews and Christians, was also there. But it was not James that Paul was bound to come "to see." He came to see Peter, and to see him, as the original text suggests, as a thing full of wonders and worthy of being sought after. He came to contemplate and study Peter, as St. John Chrysostom hath it (in Epist. ad Gal., c. i., n. 11): to see him as some one greater and older than himself: to see Peter, nevertheless, not to be instructed by him, for Christ instructed Paul by a special revelation; but in order to leave a model to future ages, and to establish, once for all, that no matter how learned a man might be, no matter how holy—were he even another Paul—he must go to see Peter. . . . Through this holy city, then, and through Antioch, the metropolitan city of the East, . . . far more than that, the most illustrious church on earth, since in it the Christian name arose; . . . through these two glorious cities, so dear to the Church, and distinguished by such opposite features, Peter had to come to Rome—Rome still more illustrious, the head of Paganism and of the Empire, and which to seal the triumph of Christ over the world, is predestined to be the capital of religion, the head of the Church, Peter's own city. Thither was he per force to come by Jerusalem and Antioch. But why do we see St. Paul in it? The mysterious design would take long to explain. Only bear in mind the great division of the world between Peter and Paul, in which Peter, though given the whole world in charge in consequence of his primacy, and charged by an express command (Acts x.) to have a care of the Gentiles whom he admitted in the person of Cornelius the Centurion, did, nevertheless, take on himself the special care of the Jews even as Paul took a special care of the Gentiles (Galat. ii. 7, 8, 9). As a division was necessary, it was fitting that the first of the apostles should have the first-born among the peoples (the Jews); that he who was the head, and to whom all the rest must be united, should have the nation on which the others must be grafted, and that the Vicar of Christ should have Christ's own share. That, however, is not enough: Rome itself must fall to Peter's share. For, although, as the capital of Paganism, Rome belonged in a special manner to Paul, the Apostle of the Gentiles, nevertheless, it was in Rome that Peter, the head of Christendom, was bound to found the Church. Nor is this all: the extraordinary commission of St. Paul must die there with him, and thus returning to the supreme Chair of Peter, to which it was subordinated, the power of Paul must raise the Roman church to the highest point of authority and splendor" (Sermon on the Unity of the Church).

THE FOURTEEN EPISTLES OF ST. PAUL.

In the Acts of the Apostles St. Luke describes the first growth of the Church in Jerusalem and throughout Palestine, and, outside of Palestine, in various countries of Western Asia and Eastern Europe. A society arises and rapidly increases around the teaching and ruling body of Apostles so carefully chosen, trained, and instructed by our Lord Himself. They and their successors after them to the end of time were to teach the nations of earth "to observe all things whatsoever" the Master had revealed as the law of life for mankind (St. Matt. xxviii. 19, 20). This immortal society thus springing into existence beneath the shadow of the Cross of Calvary, was not only to teach with the fulness of Christ's own authority, but to baptize and administer to the faithful all Christ's saving and sanctifying ordinances; and on the human race who hear this preaching and this call to baptism and newness of life is imposed the necessity of complying under pain of eternal loss. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved: but he that believeth not, shall be condemned" (St. Mark xvi. 16). Baptism is but the door by which one enters into this Society: it is the indispensable initiatory rite and new birth in which the children of the fallen Adam are born again of the blood of the Second—the blood of a God. Other divine ordinances, sacraments of heavenly origin, and pregnant with divine virtue, are administered in due course, and according to the soul's needs, to maintain, renew, increase, and perfect the supernatural life bestowed in the new birth of Baptism.

And so this Society divinely commissioned to teach, to regenerate, and govern the race of man in all things pertaining to eternal salvation, stands forth in the full consciousness of its power, and speaks to Jerusalem and to the world by the mouth of Peter, its visible chief, on the day of the first Christian Pentecost. Three thousand men baptized and admitted forthwith into fellowship with the preacher and his associates, attest the might of the Spirit who moves both the speaker and his hearers. Thenceforward the mighty movement is propagated far and wide. They teach—these fathers of the new moral world which Christ came down to create—they baptize, they govern their flocks, with unquestioned authority, both the rulers and the subjects in the infant Church appreciating sensibly and to the full the last utterance of Christ: "Behold, I am with you all days even to the consummation of the world" (St. Matt. xxviii. 20).

In every one of the following epistles or letters addressed by St. Paul to the churches which he had founded or visited, or to the bishops he had set over them, the consciousness of this divinely-given authority is evident in the writer, and evidently supposed in the persons to whom they are written. He is in prison at Rome, and from there writes four of these touching letters, to Philemon, to the Colossians, the Philippians, and to the Ephesians. Just listen to some of the divine lessons of the imprisoned Apostle. To the noble Philemon whose forgiveness and brotherly charity he bespeaks for the fugitive slave Onesimus: "Though I have much confidence in Christ Jesus, to command thee that which is to the purpose, for charity sake I rather beseech, whereas thou art such an one, as Paul an old man, and now a prisoner also of Jesus Christ: I beseech thee for my son, whom I have begotten in my bands, Onesimus . . . Trusting in thy obedience, I have written to thee, knowing that thou wilt also do more than I say." Thus does apostolic charity address itself to the work of abolishing the inveterate evil of slavery along with the manifold corruptions of the Pagan world.—To the Colossians: "We (Timothy and Paul) . . . cease not to pray for you and to beg that you may be filled with the knowledge of His will, in all wisdom and spiritual understanding . . . If so ye continue in the faith, grounded, and settled, and immovable from the hope of the Gospel which ye have heard, which is preached in all the creation that is under heaven, whereof I Paul am made a minister. Who now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up those things that are wanting of the sufferings of Christ, in my flesh for His body, which is the Church . . . If you be risen with Christ, seek the things that are above where Christ is sitting at the right hand of God. Mind the things that are above, not the things that are upon the earth. For you are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God . . . Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth . . . uncleanness, lust, evil concupiscence, and covetousness . . . Stripping yourselves of the old man with his deeds, and putting on the new, him who is renewed unto knowledge, according to the image of Him that created him." This God-like virtue was the new wine which could not be held in old vessels: all had to be divine in the Christian man.—To the Philippians, who were especially dear to Paul: "My dearly beloved, my joy, and my crown: so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved! . . . Let your modesty be known to all men . . . Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever modest, whatsoever just, whatsoever holy, whatsoever lovely, whatsoever of good fame—if there be any virtue, if any praise of discipline—think on these things. The things which you have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, these do ye! and the God of peace shall be with you!"—Finally, to the Ephesians: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with spiritual blessings . . . in Christ. As He chose us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and unspotted in His sight in charity . . . I bow my knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, . . . that He would grant you, . . . to be strengthened by His Spirit with might unto the inward man. That Christ may dwell by faith in your hearts: that being rooted and founded in charity, you may be able to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth, and length, and height, and depth. To know also the charity of Christ, which surpasseth all knowledge, that you may be filled unto all the fulness of God."

"Any one, in reading the Epistles of St. Paul," says Bergier, "must see that they were written on the spur of some particular occurrence, to clear up some question put to the writer, to correct some dangerous abuse, to inculcate some special duties; that his purpose, in no one of these letters, was to draw up for the faithful a profession of faith, or an exposition of all the doctrines of Christian belief, or of all its moral duties; that, while writing to one Church, he never prescribes that his letter shall be communicated to all the others. It is, therefore, perverse obstinacy in Protestants to maintain that whenever St. Paul preached or taught by word of mouth, he confined himself to repeating the instructions contained in some one of his letters; and that no truth which is not laid down in writing can belong to the Christian doctrine." On the contrary, it is evident from a cursory glance at the Epistles themselves, that St. Paul refers to a previous body of truths delivered by oral teaching, and to the acknowledged fact that the members of each church had been thoroughly grounded by such teaching in the great truths of the new Revelation.

THE EPISTLE TO THE ROMANS.—This was, most probably, written from Corinth, in the 58th year after the birth of Christ, two years before St. Paul went to Rome, and twenty-four years after his conversion. During this quarter of a century the Christian faith had grown wonderfully in the capital of the Roman Empire. The church there, as in most other cities of the empire, was composed of Jewish and Gentile converts, among whom a discussion arose as to their relative claims to the esteem of the great body of believers throughout the world. The Jews prided themselves on their being the descendants of Abraham, on their ancestors having lived under a theocracy governed by a system of law and religion solemnly revealed to their own nation, while the rest of the human race remained in the darkness and horrid corruptions of idolatry. The converted Gentiles, on the other hand, nursed the belief that they had obtained the grace of conversion as a reward of their fidelity to the law of nature, and pointed out the many great and pure names of their philosophers, warriors, and statesmen. Thus the Jewish Christians seemed to think that their faithful observance of the Mosaic law had deserved the grace of the divine adoption and justification in Christ, while their Gentile brethren attributed their possessing a like privilege to their having followed the guidance of the natural light of reason. St. Paul, who had been specially chosen to teach the Gentile world, wrote this Epistle to convince both these classes of converts of their serious error, by showing that the supernatural grace of our adoption as children of God, and the whole subsequent train of graces which lead the soul to believe and to be justified, are bestowed on us gratuitously, as the effect of God's pure mercy, without any previous merit of our own. To stop the vain boasting of both Jew and Gentile, St. Paul shows how both were the slaves of sin, and, therefore, unable to merit the gift of justification by their own good deeds. The condition of the people of God was, indeed, attended with many singular spiritual advantages and privileges, as compared with that of the pagan world. Nevertheless, neither Jew nor Pagan could by their own merits lift themselves up to the supernatural rank and regenerated condition of the Christian people. In order to convey a conviction of this truth to the minds of the faithful at Rome, St. Paul begins by exposing the horrible crimes committed among Pagans even by the most enlightened philosophers—chap. i. In chap. ii. he enumerates the transgressions of the Jews; and concludes, in chap. iii., that in as much as both were thus subject to sin, so the justification vouchsafed them in Christ must be absolutely gratuitous, the effect of grace and not of legal justice or natural virtue, and therefore to be attributed to supernatural faith, which is a gift of God. This position is confirmed and illustrated by the example of Abraham's heroic faith and justification, chap. iv. In chap. v. is set forth the excellence of this grace of Christ; in chap. vi. the Christian soul is urged to preserve, cherish, and increase this priceless gift. In chap. vii. he teaches that even in the Christian, after baptism and justification, the evil forces of nature still remain with the low animal appetites (concupiscence) that drag the soul down toward sensual gratification: this concupiscence is a force which rebels against the restraints of the Mosaic law or the law of nature, without being put down by them, the victory over it being reserved to the grace received through Christ. St. Paul then proceeds to enumerate the fruits of faith, chap. viii.; shows in chaps. ix., x., xi., that the grace of justification was bestowed on the Gentiles in preference to the Jews, because the former readily submitted to the preaching of the Gospel, while the latter rejected Christ; that, whereas the supernatural gift of faith was a thing not due to either Jews or Gentiles, the promises made to Abraham and his posterity do not therefore fail, nor can the divine justice be impugned. In chaps. xii.–xvi., the Apostle inculcates the cardinal precepts of morality so necessary to all who believe in the Gospel (see Picquigny's Commentary on the Epistle to the Romans).

Vainly have those who reject the infallible authority of the Catholic Church endeavored to build on the words of St. Paul a system of blind and fatal predestination, alike injurious to the divine goodness and destructive of man's free will under the action of divine grace. From the passage, chap. ix. 13, "Jacob I have loved, but Esau I have hated," we must not conclude that our good God, without any regard to the merits of men and independently of His foreknowledge of their good and evil deeds, predestines some to be the objects of His hate and others to be the objects of His love. On the contrary, we are to believe that this predestination in its twofold aspect is based on the foreknowledge God must needs have of the good or evil deeds of every human being. Even so the words, "I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy," etc. (Ibid. 15), are not to be construed into an absolute election of a certain class of persons destined to everlasting happiness, independently of all prevision of their good or evil deeds. They simply imply that the almighty goodness is ever free to grant the grace of faith and justification to whomsoever it pleases. It is a supernatural gift, one not due to nature or natural merits. Hence St. Paul says (Ibid. 16): "So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that showeth mercy. . . . Therefore He hath mercy on whom He will; and, whom He will, He hardeneth;" that is, He allows the hard and rebellious heart to persist in its rejection of His graces, as He did in the case of Pharaoh and in that of the apostate Judas. So "to harden" is not to predestine to eternal damnation, any more than "to show mercy" or "to have mercy" is to predestine to eternal bliss.

Let us Catholics rest sweetly in the assurance that we have in the living voice of the Church an infallible interpreter of the dead letter of Scripture, whether it be the writings of St. Paul or any other book of the Old or New Testament.

I. AND II. TO THE CORINTHIANS.—Corinth, situated on a narrow neck of land that separated the Ægean from the Mediterranean Sea, was thus the central point on the very highway of commerce between Italy and Asia. The city was rich and beautiful, and the climate lovely. When it first fell beneath the arms of the Roman Republic, the seduction of its evil arts on that hitherto austere commonwealth was such, that from that time dates the decline of Roman virtue and liberty. The city had been visited by St. Peter before St. Paul came there, and the Christian faith had made such rapid conquests, and operated so extraordinary a change in the manners of the local Christian society, that it was the wonder of all Greece. Still, both because of the great mental activity which prevailed among Corinthians of all classes, and because of the concourse of strangers from the East and the West who met here like two adverse tides, there was a great diversity of opinion and sentiment among the faithful. St. Peter had left there as elsewhere the impress of his authority and the memory of his virtues. After him St. Paul had come, and the eloquence of the Apostle of the Gentiles had, not improbably, cast into the shade the preaching of the poor fisherman of Galilee; then had come from Alexandria Apollos, more eloquent even than Paul, and one who had the secret of all the philosophies of Egypt, Asia, and Greece. And so, as was the wont in the East, these cultured Christians would discuss the respective merits of their teachers, as the university students in Athens and Alexandria criticised the eloquence and doctrines of their rhetoricians and philosophers. This was one source of contention. Another came from their very imperfect acquaintance with the moral law of the Gospel—the Jewish converts, probably, contending for the maintenance of Jewish customs, while the Gentile proselytes refused to be governed by the prescriptions of the Mosaic law. The Corinthians themselves had, besides, written to St. Paul, begging to be instructed on several matters of doctrine and discipline. This letter is an answer to this prayer, as well as a general admonition to the church of Corinth to discountenance unwise and uncharitable discussions, and to cherish, above all things, union of souls by firm faith and inviolable charity. "Every one of you saith: I indeed am of Paul; and I am of Apollo; and I of Cephas; and I of Christ. Is Christ divided? Was Paul then crucified for you? or were you baptized in the name of Paul?" Such are the words of weighty remonstrance with which the Apostle begins his instruction, and they let us into the secret of these lamentable divisions. To the proud and vain Greeks, who sought and prized philosophical wisdom above all else, the Apostle declares that he knows but one wisdom: that by which God has redeemed and is converting the world through the mystery of the Cross, and the humiliations of the Crucified—a means of all the most inadequate according to the judgment of the worldly-wise. "But we have the mind of Christ," he declares, as the sole rule and measure of our judgments in things spiritual.

Wherefore, as the merits of their teachers did not bring about the change of heart wrought in the converts, but the hidden virtue of the Cross and the grace of the Crucified, so the labors of Apostolic men had been barren of all heavenly fruit without that same grace. "Let no man therefore glory in men. For all things are yours . . . And you are Christ's: and Christ is God's." It is worse than folly, then, to dispute about the personal qualities or merits of the Apostle through whom one has received the word of salvation, seeing that the Church and the whole body of the divine ordinances are God's gift to man in Christ, and that one ought to look to the Almighty Giver and the priceless gift rather than to the earthly channel through which it is communicated. Nevertheless, as the Apostles are the workmen and servants of the Master, to Him alone are they amenable in judgment. Hence, chap. iv., the severe reproof given to all who permit themselves to arraign the conduct of God's ministers.

To humble these vain-glorious and self-sufficient Corinthians, the Apostle, in chap. v., touches on the festering sore both of Pagan and Christian society in the beautiful city—unbridled licentiousness. A Christian man had forgotten himself so far as to marry his own stepmother. Him the Apostle excommunicates, and then comes the solemn admonition to the young Church of the place: "Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven corrupteth the whole lump? Purge out the old leaven, that you may be a new paste . . . Put away the Evil One from among yourselves!"

Then follow authoritative admonitions against the unbrotherly practice of bringing their wrongs for judgment before the Pagan tribunals, and against those sins of impurity that are so opposed to the ideal of Christian holiness, chap. vi.; lessons on marriage, virginity, and celibacy, chap. vii.; on abstinence from meats offered to idols, chap. viii.; on his own voluntary poverty, his working at a trade, and his bodily austerities, chap. ix.; on the abstinence from certain meats to be observed by the faithful, x.; on the dress and functions of women in the church-services, and the celebration of the Holy Eucharist, xi.; on the divine economy in the distribution of extraordinary gifts and graces, xii.; on the incomparable excellence of charity as the great central virtue to be sought and practiced by all, xiii.; on the preference to be given to the gift or talent of prophesying; that is, of understanding and expounding divine things, xiv. In the xvth chapter he answers the last question put to him by the Corinthians on the final resurrection, concluding, in the last chapter, with directions about collecting alms for the needy churches, and various farewell words of admonition and blessing.

The Second Epistle, written a few months after the First, was penned by the Apostle to relieve the excommunicated Corinthian of his heavy censure, and to encourage the prompt good-will of all those who had profited by the reproofs and teachings detailed above. St. Paul once more reasserts his apostolic independence of all earthly praise and commendation. The Judaizing faction, instead of yielding to Paul's appeal in favor of union and charity, still persisted in accusing him of undue leaning to the Gentiles and of defaming Moses and the law. They evidently went so far as to deny him the rank and quality of a true Apostle, thereby belittling his ministry and destroying his influence with a great number of people. These factious intrigues had, perhaps, induced the Corinthians to draw up letters commendatory of Paul and his labors. At any rate, he declines any such commendation, affirms the independence of the ministers of the New Testament, exalts the mission entrusted to himself and his associates (chap. iv.); urges them to be liberal in their charity toward the needy sister churches; and exhorts them to make a good use of God's liberality toward themselves. From chapter x. to the end he nobly defends himself and his labors against the detractors who had been so busy among the Corinthians.

EPISTLE TO THE GALATIANS.—This Epistle was written from Ephesus, according to the opinion of the best biblical scholars. The Galatians were the Gauls or Celts of Western Asia; they had been instructed in the faith by St. Paul, but, in his absence, had been, like the Corinthians, sadly disturbed by Judaizing mischief-makers, who persuaded them of the necessity of conforming to the law of circumcision and to other Jewish observances, depreciating at the same time the apostolic rank and services of Paul. He therefore writes to undo what these false teachers and pernicious zealots had been doing among the fervent, hot-headed, and impulsive Galatians. He establishes his own claim to the Apostolate by relating the fact of his miraculous conversion and his special mission to the Gentiles, a mission received immediately from Christ, and expressly approved by the body of the Apostles and by Peter in particular. He shows, moreover, that Peter as well as his colleagues had sanctioned the stand that he (Paul) had taken on the questions arising about the Mosaic Law, and the free and sinless intercourse of converted Jews with their Gentile brethren and others. He solemnly rejects the obligation which Judaizing Christians sought to impose on the Church of submitting to the prescriptions of the ceremonial law of Moses; and asserts the freedom from that law of servitude as the spiritual birthright of Christians. He, therefore, exhorts them to free themselves from the bondage of sensual superstitions to which both the modern Jews and the Gentiles were slaves, and to serve Christ in that lofty freedom of soul into which the apostolic teaching and the infallible guidance of the Church were sure to lead them. "Stand fast, and be not held again under the yoke of bondage. Behold, I Paul tell you, that if you be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing . . . You are made void of Christ, you who are justified in the law: you are fallen from grace . . . You did run well: who hath hindered you, that you should not obey the truth? This persuasion is not from Him that calleth you."

THE EPISTLE TO THE EPHESIANS.—The city of Ephesus has many claims on our veneration. It became, after the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus, the chief residence of the Apostle St. John, and the residence as well to the end of her life of the Blessed Virgin Mary. There, also, as tradition hath it, her blessed body was buried during the brief interval between her death and her assumption into heaven. Ephesus, moreover, was at that time not only the great stronghold of Pagan superstition—containing the incomparable Temple of Diana—but the great intellectual centre of Western Asia. Its schools rivaled in influence those of Alexandria and Athens, while its philosophers boasted of possessing all the secrets of the most ancient philosophies of the East. During the first seven centuries of Christianity Ephesus held a commanding place among the Asiatic churches, and was the scene of events and discussions famous in ecclesiastical history. Even when it fell into the hands of the Mohammedans, its traditions and monuments secured to the remnants of its Catholic population unusual protection and privileges.

As St. Paul had repeatedly visited Ephesus and labored there with extraordinary zeal and success, he could not but feel a most fatherly interest in the prosperity of a church holding such a position, and destined to wield such a powerful influence on the sister-churches of Asia Minor. There is a most touching passage in Acts xx. 15-38, describing Paul's interview at Miletus with the clergy of the Church of Ephesus. The beautiful farewell discourse which the Apostle addresses to them ought to be read in conjunction with this Epistle, written during Paul's first imprisonment at Rome, in the year 62.

The Epistle itself is one of the most sublime productions of the Apostle of the Gentiles. To the infant and persecuted Church of Ephesus, surrounded by schools in which were taught all the systems of Grecian and Asiatic philosophy, all the seductive theories of Persian Gnosticism, St. Paul exposes in this letter the whole scheme of God's supernatural providence in the Incarnation, the Redemption, and the establishment of the Church, the great instrument by which the human race, through all succeeding generations, might become incorporated into one undying Society under Christ as Head, and thus be made sharers of all the temporal and eternal benefits of His redemption. The Christian family are thus "the adopted children of God," i. 5, under Christ, the God-Man, elevated in Heaven above all created beings, and being made "Head over all the Church, which is His body, and the fulness of Him, who is filled all in all," i. 20-23. In Him, in this blessed society which is His mystic Body, all the social barriers established by oriental castes and prejudices are broken down; there is neither Greek nor Barbarian, nor slave nor free, nor Jew nor Gentile: "the Gentiles" are "fellow-heirs and copartners of His promise in Christ Jesus by the Gospel," iii. 6; Paul hath been sent to preach "the unsearchable riches of Christ, and to enlighten all men," without distinction, on the merciful design of the eternal God, iii. 8-21. The remainder of the epistle is a most eloquent exhortation to the God-like virtues becoming such a divine rank.

THE EPISTLE TO THE PHILIPPIANS.—Of this sufficient mention was made in the section on the "Fourteen Epistles of St. Paul." It is the sweet and affectionate expression of the Apostle's gratitude and fatherly tenderness toward a church which sent him in his dire need substantial proofs of love, and which gave, amid continual persecutions, evidence of heroic constancy and piety.

THE EPISTLE TO THE COLOSSIANS.—Colossæ was a beautiful and flourishing city, situated inland from Ephesus, on the head-waters of the Mæander and near the high-road from Ephesus to the Euphrates. Colossæ was thus exposed to the same dangerous influences against which St. Paul wished to guard the Ephesians in the Epistle addressed to them. There is a striking resemblance both in the doctrinal lessons he gives to the Colossians and in the practical virtues which he recommends to them, and the substance of his great Epistle to the Ephesians. The letter to the Church of Colossæ was also written by the Apostle from his prison in Rome, and sent by Tychicus, Epaphras, and Onesimus, the two latter being themselves Colossians by birth, and Epaphras having been, moreover, the first to preach the Gospel in his native city. In the first, or doctrinal portion, St. Paul clearly warns the Colossians against the Gnostic theories, as well as the narrow exclusiveness of the Judaizing preachers. We have been “translated (by God the Father) into the Kingdom of the Son of His love, . . . who is the first-born of every creature: for in Him were all things created in Heaven and on earth, visible and invisible,” i. 13-16.

The whole “mystery” of the Christian dispensation, the whole purpose of Christ’s work and government, is to present the Christian man “holy and unspotted and blameless before Him,” i. 22. It is to attain this end that Paul labors and suffers: “We preach admonishing every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus,” i. 28. They are to glory in Christ as being the infinite God and the infinite Wisdom. “As therefore you have received (been taught) Jesus Christ, walk ye in Him,” ii. 6. They are not to go back to the imperfect and now empty forms and observances of Judaism, ii. 16-23. They are to shine forth in supernatural newness of life, iii., iv.

THE FIRST EPISTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.—St. Paul had a special and well-merited affection for the churches of Thessalonica and Philippi. In both these cities the Gospel had been received willingly, and its professors there had shown themselves worthy followers of Paul and of his Master, Christ. There, however—throughout all Greece, indeed, as well as in Asia Minor—the Jews had shown themselves the bitter and unscrupulous opponents of the Apostles, and the unrelenting persecutors of all who embraced the Christian faith. Through their misrepresentations Paul had to fly from Philippi, and had been assailed in Thessalonica with still greater violence. Nevertheless, a flourishing church had sprung up there, composed principally of converts from Paganism. After St. Paul’s departure, the Jewish Synagogue in Thessalonica—powerful even then, and comprising at present fully one-third of the entire population—employed its whole influence in shaking the fidelity of the new Christians, and in persecuting all those whose constancy remained proof against persecution. St. Timothy, Paul’s indefatigable companion, had been sent to comfort the Thessalonians in their distress and to inquire carefully into their spiritual progress. On his return, he reported most favorably to his master. Thereupon St. Paul wrote to Thessalonica. It is the letter of a true fatherly, apostolic heart, written, most probably, from Corinth in the last months of the year 52. After expressing his devout gratitude for their progress and perseverance in virtue and piety, he replies to the personal abuse heaped on him by the Jews by recalling to the minds of his converts with what heroic zeal and disinterestedness he had labored among them, supporting himself the while by the work of his own hands. They have not, therefore, any cause to blush for their spiritual father. In the impossibility of returning to their city, he beseeches them to increase their fidelity and fervor; praises their extraordinary charity; urges them to attend, in all peacefulness and quietness, to their respective avocations, and to those steady habits of industry which secure independence. They are not to mourn hopelessly for their dead. They are destined to share in Christ’s glorious resurrection. Being certain that this Great Day of awakening shall come for all, “Let us not sleep as others do; but let us watch and be sober . . . And we beseech you, brethren, rebuke the unquiet, comfort the feeble-minded, support the weak, be patient towards all men.”

THE SECOND EPISTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.—

This was also written from Corinth very soon after the First, and for a like purpose. He particularly instructs them not to be alarmed by the predictions of some false teachers who went about announcing that the end of the world was near at hand. "Therefore, brethren, stand fast! and hold the traditions which you have learned, whether by word, or by our epistle."

THE FIRST AND SECOND EPISTLE TO TIMOTHY.—

This faithful companion and fellow-laborer of St. Paul was a native of Derbe or Lystra in Lycaonia, the son of a Greek father, and of a Jewish mother, Eunice, to whose careful training as well as to that of his grandmother, Lois, he owed not only his knowledge of the Old Testament writings, but his conversion to Christianity. From his first meeting with Paul at Lystra, the Apostle's soul was drawn to the heroic youth in whom he discovered all the great qualities that go to make the apostolic missionary and ruler of God's church. This was during St. Paul's first missionary tour, when Timothy was only a stripling. Seven years afterward, during Paul's second tour, Timothy was set apart and ordained for the apostolic ministry. Thenceforward he became Paul's right hand in his gigantic labors, going whithersoever the latter would, to confirm and console the faithful of Europe or Asia, following his master to Rome and sharing, it is thought, his first imprisonment there. After their liberation, Paul and his companion revisited Asia together, Timothy being placed in charge of the Church of Ephesus, while St. Paul went over to Macedonia.

The First Epistle, written at some uncertain date after the separation, is, manifestly, an instruction on the duties of the pastoral office, every line of which has been for eighteen centuries the delightful spiritual food of bishops and priests all over the world. The Second Epistle was written from St. Paul's prison in Rome, and most probably a very short time before his death. "I have a remembrance of thee in my prayers, night and day, desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy; calling to mind that faith which is in thee unfeigned, which also dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice, and I am certain that in thee also" (i. 3-5). Thus does the fatherly heart of the aged Apostle go out to the young bishop, touching and moving powerfully every heroic fibre in it, before he lays before him the details of the high and holy duties which are incumbent on him. It is like the eagle encouraging its young to try the loftiest flights.

"Only Luke is with me," the imprisoned Apostle says in concluding; "take Mark and bring him with thee . . . The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee, and the books, especially the parchments." Such is the poverty of this glorious apostle of Jesus of Nazareth! Would you see a further resemblance of Paul with his Master, listen to what the apostle says of his first appearance before the Roman magistrates, probably of his first trial by torture: "At my first answer no man stood with me, but all forsook me: may it not be laid to their charge! But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me," 2 Tim. iv. 16, 17.

THE EPISTLE TO TITUS.—Titus was the son of Greek parents, by birth a Gentile, consequently. He was a fellow-laborer of St. Paul and Barnabas at Antioch, and assisted with them at the Council of Jerusalem, in which it was decided that the Gentile converts should not be compelled to receive circumcision. He was employed by St. Paul on various missions to the churches, such as were intrusted to Timothy, and, like the latter, was appointed by the Apostle to discharge the episcopal functions. In the interval between St. Paul's first and second imprisonment at Rome, he visited Crete in company with Titus, and left the latter in the island after him to govern the church there. The Epistle addressed to Titus from Nicopolis (in Epirus, probably, where St. Paul was afterward arrested and carried a prisoner to Rome), after enumerating the chief virtues that should adorn a bishop, points out those which Titus is to insist on among the people he has to govern.

THE EPISTLE TO PHILEMON.—This is a touching plea for a fugitive slave, Onesimus, whom St. Paul had converted in Rome, whom he found a useful auxiliary in his ministrations, and whom he sends back to his native city, Colossæ, where he expects Philemon to receive him as a brother.

THE EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS.—The constant belief of the Catholic Church ascribes the authorship of this most beautiful epistle to St. Paul. The doubts which modern critics have endeavored to cast on its authenticity are of too evanescent a nature to cloud the faith of the true Christian scholar. It was probably written from Rome, and in the year 63. It was addressed, not so much to the Hebrew race in general, as to the Hebrew Christians of Palestine, and, particularly, those of Jerusalem. For many years before this Jerusalem had been held in terror by an organized band of assassins (the Sicarii), and in the year 62 the new High Priest Annas, or Ananus II., a rigid Sadducee, began a formidable persecution against the Christians, and summoned before the Sanhedrim St. James, Bishop of Jerusalem, and other leading Christians. The other James had, several years before, been put to death by order of Herod Agrippa, and since then, as if in atonement of this innocent blood, the Sicarii, with the connivance of Felix, the Roman Governor, had killed the High Priest Jonathan at the altar and in the very act of sacrificing. Everything in Judæa portended the near accomplishment of our Lord's prediction—the utter destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple, and the final dispersion of the Jewish nation. It was thus a period of terrible and manifold trial for the Christian Hebrews of Palestine. What was to compensate them for the loss of their nationality, the destruction of the Holy City, the blotting out of the national sanctuary, and the cessation of the worship of their forefathers?

No one better than St. Paul could lift up the soul of these suffering Christians, confirm their faith by showing how the ancient promises were all fulfilled in Christ, how the trials of the Hebrews of old should animate their descendants to heroic constancy, and sustain their hopes by laying before them in the glorious spectacle of Christ's universal Kingdom and everlasting priesthood—the consummation of their most patriotic aspirations? To understand, therefore, both the purpose and the scope of this epistle, we must recall to mind the objections which non-believing Jews were continually making against the Christian religion and its Founder. Christ, they said, the author of this new faith, was a man put to the most shameful death by a solemn sentence of the magistrates and the people, whereas the Jewish religion could boast of a Law delivered to their nation by Angels acting in God's name, and promulgated by Moses, the holiest and most illustrious of men. Moreover, the Christians, instead of the glorious Temple of Jerusalem, the splendid sacrificial ritual ordained by Moses, the uninterrupted succession of priests and Levites descended from Aaron, and the sacred and solemn yearly festivals which assembled the Hebrew people around the altars of the living God, had only obscure and mysterious rites celebrated in holes and corners, without any hereditary priesthood or recognized public temple. Where could the Hebrew people go, as of old, in their manifold needs, in their consciousness of sin, to find the Mercy Seat on which Jehovah dwelt, or the altar of holocausts on which to offer the atoning victims of their guilt?

St. Paul purposes to show that the Christian Religion is incomparably above the Jewish, in this, that its Author and Lawgiver is Christ, the Son of God and very God Himself, as superior to the angels and to Moses as the Creator is to His creatures. Moses, who stood as mediator between God and His people, was but a mortal man, whereas in our Mediator Christ, we have an infinite Person. The same transcendent excellence prevails in the rites and sacrifice of the New Law, and in the spiritual and eternal goods it bestows on its subjects.

In order to follow without confusion the course of St. Paul's demonstration, you have only to examine the natural divisions of this Epistle. I. From chap. i. to chap. iv., the Apostle shows the superiority of Christ's mediatorship above that intrusted either to the Angels or to Moses. He teaches (chap. i. 1-14) that Christ is above the Angels, although He has only spoken to us after the Prophets. For He is the Son of God, while they are only His messengers and ministers. Nor (ii. 6-8) does the fact of His being man argue His inferiority to the Angels, since even as Man, Christ hath been placed over all things. Besides, it was a necessary part of the divine plan of our redemption, that the Son should stoop to assume our human nature. "Because the children are partakers of flesh and blood, He also Himself in like manner hath been partaker of the same, that through death He might destroy him who had the empire of death, that is to say, the Devil."

Again (chaps. iii., iv.), Moses did not build the house in which he was a minister, whereas our Great High Priest is the builder and the master of God's House and Kingdom here below—a house and kingdom indeed which are only the figure of the heavenly and eternal. Moses, though faithful and true in his ministry, offended, and so did the people he guided, and they entered not into the rest of the Promised Land. Hence we Christians should take warning, and yearn for the eternal repose into which our Divine Leader hath already entered. "We have not a High Priest who cannot have compassion on our infirmities; but one tempted in all things, like as we are, without sin. Let us go therefore with confidence to the throne of grace: that we may obtain mercy, and find grace in seasonable aid" (iv. 15, 16). In these two last chapters the Apostle, with the art of a true orator, presses upon his afflicted and wavering brethren the danger and fearful consequences of apostasy or falling away from the faith. Those who followed Moses out of Egypt, who heard the word of the Lord in the wilderness and beheld His wonderful ways, wavered and failed in their faith; therefore did they not enter into the promised rest. How many perished in the desert! Even under Josue (Jesus iv. 8) they did not, in the land of Chanaan, obtain that divine and everlasting repose, which it belongs to the true Jesus, the only Saviour, to bestow. But firm faith in Him is already the beginning of possession, the anticipated enjoyment of that rest which gives God to the soul and the soul to God. Let us then give to Him through that living faith our whole heart and soul. "Having therefore a great High Priest that hath passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our confession."

II. St. Paul now proceeds to discuss the dignity and prerogatives of Christ's priesthood and the infinite virtue of His sacrifice, as the One Victim and oblation prefigured by the sacrificial offerings of the Old Law. In chap. v. 1-11, St. Paul proves that Christ performed the functions of the priestly office by offering up "gifts and sacrifices for sins." Moreover, He closed His earthly career by fulfilling in His own person and by His last acts the prophecy which likened Him to Melchisedech. "And being consummated, He became, to all that obey Him, the cause of eternal salvation, called by God a High Priest according to the order of Melchisedech."

As if the Reality prefigured in the sacrifice of Melchisedech, and consummated in the Bread and Wine offered up by Christ, recalled some formidable practical difficulties, the Apostle here turns aside (v. 11; vi. 20) to solve them for his readers. "Of whom (Melchisedech) we have much to say, and hard to be intelligibly uttered, because you are become weak to bear. . . . Strong meat is for the perfect, for them who by custom have their senses exercised to the discerning of good and evil." The Apostle is unwilling to rehearse for these vacillating Christians the elementary truths delivered to catechumens. And then comes the ferrible warning to those who allow their first fervor to cool during a time of persecution and their faith to waver, who have abused the most precious graces, and by this abuse placed themselves on the road to apostasy. "It is impossible for those who were once illuminated, have tasted also the heavenly Gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, have, moreover, tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, and are fallen away, to be renewed again to penance!" . . . Woe to "the earth that drinketh in the rain which cometh often upon it . . . but . . . bringeth forth thorns and briars!" . . . "It is reprobate and very near to a curse . . ." Then come words of generous praise for their former noble deeds of piety and charity, and a most beautiful exhortation to constant and increasing carefulness under present trials. Theirs must be the invincible patience and living faith of Abraham, who was rewarded after so much suffering and waiting. Even so must they anchor their faith and hope in Heaven, "Where the fore-runner Jesus is entered for us."

Taking up the thread of his argument where he had left it at the mention of Christ's priesthood in connection with that of Melchisedech, the Apostle proceeds to show that even as the typical Melchisedech, the King-priest of Salem, was superior in dignity to Abraham, and to Levi descended from Abraham with his sacerdotal progeny, so and far more so He who is "a Priest forever according to the order of Melchisedech," transcends both the priest-King of Salem and the Levitical priesthood. "By so much is Jesus made a surety of a better testament," vii. 22. "We have such an High Priest, who is set on the right hand of the throne of majesty in the Heavens, a minister of the Holies and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord hath pitched, and not man," viii. 1, 2. This High Priest, this Priesthood, this Tabernacle, this sacrificial worship, are that most perfect and divine exemplar which all preceding types and systems copied and foreshadowed.

The blood which flowed in the manifold Mosaic sacrifices was figurative of the blood of the One Infinite Victim; the sacrifices were many and daily renewed because of themselves inefficacious toward atonement or sanctification, ix. 1-10. "But Christ being come an High Priest of the good things to come, . . . by His own blood entered once into the Holies, having obtained eternal redemption," ix. 11, 12.

The national Jewish religion with its gorgeous worship was thus only "a shadow of the good things to come, not the very image of the things," x. 1—could "never make the comers thereunto perfect." Now we have in the Lamb of God the victim of infinite price and merit; and, therefore, "we are sanctified by the oblation of the body of Jesus Christ once," x. 10. So, "this [great High Priest] offering one sacrifice for sins, for ever sitteth at the right hand of God . . . By one oblation He hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified," x. 12, 14. Thus by the application to us of the infinite atoning merits of this one bloody sacrifice of Calvary is the guilt of all sin remitted, and through that Blood applied to our souls in every sacrament and every individual grace, are we enabled to go on from degree to degree of spiritual perfection and holiness. O Jews, wherefore, then, do ye weep over the prospect of the near destruction of your Temple and the coming ruin of your Sion? Wherefore refuse to be comforted because with the Temple shall cease forever the sacrificial worship of your forefathers? Look up to Jesus promised by Moses and the Prophets, prefigured by Melchisedech and his oblation. He, the Great High Priest of the perfect and everlasting Covenant, hath fulfilled both the unbloody oblation of the King-Priest of Salem and the bloody expiation foreshown by the Levitic sacrifices. Our Divine Melchisedech sits forever at the right hand of the Father, offering evermore for all succeeding generations His Body and Blood as the price of their ransom and the source of all saving and sanctifying graces. And on earth, even when your Temple disappears, and not one drop of blood shall redden the spot where it now stands, there shall continue all over the earth from the rising to the setting sun the Everlasting Commemoration of Christ's bloody sacrifice, the unbloody offering of Melchisedech. Thus heaven and earth shall ever unite in the divine and perfect offering of Him who is a Priest forever according to the order of Melchisedech.

Having thus established the superiority of the New Covenant over the Old, St. Paul once more appeals to his Hebrew coreligionists to continue steadfast in the faith, x. 19-30. "Let us consider one another to provoke unto charity and good works." The Christian Church may not punish with death apostates and transgressors, as was the wont of the Jewish (x. 28); but the spiritual and unseen punishment reserved to the apostate from Christianity is not the less terrible or uncertain, because unseen. "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God!" The bitter trials which the Church has to endure will soon be ended. Meanwhile her sons must arm themselves with faith and the heroic patience faith begets.

III. The three remaining chapters are taken up with a description of that living faith—the mightiest of moral forces—and its wonderful effects, as exemplified in their own illustrious ancestors (chap. xi.); with a stirring exhortation to his Christian brethren to emulate such glorious examples (chap. xii.), and to devote themselves to the practice of brotherly charity and its kindred active virtues—the most efficacious preservative against human respect and loss of fervor (chap. xiii.)

III. THE SEVEN CATHOLIC EPISTLES.

THE EPISTLE OF ST. JAMES.—Although some writers have attributed the authorship of this Epistle to St. James the Elder, the brother of St. John, the great majority of biblical scholars ascribe it to St. James the Less or the Younger, Bishop of Jerusalem, and brother of St. Jude. The former was put to death by Herod Agrippa in the year 44, and the latter suffered martyrdom about 62 or 63 by order of the High Priest Annas or Ananus II. It is thought that he wrote this Epistle in the year 59, some three years before his death. This glorious relative of our Lord was one of those to whom He deigned to show Himself in a special manner after the resurrection (1 Cor. xv. 7). He had his residence in Jerusalem, where he was looked upon as a pillar of the Church, and where he was visited by St. Paul soon after the conversion of the latter (Galat. i. 18); and where also he assisted at the council held by the Apostles, and pronounced a discourse to which the others assented. From his coreligionists, fellow-citizens, and contemporaries he received the surname of "the Just," and was, besides, popularly designated as "Oblias" or "the bulwark of the people," on account of his extraordinary devotion to prayer and his influence with the Divine Majesty. St. Epiphanius says that he was appointed by our Lord Himself to govern the Church of Jerusalem.

In his Epistle, which he addressed to all the Christian Churches, St. James insists on the necessity of good works as the proper fruits of a soul filled with a living and active faith. He insisted on this in order to confute the erroneous interpretation given in many places to the doctrine of St. Paul, on the inadequacy of works performed in fulfillment either of the Law of Moses or the Law of Nature to merit or effect justification: this was to be the effect of divine grace alone. The false interpreters of St. Paul affirmed that the works performed by charity were not necessary to salvation; that faith alone sufficed. Hence the declaration of the Apostle: "Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves" (i. 22). "If then you fulfill the royal law, according to the Scriptures, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, you do well" (ii. 8). "What shall it profit, my brethren, if a man say he hath faith, but hath not works? Shall faith be able to save him?" (ii. 14). "For even as the body without the spirit is dead; so also faith without works is dead" (ii. 26). Both St. Paul and t. James taught that in the Christian soul supernatural faith and charity should go hand in hand working out man's salvation under the guidance of the Spirit of God, and producing deeds worthy of an adopted child of God. Both the one and the other taught that supernatural faith and charity, and all the divine forces that lift the soul of the sinner or the natural man to the state of grace or justification, are the free gift of God through Jesus Christ. Man's part in the vital acts which enter into the process of justification consists in yielding a free assent to the light vouchsafed him and obeying the impulse of the Spirit who moves his heart.

In this Epistle St. James, as is the common opinion, promulgated the doctrine relating to Extreme Unction, which had been instituted by our Lord, and which He taught His disciples to practice as is hinted in St. Mark vi. 13.

THE FIRST AND SECOND EPISTLES OF ST. PETER.—These are also termed "Catholic," because addressed to the faithful at large. The First Epistle is dated from "Babylon;" that is, Rome, according to the common interpretation of Catholics. Its substance, form, and tone remind one forcibly of the doctrinal encyclicals of the Roman Pontiffs, Peter's successors. Its purpose evidently is to instruct the Hebrew converts of Asia Minor, while edifying also those of other nationalities. He bids them adorn their Christian profession by holiness of life. Like St. Paul, Peter lifts the souls of his readers to the contemplation of the unchangeable Kingdom which is to be their inheritance in heaven, as the adopted children of the Father in Christ. This, however, is only the prize to be won by long-suffering patience here. This glorious and fruitful trial of their faith, as well as its unspeakable reward, has been the subject of the Prophecies so familiar to the Jews and now not unknown to their Gentile fellow-believers; for this trial they have been also prepared by the ministers of the Gospel (i. 1-12). Purchased from sin by an infinite price, "the precious blood of Christ, as of a Lamb unspotted and undefiled," let them be holy even as He is holy (13-25). In chap. ii. the Apostle continues to describe in fuller detail the means by which Christian humanity, regenerated or born anew of the blood of a God, may form a society of God-like brothers. Laying aside all the passions that are born of pride and selfishness, they are to be "as new-born babes" desiring earnestly the milk of this heavenly truth which feeds and elevates their rational nature, that thereby they may "grow unto salvation." Nay, more than that, the members of this society are likened to "living stones built up, a spiritual house" (ii. 5), the "chief corner-stone" of which is Christ. Anxious to see this glorious edifice brought to perfection and filling the earth, Peter, who is, under Christ, the Rock and foundation on which the whole structure reposes, addresses the faithful on the virtues that are most conducive to edification. "Dearly beloved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, to refrain yourselves from carnal desires which war against the soul, having your conversation (manner of living) good among the Gentiles: that, whereas they speak against you as evil doers, they may, by the good works which they shall behold in you, glorify God in the day of visitation" (11, 12). And so, throughout the remainder of the Epistle, he continues to inculcate the practice of the private and public virtues that are ever sure to win Christians the love and reverence of mankind.

In the Second Epistle, written, most probably, from prison and shortly before his death, St. Peter insists on the divine rank to which regenerated man is lifted in Jesus Christ. This great and fundamental truth must be, for converted Jews and Gentiles, like a beacon-light placed on high above the road of life and guiding all the followers of Christ to the loftiest aims and the noblest deeds. "All things of His divine power, which appertain to life and godliness, are given us through the knowledge of Him who hath called us by His own proper glory and virtue. By whom He hath given us most great and precious promises; that by these you may be made PARTAKERS OF THE DIVINE NATURE, flying the corruption of that concupiscence which is in the world" (i. 3, 4).

The supernatural knowledge of Christ, and of the Christian's sublime destinies in Him, is not only light in the mind but fire in the heart, purging it from the dross of all earthly and impure affections. This sacred fire cannot be concealed within the soul, but must needs break forth in one's whole outward life, enlightening all who come within its reach, and communicating to them the ardor of that heavenly charity which is as inseparable from the words and deeds of the true Christian as the sun's radiance and warmth are from the sun itself. Ponder every line and word throughout these too short chapters, and see how the inspired admonitions of the first Roman Pontiff are fitted to the needs of our own nineteenth century, warning us against the apostate Christians who put away Revealed Truth from them, because they, too, have "eyes full of adultery and of sin that ceaseth not" (ii. 14); . . . "Speaking proud words of vanity, they allure by the desires of fleshly riotousness those who for a little while escape, such as converse in error: promising them liberty, whereas they themselves are the slaves of corruption" (18, 19).

And how touching is the allusion to the Apostle's own death, so near at hand and so clearly revealed to himself! "I think it meet as long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you up by putting you in remembrance, being assured that the laying away of my tabernacle is at hand, according as our Lord Jesus Christ also hath signified to me" (ii. 13, 14). The truth which this man, who is already in chains for his faith, and who is about to crown his apostleship by martyrdom and thus to seal his witness by his own blood, has preached throughout the Roman Empire and planted in Rome itself, is neither fiction nor imposture. "For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known to you the power and presence of our Lord Jesus Christ: but having been made eye-witness of His majesty . . . And we have the more firm prophetic word, whereunto you do well to attend, as to a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the Day-Star arise in your hearts: understanding this first, that no prophecy of Scripture is made by private interpretation. For prophecy came not by the will of man at any time: but the holy men of God spoke, inspired by the Holy Ghost. But there were also false prophets among the [Jewish] people, even as there shall be among you lying teachers, who shall bring in sects of perdition, and deny the Lord who bought them . . . And many shall follow their riotousnesses, through whom the WAY OF TRUTH shall be evil spoken of" (ii. 16-21; iii. 1, 2).

THE THREE EPISTLES OF ST. JOHN THE APOSTLE.

—The first of these bore anciently the title of "Epistle to the Parthians," and was therefore supposed to have been addressed to such Jewish Christians as resided within the Parthian Empire. It is directed against the followers of Simon Magus, Cerinthus, and of Gnosticism. Simon maintained that Christ was not the Messiah, and claimed for himself the glory which he denied to Jesus, affirming that He only bore the semblance of our humanity, and that the body nailed to the Cross was not a substantial body. This was also, to a certain extent, the error of the Gnostics and the Docetæ, who denied the reality of Christ's birth and death. Finally, Cerinthus taught that Jesus was nothing but an ordinary man, the real son of Joseph, on whom, at His baptism by John, the Holy Ghost or Christ descended in the form of a dove, forsaking Him during His death agony. Thus, all of these agreed in denying the divinity of Christ. Against them all, and in favor of the One true Messiah whom he knew to be both very God and very man, John wrote. "That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon and our hands have handled, of the word of life; for the life was manifested; and we have seen and do bear witness, and declare unto you the life eternal, which was with the Father, and hath appeared unto us" (i. 1, 2). "Every spirit which confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is of God: and every spirit that dissolveth Jesus, is not of God" (iv. 2, 3). On the necessity of good work, especially of brotherly charity and its fruits, St. John insists with the other Apostles, Peter, Paul, and James, while inculcating a firm faith, invincible patience and spotless purity of life.

The authenticity of the Second and Third Epistles was denied by some scholars. They belong, however, to the canon received by the Church, and bear intrinsic evidence of St. John's authorship, besides the external weight of authority which ascribes these two letters to him.

THE EPISTLE OF ST. JUDE THE APOSTLE.—Jude was the brother of St. James the Younger or the Just, Bishop of Jerusalem. He was, consequently, a son of Alphaeus or Cleophas, and a near relative of our Lord. It is not known when and where this epistle was written. It warns the faithful against following certain false teachers and sharing their awful doom. The reader will perceive, on an attentive perusal, how closely it resembles the Second Epistle of St. Peter.

THE APOCALYPSE OF ST. JOHN THE APOSTLE.—The Greek word Apokalypsis means "an unveiling;" hence the Protestant translators have called it The Revelation of St. John. It is thought to have been written about the year of our Lord 95 or 97, and, most likely, in the Island of Patmos. It is the only prophetic book among the New Testament Scriptures, and its inherent obscurity has exercised, during more than eighteen hundred years, the ingenuity of the most eminent biblical scholars and theologians.

It may suffice, however, to take up the text of the Apocalypse, and to find in the natural sequence of the chapters themselves the light which will enable one to understand more clearly the history of the Christian Church in the past, to appreciate her struggles in the present, and to look forward with the eye of exultant hope to her certain victories in the future, as well as to that Supreme Day of Judgment which will vindicate the whole mysterious order of God's providence.

We can divide the whole matter of this sublime book into two parts. In the first, embracing the first three chapters, St. John addresses himself in particular to the faithful of Proconsular Asia, who were his special charge, and reproves what he finds censurable in the seven dioceses or churches within the Proconsulate. This portion, therefore, is strictly ethical and historical. The second and prophetic portion embraces the remainder of the book from chap. iv. to the end, and describes, under various allegorical and mystical forms, the stages through which the Church has to pass, especially the last period of her existence, the times of Antichrist. Such is the view presented by the learned and saintly Cornelius à Lapide. The purpose of the Apostle, according to this author, is to animate the faithful of the apostolic age and of all future times to invincible constancy in the faith, to the highest forms of holiness, and more particularly to strengthen the martyrs in the days of persecution to bear their witness with unflinching firmness. Let me add here to the learned Jesuit's thought, that St. John regarded in a special manner the condition and the needs of the numerous Jewish Christians at the close of the first century. St. Paul, in almost every one of his epistles, shows them in the magnificent realities promised in the Gospel a compensation for their loss of caste among their non-Christian countrymen, and a sublime consolation for the dispersion of their race, the destruction of Jerusalem, and the annihilation of their national worship. The spectacle disclosed to the Apostle of the Eternal Temple on high, the Throne with its ineffable splendors, the seventy Elders on their royal seats, the twelve times twelve thousand from the Tribes of Israel forming the glorious nucleus of the beatified multitude which no man could number, and the Altar with its Lamb ever sacrificed and ever immortal—all that went home to the hearts of the poor down-trodden Jewish exiles; all that was calculated to make them find in the daily Agapæ or celebrations of the Eucharistic sacrifice a significance, a divine and blissful Reality that could well make them feel that Heaven was not far from earth, and that the earthly house of God, though but a corner in the Catacombs, had some of the intense and unspeakable enjoyments of the Eternal Home. And so the seed of Abraham continued to be, among the Gentiles, the fruitful seed of Christianity, thanks to the skilful and loving husbandry of Peter and Paul and John and James and Jude.

Besides, all throughout Asia Minor, during the age of St. John and long afterward, such heretics as Cerinthus and Ebion denied openly, and in Ephesus itself, the divinity of Christ, although they persisted in calling themselves His followers, as do to this day among ourselves Sects that we need not name. They also taught that Christ, even as the Son of God, had no existence before the Blessed Virgin Mary. As it was to prepare an antidote to this heretical poison that St. John wrote his Gospel, and proclaimed "In the beginning was the Word, etc.," so in the Apocalypse he makes Christ Himself declare: "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, . . . who is, and who was, and who is to come, the Almighty" (i. 8). Others, again, never ceased to say, amid the horrible and unceasing persecutions with which the young Christian Church was assailed, that she must of a necessity be crushed by the irresistible might of the hostile powers, and that there could be no reward for the Confessors and martyrs of Christ. John shows, on the contrary, that the tree of the Church waxes strong amid all the fury of the tempest, and that for those who struggle here for the good cause there is laid up an eternal reward. It is this triumph of the just which he describes in chaps. xxi. and xxii.

JESUS CROWNED WITH THORNS.

MARY, MOTHER OF GOD.

THE PARABLES OF OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST.

WELL do we know that no portion of the New Testament will be more lovingly or fruitfully read in the bosom of the Christian family than this, which embraces the divine lessons given us in the Parables. We, therefore, abstain from giving any theory of our own to enable the reader to understand thoroughly not only the sublime truths that underlie each parable in particular, but the reason that induced our Lord to teach by parables, and the general scope of this portion of His teaching. Fortunately, in our own days one of the most beautiful minds which Oxford has given to the Catholic Church, and one of those who have best caught the spirit of St. Ignatius in interpreting the Scriptures, Father Henry James Coleridge, has found a Key to the Parables. We, therefore, deem it a precious service to Christian families to abridge here for them the pregnant pages taken from "The Life of our Life."

Although in the first period of our Lord's teaching there is more than one instance of His conveying instruction in the form of a parable, as in St. Luke vii. 40-48, nevertheless, it is only a short time before the death of St. John the Baptist and the sending of His disciples on their first mission. The opposition of the Scribes and Pharisees had taken a much more violent and malignant form, not only with regard to our Lord's way of understanding how the Sabbath was to be kept, but concerning His miracles themselves, which these wilfully blind men attributed to Beelzebub. It is near Capharnaum or Bethsaïda, on the border of the Sea of Galilee, and seated on a fishing-boat near the shore and within hearing of the mixed multitude, that He began to teach in this form. It was, like fables and similitudes, a way of putting truths which the memory seized and retained. The well-disposed hearers bore the parable away with them, like a precious fruit to be eaten with delight in their own privacy. The inattentive did not care to remember and to understand, letting the precious fruit dropped from the Tree of Knowledge lie unheeded on the ground.

While the evil-minded hearers could not find in this indirect and covert mode of teaching or rebuke a subject for formal accusation.

"There never seems to have been a time when our Lord lost His wonderful charm and power in their eyes. But the continuance of His preaching in Galilee must have taken away the freshness of His influence, and there must have been very many who had heard Him without profiting by what they heard, with whom, according to the inevitable law which prevails in the Spiritual order, opportunities neglected and warnings unheeded, revenged themselves, as it were, in increasing hardness and dulness of heart. There may also have been some who grew colder towards Him in proportion as it became apparent that He was in disfavor with the ecclesiastical authorities. The power of the rulers at Jerusalem was very great, as we see both in our Lord's own Life and in the history of the Acts, and when this influence was thrown continually and strongly into the scale against Him, there must have been very many whom it would tend to drive away from Him. Our Lord met this difference in the people by a change in the manner of His teaching, which is noticed as important by each of the three historical Evangelists. This form of teaching has the great advantage of being intelligible to those who are attentive and diligent, and whose hearts are eager for Divine truth, while it conveys comparatively little or nothing to those who are taken up with worldly cares, or who are the servants of passion. Thus it avoids the danger of which our Lord spoke in His Sermon on the Mount, of what, using at the time a parabolic image, He called casting pearls before swine, and giving that which is holy to dogs. Again, such a method of teaching is a shield against any malevolence which may exist in a part of the audience, and on more than one occasion, as we shall see, must have baffled our Lord's enemies, watchful and insidious as they were.

THE PARABLE OF THE PRODIGAL SON.

ST. LUKE XVI.

"The subject-matter of our Lord's teaching by parables was also different from that of which the Sermon on the Mount treats, although we have several later parables in the Gospels, which seem to have the same scope, such as that of the Unmerciful Servant or the Ten Virgins. But in general the parables, especially the first great cluster of them which begins with the Parable of the Sower, seem intended to sketch certain great truths as to the character of God as manifested in the government of the world, and also the manner in which men receive and deal with the graces and mercies which are offered to them by God. These were subjects which, especially from the time when the opposition to our Lord took the form of calumnies which imputed His miraculous works to the agency of Satan, and so involved the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, He did not wish either to hide from those whose hearts were still sound, or to thrust without reserve upon the notice of those to whom they would do harm, or whom they might prompt to still more violent hostility.

THE PARABLE OF THE VINEYARD

ST. MARK XII.

"We believe that it will be found easier to grasp the main idea of the parables as a whole, if we consider that they are meant to illustrate one great head of doctrine which is most naturally fitted for promulgation under this particular form. The parables differ, of course, from the other teaching of our Lord in their descriptive character, the lesson being left to be gathered from the truths involved in the description. And that which is the subject of the description, that one great head to which the parables refer, is, God in His dealings with His creatures, and especially with man

"When the time had come for Him to teach the people more fully about God, and especially about that great revelation of Himself which is contained in His providence and in the arrangement of His Kingdom, in the widest sense of that word, He found Himself constrained to adopt this particular mode of teaching more exclusively, by means of which the mystery of the Kingdom might be enshrined in the most familiar form, a form which can scarcely escape the memory after that faculty has once taken it in, and yet be so enshrined therein as not to be thrust we may venture to say that He was fain to pour forth, in some form analogous to the highest song, the thoughts to which the possession of all the knowledge concerning God with which the Sacred Humanity was endowed gave birth. The knowledge thus given to Him . . . was given not for Himself alone, but for us—for the children of the Church throughout all ages; and we may consider those instructions of His, which the Providence of His Father had determined should come down to us in the Gospel narratives, as having been framed for us as well as for upon the notice of those incapable of understanding it, while at the same time it invited the thoughtful pondering of those whose hearts were already to some extent enlightened concerning it. If we might be so bold as to compare what passed in our Lord's Sacred Heart with what is noblest and best in the workings and productions of the most gifted of men—

Those whose hearts are beating high
With the pulse of poetry—

"The first of all the formal parables, which is also one of those few parables which our Lord Himself has explained in detail, seems at first sight to be a description of the different ways in which the word of God—in whatever form and under whatever dispensation—is received by man. But it is commonly called the Parable of the Sower (St. Matt. xiii.; St. Mark iv.; St. Luke viii.), from its first words and from its principal figure, God, who sows His seed broadcast and with so much profusion, and seems, as has so often been remarked, in both His material and His those to whom they were immediately addressed . . . We cannot, then, be far wrong if we venture to approach the parables of our Lord with this thought in our minds—that they contain more, perhaps, than any other part of His teaching, His description of His Father in His dealings with those who belong to Him. Let us allow ourselves to suppose that to these applies, at least as fully as to any other part of His discourses, the text: 'The only-begotten Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, He hath declared Him. . . .'

spiritual creation, to waste so many beginnings which do not come to maturity, for the sake, if we may so speak, of the rich and multiplied beauty and fruitfulness of a few. This law which runs through the whole of God's Kingdom, as far as we know it, suggests many truths concerning Him—His magnificence and liberality, the manner in which even imperfect works, as they seem to us, manifest His glory, the dignity which His grace gives to those who co-operate with it, and the like; while it has a clearer significance when seen working on creations of free beings, who can co-operate with that grace or not, and furnishes a silent commentary on the failure of our Lord's own particular mission of which He had lately been so mournfully complaining. The minute details of the parable, giving so vivid a picture that we almost seem to see the spot near the sea-shore from which every feature of the image may have been taken, are explained by our Lord of the different circumstances under which so much of the good seed of the Word of God is wasted, while only a part of it takes root in good ground. . .

"The next parable, known as that of the Tares or Cockle (St. Matt. xiii.), tells us still more about the mystery of the Kingdom, for in this not only is the good seed wasted, but bad seed is actually sown, and springs up by the side of the good that is not wasted. How many of the difficulties as to God's providence may not be solved by the simple words, 'Suffer both to grow until the harvest?' . . . The six parables—those of the Seed that grows secretly, of the Grain of Mustard-seed, of the Leaven, of the Hidden Treasure, the Precious Pearl, and the Draw-net—which follow those of the Sower and the Tares, may be considered as completing, each by the addition of some special feature, the picture drawn by our Lord in His general dealings in His Kingdom. God addresses Himself to His creatures, and allows them to accept or refuse Him . . . The image of the grain of mustard-seed seems to represent the outward development and magnificent growth of the work of God in the world, while that of the Leaven explains the law of its growth, which is from within, by the silent spread of the influence of grace . . . It need not be questioned that these parables, like many others, are historical and prophetic. But they come true in history, because they represent the principles on which God works, and these principles are ultimately the echoes and reflections of His character, His wisdom, His patience, His winning ways with His creatures—that sweetness with which He 'ordereth all things' of which the Scripture speaks . . .

"In the parables of the Pearl and of the Treasure the holy instinct which seeks the pearl comes from Him, and the seeming accident of finding the treasure comes from Him, as well as the grace by which he that finds either pearl or treasure understands its value, and has the courage and prudence to sell all that he has and give it for what he has found . . . Another interpretation of these two parables . . . applies them directly to God, Who seeks or finds human nature, the human soul, the Church, the great body of His elect, and gives Himself and all that He has in the incarnation to make the treasure or the pearl His own. . . . The primary meaning of the parables may be to represent the action of God in seeking us, the one great ineffable, inexplicable outpouring of love of which Creation is the first fruit, Preservation, Providence, Redemption, Sanctification, and Glorification in the possession of God by the beatific vision forever, the final crown; and the sense which speaks to us of the return of the tide of love from our small and miserable hearts towards God, a return set in motion and guided and maintained by Himself, may be not only true, though secondary, but absolutely involved in and founded on and a part of the first. The parable of the Draw-net comes in at the end of the first series of parables as answering to and in a certain sense balancing the parable of the Sower. For in that first parable we have the image of God scattering His seed at random, as it appears, and submitting to the loss of a great part of it for the sake of the return brought in by that which takes root in good soil. In the parable of the Draw-net we see that God acts thus for His own purposes, and brings both good and bad within the range of His action, in order that in the end He may select His own and reject those who are not to be His . . . Thus, at the beginning of this series of parables, God is represented as freely offering His grace to men who in various ways reject the good seed; and now at the end of the series, the other side of the truth is put forward, and it is God who rejects and even punishes; for no one is rejected by Him save through fault of his own."

The parable of the Unmerciful Servant (St. Matt. xviii. 21-35) comes between the first and second series of parables.

GOD

SPAKE ALL THESE WORDS.

I.

I AM the Lord thy God; thou shalt have no other Gods but me.

II.

THOU shalt not take the name of the
Lord thy God in vain.

III.

REMEMBER that thou keep holy the Sabbath day.

IV.

HONOUR thy father and thy mother.

V.

THOU shalt not kill.

VI.

THOU shalt not commit adultery.

VII.

THOU shalt not steal.

VIII.

THOU shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

IX.

THOU shalt not covet thy neigh-
bour's wife.

X.

THOU shalt not covet thy neigh-
bour's goods.

THOU

SHALT

with the Lord thy God and with the Lord thy God
and with the Lord thy God

This is the first Commandment first Commandment

And the second Commandment this Thou shalt not neighbour's wife

On these two Commandments

ments dependeth the whole law whole law

BOOK OF GENESIS

The Hebrews entitle all the Five Books of Moses, from the initial words, which originally were written like one continued word or verse; but the Sept. have preferred to give in the titles the most memorable occurrences of each work. On this occasion, the Creation of all things out of nothing, strikes us with peculiar force. We find a refutation of all the heathenish mythology, and of the world's eternity, which Aristotle endeavoured to establish. We behold the short reign of innocence, and the origin of sin and misery, the dispersion of nations, and the providence of God watching over his chosen people, till the death of Joseph, about the year 2369 (Usher), 2399 (Sal. and Tirin), B. C. 1631. We shall witness the same care in the other Books of Scripture, and adore his wisdom and goodness in preserving to himself faithful witnesses, and a true Holy Catholic Church, in all ages, even when the greatest corruption seemed to overspread the land. H.

This Book is so called from its treating of the Generation, that is, of the Creation and the beginning of the world. The Hebrews call it BERESITH, from the word with which it begins. It contains not only the History of the Creation of the World, but also an account of its progress during the space of 2369 years, that is, until the death of Joseph. Ch.

CHAPTER I.

God createth heaven and earth, and all things therein, in six days.

IN the ^abeginning God created heaven and earth.

2 ^bAnd the earth was void and empty, and darkness was upon the face of the deep: and the Spirit of God moved over the waters.

3 And God said: ^cBe light made. And light was made.

4 And God saw the light that it was good: and he divided the light from the darkness.

5 And he called the light Day, and the darkness Night: and there was evening and morning one day.

6 And God said: Let there be a firmament made amidst the waters: and let it divide the waters from the waters.

7 ^dAnd God made a firmament, and divided the waters that were under the firmament, from those that were above the firmament. And it was so.

8 And God called the firmament Heaven: and the evening and morning were the second day.

9 God also said: Let the waters that are under the heaven, be gathered together into one place: and let the dry land appear. And it was so done.

10 And God called the dry land ^eEarth: and the gathering together of the waters he called Seas. And God saw that it was good.

11 And he said: Let the earth bring forth the green herb, and such as may seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after its kind, which may have seed in itself upon the earth. And it was so done.

12 And the earth brought forth the green herb, and such as yieldeth seed according to its kind, and the tree that beareth fruit, having seed each one according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 And God said: Let there be lights made in the firmament of heaven, to divide the day and the night, and let them be for signs, and for seasons, and for days and years:

^a A. M. 1, A. C. 4004.—^b Acts xiv. 14, and xvii. 24; Psal. xxxii. 6, and cxxxv. 5; Eccli. xviii. 1.—^c Heb. xi. 3.

^d Psal. cxxxv. 5, and cxlviii. 4; Jer. x. 12, and li. 15.—^e Job xxxviii. 4; Psal. xxxii. 7, and lxxxviii. 12, and cxxxix. 6.—^f Psal. cxxxv. 7.

CHAP. I. VERSE 1. Beginning. As St. Matthew begins his Gospel with the same title, the Book of the Generation, or Genesis, so St. John adopts the first words of Moses, in the beginning; but he considers a much higher order of things, even the consubstantial Son of God, the same with God from all eternity, forming the universe, in the beginning of time, in conjunction with the other two Divine Persons, by the word of his power; for all things were made by Him, the Undivided Deity. H.—Elohim, the Judges or Gods, denoting plurality, is joined with a verb singular, he created, whence many, after Peter Lombard, have inferred, that in this first verse of Genesis the adorable mystery of the Blessed Trinity is insinuated, as they also gather from various other passages of the Old Testament, though it was not clearly revealed till our Saviour came himself to be the finisher of our faith. C.—The Jews being a carnal people and prone to idolatry, might have been in danger of misapplying this great mystery, and therefore an explicit belief of it was not required of them in general. See Collet. &c. H.—The first cause of all things must be God, who, in a moment, spoke, and heaven and earth were made, heaven with all the angels; and the whole mass of the elements, in a state of confusion, and blended together, out of which the beautiful order, which was afterwards so admirable, arose in the space of six days.

VER. 2. Spirit of God, giving life, vigour, and motion to things, and preparing the waters for the sacred office of baptism, in which, by the institution of J. C., we must be born again. v. Tert. &c. W. H.

VER. 3. Light The sun was made on the fourth day, and placed in the firmament to distinguish the seasons, &c.; but the particles of fire were created on the first day, and by their, or the earth's motion, served to discriminate day from the preceding night, or darkness, which was upon the face of the deep. H.—Nothing can be defined with certainty respecting the nature of this primeval light. C.

VER. 4. Good; beautiful and convenient:—he divided light by giving it qualities incompatible with darkness, which is not any thing substantial, and therefore Moses does not say it was created. C.—While our hemisphere enjoys the day, the other half of the world is involved in darkness.

VER. 6. A firmament. By this name is here understood the whole space between the earth and the highest stars. The lower part of which divideth the waters that are upon the earth, from those that are above in the clouds. Ch.—The Heb. Rokim is translated stereoma, solidity by the Sept., and expansion by most of the moderns. The heavens are often represented as a tent spread out, Psal. ciii. 3. C.

VER. 7. Above the firmament and stars, according to some of the Fathers; or these waters were vapours and clouds arising from the earth, and really divided from the lower waters contained in the sea. C.

VER. 11. Seed in itself, either in the fruit or leaves, or slips. M.—At the creation, trees were covered with fruit in Armenia, while in the more northern regions they would not even have leaves: Calmet hence justly observes, that the question concerning the season of the year when the world began, must be understood only with reference to that climate in which Adam dwelt. H.

VER. 14. For signs. Not to countenance the delusive observations of astrologers, but to give notice of rain, of the proper seasons for sowing, &c. M.—By specifying the use and creation of these heavenly bodies, Moses shows the folly of the Gentiles, who adored them as gods, and the impiety of those who pretend that human affairs are under the fatal influence of the planets. See S. Aug. Confes. iv. 3. The Heb. term muad, which is here rendered seasons, may signify either months, or the times for assembling to worship God; (C.) a practice, no doubt, established from the beginning every week, and probably also .r

15 To shine in the firmament of heaven, and to give light upon the earth. And it was so done.

16 And God made two great lights: a greater light to rule the day, and a lesser light to rule the night: and the stars.

17 And he set them in the firmament of heaven, to shine upon the earth.

18 And to rule the day and the night, and to divide the light and the darkness. And God saw that it was good.

19 And the evening and morning were the fourth day.

20 God also said: Let the waters bring forth the creeping creature having life, and the fowl that may fly over the earth under the firmament of heaven.

21 And God created the great whales, and every living and moving creature, which the waters brought forth, according to their kinds, and every winged fowl according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

22 And he blessed them, saying: Increase and multiply, and fill the waters of the sea: and let the birds be multiplied upon the earth.

23 And the evening and morning were the fifth day.

24 And God said: Let the earth bring forth the living creature in its kind, cattle, and creeping things, and beasts of the earth, according to their kinds. And it was so done.

25 And God made the beasts of the earth according to their kinds, and cattle, and every thing that creepeth on the earth, after its kind. And God saw that it was good.

26 And he said: "Let us make man to our image and likeness: and let him have dominion over the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the air, and the beasts, and the whole earth, and every creeping creature that moveth upon the earth.

27 And God created man to his own image: ^b to the image of God he created him: male and female he created them.^c

28 And God blessed them, saying: ^d Increase and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it, and rule over the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the air, and all living creatures that move upon the earth.

29 And God said: Behold I have given you every herb bearing seed upon the earth, and all trees that have in themselves seed of their own kind, to be your meat:^e

30 And to all beasts of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to all that move upon the earth, and wherein there is life, that they may have to feed upon. And it was so done.

31 ^f And God saw all the things that he had made, and they were very good. And the evening and morning were the sixth day.

CHAP. II.

God resteth on the seventh day, and blesseth it. The earthly paradise, in which God placeth man. He commandeth him not to eat of the tree of knowledge. And formeth a woman of his rib.

SO the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the furniture of them.

2 And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made: ^g and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had done.

3 And he blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made.

^a Infra, v. 1, and ix. 6; 1 Cor. xi. 7; Col. iii. 10.—^b Wis. ii. 23; Eccl. xvii. 1.—^c Matt. xix. 4.

^d Infra, viii. 17, and ix. 1.—^e Infra, ix. 3.—^f Eccl. xxxix. 21; Mark vii. 37.—^g Exod. xx. 11, and xxxi. 17; Deut. v. 14; Heb. iv. 4.

the first day of the new moon, a day which the Jews afterwards religiously observed. H.

VER. 16. Two great lights. God created on the first day light, which being moved from east to west, by its rising and setting made morning and evening. But on the fourth day he ordered and distributed this light, and made the sun, moon, and stars. The moon, though much less than the stars, is here called a great light, from its giving a far greater light to the earth than any of them. Ch.—Whether the stars be the suns of other worlds, and whether the moon, &c. be inhabited, philosophers dispute, without being able to come to any certain conclusion: for God has delivered the world to their consideration for dispute, so that man cannot find out the work which God hath made from the beginning to the end, Eccles. iii. 11. If we must frequently confess our ignorance concerning the things which surround us, how shall we pretend to dive into the designs of God, or subject the mysteries of faith to our feeble reason? We must remember, that the sacred writings were given to instruct us in the way to heaven, and not to unfold to us the systems of natural history; and hence God generally addresses us in a manner best suited to our conceptions, and speaks of nature as it appears to the generality of mankind. If we judge, with the vulgar, that the sun, moon, and stars are no larger than they appear to our naked eye, we shall still have sufficient reason to admire the works of God; but, if we are enabled to discover that the sun's diameter, for example, is 763 thousand miles, and its distance from our earth about 95 million miles, and the fixed stars much more remote, what astonishment must fill our breast! Sirius, the nearest to us of all the fixed stars, is supposed to be 400,000 times the distance from the sun that our earth is, or 38 millions of millions of miles. Light, passing at the rate of twelve millions of miles every minute, would be nearly 3000 years in coming to us from the remotest star, beyond which are others immensely distant, which it would require about 40,000 years to reach, even with the same velocity. Walker (Geog.) justly remarks, "we are lost in wonder when we attempt to comprehend either the vastness or minuteness of creation." Shall any one then pretend to wisdom, and still call in question the mysteries of faith, transubstantiation, &c., when the most learned confess they cannot fully comprehend the nature even of a grain of sand? H.

VER. 20. Creeping: destitute of feet like fishes. M.—Fowl. Some assert that birds were formed of the earth, but they seem to have the same origin as fishes, namely, water; and still they must not be eaten on days of abstinence.—Under: Heb. on the face of the firmament, or in the open air. H.

VER. 22. Blessed them, or enabled them to produce others.—Multiply: the immense numbers and variety of fishes and fowls is truly astonishing.

VER. 26. Let us make man to our image. This image of God in man, is not in the body, but in the soul; which is a spiritual substance, endued with understanding and free-will. God speaketh here in the plural number, to insinuate the plurality of persons in the Deity. Ch.—Some of the ancient Jews maintained that God here addressed his council, the angels; but is it probable that he should communicate to them the title of Creator, and a perfect similitude with himself? C.—Man is possessed of many prerogatives above all other creatures of this visible world: his soul gives him a sort of equality with the angels; and though his body be taken from the earth, like the brutes, yet even here the beautiful construction, the head erect and looking towards heaven, &c., makes S. Aug. observe, an air of majesty in the human body, which raises man above all terrestrial animals, and brings him in some measure near to the Divinity. As Jesus assumed our human nature, we may assert, that we bear a resemblance to God both in soul and body. H.

VER. 27. Male and female. Eve was taken from Adam's side on this same day, though it be related in the following chapter. C.—Adam means the likeness, or red earth, that in one word we may behold our nobility and meanness. H.

VER. 28. Increase and multiply. This is not a precept, as some Protestant controvertists would have it, but a blessing, rendering them fruitful: for God had said the same words to the fishes and birds, (ver. 22,) who were incapable of receiving a precept. Ch.—Blessed them, not only with fecundity as he had done to other creatures, but also with dominion over them, and much more with innocence and abundance of both natural and supernatural gifts.—Increase. The Fathers in general agree that if this were a precept with respect to Adam, for the purpose of filling the earth, it is no longer so, that end being sufficiently accomplished. Does not S. Paul wish all men to be like himself, unmarried? 1 Cor. vii. 1, 7, 8. H.

VER. 29. Every herb, &c. As God does not here express leave to eat flesh-meat, which he did after the deluge, it is supposed that the more religious part of mankind, at least, abstained from it, till after that event. H. M.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. Furniture, ornaments or militia, whether we understand the angels, or the stars, which observe a regular order and obey God. M.

VER. 2. He rested, &c. That is, he ceased to make any new kinds of things. Though, as our Lord tells us, John v. 17, He still worketh, viz. by conserving and governing all things, and creating souls. Ch.—Seventh day. This day was commanded, Exod. xx. 8, to be kept holy by the Jews, as it had probably been from the beginning. But this point is controverted, and whether the ancient patriarchs observed the seventh day, or some other, it is certain they would not fail, for any long time, to show their respect for God's worship, and would hardly suffer a whole week to elapse without meeting to sound forth his praise. The setting aside of stated days for this purpose, is agreeable to reason, and to the practice of all civilized nations. As the Hebrews kept Saturday holy, in honour of God's rest, so we keep the first day of the week, by apostolic tradition, to thank God for the creation of the world on that day, and much more for the blessings which we derive from the resurrection of J. C. and the sending down of the Holy Ghost, which have given it a title above all other days. J.

4 These are the generations of the heaven and the earth, when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the heaven and the earth:

5 And every plant of the field before it sprung up in the earth, and every herb of the ground before it grew: for the Lord God had not rained upon the earth; and there was not a man to till the earth.

6 But a spring rose out of the earth, watering all the surface of the earth.

7 And the Lord God formed man of the slime of the earth: and breathed into his face the breath of life, and man became a living soul.*

8 And the Lord God had planted a paradise of pleasure from the beginning: wherein he placed man whom he had formed.

9 And the Lord God brought forth of the ground all manner of trees, fair to behold, and pleasant to eat of: the tree of life also in the midst of paradise: and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river went out of the place of pleasure to water paradise, which from thence is divided into four heads.

11 ^bThe name of the one is Phison: that is it which compasseth all the land of Hevilath, where gold groweth.

12 And the gold of that land is very good: there is found bdellium, and the onyx stone.

13 And the name of the second river is Gehon: the same is it that compasseth all the land of Ethiopia.

14 And the name of the third river is Tigris: the same passeth along by the Assyrians. And the fourth river is Euphrates.

15 And the Lord God took man, and put him into the paradise of pleasure, to dress it and to keep it.

16 And he commanded him, saying: Of every tree of paradise thou shalt eat:

17 But of the tree of knowledge of good and evil thou shalt not eat. For in what day soever thou shalt eat of it, thou shalt die the death.

18 And the Lord God said: It is not good for man to be alone: let us make him a help like unto himself.

19 And the Lord God having formed out of the ground all the beasts of the earth, and all the fowls of the air, brought them to Adam to see what he would call them: for whatsoever Adam called any living creature, the same is its name.

20 And Adam called all the beasts by their names, and all the fowls of the air, and all the cattle of the field: but for Adam there was not found a helper like himself.

21 Then the Lord God cast a deep sleep upon Adam: and when he was fast asleep, he took one of his ribs, and filled up flesh for it.

22 And the Lord God built the rib which he took from Adam into a woman: and brought her to Adam.

23 And Adam said: "This now is bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of man."

24 "Wherefore a man shall leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and they shall be two in one flesh."

25 And they were both naked: to wit, Adam and his wife: and were not ashamed.

CHAP. III

The serpent's craft. The fall of our first parents. Their punishment. The promise of a Redeemer.

NOW the serpent was more subtle than any of the beasts of the earth which the Lord God had made. And he said to the woman: Why hath God commanded you, that you should not eat of every tree of paradise?

2 And the woman answered him, saying: Of the fruit of the trees that are in paradise we do eat:

* 1 Cor. xv. 45.—^b Eccl. xxiv. 35.—^c Psal. cxlvii. 4.

† 1 Cor. xi. 9; Eph. v. 31.—^e Matt. xix. 5; Mark x. 7.—^f 1 Cor. vi. 16.

VER. 4. Day. Not that all things were made in one day: but God formed in succession; first, heaven and earth, then the ornaments of both. Every plant &c. which on the first day did not spring up, (as water covered the surface of the earth), on the third, by the command of God, without having any man to plant, or rain to water them, pushed forth luxuriantly, and manifested the power of the Creator. H.—Thus Christ founded his Church by his own power, and still gives her increase; but requires of his ministers to co-operate with him, as a gardener must now take care of the plants which originally grew without man's aid. D.

VER. 7. Breath of life, or a soul, created out of nothing, and infused into the body to give it life. H.

VER. 8. Of pleasure, Heb. Eden, which may be either the name of a country, as ch. iv. 16, or it may signify pleasure, in which sense Symmachus and S. Jerom have taken it.—From the beginning, or on the third day, when all plants were created. Paradise lay probably to the east of Palestine, or of that country where Moses wrote. The precise situation cannot be ascertained. How great might be its extent we do not know. If the sources of the Ganges, Nile, Tigris, and Euphrates be not now changed, and if these be the rivers which sprung from the fountains of Paradise, (both which are points undecided,) the garden must have comprised a great part of the world, H., as the Ganges rises in India, and the Nile about the middle of Africa. T.

VER. 9. The tree of life. So called, because it had that quality, that by eating of the fruit of it, man would have been preserved in a constant state of health, vigour, and strength, and would not have died at all. The tree of knowledge. To which the deceitful serpent falsely attributed the power of imparting a superior kind of knowledge beyond that which God was pleased to give. Ch.—Of what species these two wonderful trees were, the learned are not agreed. The tree of knowledge could not communicate any wisdom to man; but, by eating of its forbidden fruit, Adam dearly purchased the knowledge of evil, to which he was before a stranger.

VER. 15. To dress it. Behold, God would not endure idleness even in Paradise. H.

VER. 17. The death of the soul, and become obnoxious to that of the body; thou shalt become a mortal and lose all the privileges of innocence. Though Adam lived 930 years after this, he was dying daily; he carried along with him the seeds of death, as we do, from our very conception. He had leave to eat of any fruit in this delicious garden, one only excepted, and this one prohibition makes him more eager to taste of that tree than of all the rest. So we struggle constantly to attain what is forbidden, and covet what is denied. God laid this easy command upon Adam, to give him an opportunity of showing his ready obedience, and to assert his own absolute dominion over him. Eve was already formed, and was apprized of this positive command, (ch. iii. 3,) and therefore, transgressing, is justly punished with her husband. True obedience does not inquire why a thing is commanded, but submits without demur. Would a parent be satisfied with his child, if he should refuse to obey, because he could not discern the propriety of the restraint? All meats are good, as that fruit most certainly was which Adam was forbidden to eat; though some have foolishly surmised that it was poisonous; but the crime of disobedience draws on punishment. H.—Even when the sin is remitted as it was to Adam, the penalty is not of course released, as some have pretended. This also clearly appears in baptized infants, who suffer the penalties due to original sin, as much as those who have not been admitted to the laver of regeneration. S. Aug. W. T. &c.—With Adam, the representative of all his posterity, God made a sort of compact, (Ose. vi. 7,) giving him to understand, that if he continued faithful, his children should be born in the state of innocence like himself, happy and immortal, to be translated in due time to a happier Paradise, &c.; but if he should refuse to obey, his sin should be communicated to all his race, who should be, by nature, children of wrath.—S. Aug. C. D. xvi. 27. Bede in Luc. II. &c.—H. C.

VER. 20. Names, probably in the Hebrew language, in which the names of things frequently designate their nature and quality. See Bochart.—C.

VER. 23. Of my flesh. God did not, therefore, take a rib without flesh, nor perhaps did he replace flesh without a rib in Adam's side, though S. Aug. thinks he did. These words of Adam are attributed to God, Matt. xix., because they were inspired by him.

VER. 24. One flesh, connected by the closest ties of union, producing children, the blood of both. S. Paul, Eph. v. 23, discloses to us the mystery of Christ's union with his church for ever, prefigured by this indissoluble marriage of our first parents. C.

VER. 25. Not ashamed, because they had not perverted the work of God. Inordinate concupiscence is the effect of sin. H.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Why hath God? Heb. "Indeed hath God, &c.;" as if the serpent had overheard Eve arguing with herself, about God's prohibition, with a sort of displeasure and presumption. She might not know or reflect that the serpent could not reason thus, naturally; and she had as yet no idea or dread of the devil. Lombard, 2 Dist. 21. This old serpent entered into the most subtle of creatures, and either by very expressive signs, or by the motion of the serpent's

3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of paradise, God hath commanded us that we should not eat: and that we should not touch it, lest perhaps we die.

4 And the serpent said to the woman: ^a No, you shall not die the death.

5 For God doth know that in what day soever you shall eat thereof, your eyes shall be opened: and you shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

6 And the woman saw that the tree was good to eat, and fair to the eyes, and delightful to behold: ^b and she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave to her husband, who did eat.

7 And the eyes of them both were opened: and when they perceived themselves to be naked, they sewed together fig leaves, and made themselves aprons.

8 And when they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in paradise at the afternoon air, Adam and his wife hid themselves from the face of the Lord God, amidst the trees of paradise.

9 And the Lord God called Adam, and said to him: Where art thou?

10 And he said: I heard thy voice in paradise; and I was afraid, because I was naked, and I hid myself.

11 And he said to him: And who hath told thee that thou wast naked, but that thou hast eaten of the tree whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat?

12 And Adam said: The woman, whom thou gavest me to be my companion, gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

13 And the Lord God said to the woman: Why hast thou done this? And she answered: The serpent deceived me, and I did eat.

14 And the Lord God said to the serpent: Because thou hast done this thing, thou art cursed among all cattle and beasts of the earth: upon thy breast shalt thou go, ^c and earth shalt thou eat all the days of thy life.

15 I will put enmities between thee and the woman, and thy seed and her seed: she shall crush thy head, and thou shalt lie in wait for her heel.^d

16 To the woman also he said: I will multiply thy sorrows and thy conceptions: in sorrow shalt thou bring forth children, and thou shalt be under thy husband's power, and he shall have dominion over thee.

17 And to Adam he said: Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee, that thou shouldst not eat, cursed is the earth in thy work: with labour and toil shalt thou eat thereof all the days of thy life.

18 Thorns and thistles shall it bring forth to thee, and thou shalt eat the herbs of the earth.

19 In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread till thou return to the earth out of which thou wast taken: for dust thou art, and into dust thou shalt return.^e

20 ^f And Adam called the name of his wife Eve: because she was the mother of all the living.

^a 2 Cor. xi. 3.—^b Eccli. xxv. 33; 1 Tim. ii. 14.—^c Isa. lxx. 25; Mich. vii. 17; Isa. xlix. 23; Psal. lxxii. 9.

^d Apoc. xii.; Infra, xlix. 17; 1 Cor. xiv. 31.—^e Infra, xviii. 27.
^f Psal. cii. 14, and xxii. 16; Eccl. vii. 12.

longue, held this delusive dialogue with Eve. Moses relates what happened exteriorly: but from many expressions, and from the curse, ver. 15, he sufficiently dictates, that an evil spirit was the latent actor. II.

VER. 3. Not touch it. She exaggerates, through dislike of restraint. S. Amb. Or through reverence, she thought it unlawful to touch what she must not eat. Lest perhaps, as if there could be any doubt. "God asserts, the woman doubts, Satan denies." S. Bern. Thus placed, like Eve, between God and the devil, to whom shall we yield our assent? II.—Perhaps we die, Heb. "lest ye die."

VER. 5. God. The old serpent's aim is, to make us think God envies our happiness. II.—M.—As gods, Heb. Elohim, which means also princes, angels, or judges. It appears, that our first parents had flattered themselves with the hopes of attaining a divine knowledge of all things. C.

VER. 6. Woman saw, consulting only her senses, which represented the fruit to her as very desirable, and caused her to give credit to the devil's insinuations, rather than to the express word of God. Her husband, who, instead of reproving her for her rashness, did eat, through excessive fondness, not being able to plead ignorance, or that he was deceived. II.—Gen. ii. 14. In what light soever we consider the fault of this unhappy pair, it is truly enormous: the precept was so easy and just, the attempt to be like God in knowledge so extravagant, that nothing but pride could have suggested such woeful disobedience. By the disobedience of one man many were made sinners, Rom. v. 19. This ruin of himself, and of all his posterity, Adam could not hide from his own eyes. Ch. ii. 17. C.

VER. 7. And the eyes, &c. Not that they were blind before, (for the woman saw that the tree was fair to the eyes, ver. 6,) nor yet that their eyes were opened to any more perfect knowledge of good; but only to the unhappy experience of having lost the good of original grace and innocence, and incurred the dreadful evil of sin. From whence followed a shame of their being naked; which they minded not before; because being now stript of original grace, they quickly began to be subject to the shameful rebellions of the flesh. Ch.

Aprons, or they interwove tender branches covered with leaves round their middle; a practice which even the wild Indians and Americans observed, when they were discovered by Columbus. H.—Adam's fig tree, in Egypt, has leaves above a yard long, and two feet broad. C.

VER. 8. Afternoon air. God's presence has often been indicated by an unusual wind, 3 Kings xix. 12; Act. ii. 2. The sovereign Judge will not suffer the day to pass over, without bringing our first parents to a sense of their fault. They hid themselves, loving darkness now, because their works were evil.

VER. 9. Where. In what state have thy sins placed thee, that thou shouldst flee from thy God? S. Amb. C. 14.

VER. 10. Afraid. The just man is the first to accuse himself: but Adam seeks for excuses in his sin: he throws the blame on his wife, and ultimately on God. M.

VER. 13. The serpent, which thou hast made so cunning, and placed with us, deceived me. God deigns not to answer their frivolous excuses. M.

VER. 14. Cursed. This curse falls upon the natural serpent, as the instrument of the devil; who is also cursed at the same time by the Holy Ghost. There was no enmity, before, between man and any of God's creatures; nor were they noxious to him. T.

VER. 15. She shall crush. Ipsa, the woman: so divers of the Fathers read this place, conformably to the Latin: others read it ipsum, viz. the seed. The sense is the same: for it is by her seed, Jesus Christ, that the woman crushes the serpent's head. Ch.—The Hebrew text, as Bellarmine observes, is ambiguous: he mentions one copy which had ipsa instead of ipsum; and so it is even printed in the Hebrew interlineary edition, 1572, by Plantin, under the inspection of Boderianus. The Fathers who have cited the old Italic version, taken from the Sept., agree with the Vulgate, which is followed by almost all the Latins; and hence we may argue with probability, that the Sept. and the Hebrew formerly acknowledged ipsa, which now moves the indignation of Protestants so much, as if we intended by it to give any divine honour to the blessed Virgin. We believe, however, with S. Epiphanius, that "it is no less criminal to vilify the holy Virgin, than to glorify her above measure." We know that all the power of the mother of God is derived from the merits of her Son. As some words have been corrected in the Vulgate since the Council of Trent by Sixtus V., and others by Clem. VIII., so if, upon stricter search, it be found that it, and not she, is the true reading, we shall not hesitate to admit the correction: but we must wait in the mean time respectfully, till our superiors determine. H. Kemnitzius certainly advanced a step too far, when he said that all the ancient Fathers read ipsum. Victor, Avitus, S. Aug., S. Greg., &c., mentioned in the Douay Bible, will convict him of falsehood. Christ crushed the serpent's head by his death, suffering himself to be wounded in the heel. "We crush," says S. Greg. Mor. 1. 38, "the serpent's head, when we extirpate from our heart the beginnings of temptation, and then he lays snares for our heel, because he opposes the end of a good action with greater craft and power." The serpent may hiss and threaten; he cannot hurt, if we resist him. H.

VER. 16. And thy conceptions. Sept. "thy groaning." The multifarious sorrows of childbearing must remind all mothers (the blessed Virgin alone excepted) of what they have incurred by original sin. If that had not taken place, they would have conceived without concupiscence, and brought forth without sorrow. S. Aug. C. D. xiv. 26. H.—Moses here shows the original and natural subjection of wives to their husbands, in opposition to the Egyptians, who, to honour Isis, gave women the superiority by the marriage contract. Diod. 1. 2. C.

VER. 17. Thy work, sin; thy perdition is from thyself: this is all that man can challenge for his own. H.

VER. 18. Thorns, &c. All men are here commanded to work, each in his proper department. The Jews were careful to teach their children some trade or useful occupation. S. Paul made tents, and proclaims, If any man will not work, neither let him eat, 2 Thess. iii. 10. C.

VER. 19. Dust, as to the visible part; and thy soul created out of nothing. This might serve to correct that pride, by which Adam had fallen; and the same humbling truths are repeated to us by the Church every Ash Wednesday, to guard us against the same contagion, the worm of pride, to which we are all so liable. H.

VER. 20. The living. Heb. ēve, one who brings forth alive, (Symmachus,) or one who imparts life, in which she was a figure of the blessed Virgin. C.—Adam 21 And the Lord God made for Adam and his wife garments of skins, and clothed them.

22 And he said: Behold Adam is become as one of us, knowing good and evil: now therefore lest perhaps he put forth his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever.

23 And the Lord God sent him out of the paradise of pleasure, to till the earth from which he was taken.

24 And he cast out Adam: and placed before the paradise of pleasure Cherubims, and a flaming sword, turning every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

CHAP. IV.

The history of Cain and Abel.

AND Adam knew Eve his wife; who conceived and brought forth ^aCain, saying: I have gotten a man through God.

2 And again she brought forth his brother Abel. And Abel was a shepherd, and Cain a husbandman.

3 And it came to pass after many days, that Cain offered, of the fruits of the earth, gifts to the Lord.

4 ^bAbel also offered of the firstlings of his flock, and of their fat: and the Lord had respect to Abel, and to his offerings.

5 But to Cain and his offerings he had no respect: and Cain was exceeding angry, and his countenance fell.

6 And the Lord said to him: Why art thou angry? and why is thy countenance fallen?

7 If thou do well, shalt thou not receive? but if ill, shall not sin forthwith be present at the door? but the lust thereof shall be under thee, and thou shalt have dominion over it.

8 And Cain said to Abel his brother: Let us go forth abroad. And when they were in the field, Cain rose up against his brother Abel, and slew him.^c

9 And the Lord said to Cain: Where is thy brother Abel? And he answered: I know not: am I my brother's keeper?

10 And he said to him: What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth to me from the earth.

11 Now therefore cursed shalt thou be upon the earth, which hath opened her mouth and received the blood of thy brother at thy hand.

12 When thou shalt till it, it shall not yield to thee its fruit: a fugitive and a vagabond shalt thou be upon the earth.

13 And Cain said to the Lord: My iniquity is greater than that I may deserve pardon.

14 Behold, thou dost cast me out this day from the face of the earth: every one therefore that findeth me, shall kill me.

15 And the Lord said to him: No, it shall not so be: but whosoever shall kill Cain, shall be punished seven-fold. And the Lord set a mark upon Cain, that whosoever found him should not kill him.

16 And Cain went out from the face of the Lord, and dwelt as a fugitive on the earth at the east side of Eden.

17 And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived, and brought forth Henoeh: and he built a city, and called the name thereof by the name of his son Henoeh.

^a A. M. 2, A. C. 4002.—^b Heb. xi. 4.—^c A. M. 128, A. C. 3876.

^d Wis. x. 3; Matt. xxiii. 35; 1 John iii. 12; Jude i. 11.

gives his wife this new name, in gratitude for not being cut off by death on the very day of his transgression, as he had every reason to expect and fear he would have been. Chap. ii. 17. H.

VER. 22. Behold Adam, &c. This was spoken by way of reproaching him with his pride, in affecting a knowledge that might make him like to God. Ch.—“These are the words of God, not insulting over man, but deterring others from an imitation of his pride.” S. Aug. de Gen. xi. 39.—For ever. The sentence is left imperfect: (C.) but by driving man from Paradise, God sufficiently showed how he would prevent him from eating of the tree of life. H.—Lest perhaps. God does not exercise his absolute power, or destroy free-will, but makes use of ordinary means and precautions, to effect his designs. S. Aug. W.

VER. 24. Cherubims. Angels of the highest order, and of a very complex figure, unlike any one living creature.—Thus we have seen how rapidly Moses describes the creation of all things, the fall of man, and the promised redemption. But in these few lines, we discover a solution of the many difficulties which have perplexed the learned, respecting these most important subjects. We know that the world is not the effect of chance, but created and governed by Divine Providence. We are no longer at a loss to explain the surprising contrast of good and evil, observable in the same man. We could wish, perhaps, for a greater detail in Moses, but he left the rest to be supplied by tradition. He has thrown light enough upon the subject, to guide the well-disposed, and has left sufficient darkness to humble and to confound the self-conceited and wicked, who love darkness rather than the light. C.—Concerning the transactions of these early times, parents would no doubt be careful to instruct their children, by word of mouth, before any of the Scriptures were written; and Moses might derive much information from the same source, as a very few persons formed the chain of tradition, when they lived so many hundred years. Adam would converse with Methusalem, who knew Sem, as the latter lived in the days of Abram. Isaac, Joseph, and Anram, the father of Moses, were contemporaries: so that seven persons might keep up the memory of things which had happened 2500 years before. But to entitle these accounts to absolute authority, the inspiration of God intervenes; and thus we are convinced, that no word of sacred writers can be questioned. H.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. Through God. Heb. may signify also “even God,” as if she thought this was the promised seed, who, as Onkelos paraphrases it, would serve the Lord. C.—So little could she foresee the future conduct of Cain, whose name may be derived either from konē, possession and acquisition, or from kun, lamentation. The latter interpretation would have been better verified by the event, and the name of Abel, vanity, or sorrow, might also have been reversed, on account of his justice, for which he is canonized by Christ himself, and declared the Just. Pious and significant names were imposed by either parent. Cain was the second man. He was not conceived till after the fall, and was therefore the first born in original sin. H.

VER. 4. Had respect. That is, showed his acceptance of his sacrifice: and that, as we may suppose, by some visible token, such as sending fire from heaven upon his offerings. Ch.—The offerings of Cain are mentioned without any approbation: those of Abel are the firstlings and fat, or the very best; by which he testified, that he acknowledged God for his first beginning. Sacrifice is due to God alone, and to Him it has always been offered in the Church. We have the happiness to offer that truly eucharistic sacrifice to God, of which those of ancient times were only figures. What sacrifice can our erring brethren show? W. C.

VER. 7. Over it. This is a clear proof of free-will. To destroy its force, Protestants translate over him, as if Cain should still retain his privilege of the first-born, notwithstanding all his wickedness, and should rule over Abel, who would willingly submit, “unto thee his desire,” &c. But God had made no mention of Abel. The whole discourse is about doing well or ill; and Cain is encouraged to avoid the stings of conscience, by altering his conduct, as it was in his power, how strongly soever his passions might solicit him to evil. H.—The Hebrew is understood by Onkelos and the Targum of Jerusalem, in the sense of the Vulgate. Calmet shows that the Hebrew perfectly admits of this sense. Protestants formerly abandoned the translation of 1579, (which they have resumed,) and translated better, “unto thee shall be the desire thereof, and thou shalt rule over it,” which R. Abenezra explains also of sin. To which of these editions, all given by royal authority, will Protestants adhere? Luther wrote a book against free-will, and Calvin would not admit the very name. But we, with all antiquity, must cry out with S. Jerom, c. Jov. 2, “God made us with free-will, neither are we drawn by necessity to virtue or vice; else where there is necessity, there is neither damnation nor reward.” W. H.

VER. 13. My iniquity, &c. Like Judas, Cain despairs. The Rabbin makes him complain of the rigour of God's judgment, “My sin or (punishment) is too great to be borne.” I must then be driven from the land of my nativity, from the society of my brethren and parents, from thy presence, for ever. Why do I then live? Let the first man I meet, kill me. Liran.

VER. 14. Every one that findeth me, shall kill me. His guilty conscience made him fear his own brothers, and nephews; of whom, by this time, there might be a good number upon the earth; which had now endured near 130 years; as may be gathered from Gen. v. 3, compared with chap. iv. 25; though in the compendious account given in the Scripture, only Cain and Abel are mentioned. Ch.—Cain is little concerned about any thing but the loss of life. M.

VER. 15. Set a mark, &c. The more common opinion of the interpreters of holy writ, supposes this mark to have been a trembling of the body; or a horror and consternation in his countenance. Ch.—God gave this first murderer a reprieve, allowing him time for repentance; but he neglected it, and died a reprobate. W. &c. H.

VER. 17. His wife. She was a daughter of Adam, and Cain's own sister; God dispensing with such marriages in the beginning of the world, as mankind could not otherwise be propagated.—He built a city, viz. in process of time, when his race was multiplied, so as to be numerous enough to people it. For in the many hundred years he lived, his race might be multiplied even to millions. Ch.

18 And Henoch begot Irad, and Irad begot Maviael, and Maviael begot Mathusael, and Mathusael begot Lamech, 19 Who took two wives: the name of the one was Ada, and the name of the other Sella.

20 And Ada brought forth Jabel: who was the father of such as dwell in tents, and of herdsman.

21 And his brother's name was Jubal: he was the father of them that play upon the harp and the organs.

22 Sella also brought forth Tubalcain, who was a hammerer and artificer in every work of brass and iron. And the sister of Tubalcain was Noema.

23 And Lamech said to his wives Ada and Sella: Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech, hearken to my speech: for I have slain a man to the wounding of myself, and a stripling to my own bruising.

24 Seven-fold vengeance shall be taken for Cain: but for Lamech seventy times seven-fold.*

25 Adam also knew his wife again: and she brought forth a son, and called his name ^bSeth, saying: God hath given me another seed for Abel whom Cain slew.

26 But to Seth also was born a son, whom he called Enos: this man began to call upon the name of the Lord.

CHAP. V.

The genealogy, age, and death of the patriarchs, from Adam to Noe. The translation of Henoch.

THIS is the book of the generation of Adam. In the day that God created man,^c he made him to the likeness of God.

2 He created them male and female; and blessed them: and called their name Adam, in the day when they were created.

3 ^dAnd Adam lived a hundred and thirty years, and begot a son to his own image and likeness, and called his name Seth.

4 And the days of Adam, after he begot Seth, were eight hundred years: and he begot sons and daughters.

* Matt. xviii. 22.—^b A. M. 130, A. C. 3874.—^c Wis. ii. 23; Eccles. xvii. 1:

VER. 19. Two wives. Lamech first transgressed the law of having only one wife at a time. Chap. ii. 24. None before the deluge is mentioned as having followed his example, even among the abandoned sons of men. Abraham, the father of the faithful, and some others, after that event, when the age of man was shortened, and the number of the true servants of God very small, were dispensed with by God, who tolerated the custom of having many wives at the same time among the Jews, till our Saviour brought things back to the ancient standard. Matt. xix. 4. H.—“It was never lawful,” says P. Innocent III. c. Gaudemus, “for any one to have many wives at once, unless leave was given by divine revelation;” and S. Aug. joins with him in defending the patriarchs, by this reason, “When it was the custom, it was not a sin.”

VER. 22. Noema, who is supposed to have invented the art of spinning. C.—All these worthy people were distinguished for their proficiency in the arts, while they neglected the study of religion and virtue. H.—The inventors of arts among the Greeks lived mostly after the siege of Troy. C.

VER. 23. Said. This is the most ancient piece of poetry with which we are acquainted. Fleury.—Lamech may be considered as the father of poets. H.—I have slain a man, &c. It is the tradition of the Hebrews, that Lamech in hunting slew Cain, mistaking him for a wild beast: and that having discovered what he had done, he beat so unmercifully the youth, by whom he was led into that mistake, that he died of the blows. Ch.

VER. 24. Seventy times. A similar expression occurs, Matt. xviii. 22, to denote a great, but indefinite number. God had promised to revenge the murder of Cain sevenfold, though he had sinned voluntarily; so Lamech hopes that, as he had acted by mistake, and blinded by passion, in striking the stripling, the son of Tubalcain, he would deserve to be protected still more from falling a prey to the fury of any other. But many reject this tradition as fabulous, unknown to Philo, Josephus, &c. Moses nowhere mentions the death of Cain. Some, therefore, understand this passage with an interrogation; as if, to convince his wives that his sin was not so enormous as was supposed, he should say, Do not think of leaving me. What! have I killed a young man, as Cain did Abel, and still he is

5 And all the time that Adam lived, came to nine hundred and thirty years, and he died.

6 Seth also lived a hundred and five years and begot Enos.^e

7 And Seth lived after he begot Enos, eight hundred and seven years, and begot sons and daughters.

8 And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years, and he died.

9 And Enos lived ninety years, and begot Cainan.

10 After whose birth he lived eight hundred and fifteen years, and begot sons and daughters.

11 And all the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years, and he died.

12 And Cainan lived seventy years, and begot Malaleel.

13 And Cainan lived after he begot Malaleel, eight hundred and forty years, and begot sons and daughters.

14 And all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years, and he died.

15 And Malaleel lived sixty-five years, and begot Jared.

16 And Malaleel lived after he begot Jared, eight hundred and thirty years, and begot sons and daughters.

17 And all the days of Malaleel were eight hundred and ninety-five years, and he died.

18 And Jared lived a hundred and sixty-two years, and begot Henoch.

19 And Jared lived after he begot Henoch, eight hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

20 And all the days of Jared were nine hundred and sixty-two years, and he died.

21 And Henoch lived sixty-five years, and begot Mathusala.

22 And Henoch walked with God: and lived after he begot Mathusala, three hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

23 And all the days of Henoch were three hundred and sixty-five years.

Infra, ix. 6.—^d 1 Par. i. 1.—^e A. M. 235, A. C. 3769.

suffered to live unmolested; or have I beaten any one so that I should be punished? C.

VER. 26. Began to call upon, &c. Not that Adam and Seth had not called upon God before the birth of Enos, but that Enos used more solemnity in the worship and invocation of God. Ch.—Religion was not a human invention, but many ceremonies have been adopted, at different times, to make an impression on the minds of the people. Before Enos, the heads of families had officiated in their own houses; now, perhaps, they met together in places consecrated to the divine service, and sounded forth the praises of the Most High. Enos was probably most conspicuous for his zeal on these occasions: at least, a new degree of fervour manifested itself in his days. On the other hand, “the name of the Lord began to be profaned” about this time, as the Rabbins understand this passage, by the introduction of idolatry; which is a common effect of a dissolute life, which many began now to lead. C.—Wis. xiv. 12, The beginning of fornication is the devising of idols. We have, nevertheless, no certain proof of idols being introduced till many years after the deluge. H.

CHAP. V. VER. 2. Adam: the common name of mankind, made to the likeness of God. H.

VER. 5. He died. Ecclus. xiv. 12, says very justly, the covenant of this world is, he shall surely die. God prolonged the lives of the patriarchs to a more advanced age, that the world might be sooner filled. Their constitution was then more excellent, the fruits of the earth more nourishing, &c. But the sole satisfactory reason for their living almost a thousand years, while we can hardly arrive at 70, is, because so it pleased God, in whose hands are all our lots. There is a great difference in the number of years assigned by the Hebrew and Vulgate, from that which the Samaritan copy mentions; and the Sept. differs from both. The Church has not decided which system of chronology is the most accurate. In the Martyrology, she adopts that of the Sept. and places the birth of Christ in 5199, after Eusebius and Bede, though Riccioli calculates the Sept. at 5634 years. H.—Adam died penitent, as we are assured by the Holy Ghost, Wis. x. 2; and tradition affirms the same of Eve, insomuch that the heresy of the Eternity of the 24 And he walked with God, and was seen no more: because God took him.^a 25 And Mathusala lived a hundred and eighty-seven years, and begot Lamech.

26 And Mathusala lived after he begot Lamech, seven hundred and eighty-two years, and begot sons and daughters.

27 And all the days of Mathusala were nine hundred and sixty-nine years, and he died.

28 And Lamech lived a hundred and eighty-two years, and begot a son.

29 And he called his name ^bNoe, saying: This same shall comfort us from the works and labours of our hands on the earth, which the Lord hath cursed.

30 And Lamech lived after he begot Noe, five hundred and ninety-five years, and begot sons and daughters.

31 And all the days of Lamech came to seven hundred and seventy-seven years, and he died. And Noe, when he was five hundred years old, begot Sem, Cham, and Japheth.

CHAP. VI.

Man's sin is the cause of the deluge. Noe is commanded to build the ark.

AND after that men began to be multiplied upon the earth, and daughters were born to them,

2 The sons of God seeing the daughters of men, that they were fair, took to themselves wives of all which they chose.

3 And God said: "My spirit shall not remain in man for ever, because he is flesh, and his days shall be a hundred and twenty years.

4 Now giants were upon the earth in those days. For

^a A. M. 987, A. C. 3017.—^b A. M. 1056, A. C. 2948.
^c A. M. 1536, A. C. 2468.

condemned our first parents to hell, was exploded with horror. Epip. S. Aug. in Hieres: T.

VER. 24. Walked with God. Sept. "was pleasing to God," by continual recollection and watchfulness over himself. Thus he became perfect.—Was seen no more; or, as S. Paul reads, after the Sept., he was not found, Heb. xi. 5.—God took him alive to some place unknown, which is commonly supposed to be Paradise, conformably to Eccles. xlv. 16, though in Greek we do not read Paradise. Henoch pleased God, and was translated [into Paradise], that he may give repentance to the nations. He will come again, when the charity of many of his children (for we all spring from him) shall have grown cold; and shall at last suffer death for opposing Antichrist. Apoc. xi. H.—He is the other witness, who will come with Elias, before the great day of the Lord, to perform the same office to the nations, as the latter will to the Jews. Malae. iv. W.

VER. 29. Noe means consolation, or repose. After he had beheld the most dreadful catastrophe or disturbance that ever happened in the world, he settled mankind once more in the friendship of God, and merited a blessing both for himself and for the whole earth. M. H.

VER. 31. Old. It is wonderful if Noe had no children before this time; but he might have had many, whom the Scripture does not mention. S. Augustine (C. D. xv. 20) thinks, however, that many of the Patriarchs had no children till they were pretty far advanced in years. As Sem was born when Noe was 502, and Cham was the youngest, Japhet must have been the first-born. Comp. chap. x. 21, with chap. ix. 24. There is no reason to suppose they were all born the same year. C.

CHAP. VI. VER. 2. The sons of God. The descendants of Seth and Enos are here called sons of God, from their religion and piety: whereas the ungodly race of Cain, who by their carnal affections lay grovelling upon the earth, are called the children of men. The unhappy consequence of the former marrying with the latter, ought to be a warning to Christians to be very circumspect in their marriages; and not to suffer themselves to be determined in choice by their carnal passion, to the prejudice of virtue or religion. Ch.—See S. Chrys. hom. 22, &c. Some copies of the Sept. having the angels of God, induced some of the ancients to suppose, that these spiritual beings (to whom, by another mistake, they attributed a sort of aerial bodies) had commerce with women, as the pagans derived their heroes from a mortal and a god. But this notion, which is borrowed from the book of Henoch, is quite exploded. C.

VER. 3. His days shall be, &c. The meaning is, that man's days, which before the flood were usually 900 years, should now be reduced to 120 years. Or rather, that God would allow men this term of 120 years, for their repentance and conversion, before he would send the deluge. Ch.—He spoke therefore to Noe in his 480th year. S. Aug.—If we suppose, that God here threatens to reduce the space of man's life to 120 years, we must say, at least, that he did it by degrees; for many lived several hundred years, even after the deluge. In the days of Moses, indeed, few exceeded that term. But we think the other interpretation after the sons of God went in to the daughters of men, and they brought forth children, these are the mighty men of old, men of renown.^d

5 And God seeing that the wickedness of men was great on the earth, and that all the thought of their heart was bent upon evil at all times,^e

6 It repented him that he had made man on the earth. And being touched inwardly with sorrow of heart,

7 He said: I will destroy man, whom I have created, from the face of the earth, from man even to beasts, from the creeping thing even to the fowls of the air, for it repenteth me that I have made them.

8 But Noe found grace before the Lord.

9 These are the generations of Noe: ^fNoe was a just and perfect man in his generations, he walked with God.

10 And he begot three sons, Sem, Cham, and Japheth.

11 And the earth was corrupted before God, and was filled with iniquity.

12 And when God had seen that the earth was corrupted, (for all flesh had corrupted its way upon the earth,)

13 He said to Noe: The end of all flesh is come before me, the earth is filled with iniquity through them, and I will destroy them with the earth.^g

14 Make thee an ark of timber planks: thou shalt make little rooms in the ark, and thou shalt pitch it within and without.

15 And thus shalt thou make it. The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits: the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.

^d Baruch iii. 26; Amos ii. 9; Wis. xiv. 6; Eccles. xvi. 8.—^e Infra, viii. 21; Matt. xv. 19.—^f Eccles. xlv. 17.—^g 1 Pet. iii. 20; 2 Pet. ii. 5.

is more literal, and that God bore with mankind the full time which he promised. W.

VER. 4. Giants. It is likely the generality of men before the flood were of a gigantic stature, in comparison with what men now are. But these here spoken of are called giants, as being not only tall in stature, but violent and savage in their dispositions, and mere monsters of cruelty and lust. Ch.—That there have been giants of an unusual size, all historians testify. Og, Goliath, &c. are mentioned in Scripture; and the sons of Enae are represented as much above the common size, as the Hebrews were greater than grasshoppers, Num. xiii. 34. If we should suppose they were four or five times our size, would that be more wonderful than that they should live nine or ten times as long as we do? See S. Aug. C. D. xv. 9, 23. Calmet's Dissert. &c. II.—Of old. The corruption of morals had commenced many ages ago, and some of the sons of Seth had given way to their lusts; so that we are not to suppose, that these giants were all born within a hundred years of the flood, as some might suppose from their being mentioned here, after specifying the age of Noe, chap. v. 31. H.

VER. 5. At all times. Heb. only evil continually. They had no relish for any thing else: as we may say of a glutton, he thinks of nothing but his belly. Yet some good thoughts would occur occasionally, and we may grant that they did some things which were not sinful. M.—If we follow corrupt nature, and live among sinners, we find a law within us warring against the spirit; and a very powerful grace is necessary to rescue us from such a dangerous situation. C.—Though the expressions in this place seem general, they must be understood with some limitations. W.

VER. 6. It repented him, &c. God, who is unchangeable, is not capable of repentance, grief, or any other passion. But these expressions are used to declare the enormity of the sins of men, which was so provoking as to determine their Creator to destroy these his creatures, whom before he had so much favoured. Ch.—God acted outwardly as a man would do who repented. H.

VER. 8. Grace. Notwithstanding the general denunciation against all flesh, we see here that God will not confound the just with the guilty, in the same punishment. Noe pleased God, by observing the most perfect justice, in the midst of a most corrupt generation. S. Chrys. &c. W.

VER. 12. Its way, being abandoned to the most shameful and unnatural sins. Liran.

VER. 13. All flesh. I will destroy all these carnal and wicked people, and, because all other creatures were made only for man's use, and will be useless, I will involve them in the common ruin, reserving only what will be necessary for the support of the few who shall be preserved, and for the repeopleing of the earth. H.

VER. 14. Timber planks. Heb. "gopher wood," which is no where else mentioned in Scripture. It was probably a sort of wood full of resin, and being besmeared with something like our pitch, was capable of resisting the fury of the ensuing tremendous storm, for a length of time. C. II.—Rooms to separate the birds, various animals, provisions, &c.

VER. 15. Three hundred cubits, &c. The ark, according to the dimensions

6 Thou shalt make a window in the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish the top of it : and the door of the ark thou shalt set in the side : with lower, middle chambers, and third stories shalt thou make it.

17 Behold I will bring the waters of a great flood upon the earth, to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life under heaven. All things that are in the earth shall be consumed.

18 And I will establish my covenant with thee, and thou shalt enter into the ark, thou and thy sons, and thy wife, and the wives of thy sons with thee.

19 And of every living creature of all flesh, thou shalt bring two of a sort into the ark, that they may live with thee : of the male sex, and the female.

20 Of fowls according to their kind, and of beasts in their kind, and of every thing that creepeth on the earth according to its kind : two of every sort shall go in with thee, that they may live.

21 Thou shalt take unto thee of all food that may be eaten, and thou shalt lay it up with thee : and it shall be food for thee and them.

22 And Noe did all things which God commanded him.

CHAP. VII.

Noe with his family go into the ark. The deluge overflows the earth.

AND the Lord said to him : Go in, thou and all thy house into the ark : for thee I have seen just before me in this generation.*

2 Of all clean beasts take seven and seven, the male and the female.

3 But of the beasts that are unclean two and two, the male and the female. Of the fowls also of the air seven and seven, the male and the female : that seed may be saved upon the face of the whole earth.

4 For yet a while, and after seven days, I will rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights : and I will destroy every substance that I have made, from the face of the earth.

5 And Noe did all things which the Lord had commanded him.

6 And he was six hundred years old, when the waters of the flood overflowed the earth.

* Heb. xi. 7 ; 2 Pet. ii. 5.—b Matt. xxiv. 37 ; Luke xvii. 26 ; 1 Pet. iii. 20.

here set down, contained four hundred and fifty thousand square cubits ; which were more than enough to contain all the kinds of living creatures, with all necessary provisions : even supposing the cubits here spoken of to have been only a foot and a half each, which was the least kind of cubits. Ch.—Moses always speaks of the same sort of cubit, used probably in Egypt. Apelles and other heretics, with some modern infidels, have attempted to show, that this account of Moses is fabulous. But they have been amply refuted by able calculators, John Buteo, Pelletier, &c. This amazing structure, for which God himself gave the plan, was divided with three stories, besides the lower part of the vessel, which might serve to keep fresh water. Animals deprived of exercise, and allowed barely what may support nature, will live upon a very little. Even an ox, according to Columella, will live on 30 pounds of hay, or on a cubic foot, a whole day, so that 400 of these large creatures might be supported on 146,000 cubic feet. The middle story for provisions, would alone contain 150,000 cubits. H.

VER. 16. In a cubit. This is understood by some, of the height of the window ; by others, of the roof, which would be almost flat, like the top of a coach. T.

VER. 19. My covenant, that thou shalt be saved, amid the general ruin. This is the second covenant of God with man : the first was with Adam, the third with Abraham, when circumcision was instituted, and the last with Moses, Exod. xix. All others were only ratifications of these ; and even these were only figures of that which our Saviour entered into with men, when he undertook to make satisfaction for them to his Father. C.

VER. 19. Two, intended for the propagation of their kind. God afterwards specifies what more Noe should preserve for food, chap. vii. 2. C.—Wild beasts forgot their savage nature, and became subject to the just Noe ; and all came readily at his beck, in the same manner as domestic animals come when we offer

7 ^bAnd Noe went in and his sons, his wife and the wives of his sons with him into the ark, because of the waters of the flood.

8 And of beasts clean and unclean, and of fowls, and of every thing that moveth upon the earth,

9 Two and two went in to Noe into the ark, male and female, as the Lord had commanded Noe.

10 And after the seven days were passed, the waters of the flood overflowed the earth.

11 In the six hundredth year of the life of Noe, ^cin the second month, in the seventeenth day of the month, all the fountains of the great deep were broken up, and the flood-gates of heaven were opened :

12 And the rain fell upon the earth forty days and forty nights.

13 In the self-same day Noe, and Sem, and Cham, and Japheth, his sons : his wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, went into the ark.

14 They and every beast according to its kind, and all the cattle in their kind, and every thing that moveth upon the earth according to its kind, and every fowl according to its kind, all birds, and all that fly,

15 Went in to Noe into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein was the breath of life.

16 And they that went in, went in male and female of all flesh, as God had commanded him : and the Lord shut him in on the outside.

17 And the flood was forty days upon the earth : and the waters increased, and lifted up the ark on high from the earth.

18 For they overflowed exceedingly : and filled all on the face of the earth : and the ark was carried upon the waters.

19 And the waters prevailed beyond measure upon the earth : and all the high mountains under the whole heaven were covered.

20 The water was fifteen cubits higher than the mountains which it covered.

21 ^dAnd all flesh was destroyed that moved upon the earth, both of fowl and of cattle, and of beasts, and of all creeping things that creep upon the earth : and all men.

^c A. M. 1656, A. C. 2348.—^d Wis. x. 4 ; Eccli. xxxix. 28 ; 1 Pet. iii. 20.

them food. Yet, in all this we must acknowledge the work of God, and a miracle. H.

CHAP. VII. VER. 2. Of all clean. The distinction of clean and unclean beasts, appears to have been made before the law of Moses, which was not promulgated till the year of the world 2514. Ch.—Clean : not according to the law of Moses, which was not yet given, but such as tradition had described—fit for sacrifice ; (M.) though they might be of the same species as were deemed clean in the law, which ratified the ancient institution.—And seven : (Heb.) simply seven, three couple and an odd male, for sacrifice after the deluge : one couple was to breed, the other two perhaps for food. H.

VER. 11. Seventeenth day. On the 10th, God had given the last warning to the wretched and obstinate sinners, to whom Noe had been preaching, both by word and by building the ark, for 120 years ; all in vain. This second month is, by some, supposed to be the month of May ; by others, that of November. The systems of those pretended philosophers, who would represent this flood as only partial, affecting the countries which were then inhabited, are all refuted by the plain narration of Moses. What part of the world could have been secure, when the waters prevailed fifteen cubits above the highest mountains ? H.—Fountains and flood-gates. These are the two natural causes which Moses assigns for the deluge, the waters below, and those above in the sky or firmament. Heaven is said to be shut when it does not rain, (Luc. iv. 25,) so it is here opened, and flood-gates, or torrents of rain, pour down incessantly. But God attributes not the deluge to these causes alone ; he sufficiently intimates that it would be miraculous, (ver. 4, I will rain;) and still more emphatically, (chap. vi. 17,) Behold I, Heb. "I, even I myself, do bring on a flood of waters." Calmet and others have proved, both from Scripture and from philosophical arguments, the universality of the deluge, against Isaac Vossius, &c. H.

22 And all things wherein there is the breath of life on the earth, died.

23 And he destroyed all the substance that was upon the earth, from man even to beast, and the creeping things and fowls of the air: and they were destroyed from the earth: and Noe only remained, and they that were with him in the ark.

24 And the waters prevailed upon the earth a hundred and fifty days.

CHAP. VIII.

The deluge ceaseth. Noe goeth out of the ark, and offereth a sacrifice. God's covenant to him.

AND God remembered Noe, and all the living creatures, and all the cattle which were with him in the ark, and brought a wind upon the earth, and the waters were abated:

2 The fountains also of the deep, and the flood-gates of heaven, were shut up, and the rain from heaven was restrained.

3 And the waters returned from off the earth going and coming: and they began to be abated after a hundred and fifty days.

4 And the ark rested in the seventh month, the seven and twentieth day of the month, upon the mountains of Armenia.

5 And the waters were going and decreasing until the tenth month: for in the tenth month, the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains appeared.

6 And after that forty days were passed, Noe opening the window of the ark, which he had made, sent forth a raven:

7 Which went forth and did not return, till the waters were dried up upon the earth.

8 He sent forth also a dove after him, to see if the waters had now ceased upon the face of the earth.

9 But she not finding where her foot might rest, returned to him into the ark: for the waters were upon the whole earth: and he put forth his hand, and caught her, and brought her into the ark.

10 And having waited yet seven other days, he again sent forth the dove out of the ark.

11 And she came to him in the evening carrying a bough of an olive tree, with green leaves, in her mouth. Noe therefore understood that the waters were ceased upon the earth.

12 And he stayed yet other seven days: and he sent forth the dove, which returned not any more unto him.

13 Therefore in the six hundredth and first year, the first month, the first day of the month, the waters were lessened upon the earth, and Noe opening the covering of the ark, looked, and saw that the face of the earth was dried.

14 In the second month, the seven and twentieth day of the month, the earth was dried.

15 And God spoke to Noe, saying:

16 Go out of the ark, thou and thy wife, thy sons and the wives of thy sons with thee.

17 All living things that are with thee of all flesh, as

VER. 24. Days: counting from the end of the forty days, when the deluge was at its height. C.—In all the histories of past ages, there is nothing so terrible as this event. What became of all those myriads of human beings who perished on this occasion? We know not. Some have charitably supposed, that, although the far greater part perished everlastingly, a few who had been incredulous while Noe preached, opened their eyes at last, when it was too late to save their bodies, and by sincere repentance rescued their souls from the flames, and were consigned to do penance, for a time, in the other world. These heard the preaching of J. C., or believed in his redemption, while they were yet living, and so deserved to partake of his mercies, and joyfully beheld his sacred person when he came to visit them in their prison of purgatory. 1 Pet. iii. 19, He came and preached to those spirits that were in prison: which had been sometime incredulous, when they waited for the patience of God in the days of Noe, when the ark was a building: wherein a few, that is eight souls, were saved from drowning by water. Whereunto baptism, being of the like form, now saves you also, &c. See F. S. Bellarmine, &c. In these last words of S. Peter, we may also notice, that the ark was a figure of baptism, which is so necessary, that without its reception, or desire of it at least, no man can be saved. It is also a figure of the cross, and of the one true Church, as the Fathers remark, with S. Aug. de C. D. xv. i. M. &c. S. Greg. hom. 19 in Ezn, &c.—This is so striking, that it deserves to be seriously considered. It was only one, though God could have ordered many smaller vessels to be made ready, perhaps with less inconvenience to Noe, that we might reflect, out of the one Church the obstinate will surely perish. S. Jer. ep. ad Dam.: In this ark all that were truly holy, and some imperfect, like Cham, were contained, clean beasts and unclean dwelt together, that we need not wonder if some Catholics be a disgrace to their name. The ark had different partitions, to remind us of the various orders of clergy and laity in the Church, with one chief governor, the Pope, like Noe in the ark. It was strong, visible, &c., and pitched all over with the durable cement, bitumen, and riding triumphant amid the storms, the envy of all who were out of it, till at last it settled upon a rock. So the Church is built on a rock, against which the gates of hell shall not prevail: she is not less obvious to the sincere seeker, than a city built on the top of the highest mountain, &c.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 1. Remembered, not as if God had ever forgotten Noe, but he now shows his remembrance of him by the effects. M.—A wind, lit. a spirit, which S. Amb. and Theodoret understand of the Holy Ghost, that, as he moved over the waters at first, (chap. i. 2,) to give them fecundity, and to exercise his power in establishing order, so he may show the same care and providence for this new world, emerging, like the former, from the waters. H.—Most interpreters, however, understand this of a violent wind, (Prov. xxv. 23; Exod. xiv. 21,) a strong blast, such as was sent to divide the Red Sea. M.

VER. 3. And the waters returned, &c. S. Jerom on this passage remarks, "that all waters and torrents repair to the womb of the abyss, through the hidden veins of the earth," and by the abyss understands the sea: according to that of Ecclesiastes i. 7, all the rivers run into the sea. But as the sea itself, on this occasion, exceeded its limits, (otherwise its waters would not have been higher than the land,) the sense perhaps is confined to this, that the waters by degrees were diminished; as we may say of the inundations of land, that the waters are gone off, not by the regular course of ditches, but from the effects of the sun and winds which dry them up. E.

VER. 4. And the ark rested on the mountains of Armenia. The Hebrew word is Ararat, which also occurs in the 57th chap. of Isaiah, and the 51st of Jeremiah; for in these places our interpreter retained the Hebrew word, but in the 4th book of Kings, xix. 37, where the same history is related, it is translated by the land of the Armenians. E.—Seventh month, of the year, not of the deluge, as appears from ver. 13, &c. M.—Seven and twentieth. So also the Sept., but the Heb. &c. have the 17th. It is not easy to decide which is right. On the seventeenth the waters only began to decrease, and some hence argue for the Vulgate, as they say it is not probable the ark would stop that very day. C.—This, however, might be the only means by which Noe could discern that the waters were abating. H.—The ark being about fourteen cubits sunk in the water, might soon touch the summit of the highest mountains, such as M. Taurus, of which the Ararat, here mentioned in the Hebrew, a mountain of Armenia, forms a part, according to S. Jerom. The Armenians still boast that they have the remains of the ark. Berosus the pagan historian, says bitumen was taken from it as a preservative. Jos. Ant. i. 3. Eus. Præp. ix. 4. The Chaldee has Cordu for Ararat, whence some have supposed, that the ark rested on the Cordyean or Gordicæan mountains. The Armenians call the mountain near Erivan, Mesensar, or the mountain of the ark. C.

VER. 7. Did not return. The negation not, is not to be found in any Hebrew copy now extant; though it is still retained by the Septuagint, and several Latin manuscripts, according to the testimony of Liranus. If we adhere, therefore, to the Hebrew text, we must translate it with S. Jerom, thus; It went forth, going and returning, (Egrediatur exiens et revertens,) sometimes repairing to the mountains, where it found carcases to feed on, and at other times returning not unto the ark, but to rest upon the top of it. E. Ch.—Or receded farther from it; as the Hebrew may be explained, agreeably to the Vulgate, Sept., Syr., &c., which admit the negation. C.—Till, as long as the waters covered the earth, not that it returned to the ark afterwards. M.

VER. 9. Whole earth, excepting the mountains; so that the dove presently returned. H.

VER. 11. Green leaves. The olive tree preserves its verdure and grows even at the bottom of the Red Sea, and other seas in the East. Plin. xii. 25.—Many other trees and seeds will live for a long time under the waters. C.

VER. 13. Year of Noe's age, who, we may suppose, was born on the first day of the year. So that his 601st year corresponds with the 1657th of the world, B. C. 2343, on which day the deluge ended. Still Noe waited for God's order to leave the ark till the 27th of the ensuing month, when the earth was more perfectly dried. H.

VER. 17. Increase. Heb. "let them increase." This is spoken of the brute creation; the blessing is given to men, chap. ix.

well in fowls as in beasts, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, bring out with thee, and go ye upon the earth: ^aincrease and multiply upon it.

18 So Noe went out, he and his sons: his wife, and the wives of his sons with him.

19 And all living things, and cattle, and creeping things that creep upon the earth, according to their kinds, went out of the ark.

20 And Noe built an altar unto the Lord: and taking of all cattle and fowls that were clean, offered holocausts upon the altar.

21 And the Lord smelled a sweet savour, and said: I will no more curse the earth for the sake of man: ^bfor the imagination and thought of man's heart are prone to evil from his youth: therefore I will no more destroy every living soul as I have done.

22 All the days of the earth, seed-time and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, night and day, shall not cease.

CHAP. IX.

God blesseth Noe: forbiddeth blood: and promiseth never more to destroy the world by water. The blessing of Sem and Japheth.

AND God blessed Noe and his sons. And he said to them: ^cIncrease, and multiply, and fill the earth.

2 And let the fear and dread of you be upon all the beasts of the earth, and upon all the fowls of the air, and all that move upon the earth: all the fishes of the sea are delivered into your hand.

3 And every thing that moveth and liveth shall be meat for you: even as the green herbs have I delivered them all to you: ^d

4 Saving that flesh with blood you shall not eat.^e

5 For I will require the blood of your lives at the hand of every beast, and at the hand of man, at the hand of every man, and of his brother, will I require the life of man.

6 ^fWhosoever shall shed man's blood, his blood shall be shed: for man was made to the image of God.^g

^a Supra, i. 28; Infra, ix. 1.—^b Supra, vi. 5; Matt. xv. 19.—^c Supra, i. 22, and viii. 17.
^d Supra, i. 29.—^e Lev. xvii. 14; Acts xv. 29.

VER. 20. Holocausts, or whole burnt offerings. In which the whole victim was consumed by fire upon God's altar, and no part was reserved for the use of priest or people. Ch.—This is the first time we read of an altar, though Abel had surely made use of one. M.

VER. 21. Smelled, &c. A figurative expression, denoting that God was pleased with the sacrifices which his servant offered, (Ch.) and in this sense it is expressed in the Chaldee, "God received his offering gratefully." God requires sacrifices of us, to testify his dominion, and not for any advantage he derives from them; but rather to bless us, if we perform our duty with fervour.—For the sake of, or on account of men's sins. H.

VER. 22. Seed-time, according to the Targum of Jonathan, is the equinox of September; harvest, that of March; winter and summer denote the solstice of December and of June.

CHAP. IX. VER. 1. Blessed, with fecundity. Barrenness was deemed a curse. C.

VER. 2. Fear, &c. God confirms the dominion of man over all animals, though he must exercise it now by compulsion. H.

VER. 3. Meat. The more religious, at least, had hitherto abstained from flesh, being content with herbs, &c.: which had been expressly granted. M.—God gives leave to eat flesh meat, but with some restriction, that we may still learn to obey. W.

VER. 4. With blood. This was a matter of indifference in itself, like the forbidden fruit. But God gave the prohibition, to keep people at a greater distance from imbruing their hands in the blood of others. M.—The apostles required this law to be observed by the first Christians, that the Jews might not be disgusted: but, after a competent time had been allowed them, the Church thought proper to alter this discipline. S. Aug. c. Faust. xxxii. 13.

VER. 5. At the hand; a Heb. idiom. God orders an ox to be stoned, which had slain a man, Exod. xxi. 28.—Man, (hominis) every man, (viri) brother. By 7 ^hBut increase you and multiply, and go upon the earth and fill it.

8 Thus also said God to Noe, and to his sons with him.

9 Behold I will establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you:

10 And with every living soul, that is with you, as well in all birds, as in cattle and beasts of the earth, that are come forth out of the ark, and in all the beasts of the earth.

11 ⁱI will establish my covenant with you, and all flesh shall be no more destroyed with the waters of a flood, neither shall there be from henceforth a flood to waste the earth.

12 And God said: This is the sign of the covenant which I give between me and you, and to every living soul that is with you, for perpetual generations.

13 I will set my bow in the clouds, and it shall be the sign of a covenant between me and between the earth.

14 ^kAnd when I shall cover the sky with clouds, my bow shall appear in the clouds:

15 And I will remember my covenant with you, and with every living soul that beareth flesh: and there shall no more be waters of a flood to destroy all flesh.

16 And the bow shall be in the clouds, and I shall see it, and shall remember the everlasting covenant, that was made between God and every living soul of all flesh which is upon the earth.

17 And God said to Noe: This shall be the sign of the covenant, which I have established, between me and all flesh upon the earth.

18 And the sons of Noe, who came out of the ark, were Sem, Cham, and Japheth: and Cham is the father of Chanaan.

19 These three are the sons of Noe: and from these was all mankind spread over the whole earth.

20 And Noe a husbandman began to till the ground, and planted a vineyard.

21 And drinking of the wine was made drunk, and was uncovered in his tent.

Matt. xxvi. 52.—^g Apoc. xiii. 19.—^h Supra, i. 28, and viii. 17.
ⁱ Isa. liv. 9.—^k Eccl. xliii. 12.

these three terms, God inculcates a horror of bloodshed; because we are all of the same nature, ought to act like generous men, and to consider every individual as a brother, since we spring from the same stock. M.

VER. 6. Shed. God had not subjected Cain to this law of retaliation, as he was the first murderer, and the earth was unpeopled. H.—Here he declares, that it is just to inflict such a punishment on the offender. M.—Judges are hence authorized to punish murderers with death. C.—The general law, thou shalt not kill, admits of exceptions, and forbids killing by private authority, or out of revenge. H.—The blood of your lives, may signify the blood on which your life depends; or, according to the Rabbin, it is a prohibition of suicide, which one would think is so contrary to the first law of nature, self-preservation, as to require no prohibition; and yet, to the scandal of philosophers, some have written in its defence! H.

VER. 10. Soul . . in birds, &c. The covenant of God is made with animals, only inasmuch as they are subservient to man. D.

VER. 13. My rain bow. This had been from the beginning; but it was not before appointed for a sign that the earth should no more be destroyed by water. It is styled God's bow, on account of its beauty and grandeur. M. Eccl. xliii. 12.—"As the rain-bow, which makes its appearance in the clouds, borrows all its effulgence from the sun, so those only who acknowledge the glory of Christ in God's clouds, and do not seek their own glory, will escape destruction in the deluge." S. Aug. c. Faust. ii. 21.

VER. 16. Remember; or I shall cause men to reflect, when they see the rainbow, of the horrors of the deluge, and of my gracious promises and covenant.

VER. 18. Chanaan, who, it seems, is here mentioned to his shame, having first discovered and told his father that Noe was drunk. He was probably but young at the time, being born after the deluge.

VER. 21. Drunk. Noe, by the judgment of the Fathers, was not guilty of sin, in being overcome by wine: because he knew not the strength of it. Ch.—Wine

22 Which when Cham the father of Chanaan had seen, to wit, that his father's nakedness was uncovered, he told it to his two brethren without.

23 But Sem and Japheth put a cloak upon their shoulders, and going backward, covered the nakedness of their father: and their faces were turned away, and they saw not their father's nakedness.

24 And Noe awaking from the wine, when he had learned what his younger son had done to him, 25 He said: Cursed be Chanaan, a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren.

26 And he said: Blessed be the Lord God of Sem, be Chanaan his servant.

27 May God enlarge Japheth, and may he dwell in the tents of Sem, and Chanaan be his servant.

28 And Noe lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years.

29 And all his days were in the whole nine hundred and fifty years: and he died.

CHAP. X.

The genealogy of the children of Noe, by whom the world was peopled after the flood.

THESE are the generations of the sons of Noe: Sem, Cham, and Japheth: and unto them sons were born after the flood.*

2 The sons of Japheth: Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Thubal, and Mosoch, and Thiras.

3 And the sons of Gomer: Ascenez and Riphath and Thogorma.

4 And the sons of Javan: Elisa and Tharsis, Chetthim and Dodanim.

5 By these were divided the islands of the Gentiles in their lands, every one according to his tongue and their families in their nations.

6 And the sons of Cham: Chus, and Mesraim, and Phuth, and Chanaan.

* 1 Par. iii. 5.

Though vines had grown from the beginning, the art of making wine seems not to have been discovered; and hence Noe's fault is much extenuated, and was at most only a venial sin. M.

VER. 23. Neither ought we to be so quick-sighted in discovering the faults of any: which we often represent as real, when they are only apparent. H.

VER. 25. Cursed be Chanaan. The curses, as well as the blessings, of the patriarchs were prophetical: and this in particular is here recorded by Moses, for the children of Israel, who were to possess the land of Chanaan. But why should Chanaan be cursed for his father's fault? The Hebrews answer, that he, being then a boy, was the first that saw his grandfather's nakedness, and told his father Cham of it; and joined with him in laughing at it: which drew upon him, rather than upon the rest of the children of Cham, this prophetic curse. Ch.—Theodoret, q. 57.

VER. 27. Enlarge Japheth. His name signifies latitude or enlargement. W.—This was verified by the extensive dominion of the children of Japheth, both in the islands and on the continent; more particularly, when the Romans subdued the Jews, and posterity of Sem. M.

VER. 29. He died, having witnessed the attempt of his children to build the tower of Babel, and having been concerned in the dispersion of nations. H.—The Fathers conclude that he had no children after the deluge, as the Scripture mentions the world was divided among his three sons and their offspring. C.—This great and virtuous patriarch had only been dead two years, when the faithful Abraham was born, as it were to succeed him in maintaining the cause of God. H.—The Rabbi asserts, that God gave some general laws to Noe, which were necessarily to be observed by all who would obtain salvation. 1. To obey the laws. 2. Not to curse God. 3. Nor admit of any false god, nor of any superstition. 4. Not to marry one's mother, mother-in-law, sister by the same mother, or another person's wife, nor to commit sins against nature. 5. Not to shed blood; that of beasts must be buried. 6. Not to steal, or break one's word. 7. Not to eat the limb of a living creature. Maimonides thinks this last was given to Noe, the rest to Adam. C.

CHAP. X. VER. 2. Japheth. From his being placed first, some conclude that he was the eldest; and perhaps the famed Japetus of the Greeks is the same

7 And the sons of Chus: Saba, and Hevila, and Sabatha, and Regma, and Sabatacha. The sons of Regma: Saba, and Dadan.

8 Now Chus begot Nemrod: he began to be mighty on the earth.

9 And he was a stout hunter before the Lord. Hence came a proverb: Even as Nemrod the stout hunter before the Lord.

10 And the beginning of his kingdom was Babylon, and Arach, and Achad, and Chalanne in the land of Sennaar.

11 Out of that land came forth Assur, and built Ninive and the streets of the city, and Chale.

12 Resen also between Ninive and Chale: this is the great city.

13 And Mesraim begot Ludim, and Anamim and Laabim, Nephtuim.

14 And Phetrusim, and Chasluim; of whom came forth the Philistines, and the Caphtorim.

15 And Chanaan begot Sidon his firstborn, the Hethite,

16 And the Jebusite, and the Amorrhite, and the Gergesite.

17 The Hevite and Aracite: the Sinite.

18 And the Aradian, the Samarite, and the Hamathite: and afterwards the families of the Chanaanites were spread abroad.

19 And the limits of Chanaan were from Sidon as one comes to Gerara even to Gaza, until thou enter Sodom and Gomorrha, and Adama, and Seboim even to Lesa.

20 These are the children of Cham in their kindreds and tongues, and generations, and lands, and nations.

21 Of Sem also the father of all the children of Heber, the elder brother of Japheth, sons were born.

22 The sons of Sem: ^bElam and Assur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram.

^b 1 Par. i. 17.

person. D.—Sem comes last, though elder than Cham, that the history of the true Church may be more connected. Though it would be a work of great labour to discover what nations sprung from the people here mentioned, yet some are sufficiently obvious; and the learned Bochart has given very plausible applications of the different names to the respective nations, in his Phaleg, or sacred Geography. Gomer is supposed to be the father of the Cimbri in Germany, from whom the French and English also probably sprung. H.—Magog, father of the Scythians, &c. Ezec. xxxvi. Madai of the Medes, Javan of the Ionians in Greece, Thubal of the Iberians and Spaniards, Mosoch of the Muscovites, Thiras of the Thracians.

VER. 5. The islands. So the Hebrews called all the remote countries to which they went by ships from Judea, as Greece, Italy, Spain, &c., (Ch.) whether they were surrounded with water or not. Jer. xxv. 22. M.

VER. 9. A stout hunter. Not of beasts, but of men; whom by violence and tyranny he brought under his dominion. And such he was, not only in the opinion of men, but before the Lord; that is, in his sight who cannot be deceived. Ch.—The Sept. call him a giant; that is, a violent man.

VER. 11. That land, of Sennaar, near the city of Babylon. Assur, or Ninus, who founded the Assyrian empire. M.—But many understand this of Nemrod, who, in his progress from Babylonia to conquer the world, and oppress the rest of his brethren, came forth into Assyria, as if it were written Assurah. Bochart There he built Ninive, on the Tigris. C.—And the streets, &c., which were amazingly extensive. Jonas iii. 3. It may also signify the city Rohoboth. Pagnin.

VER. 19. To Lesa, or Laisa, to the north, on the Jordan, as Sodom was on the southern extremity of that river. Sidon and Gaza were on the Mediterranean Sea, north and south; so that these four cities are like four points, determining the extent of the promised land, which, as it was important for the Israelites to know, Moses descends to these particulars in speaking of the Canaanites.

VER. 21. Of Heber. That is, of the nations beyond the Euphrates. Hebrews, &c. C.—The elder brother, fratres Japheth majore, may be rendered as well, "Japheth being his elder brother," which, as we have already observed, was probably the case. H.

23 The sons of Aram : Us, and Hull, and Gether; and Mes.

24 But Arphaxad begot Sale, of whom was born Heber.

25 And to Heber were born two sons : the name of the one was Phaleg, because in his days was the earth divided : and his brother's name Jectan.

26 Which Jectan begot Elmodad, and Saleph, and Asarmoth, Jare,

27 And Aduram, and Uzal, and Decla,

28 And Ebal, and Abimael, Saba,

29 And Ophir, and Hevila, and Jobab. All these were the sons of Jectan.

30 And their dwelling was from Messa as we go on as far as Sehar, a mountain in the east.

31 These are the children of Sem according to their kindreds and tongues, and countries in their nations.

32 These are the families of Noe, according to their people and nations. By these were the nations divided on the earth after the flood.

CHAP. XI.

The tower of Babel. The confusion of tongues. The genealogy of Sem down to Abram.

AND the earth was of one tongue,* and of the same speech.

2 And when they removed from the east, they found a plain in the land of Sennaar, and dwelt in it.

3 And each one said to his neighbour : Come, let us make brick, and bake them with fire. And they had brick instead of stones, and slime instead of mortar :

4 And they said : Come, let us make a city and a tower, the top whereof may reach to heaven ; and let us make our names famous before we be scattered abroad into all lands.

5 And the Lord came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of Adam were building.

6 And he said : Behold, it is one people, and all have one tongue : and they have begun to do this, neither will they leave off in their designs, till they accomplish them in deed.

7 Come ye, therefore, let us go down, and there confound their tongue, that they may not understand one another's speech.

* Wis. x. 5.—b A. M. circiter 1800, and A. C. 2204.—c 1 Par. i. 17.

VER. 24. Begot Sale ; either his son, or his grandson, by Cainan. See Luke iii. 36, where we shall examine this question ; also chap. xi. 12. The copies of the Sept. now extant, all assert that Cainan was the son of Arphaxad, in all the places where they are mentioned, both in Gen. and Chronicles ; and though some endeavour to prove that this is an interpolation, inserted by a later hand, it is certain it was found in the Sept. in the days of S. Luke, who confirms it by his authority, as all the copies, both Greek and Latin, except a very faulty one which belonged to Beza, and is now at Cambridge, testify. Beza was so bold as to expunge the name. But before we allow of this freedom, we must be informed how S. Luke could adopt such an error, being, as he was, under the guidance of the Holy Ghost ! See Salien, &c. H.—Mariana asserts, that the Hebrew copies have been vitiated.

CHAP. XI. VER. 1. Speech. Probably Hebrew ; in which language we have the most ancient book in the world, the work of Moses. This language has been preserved ever since, though with some alterations. Most of the oriental languages are but like dialects from it, as French, Italian, &c. are from Latin. H.

VER. 2. The East : Armenia, which lies to the eastward of Babylonia, whither they directed their course in quest of provisions for themselves and cattle, being now grown pretty numerous. M.

VER. 3. Each one : not that every individual joined in this undertaking, considered, at least, as a rash and presumptuous attempt to save themselves from a second deluge. Slime : literally, bitumen. H.—The Hebrew, emor, means also slime, or mortar. Stone is very scarce in that country, but the earth is fat, and very proper to make brick ; it also abounds in naphtha, bitumen, &c. hence the ancients notice the brick walls of Babylon C

8 And so the Lord scattered them from that place into all lands, and they ceased to build the city.^b

9 And therefore the name thereof was called Babel, because there the language of the whole earth was confounded : and from thence the Lord scattered them abroad upon the face of all countries.

10 These are the generations of Sem :^c Sem was a hundred years old when he begot Arphaxad, two years after the flood.

11 And Sem lived after he begot Arphaxad, five hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

12 And Arphaxad lived thirty-five years, and begot Sale.

13 And Arphaxad lived after he begot Sale, three hundred and three years, and begot sons and daughters.

14 Sale also lived thirty years, and begot Heber.

15 And Sale lived after he begot Heber, four hundred and three years : and begot sons and daughters.

16 And Heber lived thirty-four years, and begot Phaleg.

17 And Heber lived after he begot Phaleg, four hundred and thirty years : and begot sons and daughters.

18 Phaleg also lived thirty years, and begot Reu.

19 And Phaleg lived after he begot Reu, two hundred and nine years, and begot sons and daughters.

20 And Reu lived thirty-two years, and begot Sarug.

21 And Reu lived after he begot Sarug, two hundred and seven years, and begot sons and daughters.

22 And Sarug lived thirty years, and begot Nachor.

23 And Sarug lived after he begot Nachor, two hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

24 And Nachor lived nine and twenty years, and begot Thare.

25 And Nachor lived after he begot Thare, a hundred and nineteen years, and begot sons and daughters.

26 And Thare lived seventy years, and begot Abram, and Nachor, and Aran.

27 And these are the generations of Thare : Thare begot Abram, Nachor, and Aran. And Aran begot Lot.

28 And Aran died before Thare his father, in the land of his nativity in Ur of the Chaldees.

29 And Abram and Nachor married wives : the name

^d 1 Par. i. 19.—^e 1 Par. i. 26.—^f Jos. xxiv. 2 ; Neh. ix. 7.

VER. 4. Famous before ; Heb. lest, &c. ; as if they intended to prevent that event. H.—Their motive appears to have been pride, which raised the indignation of God. M.

VER. 7. Come ye, &c. As men seemed bent on taking heaven by storm, like the ancient giants, God turns their expressions, as it were, against themselves, and shows them an example of humility, let us go down. He acts the part of a judge, and therefore will examine all with the utmost diligence, as he denotes by these expressions ; being really incapable of moving from place to place, on account of his immensity. H.—He seems nearer to men, by the effects or punishments which he inflicted. The address which he here makes is directed, not to the angels, but to the other two co-equal powers of the Blessed Trinity. M.

VER. 9. Babel, that is, confusion. This is one of the greatest miracles recorded in the Old Testament : men forgot, in a moment, the language which they had hitherto spoken, and found themselves enabled to speak another, known only to a few of the same family (C.) ; for we must not suppose that there were as many new languages as there were men at Babel. M.—The precise number of original languages which were then heard cannot be determined. The learned commonly acknowledge the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Teutonic, Slavonian, Tartarian, and Chinese languages, to be original. The rest are only dialects from these. H.

VER. 12. Sale, or Cainan. See ch. x. 24. Chron. i. 18, in the Septuagint. H.

VER. 27. Abram, the youngest of the three, being born only in the 230th year of Thare, ver. 32, and chap. xii. 4. He is placed first, on account of his superior dignity in the church of God, in like manner as Sem, Moses, &c.

VER. 29. Jescha, whom many confound with Sarai, as if both Nachor and of Abram's wife was Sarai: and the name of Nachor's wife, Melcha, the daughter of Aran, father of Melcha and father of Jescha.

30 And Sarai was barren, and had no children.

31 And Thare took Abram his son, and Lot the son of Aran, his son's son, and Sarai his daughter-in-law, the wife of Abram his son, and brought them out of Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Chanaan: and they came as far as Haran, and dwelt there.

32 And the days of Thare were two hundred and five years, and he died in Haran.

CHAP. XII.

The call of Abram, and the promise made to him. He sojourneth in Chanaan, and then, by occasion of a famine, goeth down to Egypt.

AND the Lord said to Abram: "Go forth out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and out of thy father's house, and come into the land which I shall show thee.

2 And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and magnify thy name and thou shalt be blessed.

3 I will bless them that bless thee, and curse them that curse thee, and IN THEE shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed.

4 So Abram went out as the Lord had commanded him, and Lot went with him: Abram was seventy-five years old when he went forth from Haran.^d

5 And he took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all the substance which they had gathered, and the souls which they had gotten in Haran: and they went out to go into the land of Chanaan. And when they were come into it,

6 Abram passed through the country unto the place of Sichem, as far as the noble vale: now the Chanaanite was at that time in the land.

7 And the Lord appeared to Abram, and said to him: "To thy seed will I give this land. And he built there an altar to the Lord, who had appeared to him.

^a Judith v. 6; Acts vii. 2.—^b Acts vii. 3.—^c Infra, xviii. 18, and xxii. 18, and xxvi. 4; Gal. iii. 8; Heb. xi. 8.—^d A. M. 2083, A. C. 1921.

Abram had married the daughters of their brother Aran. But why then does Moses mention Sarai before, and then call her Jescha in the same verse? It seems as if he intended to designate two different women. H.—In effect, Abram himself says, Sarai was truly his sister, born of the same father, chap. xii. 13. See chap. xx. 12, where we shall give the reasons which seem to prove that she was the daughter of Thare, and not of Aran. C.—Jescha does not accompany her grandfather, preferring, perhaps, to stay with Nachor, or to marry in her own country; if she were not already dead when Thare departed from Ur, a city of the Chaldees. H.—This city is probably Ura, in Mesopotamia, not far from Nisibis, which the Scripture often mentions as a part of Chaldea. Acts vii. 2, &c. C.

CHAP. XII. VER. 1. Said: not after his father's death, but before he left Ur; (M.) unless, perhaps, Abram received a second admonition at Haran, which, from his dwelling there with his father, &c., is styled his country. He leaves his hundred, Nachor and his other relations, except Sarai and Lot, who go with him into Chanaan; and even his own house, or many of his domestics and effects, and full of faith, goes in quest of an unknown habitation. Heb. xi. 8. H.—S. Stephen clearly distinguishes these two calls of Abram. From the second, the 430 years of sojournment, mentioned Gal. iii., Exod. xii., must be dated. C.—This is the third grand epoch of the world, about 2083, when God chooses one family to maintain the one faith, which he had all along supported. See W. &c.

VER. 3. In thee, &c., or in the Messias, who will be one of thy descendants, and the source of all the blessings to be conferred on any of the human race. Gal. iii. 16. C.

VER. 5. Gotten (fecerant): made or acquired, either by birth or purchase, &c. M.

VER. 6. Sichem. At the foot of M. Garizim, where Abram offered his first sacrifice in the land. Deut. xi. 30. Ken.—Noble; on account of the many tall and shady oaks, whence the Sept. have the high oak. Heb. Abnu murē, the plain of Moreh, or of ostension, because God showed Abram from this place, situated 8 And passing on from thence to a mountain, that was on the east side of Bethel, he there pitched his tent, having Bethel on the west, and Hai on the east: he built there also an altar to the Lord, and called upon his name.

9 And Abram went forward, going and proceeding on to the south.

10 And there came a famine in the country: and Abram went down into Egypt, to sojourn there: for the famine was very grievous in the land.

11 And when he was near to enter into Egypt, he said to Sarai his wife: I know that thou art a beautiful woman:

12 And that when the Egyptians shall see thee, they will say: She is his wife: and they will kill me, and keep thee.

13 "Say therefore, I pray thee, that thou art my sister: that I may be well used for thee, and that my soul may live for thy sake.

And when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians saw the woman that she was very beautiful.

15 And the princes told Pharaoh, and praised her before him: and the woman was taken into the house of Pharaoh.

16 And they used Abram well for her sake. And he had sheep and oxen and he asses, and men servants, and maid servants, and she asses, and camels.

17 But the Lord scourged Pharaoh and his house, with most grievous stripes, for Sarai, Abram's wife.

18 And Pharaoh called Abram, and said to him: What is this that thou hast done to me? Why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife?

19 For what cause didst thou say, she was thy sister, that I might take her to my wife? Now therefore there is thy wife, take her, and go thy way.

20 And Pharaoh gave his men orders concerning Abram: and they led him away and his wife, and all that he had.

^e Gal. iii. 17; Infra, xiii. 11, and xv. 18, and xxvi. 2; Deut. xxxiv. 4. f A. M. 2084, A. C. 1920.—g Infra, xx. 11.

about the middle of the promised land, what countries he would give to him in his posterity, after having exterminated the Chanaanites, who then occupied the land as their own. H.

VER. 8. Bethel, as it was called in the days of Moses, being the ancient Luza. Chap. xxviii. On the west, Heb., towards the sea or Mediterranean, which lay west of Palestine. Bethel signifies the house of God, being honoured with two altars. H.

VER. 9. Proceeding to the south, Heb., means also the desert, as the Sept. generally translate negēb: other interpreters agree with the Vulgate. C.

VER. 10. Down into Egypt, which lies lower than Judea: here the famine did not rage. God would not allow him to go back to his friends. M.

VER. 11. Beautiful: having yet had no children, though she must have been 65 years old. Abram acts with prudence, and does not tempt God: if he had made known that the woman was his wife, he would have exposed his life to imminent danger, amid a cruel and lascivious people; and being convinced of the elasticity of Sarai, he did not, in the least, apprehend that she would consent to any violation of her conjugal engagements. C.—The event proved the justice of Abram's suspicions, and God's intercession showed that He was not displeased with his concealing part of the truth.

VER. 13. My sister. This was no lie; because she was his niece, being daughter to his brother Aran, and therefore, in the style of the Hebrews, she might truly be called his sister; as Lot is called Abraham's brother, chap. xiv. 14. See chap. xx. 12. Ch.

VER. 15. Pharaoh: the usual title of the kings of Egypt in Ezechiel's time, chap. xxxii. 2.

VER. 17. Scourged Pharaoh with unusual pains, sterility, &c., that he might easily perceive that his taking Sarai was displeasing to God. H.—He did not intend to commit adultery indeed, but his conduct was tyrannical and oppressive to the stranger, whom God protects. Psal. xlv. M.

CHAP. XIII.

Abram and Lot part from each other. God's promise to Abram.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him into the south.

2 And he was very rich in possession of gold and silver.

3 And he returned by the way, that he came, from the south to Bethel, to the place where before he had pitched his tent between Bethel and Hai.

4 *In the place of the altar which he had made before, and there he called upon the name of the Lord.

5 But Lot also, who was with Abram, had flocks of sheep, and herds of beasts, and tents.

6 Neither was the land able to bear them, that they might dwell together :^b for their substance was great, and they could not dwell together.

7 Whereupon also there arose a strife between the herdsmen of Abram and of Lot. And at that time the Chanaanite and the Pherezite dwelled in that country.

8 Abram therefore said to Lot: Let there be no quarrel, I beseech thee, between me and thee, and between my herdsmen and thy herdsmen: for we are brethren.

9 Behold the whole land is before thee: depart from me, I pray thee: if thou wilt go to the left hand, I will take the right: if thou choose the right hand, I will pass to the left.

10 And Lot lifting up his eyes, saw all the country about the Jordan, which was watered throughout, before the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrha, as the paradise of the Lord, and like Egypt as one comes to Segor.

11 And Lot chose to himself the country about the Jordan, and he departed from the east: and they were separated one brother from the other.

12 Abram dwelt in the land of Chanaan: and Lot abode in the towns, that were about the Jordan, and dwelt in Sodom.

13 And the men of Sodom were very wicked, and sinners before the face of the Lord beyond measure.

14 And the Lord said to Abram, after Lot was separated from him: *Lift up thy eyes, and look from the place wherein thou now art, to the north and to the south, to the east and to the west.

15 All the land which thou seest, I will give to thee, and to thy seed for ever.

16 And I will make thy seed as the dust of the earth:

^a Supra, xii. 7.—^b Infra, xxxvi. 7.—^c Supra, xii. 7; Infra, xv. 18, and xxvi. 4;

CHAP. XIII. VER. 1. South. With respect to Judea, which the sacred writers have always in view.

VER. 2. Rich in possession. Heb. may be "heavy laden with cattle, gold," &c. M.

VER. 6. To bear or feed their flocks, as well as those of the Chanaanites. C.

VER. 8. Abram therefore, for fear of raising a quarrel with the Pherezites also, who might complain that these strangers were eating up what they had before taken possession of, suggests to his nephew the propriety of their taking different courses. Being the older, he divides, and the younger chooses, according to an ancient and laudable custom. S. Aug. de C. D. xvi. 20.

VER. 13. Sinners before, &c. That is, truly, without restraint or disguise. Lot might not have been acquainted with their dissolute morals, when he made this choice; in which however he consulted only his senses, and looked for temporal advantages, which ended in sorrow. H.

VER. 15. And to: this is by way of explanation to the former words: (Ha.) for Abram never possessed a foot of this land by inheritance. Acts viii. 5. Even his posterity never enjoyed it, at least for any long time. S. Augustine gives the reason; because the promise was conditional, and the Jews did not fulfil their part by obedience and fidelity. q. 91. in Gen. C.

VER. 17. Through. Lot has chosen a part, I give the whole to thee. Thou mayest take possession of it, and go wherever thou hast a mind. C.

if any man be able to number the dust of the earth, he shall be able to number thy seed also.

17 Arise and walk through the land in the length, and in the breadth thereof: for I will give it to thee.

18 So Abram removing his tent, came, and dwelt by the vale of Mambre, which is in Hebron: and he built there an altar to the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

The expedition of the four kings: the victory of Abram: he is blessed by Melchisedech.

AND it came to pass at that time, that Amraphel, king of Sennaar, and Arioch, king of Pontus, and Chodorlahomor, king of the Elamites, and Thadal, king of nations,

2 Made war against Bara, king of Sodom, and against Bersa, king of Gomorrha, and against Sennaab, king of Adama, and against Semeber, king of Seboim, and against the king of Bala, which is Segor.

3 All these came together into the woodland vale, which now is the salt sea.^d

4 For they had served Chodorlahomor twelve years, and in the thirteenth year they revolted from him.

5 And in the fourteenth year^e came Chodorlahomor, and the kings that were with him: and they smote the Raphaim in Astarothcarnaim, and the Zuzim with them, and the Emim in Save of Cariathaim.

6 And the Chorreams in the mountains of Seir, even to the plains of Fharan, which is in the wilderness.

7 And they returned, and came to the fountain of Misphat, the same is Cades: and they smote all the country of the Amalecites, and the Amorrian that dwelt in Asasonthamar.

8 And the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrha, and the king of Adama, and the king of Seboim, and the king of Bala, which is Segor, went out: and they set themselves against them in battle array, in the woodland vale:

9 To wit, against Chodorlahomor king of the Elamites, and Thadal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Sennaar, and Arioch king of Pontus: four kings against five.

10 Now the woodland vale had many pits of slime. And the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrha turned their backs, and were overthrown there: and they that remained, fled to the mountain.

Deut. xxxiv. 4.—^d Infra, xix. 24.—^e A. M. 2092, A. C. 1912.

VER. 18. Vale, or grove of oaks, where there was a famous one which was called the oak of Mambre, either from the neighbouring city, or from a man of that name. Chap. xiv. 13. M.—Hebron was on the hill above. C.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. Sennaar, or Babylon.—Pontus, Heb. Ellasar, perhaps Thalasarr, as Jonathan writes, not far from Eden.—Elamites, or Persians.—Nations in Galilee, east of the Jordan, whither the conquered kings directed their course. Josue xii. 23, mentions the king of the nations (foreigners) at Galgal. C.

VER. 4. Served. Thus Noe's prediction began to be fulfilled, as Elam was the eldest son of Sem, to whose posterity Chanaan should be slaves. Chap. ix. 26.

VER. 6. Chorreams, or Horreans, who dwelt in one part of that extensive range of mountains, which took their name from Seir; perhaps about Mount Hor, where Aaron died. C.

VER. 7. Misphat, or of judgment and contradiction, because there the Hebrews contended with Moses and Aaron: it was afterwards called Cades. Num. xx. 11.—Amalecites, that is, which they afterwards possessed; for as yet Amalec was unborn. Chap. xxxvi. 16. M.—Amorrian, to the west of Sodom. C.

VER. 10. Of slime. Bituminis. This was a kind of pitch, which served for mortar in the building of Babel, chap. xi. 3, and was used by Noe in pitching the ark. Ch.—Moses does not make this remark without reason. This bitumen would easily take fire, and contribute to the conflagration of Sodom. C.—Overthrown, not all slain, for the king of Sodom escaped, ver. 17.

11 And they took all the substance of the Sodomites, and Gomorrhites, and all their victuals, and went their way :

12 And Lot also, the son of Abram's brother, who dwelt in Sodom, and his substance.

13 And behold one, that had escaped, told Abram the Hebrew, who dwelt in the vale of Mambre the Amorrrhite, the brother of Escol, and the brother of Aner : for these had made a league with Abram.

14 Which when Abram had heard, to wit, that his brother Lot was taken, he numbered of the servants born in his house, three hundred and eighteen, well appointed : and pursued them to Dan.

15 And dividing his company, he rushed upon them in the night, and defeated them : and pursued them as far as Hoba, which is on the left hand of Damascus.

16 And he brought back all the substance, and Lot his brother, with his substance, the women also, and the people.

17 And the king of Sodom went out to meet him, after he returned from the slaughter of Chodorlahomor, and of the kings that were with him in the vale of Save, which is the king's vale.

18 *But Melchisedech, the king of Salem, bringing forth bread and wine, for he was the priest of the most high God, 19 Blessed him, and said : Blessed be Abram by the most high God, who created heaven and earth.

20 And blessed be the most high God, by whose protection, the enemies are in thy hands. And he gave him the tithes of all.

21 And the king of Sodom said to Abram : the persons, and the rest take to thyself.

22 And he answered him : I lift up my hand to the Lord God the most high, the possessor of heaven and earth, 23 That from the very woof-thread unto the shoe latchet, I will not take of any things that are thine, lest thou say : I have enriched Abram.

* Heb. vii. 1.—b A. M. 2092. A. C. 1912.—c Rom. iv. 18.—d Rom. iv. 3

VER. 14. Servants, fit for war. Hence we may form some judgment of the power and dignity of Abram, who was considered as a great prince in that country. Chap. xxiii. 6.

VER. 18. Melchisedech was not Sem : for his genealogy is given in Scripture. Heb. vii. 6 ; nor God the Son, for they are compared together ; nor the Holy Ghost, as some have asserted ; but a virtuous Gentile who adored the true God, and was king of Salem, or Jerusalem, and priest of an order different from that of Aaron, offering in sacrifice bread and wine, a figure of Christ's sacrifice in the Mass ; as the Fathers constantly affirm. H.—See Pererius. S. Jerom ep. ad Evagrium, says, "Melchisedech offered not bloody victims, but dedicated the sacrament of Christ in bread and wine . . . a pure sacrifice." See S. Cyp. ep. 63, ad Cæcil. S. Aug. de C. D. xvi. 22, &c. Many Protestants confess, that this renowned prince of Chanaan was also a priest ; but they will not allow that his sacrifice consisted of bread and wine. In what then ? for a true priest must offer some real sacrifice. If Christ, therefore, be a priest for ever according to the order of Melchisedech, whose sacrifice was not bloody, as those of Aaron were, what other sacrifice does he now offer, but that of his own body and blood in the holy Mass, by the ministry of his priests ? for he was the priest : this is plainly referred to bringing forth, &c., which shows that word to be sacrificial, as in Judges vi. 18. The Hebrew may be ambiguous. But all know that van means for as well as and. Thus the English Bible had it, 1552, "for he was the priest." W.—It is not indeed improbable, but Abram might partake of the meat, which had been offered in thanksgiving by Melchisedech. But there would be no need of observing that he was a priest on this account ; as this was a piece of civility expected from princes on similar occasions. Deut. xliii. 4 ; 2 Kings xvii. 27. H.

VER. 19. Blessed him, as his inferior, and received tithes of him. Heb. iv. 7. *he shows the antiquity of the practice of supporting God's priests by tithes.

24 Except such things as the young men have eaten, and the shares of the men that came with me, Aner, Escol, and Mambre : these shall take their shares

CHAP. XV.

God promiseth seed to Abram. His faith, sacrifice, and vision.

NOW when these things were done, the word of the Lord came to Abram by a vision, saying : Fear not, Abram, I am thy protector, and thy reward exceeding great.

2 And Abram said : Lord God, what wilt thou give me ? I shall go without children : and the son of the steward of my house is this Damascus Eliezer.

3 And Abram added : But to me thou hast not given seed : and lo my servant born in my house, shall be my heir.

4 And immediately the word of the Lord came to him, saying : He shall not be thy heir : but he that shall come out of thy bowels, him shalt thou have for thy heir.

5 And he brought him forth abroad, and said to him : Look up to heaven and number the stars if thou canst. And he said to him : So shall thy seed be.

6 Abram believed God, and it was reputed to him unto justice.

7 And he said to him : I am the Lord who brought thee out from Ur of the Chaldees to give thee this land, and that thou mightest possess it.

8 But he said : Lord God, whereby may I know that I shall possess it ?

9 And the Lord answered, and said : Take me a cow of three years old, and a she-goat of three years, and a ram of three years, a turtle also, and a pigeon.

10 And he took all these, and divided them in the midst, and laid the two pieces of each one against the other : but the birds he divided not.

11 And the fowls came down upon the carcasses, and Abram drove them away.

12 And when the sun was setting, a deep sleep fell upon Abram, and a great and darksome horror seized upon him.

13 And it was said unto him : Know thou before

Gal. iii. 6 ; James ii. 23.—Jer. xxxiv. 18.—Acts vii. 6.

VER. 21. The persons, (animas,) the souls subject to my dominion. H.

VER. 24. Their shares, due to them on account of the danger to which they had exposed themselves. In a just war, whatever is taken by the enemy, cannot be reclaimed by the original proprietor, if it be retaken. Grotius, iii. 6, de Jure.

CHAP. XV. VER. 1. Fear not. He might naturally be under some apprehensions, lest the four kings should attempt to be revenged upon him. H.

VER. 2. I shall go. To what purpose should I heap up riches, since I have no son to inherit them ? Abram knew that God had promised him a numerous posterity ; but he was not apprized how this was to be verified, and whether he was to adopt some other for his son and heir. Therefore, he asks modestly, how he ought to understand the promise.—And the son, &c. Heb. is differently rendered, "and the steward of my house, this Eliezer of Damascus." We know not whether Eliezer or Damascens be the proper name. C.

VER. 6. Reputed by God, who cannot judge wrong ; so that Abram increased in justice by this act of faith, believing that his wife, now advanced in years, would have a child ; from whom others should spring, more numerous than the stars of heaven. H.—This faith was accompanied and followed by many other acts of virtue. S. Jam. ii. 22. W.

VER. 8. Whereby, &c. Thus the blessed Virgin asked, how shall this be done ? Luke i. 34, without the smallest degree of unbelief. Abram wished to know by what signs he should be declared the lawful owner of the land. H.

VER. 9. Three years, when these animals have attained a perfect age.

VER. 12. A deep sleep, or ecstasy, like that of Adam, chap. ii. 21, wherein God revealed to him the oppression of his posterity in Egypt, which filled him with such horror (M.) as we experience when something frightful comes upon us suddenly in the dark. H.

VER. 13. Strangers, and under bondage, &c. This prediction may be dated from the persecution of Isaac by Ismael, A. 2112, till the Jews left Egypt, 2513 hand that thy seed shall be a stranger in a land not their own, and they shall bring them under bondage, and afflict them four hundred years.

14 But I will judge the nation which they shall serve, and after this they shall come out with great substance.

15 And thou shalt go to thy fathers in peace, and be buried in a good old age.

16 But in the fourth generation they shall return hither: for as yet the iniquities of the Amorrites are not at the full until this present time.

17 And when the sun was set, there arose a dark mist, and there appeared a smoking furnace, and a lamp of fire passing between those divisions.

18 That day God made a covenant with Abram, saying: To thy seed will I give this land from the river of Egypt even to the great river Euphrates.

19 The Cineans, and Cenezites, the Cedmonites,

20 And the Hethites, and the Pherezites, the Raphaim also,

21 And the Amorrites, and the Chanaanites, and the Gergesites, and the Jebusites.

CHAP. XVI.

Abram marrieth Agar, who bringeth forth Ismael.

NOW Sarai, the wife of Abram, had brought forth no children: but having a handmaid, an Egyptian, named Agar,

2 She said to her husband: Behold, the Lord hath restrained me from bearing: go in unto my handmaid, it may be I may have children of her at least. And when he agreed to her request,

3 She took Agar the Egyptian her handmaid, ten years after they first dwelt in the land of Chanaan, and gave her to her husband to wife.

4 And he went in to her. But she perceiving that she was with child, despised her mistress.

5 And Sarai said to Abram: Thou dost unjustly with me: I gave my handmaid into thy bosom, and she perceiving herself to be with child, despiseth me. The Lord judge between me and thee.

* Supra, xii. 7, and xiii. 15; Infra, xxvi. 4; Deut. xxxiv. 4; 2 Par. ix. 26; 1 Kings iv. 20, and

In Exodus xii., and S. Paul, 430 years are mentioned; but they probably began when Abram went first into Egypt, 2084.

VER. 14. Judge and punish the Egyptians, overwhelming them in the Red Sea, &c. II.

VER. 16. Fourth, &c., after the 400 years are finished; during which period of time God was pleased to bear with those wicked nations. M.

VER. 17. A lamp, or symbol of the Divinity, passing, as Abram also did, between the divided beasts, to ratify the covenant. See Jer. xxxiv. 18.

VER. 18. Of Egypt, a branch of the Nile, not far from Pelusium. This was to be the southern limit, and the Euphrates the northern; the two other boundaries are given, Num. xxxiv. M.

VER. 19. Cineans, in Arabia, of which nation was Jethro. They were permitted to dwell in the tribe of Juda, and served the Hebrews.—Cenezites, who probably inhabited the mountains of Juda.—Cedmonites, or eastern people, as their name shows. C.—The eleven nations here mentioned were not all subdued; on account of the sins of the Hebrews. M.

CHAP. XVI. VER. 2. May have. Heb. "may be built up," a metaphorical expression: so God is said to have built up houses for the Egyptian midwives. Exod. i. 21. M.

VER. 3. Ten years after she was sixty-five; which shows that she might reasonably conclude she would now have no children herself; and as she knew God had promised Abram a son, she thought he might follow the custom of those times, and have him by a second wife. This is the first time we read of polygamy since the deluge; but it is not mentioned as any thing singular or unlawful. This was a matter in which God could dispense; but it was never left to the disposal of any man. Hence, when Luther and his associates ventured to dispense with the Landgrave of Hesse, to keep two wives at once, he required him to keep it a secret,

6 And Abram made answer, and said to her: Behold thy handmaid is in thy own hand, use her as it pleaseth thee. And when Sarai afflicted her, she ran away.

7 And the Angel of the Lord having found her, by a fountain of water in the wilderness, which is in the way to Sur in the desert,

8 He said to her: Agar, handmaid of Sarai, whence comest thou? and whither goest thou? And she answered: I flee from the face of Sarai, my mistress.

9 And the Angel of the Lord said to her: Return to thy mistress, and humble thyself under her hand.

10 And again he said: I will multiply thy seed exceedingly, and it shall not be numbered for multitude.

11 And again: Behold, said he, thou art with child, and thou shalt bring forth a son: and thou shalt call his name Ismael, because the Lord hath heard thy affliction.

12 He shall be a wild man: his hand will be against all men, and all men's hands against him: and he shall pitch his tents over against all his brethren.

13 And she called the name of the Lord that spoke unto her: Thou the God who hast seen me. For she said: Verily, here have I seen the hinder parts of him that seeth me.*

14 Therefore she called that well, the well of him that liveth and seeth me. The same is between Cades and Barad.

15 And Agar brought forth a son to Abram: who called his name Ismael.

16 Abram was fourscore and six years old, when Agar brought him forth Ismael.

CHAP. XVII.

The covenant of circumcision.

AND after he began to be ninety and nine years old, the Lord appeared to him: and said unto him: I am the almighty God: walk before me, and be perfect.

2 And I will make my covenant between me and thee, and I will multiply thee exceedingly.

3 Abram fell flat on his face.

4 And God said to him: I am, and my covenant is with thee, and thou shalt be a father of many nations.

3 Kings iv. 21.—b A. M. 2093, A. C. 1911.—c Exod. xxxiii. 20, and 23; Infra, xxiv. 62.

being ashamed of his own conduct. He still maintained it was a thing indifferent, even in the law of grace, though Christ has so expressly condemned it. See Præp. 62, 65.

The practice, so common of late in this country, of marrying again after a bill of divorce has been passed, is no less contrary to the Catholic doctrine, which allows only a separation of the parties from bed and board, in cases of adultery; but never of a second marriage, while both the parties are living. 1 Cor. vii. S. Aug. de Adul. Conj. i., de C. D. xvi. 25, 38, and other Fathers. II.—It was never lawful for one woman to have two husbands. W.—To wife. Plurality of wives, though contrary to the primitive institution of marriage, Gen. ii. 24, was by Divine dispensation allowed to the patriarchs; which allowance seems to have continued during the time of the law of Moses. But Christ our Lord reduced marriage to its primitive institution. S. Matt. xix.

VER. 9. Humble thyself. The Angel, in God's name, does not blame Sarai, but gives Agar to understand that the fault was wholly on her side. H.

VER. 11. Ismael, means: "God hath heard" the groans and distress of Agar. C.

VER. 12. Wild. Heb. like a wild ass, not to be tamed or subdued. The Saracens, or Arabs, have almost all along maintained their independence.—Over against, ready to fight, without any dread of any one. C.

VER. 13. Thou the God. She had imagined before that she was talking to some man; but perceiving, at parting, that it was some superior being, she invoked him thus. C.

VER. 15. Agar being returned home, and having obtained pardon.—Ismael as the angel had foretold. H.

CHAP. XVII. VER. 1. Walk, &c., by assiduous meditation and advancement in virtue. This apparition was to inform Abram, that the promised seed should be born of Sarai. H.

VER. 4. I am unchangeable, and faithful to my promises, the only God D

DEPARTURE FROM EGYPT.

"THE LORD DID BRING THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL OUT OF THE LAND OF EGYPT."
Ex. xii. 51.

5 Neither shall thy name be called any more Abram : but thou shalt be called Abraham : because I have made thee a father of many nations.

6 And I will make thee increase exceedingly, and I will make nations of thee, and kings shall come out of thee.

7 And I will establish my covenant between me and thee, and between thy seed after thee in their generations, by a perpetual covenant : to be a God to thee, and to thy seed after thee.

8 And I will give to thee, and to thy seed, the land of thy sojournment, all the land of Chanaan, for a perpetual possession, and I will be their God.

9 Again God said to Abraham : ^aAnd thou therefore shalt keep my covenant, and thy seed after thee in their generations.

10 This is my covenant, which you shall observe between me and you, and thy seed after thee : All the male-kind of you shall be circumcised.

11 And you shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskin, that it may be for a ^bsign of the covenant between me and you.

12 An infant of eight days old shall be circumcised among you, every man-child in your generations : he that is born in the house, as well as the bought servant, shall be circumcised, and whosoever is not of your stock :

13 And my covenant shall be in your flesh for a perpetual covenant.

14 The male whose flesh of his foreskin shall not be circumcised, that soul shall be destroyed out of his people : because he hath broken my covenant.

15 God said also to Abraham : Sarai thy wife thou shalt not call Sarai, but Sara.

16 And I will bless her, and of her I will give thee a son, whom I will bless, and he shall become nations, and kings of people shall spring from him.

17 Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed, saying in his heart : Shall a son, thinkest thou, be born to him that is a hundred years old ? and shall Sara that is ninety years old bring forth ?

^a Acts vii. 8.—^b Rom. iv. 11 ; Lev. xii. 3 ; Luke ii. 21.

—Nations. Jews, Saracens or Arabs, Idumeans, and, by faith, of all nations who shall believe in Christ, the King of kings. C.

VER. 5. Abraham. Abraham, in the Hebrew, signifies a high father ; but Abraham, the father of the multitude : Sarai signifies my Lady, but Sara absolutely Lady. Ch.—God thus receives them, as it were, into his own family. C.

VER. 7. Perpetual, that shall last as long as they remain obedient. M. ver. 9.

VER. 11. You shall, either by yourselves, or by the ministry of others, with respect to infants.—A sign that Abraham had agreed to the covenant with God, and to be a memorial of his faith and justice, Rom. iv. 2 ; to distinguish also the faithful from infidels ; to purge away original sin in male children, eight days old ; and to be a figure of baptism. M. T.—God always appoints some sign of his covenants, as Jesus Christ instituted the holy sacrament of his body and blood, under exterior appearances, to assure us of his new alliance with Christians. C.—The sacraments of the old law caused grace, only by means of faith in the Redeemer, of which they were signs. S. Aug. de Nupt. ii. c. ult. In this sense, the holy Fathers assert that circumcision remitted original sin to those who could receive it ; though some think it was only a bare sign or distinctive mark of the Jews. C.—It is far beneath our baptism, which is more easy, general, and efficacious ; as the Christian sacraments are not like those of Moses, weak and needy elements. Gal. iv. 9. S. Aug. ep. 158, ad Jan. Psal. 73, &c. W.

VER. 12. Days. This might be deferred for a just reason, as it was in the desert. Jos. v. 6. M.—Of your stock, and, being arrived at years of discretion, is desirous of enjoying your privileges. C.

VER. 14. Destroyed, &c., lose the privileges of the Hebrews, or be put to death, when he grows up and does not supply this defect. S. Aug. reading “on the eighth day,” concluded that, as a child of that age could not, with reason, be put 18 And he said to God : O that Ismael may live before thee.

19 And God said to Abraham : ^cSara thy wife shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name Isaac, and I will establish my covenant with him for a perpetual covenant, and with his seed after him.

20 And as for Ismael I have also heard thee. Behold, I will bless him, and increase, and multiply him exceedingly : he shall beget twelve chiefs, and I will make him a great nation.

21 But my covenant I will establish with Isaac, whom Sara shall bring forth to thee at this time in the next year.

22 And when he had left off speaking with him, God went up from Abraham.

23 And Abraham took Ismael his son, and all that were born in his house : and all whom he had bought, every male among the men of his house : and he circumcised the flesh of their foreskin forthwith the very same day, as God had commanded him.

24 Abraham was ninety and nine years old, when he circumcised the flesh of his foreskin.

25 And Ismael his son was full thirteen years old at the time of his circumcision.

26 The self same day was Abraham circumcised and Ismael his son.

27 And all the men of his house, as well they that were born in his house, as the bought servants and strangers, were circumcised with him.

CHAP. XVIII.

Angels are entertained by Abraham. They foretell the birth of Isaac. Abraham's prayer for the men of Sodom.

AND the Lord appeared to him^d in the vale of Mam-bre, as he was sitting at the door of his tent, in the very heat of the day.

2 And when he had lifted up his eyes, there appeared to him three men standing near to him : and as soon as he saw them, he ran to meet them from the door of his tent, and adored down to the ground.

3 And he said : Lord, if I have found favour in thy sight, pass not away from thy servant.

^c Infra, xviii. 10, and xxi. 2.—^d A. M. 2107, A. C. 1897. Heb. xiii. 2.

to death for an offence in which he could have no share, the destruction here threatened is that of the soul, for transgressing, in Adam, the original covenant, and dying in that state unclean, must be excluded from heaven, as people are now who die unbaptized. This difficult passage may, however, be explained as if the threat regarded the negligent parents. W.

VER. 15. Sara, princess of all the nations of the faithful, not simply of one family. M.

VER. 16. Bless, and enable her to have a son, who shall also have many children.—Whom. This is referred to Sara, in Heb. and Chal. ; but to Isaac, in the Syriac. The blessing, at any rate, reverts to the mother ; who was a figure of the blessed Virgin, and of the Church ; both persecuted with their children ; both, in the end, triumphant. Gal. iv. 23. C.

VER. 17. Laughed for joy and admiration at such unexpected news. “He rejoiced,” says the Chal. : the faith of Abraham is never called in question. Rom. iv. 19.

VER. 18. Before thee, under thy protection, and in a virtuous manner. M.

VER. 19. Isaac, “laughter,” alluding to the exultation of Abraham, more than to the laughter of Sara, which deserved some reprehension. Chap. xxi. 6.

VER. 20. Nation of Arabs, who are still divided into twelve tribes. See chap. xxv. 13. C.

CHAP. XVIII. VER. 1. Sitting, &c., that he might lose no opportunity of exercising hospitality.

VER. 2. Men in outward appearance, but angels indeed. Heb. xiii. 2. S. Aug. de C. D. xvi. c. 29. Some have supposed that one of them was the Son of God, whom Abraham adored, and who bears throughout the chief authority. Tres vidit et unum adoravit, He saw three and adored one, as we read in the Church office. H.

4 But I will fetch a little water, and wash ye your feet, and rest ye under the tree.

5 And I will set a morsel of bread, and strengthen ye your heart, afterwards you shall pass on: for therefore are you come aside to your servant. And they said: Do as thou hast spoken.

6 Abraham made haste into the tent to Sara, and said to her: Make haste, temper together three measures of flour, and make cakes upon the hearth.

7 And he himself ran to the herd, and took from thence a calf, very tender and very good, and gave it to a young man, who made haste and boiled it.

8 He took also butter and milk, and the calf which he had boiled, and set before them: but he stood by them under the tree.

9 And when they had eaten, they said to him: Where is Sara thy wife? He answered: Lo she is in the tent.

10 And he said to him: *I will return and come to thee at this time, life accompanying, and Sara, thy wife, shall have a son. Which when Sara heard, she laughed behind the door of the tent.

11 Now they were both old, and far advanced in years, and it had ceased to be with Sara after the manner of women.

12 And she laughed secretly, saying: After I am grown old, and my lord is an old man, shall I give myself to pleasure?

13 And the Lord said to Abraham: Why did Sara laugh, saying: Shall I, who am an old woman, bear a child indeed?

14 Is there any thing hard to God? according to appointment I will return to thee at this same time, life accompanying, and Sara shall have a son.

15 Sara denied, saying: I did not laugh: for she was afraid. But the Lord said: Nay; but thou didst laugh.

16 And when the men rose up from thence, they turned their eyes toward Sodom: and Abraham walked with them, bringing them on the way.

17 And the Lord said: Can I hide from Abraham what I am about to do:

18 *Seeing he shall become a great and mighty nation, and in him all the nations of the earth shall be blessed?

19 For I know that he will command his children, and his household after him, to keep the way of the Lord, and do judgment and justice: that for Abraham's sake, the Lord may bring to effect all the things he hath spoken unto him.

20 And the Lord said: The cry of Sodom and Go-morrha is multiplied, and their sin is become exceedingly grievous.

21 I will go down and see whet. er they have done according to the cry that is come to me; or whether it be not so, that I may know.

22 And they turned themselves from thence, and went their way to Sodom: but Abraham as yet stood before the Lord.

23 And drawing nigh, he said: Wilt thou destroy the just with the wicked?

24 If there be fifty just men in the city, shall they perish withal? and wilt thou not spare that place for the sake of the fifty just, if they be therein?

25 Far be it from thee to do this thing, and to slay the just with the wicked, and for the just to be in like case as the wicked; this is not beseeching thee: thou who judgest all the earth, wilt not make this judgment.

26 And the Lord said to him: If I find in Sodom fifty just within the city, I will spare the whole place for their sake.

27 And Abraham answered, and said: Seeing I have once begun, I will speak to my Lord, whereas I am dust and ashes.

28 What if there be five less than fifty just persons? Wilt thou for five and forty destroy the whole city? And he said: I will not destroy it, if I find five and forty.

29 And again he said to him: But if forty be found there, what wilt thou do? He said: I will not destroy it for the sake of forty.

30 Lord, saith he, be not angry, I beseech thee, if I speak: What if thirty shall be found there? He answered: I will not do it, if I find thirty there.

31 Seeing, saith he, I have once begun, I will speak to my Lord: What if twenty be found there? He said: I will not destroy it for the sake of twenty.

32 I beseech thee, saith he, be not angry, Lord, if I speak yet once more: What if ten shall be found there? And he said: I will not destroy it for the sake of ten.

33 And the Lord departed, after he had left speaking to Abraham: and Abraham returned to his place.

CHAP. XIX.

Lot entertaining angels in his house: is delivered from Sodom, which is destroyed: his wife, for looking back, is turned into a statue of salt.

AND the two angels came to Sodom in the evening,* and Lot was sitting in the gate of the city. And seeing them, he rose up and went to meet them: and worshipped prostrate to the ground.

* Supra, xii. 3; Infra, xxii. 18.—d A. M. 2107, A. C. 1897. Heb. xlii. 2.

VER. 4. Wash ye, or let your feet be washed by me, or by my servants, lavenetur. M.

VER. 5. Therefore Providence has directed you hither. Abraham promises but little, and gives much, in the true spirit of generous hospitality. C.

VER. 6. Measures, or one epha; that is, three pecks and three pints, English corn measure.—Flour, of the finest quality, simile.—Hearth, as being soonest ready.

VER. 10. Time, or season of the year ensuing, if I be alive; which he says after the manner of men, as he had assumed also the human form. H.

VER. 12. Laughed, as if the promise were incredible.—My lord, or husband, which title of respect, S. Peter, 1 Ep. chap. iii. 6, commends. D.

VER. 14. Hard. So Gabriel says to the blessed Virgin: there is nothing impossible to God.

VER. 15. Afraid; which does not entirely clear her of sin: for though she might innocently laugh, if she thought the person who spoke was only a man, yet she ought not to have told an untruth; and if she reflected, that he had disclosed what she supposed no one knew, and thereby manifested his superiority over man, her denial was still more inexcusable. H.

VER. 21. I will go down, &c. The Lord here accommodates his discourse to the way of speaking and acting amongst men: for he knoweth all things, and needeth not to go any where for information.—Note here, that two of the three angels went away immediately for Sodom; whilst the third, who represented the Lord, remained with Abraham.

VER. 25. With the wicked. God frequently suffers the just to be here the most afflicted; designing to reward them abundantly hereafter. But this was not so common in the days of Abraham and Job. C.

CHAP. XIX. VER. 1. Ground. Thus showing himself a true relation and imitator of Abraham.

2 And said: I beseech you, my lords, turn in to the house of your servant, and lodge there: wash your feet, and in the morning you shall go on your way. And they said: No, but we will abide in the street.

3 He pressed them very much to turn in unto him: and when they were come into his house, he made them a feast, and baked unleavened bread, and they ate:

4 But before they went to bed, the men of the city beset the house, both young and old, all the people together.

5 And they called Lot, and said to him: Where are the men that came in to thee at night? bring them out hither, that we may know them:

6 Lot went out to them, and shut the door after him, and said:

7 Do not so, I beseech you, my brethren, do not commit this evil.

8 I have two daughters who, as yet, have not known man; I will bring them out to you, and abuse you them as it shall please you, so that ye do no evil to these men, because they are come in under the shadow of my roof.

9 But they said: Get thee back thither. And again: Thou camest in, said they, as a stranger, was it to be a judge? therefore we will afflict thee more than them. And they pressed very violently upon Lot: and they were even at the point of breaking open the doors.

10 And behold the men put out their hand, and drew in Lot unto them, and shut the door.

11 And them, that were without, they struck with blindness from the least to the greatest, so that they could not find the door.

12 And they said to Lot: Hast thou here any of thine? son-in-law, or sons, or daughters, all that are thine bring them out of this city:

13 For we will destroy this place, because their cry is grown loud before the Lord, who hath sent us to destroy them.

14 So Lot went out, and spoke to his sons-in-law that were to have his daughters, and said: Arise: get you out of this place, because the Lord will destroy this city. And he seemed to them to speak as it were in jest.

15 And when it was morning the angels pressed him, saying: Arise, take thy wife, and the two daughters that thou hast: lest thou also perish in the wickedness of the city.

16 And as he lingered, they took his hand, and the hand of his wife, and of his two daughters, because the Lord spared him.

17 And they brought him forth, and set him without the city: and there they spoke to him, saying: Save thy life: look not back, neither stay thou in all the country about: but save thyself in the mountain, lest thou be also consumed.

18 And Lot said to them: I beseech thee, my Lord, Because thy servant hath found grace before thee, and thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast shown to me, in saving my life, and I cannot escape to the mountain, lest some evil seize me, and I die.

20 There is this city here at hand, to which I may flee, it is a little one, and I shall be saved in it: is it not a little one, and my soul shall live?

21 And he said to him: Behold also in this, I have heard thy prayers, not to destroy the city for which thou hast spoken.

22 Make haste, and be saved there: because I cannot do any thing till thou go in thither. Therefore the name of that city was called Segor.

23 The sun was risen upon the earth, and Lot entered into Segor.

24 And the Lord rained upon Sodom and Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven.

25 And he destroyed these cities, and all the country about, all the inhabitants of the cities, and all things that spring from the earth.

26 And his wife looking behind her, was turned into a statue of salt.

27 And Abraham got up early in the morning, and in the place where he had stood before with the Lord, 28 He looked towards Sodom and Gomorrah, and the whole land of that country: and he saw the ashes rise up from the earth as the smoke of a furnace.

29 Now when God destroyed the cities of that country.

a 2 Pet. ii. 8.—b Wis. xix. 16; 2 Kings vi. 18.—c Wis. x. 6.—d Wis. x. 6.
e Deut. xxix. 23; Isa. xlii. 19:

Jer. l. 40; Ezech. xvi. 49; Osee xl. 8, Amos iv. 11; Luke xvii. 29; Jude i. 7.
f Luke xvii. 32.—g Supra, xviii. 1.

VER. 2. My lords. He took them to be men.—No. They refuse at first, that he may have the merit of pressing them to accept the invitation. H.

VER. 4. Together. The whole city was corrupt; even the children were caught iniquity, as soon as they came to the years of discretion. M.

VER. 7. This evil, so contrary to the rights of hospitality, and the law of nature.

VER. 8. Abuse. Lot tries by every means to divert them from their purpose. He endeavours to gain time, hoping perhaps that his guests would escape by some back way, while he is talking to the people. H.

VER. 9. Thither; from whence thou camest, or into the house. Dost thou pretend to tell us what is wrong? We will treat thee more shamefully. M.—While they are beginning to offer violence.

VER. 10. Behold, &c., the angels not only secure Lot, but strike the whole people with blindness, so that they could neither find Lot's door nor their own homes. Indeed, if they had been able to get back into their own houses, it would have been but a small consolation to them; since in a few minutes the whole city was buried in sulphur and flame. Wisd. xix. 16.

VER. 14. Sons-in-law. Perhaps they also were among the crowd, (ver. 4,) and therefore deserved to be abandoned to their incredulity; though, if they would have consented to follow Lot, the angels would have saved them for his sake.

VER. 16. He lingered, entreating the Lord to save the city; and loth, perhaps, to lose all his property, for the sake of which he had chosen that abode.—Spared him, and his wife and two daughters, for his sake. H.

VER. 17. Look not back. Flee with all expedition; let no marks of pity for the wretched Sodomites, nor of sorrow for the loss of your property, be seen.

VER. 18. My Lord, addressing himself to the angel, who led him and his wife. M.

VER. 22. Segor. That is, a little one. Ch.—In allusion to Lot's words, ver. 20. As it was small, fewer sinners would of course be contained in it. M.

VER. 23. Risen. It was morning when he left Sodom, (ver. 15,) so this city must not have been very distant. It was before called Bala, or swallowed up, and afterwards Salissa. Theodoret supposes it was destroyed as soon as Lot had left it; and it seems Lot's daughters thought so, since they concluded all men, except their father, had perished.

VER. 24. The Lord rained . . . from the Lord, in a miraculous manner. Sodom and the other cities did not perish by earthquakes and other natural causes only, but by the Divine wrath exerting itself in a visible manner. Here is an insinuation of a plurality of persons in God, as the C. of Sirmich declares, cap. 14.—Sodom and Gomorrah, and the other towns which were not so large, nor perhaps so infamous. M.

VER. 26. And his wife. As a standing memorial to the servants of God to proceed in virtue, and not to look back to vice or its allurements. Ch.—His wife. The last two verses might be within a parenthesis.—Remember Lot's wife, our Saviour admonishes us. Having begun a good work, let us not leave it imperfect, and lose our reward. Luke xvii.; Matt. xxiv.—A statue of durable metallic salt, petrified, as it were, to be an eternal monument of an incredulous soul. Wisd. x. 7. Some say it still exists. H.—God may have inflicted this temporal punishment on her, and saved her soul. M.

VER. 29. Lot. Even he owed his safety to the merits of Abraham.

remembering Abraham, he delivered Lot out of the destruction of the cities wherein he had dwelt.

30 And Lot went up out of Segor, and abode in the mountain, and his two daughters with him, (for he was afraid to stay in Segor,) and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters with him.

31 And the elder said to the younger: Our father is old, and there is no man left on the earth, to come in unto us after the manner of the whole earth.

32 Come, let us make him drunk with wine, and let us lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our father.

33 And they made their father drink wine that night: and the elder went in, and lay with her father: but he perceived not, neither when his daughter lay down, nor when she rose up.

34 And the next day the elder said to the younger: Behold I lay last night with my father, let us make him drink wine also to-night, and thou shalt lie with him, that we may save seed of our father.

35 They made their father drink wine that night also, and the younger daughter went in, and lay with him: and neither then did he perceive when she lay down, nor when she rose up.

36 So the two daughters of Lot were with child by their father.

37 And the elder bore a son, and she called his name Moab: he is the father of the Moabites unto this day.

38 The younger also bore a son, and she called his name Ammon; that is, the son of my people: he is the father of the Ammonites unto this day.

CHAP. XX.

Abraham sojourneth in Gerara: Sara is taken into king Abimelech's house, but, by God's commandment, is restored untouched.

A BRAHAM removed from thence ^ato the south country, and dwelt between Cades and Sur, and sojourned in Gerara.

2 And he said of Sara his wife: She is my sister. So Abimelech the king of Gerara sent, and took her.

3 And God came ^u Abimelech in a dream by night, and he said to him: Lo thou shalt die for the woman that thou hast taken: for she hath a husband.

^a A. M. 2107.—^b Supra, xii. 13, and xi. 29.

VER. 35. Rose up; being oppressed with grief and wine, which would not excuse him from sin, particularly this second time. M.

CHAP. XX. VER. 1. Gerara; at a greater distance from the devoted country of Sodom. H.

VER. 2. He said to the king, and to all others who made inquiry, as it was his custom, whenever he came into a strange land, ver. 13. He was encouraged to do this, by the protection which God had shown him in Egypt.—Took her, against her will, as Pharaoh had done. H.—Though she was ninety years old, and with child, her beauty was still extraordinary, the Rabbin think miraculous. At that time people lived above 120 years; so that at the age of ninety she would only be about as near the end of her life as our women are at forty. C.

VER. 3. Abimelech. This was a usual title of kings in Chanaan, and a very good one, to remind them and their subjects of their obligations, (H.) as it means "my father the king." The behaviour of this prince shows, that as yet all sense of duty and knowledge of the true God was not banished from the country. C.—Shalt die, unless thou restore the woman, whom thou hast taken by force; on whose account I have already afflicted thee, ver. 7, 17. H.

VER. 6. Sincere heart, abhorring adultery, but not altogether innocent. M.

VER. 7. A prophet. One under my particular care, to whom I reveal many things.—He shall pray for thee. Behold, God will sometimes grant, at the request of his saints, what he would deny even such as Abimelech or the friends of Job. Is not this sufficient encouragement for us to have recourse to the intercession of the saints? And can any one be so foolish as to pretend this is making gods of them, and showing them an idolatrous worship? H.

4 Now Abimelech had not touched her, and he said Lord, wilt thou slay a nation that is ignorant and just?

5 Did not he say to me: She is my sister: and she say, He is my brother? in the simplicity of my heart, and cleanness of my hands have I done this.

6 And God said to him: And I know that thou didst it with a sincere heart: and therefore I withheld thee from sinning against me, and I suffered thee not to touch her.

7 Now therefore restore the man his wife, for he is a prophet: and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live: but if thou wilt not restore her, know that thou shalt surely die, thou and all that are thine.

8 And Abimelech forthwith rising up in the night, called all his servants: and spoke all these words in their hearing, and all the men were exceedingly afraid.

9 And Abimelech called also for Abraham, and said to him: What hast thou done to us? what have we offended thee in, that thou hast brought upon me and upon my kingdom a great sin? thou hast done to us what thou oughtest not to do.

10 And again he expostulated with him, and said: What sawest thou, that thou hast done this?

11 Abraham answered: I thought with myself, saying: Perhaps there is not the fear of God in this place: and they will kill me for the sake of my wife:

12 Howbeit, otherwise also she is truly my sister,^b the daughter of my father, and not the daughter of my mother, and I took her to wife.

13 And after God brought me out of my father's house, I said to her: "Thou shalt do me this kindness: In every place, to which we shall come, thou shalt say that I am thy brother.

14 And Abimelech took sheep and oxen, and servants and handmaids, and gave to Abraham: and restored to him Sara his wife, 15 And said: The land is before you, dwell wheresoever it shall please thee.

16 And to Sara he said: Behold I have given thy brother a thousand pieces of silver, this shall serve thee for a covering of thy eyes to all that are with thee, and whithersoever thou shalt go: and remember thou wast taken.

^c Infra, xxi. 23.

VER. 8. In the night, (de nocte), or "as soon as it began to dawn." Sept.

VER. 9. Why, &c. He expostulates with him in a friendly but earnest manner.—A great sin, or punishment, (M.) ver. 18, and exposed me to the danger of committing adultery. Abraham might have answered, this would have been his own fault, as he could not have done it without offering violence to Sara, in whose chastity he could confide.

VER. 12. My sister, or niece, according to those who say she was daughter of Aran, who thus must have had a different mother from Abraham; (M.) or, as we rather think, Sara was truly his half-sister, born of Thare by another wife. His adding truly, seems to restrain it to this sense; and we know that in those countries marriages of such near relations were allowed, though not when both had the same parents. Said, who lived eight hundred years ago, mentions the name of Jona, Abraham's mother, as well as that of Tehevit, who bore Sara to Thare. The Hebrews, in general, give this explanation. C.—By calling Sara his sister without any addition, Abraham intended that the people should conclude he was not married; therefore he did not say she was his half-sister, as this would have frustrated his design, if, as S. Clem. Alex. asserts, such might and did marry under the law of nature. H.

VER. 14. Gave, by way of satisfaction, for having detained his wife; as also to show his respect for him who was a prophet. 1 Kings ix. 7. II.

VER. 16. Thy brother, as thou hast agreed to call thy husband.—Pieces of silver, worth a little above 2s. 3d. each; total, £113 sterling.—A covering, or veil, to show thou art married, and prevent thee from being taken by any one hereafter. C.

17 And when Abraham prayed, God healed Abimelech and his wife, and his handmaids, and they bore children :

18 For the Lord had closed up every womb of the house of Abimelech on account of Sara, Abraham's wife.

CHAP. XXI.

Isaac is born. Agar and Ismael are cast forth.

AND the Lord visited* Sara, as he had promised: and fulfilled what he had spoken.

2 ^bAnd she conceived and bore a son in her old age, at the time that God had foretold her.

3 And Abraham called the name of his son, whom Sara bore him, Isaac.^c

4 And he circumcised him the eighth day,^d as God had commanded him,

5 When he was a hundred years old: for at the age of his father, was Isaac born.

6 And Sara said: God hath made a laughter for me: whosoever shall hear of it will laugh with me.

7 And again she said: Who would believe that Abraham should hear that Sara gave suck to a son, whom she bore to him in his old age?

8 And the child grew, and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feast on the day of his weaning.

9 And when Sara had seen the son of Agar, the Egyptian, playing with Isaac, her son, she said to Abraham.

10 Cast out this bond-woman and her son; for the son of the bond-woman shall not be heir with my son Isaac.

11 Abraham took this grievously for his son.

12 And God said to him: Let it not seem grievous to thee for the boy, and for thy bond-woman: in all that Sara hath said to thee, hearken to her voice: ^efor in Isaac shall thy seed be called.

13 But I will make the son also of the bond-woman a great nation, because he is thy seed.

14 So Abraham rose up in the morning, and taking bread and a bottle of water, put it upon her shoulder, and delivered the boy, and sent her away.^f And she departed, and wandered in the wilderness of Bersabee.

15 And when the water in the bottle was spent, she cast the boy under one of the trees that were there.

16 And she went her way, and sat over against him a great way off, as far as a bow can carry, for she said: I will not see the boy die: and sitting over against, she lifted up her voice and wept.

17 And God heard the voice of the boy: and an angel of God called to Agar from heaven, saying: What art thou doing, Agar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the boy, from the place wherein he is 18 Arise, take up the boy, and hold him by the hand, for I will make him a great nation.

19 And God opened her eyes: and she saw a well of water, and went and filled the bottle, and gave the boy to drink.

20 And God was with him: and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderness, and became a young man, an archer.

21 And he dwelt in the wilderness of Pharan, and his mother took a wife for him out of the land of Egypt.

22 At the same time Abimelech, and Phicol the general of his army, said to Abraham: God is with thee in all that thou dost.

23 Swear therefore by God, that thou wilt not hurt me, nor my posterity, nor my stock: but according to the kindness ^gthat I have done to thee, thou shalt do to me, and to the land wherein thou hast lived a stranger.

24 And Abraham said: I will swear.

25 And he reproved Abimelech for a well of water which his servants had taken away by force.

26 And Abimelech answered: I knew not who did this thing: and thou didst not tell me, and I heard not of it till to-day.

27 Then Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave them to Abimelech: and both of them made a league.

28 And Abraham set apart seven ewe-lambs of the flock.

29 And Abimelech said to him: What mean these seven ewe-lambs which thou hast set apart?

30 But he said: Thou shalt take seven ewe-lambs at my hand: that they may be a testimony for me, that I dug this well.

31 Therefore that place was called Bersabee; because there both of them did swear.

32 And they made a league for the well of oath.

33 And Abimelech and Phicol, the general of his army, arose and returned to the land of the Palestines. But

* Supra, xvii. 19, and xviii. 10.—^b Gal. iv. 23; Heb. xi. 11.—^c A. M. 2108, A. C. 1896.

^d Supra, xvii. 10; Matt. i. 2.—^e Rom. ix. 7; Heb. xi. 18.—^f A. M. 2113, A. C. 1891.
^g Supra, xx. 13.

CHAP. XXI. VER. 9. Isaac. This word signifies laughter; (Ch.) or "he shall laugh," and be the occasion of joy to many, as St. John was, Luke i. 14; and thus Sara seems to explain it, ver. 6.

VER. 7. Gave suck; a certain proof that the child was born of her. M.—His old age, when both the parents were far advanced in years, ver. 2. The mother being ninety at this time, would render the event most surprising. H.

VER. 8. Weaned. S. Jerom says when he was five years old, though some said twelve. The age of men being prolonged, their infancy continued longer. C.

VER. 9. Playing, or persecuting, as St. Paul explains it, Gal. iv. 29. The play tended to pervert the morals of the young Isaac. M.—Ismael was 13 years older than Isaac; and took occasion, perhaps, from the feast, and other signs of preference given by his parents to the latter, to hate and persecute him, which Sara soon perceiving, was forced to have recourse to the expedient apparently so harsh, of driving Ismael and his mother from the house, that they might have an establishment of their own, and not disturb Isaac in the inheritance after the death of Abraham. H.—In this she was guided by a Divine light; (M.) and not by any female antipathy, ver. 12.—With Isaac her son. Heb. has simply mocking, without mentioning what. But the sequel shows the true meaning; and this addition was found in some Bibles in the days of S. Jerom, as he testifies, and is expressed in the Sept. H.—Ismael was a figure of the synagogue, which persecuted the Church of Christ in her birth. D.

VER. 11. For his son. He does not express any concern for Agar. But we cannot doubt but he would feel to part with her also. It was prudent to let both go together: and the mother had perhaps encouraged Ismael, at least by neglecting to punish or to watch over him, and so deserved to share in his affliction.

VER. 14. Bread and water. This seems a very slender allowance to be given by a man of Abraham's riches. But he might intend her to go only into the neighbourhood, where he would take care to provide for her. H.—This divorce of Agar, and ejection of Ismael, prefigured the reprobation of the Jews.

VER. 17. Of the boy, who was 17 years old, and wept at the approach of death. H.

VER. 20. Wilderness, in Arabia Petrea.—An archer, living on plunder. C.

VER. 22. Abimelech, king of Gerara, who knew that Abraham was a prophet, and a favourite of God. Chap. xx. 7. H.

VER. 23. Hurt me. Heb. "lie unto me," or revolt and disturb the peace of my people.

VER. 27. Gave them; thus rendering good for evil. D.

VER. 31. Bersabee. That is, the well of oath; (Ch.) or "the well of the seven;" meaning the seven ewe-lambs set apart. M.—This precaution of Abraham, in giving seven lambs as a testimony that the well was dug by him, was not without reason. See chap. xxvi. 15. C.

VER. 33. A grove: in the midst of which was an altar, dedicated to the Lord God eternal; to testify that he alone was incapable of change. The ancient saints Abraham, Isaac, Josue, &c., were pleased to show their respect for God, and their love of retirement, by planting groves, and consecrating altars to the supreme Deity. H.

Abraham planted a grove in Bersabee, and there called upon the name of the Lord God eternal.

34 And he was a sojourner in the land of the Palestines many days.

CHAP. XXII.

The faith and obedience of Abraham is proved, in his readiness to sacrifice his son Isaac. He is stayed from the act by an angel. Former promises are renewed to him. His brother Nachor's issue.

AFTER these things, "God tempted Abraham,"^a and said to him: Abraham, Abraham. And he answered: Here I am

2 He said to him: Take thy only begotten son Isaac, whom thou lovest, and go into the land of vision; and there thou shalt offer him for an holocaust, upon one of the mountains which I will show thee.

3 So Abraham rising up in the night, saddled his ass, and took with him two young men, and Isaac his son: and when he had cut wood for the holocaust, he went his way to the place which God had commanded him.

4 And on the third day, lifting up his eyes, he saw the place afar off.

5 And he said to his young men: Stay you here with the ass; I and the boy will go with speed as far as yonder, and after we have worshipped, will return to you.

6 And he took the wood for the holocaust, and laid it upon Isaac his son; and he himself carried in his hands fire and a sword. And as they two went on together,

7 Isaac said to his father: My father. And he answered: What wilt thou, son? Behold, saith he, fire and wood: where is the victim for the holocaust?

8 And Abraham said: God will provide himself a victim for an holocaust, my son. So they went on together.

9 And they came to the place which God had shown him, where he built an altar, and laid the wood in order upon it; and when he had bound Isaac his son, he laid him on the altar upon the pile of wood.

10 "And he put forth his hand, and took the sword, to sacrifice his son.

11 And behold, an angel of the Lord from heaven called to him, saying: Abraham, Abraham. And he answered: Here I am.

^a Judith viii. 22; Heb. xi. 17.—^b A. M. 2135, A. C. 1869.—^c James ii. 21.—^d Psal. civ. 9; Eccli. xlv. 21; 1 Macab. ii. 52;

12 And he said to him: Lay not thy hand upon the boy, neither do thou any thing to him: now I know that thou fearest God, and hast not spared thy only begotten son for my sake.

13 Abraham lifted up his eyes, and saw behind his back a ram, amongst the briers, sticking fast by the horns, which he took and offered for an holocaust instead of his son.

14 And he called the name of that place, The Lord seeth. Whereupon, even to this day, it is said: In the mountain the Lord will see.

15 And the angel of the Lord called to Abraham a second time from heaven; saying:

16 "By my own self have I sworn, saith the Lord: because thou hast done this thing, and hast not spared thy only begotten son for my sake:

17 I will bless thee, and I will multiply thy seed as the stars of heaven, and as the sand that is by the sea shore; thy seed shall possess the gates of their enemies.

18 "And in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed, because thou hast obeyed my voice.

19 Abraham returned to his young men, and they went to Bersabee together, and he dwelt there.

20 After these things, it was told Abraham, that Melcha also had borne children to Nachor his brother.

21 Hus, the first-born, and Buz, his brother, and Camuel the father of the Syrians,

22 And Cased, and Azau, and Pheldas, and Jedlaph,

23 And Bathuel, of whom was born Rebecca: these eight did Melcha bear to Nachor, Abraham's brother.

24 And his concubine, named Roma, bore Tabee, and Gaham, and Tahas, and Maacha.

CHAP. XXIII.

Sara's death, and burial in the field bought of Ephron.

AND Sara lived a hundred and twenty-seven years. 2 And she died in the city of Arbee which is Hebron, in the land of Chanaan: and Abraham came to mourn and weep for her.

3 And after he rose up from the funeral obsequies, he spoke to the children of Heth, saying:

4 I am a stranger and sojourner among you: give me

Luke i. 73; Heb. vi. 13, and 17.—^e Supra, xii. 3, and xviii. 18; Infra, xxvi. 4; Eccli. xlv. 25; Acts iii. 25.—^f A. M. 2145, A. C. 1859.

CHAP. XXII. VER. 1. God tempted, &c. God tempteth no man to evil, James i. 13. But by trial and experiment maketh known to the world and to ourselves what we are; as here by this trial the singular faith and obedience of Abraham was made manifest. Ch.

VER. 2. Thy only begotten, or thy most beloved, as if he had been an only child; in which sense the word is often taken, 1 Par. xxix. 1. Ismael was still living; but Isaac was the only son of Sara, the most dignified wife.—Locust. Heb. "hast loved" hitherto; now thou must consider him as dead.—Of vision. Sept. "high," being situated on Mount Moria, by which name it was afterwards distinguished, ver. 14. M.—Every word in this astonishing command, tended to cut Abraham to the heart; and hence we may the more admire the strength and disinterestedness of his faith. H.

VER. 3. In the night: de nocte, Heb. "very early in the morning."—His son, 25 years old, without perhaps saying a word to Sara about the intended sacrifice; though some believe he had too great an opinion of her faith and constancy not to reveal to her the order of God. C.

VER. 7. Holocaust. These were probably the only sacrifices yet in use. C.—The conversation of Isaac could not fail to pierce the heart of his father. M.

VER. 9. The place. Mount Moria, on part of which the Temple was built afterwards; and on another part, called Calvary, our Saviour was crucified, having carried his cross, as Isaac did the wood for sacrifice.—His son: having first explained to him the will of God, to which Isaac gave his free consent; otherwise, being in the vigour of his youth, he might easily have hindered his aged father, who was 125 years old, from binding him. But in this willingness to die as in many other particulars, he was a noble figure of J. C., who was offered because it was His will. H.

VER. 10. To sacrifice; a thing hitherto unprecedented, and which God would never suffer to be done in his honour, though he was pleased to try the obedience of his servant so far. C.

VER. 12. Hast not spared. Thus the intentions of the heart become worthy of praise, or of blame, even when no exterior effect is perceived. H.

VER. 13. He took; God having given him the dominion over it. C.

VER. 14. Will see. This became a proverbial expression, used by people in distress, who, remembering how Abraham had been relieved, endeavoured to comfort themselves with hopes of relief. Some translate, the Lord will be seen, which was verified when Christ was crucified. M.—Or, he will provide, alluding to what was said, ver. 8.

VER. 16. Own self; as he could not swear by any one greater. Heb. vi. 13 Jer. xxii. 5.

VER. 24. Concubine, or wife, secondary in privileges, love, and dignity. H.

CHAP. XXIII. VER. 1. Sara. She is the only woman whose age the Scripture specifies; a distinction which her exalted dignity and faith deserved. Gal. iv. 23; Heb. xi. 11. She was a figure of the Christian Church. C.

VER. 3. Obsequies, or solemn mourning, accompanied with prayer. Acts viii. 2; Matt. xii. The Jews are still accustomed to say, when they bury their dead, "Ye fathers, who sleep in Hebron, open to him the gates of Eden;" hence agreeing with the Catholic doctrine, as they did in the days of Judas the Machabean. H.

the right of a burying place with you, that I may bury my dead.

5 The children of Heth answered, saying :

6 My lord, hear us, thou art a prince of God among us : bury thy dead in our principal sepulchres : and no man shall have power to hinder thee from burying thy dead in his sepulchre.

7 Abraham rose up, and bowed down to the people of the land, to wit, the children of Heth :

8 And said to them : If it please your soul that I should bury my dead, hear me, and intercede for me to Ephron the son of Seor.

9 That he may give me the double cave, which he hath in the end of his field : for as much money as it is worth he shall give it me before you, for a possession of a burying place.

10 Now Ephron dwelt in the midst of the children of Heth. And Ephron made answer to Abraham in the hearing of all that went in at the gate of the city, saying :

11 Let it not be so, my lord, but do thou rather hearken to what I say : The field I deliver to thee, and the cave that is therein ; in the presence of the children of my people, bury thy dead.

12 Abraham bowed down before the people of the land.

13 And he spoke to Ephron, in the presence of the people : I beseech thee to hear me : I will give money for the field ; take it, and so will I bury my dead in it.

14 And Ephron answered :

15 My lord, hear me. The ground which thou desirest, is worth four hundred sicles of silver : this is the price between me and thee : but what is this ? bury thy dead.

16 And when Abraham had heard this, he weighed out the money that Ephron had asked, in the hearing of the children of Heth, four hundred sicles of silver, of common current money.

17 And the field that before was Ephron's, wherein was the double cave, looking towards Mambre, both it and the cave, and all the trees thereof, in all its limits round about, 18 Was made sure to Abraham for a possession, in the sight of the children of Heth, and of all that went in at the gate of his city.

19 And so Abraham buried Sara, his wife, in the double cave of the field, that looked towards Mambre, ^a this is Hebron in the land of Chanaan.

20 And the field was made sure to Abraham, and the

^a Infra, xxxv. 27.—b 140 years.—c A. M. 2148, A. C. 1856.

VER. 6. Prince of God, powerful and holy, and worthy of respect. H.—A great prince. See Acts vii. 5, where S. Stephen says, that God did not give Abraham a foot of land, meaning, as an inheritance ; and that Abraham bought this double cave, for a sepulchre, of the sons of Hemor, the son of Sichem ; (C.) from which latter he seems to derive the name of the place, which is here called Hebron. H.—Nothing is more common than for men and places to have two names ; though some think the name of Abraham has been inserted in the Acts by a mistake of the copyists, when Jacob was meant. See chap. xxxiii. 19. C.

VER. 7. Bowed down to the people. Adoravit, literally, adored. But this word here, as well as in many other places in the Latin Scriptures, is used to signify only an inferior honour and reverence paid to men, expressed by a bowing down of the body.

VER. 16. Sicles. About £50. H.—Current money, was such as passed among merchants, though probably not yet coined in any part of the world ; and therefore we find that Abraham and others weigh the pieces of silver or gold. C.

CHAP. XXIV. VER. 2. Servant. Eliezer, or Damascus, whom he had once treaded for his heir. Chap. xv. 2. H.

cave that was in it, for a possession to bury in. by the children of Heth.

CHAP. XXIV.

Abraham's servant sent by him into Mesopotamia ; bringeth from thence Rebecca, who is married to Isaac.

NOW Abraham was old, ^b and advanced in age ; and the Lord had blessed him in all things.

2 ^c And he said to the elder servant of his house, who was ruler over all he had : ^d Put thy hand under my thigh,

3 That I may make thee swear by the Lord, the God of heaven and earth, that thou take not a wife for my son, of the daughters of the Chanaanites, among whom I dwell :

4 But that thou go to my own country and kindred, and take a wife from thence for my son Isaac.

5 The servant answered : If the woman will not come with me into this land, must I bring thy son back again to the place from whence thou camest out ?

6 And Abraham said : Beware thou never bring my son back again thither.

7 The Lord God of heaven, who took me out of my father's house, and out of my native country, who spoke to me, and swore to me, saying : ^e To thy seed will I give this land : he will send his angel before thee, and thou shalt take from thence a wife for my son. ^f

8 But if the woman will not follow thee, thou shalt not be bound by the oath : only bring not my son back thither again.

9 The servant, therefore, put his hand under the thigh of Abraham, his lord, and swore to him upon this word.

10 And he took ten camels of his master's herd, and departed, carrying something of all his goods with him, and he set forward and went on to Mesopotamia, to the city of Nabor.

11 And when he had made the camels lie down without the town, near a well of water, in the evening, at the time when women are wont to come out to draw water, he said :

12 O Lord, the God of my master, Abraham, meet me to-day, I beseech thee, and show kindness to my master, Abraham.

13 Behold, I stand nigh the spring of water, and the daughters of the inhabitants of this city will come out to draw water :

14 Now, therefore, the maid to whom I shall say : Let down thy pitcher that I may drink : and she shall answer, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink also : let it be the same whom thou hast provided for thy ^d Infra, xlvii. 29.—^e Supra, xii. 7, and xiii. 15, and xv. 8.—^f Infra, xxvi. 2.

VER. 4. Country. Haran, where Abraham had dwelt with Thare, &c. There Nabor's family still resided, and had more respect for the true God than the Chanaanites, (H.) though they gave way to some sort of idolatry. M.—Hence Abraham was in hopes that a partner worthy of Isaac might be found among his relations, better than among those devoted nations ; and thus he has left an instruction to all parents, to be solicitous for the real welfare of their children ; and to dissuade them earnestly from marrying with infidels ; a thing which God forbade in the old law, as the Church still does in the new. H.

VER. 5. If the woman. Thus he shows his religious respect for an oath ; and will not depend on his own explanation of the sense of it. C.

VER. 7. He will send his angel before thee. This shows that the Hebrews believed that God gave them guardian angels for their protection. Ch.—Angel. A proof of the antiquity of our belief respecting angel guardians. C.

VER. 14. By this. He chose a mark which would manifest the kindness and humility of the maid, who would be a fit match for the pious Isaac. This was no vain observation. God heard his fervent prayer. S. Chrys. C.—It is sometimes lawful to ask a sign or miracle of God. Acts i. 24 ; iv. 30 ; 1 Kings xiv.

servant Isaac: and by this, I shall understand that thou hast shown kindness to my master.

15 He had not yet ended these words within himself, and behold Rebecca came out, the daughter of Bathuel, son of Melcha, wife to Nachor the brother of Abraham, having a pitcher on her shoulder:*

16 An exceeding comely maid, and a most beautiful virgin, and not known to man: and she went down to the spring, and filled her pitcher, and was coming back.

17 And the servant ran to meet her, and said: Give me a little water to drink of thy pitcher.

18 And she answered: Drink, my lord. And quickly she let down the pitcher upon her arm, and gave him drink.

19 And when he had drunk, she said: I will draw water for thy camels also, till they all drink.

20 And pouring out the pitcher into the troughs, she ran back to the well to draw water; and having drawn, she gave to all the camels.

21 But he musing, beheld her with silence, desirous to know whether the Lord had made his journey prosperous or not.

22 And after that the camels had drunk, the man took out golden ear-rings, weighing two sicles; and as many bracelets, of ten sicles weight.

23 And he said to her: Whose daughter art thou? tell me: is there any place in thy father's house to lodge?

24 And she answered: I am the daughter of Bathuel, the son of Melcha, whom she bore to Nachor.

25 And she said, moreover, to him: We have good store of both straw and hay, and a large place to lodge in.

26 The man bowed himself down, and adored the Lord,

27 Saying: Blessed be the Lord God of my master Abraham, who hath not taken away his mercy and truth from my master, and hath brought me the straight way into the house of my master's brother.

28 Then the maid ran, and told in her mother's house all that she had heard.

29 And Rebecca had a brother, named Laban, who went out in haste to the man, to the well.

30 And when he had seen the ear-rings and bracelets in his sister's hands, and had heard all that she related, saying, Thus and thus the man spoke to me: he came to the man who stood by the camels, and near to the spring of water, 31 And said to him: Come in, thou blessed of the Lord; why standest thou without? I have prepared the house, and a place for the camels.

32 And he brought him into his lodging; and he unharnessed the camels, and gave straw and hay, and water to wash his feet, and the feet of the men that were come with him.

33 And bread was set before him. But he said: I will not eat, till I tell my message. He answered him: Speak.

* Exod. xi. 16;

34 And he said: I am the servant of Abraham:

35 And the Lord hath blessed my master wonderfully, and he is become great: and he hath given him sheep and oxen, silver and gold, men servants and women servants, camels and asses.

36 And Sara, my master's wife, hath borne my master a son in her old age, and he hath given him all that he had.

37 And my master made me swear, saying: Thou shalt not take a wife for my son of the Chanaanites, in whose land I dwell:

38 But thou shalt go to my father's house, and shalt take a wife of my own kindred for my son:

39 But I answered my master: What if the woman will not come with me?

40 The Lord, said he, in whose sight I walk, will send his angel with thee, and will direct thy way: and thou shalt take a wife for my son of my own kindred, and of my father's house.

41 But thou shalt be clear from my curse, when thou shalt come to my kindred, if they will not give thee one.

42 And I came to-day to the well of water, and said: O Lord God of my master, Abraham, if thou hast prospered my way, wherein I now walk,

43 Behold, I stand by the well of water, and the virgin, that shall come out to draw water, who shall hear me say: Give me a little water to drink of thy pitcher:

44 And shall say to me: Both drink thou, and I will also draw for thy camels: let the same be the woman whom the Lord hath prepared for my master's son.

45 And whilst I pondered these things secretly with myself, Rebecca appeared, coming with a pitcher, which she carried on her shoulder: and she went down to the well and drew water. And I said to her: Give me a little to drink.

46 And she speedily let down the pitcher from her shoulder, and said to me: Both drink thou, and to thy camels I will give drink. I drank, and she watered the camels.

47 And I asked her, and said: Whose daughter art thou? And she answered: I am the daughter of Bathuel, the son of Nachor, whom Melcha bore to him. So I put ear-rings on her to adorn her face, and I put bracelets on her hands.

48 And falling down, I adored the Lord, blessing the Lord God of my master, Abraham, who hath brought me the straight way to take the daughter of my master's brother for his son.

49 Wherefore, if you do according to mercy and truth with my master, tell me: but if it please you otherwise, tell me that also, that I may go to the right hand, or to the left.

50 And Laban and Bathuel answered: The word hath Infra, xxix. 8.

&c.; but we must carefully avoid whatever the Church disapproves. S. Aug. de Gen. ii. 17; xii. 22. W.

VER. 21. To know, though he was now almost convinced that this obliging virgin was the person of whom he was in quest; and hence he proceeds to make her presents of great value. H.

VER. 41. Curse, which always attends the person who does not endeavour to comply with a lawful oath. H.—The Hebrews commonly added, in this sense, May God do these things to me, and still more, if I prove false. M.—In this sense Abraham's steward gives the meaning of his master, as he had hitherto repeated his very words at full length. H.

VER. 49. Left, in quest of some other lady of my master's kindred; as some of Bathuel's brothers might also have children. He was the youngest. H.

proceeded from the Lord: we cannot speak any other thing to thee but his pleasure.

51 Behold, Rebecca is before thee, take her and go thy way, and let her be the wife of thy master's son, as the Lord hath spoken.

52 Which when Abraham's servant heard, falling down to the ground, he adored the Lord.

53 And bringing forth vessels of silver and gold, and garments, he gave them to Rebecca, for a present. He offered gifts also to her brothers, and to her mother.

54 And a banquet was made, and they ate and drank together, and lodged there. And in the morning, the servant arose, and said: Let me depart, that I may go to my master.

55 And her brother and mother answered: Let the maid stay, at least, ten days with us, and afterwards she shall depart.

56 Stay me not, said he, because the Lord hath prospered my way: send me away, that I may go to my master.

57 And they said: Let us call the maid, and ask her will.

58 And they called her, and when she was come, they asked: Wilt thou go with this man? She said: I will go.

59 So they sent her away, and her nurse, and Abraham's servant, and his company.

60 Wishing prosperity to their sister, and saying: Thou art our sister, mayst thou increase to thousands of thousands; and may thy seed possess the gates of their enemies.

61 So Rebecca and her maids, being set upon camels, followed the man: who with speed returned to his master.

62 At the same time, Isaac was walking along the way to the well which is called Of the living and the seeing: for he dwelt in the south country:

63 And he was gone forth to meditate in the field, the day being now well spent: and when he had lifted up his eyes, he saw camels coming afar off.

64 Rebecca also, when she saw Isaac, lighted off the camel,

65 And said to the servant: Who is that man who cometh towards us along the field? And he said to her: That man is my master. But she quickly took her cloak, and covered herself.

66 And the servant told Isaac all that he had done.

Supra, xvi. 14.—b 1 Par. i. 32. A. M. circiter 2150, A. C. 1854.

VER. 53. Present. Thus ratifying what he had already done, (ver. 22,) and obtaining full consent, both of the virgin, and of her father and brother.

VER. 54. Morning. He loses no time to afford comfort to his masters, and to give proof that he was not esteemed by them without reason.

VER. 57. Let us call the maid, and ask her will. Not as to her marriage, as she had already consented, but of her quitting her parents and going to her husband. Ch.

VER. 58. I will go, without delay, being well convinced that the good steward was directed by God. Hence she was guilty of no imprudence or levity, in yielding herself up to the Divine will, and consenting so readily to the proposed marriage.

VER. 62. The well of Agar, not far from Bersabee.

VER. 63. To meditate on the obligations of the state on which he was about to enter, and on other pious subjects, free from noise and distraction. H.

VER. 65. Cloak, or summer veil, covering the whole body, and leaving an opening only for the eyes; such as the Eastern ladies use. S. Jer. in Isai. iii. Rebecca does this out of modesty. H.—She prefigures the Gentiles, whom Jesus calls by his servants laden with his gifts, to become his spouse, or his Church, (C.) at the fountain of baptism. D.

VER. 67. Mother's death, which happened about three years before. M.—

67 Who brought her into the tent of Sara his mother, and took her to wife: and he loved her so much, that it moderated the sorrow which was occasioned by his mother's death.

CHAP. XXV.

Abraham's children by Cetura, his death, and that of Ismael. Isaac hath Esau and Jacob twins. Esau selleth his first birth-right to Jacob.

AND Abraham married another wife named Cetura. 2 Who bore him Zamran, and Jecsan, and Madan, and Madian, and Jesboc, and Sue.

3 Jecsan also begot Saba, and Dadan. The children of Dadan were Assurim, and Latusim, and Loomim.

4 But of Madian was born Ephra, and Opher, and Henoah, and Abida, and Eldaa: all these were the children of Cetura.

5 And Abraham gave all his possessions to Isaac:

6 And to the children of the concubines he gave gifts, and separated them from Isaac his son, while he yet lived, to the east country.

7 And the days of Abraham's life were a hundred and seventy-five years.

8 And decaying he died in a good old age, and having lived a long time, and being full of days: and was gathered to his people.

9 And Isaac and Ismael his sons buried him in the double cave, which was situated in the field of Ephron the son of Seor the Hethite, over against Mambré, 10 Which he had bought of the children of Heth: there was he buried, and Sara his wife.

11 And after his death, God blessed Isaac his son, who dwelt by the well named Of the living and seeing.

12 These are the generations of Ismael the son of Abraham, whom Agar the Egyptian, Sara's servant, bore unto him:

13 And these are the names of his children according to their calling and generations. The first-born of Ismael was Nabajoth, then Cedar, and Adbeel, and Mabsam,

14 And Masma, and Duma, and Massa,

15 Hadar, and Thema, and Jethur, and Naphis, and Cedma.

16 These are the sons of Ismael: and these are their names by their castles and towns, twelve princes of their tribes.*

* A. M. 2182, A. C. 1821.—d 1 Par. i. 29.—e Supra, xvii. 20.

Isaac was now forty years old, and yet he does not pretend to take a wife for himself; leaving the choice to his good father, and to God. D.

CHAP. XXV. VER. 1. Cetura, his third wife; the former two being perhaps both dead. This Abraham did in his 137th year, that God might have witness also among the Gentiles. Cetura was before one of his handmaids. M.

VER. 6. Concubines. Agar and Cetura are here called concubines, (though they were lawful wives, and in other places are so called,) because they were of an inferior degree: and such in Scripture are usually called concubines. Ch.—Abraham contented himself with making suitable presents to the children whom he had by these secondary wives, reserving the bulk of his property for Isaac. Chap. xxiv. 36.

VER. 8. Good old age. Because well spent: though he lived not so long as many of the wicked. H.—His people, the saints of ancient days, in limbo; while his body was placed near the remains of his wife, by the pious attention of his two chief sons, attended by their other brethren. H.

VER. 16. By their castles; or, the castles, towns, and tribes of principal note received their names from these twelve princes, or phylarks, whose authority is still recognised among all the tribes of the Arabs. Thevenot. H.—The towns of these people were easily built, and more easily destroyed; for they consisted only 17 And the years of Ismael's life were a hundred and thirty-seven, and decaying he died, ^aand was gathered unto his people.

18 And he dwelt from Hevila as far as Sur, which looketh towards Egypt, to them that go towards the Assyrians. He died in the presence of all his brethren.

19 These also are the generations of Isaac the son of Abraham: Abraham begot Isaac:

20 Who when he was forty years old,^b took to wife Rebecca the daughter of Bathuel the Syrian of Mesopotamia, sister to Laban.

21 And Isaac besought the Lord for his wife, because she was barren: and he heard him, and made Rebecca to conceive.

22 But the children struggled in her womb, and she said: If it were to be so with me, what need was there to conceive? And she went to consult the Lord.

23 And he answering said: "Two nations are in thy womb, and two peoples shall be divided out of thy womb, and one people shall overcome the other, and the elder shall serve the younger.

24 And when her time was come to be delivered, behold twins were found in her womb.

25 "He that came forth first was red, and hairy like a skin: and his name was called Esau. "Immediately the other coming forth, held his brother's foot in his hand: and therefore he was called Jacob.

26 Isaac was threescore years old when the children were born unto him.^c

27 And when they were grown up, Esau became a skilful hunter, and a husbandman: but Jacob, a plain man, dwelt in tents.

28 Isaac loved Esau, because he ate of his hunting: and Rebecca loved Jacob.

29 And Jacob boiled pottage: to whom Esau, coming faint out of the field,

30 Said: Give me of this red pottage, for I am exceeding faint. For which reason his name was called Edom.^d

31 And Jacob said to him: Sell me thy first birth-right.

32 He answered: Lo I die, what will the first birth-right avail me?

33 Jacob said: Swear therefore to me. Esau swore to him, and sold his first birth-right.

34 And so taking bread and the pottage of lentils, he ate, and drank, and went his way; making little account of having sold his first birth-right.

CHAP. XXVI.

Isaac sojourneth in Gerara, where God reneweth to him the promise made to Abraham. King Abimelech maketh league with him.

AND when a famine came in the land,^e after that barrenness which had happened in the days of Abraham, Isaac went to Abimelech, king of the Palestines, to Gerara.

2 And the Lord appeared to him, and said: Go not down into Egypt, but stay in the land that I shall tell thee.

3 And sojourn in it, and I will be with thee, and will bless thee: for to thee and to thy seed I will give all these countries,^f to fulfil the oath which I swore to Abraham thy father.

4 And I will multiply thy seed like the stars of heaven and I will give to thy posterity all these countries: and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed.^g

5 Because Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my precepts and commandments, and observed my ceremonies and laws.

6 So Isaac abode in Gerara.

7 And when he was asked by the men of that place, concerning his wife, he answered: She is my sister: for he was afraid to confess that she was his wife, thinking lest perhaps they would kill him because of her beauty.

8 And when very many days were passed, and he abode there, Abimelech, king of the Palestines, looking out through a window, saw him playing with Rebecca, his wife.

9 And calling for him, he said: It is evident she is thy wife: why didst thou feign her to be thy sister? He answered: I feared lest I should die for her sake.

10 And Abimelech said: Why hast thou deceived us? Some man of the people might have lain with thy wife, and

^a A. M. 2231, A. C. 1773.—^b A. M. 2148, A. C. 1856.—^c Rom. ix. 10.—^d Osee xii. 3.
^e Matt. i. 2.—^f A. M. 2168, A. C. 1836.—^g Heb. xii. 16; Abd. i. 1.

^h A. M. circiter 2200.—ⁱ Supra, xii. 3, and xv. 18.—^k Supra, xii. 3, and xviii. 18, and xxii. 17; Infra, xxviii. 14.

of tents. Jer. xlix. 31. Their castles were perhaps only sheep-folds, as the original Tiroth may signify; or they were a sort of watch-towers, to prevent the sudden attack of an invading enemy, and to serve also for a retreat. C.

VER. 18. In the presence, &c. As he was the eldest, so he died first; having lived unmolested and fearless among his father's children. Chap. xvi. 12. C.

VER. 22. To be so. That is, if I must die, and my children also. She feared the worst; and immediately had recourse to the Lord, either in her oratory, or at one of his altars erected by Abraham; and received a gracious answer from him by means of an angel. H.

VER. 23. The younger. The Idumeans shall be subdued by the arms of David; and the Jews themselves shall yield to the Christian Church. S. Aug. de C. D. xvi. 35. S. Paul, Rom. ix., draws another very important truth from this history, showing the mercy of God to be gratuitous in choosing his saints. W.

VER. 25. Red. Hence he was called Edom, as well as from the red pottage, ver. 30. H.—Hairy like a skin. On which account Rebecca afterwards clothed Jacob's hands and neck with the skins of kids, to make him resemble Esau. Furry robes were not unusual among the Jews.—Jacob: "a supplanter, or wrestler." C.—From the birth of these twins S. Gregory shows the folly of astrologers, who pretend that our actions are under the influence of the planets; and that two, born at the same moment, will have the same fate. How different were the lives of Jacob and Esau! H.

VER. 28. Loved Esau, as his first-born, who showed him all attention, and whom he would naturally have appointed his heir, if the will of God had not afterwards been revealed to him. Rebecca, to whom this was already known, gave the preference in her love to Jacob. H.

VER. 29. Pottage, of Egyptian lentils, the most excellent in the world. C.
VER. 30. Give me, &c. Heb. "make me devour this red;" which denotes the very red quality of the pottage, and the greediness of Esau. C.

VER. 31. Sell me. He had been informed by his mother that God had transferred the birth-right to him; and therefore he takes this opportunity to obtain the consent of Esau quietly. The latter, who knew nothing of God's decree, showed his little regard for that privilege. H.—The birth-right was a temporal honour; though some assert that the office of priesthood belonged also to it. This, however, does not seem to be certain; for we find Abel, Abraham, and other younger children offering sacrifice. The first-born were entitled to a double portion, Deut. xxi. 17; 1 Par. v. 2, 5, and to their father's peculiar blessing, Eccl. iii. 12. To despise such advantages betrayed a bad disposition, for which Esau is condemned, Heb. xii. 16; Rom. ix. C.

VER. 33. Swore; and still we find him enraged above measure, when Isaac had, by mistake, ratified the transfer of the birth-right to Jacob (chap. xxvii. 41); which renders him still more deserving of the title profane, which S. Paul gives him. H.

CHAP. XXVI. VER. 5. Ceremonies of religion, observed under the law of nature. M.

VER. 7. Sister, or niece. Though lawful at that time, it was not very common for people to marry such near relations; and therefore Isaac, by saying Rebecca was his sister, wished the people of Gerara to be ignorant of her being his wife; being under the like apprehensions as his father had been twice before. H. imitates his example, trusting in the protection of God, which had rescued Abraham from danger. Chap. xxi. H.

thou hadst brought upon us a great sin. And he commanded all the people, saying:

11 He that shall touch this man's wife, shall surely be put to death.

12 And Isaac sowed in that land, and he found that same year a hundred-fold: and the Lord blessed him.

13 And the man was enriched, and he went on prospering and increasing, till he became exceeding great.

14 And he had possessions of sheep and of herds, and a very great family. Wherefore the Palestines envying him,

15 Stopped up at that time all the wells, that the servants of his father, Abraham, had digged, filling them up with earth:

16 Insomuch that Abimelech himself said to Isaac: Depart from us, for thou art become much mightier than we.

17 So he departed, and came to the torrent of Gerara, to dwell there:

18 And he digged again other wells, which the servants of his father, Abraham, had digged, and which, after his death, the Philistines had of old stopped up: and he called them by the same names, by which his father before had called them.

19 And they digged in the torrent, and found living water:

20 But there also the herdsmen of Gerara strove against the herdsmen of Isaac, saying: It is our water. Wherefore he called the name of the well, on occasion of that which had happened, Calumny.

21 And they digged also another; and for that they quarrelled likewise, and he called the name of it, Enmity.

22 Going forward from thence, he digged another well, for which they contended not; therefore he called the name thereof, Latitude, saying: Now hath the Lord given us room, and made us to increase upon the earth.*

23 And he went up from that place to Bersabee,

24 Where the Lord appeared to him that same night, saying: I am the God of Abraham thy father, do not fear, for I am with thee: I will bless thee, and multiply thy seed for my servant Abraham's sake.

25 And he built there an altar: and called upon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tent; and commanded his servants to dig a well.

26 To which place when Abimelech, and Ochozath his friend, and Phicol chief captain of his soldiers, came from Gerara, 27 Isaac said to them: Why are ye come to me, a man whom you hate, and have thrust out from you?

* Psal. iv. 1.—b A. M. 2208, A. C. 1796.

VER. 16. Depart. Instead of repressing the outrages of his subjects, the king enters into their jealousies, and banishes a wealthy person. H.—And Pharaoh used the same pretext, when he persecuted the Hebrews. C.

VER. 19. Torrent. That is, a channel where sometimes a torrent, or violent stream had run. Ch.—In this vale of Gerara a never-failing spring was found. H.

VER. 22. Latitude. That is, wideness, or room. Ch.—Heb. Rehoboth, widely extended streams, latitudines. See chap. x. 11.

VER. 24. Of Abraham, who still lives before me, and for whom I always testified such affection, though I suffered him to be persecuted: hence, fear not. H.

VER. 26. Ochozath. This name occurs in the Sept. as well as the other two, (chap. xxi. 22,) and means a company of friends. Phicol also signifies the mouth or face of all, being the general of the army, on whom the soldiers must be intent. These are perhaps, therefore, the names of offices, not of persons; or if 28 And they answered: We saw that the Lord is with thee, and therefore we said: Let there be an oath between us, and let us make a covenant,

29 That thou do us no harm, as we on our part have touched nothing of thine, nor have done any thing to hurt thee; but with peace have sent thee away, increased with the blessing of the Lord.

30 And he made them a feast, and after they had eaten and drunk:

31 Arising in the morning, they swore one to another: and Isaac sent them away peaceably to their own home.

32 And behold, the same day the servants of Isaac came, telling him of a well which they had digged, and saying: We have found water.

33 Whereupon he called it Abundance: and the name of the city was called Bersabee, even to this day.

34 And Esau being forty years old, married wives,* Judith, the daughter of Beer, the Hethite, and Basemath, the daughter of Elon, of the same place.

35 And they both offended the mind of Isaac and Rebecca.

CHAP. XXVII.

Jacob, by his mother's counsel, obtaineth his father's blessing instead of Esau. And by her is advised to fly to his uncle Laban.

NOW Isaac was old,^d and his eyes were dim, and he could not see: and he called Esau, his elder son, and said to him: My son? And he answered: Here I am.

2 And his father said to him: Thou seest that I am old, and know not the day of my death.

3 Take thy arms, thy quiver, and bow, and go abroad; and when thou hast taken something by hunting,

4 Make me savoury meat thereof, as thou knowest I like, and bring it that I may eat: and my soul may bless thee, before I die.

5 And when Rebecca had heard this, and he was gone into the field to fulfil his father's commandment,

6 She said to her son Jacob: I heard thy father talking with Esau, thy brother, and saying to him:

7 Bring me of thy hunting, and make me meats that I may eat, and bless thee in the sight of the Lord, before I die.

8 Now therefore, my son, follow my counsel:

9 And go thy way to the flock, bring me two kids of the best, that I may make of them meat for thy father, such as he gladly eateth.

10 Which when thou hast brought in, and he hath eaten, he may bless thee before he die.

11 And he answered her: Thou knowest that Esau, my brother, is a hairy man, and I am smooth:

* Infra, xxvii. 46.—d A. M. 2245, A. C. 1759.

they be the same who lived with Abraham, they must have held their high command above 100 years. M. C.

VER. 35. Offended. They were the daughters of princes of the Heathens, (Josephus,) and being brought up in idolatry and pride, refused to give ear to the advice of Isaac, who never approved of the marriage of his son with them. H.

CHAP. XXVII. VER. 1. Old: 137 years, when falling sickly and blind, at least for a time, he wished to bless Esau, who was 77 years old. T.

VER. 4. That, &c. He does not mean that the meat would induce him to give his blessing. Neither can we suppose that he intended to pervert the order of God, in making the younger son subject to the elder, if he was informed by Rebecca of that disposition of Providence. C.

VER. 7. In the sight of the Lord, answers to my soul, &c. ver. 4. I will bless thee with all earnestness and sincerity. H.

12 If my father should feel me, and perceive it, I fear lest he will think I would have mocked him, and I shall bring upon me a curse instead of a blessing.

13 And his mother said to him: Upon me be this curse, my son: only hear thou my voice, and go, fetch me the things which I have said.

14 He went, and brought, and gave them to his mother. She dressed meats, such as she knew his father liked.

15 And she put on him very good garments of Esau, which she had at home with her:

16 And the little skins of the kids she put about his hands, and covered the bare of his neck.

17 And she gave him the savoury meat, and delivered him bread that she had baked.

18 Which when he had carried in, he said: My father? But he answered: I hear. Who art thou, my son?

19 And Jacob said: I am Esau, thy first-born: I have done as thou didst command me: arise, sit and eat of my venison, that thy soul may bless me.

20 And Isaac said to his son: How couldst thou find it so quickly, my son? He answered: It was the will of God, that what I sought came quickly in my way:

21 And Isaac said: Come hither, that I may feel thee, my son, and may prove whether thou be my son Esau, or no.

22 He came near to his father, and when he had felt him, Isaac said: The voice indeed is the voice of Jacob; but the hands are the hands of Esau.

23 And he knew him not, because his hairy hands made him like to the elder. Then blessing him, 24 He said: Art thou my son Esau? He answered: I am.

25 Then he said: Bring me the meats of thy hunting, my son, that my soul may bless thee. And when they were brought, and he had eaten, he offered him wine also, which after he had drunk,

26 He said to him: Come near me, and give me a kiss, my son.

27 He came near, and kissed him. And immediately as he smelled the fragrant smell of his garments, blessing him, he said: Behold, the smell of my son is as the smell of a plentiful field, which the Lord hath blessed.

a Supra, xxv. 34.

VER. 12. Mocked him, taking advantage of his blindness and old age. M.

VER. 13. This curse. Rebecca had too much confidence in God's promises to think that he would suffer them to be ineffectual. C.

VER. 15. Very good. Heb. desirable, kept among perfumes, ver. 27. Such, the Hebrews say, were used by the first-born, when they offered sacrifice. S. Jer. q. Heb.

VER. 19. I am Esau, thy first-born. S. Augustine, (L. Contra Mendacium, c. x.) treating at large upon this place, excuseth Jacob from a lie, because this whole passage was mysterious, as relating to the preference which was afterwards to be given to the Gentiles before the carnal Jews, which Jacob by prophetic light might understand. So far is certain, that the first birth-right, both by Divine election, and by Esau's free cession, belonged to Jacob: so that if there were any lie in the case, it could be no more than an officious and venial one. Ch.—And even if we allow that they did wrong, the Scripture relates, but does not sanction what they did. Let him that thinks himself to stand, take heed lest he fall. 1 Cor. x. 12. C.

VER. 27. Plentiful. A word retained by the Sam. and Sept. though lost in the Hebrew copies. Grotius.

VER. 29. Worship thee, with civil respect, (H.) as the Idumeans, Philistines, and Moabites did, with respect to David, Solomon, and the Machabees, acknowledging their dominion, though reluctantly.—With blessing. Thus Rebecca had not given her son a vain assurance. Isaac prays that God may ever be his protector, and avenge his cause. H.

VER. 33. Fear. Sept. "Isaac was rapt into an ecstasy exceedingly great;"

2a

28 God give thee of the dew of heaven, and of the fatness of the earth, abundance of corn and wine.

29 And let peoples serve thee, and tribes worship thee: be thou lord of thy brethren, and let thy mother's children bow down before thee. Cursed be he that curseth thee: and let him that blesseth thee be filled with blessings.

30 Isaac had scarce ended his words, when, Jacob being now gone out abroad, Esau came,

31 And brought in to his father meats, made of what he had taken in hunting, saying: Arise, my father, and eat of thy son's venison; that thy soul may bless me.

32 And Isaac said to him: Why! who art thou? He answered: I am thy first-born son, Esau.

33 Isaac was struck with fear, and astonished exceedingly: and wondering beyond what can be believed, said: Who is he then that even now brought me venison that he had taken, and I ate of all before thou camest? and I have blessed him, and he shall be blessed.

34 Esau having heard his father's words, roared out with a great cry; and, being in a consternation, said: Bless me also, my father.

35 And he said: Thy brother came deceitfully and got thy blessing.

36 But he said again: Rightly is his name called Jacob; for he hath supplanted me to this second time: "My first birth-right he took away before, and now this second time he hath stolen away my blessing. And again he said to his father: Hast thou not reserved me also a blessing?"

37 Isaac answered: I have appointed him thy lord, and have made all his brethren his servants: I have established him with corn and wine, and after this, what shall I do more for thee, my son?

38 And Esau said to him: Hast thou only one blessing, father? I beseech thee bless me also. And when he wept with a loud cry,

39 Isaac being moved, said to him: In the fat of the earth, and in the dew of heaven from above, 40 Shall thy blessing be. Thou shalt live by the sword, and shalt serve thy brother: and the time shall come, when thou shalt shake off and loose his yoke from thy neck.

b Heb. xi. 20.

during which God explained to him the meaning of what had happened, that he might not think of revoking his blessing. S. Aug. q. 80. He permitted Isaac to be in darkness respecting this affair, that it might be more manifest, that the will of man had no part in preferring Jacob (S. Chrys. hom. 53); and that Esau might not direct his rage against his father. W.—Be blessed. Thus he confirms what he had done; and shows that he bore no resentment towards his younger son, nor esteemed himself to be mocked, ver. 12. H.

VER. 36. Jacob. That is, a supplanter. Ch.—My blessing. Both Isaac and Esau speak of this blessing according to the dictates of nature. But God had disposed of it otherwise. The profane and cruel manners of Esau rendered him unworthy of it; and he could not maintain his natural claim, after having freely resigned it even with an oath. He seems to distinguish the blessing from the birth-right, though one necessarily followed the other. H.

VER. 37. Brethren, or relations; (M.) for Isaac had no other children but these two. He never married any other woman but the beautiful and virtuous Rebecca. H.

VER. 39. Moved; yet not so as to repent of what he had done; for Esau found no place of repentance in his father's breast, although with tears he had sought it, (Heb. xii. 17,) desiring to obtain the blessing of the first-born. H.

VER. 40. Thy brother, 'n the reign of David, 2 Kings viii. 14, and of the Machabees. Josep. Ant. xiii. 17.—Yoke. When the house of Juda shall rebel against the Lord, in the days of Joram, then the Idumeans shall regain their liberty for a time (4 Kings viii. 20); to be subdued again after 800 years by John Hyrcan, the high priest. H.—All the blessing of Esau tends to confirm 41 Esau therefore always hated Jacob, for the blessing wherewith his father had blessed him; and he said in his heart: "The days will come of the mourning for my father, and I will kill my brother Jacob."

42 These things were told to Rebecca: and she sent and called Jacob, her son, and said to him: Behold Esau, thy brother, threateneth to kill thee.

43 Now therefore, my son, hear my voice, arise and flee to Laban, my brother, to Haran:

44 And thou shalt dwell with him a few days, till the wrath of thy brother be assuaged;

45 And his indignation cease, and he forget the things thou hast done to him: afterwards I will send, and bring thee from thence hither. Why shall I be deprived of both my sons in one day?

46 And Rebecca said to Isaac: "I am weary of my life, because of the daughters of Heth: if Jacob take a wife of the stock of this land, I choose not to live."

CHAP. XXVIII.

Jacob's journey to Mesopotamia: his vision and vow.

AND Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him, and charged him, saying: Take not a wife of the stock of Chanaan:

2 But go, and take a journey to Mesopotamia of Syria, to the house of Bathuel, thy mother's father, and take thee a wife thence of the daughters of Laban, thy uncle.

3 And God almighty bless thee, and make thee to increase and multiply thee: that thou mayst be a multitude of people.

4 And give the blessings of Abraham to thee, and to thy seed after thee: that thou mayst possess the land of thy sojournment, which he promised to thy grandfather.

5 And when Isaac had sent him away, he took his journey and went to Mesopotamia of Syria, to Laban, the son of Bathuel, the Syrian, brother to Rebecca, his mother.

6 And Esau seeing that his father had blessed Jacob, and had sent him into Mesopotamia, of Syria, to marry a wife thence; and that after the blessing he had charged him, saying: Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Chanaan:

7 And that Jacob, obeying his parents, was gone into Syria:

8 Experiencing also, that his father was not well pleased with the daughters of Chanaan:

9 He went to Ismael, and took to wife, besides them he had before, Maheleth, the daughter of Ismael, Abraham's son, the sister of Nabajoth.

10 But Jacob being departed from Bersabee, went on to Haran.

11 And when he was come to a certain place, and would rest in it after sun-set, he took of the stones that lay there, and putting under his head, slept in the same place.

12 And he saw in his sleep a ladder standing upon the earth, and the top thereof touching heaven: the angels also of God ascending and descending by it.

13 And the Lord leaning upon the ladder saying to him: "I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac: The land, wherein thou sleepest, I will give to thee and to thy seed."

14 And thy seed shall be as the dust of the earth: thou shalt spread abroad to the west, and to the east, and to the north, and to the south: and IN THEE and thy seed, all the tribes of the earth SHALL BE BLESSED.

15 And I will be thy keeper whithersoever thou goest, and will bring thee back into this land: neither will I leave thee, till I shall have accomplished all that I have said.

16 And when Jacob awaked out of sleep, he said: Indeed the Lord is in this place, and I knew it not.

17 And trembling, he said: How terrible is this place! this is no other but the house of God, and the gate of heaven.

18 And Jacob arising in the morning, took the stone which he had laid under his head, and set it up for a title, pouring oil upon the top of it.

19 And he called the name of the city Bethel, which before was called Luza.

20 And he made a vow, saying: If God shall be with me, and shall keep me in the way, by which I walk, and shall give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on,

* Abd. i. 10.—b Supra, xxix. 35.—c A. M. 2245.—d Osee xii. 12.—e Infra, xxxv. 1.

that already given to his brother; so that the apostle seems to have considered it unworthy of notice. C.—Jacob, in the mean time, never asserted his dominion; but still called Esau his lord, (chap. xxxii. 4.) and behaved to him with the greatest deference. H.—Yet the Idumeans always hated the Jews, and assisted Titus to destroy Jerusalem. Joseph. T.

VER. 45. Both my sons. Esau would have forfeited his life for murder. Chap. ix. 6. H.

VER. 46. To live. Life will be a burden to me. M.

CHAP. XXVIII. VER. 2. Take. Sept. "flee;" as if Isaac began at last to be apprized of Esau's designs. Wisdom (x. 10) conducted the just when he fled from his brother's wrath, &c.—Thy uncle. He points out the house, but leaves the woman to his choice.

VER. 4. Grandfather. Isaac, out of modesty, does not mention that the same promises had been made to himself. He determines the right over Chanaan to belong solely to Jacob, and to his posterity. H.

VER. 9. To Ismael's family; for he had been dead fourteen years. Esau asks no advice. It is doubtful whether he meant to appease or to irritate his parents. (M.) by this marriage with the daughter of Ismael. C.

VER. 11. Head for a pillow. Behold the austerity of the air of all that country! H.—He departs from home in haste, with his staff only, that Esau might not know. W.

VER. 12. A ladder and angels, &c. This mysterious vision tended to comfort the patriarch, with the assurance that God would now take him under his more particular protection, when he was destitute of human aid. H.—The ladder represented the incarnation of Jesus Christ, born of so many patriarchs from Adam, who was created by God, to the blessed Virgin. He is the way by which we must ascend, by observing the truth, till we obtain life eternal. H.—Our Saviour seems to allude to this passage. John i. 51; xiv. 6. The Providence of God, watching over all things, appears here very conspicuous.

VER. 13. Thy father, or grandfather. God joins the dead with the living, to show that all live to him, and that the soul is immortal. H.

VER. 16. Knew it not. Jacob was not ignorant that God fills all places. But he thought that he would not manifest himself thus in a land given to idolatry. He begins to suspect that the place had been formerly consecrated to the worship of the true God, (C.) as it probably had by Abraham, who dwelt near Bethel, (chap. xii. 8,) and built an altar on Mount Moria, chap. xxii. 14. The Chaldean paraphrases it very well in this sense, ver. 17, "How terrible is this place! It is not an ordinary place, but a place beloved by God, and over against this place is the door of heaven." H.

VER. 18. A title. That is, a pillar or monument. Ch.—Or an altar, consecrated by that rite to the service of the true God. This he did without any superstition; as the Catholic Church still pours oil or chrism upon her altars, in imitation of Jacob. Raban. Instit. i. 45. If pagans did the like, this is no reason why we should condemn the practice. They were blamable for designing thus to worship false gods. Clem. stron. vii. Apul. Florid. i. &c. W.

VER. 19. Bethel. This name signifies the house of God. Ch.—Bethel was the name which Jacob gave to the place; and the town, which was built after his return, was called by the same name. Chardin.—Luza, so called from the number of nut or almond trees. Here the golden calf was afterwards set up, on the confines of the tribes of Benjamin and of Ephraim, (C.) the southern limits of the kingdom of Jeroboam. H.

VER. 20. A vow; not simply that he would acknowledge one God, but that he would testify his peculiar veneration for him by erecting an altar, at his return, and by giving voluntarily the tithes of all he had. W. Chap. xxxv. 7.

21 And I shall return prosperously to my father's house: the Lord shall be my God:

22 And this stone, which I have set up for a title, shall be called the house of God: and of all things that thou shalt give to me, I will offer tithes to thee.

CHAP. XXIX.

Jacob serveth Laban seven years for Rachel; but is deceived with Lia: he afterwards marrieth Rachel.—Lia bears him four sons.

THEN Jacob went on in his journey, and came into the east country.*

2 And he saw a well in the field, and three flocks of sheep lying by it: for the beasts were watered out of it, and the mouth thereof was closed with a great stone.

3 And the custom was, when all the sheep were gathered together, to roll away the stone, and after the sheep were watered, to put it on the mouth of the well again.

4 And he said to the shepherds: Brethren, whence are you? They answered: Of Haran.

5 And he asked them, saying: Know you Laban, the son of Nachor? They said: We know him.

6 He said: Is he in health? He is in health, say they: and behold, Rachel, his daughter, cometh with his flock.

7 And Jacob said: There is yet much day remaining, neither is it time to bring the flocks into the folds again: first give the sheep drink, and so lead them back to feed.

8 They answered: We cannot, till all the cattle be gathered together, and we remove the stone from the well's mouth, that we may water the flocks.

9 They were yet speaking, and behold Rachel came with her father's sheep: for she fed the flock.

10 And when Jacob saw her, and knew her to be his cousin german, and that they were the sheep of Laban, his uncle: he removed the stone wherewith the well was closed.

11 And having watered the flock, he kissed her: and lifting up his voice wept.

12 And he told her that he was her father's brother, and the son of Rebecca: but she went in haste and told her father.

13 Who, when he heard that Jacob his sister's son was come, ran forth to meet him: and embracing him, and heartily kissing him, brought him into his house. And when he had heard the causes of his journey,

* A. M. 2245.

14 He answered: Thou art my bone and my flesh. And after the days of one month were expired, 15 He said to him: Because thou art my brother, shalt thou serve me without wages? Tell me what wages thou wilt have.

16 Now he had two daughters, the name of the elder was Lia; and the younger was called Rachel.

17 But Lia was blear-eyed: Rachel was well favoured, and of a beautiful countenance.

18 And Jacob being in love with her, said: I will serve thee seven years for Rachel, thy younger daughter.

19 Laban answered: It is better that I give her to thee than to another man; stay with me.

20 So Jacob served seven years for Rachel: and they seemed but a few days, because of the greatness of his love.^b

21 And he said to Laban: Give me my wife; for now the time is fulfilled, that I may go in unto her.

22 And he, having invited a great number of his friends to the feast, made the marriage.

23 And at night he brought in Lia, his daughter, to him,

24 Giving his daughter a handmaid, named Zelpha. Now when Jacob had gone in to her according to custom, when morning was come he saw it was Lia.

25 And he said to his father-in-law: What is it that thou didst mean to do? did I not serve thee for Rachel? why hast thou deceived me?

26 Laban answered: It is not the custom in this place, to give the younger in marriage first.

27 Make up the week of days of this match: and I will give thee her also, for the service that thou shalt render me other seven years.

28 He yielded to his pleasure: and after the week was past, he married Rachel:

29 To whom her father gave Bala, for her servant.

30 And having at length obtained the marriage he wished for, he preferred the love of the latter before the former, and served with him other seven years.

^b A. M. 2252, A. C. 1752.

CHAP. XXIX. VER. 1. East. Mesopotamia, where Laban dwelt. II.

VER. 2. Stone. Not of such an immoderate size but that Jacob could remove it. In that country water was scarce, and preserved with care. C.

VER. 4. Brethren. Jacob understands and speaks their language, either because it was not very different from his own, or he had learnt the Chaldean language from his mother. In the days of Ezechias the Jews did not understand it. 4 Kings xviii. 26; Jer. v. 15. C.

VER. 5. Of Nachor, by Bathuel, who was not so well known. M.

VER. 9. She. Heb. He, ipsa. Eva is put for Eia, the letters being similar. Chap. iii. 15. H.—Other copies agree with the Vulg. and the Sept. C.

VER. 10. Cousin german, and uncle, are put for brevity's sake by S. Jerom, instead of the Heb. "the daughter of Laban, brother of Rebecca his mother," and "his mother's brother." H.

VER. 11. Kissed her, according to the custom of the country, (chap. xxiv. 26,) having told her who he was.—Wept, through tenderness, and perhaps on account of his present inability to make her a suitable present. C.

VER. 12. Brother, or nephew. The name of brother, in Scripture, almost corresponds with the consanguineus of the Latins, or our relation.

VER. 14. My flesh, entitled to my utmost protection and friendship. C.

VER. 17. Blear-eyed. Heb. rocuth. Watery and tender, unable to look steadily at any object, but at the same time very beautiful. Onkelos, &c.—The beauty of Rachel was perfect; not confined to one part. C.

VER. 20. For Rachel. It was then the custom to buy or to pay a dowry for a wife. Chap. xxxiv. 12; Osee iii. 2. Herodotus says, i. 196. that the Babylonians sold their beautiful women as high as possible, and gave part of the price to help off the more deformed. The Turks do the like. C.—A few, &c. So highly did he esteem Rachel, that he thought he had obtained her for just nothing. T.—Salicn and the context decide that he waited full seven years, and then obtained Lia, by fraud, of Laban; and, seven days after, Rachel. H.—He was then 84 years old! D.

VER. 22. Friends. Heb. Sept. and Chal. say, "all the men of that place." He was rich, and though very greedy, could not well avoid conforming to the custom of making a splendid entertainment on such a joyful occasion. H.

VER. 24. A handmaid, by way of dowry, as he did afterwards to Rachel. Both sisters considered it so small, as to say they had nothing. Chap. xxxi. 14.—Lia, who committed a great sin of adultery, though she was more excusable than Laban; inasmuch as she obeyed his order. M.—Jacob might justly have refused to marry her; and then what a dishonour would have been entailed upon her for life! H.—He afterwards consented to marry her, (C.) probably on the second day of the feast. H.

VER. 26. Custom. This appears to be a false pretext: for all the people saw that Rachel was adorned like the intended bride, (H.) and were invited to her wedding. M.

VER. 28. Week. Seven days; not years, as Josephus would have it. The nuptial feast lasted a week. Judges xiv. 15.

VER. 30. Latter. Jacob is the figure of Jesus Christ; who rejected the synagogue, and treated his Church, gathered from all nations, with the utmost affection. C.

31 And the Lord seeing that he despised Lia, opened her womb, but her sister remained barren.

32 And she conceived and bore a son,^a and called his name Ruben, saying: The Lord saw my affliction: now my husband will love me.

33 And again she conceived and bore a son,^b and said: Because the Lord heard that I was despised, he hath given this also to me: and she called his name Simeon.

34 And she conceived the third time, and bore another son,^c and said: Now also my husband will be joined to me, because I have borne him three sons: and therefore she called his name Levi.

35 The fourth time she conceived and bore a son, and said: Now will I praise the Lord: and for this she called him Juda.^d And she left bearing.

CHAP. XXX.

Rachel being barren, delivereth her handmaid to Jacob: she beareth two sons. Lia ceasing to bear, giveth also her handmaid, and she beareth two more. Then Lia beareth two other sons and one daughter. Rachel beareth Joseph. Jacob, desirous to return home, is hired to stay for a certain part of the stock's increase, whereby he becometh exceeding rich.

AND Rachel seeing herself without children, envied her sister, and said to her husband: Give me children, otherwise I shall die.

2 And Jacob being angry with her, answered: Am I as God, who hath deprived thee of the fruit of thy womb?

3 But she said: I have here my servant Bala: go in unto her, that she may bear upon my knees, and I may have children by her.

4 And she gave him Bala in marriage: who,

5 When her husband had gone in unto her, conceived and bore a son.

6 And Rachel said: The Lord hath judged for me, and hath heard my voice, giving me a son; and therefore she called his name Dan.

7 And again Bala conceived, and bore another,

8 For whom Rachel said: God hath compared me with my sister, and I have prevailed: and she called him Nephtali.

9 Lia perceiving that she had left off bearing, gave Zelpha, her handmaid, to her husband.

10 And when she had conceived, and brought forth a son,

^a A. M. 2253, A. C. 1751.—^b A. M. 2254.—^c A. M. 2256.

VER. 31. Despised, or loved less; so Christ orders us to hate father, &c. Matt. x. 17. C.

VER. 32. Ruben, "See the son, or the son of vision;" alluding perhaps, distantly, to ver. 24, he saw Lia. H.

VER. 35. Juda, "praise or confession." C.—Left bearing for a time. H.

CHAP. XXX. VER. 1. Envied, or desired to have children like her. Thus we may envy the virtues of the saints. C.—Give me, &c. These words seem to indicate a degree of impatience, at which we need not be surprised, when we reflect, that Rachel had been educated among idolaters. M.—Die of grief and shame.

VER. 2. Angry at the rash and apparently blasphemous demand of Rachel. M.—As God, pro Deo. Am I to work a miracle in opposition to God, who has made thee barren? To him thou oughtest to address thyself.

VER. 3. Servant, like a maid of honour. Josephus says she was not a slave, no more than Zelpha.—My knees, whom I may nurse with pleasure. It was an ancient custom to place the new-born infants upon the knees of some near relation, who gave them a name, and thus in a manner adopted them. Chap. i. 22; Job iii. 12; Psal. xxi. 11. Homer. C.

VER. 4. Marriage. The Manichees condemned Jacob for having four wives at once. But S. Aug. replied, it was not then unusual nor forbidden. He took the last two only at the pressing instigation of Rachel and Lia, and that only for the sake of children. Lia herself was forced upon him. c. Faust. xxii. 48.

VER. 6. Dan, means judgment.

VER. 8. Compared me, &c. As Lia treacherously got my husband, so I have craftily surmounted the difficulties of barrenness; I have struggled earnestly, and have got the victory. Patal, means to act with cunning. Psal. xvii. 27. C.—Nephtali, "a crafty wrestler." M.

11 She said: Happily. And therefore called his name Gad.

12 Zelpha also bore another.

13 And Lia said: This is for my happiness: for women will call me blessed. Therefore she called him Aser.

14 And Ruben going out in the time of the wheat harvest into the field, found mandrakes: which he brought to his mother Lia. And Rachel said: Give me part of thy son's mandrakes.

15 She answered: Dost thou think it a small matter, that thou hast taken my husband from me, unless thou take also my son's mandrakes? Rachel said: He shall sleep with thee this night, for thy son's mandrakes.

16 And when Jacob returned at even from the field, Lia went out to meet him, and said: Thou shalt come in unto me, because I have hired thee for my son's mandrakes. And he slept with her that night.

17 And God heard her prayers; and she conceived, and bore the fifth son.

18 And said: God hath given me a reward, because I gave my handmaid to my husband. And she called his name Issachar.

19 And Lia conceived again, and bore the sixth son,

20 And said: God hath endowed me with a good dowry; this turn also my husband will be with me, because I have borne him six sons: and therefore she called his name Zabulon.

21 After whom she bore a daughter, named Dina.

22 The Lord also remembering Rachel, heard her, and opened her womb.

23 And she conceived, and bore a son,^e saying: God hath taken away my reproach.

24 And she called his name Joseph: saying: The Lord give me also another son.

25 And when Joseph was born, Jacob said to his father-in-law: Send me away, that I may return into my country, and to my land.

26 Give me my wives, and my children, for whom I have served thee, that I may depart. thou knowest the service that I have rendered thee.

^d Matt. xii.—^e A. M. 2259, A. C. 1745.

VER. 11. Happily, fortunately.—Gad, or Bonaventure. H.

VER. 13. Aser: happy. My servant has now had as many sons as my sister, (M.) and I have given them both names, indicating my great felicity and joy. H.

VER. 14. Ruben, now perhaps about four years old, playing in the fields, in the latter harvest time, (Ex. ix. 32,) found mandrakes of an extraordinary beauty and flavour, (Cant. vii. 13,) whether they were flowers, lilies, jacinthe, &c., as some translate; or rather, fruits of the mandrake tree, according to all the ancient versions; or of the citron, lemon, or orange tree, if we believe Calnet. H.

VER. 15. From me. Lia was aware that Jacob's affection lay entirely towards Rachel; particularly now, as she had ceased to bear children herself. H.

VER. 18. Issachar, "the reward of the man, or husband." C.

VER. 20. Zabulon, "dwelling or cohabiting." Zolad (which resembles the sound of Zolal) means to endow, (C.) to which she seems also to refer; as if her marriage was renewed, and God had given her more children for a dowry. M.

VER. 21. Dina, "judgment," like Dan. God hath done me justice. The Hebrews assert that Dina was married to holy Job. She was born the same year as Joseph, the 91st of Jacob. Lia brought forth seven children in seven years.

VER. 24. Joseph. In imposing this name, Rachel looks both to the past and to the future; thanking God for taking away (asop) her reproach, and begging that He would add (isop or Josop) the blessing of another son, as he really did, though it occasioned her death: so little do we know what we ask for! Joseph means one "adding or increasing." Chap. xlix. 22. H.—He was born when the 14 years of service were over; being a most glorious figure of Jesus Christ who came to redeem us from slavery. D.

27 Laban said to him : Let me find favour in thy sight : I have learned, by experience, that God hath blessed me for thy sake.

28 Appoint thy wages which I shall give thee.

29 But he answered : Thou knowest how I have served thee, and how great thy possession hath been in my hands.

30 Thou hadst but little before I came to thee, and now thou art become rich : and the Lord hath blessed thee at my coming. It is reasonable, therefore, that I should now provide also for my own house.

31 And Laban said : What shall I give thee ? But he said : I require nothing ; but if thou wilt do what I demand, I will feed and keep thy sheep again.

32 Go round through all thy flocks, and separate all the sheep of divers colours, and speckled ; and all that is brown and spotted, and of divers colours, as well among the sheep as among the goats, shall be my wages.

33 And my justice shall answer for me to-morrow before thee, when the time of the bargain shall come ; and all that is not of divers colours, and spotted, and brown, as well among the sheep as among the goats, shall accuse me of theft.

34 And Laban said : I like well what thou demandest.

35 And he separated the same day the she-goats, and the sheep, and the he-goats, and the rams of divers colours, and spotted ; and all the flock of one colour, that is, of white and black fleece, he delivered into the hands of his sons.

36 And he set the space of three days' journey betwixt himself and his son-in-law, who fed the rest of his flock.

37 And Jacob took green rods of poplar, and of almond, and of plane-trees, and pilled them in part : so when the bark was taken off, in the parts that were pilled, there appeared whiteness : but the parts that were whole, remained green : and by this means the colour was divers.

38 And he put them in the troughs, where the water was poured out ; that when the flocks should come to drink, they might have the rods before their eyes, and in the sight of them might conceive.

39 And it came to pass, that in the very heat of coition, the sheep beheld the rods, and brought forth spotted, and of divers colours, and speckled.

40 And Jacob separated the flock, and put the rods in the troughs before the eyes of the rams ; and all the white and the black were Laban's, and the rest were Jacob's, when the flocks were separated one from the other.

41 So when the ewes went first to ram, Jacob put the rods in the troughs of water before the eyes of the rams, and of the ewes, that they might conceive while they were looking upon them.

42 But when the later coming was, and the last conceiving, he did not put them. And those that were laterward, became Laban's ; and they of the first time, Jacob's.

43 And the man was enriched exceedingly, and he had many flocks, maid-servants and men-servants, camels and asses.

CHAP. XXXI.

Jacob's departure : he is pursued and overtaken by Laban. They make a covenant.

BUT after that he had heard the words of the sons of Laban, saying : Jacob hath taken away all that was our father's, and being enriched by his substance is become great.

2 And perceiving also, that Laban's countenance was not towards him as yesterday and the other day.

3 Especially the Lord saying to him : Return into the land of thy fathers and to thy kindred, and I will be with thee.

4 He sent,* and called Rachel and Lia into the field, where he fed the flocks,

5 And said to them : I see your father's countenance is not towards me as yesterday and the other day : but the God of my father hath been with me.

6 And you know that I have served your father to the uttermost of my power.

7 Yea your father hath also over-reached me, and hath changed my wages ten times : and yet God hath not suffered him to hurt me.

8 If at any time, he said : The speckled shall be thy wages : all the sheep brought forth speckled : but when he said on the contrary : Thou shalt take all the white ones for thy wages : all the flocks brought forth white ones.

9 And God hath taken your father's substance, and given it to me.

10 For after the time came of the ewes conceiving, I lifted up my eyes, and saw in my sleep, that the males which leaped upon the females were of divers colours, and spotted, and speckled.

11 And the angel of God said to me in my sleep : Jacob. And I answered : Here I am.

12 And he said : Lift up thy eyes, and see that all the males leaping upon the females, are of divers colours, spotted and speckled. For I have seen all that Laban hath done to thee.

* A. M. 2265, A. C. 1739.

Laban first began to violate the agreement ; and the angel of the Lord suggested to Jacob the plan by which he was preserved from serving a cruel and avaricious man without wages. Chap. xxxi. 12. M.

VER. 42. Later coming, in autumn, when the spring lambs were of an inferior value. These he was willing to abandon for the most part to Laban ; and therefore did not use his rods. Pliny viii. 47, and Columella viii. 3, agree, that the lambs which are produced in spring do not thrive so well as those of autumn, at least in Italy, and in those countries where sheep lamb twice a year. Bis gravida pecudes. Virg. C.

CHAP. XXXI. VER. 1. After that six years were expired, and calumnies and ill-will attended Jacob in Laban's family, God ordered him to retire, ver. 3. H.

VER. 7. Ten times. Very often, or perhaps this exact number of times, ver. 41.

VER. 8. All, or the far greatest part, so that I was exceedingly enriched. N.

VER. 12. I have seen with displeasure the injustice of Laban ; (H.) and therefore, I, the Lord of all things, authorize thee to act in this manner. By this

VER. 28. Give thee. He wishes to engage him to continue in his service ; being convinced that a faithful and pious servant is a great treasure. Laban promises every thing, and performs little according to agreement.

VER. 31. Nothing. I am willing to depart with my family towards my father. But if I must stay, these are my terms. H.

VER. 32. Speckled ; from those which are all of one colour. Those which should be of the former description must belong to Jacob, while all the black and the white should be Laban's. M.

VER. 33. Of theft, if they be found in my possession. I am so well convinced that God will reward my justice, that, even contrary to what might naturally be expected, he will enable me to have plenty of spotted sheep and goats, though their mothers be all of one colour. It is not certain that Jacob agreed to have the flocks parted till the end of the year. M.

VER. 35. His sons. These continued to observe the conduct of Jacob, while Laban drove off all the flocks of divers colours to so great a distance, (ver. 36,) that there was no danger of the sheep under Jacob's care getting to them. Thus

JACOB IN THE HOUSE OF LAEAN

13 I am the God of Bethel, ^a where thou didst anoint the stone, and make a vow to me. Now therefore arise, and go out of this land, and return into thy native country.

14 And Rachel and Lia answered: Have we any thing left among the goods and inheritance of our father's house?

15 Hath he not counted us as strangers, and sold us, and eaten up the price of us?

16 But God hath taken our father's riches, and delivered them to us, and to our children: wherefore, do all that God hath commanded thee.

17 Then Jacob rose up, and having set his children and wives upon camels, went his way.

18 And he took all his substance, and flocks, and whatsoever he had gotten in Mesopotamia, and went forward to Isaac, his father, to the land of Chanaan.

19 At that time Laban was gone to shear his sheep, and Rachel stole away her father's idols.

20 And Jacob would not confess to his father-in-law that he was flying away.

21 And when he was gone, together with all that belonged to him, and having passed the river, was going on towards mount Galaad, 22 It was told Laban on the third day, that Jacob fled.

23 And he took his brethren with him, and pursued after him seven days; and overtook him in the mount of Galaad.

24 And he saw in a dream God, saying to him: Take heed thou speak not any thing harshly against Jacob.

25 Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mountain: and when he, with his brethren, had overtaken him, he pitched his tent in the same mount of Galaad.

26 And he said to Jacob: Why hast thou done thus, to carry away, without my knowledge, my daughters, as captives taken with the sword?

27 Why wouldst thou run away privately, and not acquaint me, that I might have brought thee on the way with joy, and with songs, and with timbrels, and with harps?

28 Thou hast not suffered me to kiss my sons and daughters; thou hast done foolishly; and now indeed, 29 It is in my power to return thee evil; but the God of your father said to me yesterday: ^b Take heed thou speak not any thing harshly against Jacob.

30 Suppose thou didst desire to go to thy friends, and hadst a longing after thy father's house: why hast thou stolen away my gods?

31 Jacob answered: That I departed unknown to thee.

^a Supra, xxviii. 18.

vision the justice of Jacob would appear; and the authority for removing, given in a second vision, would suffice to induce the two principal wives of Jacob to give their consent to leave their father's house, and to begin a long journey. H.

VER. 15. Eaten up. Laban kept for himself the dowry paid by Jacob for his wives, though he ought to have allotted it to them, with the addition of something more, in proportion to his immense wealth. M.

VER. 18. To Isaac, who was still living, though he had apprehended death was at hand 20 years before. He continued to live other 20 years after. Salien.—Jacob spent about 10 years at Sichem and at Bethel before he went to dwell with Isaac. M.

VER. 19. Her father's idols. By this it appears that Laban was an idolater: and some of the Fathers are of opinion that Rachel stole away these idols to withdraw him from idolatry, by removing the occasion of his sin. Ch.—Others think she was herself infected with this superstition, till Jacob entirely banished it from his family in Chanaan. Chap. xxxv. 2. T.—The Heb. Teraphim, is translated images by the Protestants in this place, though it certainly denotes idols. But Osee ii. 4, they leave it untranslated, lest they should be forced to allow that images pertain to religious service, as well as sacrifice, &c., which are mentioned it was for fear lest thou wouldst take away thy daughters by force.

32 But, whereas, thou chargest me with theft: with whomsoever thou shalt find thy gods, let him be slain before our brethren. Search, and if thou find any of thy things with me, take them away. Now when he said this, he knew not that Rachel had stolen the idols.

33 So Laban went into the tent of Jacob, and of Lia, and of both the handmaids, and found them not. And when he was entered into Rachel's tent,

34 She, in haste, hid the idols under the camel's furniture, and sat upon them: and when he had searched all the tent, and found nothing,

35 She said: Let not my lord be angry that I cannot rise up before thee, because it has now happened to me according to the custom of women. So his careful search was in vain.

36 And Jacob being angry, said in a chiding manner: For what fault of mine, and for what offence on my part hast thou so hotly pursued me, 37 And searched all my household stuff? What hast thou found of all the substance of thy house? lay it here before my brethren, and thy brethren, and let them judge between me and thee.

38 Have I, therefore, been with thee twenty years? thy ewes and goats were not barren, the rams of thy flocks I did not eat:

39 Neither did I show thee that which the beast had torn; I made good all the damage: whatsoever was lost by theft, thou didst exact it of me:

40 Day and night was I parched with heat, and with frost, and sleep departed from my eyes.

41 And in this manner have I served thee in thy house twenty years, fourteen for thy daughters, and six for thy flocks: thou hast changed also my wages ten times.

42 Unless the God of my father, Abraham, and the fear of Isaac, had stood by me, peradventure now thou hadst sent me away naked: God beheld my affliction and the labour of my hands, and rebuked thee yesterday.

43 Laban answered him: The daughters are mine, and the children, and thy flocks, and all things that thou seest are mine: what can I do to my children, and grandchildren?

44 Come, therefore, let us enter into a league; that it may be for a testimony between me and thee.

45 And Jacob took a stone, and set it up for a title

^b Infra, xlviii. 16.

together, (W.) though they now indeed leave images in the same verse of Osee for what the Vulgate renders altar. These teraphims are consequently taken in a good as well as in a bad sense. H.

VER. 20. Away. Heb. "Jacob stole the heart of Laban," concealing his flight from him. M.

VER. 21. The river Euphrates.—Galaad, as it was called afterwards, ver. 48. M.

VER. 22. Third day. He was gone to shear his sheep, distant three days' journey.

VER. 24. Speak not. Laban did not comply exactly, but he used no violence. H.

VER. 36. Angry. He was extremely quiet. But patience abused turns to fury. M.

VER. 39. Exact it. Laban acted in opposition both to custom and to justice (C.) while Jacob forbore to claim what he might have done, agreeably to both. H.

VER. 42. The fear of Isaac; or of that God whom Isaac fears, on account of the danger to which he is exposed of losing his friendship; a thing which Abraham, being now departed in peace, has not to dread. C.

46 And he said to his brethren: Bring hither stones. And they, gathering stones together, made a heap, and they ate upon it.

47 And Laban called it, The witness heap; and Jacob, The hillock of testimony: each of them according to the propriety of his language.

48 And Laban said: This heap shall be a witness between me and thee this day, and therefore the name thereof was called Galaad, that is, the witness heap.

49 The Lord behold and judge between us, when we shall be gone one from the other.

50 If thou afflict my daughters, and if thou bring in other wives over them: none is witness of our speech but God, who is present and beholdeth.

51 And he said again to Jacob: Behold this heap, and the stone which I have set up between me and thee, 52 Shall be a witness: this heap, I say, and the stone, be they for a testimony, if either I shall pass beyond it going towards thee, or thou shalt pass beyond it thinking harm to me.

53 The God of Abraham, and the God of Nachor, the God of their father, judge between us. And Jacob swore by the fear of his father Isaac:

54 And after he had offered sacrifices in the mountain, he called his brethren to eat bread. And when they had eaten, they lodged there:

55 But Laban arose in the night, and kissed his sons and daughters, and blessed them: and returned to his place.

CHAP. XXXII.

Jacob's vision of angels: his message and presents to Esau: his wrestling with an angel.

JACOB also went on the journey he had begun: and the angels of God met him.^b

2 And when he saw them, he said: These are the camps of God, and he called the name of that place Mahanaim, that is, Camps.

3 And he sent messengers before him to Esau, his brother, to the land of Seir, to the country of Edom:

4 And he commanded them, saying: Thus shall ye speak to my lord Esau: Thus saith thy brother Jacob: I have sojourned with Laban, and have been with him until this day:

5 I have oxen, and asses, and sheep, and men-servants, and women-servants: and now I send a message to my lord, that I may find favour in thy sight.

6 And the messengers returned to Jacob, saying: We came to Esau, thy brother, and behold he cometh with speed to meet thee with four hundred men.

7 Then Jacob was greatly afraid; and in his fear divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and the sheep, and the oxen, and the camels, into two companies,

8 Saying: If Esau come to one company, and destroy it, the other company that is left, shall escape.

9 And Jacob said: O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac: O Lord who saidst to me, Return to thy land, and to the place of thy birth, and I will do well for thee.

10 I am not worthy of the least of all thy mercies, and of thy truth which thou hast fulfilled to thy servant. With my staff I passed over this Jordan; and now I return with two companies.

11 Deliver me from the hand of my brother Esau, for I am greatly afraid of him: lest perhaps he come, and kill the mother with the children.

12 Thou didst say, that thou wouldst do well by me, and multiply my seed like the sand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.

13 And when he had slept there that night, he set apart, of the things which he had, presents for his brother Esau,

14 Two hundred she-goats, twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes, and twenty rams, 15 Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine, and twenty bulls, twenty she-asses, and ten of their foals.

16 And he sent them by the hands of his servants, every drove by itself, and he said to his servants: Go before me, and let there be a space between drove and drove.

17 And he commanded the first, saying: If thou meet my brother Esau, and he ask thee: Whose art thou? or whither goest thou? or whose are these before thee?

18 Thou shalt answer: Thy servant Jacob's: he hath sent them as a present to my lord Esau; and he cometh after us.

19 In like manner he commanded the second, and the third, and all that followed the droves, saying: Speak ye the same words to Esau, when ye find him.

20 And ye shall add: Thy servant Jacob himself also followeth after us; for he said: I will appease him with the presents that go before, and afterwards I will see him, perhaps he will be gracious to me.

21 So the presents went before him, but himself lodged that night in the camp.

^a Infra, xlviii. 16.

^b A. M. 2265.

VER. 47. Testimony. Heb. makes Laban give this etymology, Jegar-sahadutha; while Galaad means the hill or the witness. The Syrian language had now begun to deviate some little from the Hebrew of Jacob.—Each, &c. This is added by the Vulgate. C.

VER. 49. Behold. Heb. “and Mispah,” or “Haminispah,” the watch-tower, whence God will see us. C.

VER. 50. Over them. A wise precaution, which the rich Turks still observe when they give their daughters in marriage. Busbeq. ep. 3.

VER. 51. I have, &c. One Sam. copy reads very properly, “thou hast set up,” (irith), ver. 45. Kennicott.

VER. 53. God of Nachor. Heb. uses Elohim, which is often applied to idols, such as Nachor worshipped along with the true God. C.—Jacob swears by the one only God, whom his father revered. M.—The God of their father, is omitted in the Sept., and is deemed an interpolation by Kennicott. The Sam. reads again the God of Abraham. H.

CHAP. XXXII. VER. 1. Angels. Guardians of Chanaan and Mesopotamia. Jarchi The latter escorted him as far as the torrent Jaboc. That angels guard different provinces, is well attested, Dan. xii. 1; Acts xvi. 9. C.—Michael protected Chanaan and the people of God. Diodorus of Tarsus. M.

VER. 2. Mahanaim, “two camps.” A town was afterwards built here.

VER. 3. Edom; comprising the countries east, west, and south of the Dead Sea. C.—Providentially, Esau had now left his father's house open to his brother; who, on this occasion, addresses him with the utmost civility, and speaks of the riches which he had obtained; in order that Esau might neither be ashamed of him, nor suspect that he would impoverish his father. M.

VER. 9. God of . . Isaac. It is not true, therefore, that God never has the title of the God of any man, while living, as some assert. Chap. xxxi. 42. Jacob addresses him by those very titles which he had assumed at Bethel. Chap. xxviii. 13. H.

VER. 15. Camels. The milk of these animals is most exquisite, being mixed with three parts water. Pliny xi. 41. The Arabs feed chiefly on their milk and flesh. S. Jer. c. Jor. ii. The value of all these presents may give us some idea of the prodigious wealth which God had heaped upon Jacob in the space of six years! H.

22 And rising early, he took his two wives and his two handmaids, with his eleven sons, and passed over the ford of Jaboc.

23 And when all things were brought over that belonged to him,

24 He remained alone; and behold, a man wrestled with him till morning.

25 And when he saw that he could not overcome him, he touched the sinew of his thigh, and forthwith it shrank.

26 And he said to him: Let me go, for it is break of day. He answered: I will not let thee go, except thou bless me.

27 And he said: What is thy name? He answered: Jacob.

28 But he said: Thy name shall not be called Jacob, but Israel; for if thou hast been strong against God, how much more shalt thou prevail against men?

29 Jacob asked him: Tell me by what name art thou called? He answered: Why dost thou ask my name? And he blessed him in the same place.

30 And Jacob called the name of the place Phanuel, saying: I have seen God face to face, and my soul has been saved.

31 And immediately the sun rose upon him, after he was past Phanuel; but he halted on his foot.

32 Therefore the children of Israel, unto this day, eat not the sinew, that shrank in Jacob's thigh: because he touched the sinew of his thigh and it shrank.

CHAP. XXXIII.

Jacob and Esau meet: Jacob goeth to Salem, where he raiseth an altar.

AND Jacob lifting up his eyes,^a saw Esau coming, and with him four hundred men: and he divided the children of Lia and of Rachel, and of the two handmaids.

2 And he put both the handmaids and their children foremost: and Lia and her children in the second place: and Rachel and Joseph last.

3 And he went forward and bowed down with his face to the ground seven times, until his brother came near.

4 Then Esau ran to meet his brother, and embraced him: and clasping him fast about the neck, and kissing him, wept.

5 And lifting up his eyes, he saw the women and their children, and said: What mean these? And do they belong to thee? He answered: They are the children which God hath given to me, thy servant.

6 Then the handmaids and their children came near and bowed themselves.

7 Lia also, with her children, came near and bowed down in like manner; and last of all, Joseph and Rachel bowed down.

8 And Esau said: What are the droves that I met? He answered: That I might find favour before my lord.

9 But he said: I have plenty, my brother, keep what is thine for thyself.

10 And Jacob said: Do not so I beseech thee, but if I have found favour in thy eyes, receive a little present at my hands: for I have seen thy face, as if I should have seen the countenance of God: be gracious to me,

11 And take the blessing which I have brought thee, and which God hath given me, who giveth all things. He took it with much ado at his brother's earnest pressing him, 12 And said: Let us go on together, and I will accompany thee in thy journey.

13 And Jacob said: My lord, thou knowest that I have with me tender children, and sheep, and kine with young: which if I should cause to be over-driven, in one day all the flocks will die.

14 May it please my lord to go before his servant: and I will follow softly after him, as I shall see my children to be able, until I come to my lord in Seir.

15 Esau answered: I beseech thee, that some of the people, at least, who are with me, may stay to accompany thee in the way. And he said: There is no necessity: I want nothing else but only to find favour, my lord, in thy sight.

16 So Esau returned that day, the way that he came to Seir.

17 And Jacob came to Socoth: where having built a house, and pitched tents, he called the name of the place Socoth, that is, Tents.

18 And he passed over to Salem, a city of the Sichemites, which is in the land of Chanaan, after he returned from Mesopotamia of Syria: and he dwelt by the town.

19 And he bought that part of the field, in which he pitched his tents, of the children of Hemor, the father of Sichem, for a hundred lambs.

^a A. M. 2265.

VER. 22. Sons, with Dina his daughter, and all his household.

VER. 24. A man, &c. This was an angel in human shape, as we learn from Osee xii. 4. He is called God, ver. 28 and 30, because he represented the person of the Son of God. This wrestling, in which Jacob, assisted by God, was a match for an angel, was so ordered, (ver. 28,) that he might learn by this experiment of the Divine assistance, that neither Esau, nor any other man, should have power to hurt him. It was also spiritual, as appeareth by his earnest prayer, urging, and at last obtaining, the angel's blessing. Ch.—The Father will not refuse a good gift to those who ask him with fervour and humility. Jacob had before set us an excellent pattern how to pray, placing his confidence in God, and distrusting himself, ver. 9, &c. H.

VER. 25. Sinew. This was to convince Jacob, how easily he could have gained the victory over him; and to make him remember, that it was not simply a vision, but a real wrestling. T.

VER. 28. Israel. This name was more honourable, and that by which his posterity were afterwards known; being called Israelites, and not Jacobites. God ratifies the title, chap. xxxv. 10. It means a prince of God, S. Jer. q. Heb. (C.) or one standing upright, and contending victoriously with God, rectus Dei. usur-al. H.

VER. 29. Why, &c. He represses Jacob's curiosity, (H.) perhaps because God did not as yet choose to reveal his name. Exod. vi. 3. Some Greek and Latin copies add, which is wonderful, taken from Judg. xiii. 6, 18. C.

VER. 30. Phanuel. This word signifies the face of God, or the sight, or seeing of God. Ch.—Jacob thus returns thanks to God for the preservation of his life, after having seen God or his angel in a corporeal form, and not in a dream only. C.

VER. 31. Halted, or was lame. Alulensis thinks the angel healed him very soon. M.

CHAP. XXXIII. VER. 3. Forward, before his family; like a good father, exposing himself to the greatest danger. M.—Seven times, to testify his great humility and respect for his brother. How, then, can any one find fault with Catholics, if they bow down before the cross thrice on Good Friday, to testify their great veneration for their expiring Lord?

VER. 8. Favour. Esau had already heard from the servants. But he asks again, meaning to excuse himself from receiving them. H.—This civil and unexpressed behaviour filled the breast of Jacob with such gratitude and love, that he made use of an hyperbole, I have seen, &c. . . of God. C.

VER. 14. In Seir; not immediately, but as soon as it might be convenient. This time perhaps never arrived. S. Aug. q. 106.

VER. 18. The town of Salem, which was the first town of Chanaan that he came near after his return. It was afterwards called Sichem, and Sichar, John iv. 5. and Naplosa.

VER. 19. Lambs. Heb. Kossite, or Kesita, a word which occurs also Job. xxvi. 32, and Job xlii. 11; and may signify lambs, or a species of money, marked perhaps with their figure. It may also denote pearls, coral, a vessel, or purse of 20 And raising an altar there, he invoked upon it the most mighty God of Israel.

CHAP. XXXIV.

Dina is ravished, for which the Sichenites are destroyed.

AND Dina the daughter of Lia went^a out to see the women of that country.

2 And when Sichem the son of Hemor the Hevite, the prince of that and, saw her, he was in love with her : and took her away, and lay with her, ravishing the virgin.

3 And his soul was fast knit unto her ; and whereas she was sad, he comforted her with sweet words.

4 And going to Hemor his father, he said : Get me this damsel to wife.

5 But when Jacob had heard this, his sons being absent, and employed in feeding the cattle, he held his peace till they came back.

6 And when Hemor the father of Sichem was come out to speak to Jacob,

7 Behold his sons came from the field : and hearing what had passed, they were exceeding angry, because he had done a foul thing in Israel, and committed an unlawful act, in ravishing Jacob's daughter.

8 And Hemor spoke to them : The soul of my son Sichem has a longing for your daughter : give her him to wife :

9 And let us contract marriages one with another : give us your daughters, and take you our daughters.

10 And dwell with us : the land is at your command, till, trade, and possess it.

11 Sichem also said to her father and to her brethren : Let me find favour in your sight ; and whatsoever you shall appoint I will give :

12 Raise the dowry, and ask gifts, and I will gladly give what you shall demand : only give me this damsel to wife.

13 The sons of Jacob answered Sichem and his father deceitfully, being enraged at the deflowering of their sister :

14 We cannot do what you demand, nor give our sister to one that is uncircumcised ; which with us is unlawful and abominable.

15 But in this we may be allied with you, if you will be like us, and all the male sex among you be circumcised :

^a A. M. circiter 2273, A. C. 1731.

16 Then will we mutually give and take your daughters, and ours ; and we will dwell with you, and will be one people :

17 But if you will not be circumcised, we will take our daughter and depart.

18 Their offer pleased Hemor, and Sichem, his son :

19 And the young man made no delay, but forthwith fulfilled what was required : for he loved the damsel exceedingly, and he was the greatest man in all his father's house.

20 And going into the gate of the city, they spoke to the people :

21 These men are peaceable, and are willing to dwell with us : let them trade in the land, and till it, which being large and wide wanteth men to till it : we shall take their daughters for wives, and we will give them ours.

22 One thing there is for which so great a good is deferred : We must circumcise every male among us, following the manner of the nation.

23 And their substance, and cattle, and all that they possess, shall be ours ; only in this let us condescend, and by dwelling together, we shall make one people.

24 And they all agreed, and circumcised all the males.

25 And behold the third day, when the pain of the wound was greatest : two of the sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, the brothers of Dina, taking their swords, entered boldly into the city, and slew all the men :^b

26 And they killed also Hemor and Sichem, and took away their sister Dina out of Sichem's house.

27 And when they were gone out, the other sons of Jacob came upon the slain ; and plundered the city in revenge of the rape.

28 And they took their sheep, and their herds, and their asses, wasting all they had in their houses and in their fields.

29 And their children and wives they took captive.

30 And when they had boldly perpetrated these things, Jacob said to Simeon and Levi : You have troubled me, and made me hateful to the Chanaanites and Pherezites, the inhabitants of this land. We are few : they will gather themselves together and kill me ; and both I, and my house shall be destroyed.

31 They answered : Should they abuse our sister as a strumpet ?

^b Infra, xlix. 6.

good money. S. Stephen, Acts vii. 19, mentions the price of money. But he probably speaks of the bargain made by Abraham with Ephron, son of Heth, for which some have substituted Hemor, the son of Sichem. Kista in the Chal. means a vessel or measure ; and we learn from Herodotus iii. 130, that the Persians were accustomed to keep their money in this manner.

VER. 20. The most, &c. Al-Alei-Issral. By this name he dignified the altar, consecrating his field and all his possessions to God, and acknowledging that all was his gift. H.

CHAP. XXXIV. VER. 1. Country, when a great festival was celebrated. Joseph. Ant. i. 18. Dina was urged by curiosity to see and to be seen. Let others take example from her, and beware of associating with infidels, and of opening their hearts to pleasure at fairs and nocturnal meetings.

VER. 7. In Israel, or against the honour and peace of their father and all his family.—An unlawful act, which some nevertheless commit without scruple, and even dare to represent as a matter of small consequence if they marry afterwards !

VER. 10. Command, or you are at liberty to purchase and till it as you please. H.

VER. 12. Dowry for Dina.—Gifts for her parents and brothers. Chap. xxiv. 53. C.

VER. 13. Deceitfully. The sons of Jacob, on this occasion, were guilty of a grievous sin, as well by falsely pretending religion, as by excess of their revenge.

Though, otherwise, their zeal against so foul a crime was commendable. Ch.—In this light it is viewed by Judith ix. 2. H.

VER. 14. Abominable. To be uncircumcised was a reproach among the Hebrews. Yet there was no law forbidding to marry such. Laban was of this description, and the Chanaanites also ; whose daughters the sons of Jacob themselves espoused, at least Juda and this very Simeon, as the Scripture assures us.

VER. 17. Our daughter, the only one of our father : who, it would hence appear, was detained by Hemor, ver. 26. C.

VER. 19. The greatest man, (inclytus,) perhaps associated to his father in the government of the town. H.

VER. 20. Gate. Here judgment was given, the markets held, &c. They endeavoured to convince the people, that the conditions offered would be for their interest. M.

VER. 25. Brothers of Dina by Lia, and both of a fiery temper. They were assisted by some servants, (M.) and afterwards the other children helped to pillage the city. Theodot. ap. Eus. ix. 22.

VER. 29. Captive. No doubt Jacob would force them to restore such ill-gotten goods. C.—They had acted without authority, and even contrary to the known disposition of their father. They rashly exposed him to destruction, which would inevitably have taken place, if God had not protected him. Chap. xxxv. 5. H.

VER. 31. Should they, &c. This answer, full of insolence, to a father who

CHAP. XXXV.

Jacob purgeth his family from idols : goeth, by God's commandment, to Bethel, and there buildeth an altar. God appearing again to Jacob, blesseth him, and changeth his name into Israel. Rachel dieth in child-birth. Isaac also dieth.

IN the mean time God said to Jacob : " Arise and go up to Bethel, and dwell there, and make there an altar to God, who appeared to thee when thou didst flee from Esau, thy brother.

2 And Jacob having called together all his household, said : Cast away the strange gods that are among you, and be cleansed, and change your garments.

3 Arise, and let us go up to Bethel, that we may make there an altar to God ; who heard me in the day of my affliction, and accompanied me in my journey.

4 So they gave him all the strange gods they had, and the ear-rings which were in their ears :^c and he buried them under the turpentine tree, that is behind the city of Sichem.

5 And when they were departed, the terror of God fell upon all the cities round about, and they durst not pursue after them as they went away.

6 And Jacob came to Luza, which is in the land of Chanaan, surnamed Bethel : he and all the people that were with him.

7 And he built there an altar, and called the name of that place, The house of God :^d for there God appeared to him when he fled from his brother.

8 At the same time Debora, the nurse of Rebecca, died, and was buried at the foot of Bethel, under an oak, and the name of that place was called, The oak of weeping.

9 And God appeared again to Jacob, after he returned from Mesopotamia of Syria, and he blessed him.

10 Saying : " Thou shalt not be called any more Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name. And he called him Israel.

11 And said to him : I am God almighty, increase thou and be multiplied. Nations and peoples of nations shall be from thee, and kings shall come out of thy loins.

12 And the land which I gave to Abraham and Isaac, I will give to thee, and to thy seed after thee.

13 And he departed from him.

^a A. M. 2273.—^b Supra, xxviii. 13.—^c Exod. xxxii. 20; 2 Kings xviii. 4.
^d Supra, xxviii. 18.—^e Supra, xxxii. 28.

was as much hurt by the indignity offered to Dina as they could be, heightens their crime. H.

CHAP. XXXV. VER. 1. God dissipates Jacob's well-grounded fears, and sends him to perform his vow. Chap. xviii. 13. H.

VER. 2. Strange gods, which his servants had reserved in the plundering of Sichem ; perhaps he had also been informed of Rachel's theft. D.—Garments ; put on your cleanest and best attire, to testify the purity with which you ought to approach to the service of God. M.—See Exod. xix. 10 ; Lev. xv. 13.

VER. 4. And the ear-rings. Heb. enzomin ; such as had been consecrated to some idol, and adorned the ears of those false but gaudy deities. M.—Men and women used them likewise, as phylacteries or talismans, to which many superstitious virtues were attributed. S. Aug. ep. 73, ad Posid. 9, iii. in Gen. ; Eze. xvi. 12 ; Prov. xxv. ; Ex. xxxv. ; Jud. viii. C.—The turpentine tree ; or " an oak tree," as the Heb. alun means also. Sept. adds, " and he destroyed them till this present day ; " which seems intended to refute the story of their being found and adored by the Samaritans, or employed by Solomon when he built the temple. Jacob buried them privately. C. See Deut. vii. 5.

VER. 5. Terror of God. A panic fear, which the pagans thought was sent by Pan. C.—God can easily make the most powerful flee before a few. S. Aug. q. 112.

VER. 7. To him. Heb. lit. " He called that place the God of Bethel, because there God (or the angels) appeared to him." Ealeim, with a verb plural, generally refers to angels ; when it is applied to God, the article is omitted, and the verb is singular. C.

VER. 8. Weeping. This shows the great respect they had for this good old servant. H.

14 But he set up a monument of stone, in the place where God had spoken to him : pouring drink-offerings upon it, and pouring oil thereon :

15 And calling the name of that place Bethel.

16 And going forth from thence, he came in the spring time to the land which leadeth to Ephrata : wherein when Rachel was in travail, 17 By reason of her hard labour, she began to be in danger, and the midwife said to her : Fear not, for thou shalt have this son also.

18 And when her soul was departing for pain, and death was now at hand, she called the name of her son Benoni, that is, the son of my pain : but his father called him Benjamin, that is, the son of the right hand.

19 So Rachel died, and was buried in the highway that leadeth to Ephrata, this is Bethlehem.

20 And Jacob erected a pillar over her sepulchre :^f this is the pillar of Rachel's monument, to this day.

21 Departing thence, he pitched his tent beyond the Flock tower.

22 And when he dwelt in that country, Ruben went, and slept with Bala the concubine of his father : which he was not ignorant of. Now the sons of Jacob were twelve.

23 The sons of Lia : Ruben the first-born, and Simeon, and Levi, and Juda, and Issachar, and Zabulon.

24 The sons of Rachel : Joseph and Benjamin.

25 The sons of Bala, Rachel's handmaid : Dan and Nephtali.

26 The sons of Zelpha, Lia's handmaid : Gad and Aser : these are the sons of Jacob, that were born to him in Mesopotamia of Syria.

27 And he came to Isaac his father in Mambre, the city of Arbee, this is Hebron : wherein Abraham and Isaac sojourned.

28 And the days of Isaac were a hundred and eighty years.

29 And being spent with age he died, and was gathered to his people, being old and full of days : and his sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

^f A. M. 2274, A. C. 1730.—^g Infra, xlviii. 7.—^h Infra, xlix. 4.
ⁱ A. M. 2275, A. C. 1729.—^k A. M. 2288.

VER. 10. Israel. This name signifies one that prevaileth with God ; (Ch.) and is more honourable and expressive than that of Jacob. God confirms what had been declared by his angel, chap. xxxii. 28.

VER. 12. And to, &c. And is often put by way of explanation. Chanaan was possessed by all the twelve sons of Jacob. Those of the handmaids are not excluded, as Ismael had been. W.

VER. 14. Set up either a fresh altar, or restored the stone which he had formerly used for sacrifice. S. Aug. q. 116.—Drink, wine.—Oil.

VER. 18. Benjamin. Jacob chooses to give his son a more auspicious name ; as the other would have reminded him too sensibly of his loss. H.

VER. 20. A pillar ; or sepulchral monument, about 500 paces north of Bethlehem, (H.) which was called Ephrata afterwards, from Caleb's wife. C.

VER. 21. Tower. Heb. Edar, about a mile to the east of Bethlehem, where the angels appeared to announce the birth of Christ. S. Helen built a temple there in honour of the angels. T.—Shepherds had such places to keep watch C.—There was a tower of this name near Jerusalem. Mic. iv. 8. S. Jer. q. His.

VER. 22. The concubine. She was his lawful wife ; but according to the style of the Hebrews, is called concubine, because of her servile extraction. Ch.—Ignorant of ; and therefore, to mark his displeasure, he deprived him of the birth-right. Chap. xlix. 4.

VER. 26. Syria, all except Benjamin. C.—All frequently means the greatest part. H.

VER. 29. Spent. He lived 42 years after he had blessed Jacob.—His people, in the bosom of Abraham, in limbo.—Full of days, quite satisfied. C.—Esau, who had always shown a great regard for his father, joins his brother in rendering to him the last rites of burial. H.—Rebecca was probably dead. M.—The death

CHAP. XXXVI.

Esau with his wives and children parteth from Jacob. An account of his descendants, and of the first kings of Edom.

AND these are the generations of Esau, the same is Edom.

2 Esau took wives of the daughters of Chanaan: Ada the daughter of Elon the Hethite, and Oolibama the daughter of Ana, the daughter of Sebeon the Hevite:

3 And Basemath, the daughter of Ismael, sister of Nabajoth.

4 *And Ada bore Eliphaz: Basemath bore Rahuel.

5 Oolibama bore Jehus, and Ihelon, and Core. These are the sons of Esau, that were born to him in the land of Chanaan.

6 And Esau took his wives, and his sons and daughters, and every soul of his house, and his substance, and cattle, and all that he was able to acquire in the land of Chanaan: and went into another country, and departed from his brother Jacob.

7 ^bFor they were exceeding rich, and could not dwell together; neither was the land in which they sojourned, able to bear them, for the multitude of their flocks.

8 *And Esau dwelt in mount Seir: he is Edom.

9 And these are the generations of Esau, the father of Edom, in mount Seir.

10 And these the names of his sons: *Eliphaz, the son of Ada, the wife of Esau: and Rahuel, the son of Basemath, his wife.

11 And Eliphaz had sons: Theman, Omar, Sepho, and Gatham and Cenez.

12 And Thamna was the concubine of Eliphaz, the son of Esau: and she bore him Amalech. These are the sons of Ada, the wife of Esau.

13 And the sons of Rahuel: were Nahath and Zara, Samma and Meza. These were the sons of Basemath, the wife of Esau.

14 And these were the sons of Oolibama, the daughter of Ana, the daughter of Sebeon, the wife of Esau, whom she bore to him, Jehus, and Ihelon, and Core.

15 These were dukes of the sons of Esau: the sons of Eliphaz, the first-born of Esau: duke Theman, duke Omar, duke Sepho, duke Cenez, 16 Duke Core, duke Gatham, duke Amalech: these are the sons of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom, and these the sons of Ada.

^a 1 Par. i. 35.—^b Supra, xiii. 6.—^c Jos. xxiv. 4.

of Isaac is mentioned out of its place, that the history of Joseph may not be interrupted, as it happened when Joseph was in prison, A. 2288. C.

CHAP. XXXVI. VER. 1. Edom. His genealogy extends as far as ver. 20, where that of Seir, the Horrite, begins. The seven first verses specify Esau's sons, the twelve next his grandsons born in Seir. From the 15th to the 20th verse, we have the most ancient form of government in that nation under the Aluphim, or heads of families. To them succeed kings, (ver. 31 to 40,) and then dukes to the end. Moses omits several generations of Oolibama's grandchildren, as foreign to his purpose, which was to show the Israelites whom they were not to molest. C.

VER. 2. Ada. These wives of Esau are called by other names, chap. xxvi. But it was very common amongst the ancients for the same persons to have two names, as Esau himself was also called Edom. Cl. — Ana, the daughter of Sebeon. It is not certain that Ana was a woman. The Sam. and Sept. make him son of Sebeon, both here and ver. 14, (H.) as well as some Latin copies; and he is mentioned as such, ver. 24. The daughter of Sebeon may, therefore, designate his grand-daughter, which is not unusual. C.—This, and innumerable other difficulties, may convince Protestants that the Scriptures are not easy. W.

VER. 4. Eliphaz: perhaps the Themanite, and friend of Job, (S. Jer.) or his 17 And these were the sons of Rahuel, the son of Esau: duke Nahath, duke Zara, duke Samma, duke Meza. And these are the dukes of Rahuel, in the land of Edom: these the sons of Basemath, the wife of Esau.

18 And these the sons of Oolibama, the wife of Esau: duke Jehus, duke Ihelon, duke Core. These are the dukes of Oolibama, the daughter of Ana, and wife of Esau.

19 These are the sons of Esau, and these the dukes of them: the same is Edom.

20 *These are the sons of Seir, the Horrite, the inhabitants of the land: Lotan, and Sobal, and Sebeon, and Ana, 21 And Dison, and Eser, and Disan. These are dukes of the Horrites, the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom.

22 And Lotan had sons: Hori and Heman. And the sister of Lotan was Thamna.

23 And these the sons of Sobal: Alvan, and Manahat, and Ebal, and Sepho, and Onam.

24 And these the sons of Sebeon: Aia and Ana. This is Ana that found the hot waters in the wilderness, when he fed the asses of Sebeon, his father:

25 And he had a son Dison, and a daughter Oolibama.

26 And these were the sons of Dison; Hamdan, and Eseban, and Jethram, and Charan.

27 These also were the sons of Eser: Balaan, and Zavan, and Acan.

28 And Dison had sons: Hus and Aram.

29 These were dukes of the Horrites: duke Lotan, duke Sobal, duke Sebeon, duke Ana, 30 Duke Dison, duke Eser, duke Disan: these were dukes of the Horrites that ruled in the land of Seir.

31 And the kings that ruled in the land of Edom, before the children of Israel had a king, were these:

32 Bela the son of Beor, and the name of his city Denaba.

33 And Bela died, and Jobab, the son of Zara, of Bosra, reigned in his stead.

34 And when Jobab was dead, Husam, of the land of the Themanites, reigned in his stead.

35 And after his death, Adad, the son of Badad, reigned in his stead, who defeated the Madianites in the country of Moab; and the name of his city was Avith.

36 And when Adad was dead, there reigned in his stead, Semla, of Masreca.

^d 1 Par. i. 35.—^e 1 Par. i. 38.

grandfather, by Theman; as Job was the grandson of Esau, and the second king, ver. 33. T.

VER. 6. Jacob, by the Divine providence, as Chanaan was to be his inheritor. M.—He had returned from Seir about the same time as Jacob came home S. Aug. c. 119.

VER. 9. Of Edom, or of all the nations who inhabited Idumea, sprung from Esau's grandchildren. C.

VER. 15. Heb. Aluph, prince of a tribe, or of a thousand; a Chiliarch. Zach. v. 2. The Rabbin assert they wore not a crown, as the kings did. C.—Both obtained their authority by election. An aristocracy prevailed under the dukes. M.

VER. 16. Duke Core, being the son of Esau, is omitted in the Sam. though found in all the versions and Heb. Ken.

VER. 24. Hot waters. Medicinal, (M.) like the springs at Bath, &c. H.

VER. 31. A king. These kings were probably foreigners, who subdued the natives. They did not obtain the kingdom by succession. C.

VER. 33. Jobab. Most people suppose this is Job, the model of patience. M.—Bosra. or Bezer, was the capital of Idumea, in the tribe of Ruben. C.

37 And he being dead, Saul, of the river Rohoboth, reigned in his stead.

38 And when he also was dead, Balanan, the son of Achobor, succeeded to the kingdom.

39 This man also being dead, Adar reigned in his place; and the name of his city was Phau: and his wife was called Meetabel, the daughter of Matred, daughter of Mezaab.

40 And these are the names of the dukes of Esau in their kindreds, and places, and callings: duke Thamna, duke Alva, duke Jetheth,

41 Duke Oolibama, duke Ela, duke Phinon,

42 Duke Cenez, duke Theman, duke Mabsar,

43 Duke Magdiel, duke Hiram: these are the dukes of Edom dwelling in the land of their government; the same is Esau, the father of the Edomites.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Joseph's dreams: he is sold by his brethren, and carried into Egypt.

AND Jacob dwelt in the land of Chanaan, wherein his father sojourned *

2 And these are his generations: "Joseph, when he was sixteen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren, being but a boy: and he was with the sons of Bala and of Zelphia his father's wives: and he accused his brethren to his father of a most wicked crime.

3 Now Israel loved Joseph above all his sons, because he had him in his old age: and he made him a coat of divers colours.

4 And his brethren seeing that he was loved by his father, more than all his sons, hated him, and could not speak peaceably to him.

5 Now it fell out also that he told his brethren a dream, that he had dreamed: which occasioned them to hate him the more.

6 And he said to them: Hear my dream which I dreamed.

7 I thought we were binding sheaves in the field: and my sheaf arose as it were, and stood, and your sheaves standing about bowed down before my sheaf.

* A. M. 2276. A. C. 1728.

VER. 37. River Rohoboth; or as it is expressed, 1 Par. i. 48, of Rohoboth, which is near the river Euphrates, below where the Chaboras empties itself.

VER. 39. Adar. Many confound him with the king whom David overcame. — Daughter of Mezaab, or perhaps her grand-daughter, or adopted child.

VER. 40. Callings. They left their names to various places. They were in power when the Hebrews approached their respective territories, and threw them into dismay. Exod. xv. 15. — Alva. Sept. gola. C.

VER. 43. The same Edom is Esau. Moses seems particularly attentive to assert both titles for the same person, ver. 8, &c. The time of Esau's death cannot be ascertained. There is reason to hope that he died penitent; though in the early part of his life he gave way to his ferocious temper, and became a figure of the reprobate. He lived on terms of friendship with his brother, assisted him to bury his father, &c. C. — He was a hunter, indeed; which S. Jerom looks upon as a bad sign: "nunquam venatore in bonam partem legi," in Mic. v. But this was also in his younger days. H. — I have hated Esau, Matt. i., refers to his irreligious posterity, and to his being deprived of temporal advantages, attending the birth-right. T. C.

CHAP. XXXVII. VER. 1. Sojourned at Hebron and the environs. H.

VER. 2. Generations. This connects his history with chap. xxxv. What happened to Jacob and his sons, and particularly to Joseph, forms the subject of the remaining part of Genesis. H. — Old; complete, or beginning "his 17th year," as the Heb., Chal., and Sept. have it. — The sons. Perhaps these were not so much enraged against Joseph, till he told his father of their scandalous behaviour, in order that he might put a stop to it.

VER. 3. Old age, and therefore expected to have no more children; but he loved him still more on account of his innocent and sweet behaviour (M.): in which sense the Sam., Chal., &c. have, "because he was a wise and prudent boy." C.

8 His brethren answered. Shalt thou be our king? or shall we be subject to thy dominion? Therefore this matter of his dreams and words ministered nourishment to their envy and hatred.

9 He dreamed also another dream, which he told his brethren, saying: I saw in a dream, as it were the sun, and the moon, and eleven stars worshipping me.

10 And when he had told this to his father, and brethren, his father rebuked him and said: What meaneth this dream that thou hast dreamed? shall I, and thy mother, and thy brethren worship thee upon the earth.

11 His brethren therefore envied him: but his father considered the thing with himself.

12 And when his brethren abode in Sichem, feeding their father's flocks,

13 Israel said to him: Thy brethren feed the sheep in Sichem: come, I will send thee to them. And when he answered:

14 I am ready: he said to him: Go, and see if all things be well with thy brethren, and the cattle: and bring me word again what is doing. So being sent from the vale of Hebron, he came to Sichem:

15 And a man found him there wandering in the field, and asked what he sought.

16 But he answered: I seek my brethren, tell me where they feed the flocks.

17 And the man said to him: They are departed from this place: for I heard them say: Let us go to Dothain. And Joseph went forward after his brethren, and found them in Dothain.

18 And when they saw him afar off, before he came nigh them, they thought to kill him:

19 And said one to another: Behold the dreamer cometh.

20 Come, let us kill him, and cast him into some old pit: and we will say: Some evil beast hath devoured him: and then it shall appear what his dreams avail him.

21 And Ruben hearing this, endeavoured to deliver him out of their hands, and said:

b Supra, xxxv. 27. — c Infra, xlii. 22.

VER. 4. Could not, through envy, which caused them to notice every little distinction shown to Joseph. They perceived he was the most beloved. His accusing them, and insinuating by his mysterious dreams that he would be their lord, heightened their rage. H.

VER. 5. A dream. These dreams of Joseph were prophetical, and sent from God, as were also those which he interpreted, chap. xl. and xli.; otherwise, generally speaking, the observing of dreams is condemned in the Scripture as superstitious and sinful. See Deut. xviii. 10; and Eccle. xxxiv. 2, 3.

VER. 7. Sheaf. Joseph probably knew not what this portended, as the prophets were sometimes ignorant of the real purport of their visions. C. — But it admirably foreshadowed the famine which would bring his brethren to adore him in Egypt. M.

VER. 9. The sun. This second dream confirmed the truth of the former. Joseph relates it with simplicity, not suspecting the ill will of his brethren: but his father easily perceives what effect the narration would have, and desires him to be more cautious. S. Aug. (q. 123) observes, this was never literally verified in Joseph, but it was in Jesus Christ, whom he prefigured. C.

VER. 10. Worship. This word is not used here to signify Divine worship, but an inferior veneration, expressed by the bowing of the body, and that, according to the manner of the eastern nations, down to the ground.

VER. 16. My brethren. The man was acquainted with Jacob's family, as he had dwelt in those parts for a long time. H.

VER. 17. Dothain: twelve miles to the north of Samaria. Euseb.

VER. 19. The dreamer. Heb. Bāl eelmuth, "the lord of dreams," or the visionary lord (C.); or one who feigns dreams: so the Jews say of our Saviour, this seducer. H.

VER. 20. Pit: walled round to contain water: Heb. Bur. Bur means a well that has no walls M

22 Do not take away his life, nor shed his blood: but cast him into this pit, that is in the wilderness, and keep your hands harmless: now he said this, being desirous to deliver him out of their hands and to restore him to his father

23 And as soon as he came to his brethren, they forthwith stript him of his outside coat, that was of divers colours:

24 And cast him into an old pit where there is no water.

25 And sitting down to eat bread, they saw some Ismaelites on their way coming from Galaad, with their camels, carrying spices, and balm, and myrrh to Egypt.

26 And Juda said to his brethren: What will it profit us to kill our brother, and conceal his blood?

27 It is better that he be sold to the Ismaelites, and that our hands be not defiled: for he is our brother and our flesh. His brethren agreed to his words.

28 *And when the Madianite merchants passed by, they drew him out of the pit, and sold him to the Ismaelites, for twenty pieces of silver: and they led him into Egypt.^b

29 And Ruben returning to the pit, found not the boy:

30 And rending his garments he went to his brethren, and said: The boy doth not appear, and whither shall I go?

31 And they took his coat, and dipped it in the blood of a kid, which they had killed:

32 Sending some to carry it to their father, and to say: This we have found: see whether it be thy son's coat, or not.

33 And the father acknowledging it, said: It is my son's coat, an evil wild beast hath eaten him, a beast hath devoured Joseph.

34 And tearing his garments, he put on sackcloth, mourning for his son a long time.

35 And all his children being gathered together to comfort their father in his sorrow, he would not receive comfort, but said: I will go down to my son into hell mourning. And whilst he continued weeping, 36 The Madianites sold Joseph in Egypt to Putiphar an eunuch of Pharaoh, captain of the soldiers.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

The sons of Juda: the death of Her and Onan: the birth of Phares and Zara.

AT that time Juda went down from his brethren, and turned in to a certain Odollamite, named Hiras.

2 *And he saw there the daughter of a man of Chanaan, called Sue: and taking her to wife, he went in unto her.

3 And she conceived, and bore a son, and called his name Her.

4 *And conceiving again, she bore a son, and called him Onan.

5 She bore also a third: whom she called Sela. After whose birth, she ceased to bear any more.

6 And Juda took a wife for Her, his first-born, whose name was Tamar.

7 *And Her, the first-born of Juda, was wicked in the sight of the Lord: and was slain by him.

8 Juda, therefore, said to Onan his son: Go in to thy brother's wife and marry her, that thou mayst raise seed to thy brother.

9 He knowing that the children should not be his, when he went in to his brother's wife, he spilled his seed upon the ground, lest children should be born in his brother's name.

10 And therefore the Lord slew him, because he did a detestable thing:

11 Wherefore Juda said to Tamar his daughter-in-law: Remain a widow in thy father's house, till Sela my son grow up: for he was afraid lest he also might die, as his brethren did. She went her way, and dwelt in her father's house.

12 And after many days were past: the daughter of Sue the wife of Juda died: and when he had taken comfort after his mourning, he went up to Thamnias, to the shearers of his sheep, he and Hiras the Odollamite, the shepherd of his flock.

* Wis. x. 13.—^b A. M. 2276, A. C. 1728.

* 1 Par. ii. 1.—^d Num. xxvi. 19.—^e Num. xxvi. 19.

VER. 22. His father. Ruben wished to regain his father's favour. Chap. xxxv. 22.

VER. 25. Some: a caravan of merchants. D.—Balm, or rosin; "that of Syria resembles attic honey." Plin.—Myrrh, (stacten); Heb. Lot: "drops of myrrh or laudanum, or of the Lotus tree." C.

VER. 28. Of silver. Some have read, thirty pieces of gold or silver. S. Amb. c. 3.—The price was trifling: twenty sicles would be about £2 5s. 7½d. English. H.

VER. 29. Ruben, who in the mean time had been absent while his brethren hearkened to the proposal of Juda only, and therefore consented to this evil. H.

VER. 33. A beast. So he might reasonably conclude from the blood, and from the insinuations of the messengers sent by his ten sons, (H.) whom he would not suspect of so heinous a crime. Wild beasts infested that country. M.

VER. 34. Sack-cloth, or hair-cloth, cilicio. These garments were made very close, like a sack, of the hair taken from the goats of Cilicia, which grew long, rough, and of a dark colour. C.—Long time; twenty-three years, till he heard of his son being still alive. M.

VER. 35. Into hell; that is, into limbo, the place where the souls of the just were received before the death of our Redeemer. For allowing that the word hell sometimes is taken for the grave, it cannot be so taken in this place; since Jacob did not believe his son to be in the grave, (whom he supposed to be devoured by a wild beast,) and therefore could not mean to go down to him thither: but certainly meant the place of rest, where he believed his soul to be. Ch.—Protestants here translate it, "the grave," being unwilling to admit a third place in the other world for the soul. See the contrary in S. Aug. ep. 99, ad Evod. de C. D. xx. 15. W.

VER. 36. An eunuch. This word sometimes signifies a chamberlain, courtier or officer of the king: and so it is taken in this place. Ch.—Soldiers, cooks, or butchers. C.

CHAP. XXXVIII. VER. 1. At that time Juda, twenty years old, married the daughter of Sue, and has three sons by her during the three following years. The first takes Tamar to wife, when he was seventeen. Onan marries her the next year; after which she remains a widow about three years, when she bears twins to Juda. Phares goes down with him into Egypt, and has children there during Jacob's life. On this account they are numbered among those who went down with Jacob, (chap. xlv. 12,) as the children of Benjamin seem to be likewise. Thus all these events might happen during the twenty-three years that Jacob dwelt in Chanaan, and the seventeen that he sojourned in Egypt. Some have thought the time too short, and have concluded that Juda had been married long before Joseph's slavery. He was, however, only four years older. C.

VER. 5. Sela. Juda gave the name of Her to his first-born, as the Heb. shows. His wife gave names to the two latter.

VER. 8. Wife. This was then customary among the Chanaanites, as Philo insinuates. It also continued to be practised in Egypt till the year of Christ 491 at least, when the marriage had not been consummated. Moses established it as a law, when no issue had sprung from the deceased brother. C. Deut. xxv. 5. The eldest son bore his name; the rest were called after their own father. This law is now abrogated; and the prohibition, which has been issued by the Church, can be dispensed with only by herself, (W.) as was the case in the marriage of Henry VIII. with Catharine, the virgin relict of his brother Arthur. H.

VER. 11. Till. Juda had no design to give her to Sela, as the custom of that age required. C.—She waited patiently for a time; when, perceiving that she was neglected, she devised a wicked scheme to punish Juda, even at the hazard of her own life. H.

13 And it was told Thamar that her father-in-law was come up to Thamnas to shear his sheep.

14 And she put off the garments of her widowhood, and took a veil: and changing her dress, sat in the cross way, that leadeth to Thamnas: because Sela was grown up, and she had not been married to him.

15 When Juda saw her, he thought she was a harlot: for she had covered her face, lest she should be known.

16 And going to her, he said: Suffer me to lie with thee: for he knew her not to be his daughter-in-law. And she answered: What wilt thou give me to enjoy my company?

17 He said: I will send thee a kid out of the flock. And when she said again: I will suffer what thou wilt, if thou give me a pledge, till thou send what thou promisest.

18 Juda said: What wilt thou have for a pledge? She answered: Thy ring and bracelet, and the staff which thou holdest in thy hand. The woman therefore at one copulation conceived.

19 And she arose and went her way: and putting off the apparel which she had taken, put on the garments of her widowhood.

20 And Juda sent a kid by his shepherd, the Odolamite, that he might receive the pledge again, which he had given to the woman: but he, not finding her,

21 Asked the men of that place: Where is the woman that sat in the cross way? And when they all made answer: There was no harlot in this place,

22 He returned to Juda, and said to him: I have not found her; moreover, the men of that place said to me, that there never sat a harlot there.

23 Juda said: Let her take it to herself, surely she cannot charge us with a lie, I sent the kid which I promised: and thou didst not find her.

24 And behold, after three months, they told Juda, saying: Thamar, thy daughter-in-law, hath played the harlot, and she appeareth to have a big belly. And Juda said: Bring her out that she may be burnt.

25 But when she was led to execution, she sent to her father-in-law, saying: By the man, to whom these things belong, I am with child. See whose ring, and bracelet, and staff this is.

26 But he acknowledging the gifts, said: She is juster than I: because I did not give her to Sela, my son. However he knew her no more.

27 ^aAnd when she was ready to be brought to bed, there appeared twins in her womb: and in the very delivery of the infants, one put forth a hand, whereon the midwife tied a scarlet thread, saying:

28 This shall come forth the first.

29 But he drawing back his hand, the other came forth: and the woman said: Why is the partition divided for thee? and therefore called his name Phares.

30 ^bAfterwards his brother came out, on whose hand was the scarlet thread: and she called his name Zara.

CHAP. XXXIX.

Joseph hath charge of his master's house: rejecteth his mistress's solicitations is falsely accused by her, and cast into prison, where he hath the charge of all the prisoners.

AND Joseph was brought into Egypt, and Putiphar, an eunuch of Pharaoh, chief captain of the army, an Egyptian, bought him of the Ismaelites, by whom he was brought.

2 And the Lord was with him, and he was a prosperous man in all things: and he dwelt in his master's house:

3 Who knew very well that the Lord was with him, and made all that he did to prosper in his hand.

4 And Joseph found favour in the sight of his master, and ministered to him: and being set over all by him, he governed the house committed to him, and all things that were delivered to him:

5 And the Lord blessed the house of the Egyptian for Joseph's sake, and multiplied all his substance, both at home and in the fields.

6 Neither knew he any other thing, but the bread which he ate. And Joseph was of a beautiful countenance, and comely to behold.

7 ^cAnd after many days, his mistress cast her eyes on Joseph, and said: Lie with me.

8 But he in no wise consenting to that wicked act, said to her: Behold, my master hath delivered all things to me, and knoweth not what he hath in his own house:

9 Neither is there any thing which is not in my power, or that he hath not delivered to me, but thee, his wife; how then can I do so wicked a thing, and sin against my God?

10 With such words as these day by day, both the

^a Matt. i. 3.—^b 1 Par. ii. 4.

^c A. M. circiter 2286, A. C. 1718.

VER. 14. Veil (theristrum); a long robe, covering the whole body, except the eyes. Thus she was disguised; or, as it were, masked, as Aquila translates. Harlots herein imitated modest women. Chap. xxiv. 65.—Cross way. Heb. Anin, which the Sept. and Syr. take for a proper name.

VER. 18. Staff. These were all marks of dignity. "Kings made use of spears, or sceptres, before they wore a diadem." Trogus. 43. C.—She was guilty of a sort of adultery, being engaged to Sela; and also of incest, &c.; whereas the fault of Juda, through ignorance of her person, was simply fornication; which is, however, always contrary to the law of nature, as the pagans themselves confessed. Grot. in Matt. v. C.—From Christ's choosing to be born of such progenitors, we may learn to adore his humility and tender regard for sinners. II.

VER. 23. A lie. Heb. "lest we be exposed to shame," by making any further search. M.

VER. 25. Execution. The Rabbin say she was to be marked with a hot iron. If she was to die, before she was delivered, God prevented the cruel sentence from taking effect. H.—Many nations have punished adultery with fire. Moses commanded the daughters of priests, who should be detected in this crime, to be given to the flames, (Lev. xxi. 9,) and others to be stoned (Lev. xx. 10); whence the Rabbin have concluded, that Thamar was a priest's daughter. C.

VER. 26. Juster. For Juda had been guilty of injustice; and had thus exposed her to the danger of following a life of lewdness. H.—She remained a widow afterwards, as she was now rendered unfit to be married either to Juda or Sela. The latter married another woman. Num. xxvi. 19. C.

VER. 29. Phares. That is, a breach or division. Ch.

VER. 30. Zara. "Orient, or rising;" in whose hand the red riband denoted, that the blood of Christ is the source of all our merits and happiness. These two brothers were a type of the vocation of the Gentiles, and of the reprobation of the Jews, who lost the privileges to which they thought themselves entitled. S. Iren. iv. 42. S. Chrys. &c. C.—Phares was the ancestor of Jesus Christ. S. Matt. i. 3.

CHAP. XXXIX. VER. 1. Ismaelites. They are called Madianites. Chap. xxxvii. 36. H.

VER. 6. Bread. A proverbial expression, to show how entirely he reposed in Joseph's fidelity and prudence. M.—He was so rich, that he knew not the extent of his wealth. It may also be understood as a commendation of Joseph's disinterestedness.

VER. 7. Many days. About 10 years; as Joseph was 30, three years after this. C.

VER. 9. My God, Aleim; which might also be understood of his lord and master. The sin against the latter would be resented by God, who is offended by every transgression. H.

woman was importunate with the young man, and he refused the adultery.

11 Now it happened on a certain day, that Joseph went into the house, and was doing some business, without any man with him :

12 And she catching the skirt of his garment, said : Lie with me. But he leaving the garment in her hand, fled, and went out.

13 And when the woman saw the garment in her hands, and herself disregarded,

14 She called to her the men of her house, and said to them : See, he hath brought in a Hebrew, to abuse us : he came in to me, to lie with me ; and when I cried out,

15 And he heard my voice, he left the garment that I held, and got him out.

16 For a proof therefore of her fidelity, she kept the garment, and showed it to her husband when he returned home :

17 And said : The Hebrew servant, whom thou hast brought, came to me to abuse me.

18 And when he heard me cry, he left the garment which I held, and fled out.

19 His master hearing these things, and giving too much credit to his wife's words, was very angry,

20 And cast Joseph into the prison, where the king's prisoners were kept, and he was there shut up.

21 But the Lord was with Joseph, and having mercy upon him gave him favour in the sight of the chief keeper of the prison :

22 Who delivered into his hand all the prisoners that were kept in custody : and whatsoever was done, was under him.

23 Neither did he himself know any thing, having committed all things to him : for the Lord was with him, and made all that he did to prosper.

CHAP. XL.

Joseph interpreteth the dreams of two of Pharaoh's servants in prison : the event declareth the interpretations to be true, but Joseph is forgotten.

AFTER this, it came to pass, that two eunuchs, the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, offended their lord.

2 And Pharaoh being angry with them, (now the one was chief butler, the other chief baker,)

3 He sent them to the prison of the commander of the soldiers, in which Joseph also was prisoner.

* Psal. civ. 18.

VER. 16. A proof of her fidelity : or an argument to gain credit. Ch.—Love, neglected, turns to fury. She wishes to take away Joseph's life, according to the laws of Egypt against adulterers.

VER. 19. Too much. The proof was of an ambiguous nature. But Putiphar perhaps thought it unbecoming to distrust his wife, or to interrogate his slave. H.

VER. 21. Keeper. Pterius thinks this was the same Putiphar, who, recognising the innocence of Joseph, allows him every indulgence in prison ; but does not liberate him, for fear of the dishonour and resentment of his wife. C.—He had before put him in irons. Psal. civ. 18 ; Wis. x. 13.

CHAP. XL. VER. 1. Two eunuchs ; chief officers, and high in dignity, as the Heb. expresses it, ver. 2. H.—Offended, perhaps, by stealing, or by some treasonable conspiracy. M.

VER. 2. And, &c. Heb. "Pharaoh was enraged against two of his officers ; against the chief of the butlers," &c. Moske. S. Jerom translates this word procurator domus, "steward of the house." Chap. xv. 2. No slave was intrusted with these high offices in the courts of Egypt and of Persia.

VER. 3. Commander. Putiphar. C.—Prisoner, though his chains were struck off. M.

VER. 5. According to, &c., foreshowing what would happen to them, as Joseph afterwards interpreted the dreams. T

4 But the keeper of the prison delivered them to Joseph, and he served them. Some little time passed, and they were kept in custody.

5 And they both dreamed a dream the same night, according to the interpretation agreeing to themselves :

6 And when Joseph was come in to them in the morning, and saw them sad,

7 He asked them, saying : Why is your countenance sadder to-day than usual ?

8 They answered : We have dreamed a dream, and there is nobody to interpret it to us. And Joseph said to them : Doth not interpretation belong to God ? Tell me what you have dreamed :

9 The chief butler first told his dream : I saw before me a vine,

10 On which were three branches, which by little and little sent out buds, and after the blossoms brought forth ripe grapes :

11 And the cup of Pharaoh was in my hand ; and I took the grapes, and pressed them into the cup which I held, and I gave the cup to Pharaoh.

12 Joseph answered : This is the interpretation of the dream : The three branches, are yet three days :

13 After which Pharaoh will remember thy service, and will restore thee to thy former place : and thou shalt present him the cup according to thy office, as before thou wast wont to do.

14 Only remember me when it shall be well with thee, and do me this kindness : to put Pharaoh in mind to take me out of this prison :

15 For I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews, and here without any fault was cast into the dungeon.

16 The chief baker seeing that he had wisely interpreted the dream, said : I also dreamed a dream, That I had three baskets of meal upon my head :

17 And that in one basket which was uppermost, I carried ail meats that are made by the art of baking, and that the birds ate out of it.

18 Joseph answered : This is the interpretation of the dream : The three baskets, are yet three days :

19 After which Pharaoh will take thy head from thee, and hang thee on a cross, and the birds shall tear thy flesh.

20 The third day after this was the birth-day of Pharaoh : and he made a great feast for his servants, and

b A. M. 2287, A. C. 1717.

VER. 8. Doth not interpretation belong to God ? When dreams are from God, as these were, the interpretation of them is a gift of God. But the generality of dreams are not of this sort ; but either proceed from the natural complexions and dispositions of person or the roving of their imaginations in the day on such objects as they are much affected with, or from their mind being disturbed with cares and troubles, and oppressed with bodily infirmities : or they are suggested by evil spirits, to flatter, or to terrify weak minds ; in order to gain belief, and so draw them into error or superstition ; or at least to trouble them in their sleep, whom they cannot move when they are awake : so that the general rule, with regard to dreams, is not to observe them, nor to give any credit to them. Ch.

VER. 14. Prison, after examining into the justice of my cause.

VER. 15. Hebrews. Chanaan, a foreign land with respect to Egypt, as was also Mesopotamia, where he was born. H.—Joseph only maintains his own innocence, without accusing any one. M.

VER. 19. From thee, by decapitation. This was customary, when a person's body was to be hung on the cross or gibbet. Deut. xxi. 22 ; Jos. x. 26 ; Lament. v. 12 ; 1 Kings xxxi. 10.

VER. 20. Birth-day. This was a common practice among the pagans. 8 Matt. xiv. 6 ; 2 Mac. vi. 7. C. at the banquet remembered the chief butler, and the chief baker.

21 And he restored the one to his place, to present him the cup:

22 The other he hanged on a gibbet, that the truth of the interpreter might be shown.

23 But the chief butler, when things prospered with him, forgot his interpreter.

CHAP. XLI.

Joseph interpreteth the two dreams of Pharaoh: he is made ruler over all Egypt.

AFTER two years Pharaoh had a dream.^a He thought he stood by the river,

2 Out of which came up seven kine, very beautiful and fat: and they fed in marshy places.

3 Other seven also came up out of the river, ill-favoured, and lean-fleshed: and they fed on the very bank of the river, in green places:

4 And they devoured them, whose bodies were very beautiful and well conditioned. So Pharaoh awoke.

5 He slept again, and dreamed another dream: Seven ears of corn came up upon one stalk full and fair:

6 Then seven other ears sprung up thin and blasted,

7 And devoured all the beauty of the former. Pharaoh awaked after his rest:

8 And when morning was come, being struck with fear, he sent to all the interpreters of Egypt, and to all the wise men: and they being called for, he told them his dream, and there was not any one that could interpret it.

9 Then at length the chief butler remembering, said: I confess my sin:

10 The king being angry with his servants, commanded me and the chief baker to be cast into the prison of the captain of the soldiers:

11 Where in one night both of us dreamed a dream foreboding things to come.

12 There was there a young man a Hebrew, servant to the same captain of the soldiers: to whom we told our dreams,

13 And we heard what afterwards the event of the thing proved to be so. For I was restored to my office: and he was hanged upon a gibbet.

14 Forthwith at the king's command Joseph was brought out of the prison, and they shaved him: and changing his apparel brought him in to him.

15 And he said to him: I have dreamed dreams, and there is no one that can expound them: Now I have heard that thou art very wise at interpreting them:

^a A. M. 2289, A. C. 1715.

16 Joseph answered: Without me, ^bGod shall give Pharaoh a prosperous answer.

17 So Pharaoh told what he had dreamed: Methought I stood upon the bank of the river,

18 And seven kine came up out of the river, exceeding beautiful and full of flesh: and they grazed on green places in a marshy pasture.

19 And behold, there followed these, other seven kine, so very ill-favoured and lean, that I never saw the like in the land of Egypt:

20 And they devoured and consumed the former,

21 And yet gave no mark of their being full: but were as lean and ill-favoured as before. I awoke, and then fell asleep again,

22 And dreamed a dream: Seven ears of corn grew up upon one stalk, full and very fair.

23 Other seven also thin and blasted, sprung of the stalk:

24 And they devoured the beauty of the former: I told this dream to the conjecturers, and there is no man that can expound it.

25 Joseph answered: The king's dream is one: God hath shown to Pharaoh what he is about to do.

26 The seven beautiful kine, and the seven full ears, are seven years of plenty: and both contain the same meaning of the dream.

27 And the seven lean and thin kine that came up after them, and the seven thin ears that were blasted with the burning wind, are seven years of famine to come:

28 Which shall be fulfilled in this order.

29 Behold, there shall come seven years of great plenty in the whole land of Egypt:

30 After which shall follow other seven years of so great scarcity, that all the abundance before shall be forgotten: for the famine shall consume all the land,

31 And the greatness of the scarcity shall destroy the greatness of the plenty.

32 And for that thou didst see the second time a dream pertaining to the same thing: it is a token of the certainty, and that the word of God cometh to pass, and is fulfilled speedily.

33 Now therefore let the king provide a wise and industrious man, and make him ruler over the land of Egypt:

34 That he may appoint overseers over all the countries: and gather into barns the fifth part of the fruits, during the seven fruitful years,

35 That shall now presently ensue: and let all the ^b Matt. x. 20.

VER. 22. That, &c. Thus was verified the prediction of Joseph. M.

VER. 23. Forgot. A thing too common among those who enjoy prosperity! H.—God would not have his servants to trust in men. D.—The butler was a figure of the good thief, as the baker represented the impenitent one, between whom our Saviour hung on the cross. C.

CHAP. XLI. VER. 3. Very bank; to show that the Nile had not inundated far, and that consequently a great famine would prevail, as the fertility of Egypt depends greatly on the overflowing of the Nile. "When the river rises 12 cubits, sterility pervades Egypt; when 13, famine is still felt. Fourteen cubits bring joy, 15 security, 16 delight. It has never yet been known to rise above 18 cubits." Pliny v. 9. This successive depression of the waters was an effect of God's judgments, which no astrologers could foretell. T.

VER. 5. Another dream of the same import, (ver. 25.) to convince Pharaoh that the event would certainly take place, ver. 32. Thus Daniel had a double vision vii. 2 3.

VER. 8. Interpreters: ērtomim is probably an Egyptian word; denoting magicians, priests, and interpreters of their sacred books, hieroglyphics, &c. K.

VER. 9. My sin against your majesty, and my ingratitude towards Joseph. C. VER. 12. Servant. Chap. xxxix. 4. He waited also upon the prisoners of rank. Chap. xl. 4. H.

VER. 14. Shaved him. The Egyptians let their hair grow, and neglected their persons, when they were in mourning or in prison. It was not lawful to appear at court in mourning attire. Est. iv. 2; Gen. l. 4. C.

VER. 16. Without, &c. The interpretation does not proceed from any natural acquirement, but from God alone. Chal. T.

VER. 34. Fifth part. This was a tax laid upon all the Egyptians, (C.) unless Pharaoh paid for what corn was laid up. H.—This quantity would be sufficient, as people would be content with a smaller allowance during the famine; and the environs of the Nile would produce something, though not worth mentioning Chap. xlv. 6. M.

corn be laid up, under Pharaoh's hands, and be reserved in the cities.

36 And let it be in readiness, against the famine of seven years to come, which shall oppress Egypt, and the land shall not be consumed with scarcity.

37 The counsel pleased Pharaoh, and all his servants.

38 And he said to them: Can we find such another man, that is full of the spirit of God?

39 He said therefore to Joseph: Seeing God hath shown thee all that thou hast said, can I find one wiser and one like unto thee?

40 *Thou shalt be over my house, and at the commandment of thy mouth all the people shall obey: only in the kingly throne will I be above thee.

41 And again Pharaoh said to Joseph: Behold, I have appointed thee over the whole land of Egypt.

42 And he took his ring from his own hand, and gave it into his hand: and he put upon him a robe of silk, and put a chain of gold about his neck.

43 And he made him go up into his second chariot, the crier proclaiming that all should bow their knee before him, and that they should know he was made governor over the whole land of Egypt.

44 And the king said to Joseph: I am Pharaoh: without thy commandment no man shall move hand or foot in all the land of Egypt.

45 And he turned his name, and called him in the Egyptian tongue the saviour of the world. And he gave him to wife Aseneth, the daughter of Putiphare, priest of Heliopolis. Then Joseph went out to the land of Egypt.

46 (Now he was thirty years old when he stood before king Pharaoh), and he went round all the countries of Egypt.

47 And the fruitfulness of the seven years came: and the corn being bound up into sheaves, was gathered together into the barns of Egypt.

48 And all the abundance of grain was laid up in every city.

49 And there was so great abundance of wheat, that it was equal to the sand of the sea, and the plenty exceeded measure.

50 ^bAnd before the famine came, Joseph had two sons born: whom Aseneth, the daughter of Putiphare, priest of Heliopolis, bore unto him.

* Psal. civ. 21; 1 Mac. ii. 53; Acts vii. 10.—^b Infra. xlv. 20, and xlviii. 20.

VER. 42. His ring, the sign of power. Assuerus gave his authority to Aman and to Mardochæus. Est. iii. and viii.—Silk, or fine cotton; schesch (or ssos). See byssus. Exod. xxv. 4.—Chain, with which the president of the senate in Egypt, or the chief justice, was adorned. The three chief officers among the Chaldees wore chains. Dan. v. 7, 16. C.

VER. 43. Second chariot. On public occasions the king was followed by an empty chariot, (2 Par. xxxv. 24.) or the chariot here spoken of was destined for the person who was next in dignity to the king. C.

VER. 45. The saviour of the world. Zaphnath paaneah. Ch.—In the Coptic language, which is derived from the Egyptian, Psotemphane is said to mean the saviour of the world.—Putiphare. Whether this person be the same with his old master, cannot easily be decided. Most people think he was not. See S. Chrys. 83. hom.—Priest. None were esteemed more noble in Egypt.—Heliopolis. Heb. On, "the city of the sun," built on the banks of the Nile, about half a day's journey to the north of Memphis.

VER. 47. Sheaves. The straw would serve to feed the cattle, and would hinder the corn from spoiling for 50 years, if kept from the air. Varro. Plin. viii. 30. C.

51 And he called the name of the first-born Manasses, saying: God hath made me to forget all my labours, and my father's house.

52 And he named the second Ephraim, saying: God hath made me to grow in the land of my poverty.

53 Now when the seven years of the plenty that had been in Egypt were passed:

54 The seven years of scarcity, which Joseph had foretold, began to come: and the famine prevailed in the whole world, but there was bread in all the land of Egypt.

55 And when there also they began to be famished, the people cried to Pharaoh, for food. And he said to them: Go to Joseph: and do all that he shall say to you.

56 And the famine increased daily in all the land: and Joseph opened all the barns, and sold to the Egyptians: for the famine had oppressed them also.

57 And all provinces came into Egypt, to buy food and to seek some relief of their want.

CHAP. XLII.

Jacob sendeth his ten sons to buy corn in Egypt. Their treatment by Joseph.

AND Jacob hearing that food was sold in Egypt, ^asaid to his sons: Why are ye careless?

2 I have heard that wheat is sold in Egypt: Go ye down, and buy us necessities, that we may live, and not be consumed with want.

3 So the ten brethren of Joseph went down, to buy corn in Egypt:

4 Whilst Benjamin was kept at home by Jacob, who said to his brethren: Lest perhaps he take any harm in the journey.

5 And they entered into the land of Egypt with others that went to buy. For the famine was in the land of Chanaan.

6 And Joseph was governor in the land of Egypt, and corn was sold by his direction to the people. And when his brethren had bowed down to him,

7 And he knew them, he spoke as it were to strangers, somewhat roughly, asking them: Whence came you? They answered: From the land of Chanaan, to buy necessities of life.

8 And though he knew his brethren, he was not known by them.

9 And remembering the dreams, which formerly he had dreamed, he said to them: You are spies: you are come to view the weaker parts of the land.

^a A. M. 2296, A. C. 1708.—^d A. M. 2297, A. C. 1707.

VER. 51. Manasses. That is, oblivion, or forgetting. Ch.—Father's house, or the injuries received from my brethren. H.

VER. 52. Ephraim. That is, fruitful, or growing. Ch.—Being in the plural number, it means "productions."—Poverty; where I have been poor and afflicted, though now advanced in honour. H.

VER. 54. World. Round about Egypt; such as Chanaan, Syria, &c. M.

VER. 57. All provinces in the neighbourhood: for the stores laid up would not have supplied all mankind even for a few months. C.

CHAP. XLII. VER. 1. Careless. Heb. "gazing one at another," like idle people.

VER. 6. To him. Conformably to the prophetic dreams, chap. xxxvii. 7. 9. M.—Joseph was like a prince or sultan, esslit, with sovereign authority. C.

VER. 8. By them. Years and change of situation had made such an alteration in him. M.—Joseph did not make himself known at first; in order to bring his brethren to a true sense of their duty, that they might obtain pardon for their sin. Thus pastors must sometimes treat their penitents with a degree of severity. S. Greg. hom. 22, Ezec. S. Aug. ser. 82, de Tem. W.

VER. 9. You are spies. This he said by way of examining them, to see what 10 But they said : It is not so, my lord ; but thy servants are come to buy food.

11 We are all the sons of one man : we are come as peaceable men, neither do thy servants go about any evil.

12 And he answered them : It is otherwise : you are come to consider the unfenced parts of this land.

13 But they said : We thy servants are twelve brethren, the sons of one man in the land of Chanaan : the youngest is with our father, the other is not living.

14 He saith, This is it that I said : You are spies.

15 I shall now presently try what you are : by the health of Pharaο, you shall not depart hence, until your youngest brother come.

16 Send one of you to fetch him : and you shall be in prison, till what you have said be proved, whether it be true or false : or else by the health of Pharaο you are spies.

17 So he put them in prison three days.

18 And the third day he brought them out of prison, and said : Do as I have said, and you shall live : for I fear God.

19 If you be peaceable men, let one of your brethren be bound in prison : and go ye your ways, and carry the corn that you have bought, unto your houses.

20 *And bring your youngest brother to me, that I may find your words to be true, and you may not die. They did as he had said.

21 And they talked one to another : We deserve to suffer these things, because we have sinned against our brother, seeing the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear : therefore is this affliction come upon us.

22 And Ruben, one of them, said : Did not I say to you : ^bDo not sin against the boy ; and you would not hear me ? Behold his blood is required.

23 And they knew not that Joseph understood, because he spoke to them by an interpreter.

24 And he turned himself away a little while, and wept : and returning, he spoke to them.

25 And taking Simeon, and binding him in their presence, he commanded his servants to fill their sacks with wheat, and to put every man's money again in their sacks, and to give them besides provisions for the way : and they did so.

26 But they having loaded their asses with the corn, went their way.

27 And one of them opening his sack, to give his beast provender in the inn, saw the money in the sack's mouth,

* Infra, xliii. 3, and 5.—^b Supra, xxxvii. 21.

they would answer. Ch.—Joseph was a person in authority. It was his duty to guard against invasion. He knew how his brethren had treated Sicheμ, and how they had behaved to himself ; and though he might not suppose that they had any evil design upon Egypt, yet he had a right to make them give an account of themselves. H.—He wished also to extort from them a true account respecting Jacob and Benjamin. M.

VER. 16. Or else by the health of Pharaο you are spies. That is, if these things you say be proved false, you are to be held for spies for your lying, and shall be treated as such. Joseph dealt in this manner with his brethren, to bring them by the means of affliction to a sense of their former sin, and a sincere repentance for it.

VER. 21. We deserve. Conscience upbraids. "Punishment opens the mouth, which sin had shut." S. Greg. M.—They had sold Joseph about 22 years before ! C.

28 And said to his brethren : My money is given me again ; behold it is in the sack. And they were astonished, and troubled, and said to one another : What is this that God hath done unto us ?

29 And they came to Jacob their father in the land of Chanaan, and they told him all things that had befallen them, saying :

30 The lord of the land spōke roughly to us, and took us to be spies of the country.

31 And we answered him : We are peaceable men, and we mean no plot.

32 We are twelve brethren born of one father : one is not living, the youngest is with our father in the land of Chanaan.

33 And he said to us : Hereby shall I know that you are peaceable men : Leave one of your brethren with me, and take ye necessary provision for your houses, and go your ways, 34 And bring your youngest brother to me, that I may know you are not spies : and you may receive this man again, that is kept in prison : and afterwards may have leave to buy what you will.

35 When they had told this, they poured out their corn, and every man found his money tied in the mouth of his sack : and all being astonished together,

36 Their father Jacob said : You have made me to be without children : Joseph is not living, Simeon is kept in bonds, and Benjamin you will take away : all these evils are fallen upon me.

37 And Ruben answered him : Kill my two sons, if I bring him not again to thee : deliver him into my hand, and I will restore him to thee.

38 But he said : My son shall not go down with you. his brother is dead, and he is left alone : if any mischief befall him in the land to which you go, you will bring down my grey hairs with sorrow to hell.

CHAP. XLIII.

The sons of Jacob go again into Egypt with Benjamin. They are entertained by Joseph.

IN the mean time^c the famine was heavy upon all the land.

2 And when they had eaten up all the corn, which they had brought out of Egypt, Jacob said to his sons : Go again, and buy us a little food.

3 Juda answered : The man declared unto us with the attestation of an oath, saying : You shall not see my face, unless you bring your youngest brother with you.

4 If therefore thou wilt send him with us, we will set out together, and will buy necessities for thee.

^c A. M. 2298, A. C. 1760.

VER. 22. His blood. Ruben supposed his brother was dead, (ver. 13,) and judging that Jacob would not let Benjamin come, he thought they must all perish. H.

VER. 23. Interpreter. to keep them at a greater distance. C.

VER. 34. And you may, &c. Joseph had said, (ver. 20,) and you may not die, which they thus interpret. H.

VER. 36. Without. Through excess of grief, Jacob speaks with a degree of exaggeration ; or he thought his children were now taken from him so fast, that he would soon have none left.

VER. 38. Alone: the son of my beloved Rachel. H.—To hell. That is, to that place where the souls then remained, as above, chap. xxxvii. ver. 35, (Ch.) though with respect to his grey hairs, and body, it may signify the grave. H.

5 But if thou wilt not, we will not go: for the man, as we have often said, declared unto us, saying:^a You shall not see my face without your youngest brother.

6 Israel said to them: You have done this for my misery, in that you told him you had also another brother.

7 But they answered: The man asked us in order concerning our kindred: if our father lived: if we had a brother: and we answered him regularly, according to what he demanded: could we know that he would say: Bring hither your brother with you?

8 And Juda said to his father: Send the boy with me, that we may set forward, and may live: lest both we and our children perish.

9 ^bI take the boy upon me, require him at my hand: unless I bring him again, and restore him to thee, I will be guilty of sin against thee for ever.

10 If delay had not been made, we had been here again the second time.

11 Then Israel said to them: If it must needs be so, do what you will: take of the best fruits of the land in your vessels, and carry down presents to the man, a little balm, and honey, and storax, myrrh, turpentine, and almonds.

12 And take with you double money, and carry back what you found in your sacks, lest perhaps it was done by mistake.

13 And take also your brother, and go to the man.

14 And may my almighty God make him favourable to you: and send back with you your brother, whom he keepeth, and this Benjamin: and as for me I shall be desolate without children.

15 So the men took the presents, and double money, and Benjamin: and went down into Egypt, and stood before Joseph.

16 And when he had seen them, and Benjamin with them, he commanded the steward of his house, saying: Bring in the men into the house, and kill victims, and prepare a feast: because they shall eat with me at noon.

17 He did as he was commanded, and brought the men into the house.

18 And they being much afraid, said there one to another: Because of the money, which we carried back the first time in our sacks, we are brought in: that he may bring upon us a false accusation, and by violence make slaves of us and our asses.

^a Supra, xlii. 20.—^b Infra, xliv. 32.

19 Wherefore, going up to the steward of the house at the door,

20 They said: Sir, we desire thee to hear us. 'We came down once before to buy food:

21 And when we had bought, and were come to the inn, we opened our sacks, and found our money in the mouths of the sacks: which we have now brought again in the same weight.

22 And we have brought other money besides, to buy what we want: we cannot tell who put it in our bags.

23 But he answered: Peace be with you, fear not: your God, and the God of your father, hath given you treasure in your sacks. For the money, which you gave me, I have for good. And he brought Simeon out to them.

24 And having brought them into the house, he fetched water, and they washed their feet, and he gave provender to their asses.

25 But they made ready the presents, against Joseph came at noon: for they had heard that they should eat bread there.

26 Then Joseph came in to his house, and they offered him the presents, holding them in their hands; and they bowed down with their face to the ground:

27 But he courteously saluting them again, asked them, saying: Is the old man your father in health, of whom you told me? Is he yet living?

28 And they answered: Thy servant our father, is in health; he is yet living. And bowing themselves, they made obeisance to him.

29 And Joseph lifting up his eyes, saw Benjamin, his brother by the same mother, and said: Is this your young brother, of whom you told me? And he said: God be gracious to thee my son.

30 And he made haste, because his heart was moved upon his brother, and tears gushed out: and going into his chamber, he wept.

31 And when he had washed his face, coming out again, he refrained himself, and said: Set bread on the table.

32 And when it was set on, for Joseph apart, and for his brethren apart, for the Egyptians also that ate with him apart, (for it is unlawful for the Egyptians to eat with the Hebrews, and they think such a feast profane):

33 They sat before him, the first-born according to his

^c Supra, xlii. 3.

CHAP. XLIII. VER. 5. My face, in peace. Joseph had told them they should be considered as spies, if they did not produce their youngest brother. M.

VER. 7. Asked us. This is perfectly consonant with what they say. Chap. xlii. 13; and chap. xliv. 19. They mentioned their having a brother at home without the smallest suspicion of doing wrong.

VER. 8. The boy; now 24 years old, (C.) and the father of a family. Chap. xlv. 21. H.

VER. 9. For ever. Always lay the blame on me, and punish me as you think fit. M.

VER. 11. Balm. Literally, rosin, resina; but here by that name is meant alm. Ch. Sec chap. xxxvii. 25.—Honey, or all sorts of sweet fruit.—Storax: Sept. "incense," or perfumes. It is like balm; thick, odoriferous, and medicinal.—Myrrh, (stactes); Heb. Lut. A liquor stamped from fresh myrrh piled, with a little water. C.—Sometimes it is translated Gutta, a drop. Psal. xlv. 9. M.—Almonds; Sept. nuts, of which almonds are one species. M.

VER. 16. At noon. This was the time for the chief meal in Egypt. The Hebrews generally took something at this time, and again in the evening. To eat before noon was esteemed a mark of intemperance. Eccles. x. 16; Acts ii. 15.

VER. 21. We opened. Chap. xlii. 35. They seem to have discovered the whole of their money only when they were in the presence of Jacob; though they had already, perhaps, seen part of it at the inn, and left it in their sacks for the satisfaction of their father. H.

VER. 23. Your God. To Him we must always refer what advantage we derive from men. He inspired Joseph to give such orders to his steward.—I have for good. I received it, and was satisfied that it was good: you need not be uneasy; you are not suspected of any fraud. H.—Heb. "Your money came into my hands." M.

VER. 32. Hebrews. "They had the same aversion for all who did not adopt their superstition." They disliked the Hebrews, because they were also shepherds. chap. xlv. 34 (C.); and because they knew they were accustomed to eat goats, oxen, and sheep, the objects of adoration in Egypt (Exod. viii. 26): though they were not, probably, served upon Joseph's table. T.

VER. 33. They sat. This posture is more ancient than that of lying down at table. The Hebrews adopted the latter, from the Persians, during the captivity. Est. i. 6; vii. 8.—We have at least no earlier vestige of this custom in Scripture. C.—Very much: as they were placed in that order by the steward. They knew birth-right, and the youngest according to his age. And they wondered very much;

34 Taking the messes which they received of him: and the greater mess came to Benjamin, so that it exceeded by five parts. And they drank, and were merry with him.

CHAP. XLIV.

Joseph's contrivance to stop his brethren. The humble supplication of Juda.

AND Joseph commanded the steward of his house, saying: Fill their sacks with corn, as much as they can hold: and put the money of every one in the top of his sack.

2 And in the mouth of the younger's sack put my silver cup, and the price which he gave for the wheat. And it was so done.

3 And when the morning arose, they were sent away with their asses.

4 And when they were now departed out of the city, and had gone forward a little way: Joseph sending for the steward of his house, said: Arise, and pursue after the men: and when thou hast overtaken them, say to them: Why have you returned evil for good?

5 The cup which you have stolen, is that in which my lord drinketh, and in which he is wont to divine: you have done a very evil thing.

6 He did as he had commanded him. And having overtaken them, he spoke to them the same words.

7 And they answered: Why doth our lord speak so, as though thy servants had committed so heinous a fact?

8 The money, that we found in the top of our sacks, we brought back to thee from the land of Chanaan: how then should it be that we should steal out of thy lord's house, gold or silver?

9 With whomsoever of thy servants shall be found that which thou seekest, let him die, and we will be the bondmen of my lord.

10 And he said to them: Let it be according to your sentence: with whomsoever it shall be found, let him be my servant, and you shall be blameless.

11 Then they speedily took down their sacks to the ground, and every man opened his sack.

12 Which when he had searched, beginning at the eldest, and ending at the youngest, he found the cup in Benjamin's sack.

^a Supra, xlii. 13.—^b Supra, xliii. 3, and 5.

not how he could so exactly discover who was born first, as there was so short an interval between the births of many of them. H.

VER. 34. Of him. Joseph, the master of the feast, sends a portion to each of his guests, according to the ancient custom. Plut. Sympos. ii.—Five parts: in order to distinguish Benjamin the more.—Merry. Inebriati sunt, sometimes means intoxicated: but it is not at all probable that Joseph's brethren would indulge in any such excess, while they knew him not, (C.) and were under the impressions of fear and wonder. They took what was sufficient, and even decently abundant, with thankfulness for so unexpected an honour. H.

CHAP. XLIV. VER. 5. To divine. This was spoken by Joseph to his steward in jest; alluding to the notion of the people, who took him to be a diviner. Ch.—S. Tho. 2, 2, q. 195, a. 7. The Egyptians probably supposed that Joseph used some such means to disclose what was hidden; and he alludes, in jest, to their foolish notion. H.—He had a right to afflict his guilty brethren; and as for Benjamin, who was innocent, he made him ample recompence for this transitory terror. Some think that the steward said, in which he is wont to divine, unauthorized by his master. M.

VER. 10. Sentence. It is but just; yet I shall only insist on the detention of the culprit. C.—Joseph wished to see whether the marks of attention, which he 13 Then they rent their garments, and loading their asses again, returned into the town.

14 And Juda at the head of his brethren went in to Joseph, (for he was not yet gone out of the place,) and they all together fell down before him on the ground.

15 And he said to them: Why would you do so? know you not that there is no one like me in the science of divining.

16 And Juda said to him: What shall we answer my lord? or what shall we say, or be able justly to allege? God hath found out the iniquity of thy servants: behold, we are all bondmen to my lord, both we, and he with whom the cup was found.

17 Joseph answered: God forbid that I should do so: he that stole the cup, he shall be my bondman: and go you away free to your father.

18 Then Juda coming nearer, said boldly: I beseech thee, my lord, let thy servant speak a word in thy ears, and be not angry with thy servant: for after Pharaoh thou art

19 My lord. 'Thou didst ask thy servants the first time: Have you a father or a brother?

20 And we answered thee, my lord: We have a father an old man, and a young boy, that was born in his old age; whose brother by the mother is dead; and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him tenderly.

21 And thou saidst to thy servants: Bring him hither to me, and I will set my eyes on him.

22 We suggested to my lord: The boy cannot leave his father: for if he leave him, he will die.

23 'And thou saidst to thy servants: Except your youngest brother come with you, you shall see my face no more.

24 Therefore when we were gone up to thy servant our father, we told him all that my lord had said.

25 And our father said: Go again, and buy us a little wheat.

26 And we said to him: We cannot go: if our youngest brother go down with us, we will set out together: otherwise, without him we dare not see the man's face.

27 Whereunto he answered: You know that my wife bore me two.

28 One went out, and you said. A beast devoured him; and hitherto he appeareth not.

^c Supra, xxxvii. 20, and 33.

had shown to Benjamin, would have excited the envy of his brethren (M.); and whether they would be concerned for him: thus he would discover their present dispositions. He might wish also to keep his younger brother out of danger, in case they were inclined to persecute him. H.

VER. 13. The town, with heavy hearts, of which their torn garments were signs (H.): yet they say not a word in condemnation of Benjamin. They are determined either to clear him, or never to return home. M.

VER. 14. Juda, mindful of his engagement, (chap. xliii. 9,) and perhaps more eloquent and bolder than the rest. M.

VER. 15. The science of divining. He speaks of himself according to what he was esteemed in that kingdom. And, indeed, he being truly a prophet, knew more without comparison than any of the Egyptian soothsayers. Ch.

VER. 16. Iniquity. He begins with the greatest humility, acknowledging that they were justly punished by God for some transgression, though they were, in his opinion, innocent of any theft. H.—Perhaps he might imagine that Benjamin had been guilty (Bonfrere), and is willing to bear a part of the blame with the rest; or his conscience still presents before him the injustice done to Joseph so long before. H.

VER. 20. Is left of (habet mater). Rachel had been dead about twenty four years. H.

29 If you take this also, and any thing befall him in the way, you will bring down my grey hairs with sorrow unto hell.

30 Therefore, if I shall go to thy servant, our father, and the boy be wanting, (whereas his life dependeth upon the life of him,)

31 And he shall see that he is not with us, he will die, and thy servants shall bring down his grey hairs with sorrow unto hell.

32 Let me be thy proper servant, who took him into my trust, and promised, saying : " If I bring him not again, I will be guilty of sin against my father for ever.

33 Therefore I, thy servant, will stay instead of the boy in the service of my lord, and let the boy go up with his brethren.

34 For I cannot return to my father without the boy, lest I be a witness of the calamity that will oppress my father

CHAP. XLV.

Joseph maketh himself known to his brethren : and sendeth for his father.

JOSEPH could no longer refrain himself before many that stood by : whereupon he commanded that all should go out, and no stranger be present at their knowing one another.

2 And he lifted up his voice with weeping, which the Egyptians, and all the house of Pharaoh heard.

3 And he said to his brethren : I am Joseph : Is my father yet living ? His brethren could not answer him, being struck with exceeding great fear.

4 And he said mildly to them : Come nearer to me. And when they were come near him, he said : " I am Joseph, your brother, whom you sold into Egypt.

5 Be not afraid, and let it not seem to you a hard case that you sold me into these countries : " for God sent me before you into Egypt for your preservation.

6 For it is two years since the famine began to be upon the land, and five years more remain, wherein there can be neither ploughing nor reaping.

7 And God sent me before, that you may be preserved upon the earth, and may have food to live.

8 Not by your counsel was I sent hither, but by the will of God : who hath made me as it were a father to Pharaoh, and lord of his whole house, and governor in all the land of Egypt.

9 Make haste, and go ye up to my father, and say to him : Thus saith thy son Joseph : God hath made me lord of the whole land of Egypt ; come down to me, linger not.

10 And thou shalt dwell in the land of Gessen : and thou shalt be near me, thou and thy sons, and thy sons' sons, thy sheep, and thy herds, and all things that thou hast.

11 And there I will feed thee, (for there are yet five years of famine remaining,) lest both thou perish, and thy house, and all things that thou hast.

12 Behold, your eyes, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, see that it is my mouth that speaketh to you.

13 You shall tell my father of all my glory, and all things that you have seen in Egypt : make haste and bring him to me.

14 And falling upon the neck of his brother Benjamin, he embraced him and wept : and Benjamin in like manner wept also on his neck.

15 And Joseph kissed all his brethren, and wept upon every one of them : after which they were emboldened to speak to him.

16 And it was heard, and the fame was abroad in the king's court : The brethren of Joseph are come ; and Pharaoh with all his family was glad.

17 And he spoke to Joseph that he should give orders to his brethren, saying : Load your beasts, and go into the land of Chanaan,

18 And bring away from thence your father and kindred, and come to me ; and I will give you all the good things of Egypt, that you may eat the marrow of the land.

19 Give orders also that they take waggons out of the land of Egypt, for the carriage of their children and their wives ; and say : Take up your father, and make haste to come with all speed :

20 And leave nothing of your household stuff ; for all the riches of Egypt shall be yours.

21 And the sons of Israel did as they were bid. And Joseph gave them waggons according to Pharaoh's commandment : and provisions for the way.

22 He ordered also to be brought out for every one of them two robes : but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver, with five robes of the best :

23 Sending to his father as much money and raiment ; adding besides, ten he-asses, to carry off all the riches of Egypt, and as many she-asses, carrying wheat and bread for the journey.

a Supra, xliii. 9.—b Acts vii. 13.

c Infra, l. 20.

VER. 31. With us, is not now found in Heb. But it is in the Sam., Sept., Syr., and Chaldee. C.—His grey hairs. That is, his person, now far advanced in years.—With sorrow unto hell. The Hebrew word for hell is here Sheol, the Greek hades : it is not taken for the hell of the damned ; but for that place of souls below, where the servants of God were kept before the coming of Christ. Which place, both in the Scripture and in the creed, is named hell. Ch.

VER. 33. The boy. I am older, and more fit for service. M.

CHAP. XLV. VER. 2. Weeping, with a loud cry, being unable to restrain himself. The servants, who were in the adjoining apartments, heard this cry and declaration of Joseph, acknowledging one common father with these men ; and they presently conveyed the intelligence to the king. H.

VER. 4. Nearer ; that no one might hear what he was going to say respecting their fault. M.—It is thus we ought to treat those who have injured us. He excuses his brethren as much as possible. H. See chap. l. 20.

VER. 5. Hard. He perfectly understands the conduct of Divine Providence, which can draw good out of evil, and cause even the malice of men to co-operate in the execution of his designs. C.—God did not sanction or will this malice, as Calvin, &c., impiously assert. T.

VER. 8. Counsel. Joseph's brethren had no design of elevating him to so high a dignity ; but God's will directed Pharaoh to appoint him his counsellor, or prime minister. His father. H.

VER. 10. Gessen, to the north-east of Egypt, near me, at Tanis, in the Delta and near the promised land, being a part of Arabia. H.—This country is often refreshed by showers of rain, (C.) which never falls in most parts of Egypt. It intersected by many canals, and is very rich and proper for pasturage. H.

VER. 11. Perish. Heb. be reduced to poverty. He fed them like the priests Chap. xlvii. 12, 22. C.

VER. 16. Family, and courtiers. They were all so enraptured with Joseph's conduct, that they rejoiced in whatever gave him pleasure. M.

VER. 18. Marrow ; which is an emphatical expression, to signify the best things of Egypt. Chal. Heb. "the fat, or the cream of the land." C.

VER. 22. Two robes, (stolas), hanging down to the feet. These properly belong to women. But they are worn by men in the East. It was customary to make presents of such robes, as it is still among the great men and kings of that country.—Of silver, sicles. The Sept. has "of gold," as also chap. xxxvii. 28.

VER. 23. As much . . . besides. This is omitted in Heb. or at least is left ambiguous. "He sent in like manner to his father ten," &c. But the Syr. and Sept. explain it like the Vulgate.—She-asses. Sept. "mules"—Bread. Heb.

24 So he sent away his brethren, and at their departing said to them : Be not angry in the way.

25 And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Chanaan, to their father Jacob.

26 And they told him, saying : Joseph, thy son, is living ; and he is ruler in all the land of Egypt. Which when Jacob heard, he awaked as it were out of a deep sleep, yet did not believe them.

27 They on the other side told the whole order of the thing. And when he saw the waggons, and all that he had sent, his spirit revived, 28 And he said : It is enough for me if Joseph, my son, be yet living : I will go and see him before I die.

CHAP. XLVI.

Israel, warranted by a vision from God, goeth down into Egypt with all his family.

AND Israel taking his journey,* with all that he had, came to the well of the oath, and killing victims there to the God of his father Isaac,

2 He heard him, by a vision in the night, calling him, and saying to him : Jacob, Jacob. And he answered him : Lo, here I am.

3 God said to him : I am the most mighty God of thy father ; fear not, go down into Egypt, for I will make a great nation of thee there.

4 I will go down with thee thither, and will bring thee back again from thence : Joseph also shall put his hands upon thy eyes.

5 And Jacob rose up from the well of the oath :^b and his sons took him up, with their children and wives in the waggons, which Pharaoh had sent to carry the old man,

6 And all that he had in the land of Chanaan : and he came into Egypt with all his seed ;^c

7 His sons, and grandsons, daughters, and all his offspring together.

8 And these are the names of the children of Israel, that entered into Egypt, he and his children. ^dHis first-born Ruben, 9 The sons of Ruben : Henoch and Phallu, and Hesron and Charmi.

10 ^eThe sons of Simeon : Jamuel and Jamin and Ahod, and Jachin and Sohar, and Saul, the son of a woman of Chanaan.

* A. M. 2298, A. C. 1706.—^b Acts vii. 15.—^c Jos. xxiv. 5 ; Psal. civ. 23 ; Isa. lii. 4.
^d Exod. i. 2, and vi. 14 ; Num. xxvi. 5 ; 1 Par. v. 1, and 3.

adds, "meat," or provisions. C.—These presents might convince Jacob that Joseph was still alive. H.

VER. 24. Angry. A prudent admonition at all times, but particularly now, to Joseph's brethren ; lest reflecting on his excessive kindness, they should each wish to remove from themselves the stigma of cruelty towards him, by throwing it upon others. H.

VER. 26. He awaked, &c. His heart was overpowered between hope and distrust. He seemed to himself to be dreaming. Sept. "in an ecstasy." Such a sudden transition has oftentimes caused death. H.

VER. 27. Revived ; like a lamp, which was just going out for want of oil, resumes fresh vigour when a new supply is poured in. S. Chrys.

CHAP. XLVI. VER. 1. The well of the oath. Bersabee.

VER. 3. Fear not. He might be apprehensive, lest his children should be depraved, living among idolaters, or prefer Egypt before the promised land. He was also afraid to undertake this journey without consulting God. M.

VER. 4. Thence ; in thy posterity. Sept. add at last, or after a long time. Jacob's bones were brought back and buried in Chanaan. C.—Eyes, as he is the most dear to thee. Parents closed the eyes of their children in death.

VER. 7. Daughters. Dina, and grand-daughter Sara, (ver. 17,) and his sons' wives, &c. C.—We may observe, that all here mentioned were not born at the time when Jacob went down into Egypt, but they were before he or Joseph 11 ^fThe sons of Levi : Gerson and Caath, and Merari.

12 ^gThe sons of Juda : Her and Onan, and Sela, and Phares and Zara. And Her and Onan died in the land of Chanaan. And sons were born to Phares : Hesron and Hamul 13 ^hThe sons of Issachar : Thola and Phua, and Job and Semron.

14 The sons of Zabulon : Sared, and Elon, and Jafelel

15 These are the sons of Lia, whom she bore in Mesopotamia of Syria, with Dina, his daughter. All the souls of her sons and daughters, thirty-three.

16 The sons of Gad : Sephion and Haggi, and Suni and Esebon, and Heri and Arodi, and Areli.

17 ⁱThe sons of Aser : Jamne and Jesua, and Jessuri and Beria, and Sara their sister. The sons of Beria : Heber and Melchiel.

18 These are the sons of Zelpha, whom Laban gave to Lia, his daughter. And these she bore to Jacob, sixteen souls.

19 The sons of Rachel, Jacob's wife : Joseph and Benjamin.

20 ^kAnd sons were born to Joseph, in the land of Egypt, whom Aseneth, the daughter of Putiaphare, priest of Heliopolis, bore him : Manasses and Ephraim.

21 The sons of Benjamin : Bela and Bechor, and Asbel and Gera, and Naaman and Echi, and Ross and Mophin, and Ophim and Ared.

22 These are the sons of Rachel, whom she bore to Jacob : all the souls, fourteen.

23 The sons of Dan : Husim.

24 The sons of Nephtali : Jaziel and Guni, and Jeser and Sallem.

25 These are the sons of Bala, whom Laban gave to Rachel, his daughter : and these she bore to Jacob : all the souls, seven.

26 All the souls that went with Jacob into Egypt, and that came out of his thigh, besides his sons' wives, sixty-six.

27 And the sons of Joseph, that were born to him in the land of Egypt, two souls. ^mAll the souls of the house of Jacob, that entered into Egypt, were seventy.

28 And he sent Juda before him to Joseph, to tell him ; and that he should meet him in Gessen.

29 And when he was come thither, Joseph made ready

* Exod. vi. 15 ; 1 Par. iv. 24.—^f 1 Par. vi. 1.—^g 1 Par. ii. 3, and iv. 21.—^h 1 Par. vii. 1.
ⁱ 1 Par. vii. 30.—^k Supra, xli. 50.—^l 1 Par. vii. 6, and viii. 1.—^m Deut. x. 22.

died ; that is, during the space of 17 or 71 years. See S. Aug. q. 151, 173. M.—The names in the Heb. and Sept. vary some little from the Vulgate, which may be attributed to the difference of pronunciation, or to the same person having many names. The genealogies of Juda, Joseph, and Benjamin, are carried farther than the rest, as those families were of greater consequence.

VER. 9. Hesron and Charmi were probably born in Egypt, as Ruben had only two sons. Chap. xlii. 37. Philo.

VER. 10. Jamuel. Num. xxvi. 12, he is called Namuel.—Jachin is Jarid, 1 Par. iv. 24. C.

VER. 12. Were born, afterwards. M.

VER. 15. Syria. This must be restrained to her seven children.—Thirty-three, comprising Lia, or Jacob ; but without Her and Onan, who were dead. C.

VER. 20. Ephraim. The Sept. take in here the children of both. Num. xxvi. 29, 35.

VER. 21. Benjamin. Ten in number ; though the Sept. have only nine, and suppose that some of them were his grandchildren. He was 33 (or 24, M.) years old. C.

VER. 26. Sixty-six ; not including Jacob, Joseph, and his two children, who make up 70, ver. 27 ; Deut. x. 22. The Sept. taking in Joseph's grandchildren, read 75 ; in which they are followed by S. Stephen. Acts vii. 14. See S. Jer. q. Heb. C his chariot, and went up to meet his father in the same place: and seeing him, he fell upon his neck, and embracing him, wept.

30 And the father said to Joseph: Now shall I die with joy, because I have seen thy face, and leave thee alive.

31 And Joseph said to his brethren, and to all his father's house: I will go up, and will tell Pharaoh, and will say to him: My brethren, and my father's house, that were in the land of Chanaan, are come to me:

32 And the men are shepherds, and their occupation is to feed cattle; their flocks, and herds, and all they have, they have brought with them.

33 And when he shall call you, and shall say: What is your occupation?

34 You shall answer: We, thy servants, are shepherds, from our infancy until now, both we and our fathers. And this you shall say, that you may dwell in the land of Gessen, because the Egyptians have all shepherds in abomination.

CHAP. XLVII.

Jacob and his sons are presented before Pharaoh: he giveth them the land of Gessen. The famine forceth the Egyptians to sell all their possessions to the king.

THEN Joseph went in and told Pharaoh, saying: My father and brethren, their sheep and their herds, and all that they possess, are come out of the land of Chanaan: and behold they stay in the land of Gessen.

2 Five men also, the last of his brethren, he presented before the king:

3 And he asked them: What is your occupation? They answered: We, thy servants, are shepherds, both we and our fathers.

4 We are come to sojourn in thy land, because there is no grass for the flocks of thy servants, the famine being very grievous in the land of Chanaan: and we pray thee to give orders that we thy servants may be in the land of Gessen.

5 The king therefore said to Joseph: Thy father and thy brethren are come to thee.

6 The land of Egypt is before thee: make them dwell in the best place, and give them the land of Gessen. And if thou knowest that there are industrious men among them, make them rulers over my cattle.

7 After this Joseph brought in his father to the king, and presented him before him: and he blessed him.

8 And being asked by him: How many are the days of the years of thy life?

9 He answered: The days of my pilgrimage are a hundred and thirty years, few and evil, and they are not come up to the days of the pilgrimage of my fathers.

10 And blessing the king, he went out.

11 But Joseph gave a possession to his father and his brethren in Egypt, in the best place of the land, in Ramesses, as Pharaoh had commanded.

12 And he nourished them, and all his father's house, allowing food to every one.

13 For in the whole world there was want of bread, and a famine had oppressed the land, more especially of Egypt and Chanaan;

14 Out of which he gathered up all the money for the corn which they bought, and brought it in to the king's treasure.

15 And when the buyers wanted money, all Egypt came to Joseph, saying: "Give us bread: why should we die in thy presence, having now no money?"

16 And he answered them: Bring me your cattle, and for them I will give you food, if you have no money.

17 And when they had brought them, he gave them food in exchange for their horses, and sheep, and oxen, and asses: and he maintained them that year for the exchange of their cattle.

18 And they came the second year, and said to him: We will not hide from our lord, how that our money is spent, and our cattle also are gone: neither art thou ignorant that we have nothing now left but our bodies and our lands.

19 Why therefore shall we die before thy eyes? we will be thine, both we and our lands: buy us to be the king's servants, and give us seed, lest for want of tillers the land be turned into a wilderness.

20 So Joseph bought all the land of Egypt, every man selling his possessions, because of the greatness of the famine. And he brought it into Pharaoh's hands:

21 And all its people from one end of the borders of Egypt, even to the other end thereof,

22 Except the land of the priests, which had been given them by the king: to whom also a certain allowance of food was given out of the public stores, and therefore they were not forced to sell their possessions.

23 Then Joseph said to the people: Behold, as you see, both you and your lands belong to Pharaoh; take seed and sow the fields,

24 That you may have corn. The fifth part you shall

* A. M. 2300, A. C. 1704.

VER. 34. Abomination. See chap. xliii. 32. The source of this hatred against foreign shepherds, was probably because, about 100 years before Abraham, the shepherd-kings, Hycussos, had got possession of a great part of Egypt, and were at last expelled by the kings of Thebais. See Manetho ap. Eus. Præp. x. 13. Another reason why they hated foreigners was, because they slew and eat sheep, &c., which they themselves adored. The Egyptians kept sheep for this purpose, and for the benefits to be derived from their wool, &c. Chap. xlvii. 17. C

CHAP. XLVII. VER. 2. The last. Extremos. Some interpret this word of the chiefest, and most sightly: but Joseph seems rather to have chosen out such as had the meanest appearance, that Pharaoh might not think of employing them at court, with danger of their morals and religion; (Ch.) or in the army, where they might be distracted with many cares, and be too much separated from one another. H.

VER. 9. Pilgrimage. He hardly deigns to style it life, as he was worn out with labour and sorrows, and was drawing fast to an end, so much sooner than his ancestors. Isaac had lived 180 years, and was only dead the year before Joseph was made ruler of Egypt. Some had lived above 900 years. H.

VER. 13. Chanaan The whole world that was then inhabited, and known to the Hebrews, felt perhaps the effects of this raging famine; but the countries here mentioned were the most afflicted. H.

VER. 18. Second; or the next year after they had sold their cattle; the fourth of the famine, or perhaps the last, since they ask for seed, ver. 19. In that year Joseph gave back the cattle, &c., to the Egyptians, on condition that they should ever after pay the fifth part of the products of the land to the king, the sole proprietor, who had thus full authority to send them to till any part of his dominions. C.

VER. 19. Servants. A person may part with his liberty to preserve life. M.

VER. 22. Priests. This was done by the king's direction, as they were probably idolaters. M.—The immunities of the sacred ministers have been respected both by Pagans, Jews, and Christians; by all who have had any sentiments of religion. Reason dictates that they should live by the altar. They have to labour for the true interests of the people, and consequently are worthy of their hire. — Which had been given, &c. Inasmuch as their wants were supplied, and the king forbore to claim their land. Heb. "only the land of the priests he, Joseph, bought not." H.—If infidels did so much for their priests, ought we to do less for those of God? S. Chrys. Hom. 65. W.

give to the king; the other four you shall have for seed, and for food for your families and children.

25 And they answered: Our life is in thy hand; only let my lord look favourably upon us, and we will gladly serve the king.

26 From that time unto this day, in the whole land of Egypt, the fifth part is paid to the kings, and it is become us a law, except the land of the priests, which was free from this covenant.

27 So Israel dwelt in Egypt, that is, in the land of Gessen, and possessed it; and grew, and was multiplied exceedingly.

28 And he lived in it seventeen years: and all the days of his life came to a hundred and forty-seven years.

29 *And when he saw that the day of his death drew nigh, he called his son Joseph, and said to him: If I have found favour in thy sight,^b put thy hand under my thigh; and thou shalt show me this kindness and truth, not to bury me in Egypt.

30 But I will sleep with my fathers, and thou shalt take me away out of this land, and bury me in the burying-place of my ancestors. ^cAnd Joseph answered him: I will do what thou hast commanded.

31 And he said: Swear then to me. And as he was swearing, Israel adored God, turning to the bed's head.

CHAP. XLVIII.

Joseph visited his father in his sickness, who adopteth his two sons Manasses and Ephraim, and blesseth them, preferring the younger before the elder.

AFTER these things, it was told Joseph^d that his father was sick; and he set out to go to him, taking his two sons Manasses and Ephraim.

2 And it was told the old man: Behold thy son Joseph cometh to thee. And being strengthened, he sat on his bed.

3 And when Joseph was come in to him, he said: God Almighty appeared to me at Luza, which is in the land of Chanaan, and he blessed me,

4 And said: I will cause thee to increase and multiply, and I will make of thee a multitude of people: and I will give this land to thee, and to thy seed after thee for an everlasting possession.

5 ^eSo thy two sons, who were born to thee in the land of Egypt before I came hither to thee, shall be mine: Ephraim and Manasses shall be reputed to me as Ruben and Simeon.

6 But the rest whom thou shalt have after them, shall be thine, and shall be called by the name of their brethren in their possessions.

7 For, when I came out of Mesopotamia, ^hRachel died from me in the land of Chanaan in the very journey, and it was spring time: and I was going to Ephrata, and I buried her near the way of Ephrata, which by another name is called Bethlehem.

8 Then seeing his sons, he said to him: Who are these?

9 He answered: They are my sons, whom God hath given me in this place. And he said: Bring them to me, that I may bless them.

10 For Israel's eyes were dim by reason of his great age, and he could not see clearly. And when they were brought to him, he kissed and embraced them, 11 And said to his son: I am not deprived of seeing thee; moreover God hath shown me thy seed.

12 And when Joseph had taken them from his father's lap, he bowed down with his face to the ground.

13 And he set Ephraim on his right hand, that is, towards the left hand of Israel; but Manasses on his left hand, to wit, towards his father's right hand, and brought them near to him.

14 But he, stretching forth his right hand, put it upon the head of Ephraim, the younger brother; and the left upon the head of Manasses, who was the elder, changing his hands.

15 ⁱAnd Jacob blessed the sons of Joseph, and said: God, in whose sight my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, God that feedeth me from my youth until this day

16 ^kThe angel that delivereth me from all evils, bless these boys: and let my name be called upon them, and

* A. M. 2315, A. C. 1689.—^b Supra, xxiv. 2.—^c Supra, xxiii. 17.—^d A. M. 2315.
^e Supra, xxviii. 13.—^f Supra, xli. 50.

^g Jos. xiii. 7, and 29.—^h Supra, xxxv. 19.—ⁱ Heb. xi. 21.—^k Supra, xxxi. 29, and xxxii. 2; Matt. xviii. 10.

VER. 26. This day. When Moses wrote, and long after, as we learn from Josephus. S. Clein. Alex., Diod., &c. C.

VER. 29. Thigh. To swear, as the steward of Abraham did. Chap. xxiv. 2. —Kindness and truth. This act of real mercy; or, show me mercy, by promising freely to comply with my request; and truth, by fulfilling this oath. M.

VER. 30. Place. Hebron, where Sara, Abraham, and Isaac reposed. C.

VER. 31. To the bed's head. S. Paul, (Heb. xi. 21,) following the Greek translation of the Septuagint, reads adored the top of his rod. Where note, that the same word in the Hebrew, according to the different pointing of it, signifies both a bed and a rod. And to verify both these sentences, we must understand that Jacob, leaning on Joseph's rod, adored, turning towards the head of his bed: which adoration, inasmuch as it was referred to God, was an absolute and sovereign worship; but inasmuch as it was referred to the rod of Joseph, as a figure of the sceptre, that is, of the royal dignity of Christ, was only an inferior and relative honour. Ch.—S. Aug. proposes another very probable explanation. He adored God, supporting himself on the top of his staff, or of Joseph's sceptre, q. 162. The Sept. and Syriac intimate, that Jacob bowed down respectfully towards the sceptre of his son, and thus complied with the explication which he had given to his dream. Chap. xxxvii. 10. Others, who understand the Hebrew Emte, in the sense given to it by S. Jerom, Aquila, and Symmachus, suppose that after he had given his last instructions to Joseph in a sitting posture, growing weaker, he laid his head again upon his pillow. C.

CHAP. XLVIII. VER. 1. Sick. Worse than when he was with him before. H.

VER. 2. Strengthened; with the thought of seeing this beloved son, and also with the prophetic spirit (M.) of God, which filled him with joy, &c. Gal. v. 22. H.

VER. 4. Possession. He makes mention of this first vision of God to him, to show that he had a right to Chanaan, and to adopt the two children of Joseph, who were each to have as much as his own children. H.

VER. 5. Mine, by adoption; and shall be heads of their respective tribes. M.

VER. 6. Thine. They shall not claim the same prerogative: they shall live among their brethren, Ephraim and Manasses. We read not that Joseph had any other children besides these two. C.—The double portion, or birth-right, was thus transferred from Ruben to Joseph. D.

VER. 7. For when, &c. Heb. "as for me." Do not wonder that I should so earnestly desire to be laid in the tomb of Mambre, whereas your mother was buried at Ephrata. I was in a manner forced to bury her there, by the heat of the weather, (M.) and the confusion to which my family was then exposed, on account of the slaughter of the Sichemites. H.

VER. 11. Deprived. Heb. "I did not expect; or, I durst not pray" to God for a thing which I thought impossible; I mean, the happiness of seeing thee; and lo, God, &c.

VER. 14. Changing. By the preference given to Ephraim, he foreshowed his royal dignity, in giving kings to the ten tribes, (Euseb.,) and that his tribe would surpass that of his brother in glory and numbers (ver. 19); and lastly, give birth to that great leader, Josue; who, as a figure of Christ, should introduce the Israelites into the promised land. M.—The custom of imposing hands on a person, is of high antiquity, and is still practised in the Christian church in the ordination of her ministers. Num. viii. 10; Acts vi. 6. See Matt. xix. 13; Num. xxvii. 23. C.

VER. 16. The angel guardian, who, by God's ordinance, has ever protected me, continue his kind attention towards these my grandchildren. It is not probable that he, who was called God before, should now be styled an angel, as some Protestants would have us believe. H.—S. Basil c. Eunom. iii. and ^e the names of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and may they grow into a multitude upon the earth.

17 And Joseph seeing that his father had put his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, was much displeased: and taking his father's hand, he tried to lift it from Ephraim's head, and to remove it to the head of Manasses.

18 And he said to his father: It should not be so, my father; for this is the first-born, put thy right hand upon his head.

19 But he refusing, said: I know, my son, I know: and this also shall become a people, and shall be multiplied; but his younger brother shall be greater than he; and his seed shall grow into nations.

20 And he blessed them at that time, saying: In thee shall Israel be blessed, and it shall be said: God do to thee as to Ephraim, and as to Manasses. And he set Ephraim before Manasses.

21 And he said to Joseph, his son: Behold I die, and God will be with you, and will bring you back into the land of your fathers.

22 *I give thee a portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorrite^b with my sword and bow.

CHAP. XLIX.

Jacob's prophetic blessings of his twelve sons. His death.

AND Jacob called his sons, and said to them: Gather yourselves together, that I may tell you the things that shall befall you in the last days.

* Jos. xvi. 1, and xv. 7.—^b Jos. xxiv. 8; Deut. xiii. 16.—^c Supra, xxxv. 22; 1 Par. v. 1.

Chrysostom, with many others, allege this text to prove that an angel is given to man for the direction of his life, and to protect him against the assaults of the rebel angels, as Calvin himself dares not deny. W.

VER. 17. Displeased (graviter accepit); was grieved to see the elder son neglected; and, thinking it might possibly proceed from a mistake, as his father's eyes were so dim that he did not know them, (ver. 8.) he ventured to suggest his sentiments to his father; but acquiesced in his decision. H.

VER. 19. A people (in populos). He shall be father of many peoples. The tribe of Manasses was divided, and had a large territory on either side of the Jordan, immediately north of that which fell to the lots of Ephraim and of Gad. II.—Grow. Heb. "shall be the fulness of nations;" or shall possess every thing that can make a nation great and enviable. The event justified this prediction. Ephraim was at the head of the ten tribes, most valiant and powerful. 3 Kings xi. 26. C.

VER. 22. Thee. In thy posterity; and particularly in Ephraim, to whose lot it shall fall.—A portion. Heb. sechem; which the Sept. explain of the city, or field near it, which Jacob had formerly purchased; and which, being wrested from him after he had left that country, by the Amorrites, he recovered by the sword. Masius.—The particulars of this transaction are not given in Scripture. M.—The children of Joseph buried their father in this field. Jos. xxiv. 32. There also was Jacob's well. John iv. 5. We have already observed, that Jacob restored whatever his sons had taken unjustly from the unhappy Sichemites. Chap. xxxiv. 30.

CHAP. XLIX. VER. 1. Last. Heb. "future days." It was an ancient and commendable custom for parents to assemble their children in their last moments, to give them salutary instructions. They often also foretold to them what should happen. See Deut. xxxi; Jos. ult.; 1 Kings xii; Tob. iv. 3; 1 Mac. ii. C.

VER. 3. My strength, &c. He calls him his strength, as being born whilst his father was in his full strength and vigour; he calls him the beginning of his sorrow, because cures and sorrows usually come on with the birth of children.—Excelling in gifts, &c., because the first-born had a title to a double portion, and to have the command over his brethren, which Ruben forfeited by his sin. Ch.

VER. 4. Grow thou not. This was not meant by way of a curse or imprecation; but by way of a prophecy, foretelling that the tribe of Ruben should not inherit the pre-eminences usually annexed to the first birth-right, viz. the double portion, the being prince or lord over the other brethren, and the priesthood: of which the double portion was given to Joseph, the princely office to Juda, and the priesthood to Levi. Ch.

VER. 6. Slew a man, viz. Sicheim, the son of Hemor, with all his people. Chap. xxxiv. Ch.—A wall, Sicheim, which they destroyed. Jacob declares he had no share in their attack upon the people of Sicheim: his soul, or his glory, was not impaired by their misconduct. H.

VER. 7. Scatter them. Levi had no division allotted to him, but only some cities among the other tribes; and Simeon had only a part of Juda's lot, which was so small, that his descendants were forced to seek for a fresh establishment;

2 Gather yourselves together, and hear, O ye sons of Jacob, hearken to Israel, your father:

3 Ruben, my first-born, thou art my strength and the beginning of my sorrow; excelling in gifts, greater in command.

4 Thou art poured out as water, grow thou not: because thou wentest up to thy father's bed, and didst defile his couch.

5 Simeon and Levi brethren: vessels of iniquity waging war.

6 Let not my soul go into their counsel, nor my glory be in their assembly: because in their fury they slew a man, and in their self-will they undermined a wall.

7 Cursed be their fury, because it was stubborn: and their wrath, because it was cruel: I will divide them in Jacob, and will scatter them in Israel.

8 Juda, thee shall thy brethren praise: thy hand shall be on the necks of thy enemies; the sons of thy father shall bow down to thee.

9 Juda is a lion's whelp: to the prey, my son, thou art gone up: resting thou hast couched as a lion, and as a lioness, who shall rouse him?

10 The sceptre shall not be taken away from Juda nor a ruler from his thigh, till he come that is to be sent, and he shall be the expectation of nations.

11 Tying his foal to the vineyard, and his ass, O my son, to the vine. He shall wash his robe in wine, and his garment in the blood of the grape.

^a Supra, xxxiv. 25.—^b Jos. xix. 1.—^c 1 Par. v. 2.—^d Matt. ii. 6; John i. 43.

some in Gader, others in Mount Seir. 1 Par. iv. 39; Jos. xix. 2. D.—The Levites obtained a blessing, on account of their distinguished zeal (Num. xxv.); while Zambri rivets, as it were, the curse upon the family of Simeon. M.

VER. 8. Praise. He alludes to his name, his martial prowess, and dominion over all his brethren; who should be all called Jews, and submit to his sway. II.

VER. 9. A lion's whelp, &c. This blessing of Juda foretelleth the strength of his tribe, the fertility of his inheritance, and principally that the sceptre, and legislative power, should not be utterly taken away from his race till about the time of the coming of Christ: as in effect it never was: which is a demonstration against the modern Jews, that the Messiah is long since come; for the sceptre has long since been utterly taken away from Juda. Ch.—This none can deny. Juda is compared to a lion, which was the emblem of his royal dignity, and was borne in the standards of that tribe.

VER. 10. The sceptre. Almost every word in this verse has been explained in a different manner. But all the ancient Jews agree with Christians, that it contains a prediction of the Messiah, and points out the period of his coming. Whether this was verified when Herod, a foreigner, got possession of the throne, and was acknowledged by the Jews, just about the time of our Saviour's nativity, as most of the Fathers suppose; or it only took its full effect when Agrippa II. lost all his power, the temple and city were laid in ruins, and the whole nation dispersed for ever, it is not perhaps so easy to determine. In either supposition, the Messiah has long since come. Jacob foretells, either that Christ would make his appearance as soon as the Jews should fall under a foreign yoke, and in this sense he was born about the 37th year of Herod the Great—or he should come just before the kingdom of Juda should have an end, which took place in the 70th year of the Christian era, or about 37 years after the public appearance and death of our Saviour.—The sceptre shall not depart irrevocably from the Jews; over whom the tribe of Juda had always the greatest authority in appointing the princes, when they were not selected from the tribe itself, or from his thigh; till the Messiah, who has been expected so long, shall come and gather all nations into his Church. The sceptre is the emblem of sovereign, though not always independent, power. Juda and his posterity were always at the head of their brethren. But their chief glory began with David, whose posterity the whole nation obeyed, till Jeroboam tore away the ten tribes. Still the tribe of Benjamin and the Levites adhered to Juda. During the captivity there were judges admitted to superintend over their brethren; and K. Joakim was raised to high authority. The rulers who came into power after the return of the Jews, were either of this tribe, at least by the mother's side, or were chosen and recognised by the tribe of Juda. Even Herod, in this sense, might be considered as a Jewish king, though a foreigner. Perhaps, indeed, he was an usurper, till the nation acknowledged his authority two years after the birth of Christ. Philo de Temp. ii. Joseph. Ant. xvii. 3. "Herod was the first foreign king admitted by the Jews." S. Aug. de C. D. xviii. 45. If, therefore, no stranger was to be acknowledged by the nation till he came, who was to establish a spiritual and everlasting kingdom, the moment was arrived, when the Jews submitted to Herod.

12 His eyes are more beautiful than wine, and his teeth whiter than milk.

13 Zabulon shall dwell on the sea-shore, and in the road of ships, reaching as far as Sidon.

14 Issachar shall be a strong ass, lying down between the borders.

15 He saw rest that it was good: and the land that it was excellent: and he bowed his shoulder to carry, and became a servant under tribute.

16 Dan shall judge his people like another tribe in Israel.

17 Let Dan be a snake in the way, a serpent in the path, that biteth the horse's heels, that his rider may fall backward.

18 I will look for thy salvation, O Lord.

19 Gad, being girded, shall fight before him: and he himself shall be girded backward.

20 Aser, his bread shall be fat, and he shall yield dainties to kings.

21 Nephtali, a hart let loose, and giving words of beauty.

22 *Joseph is a growing son, a growing son and comely to behold: the daughters run to and fro upon the wall;

23 But they that held darts, provoked him, and quarrelled with him, and envied him.

24 His bow rested upon the strong, and the bands of his arms and his hands were loosed, by the hands of the mighty one of Jacob: thence he came forth a pastor, the stone of Israel.

25 The God of thy father shall be thy helper, and the Almighty shall bless thee with the blessings of heaven and Christ had actually been born two years.—From Juda, or from that tribe; for Jacob gave peculiar blessings to each (ver. 28); and hence the Fathers gather, that the Messias should spring from Juda.—Ruler from his thigh, lineally descended from him, or acknowledged at least by his posterity, as all the legal princes were till the coming of Christ. C.—Expectation, or congregation of nations, as Ageus afterwards foretold, ii. 8. If we examine all the plausible explanations which have been given to this verse, we shall find that they all tend to convey the same truth. "The sceptre (sabot, rod, crook, power, or tribe) shall not depart (cease, be taken off) from Juda, (the tribe or the Jews,) nor a leader (scribe, lawyer, or legislator) from his thigh, (between his feet, or from his banners,) till He, who shall be sent, (schilo, the pacific, his son, to whom it is, or the things are, reserved,) arrive; and Him shall the nations expect, (and obey,) to Him they shall look up (and be gathered). Whom will the Jews point out to whom all these characters agree, except our Divine Lord, whom they also must one day adore? H.

* 1 Par. v. 1.—b Supra, xxiii. 17.

VER. 11. Foal. The nations, which had not been subjected to the yoke of the old law.—Vineyard; the house of Israel, the vineyard of the Lord of hosts. Isa. v. 7.—His ass, or the Jews.—O my son; Juda, the Saviour king, who shall be born of thee, shall tie both Jews and Gentiles to the vine, which is himself. John xv. To the Jews he shall preach in person: but the Gentiles he shall call by his apostles, chosen out of the vineyard of the Jewish church. M.—He shall wash his robe, his flesh, and his garment, or all his disciples, in his own blood; adorning them with all graces by means of his death, which must be applied to their souls, in the holy sacraments devoutly received, and in the Mass, where his blood is offered under the appearance of wine. H.

VER. 12. Beautiful. The spouse in the Canticle, (ver. 12,) compares the eyes of the bridegroom to the shining reddish or fiery ones of pigeons: ebili, beautiful, means shining red, &c.

VER. 13. Road. The territory of Zabulon was famous for good harbours, being situated between the Mediterranean and the sea of Genezereth. M.—Jacob marks out the limits to be assigned his children, 200 years before Chanaan was conquered; and Moses wrote this before they possessed a foot of land in it. The reason why Zabulon is placed before his elder brother Issachar, is not known.—Sidon; not the city, but the territory of Sidon, or Phenicia. C.

VER. 16. Dan shall judge, &c. This was verified in Samson, who was of the tribe of Dan, and began to deliver Israel. Judges xiii. 5. But as this deliverance was but temporal and very imperfect, the holy patriarch (ver. 18) aspires after another kind of deliverer, saying: I will look for thy salvation, O Lord. Ch.—Many have supposed that Antichrist will be one of his descendants, above, with the blessings of the deep that lieth beneath with the blessings of the breasts and of the womb.

26 The blessings of thy father are strengthened with the blessings of his fathers: until the desire of the everlasting hills should come: may they be upon the head of Joseph, and upon the crown of the Nazarite among his brethren.

27 Benjamin a ravenous wolf, in the morning shall eat the prey, and in the evening shall divide the spoil.

28 All these are the twelve tribes of Israel: these things their father spoke to them, and he blessed every one with their proper blessings.

29 And he charged them, saying: I am now going to be gathered to my people: bury me with my fathers in the double cave, which is in the field of Ephron the Hethite, 30 Over against Mambre, in the land of Chanaan,* which Abraham bought together with the field, of Ephron the Hethite, for a possession to bury in.

31 There they buried him, and Sara his wife: there was Isaac buried with Rebecca, his wife: there also Lia doth lie buried.

32 And when he had ended the commandments, wherewith he instructed his sons, he drew up his feet upon the bed, and died: and he was gathered to his people.^c

CHAP. L.

The mourning for Jacob, and his interment. Joseph's kindness towards his brethren. His death.

AND when Joseph saw this, he fell upon his father's face, weeping and kissing him.

2 And he commanded his servants, the physicians, to embalm his father.

c A. M. 2315, A. C. 1689.

which makes Jacob break out into this exclamation. H.—See S. Iren v. 30, &c. Samson exercised his ingenuity in discomfiting the Philistines. But Antichrist will be far more subtle in deluding the faithful. M.—The Danites took Laie, afterwards called Casarea Philippi, by stratagem. Judges xviii. T.

VER. 19. Gad, being girded, &c. It seems to allude to the tribe of Gad; when, after they had received for their lot the land of Galaad, they marched in arms before the rest of the Israelites, to the conquest of the land of Chanaan: from whence they afterwards returned loaded with spoils. See Josue i. and xii. Ch.

VER. 21. A hart. Barach was of this tribe, and seemed rather timid, till he was encouraged by Debora; and his victory gave occasion to that beautiful hymn, Judges v. C.

VER. 22. Run to and fro, &c. To behold his beauty; whilst his envious brethren turned their darts against him, &c. Ch.

VER. 24. His bow rested upon the strong, &c. That is, upon God, who was his strength: who also loosed his bands, and brought him out of prison to be the pastor, that is, the feeder and ruler of Egypt; and the stone, that is, the rock and support of Israel.

VER. 26. The blessings of thy father, &c. That is, thy father's blessings are made more prevalent and effectual in thy regard, by the additional strength they receive from his inheriting the blessings of his progenitors Abraham and Isaac.—The desire of the everlasting hills, &c. These blessings all looked forward towards Christ, called the desire of the everlasting hills, as being longed for, as it were, by the whole creation.—The Nazarite. This word signifies one separated; and agrees to Joseph, as being separated from, and more eminent than, his brethren. As the ancient Nazarites were so called from their being set aside for God, and vowed to him. Ch.—These blessings were perhaps forfeited by the misconduct of his posterity, when Jeroboam set up the worship of the golden calves; though probably many would subsist of the tribes of Ephraim and Manasses till the coming of the Messias. T.

VER. 27. Wolf; alluding to the wars in defence of the inhabitants of Gaba and those waged by Saul, Mardocheus, &c. M.—Judges xix. and xx. S. Paul was of this tribe; and, from a fiery zealot, became an eminent apostle. S. Aug., &c. T.

VER. 29. To be gathered to my people. That is, I am going to die, and so to follow my ancestors that are gone before me, and to join their company in another world. Ch.

CHAP. L. VER. 2. Physicians, whose business it was to embalm dead bodies, with a composition of myrrh, &c., in order to keep them from putrefaction, (M.) as the Egyptian mummies are treated. H.—This was an honour peculiar to the kings. Before any person was buried, his praises were rehearsed; and it was

3 And while they were fulfilling his commands, there passed forty days: for this was the manner with bodies that were embalmed, and Egypt mourned for him seventy days.

4 And the time of the mourning being expired, Joseph spoke to the family of Pharaoh: If I have found favour in your sight, speak in the ears of Pharaoh:

5 For my father made me swear to him, saying: Behold I die; thou shalt bury me in my sepulchre* which I have digged for myself in the land of Chanaan. So I will go up and bury my father, and return.

6 And Pharaoh said to him: Go up and bury thy father according as he made thee swear.

7 So he went up, and there went with him all the ancients of Pharaoh's house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt.

8 And the house of Joseph with his brethren, except their children, and their flocks and herds, which they left in the land of Gessen.

9 He had also in his train chariots and horsemen: and it was a great company.

10 And they came to the threshing floor of Atad, which is situated beyond the Jordan: where celebrating the exequies with a great and vehement lamentation, they spent full seven days.

11 And when the inhabitants of Chanaan saw this, they said: This is a great mourning to the Egyptians. And therefore the name of that place was called, The mourning of Egypt.

12 So the sons of Jacob did as he had commanded them.

13 And carrying him into the land of Chanaan, ^bthey buried him in the double cave, which Abraham had bought together with the field for a possession of a burying place, of Ephron, the Hethite, over against Mambre.

14 And Joseph returned into Egypt with his brethren,

* Supra, xlvii. 29.—^b Acts vii. 16; Supra, xxiii. 17.—^c Supra, xlv. 5.
^d Supra, xlvii. 12.

and all that were in his company, after he had buried his father.

15 Now he being dead, his brethren were afraid, and talked one with another: Lest perhaps he should remember the wrong he suffered, and requite us all the evil that we did to him.

16 And they sent a message to him, saying: Thy father commanded us before he died, 17 That we should say thus much to thee from him I beseech thee to forget the wickedness of thy brethren, and the sin and malice they practised against thee: we also pray thee, to forgive the servants of the God of thy father this wickedness. And when Joseph heard this, he wept.

18 And his brethren came to him; and worshipping prostrate on the ground, they said: We are thy servants.

19 And he answered them: Fear not: can we resist the will of God?

20 'You thought evil against me: but God turned it into good, that he might exalt me, as at present you see, and might save many people.

21 'Fear not: I will feed you and your children. And he comforted them, and spoke gently and mildly.

22 And he dwelt in Egypt with all his father's house; and lived a hundred and ten years. And he saw the children of Ephraim to the third generation. 'The children also of Machir, the son of Manasses, were born on Joseph's knees.

23 After which he told his brethren: 'God will visit you after my death, and will make you go up out of this land, to the land which he swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

24 And he made them swear to him, saying: God will visit you, ^ecarry my bones with you out of this place:

25 ^bAnd he died, being a hundred and ten years old. And being embalmed, he was laid in a coffin in Egypt.

* Num. xxxii. 39.—^f Heb. xi. 22.—^g Exod. xiii. 19; Jos. xxiv. 32.
^h A. M. 2369, A. C. 1635.

lawful on this occasion to declare, what evil even the kings themselves had done; which sometimes caused them to be deprived of funeral honours. We have several funeral canticles preserved in Scripture, 2 Kings i. 18; iii. 33; 2 Par. xxxv. 25. C.—The usual time for mourning among the Jews, was 30 days for people of eminence, (Num. xx.; Deut. xxxiv. 8; Procopius,) and seven for the rest. Eccli. xxii. 13. H.

VER. 5. Digged, in the sepulchre which Abraham had purchased. This circumstance, and the exact words here used by Joseph, are not mentioned elsewhere. H.

VER. 10. Atad, which was so called, from being encompassed with thorns. C.—Beyond; with relation to Moses, (H.) or on the west side of the Jordan. C.

VER. 11. Mourning: Heb. "Abel Mizraim beyond the Jordan." On this occasion they fasted till the evening: perhaps they also cut their flesh and plucked their hair, according to the manners of the Egyptians, which customs (Lev. xix. 28; Deut. xiv. 1) were prohibited to the Jews. T.

VER. 17. Wept, that they should entertain no doubts respecting the reconciliation, which had taken place seventeen years before. H.

VER. 19. Resist, &c. Heb. "Am I not subject to God; or, Am I a God," to oppose his will. Sept. "I belong to the Lord." You see that your designs against me have turned to our mutual advantage. Can I, therefore, think of punishing you? Repent, and obtain pardon of God: I certainly forgive you. H. —Thus God drew good out of the evil, in which he had no share. S. Aug. de C. D. xiv. 27. S. Chrys. hom. 67.

VER. 22. And ten; consequently he had been governor of all the land eighty years; God having made him abundant recompence, even in this world, for a transient disgrace! H.

VER. 24. Carry my bones. He would have them to keep his bones till the time of their departure, as an earnest that they should certainly obtain the land of Chanaan; and thus his bones were visited, and after death, they prophesied. Eccli. xlix. 18.

VER. 25. Embalmed, like the Egyptian mummies, or mummies, which is a Persian word, signifying a dried corpse. Some of them are very magnificent, adorned with golden letters and hieroglyphics, various bandages, &c. They are laid in coffins. Some pretend that Joseph was afterwards adored in Egypt, under the names of Scapis and Osiris: but the grounds of this supposition are only a few uncertain etymologies and emblems, which might agree with him as well as with those modern deities. C.—His greatest glory was, to have prefigured Jesus Christ in so wonderful a manner during the course of his life, and to have been replenished with all the graces which could form the character of a great man and a saint. H.

THE BOOK OF EXODUS.

The second Book of Moses is called EXODUS, from the Greek word Εξοδος, which signifies going out; because it contains the history of the going out of the children of Israel out of Egypt. The Hebrews, from the words with which it begins, call it VEELLE SEMOTH: These are the names. Ch.—It contains the space of 145 years, till the beginning of the second year after the liberation of the Israelites. T.—Their slavery is described in the first chapters; and is supposed to have continued 90 years. D.—The laws prescribed by God to his people, the sacrifices, tabernacle, &c., were all intended to prefigure the Christian dispensation. S. Aug. de C. D. vii. 31.—Moses himself was a type of Jesus Christ, who was rejected by the synagogue, and received by the Gentiles, as the Jewish legislator was abandoned by his mother, and educated by the Egyptian princess. She delivers him back to his mother; and thus the Jews will, at last, acknowledge our Saviour. D.—God deigns to address his people in the character of a powerful Eastern monarch, and requires the like attention. He appoints his ministers, like guards, to attend before his tabernacle, &c. The laws which he enacts are such as suited the Jewish people: they were not able to rise all at once to perfection; but these laws guide them, as it were, on the road. They are infinitely more perfect than those of the surrounding nations. C.

CHAPTER I.

The Israelites are multiplied in Egypt. They are oppressed by a new king, who commandeth all their male children to be killed.

THESE are the names of the children of Israel,* that went into Egypt with Jacob: they went in every man with his household:

- 2 Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Juda,
- 3 Issachar, Zabulon, and Benjamin,
- 4 Dan and Nephtali, Gad and Aser.

5 And all the souls that came out of Jacob's thigh, were seventy:^b but Joseph was in Egypt.

6 After he was dead, and all his brethren, and all that generation,

7 *The children of Israel increased, and sprung up into multitudes, and growing exceedingly strong they filled the land.

8 In the mean time there arose a new king over Egypt, that knew not Joseph:

9 And he said to his people: Behold the people of the children of Israel are numerous and stronger than we.

10 Come let us wisely oppress them, lest they multiply: and if any war shall rise against us, join with our enemies, and having overcome us, depart out of the land.

11 Therefore he set over them masters of the works, to afflict them with burdens: and they built for Pharaoh cities of tabernacles, Phithom, and Ramesses.

12 But the more they oppressed them, the more they were multiplied and increased.

* Gen. xlii. 8.—^b Gen. xlii. 27.

CHAP. I. VER. 3. And Benjamin. He is mentioned here because he was the son of Rachel, as the preceding were the children of Lia. The offspring of the handmaids follow. H.

VER. 5. Seventy: Sept. "75," including the offspring of Joseph. See Gen. xlii. 26.

VER. 6. The tyrant, who knew not Joseph, began his reign about 58 years after that patriarch's death. C.—His name was Pharaoh Amenophis, (Perer.) or Ramesses Miamum. Usher.

VER. 9. Numerous. Calvisius observes, that from Ephraim alone might have sprung 4,112,323,729 people. See S. Aug. q. 43, &c. H.—In the space of 215 years 70 people may produce an immense multitude, as Bonfrere shows by an accurate calculation. God also was pleased to bless the Hebrews with fecundity, so that they sprung up (ebullierunt) like frogs or fishes, ver. 7. T.—The king justifies his cruelty on this pretext of self-defence. He wishes to keep the Hebrews under; yet he is not willing to let them depart, as he knew they intended, according to Joseph's prediction. H.—God permitted this disposition, in order to punish his people for their idolatry, (Ezee. xxiii. 8,) to admonish them not to fix their abode in Egypt, and to manifest his power and glory in the destruction of the impious. M.

VER. 11. Masters. Cruel like himself, who not only made them build without proper materials, (ver. 14, and chap. v. 10. H.) but oppressed them with heavy burdens of brick and tile.—Of tabernacles, or of storehouses. Ch.—To keep his treasures, Chal. or "fortresses," Sept. It may also be the name of a city, Mischenot. Chap. xii. 37.

VER. 14. Service. They were forced to till the land, reap, &c. M

13 And the Egyptians hated the children of Israel, and afflicted them and mocked them:

14 And they made their life bitter with hard works in clay and brick, and with all manner of service, wherewith they were overcharged in the works of the earth.

15 And the king of Egypt spoke to the midwives of the Hebrews: of whom one was called Sephora, the other Phua, 16 Commanding them: When you shall do the office of midwives to the Hebrew women, and the time of delivery is come: if it be a man child, kill it: if a woman, keep it alive.

17 But the midwives feared God, and did not do as the king of Egypt had commanded, but saved the men children.

18 And the king called for them and said: What is it that you meant to do, that you would save the men children?

19 They answered: The Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women: for they themselves are skilful in the office of a midwife; and they are delivered before we come to them.

20 Therefore God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied and grew exceedingly strong.

21 And because the midwives feared God, he built them houses.

22 Pharaoh therefore charged all his people, saying: Whatsoever shall be born of the male sex, ye shall cast into the river: whatsoever of the female, ye shall save alive.

* Acts vii. 17.

VER. 15. Midwives. Egyptian women, who assisted all of that district. Josephus xi. 5. There were others under them. Some think all these midwives were of Hebrew extraction, as their names are Hebrew, &c. C.

VER. 19. Skilful, &c. By this allusion they not only excuse themselves, but seem also to enter into the king's sentiments of hatred and scorn for the Hebrews. M.—Perhaps the midwives spoke truth with regard to the generality of the Hebrew women. But they gave way to a lie of excuse, with regard to some, (ver. 17,) which S. Augustine would not allow, even to save all the Hebrew children; c. Mend. 15. It was not so easy to discover this delusion, as women in that country seldom appear in public; and hence Jochabed was enabled to hide Moses so long. C.

VER. 21. Because the midwives feared God, &c. The midwives were rewarded, not for their lie, which was a venial sin; but for their fear of God, and their humanity: but this reward was only temporal, in building them houses, that is, in establishing and enriching their families. Ch.—Some conclude from this verse, that the midwives embraced the true religion. The Hebrew refers built them to the Hebrews, as if they multiplied in consequence of the humanity of these women (C.); and the Vulgate may be explained in the same sense. H.

VER. 22. The river Nile, where the persecuting successor of this king found his end. H.—It seems this inhuman decree was not published till after Aaron was born, and it was probably revoked soon after the birth of Moses: for if it had been rigorously put in execution, there would have been nothing but old men 80 years after, when Moses led the people out of Egypt. C.—But perhaps even the Egyptians abhorred and refused to execute this edict. M.

CHAP. II.

Moses is born, and exposed on the bank of the river; where he is taken up by the daughter of Pharaoh, and adopted for her son. He killeth an Egyptian, and fleeth into Madian; where he marrieth a wife.

AFTER this there went a man of the house of Levi;^a and took a wife of his own kindred.

2 And she conceived, and bore a son:^b and seeing him a goodly child, hid him three months.^c

3 And when she could hide him no longer, she took a basket made of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and pitch: and put the little babe therein, and laid him in the sedges by the river's brink,

4 His sister standing afar off, and taking notice what would be done.

5 And behold the daughter of Pharaoh came down to wash herself in the river: and her maids walked by the river's brink. And when she saw the basket in the sedges, she sent one of her maids for it: and when it was brought,

6 She opened it, and seeing within it an infant crying, having compassion on it, she said: This is one of the babes of the Hebrews.

7 And the child's sister said to her: Shall I go, and call to thee a Hebrew woman, to nurse the babe?

8 She answered: Go. The maid went and called her mother.

9 And Pharaoh's daughter said to her: Take this child, and nurse him for me: I will give thee thy wages. The woman took and nursed the child: and when he was grown up, she delivered him to Pharaoh's daughter.

10 And she adopted him for a son, and called him Moses, saying: Because I took him out of the water.

11 "In those days, after Moses was grown up, he went out to his brethren: and saw their affliction, and an Egyptian striking one of the Hebrews, his brethren.

12 And when he had looked about this way and that way, and saw no one there, he slew the Egyptian and hid him in the sand.

13 And going out the next day, he saw two Hebrews quarrelling: and he said to him that did the wrong: Why strikest thou thy neighbour?

14 But he answered: Who hath appointed thee prince

^a Infra, vi. 20.—^b Heb. xi. 23.—^c A. M. 2433, A. C. 1571.—^d A. M. 2473, A. C. 1531.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. After this. In process of time, without reference to what immediately precedes. The Heb. and Sept. omit these words. H.

VER. 2. Goodly. Handsome, elegant, Heb. xi. 23; agreeable to God, Acts vii. 20. Josephus says, Amram had been assured by God that the child should be the deliverer of his people. Yet he neglects not to use every prudent precaution. W.—Months. Heb. moons; whence some erroneously infer that the Hebrew year was not solar. C.

VER. 3. Bulrushes, or paper plant, growing on the banks of the Nile. Such little vessels were used in Egypt in Lucan's time. Conseritur bibula Memphis cymba papyro. M.—Sedges, to prevent it from being carried away by the stream.

VER. 4. His sister, Mary, who was about 12 years' old. M.

VER. 10. Moses, or Moyses, in the Egyptian tongue, signifies one taken or saved out of the water. Ch.—Philo believes that the princess feigned him to be her own child. Moses denied that he was, and would not take advantage of this adoption, Heb. xi. 24. He was grown up, and had been well instructed by his parents, ver. 9. He afterwards became well versed in all the sciences, (Acts vii. 22.) rejecting what was idle and superstitious. C.

VER. 12. He slew the Egyptian. This he did by a particular inspiration of God; as a prelude to his delivering the people from their oppression and bondage. He thought, says S. Stephen, (Acts vii. 25,) that his brethren understood that God by his hand would save them. But such particular and extraordinary examples are not to be imitated. Ch.—He was inspired, on this occasion, to stand up in defence of the innocent. M. S. Tho. ii. 2, q. 60.—The laws of Egypt required every person to protect the oppressed; or, if unable to do it, he was to call in the aid of the magistrate. Dion. i. C.—Moses looked round to see if there was any help near. He was 40 years old when he was forced to flee.

and judge over us? wilt thou kill me, as thou didst yesterday kill the Egyptian? Moses feared, and said: How is this come to be known?

15 And Pharaoh heard of this word, and sought to kill Moses: but he fled from his sight, and abode in the land of Madian, and he sat down by a well.

16 And the priest of Madian had seven daughters, who came to draw water: and when the troughs were filled, desired to water their father's flocks.

17 And the shepherds came and drove them away: and Moses arose, and defending the maids, watered their sheep.

18 And when they returned to Raguel their father, he said to them: Why are ye come sooner than usual?

19 They answered: A man of Egypt delivered us from the hands of the shepherds: and he drew water also with us, and gave the sheep to drink.

20 But he said: Where is he? why have you let the man go? call him that he may eat bread.

21 And Moses swore that he would dwell with him. And he took Sephora his daughter to wife:

22 And she bore him a son, whom he called Gersam, saying: I have been a stranger in a foreign country. And she bore another, whom he called Eliezer, saying: For the God of my father, my helper, hath delivered me out of the hand of Pharaoh.

23 Now after a long time the king of Egypt died: and the children of Israel groaning, cried out because of the works: and their cry went up unto God from the works.

24 And he heard their groaning, and remembered the covenant which he made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

25 And the Lord looked upon the children of Israel, and he knew them.

CHAP. III.

God appeareth to Moses in a bush, and sendeth him to deliver Israel.

NOW^a Moses fed the sheep of Jethro, his father-in-law, the priest of Madian: and he drove the flock to the inner parts of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, Horeb.

2 ^bAnd the Lord appeared to him in a flame of fire out

^a Heb. xi. 24.—^b Infra, xviii. 2. and 3; 1 Par. xxiii. 15.—^c A. M. 2513, A. C. 1491.—^d Acts vii. 30.

VER. 14. Feared. S. Paul (Heb. xi. 27) is speaking of his leaving Egypt, at the head of the people, when he says, not fearing the fierceness of the king. Without being dismayed on this occasion, by the unexpected discovery of what he had done, (which was perhaps undesignedly made public by the Hebrew whom he had rescued,) he resolves not to tempt God. H.

VER. 15. Madian. A city and country of Arabia, which took its name from Madian the son of Abraham, by Cetura, and was peopled by his posterity. Ch.

VER. 16. Priest. Heb. cohen, (or cen,) means also a prince, as the Chal. has it. When put in this manner, with the name of a place, it is generally taken in this sense. But formerly kings were also priests. Jethro served the true God, like Job, in the midst of a perverse generation, and offered sacrifice to him, when he joined the camp of the Israelites. Exod. xviii. 11. C.

VER. 18. Raguel. He had two names, being also called Jethro, as appears from the first verse of the following chapter. Ch.—He is also called Hobab and Ceni. Num. x. 2; Judg. i. 16.

VER. 22. Gersam, or Gershom. This name signifies, a stranger there: as Eliezer signifies the help of God. Ch.

VER. 25. Knew them that is, he had respect to them, he cast a merciful eye upon them. Ch.—Heb. "he had regard for them;" and, as some Latin copies read, delivered them. C.

CHAP. III. VER. 1. Fed for the space of 40 years.—Of God, on account of its height; or on account of God's appearing to Moses.—Horeb is so close to Mount Sinai, that the shadow of the latter reaches it when the sun rises. C.

VER. 2 The Lord appeared. That is, an angel representing God, and speaking in his name. Ch. Acts vii. 30; Gal. iii. 19.—The apparitions of God to the patriarchs are generally understood in this sense. S. Aug. de Trin. iii. 11.

of the midst of a bush : and he saw that the bush was on fire, and was not burnt.

3 And Moses said : I will go, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt.

4 And when the Lord saw that he went forward to see, he called to him out of the midst of the bush, and said : Moses, Moses. And he answered : Here I am.

5 And he said : Come not nigh hither, put off the shoes from thy feet ; for the place, whereon thou standest, is holy ground.

6 And he said : I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Moses hid his face : for he durst not look at God.

7 And the Lord said to him : I have seen the affliction of my people in Egypt, and I have heard their cry because of the rigour of them that are over the works ;

8 And knowing their sorrow, I am come down to deliver them out of the hands of the Egyptians, and to bring them out of that land into a good and spacious land, into a land that floweth with milk and honey, to the places of the Chanaanite, and Hethite, and Amorrite, and Pherezite, and Hevite, and Jebusite.

9 For the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me : and I have seen their affliction, wherewith they are oppressed by the Egyptians.

10 But come, and I will send thee to Pharaoh, that thou mayst bring forth my people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt.

11 And Moses said to God : Who am I that I should go to Pharaoh, and should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt ?

12 And he said to him : I will be with thee ; and this thou shalt have for a sign that I have sent thee : When thou shalt have brought my people out of Egypt, thou shalt offer sacrifice to God upon this mountain.

13 Moses said to God : Lo I shall go to the children of Israel, and say to them : The God of your fathers hath sent me to you. If they shall say to me : What is his name ? What shall I say to them ?

14 God said to Moses : I AM WHO AM. He said : Thus shalt thou say to the children of Israel : HE WHO IS, hath sent me to you.

a Matt. xxii. 32 ; Mark xii. 26 ; Luke xx. 37.

W.—Yet many of the Fathers suppose that this angel was no other than the Son of God, the Angel of the great council, (Mal. iii. 1.) and S. Aug. (q. 2, in Ex.) does not disapprove of this opinion. C.—God is styled a consuming fire, Deut. iv. 24. He appeared in fire again, chap. xxiv. 17. C.

VER. 5. Shoes. The Ethiopian Christians and the Turks never enter their churches, or mosques, without putting off their shoes. The priests did the like when they entered the temple of Jerusalem. C.—We observe the same ceremony, out of respect for Jesus Christ, when we go to kiss the cross. H. See Lev. ii. 25.

VER. 6. Hid, out of respect, and perhaps fearing lest he should die. Gen. xvi. 13. C.—God takes the title of these three patriarchs, because he had promised Chanaan to each of them, and because they were eminent for virtue. God is repeated thrice, to insinuate the mystery of the blessed Trinity. M.

VER. 8. Spacious, compared with that of Gessen. Chanaan was not above 210 miles long, and 70 broad. Brocard. S. Jerom does not allow so much. Hecateus says the Jews had three million acres of excellent land.—Milk and honey are still very plentiful in Palestine, (C.) though the country has lost much of its ancient beauty and luxuriance for want of cultivation.

VER. 12. A sign. Moses had modestly represented his own inability to perform so great a work, and such God generally selects. He encourages him therefore with a sign, to the splendour of which he was then a witness ; and with another, which should appear in future, to convince him and all the world that the undertaking was from God, when they should see him offering sacrifice in that place, out of the reach of Pharaoh. Chap. xxiv. 3.

VER. 14. I am who am. That is, I am being itself, eternal, self-existent, independent, infinite ; without beginning, end, or change ; and the source of all other beings. Ch.—No name can fully explain the Divine perfections. As God

15 And God said again to Moses : Thus shalt thou say to the children of Israel : The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me to you ; this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial unto all generations.

16 Go and gather together the ancients of Israel, and thou shalt say to them : The Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath appeared to me, saying : Visiting I have visited you ; and I have seen all that hath befallen you in Egypt.

17 And I have said the word to bring you forth out of the affliction of Egypt, into the land of the Chanaanite, and Hethite, and Amorrite, and Pherezite, and Hevite, and Jebusite, to a land that floweth with milk and honey.

18 And they shall hear thy voice ; and thou shalt go in, thou and the ancients of Israel, to the king of Egypt, and thou shalt say to him : The Lord God of the Hebrews hath called us ; we will go three days' journey into the wilderness, to sacrifice unto the Lord our God.

19 But I know that the king of Egypt will not let you go, but by a mighty hand.

20 For I will stretch forth my hand, and will strike Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midst of them : after these he will let you go.

21 And I will give favour to this people, in the sight of the Egyptians :^b and when you go forth, you shall not depart empty :

22 But every woman shall ask of her neighbour, and of her that is in her house, vessels of silver and of gold, and raiment : and you shall put them on your sons and daughters, and shall spoil Egypt.

CHAP. IV.

Moses is empowered to confirm his mission with miracles : his brother Aaron is appointed to assist him.

MOSES answered, and said : They will not believe me, nor hear my voice, but they will say : The Lord hath not appeared to thee.

2 Then he said to him : What is that thou holdest in thy hand ? He answered : A rod.

3 And the Lord said : Cast it down upon the ground.

b Infra, xi. 2, and xii. 35.

is alone, he stands in need of no distinctive appellation, as Lactantius, and even the pagans have confessed. Orig. c. Cels. vi. C.

VER. 15. Memorial. By this title he is still known among Christians. M.—Hitherto God had generally been called Aleim. But now he assumes the incommunicable name, (T.) consisting of four vowels, Jed, Ile, Vau, He. Jeve, the essence, or QON, a word which the Greek Scriptures leave undeclined, to denote the unchangeable nature of the Deity. The word has been pronounced Jehovah by the moderns, and by the ancients Javo, Jao, Jave, &c. H.

VER. 18. Called. Sam. and Sept., "hath been invoked upon us." Heb. "hath occurred, or appeared to us." H.—Journey, to Sinai, which was about this distance, to go straight. But the Israelites spent 48 days in arriving at it by a circuitous road. C.—In Heb. they ask, "Let us go, we beseech thee." M.

VER. 22. Shall spoil, &c. That is, you shall strip, and take away the goods of the Egyptians. This was not authorizing theft or injustice : but was a just disposal made by him, who is the great Lord and Master of all things ; in order to pay the children of Israel some part of what was due to them from the Egyptians for their labours. Ch.—Wisdom (x. 17) rendered to the just the wages of their labours ; and (ver. 19) the just took the spoils of the wicked, in a just war.

CHAP. IV. VER. 1. They, &c. Many of the common people, not of the ancients. Chap. iii. 18. M.—He knew that all ought to bring credentials from God, when they come in his name to institute a new order of things. This Moses, Jesus Christ, and the apostles did. Nothing less than a miracle can suffice to guard against impostors, who will never be able to stand this test throughout in such a manner, but that God will evidently confound their delusive signs, if they should even attempt to work miracles. H.—Believe the works. S. John x. xv. ; Mark xvi. W.

He cast it down, and it was turned into a serpent, so that Moses fled from it.

4 And the Lord said : Put out thy hand, and take it by the tail. He put forth his hand, and took hold of it, and it was turned into a rod.

5 That they may believe, saith he, that the Lord God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath appeared to thee.

6 And the Lord said again : Put thy hand into thy bosom. And when he had put it into his bosom, he brought it forth leprous as snow.

7 And he said : Put back thy hand into thy bosom. He put it back, and brought it out again, and it was like the other flesh.

8 If they will not believe thee, saith he, nor hear the voice of the former sign, they will believe the word of the latter sign.

9 But if they will not even believe these two signs, nor hear thy voice : take of the river water, and pour it out upon the dry land, and whatsoever thou drawest out of the river, shall be turned into blood.

10 Moses said : I beseech thee, Lord, I am not eloquent from yesterday and the day before ; and since thou hast spoken to thy servant, I have more impediment and slowness of tongue.

11 The Lord said to him : Who made man's mouth ? or who made the dumb and the deaf, the seeing and the blind ? did not I ?

12 Go therefore, ^a and I will be in thy mouth ; and I will teach thee what thou shalt speak.

13 But he said : I beseech thee, Lord, send whom thou wilt send.

14 The Lord being angry at Moses, said : Aaron the Levite is thy brother, I know that he is eloquent : behold he cometh forth to meet thee, and seeing thee, shall be glad at heart.

15 Speak to him, and put my words in his mouth : and I will be in thy mouth, and in his mouth, ^b and will show you what you must do.

16 He shall speak in thy stead to the people, and shall

^a Matt. x. 20.

VER. 7. Again. When Moses first appeared in defence of his brethren, Pharaoh afflicted them more grievously ; but at last he was forced to let them go. M.

VER. 9. Blood. This third sign had the same tendency as the former. It showed the cruel persecution inflicted upon the Hebrews, particularly in drowning their male infants ; a cruelty which God would shortly revenge, by turning the waters of Egypt into blood, and by slaying the first-born and the army of the Egyptians. T.

VER. 10. Of tongue, being impressed with awe at the Divine presence. He feared, therefore, that he should not be able to deliver himself intelligibly at the court of Pharaoh, and might rather excite the disgust of that haughty tyrant. H.—He had been 40 years absent in the land of Madian, and might have forgotten both the Egyptian and Hebrew languages in some degree ; in which sense slowness or heaviness of tongue is taken, (Ezec. iii. 5,) to express an unknown language. C.—God was thus pleased to show, that all the glory arising from this enterprise belonged to himself ; and he thus also gave occasion to Moses to humble himself, while he wrought miracles. M.

VER. 13. Send. Many of the Fathers think Moses here prays for the coming of the Messiah, who was to be the deliverer of his people (S. Justin, &c.) ; or he begs at least that one more proper than himself may be selected ; in which some discover marks of pusillanimity, others of great and laudable modesty ; so that the anger of God here only means an earnest expression of his will, that Moses should make no further demur. Lyran supposes that Aaron was the person pointed at by Moses ; and God grants his request. C.

VER. 16. To God. Heb. "thou shalt be to him in the place of God." He shall hear and obey thee, explaining to the people the instructions thou shalt give him. I have established thee the god of Pharaoh, and Aaron shall be thy prophet. Chap. vi. 1. C.—I will address myself immediately to thee. T be thy mouth : but thou shalt be to him in those things that pertain to God.

17 And take this rod in thy hand, wherewith thou shalt do the signs.

18 Moses went his way, and returned to Jethro his father-in-law, and said to him : I will go and return to my brethren into Egypt, that I may see if they be yet alive. And Jethro said to him : Go in peace.

19 And the Lord said to Moses, in Madian : Go, and return into Egypt ; for they are all dead that sought thy life.

20 Moses therefore took his wife, and his sons, and set them upon an ass ; and returned into Egypt, carrying the rod of God in his hand.

21 And the Lord said to him as he was returning into Egypt : See that thou do all the wonders before Pharaoh, which I have put in thy hand : I shall harden his heart, and he will not let the people go.

22 And thou shalt say to him : Thus saith the Lord : Israel is my son, my first-born.

23 I have said to thee : Let my son go, that he may serve me, and thou wouldst not let him go : behold I will kill thy son, thy first-born.

24 And when he was in his journey, in the inn, the Lord met him, and would have killed him.

25 Immediately Sephora took a very sharp stone, and circumcised the foreskin of her son, and touched his feet, and said : A bloody spouse art thou to me.

26 And he let him go after she had said : A bloody spouse art thou to me, because of the circumcision.

27 And the Lord said to Aaron : Go into the desert to meet Moses. And he went forth to meet him in the mountain of God, and kissed him.

28 And Moses told Aaron all the words of the Lord, by which he had sent him, and the signs that he had commanded.

29 And they came together, and they assembled all the ancients of the children of Israel.

30 And Aaron spoke all the words which the Lord had said to Moses : and he wrought the signs before the people.

^b Infra, vii. 2.

VER. 19. Life. "After those many days were elapsed, the king of Egypt died," who had obliged Moses to flee, as the Sept., Jos., and Philo add at the end of ver. 18. Upon which God, who had already commissioned him to go, and saw him willing, gives him this further assurance that he has nothing to fear for his own person. H.

VER. 21. I shall harden, &c. Not by being the efficient cause of his sin ; but by withdrawing from him, for his just punishment, the dew of grace, that might have softened his heart ; and so suffering him to grow harder and harder. Ch.—Non impertiendo misericordiam. S. Aug. ep. 194, ad Sixt. Thus God permitted the false miracles of the magicians, and did not suffer the scourges to continue long, so that the tyrant soon relapsed and forgot his promises. Orig. Philos. 20. Theod. in Rom. ix. 17. C.

VER. 22. First-born, heir to my promises, and the object of my complacency.

VER. 24. The Lord met him, and would have killed him. This was an angel representing the Lord, who treated Moses in this manner for having neglected the circumcision of his younger son : which his wife understanding, circumcised her child upon the spot, upon which the angel let Moses go. Ch.—Both his children were born about this time. But Eliezer, the younger, had not been circumcised ; and therefore remained under the power of the destroying angel. Orig. c. Cels. v. Others think the angel was going to kill Moses. C.

VER. 25. Spouse. I have redeemed thee from destruction, by shedding the blood of my son ; therefore I will deem this a ratification of our marriage.

VER. 27. Of God. Horeb, where both brothers met, after Sephora was returned to her father.

VER. 30. The three signs, prescribed above, in proof of their mission. C.

31 And the people believed. And they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that he had looked upon their affliction: and falling down they adored.

CHAP. V.

Pharao refuseth to let the people go. They are more oppressed.

AFTER these things, *Moses and Aaron went in, and said to Pharao: Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: Let my people go, that they may sacrifice to me in the desert.

2 But he answered: Who is the Lord, that I should hear his voice, and let Israel go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go.

3 And they said: The God of the Hebrews hath called us, to go three days' journey into the wilderness, and to sacrifice to the Lord our God; lest a pestilence or the sword fall upon us.

4 The king of Egypt said to them: Why do you, Moses and Aaron, draw off the people from their works? Let you gone to your burdens.

5 And Pharao said: The people of the land are numerous; you see that the multitude is increased; how much more if you give them rest from their works?

6 Therefore he commanded the same day the overseers of the works, and the task-masters of the people, saying:

7 You shall give straw no more to the people to make brick, as before; but let them go and gather straw.

8 And you shall lay upon them the task of bricks, which they did before; neither shall you diminish any thing thereof, for they are idle, and therefore they cry, saying: Let us go and sacrifice to our God.

9 Let them be oppressed with works, and let them fulfil them; that they may not regard lying words.

10 And the overseers of the works, and the task-masters, went out and said to the people: Thus saith Pharao: I allow you no straw;

11 Go, and gather it where you can find it; neither shall any thing of your work be diminished.

12 And the people was scattered through all the land of Egypt to gather straw.

13 And the overseers of the works pressed them, saying: Fulfil your work every day, as before ye were wont to do, when straw was given you.

* A. M. 2513, A. C. 1491.

CHAP. V. VER. 1. Went in alone. Aaron was substituted instead of the ancients. Chap. iii. 16.—Pharao Amasis, Cenchres, or Amenophis. Usher.—Sacrifice, which is the principal part of a religious festival. M.

VER. 2. The Lord. Is there any one above me?

VER. 3. Upon us. They include themselves in the common danger, in case of disobedience; and they admonish the king respectfully, that there is no resisting the God of the Hebrews with impunity.

VER. 6. Overseers, natives of Egypt, who had under them some Hebrews for task-masters, as the people were more willing to obey them, ver. 14.

VER. 7. Straw, beaten small and mixed with clay, to make brick and mortar. See Ezec. xiii. 11, 15. Chardin, Perse ii. p. 76.

VER. 16. Withal. Heb. "the fault is in thy own people," who require impossibilities. C.—They throw the blame upon the king's officers, (M.) though it was his own. H.

VER. 21. Kill us You are the occasion of our more cruel treatment. You have made the king have a bad opinion of us. Heb. "you have made our savour to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh." Those who attempt to do a kindness, unsuccessfully, often experience a similar ingratitude. Chap. xiv. 11. M.

VER. 22. Wherefore. These are not words of anger, but of earnest prayer. S. Aug. q. 14. Moses does not attempt to satisfy the exasperated officers, but commits the whole to God. M.

14 And they that were over the works of the children of Israel, were scourged by Pharao's task-masters, saying: Why have you not made up the task of bricks, both yesterday and to-day, as before?

15 And the officers of the children of Israel came, and cried out to Pharao, saying: Why dealest thou so with thy servants?

16 Straw is not given us, and bricks are required of us as before; behold we, thy servants, are beaten with whips, and thy people is unjustly dealt withal.

17 And he said: You are idle, and therefore you say: Let us go and sacrifice to the Lord.

18 Go therefore and work: straw shall not be given you, and you shall deliver the accustomed number of bricks.

19 And the officers of the children of Israel saw that they were in evil case, because it was said to them: There shall not a whit be diminished of the bricks for every day.

20 And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood over against them as they came out from Pharao:

21 And they said to them: The Lord see and judge, because you have made our savour to stink before Pharao and his servants, and you have given him a sword, to kill us.

22 And Moses returned to the Lord, and said: Lord, why hast thou afflicted this people? wherefore hast thou sent me?

23 For since the time that I went in to Pharao to speak in thy name, he hath afflicted thy people: and thou hast not delivered them.

CHAP. VI.

God reneweth his promise. The genealogies of Ruben, Simeon, and Levi, down to Moses and Aaron.

AND the Lord said to Moses: ^bNow thou shalt see what I will do to Pharao: for by a mighty hand shall he let them go, and with a strong hand shall he cast them out of his land.

2 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: I am the Lord

3 That appeared to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, by the name of God Almighty: and my name ADONAI I did not show them.

4 And I made a covenant with them, to give them the

^b A. M. 2513.

CHAP. VI. VER. 1. Said, in answer to his prayer.—Cast out, so eager he will be to have you dismissed, after he has repeatedly let my hand. Chap. iii. 19. H.

VER. 3. My name Adonai. The name which is in the Hebrew text, is that most proper name of God, which signifieth his eternal self-existent being, (Exod. iii. 14,) which the Jews, out of reverence, never pronounce; but instead of it, whenever it occurs in the Bible, they read Adonai, which signifies the Lord: and therefore they put the points or vowels, which belong to the name Adonai, to the four letters of that other ineffable name, Jod, He, Vau, He. Hence some moderns have framed the name Jehovah: unknown to all the ancients, whether Jews or Christians: for the true pronunciation of the name, which is in the Hebrew text, by long disuse, is now quite lost. Ch.—This name was first clearly revealed to Moses, that he might have confidence in his special protection and love. M.—To know one by his name is to treat him with familiarity and distinction. Exod. xxxiii. 17. D.—The Sept. always put Kurios, "the Lord," instead of the ineffable name; and our Saviour and his apostles, citing texts where it occurs, follow their example. Matt. iv. 7, 10; Rom. xv. 11. W.—Philc informs us, that it was death to pronounce it out of the temple; and since that was destroyed, it has never been heard. C.—Galatinus, who wrote in 1518, is supposed to have invented the word Jehovah, (see Amama Antib. . . 319,) the year after the pretended reformation began. H.—S. Jerom (ep. 136 ad Marc.) explains the ten names of God, but never reads Jehovah. T.

land of Chanaan, the land of their pilgrimage wherein they were strangers.

5 I have heard the groaning of the children of Israel, wherewith the Egyptians have oppressed them: and I have remembered my covenant.

6 Therefore say to the children of Israel: I am the Lord who will bring you out from the work-prison of the Egyptians, and will deliver you from bondage: and redeem you with a high arm, and great judgments.

7 And I will take you to myself for my people, I will be your God: and you shall know that I am the Lord your God, who brought you out from the work-prison of the Egyptians:

8 And brought you into the land, concerning which I lifted up my hand to give it to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and I will give it you to possess: I am the Lord.

9 And Moses told all this to the children of Israel: but they did not hearken to him, for anguish of spirit, and most painful work.

10 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

11 Go in, and speak to Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he let the children of Israel go out of his land.

12 Moses answered before the Lord: Behold the children of Israel do not hearken to me: and how will Pharaoh hear me, especially as I am of uncircumcised lips?

13 And the Lord spoke to Moses and Aaron, and he gave them a charge unto the children of Israel, and unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, that they should bring forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

14 "These are the heads of their houses by their families. The sons of Ruben the first-born of Israel: Henoch and Phallu, Hesron and Charmi.

15 These are the kindreds of Ruben." The sons of Simeon, Jamuel and Jamin, and Ahod, and Jachin, and Soar, and Saul the son of a Chanaanitess: these are the families of Simeon.

16 And these are the names of the sons of Levi by their kindreds: Gerson, and Caath, and Merari. And the years of the life of Levi were a hundred and thirty-seven.

17 "The sons of Gerson: Lobni and Semei, by their kindreds.

18 "The sons of Caath: Amram, and Isaar, and Hebron and Oziel. And the years of Caath's life were a hundred and thirty-three.

19 The sons of Merari: Moholi and Musi. These are the kindreds of Levi by their families.

20 And Amram took to wife Jochabed his aunt by the father's side: and she bore him Aaron and Moses. And the years of Amram's life, were a hundred and thirty-seven.

21 The sons also of Isaar: Core, and Nepheg, and Zechri.

22 The sons also of Oziel: Mizael, and Elizaphan, and Sethri.

23 And Aaron took to wife Elizabeth, the daughter of Aminadab, sister of Nahason, who bore him Nadab, and Abiu, and Elcazar, and Ithamar.

24 The sons also of Core: Aser, and Elcana, and Abiasaph. These are the kindreds of the Corites.

25 But Eleazar the son of Aaron took a wife of the daughters of Phutiel: and she bore him Phinees. These are the heads of the Levitical families by their kindreds.

26 These are Aaron and Moses, whom the Lord commanded to bring forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their companies.

27 These are they that speak to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, in order to bring out the children of Israel from Egypt: these are that Moses and Aaron, 28 In the day when the Lord spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt.

29 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: I am the Lord; speak thou to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, all that I say to thee.

30 And Moses said before the Lord: Lo I am of uncircumcised lips, how will Pharaoh hear me?

CHAP. VII.

Moses and Aaron go in to Pharaoh: they turn the rod into a serpent; and the rulers of Egypt into blood, which was the first plague. The magicians do the like, and Pharaoh's heart is hardened.

AND the Lord said to Moses: "Behold, I have appointed thee the god of Pharaoh; and Aaron, thy brother, shall be thy prophet.

2 'Thou shalt speak to him all that I command thee; and he shall speak to Pharaoh, that he let the children of Israel go out of his land.

3 But I shall harden his heart, and shall multiply my signs and wonders in the land of Egypt.

4 And he will not hear you: and I will lay my hand upon Egypt, and will bring forth my army and my people, the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt, by very great judgments.

5 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord, who have stretched forth my hand upon Egypt, and have brought forth the children of Israel out of the midst of them.

* Gen. xlv. 9; Num. xxvi. 5; 1 Par. v. 1.—b 1 Par. iv. 24.—c 1 Par. vi. 1, and xxiii. 6.

VER. 8. Hand; swearing. Chap. xiv. 22; 2 Esd. ix. 15.

VER. 9. Anguish: Sept. "pusillanimity." "they would not even hope for a change. M.

VER. 12. Uncircumcised lips. So he calls the defect he had in his words, or utterance. Ch.—"I do not speak the language in its purity." Sym. "I express my sentiments with difficulty." Chap. iv. 10. Onk'los.

VER. 14. These. From this place to ver. 26, is written in a kind of parenthesis: the remainder of the chapter is a recapitulation of what had been said. C.—Moses intends to give his own genealogy, and the state of affairs when he began to afflict Egypt. H.

VER. 16. Levi died the last of his brethren, and Joseph the first. W.

VER. 23. Nahason, prince of the tribe of Juda. Num. i. 7. Observe the modesty of Moses, who passes over his own family almost in silence. M. d Num. iii. 19, and xxvi. 57, 58; 1 Par. vi. 2, and xxiii. 12.—e A. M. 2513.—f Supra, iv. 15.

VER. 26. Aaron is sometimes placed first, as the elder; sometimes last, as inferior in dignity, ver. 27.—Companies, or bands, in order of battle. Chap. xiii. 18. C.

CHAP. VII. VER. 1. The god of Pharaoh, viz. to be his judge; and to exercise a Divine power, as God's instrument, over him and people. Ch.—Prophet, or interpreter. C.

VER. 3. I shall harden, &c.; not by being the efficient cause of his hardness of heart, but by permitting it; and by withdrawing grace from him, in punishment of his malice; which alone was the proper cause of his being hardened. Ch.—He took occasion even from the miracles to become more obstinate. H.—Yet Pharaoh was less impious than Calvin, for he takes the sin to himself. Chap. ix. 27. T.

VER. 10. Took, or "threw down," as the Heb. and Sept. read.

6 And Moses and Aaron did as the Lord had commanded; so did they.

7 And Moses was eighty years old, and Aaron eighty-three, when they spoke to Pharaoh.

8 And the Lord said to Moses and Aaron:

9 When Pharaoh shall say to you, Show signs; thou shalt say to Aaron: Take thy rod, and cast it down before Pharaoh, and it shall be turned into a serpent.

10 So Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and did as the Lord had commanded. And Aaron took the rod before Pharaoh and his servants, and it was turned into a serpent.

11 *And Pharaoh called the wise men and the magicians; and they also by Egyptian enchantments and certain secrets, did in like manner.

12 And they every one cast down their rods, and they were turned into serpents: but Aaron's rod devoured their rods.

13 And Pharaoh's heart was hardened, and he did not hearken to them, as the Lord had commanded.

14 And the Lord said to Moses: Pharaoh's heart is hardened, he will not let the people go.

15 Go to him in the morning, behold he will go out to the waters: and thou shalt stand to meet him on the bank of the river: and thou shalt take in thy hand the rod that was turned into a serpent.

16 And thou shalt say to him: The Lord God of the Hebrews sent me to thee, saying: Let my people go to sacrifice to me in the desert: and hitherto thou wouldst not hear.

17 Thus therefore saith the Lord: In this thou shalt know that I am the Lord: behold I will strike with the rod, that is in my hand, the water of the river, and it shall be turned into blood.

18 And the fishes that are in the river, shall die, and the waters shall be corrupted, and the Egyptians shall be afflicted when they drink the water of the river.

19 The Lord also said to Moses: Say to Aaron, Take thy rod; and stretch forth thy hand upon the waters of Egypt, and upon their rivers, and streams and pools, and all the ponds of waters, that they may be turned into blood: and let blood be in all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood and of stone.

20 And Moses and Aaron did as the Lord had commanded: *and lifting up the rod, he struck the water of the river before Pharaoh and his servants: and it was turned into blood.

21 And the fishes that were in the river died; and the river corrupted, and the Egyptians could not drink the water of the river, and there was blood in all the land of Egypt.

22 *And the magicians of the Egyptians with their enchantments did in like manner; and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, neither did he hear them as the Lord had commanded.

23 And he turned himself away, and went into his house, neither did he set his heart to it this time also.

24 And all the Egyptians dug round about the river for water to drink; for they could not drink of the water of the river.

25 And seven days were fully ended, after that the Lord struck the river.

CHAP. VIII.

The second plague is of frogs. Pharaoh promiseth to let the Israelites go, but breaketh his promise. The third plague is of scorpions. The fourth is of flies. Pharaoh again promiseth to dismiss the people, but doth it not.

AND the Lord said to Moses: Go in to Pharaoh, and thou shalt say to him: Thus saith the Lord: Let my people go to sacrifice to me.

2 But if thou wilt not let them go, behold I will strike all thy coasts with frogs.

3 And the river shall bring forth an abundance of frogs; which shall come up and enter into thy house, and thy bed-chamber, and upon thy bed, and into the houses of thy servants, and to thy people, and into thy ovens and into the remains of thy meats:

4 And the frogs shall come in to thee, and to thy people, and to all thy servants.

5 And the Lord said to Moses: Say to Aaron: Stretch forth thy hand upon the streams, and upon the rivers and the pools, and bring forth frogs upon the land of Egypt.

6 And Aaron stretched forth his hand upon the waters of Egypt, and the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

7 And the magicians also, by their enchantments, did in like manner, and they brought forth frogs upon the land of Egypt.

8 But Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, and said to them: Pray ye to the Lord to take away the frogs from me and from my people; and I will let the people go to sacrifice to the Lord.

9 And Moses said to Pharaoh: Set me a time when I shall pray for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, that the frogs may be driven away from thee and from thy house, and from thy servants, and from thy people; and may remain only in the river.

10 And he answered: To-morrow. But he said: I will do according to thy word; that thou mayest know that there is none like to the Lord our God.

11 And the frogs shall depart from thee, and from thy house, and from thy servants, and from thy people; and shall remain only in the river.

* 2 Tim. iii. 8.—b Infra, xvii. 5;

Psal. lxxvii. 41.—c Wisd. xvii. 7.

VER. 11. Magicians. Jaanes and Mambres, or Jambres. 2 Tim. iii. 8. Ch.—The pagans represented Moses as the greatest of magicians. Plin. xxx. 1. Justin. 36.—They also. &c. Heb. has three terms, "wise men, diviners, and magicians;" but the two last seem to be of the same import. "The enchanters did the like by their secret practices," either by words or by actions. Some say these operations were real; others affirm they were only apparent, and mere delusions. C.—"Whoever believes that any thing can be made, or any creature changed or transmuted into another species or appearance, except by the Creator himself, is undoubtedly an infidel, and worse than a pagan." Coun. of Orange. See S. Aug. q. 21, de Trin. iii. 7; S. Tho. ii. 2, 9, 17, a 2.—The devil deceived the senses of the beholders; or brought real serpents, &c., thither. M.

VER. 22. Like. They got a small quantity of water, either from the sea, from Gessen, (Wisd. xi. 5.) or by digging wells, ver. 24. C.—This plague lasted a full week, ver. 25. Wisdom xi. 7, thou gavest human blood to the unjust.

CHAP. VIII. VER. 7. Frogs, few in number, and brought by the ministry of devils. M.

VER. 8. Pray ye to the Lord. &c. By this it appears, that though the magicians, by the help of the devil, could bring frogs, yet they could not take them away: God being pleased to abridge in this the power of Satan. So we see they could not afterwards produce the lesser insects; and in this restraint of the power of the devil, were forced to acknowledge the finger of God

12 And Moses and Aaron went forth from Pharaoh : and Moses cried to the Lord for the promise, which he had made to Pharaoh concerning the frogs.

13 And the Lord did according to the word of Moses : and the frogs died out of the houses, and out of the villages, and out of the fields :

14 And they gathered them together into immense heaps, and the land was corrupted.

15 And Pharaoh seeing that rest was given, hardened his own heart, and did not hear them, as the Lord had commanded.

16 And the Lord said to Moses : Say to Aaron : Stretch forth thy rod, and strike the dust of the earth ; and may there be sciniphs in all the land of Egypt.

17 And they did so. And Aaron stretched forth his hand, holding the rod ; and he struck the dust of the earth, and there came sciniphs on men and on beasts : all the dust of the earth was turned into sciniphs through all the land of Egypt.

18 And the magicians with their enchantments practised in like manner, to bring forth sciniphs, and they could not : and there were sciniphs as well on men as on beasts.

19 And the magicians said to Pharaoh : This is the finger of God. And Pharaoh's heart was hardened, and he hearkened not unto them, as the Lord had commanded.

20 The Lord also said to Moses : Arise early, and stand before Pharaoh ; for he will go forth to the waters : and thou shalt say to him : Thus saith the Lord : Let my people go to sacrifice to me.

21 But if thou wilt not let them go, behold I will send in upon thee, and upon thy servants, and upon thy houses, all kind of flies : and the houses of the Egyptians shall be filled with flies of divers kinds, and the whole land wherein they shall be.

22 And I will make the land of Gessen wonderful in that day, so that flies shall not be there : and thou shalt know that I am the Lord in the midst of the earth.

23 And I will put a division between my people and thy people : to-morrow shall this sign be.

24 And the Lord did so.* And there came a very grievous swarm of flies into the houses of Pharaoh and of his servants, and into all the land of Egypt : and the land was corrupted by this kind of flies.

25 And Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, and said to them : Go and sacrifice to your God in this land.

26 And Moses said : It cannot be so : for we shall sacrifice the abominations of the Egyptians to the Lord our God : now if we kill those things which the Egyptians worship, in their presence, they will stone us.

27 We will go three days' journey into the wilderness ; and we will sacrifice to the Lord our God,^b as he hath commanded us.

28 And Pharaoh said : I will let you go to sacrifice to the Lord your God in the wilderness, but go no farther : pray for me.

29 And Moses said : I will go out from thee, and will pray to the Lord : and the flies shall depart from Pharaoh, and from his servants, and from his people to-morrow : but do not deceive any more, in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the Lord.

30 So Moses went out from Pharaoh, and prayed to the Lord.

31 And he did according to his word : and he took away the flies from Pharaoh, and from his servants, and from his people : there was not left so much as one.

32 And Pharaoh's heart was hardened, so that neither this time would he let the people go.

CHAP. IX.

The fifth plague is a murrain among the cattle. The sixth, of boils in men and beasts. The seventh, of hail. Pharaoh promiseth again to let the people go, and breaketh his word.

AND the Lord said to Moses : Go in to Pharaoh, and speak to him : Thus saith the Lord God of the Hebrews : Let my people go to sacrifice to me.

2 But if thou refuse, and withhold them still :

3 Behold my hand shall be upon thy fields ; and a very grievous murrain upon thy horses, and asses, and camels, and oxen, and sheep.

* Wisd. xvi. 9.

^b Supra. iii. 18.

VER. 14. Corrupted. This helped to produce the ensuing plague of flies, &c. C.

VER. 15. Pharaoh hardened his own heart. By this we see that Pharaoh was himself the efficient cause of his heart being hardened, and not God. See the same repeated in ver. 32, Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time also ; likewise chap. ix. 7, 35, and chap. xiii. 15. Ch.—This is the constant doctrine of the Holy Fathers, S. Aug. ser. 88, de Temp. q. 18, 28, 36 ; S. Basil, Orat., “that God is not the author of evil.” S. Chrys. hom. 67, in Jo., &c. Hence Origen, Periar. 3, says, “The Scripture sheweth manifestly that Pharaoh was hardened by his own will ; for God said to him, thou wouldst not : if thou wilt not dismiss Israel.” Even the priests of the Philistines were so well convinced of this, that they said, (1 Kings vi. 6.) Why do you harden your hearts, as Egypt and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? God therefore hardened them only by not absolutely hindering their wickedness, and by punishing them with less severity, as they did not deserve to be corrected like dear children, Heb. xii.—Perdition is from thyself, Osee xiii. 9. Thus God cast Pharaoh into the sea, by permitting, not by forcing, him to enter, Exod. xv. 4. How shocking must then the blasphemous doctrine of Zuingleius, (Ser. de Provid. 5,) Calvin, (Instit. viii. 17,) &c., appear, who attribute every wicked deed to God, though they pretend at the same time that he is not unjust, even when he commands and impels a man to commit murder or adultery ! The light of reason may suffice to confute such absurdity. W.

VER. 16. Sciniphs, or Cinifs, Heb. Chinnim, small flying insects, very troublesome both to men and beasts. Ch.—Like midges. Origen, hom. 4. Others think they were lice. Bochart. Pharaoh is not forewarned of this plague.

VER. 18. Practised, fervunt ; the same expression as ver. 7. God was pleased to show here the vanity of their attempts, and the imbecility of the devil, who could not even bring a single animalcule or insect, though he had before appeared to work great wonders. T.

VER. 19. Finger, the spirit, (Luke xi. 20, compare Matt. xii. 28,) or power of God. Isa. xl. 12. The magicians here confess that Moses is something more than themselves. C.—Thus God interferes, whenever a contest of miracles, real or apparent, might lead any sincere seeker astray. He caused the priests of Baal to be confounded (3 Kings xix.) ; and Simon Magus, flying in the air, was hurled down at the prayer of S. Peter. Hegesip. Cyrola, the Arian patriarch, attempting to deceive the people, by giving sight to a man whom he bribed to feign himself blind ; and Calvin, who wished to have the honour of raising a man to life, at Geneva, by the like imposition, were both deservedly covered with confusion ; while, of those unhappy men who joined in the collusion, one lost his sight, and the other his life. Greg. of Tours ii. Hist. 3. Bolsec. On such occasions we are admonished to be on our guard, and to adhere to the old religion. Dent. xii. ; Matt. xxiv. W.—The magicians, though fully convinced, were not still converted.

VER. 21. Flies. Heb. cārob. Sept. “dog-flies.” Some include under this plague all sorts of wild beasts. Josep. ii. 13 ; Wisd. xi. 9, 16, 18.

VER. 22. Gessen, where the Hebrews dwelt. The Egyptians who lived among them would not, however, escape this plague.

VER. 24. The Lord, without the intervention of the rod, lest any inherent power might be supposed to rest in it. M.—Corrupted, ravaged ; men and beasts being destroyed by their bite or sting. Psal. lxxvii. 45 ; Wisd. xvi. 9.

VER. 26. The abominations, &c. That is, the things they worship for gods : oxen, rams, &c. It is the usual style of the Scriptures to call all idols and false gods, abominations ; to signify how much the people of God ought to detest and abhor them. Ch.

VER. 32. Hardened. Heb. and Sept. “Pharaoh hardened his heart this time also.” M.

CHAP. IX. VER. 3. My hand. God inflicts the fourth, fifth, and tenth plagues without Moses.

4 And the Lord will make a wonderful difference between the possessions of Israel and the possessions of the Egyptians, that nothing at all shall die of those things that belong to the children of Israel.

5 And the Lord appointed a time, saying: To-morrow will the Lord do this thing in the land.

6 The Lord therefore did this thing the next day: and all the beasts of the Egyptians died, but of the beasts of the children of Israel there died not one.

7 And Pharaoh sent to see; and there was not any thing dead of that which Israel possessed. And Pharaoh's heart was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

8 And the Lord said to Moses and Aaron: Take to you handfuls of ashes out of the chimney, and let Moses sprinkle it in the air in the presence of Pharaoh.

9 And be there dust upon all the land of Egypt: for there shall be boils and swelling blains both in men and beasts, in the whole land of Egypt.

10 And they took ashes out of the chimney, and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses sprinkled it in the air; and there came boils with swelling blains in men and beasts.

11 Neither could the magicians stand before Moses, for the boils that were upon them, and in all the land of Egypt.

12 And the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he hearkened not unto them, as the Lord had spoken to Moses.

13 And the Lord said to Moses: Arise in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh, and thou shalt say to him: Thus saith the Lord, the God of the Hebrews: Let my people go to sacrifice to me.

14 For I will at this time send all my plagues upon thy heart, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people; that thou mayst know there is none like me in all the earth.

15 For now I will stretch out my hand to strike thee, and thy people, with pestilence, and thou shalt perish from the earth.

16 *And therefore have I raised thee, that I may show my power in thee, and my name may be spoken of throughout all the earth.

17 Dost thou yet hold back my people; and wilt thou not let them go?

18 Behold I will cause it to rain to-morrow at this same hour, an exceeding great hail; such as hath not been in Egypt from the day that it was founded, until this present time.

19 Send therefore now presently, and gather together thy cattle, and all that thou hast in the field; for men and beasts, and all things that shall be found abroad, and not gathered together out of the fields which the hail shall fall upon, shall die.

20 He that feared the word of the Lord among Pharaoh's servants, made his servants and his cattle flee into houses:

21 But he that regarded not the word of the Lord, left his servants, and his cattle in the fields.

22 And the Lord said to Moses: Stretch forth thy hand towards heaven, that there may be hail in the whole land of Egypt upon men, and upon beasts, and upon every herb of the field in the land of Egypt.

23 *And Moses stretched forth his rod towards heaven, and the Lord sent thunder and hail, and lightnings running along the ground: and the Lord rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

24 And the hail and fire mixt with it drove on together: and it was of so great bigness, as never before was seen in the whole land of Egypt since that nation was founded.

25 And the hail destroyed through all the land of Egypt all things that were in the fields, both man and beast: and the hail smote every herb of the field, and it broke every tree of the country.

26 Only in the land of Gessen, where the children of Israel were, the hail fell not.

27 And Pharaoh sent and called Moses and Aaron, saying to them: I have sinned this time also, the Lord is just: I and my people are wicked.

28 Pray ye to the Lord that the thunderings of God and the hail may cease: that I may let you go, and that ye may stay here no longer.

29 Moses said: As soon as I am gone out of the city, I will stretch forth my hands to the Lord, and the thunders shall cease, and the hail shall be no more: that thou mayst know that the earth is the Lord's:

30 But I know that neither thou, nor thy servants do yet fear the Lord God.

31 The flax therefore, and the barley were hurt, because the barley was green, and the flax was now balled:

32 But the wheat, and other winter corn were not hurt, because they were lateward.

33 And when Moses was gone from Pharaoh out of the city, he stretched forth his hands to the Lord: and the thunders and the hail ceased, neither did there drop any more rain upon the earth.

34 And Pharaoh seeing that the rain, and the hail, and the thunders were ceased, increased his sin:

35 And his heart was hardened, and the heart of his servants, and it was made exceeding hard: neither did he let the children of Israel go, as the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses.

* Rom. ix. 17.

b Wisd. xvi. 16, and xix. 19.

VER. 5. Land. Moses related all this to the king, according to the Samaritan copy.

VER. 6. All the beasts. That is, many of all kinds. Ch.

VER. 7. Hardened. He did not beg for a deliverance, as the beasts were afraid. M.

VER. 9. Blains. Pestiferous or burning swellings. C.

VER. 11. Stand before to oppose Moses. They could not screen themselves. H.

VER. 12. Hardened, &c. See the annotations above, chap. v. 21; vii. 3, and viii. 15. Ch.—The wicked man, when he is come into the depth of sins, contempteth: but ignominy and reproach follow him, Prov. xviii. 3.

VER. 14. Plagues of fire and hail, that thy heart may relent. But as all my chastisements will not produce this effect, I will be glorified in thy will. H.—I could now strike thee dead, (ver. 15.) but I reserve thee for a more dreadful punishment, (ver. 17.) in the waters of the Red Sea. C.

VER. 15. Pestilence, or various evils which now came fast upon Pharaoh. M.

VER. 16. Raised thee to the throne, or preserved thee hitherto from the former plagues. God disposes of things in such a manner as to draw good out of the evil designs of men. S. Aug. de C. D. xi. 17. Rom. ix. 17. C.

VER. 19. Cattle. Some have escaped the former plague, or the Egyptians had purchased more from their neighbours, and in the land of Gessen. H.—God tempers justice with mercy. S. Aug. q. 33.

VER. 24. In all the land of. So the Heb.: but the Sam. and some Heb. MS. have simply in Egypt. Ken.—Founded, about 627 years before.

VER. 32. Lateward. The hail fell in February. Bonfrere.

VER. 35. Hard. Heb. "and he hardened his heart." W.

CHAP. X.

The eighth plague of the locusts. The ninth, of darkness: Pharaoh is still hardened.

AND the Lord said to Moses: Go in to Pharaoh; for I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his servants: that I may work these my signs in him.

2 And thou mayst tell in the ears of thy sons, and of thy grandsons, how often I have plagued the Egyptians, and wrought my signs amongst them: and you may know that I am the Lord.

3 Therefore Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh, and said to him: Thus saith the Lord God of the Hebrews: How long refusest thou to submit to me? let my people go, to sacrifice to me.

4 *But if thou resist, and wilt not let them go, behold I will bring in to-morrow the locusts into thy coasts;

5 To cover the face of the earth, that nothing thereof may appear, but that which the hail hath left may be eaten: for they shall feed upon all the trees that spring in the fields.

6 And they shall fill thy houses, and the houses of thy servants, and of all the Egyptians: such a number as thy fathers have not seen, nor thy grandfathers, from the time they were first upon the earth, until this present day. And he turned himself away, and went forth from Pharaoh.

7 And Pharaoh's servants said to him: How long shall we endure this scandal? let the men go to sacrifice to the Lord their God. Dost thou not see that Egypt is undone?

8 And they called back Moses, and Aaron, to Pharaoh; and he said to them: Go, sacrifice to the Lord your God: who are they that shall go?

9 Moses said: We will go with our young and old, with our sons and daughters, with our sheep and herds: for it is the solemnity of the Lord our God.

10 And Pharaoh answered: So be the Lord with you, as I shall let you and your children go: who can doubt but that you intend some great evil?

11 It shall not be so: but go ye men only, and sacrifice to the Lord: for this yourselves also desired. And immediately they were cast out from Pharaoh's presence.

12 And the Lord said to Moses: Stretch forth thy hand upon the land of Egypt unto the locust, that it come upon it, and devour every herb that is left after the hail.

13 And Moses stretched forth his rod upon the land of Egypt: and the Lord brought a burning wind all that

* Wisd. xvi. 9.

CHAP. X. VER. 1. Servants. They took occasion, from God's withdrawing his chastisements, to become more obdurate. S. Aug. q. 30, and 36.

VER. 9. Herds. Out of which the Lord may choose what victims he requires. E.—The people of Egypt kept solemnities of this description. Herod. ii. 58, 59.

VER. 10. So be. A form of imprecation mixed with scorn: as, I shall not let you go, so may God abandon you. C.

VER. 11. Desired. Moses had requested that all might go. He had not specified the men only, as the king boldly asserts. M.

VER. 13. Wind from "the south," (Sept.) or "east," (Kadim), or perhaps blowing from the south-east. Bonfriere. The locusts would come from Ethiopia, or from Arabia, in both which countries they abound. Ludolf, &c. They lay their eggs in autumn, and hatch in spring. Frequently they devastate one country after another. They are very large in the East, and sometimes will fasten upon day, and night; and when it was morning, the burning wind raised the locusts.

14 And they came up over the whole land of Egypt, and rested in all the coasts of the Egyptians innumerable, the like as had not been before that time, nor shall be hereafter.

15 And they covered the whole face of the earth, wasting all things. And the grass of the earth was devoured, and what fruits soever were on the trees, which the hail had left; and there remained not any thing that was green on the trees, or in the herbs of the earth, in all Egypt.

16 Wherefore Pharaoh in haste called Moses and Aaron, and said to them: I have sinned against the Lord your God, and against you.

17 But now forgive me my sin this time also, and pray to the Lord your God, that he take away from me this death.

18 And Moses going forth from the presence of Pharaoh, prayed to the Lord:

19 And he made a very strong wind to blow from the west, and it took the locusts and cast them into the Red Sea: there remained not so much as one in all the coasts of Egypt.

20 And the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart, neither did he let the children of Israel go.

21 And the Lord said to Moses: Stretch out thy hand towards heaven: and may there be darkness upon the land of Egypt so thick that it may be felt.

22 And Moses stretched forth his hand towards heaven: and there came horrible darkness in all the land of Egypt for three days.

23 ^bNo man saw his brother, nor moved himself out of the place where he was: *but wheresoever the children of Israel dwelt, there was light.

24 And Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, and said to them: Go, sacrifice to the Lord: let your sheep only, and herds remain, let your children go with you.

25 Moses said: Thou shalt give us also sacrifices and burnt-offerings, to the Lord our God.

26 All the flocks shall go with us; there shall not a hoof remain of them: for they are necessary for the service of the Lord our God: especially as we know not what must be offered, till we come to the very place.

27 And the Lord hardened Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go.

28 And Pharaoh said to Moses: Get thee from me, and beware thou see not my face any more: in what day soever thou shalt come in my sight, thou shalt die.

^b Wisd. xvii. 2.—c Wisd. xviii. 1.

the heads of serpents, and destroy them, as they did on this occasion the Egyptians. Wisd. xvi. 9.

VER. 14. Hereafter. Joel, i. 2. speaking of locusts which infested Judea, uses the same expressions to denote a very heavy judgment. C.

VER. 19. West. Heb. sea, (Mediterranean,) to the north and west of Egypt.—Red Sea. Heb. "of suph," or green herbs, which abound there. It has also a reddish appearance in some places, from the coral branches of a saffron colour. C.

VER. 21. Darkness upon the land of Egypt so thick that it may be felt. By means of the gross exhalations, which were to cause and accompany the darkness. Ch.—Thus were the Egyptians punished for keeping the Hebrews in dark prisons. M.—Philo says, even a lighted lamp or fire was extinguished. The Egyptians were affrighted with hideous spectres and evil angels. Psal. lxxv. 49; Wisd. xvii. 4.

29 Moses answered : So shall it be as thou hast spoken, I will not see thy face any more.

CHAP. XI.

Pharao and his people are threatened with the death of their first-born.

AND the Lord said to Moses : Yet one plague more will I bring upon Pharao and Egypt, and after that he shall let you go, and thrust you out.

2 *Therefore thou shalt tell all the people, that every man ask of his friend, and every woman of her neighbour, vessels of silver, and of gold.

3 And the Lord will give favour to his people in the sight of the Egyptians. ^bAnd Moses was a very great man in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharao's servants, and of all the people.

4 And he said : Thus saith the Lord : At midnight I will enter into Egypt :

5 And every first-born in the land of the Egyptians shall die, from the first-born of Pharao who sitteth on his throne, even to the first-born of the handmaid that is at the mill, and all the first-born of beasts.

6 And there shall be a great cry in all the land of Egypt, such as neither hath been before, nor shall be hereafter.

7 But with all the children of Israel there shall not a dog make the least noise, from man even to beast ; that you may know how wonderful a difference the Lord maketh between the Egyptians and Israel.

8 And all these thy servants shall come down to me, and shall worship me, saying : Go forth thou, and all the people that is under thee : after that we will go out.

9 And he went out from Pharao exceeding angry. But the Lord said to Moses : Pharao will not hear you, that many signs may be done in the land of Egypt.

^a Supra, iii. 22 ; Infra, xii. 35.

VER. 29. More. Of my own accord. M.—Thou wilt send for me. C.
CHAP. XI. VER. 1. To Moses, before he was gone out from Pharao. M.—This revelation had been made at Mount Horeb.

VER. 2. Ask ; “not borrow,” as the Protestants translate ; nor “jewels of silver,” but vessels, such as the princes offered at the dedication of the tabernacle, Num. vii.

VER. 3. The Lord. The Sam. makes this a continuation of God's speech, “and I will give this people favour in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they shall give them what they ask.—4. For, about midnight, I will go forth into the midst of the land of Egypt.—5. And every first-born in the land of Egypt shall die, &c. (as in our fifth verse).—6. And there, &c.—7. But against any of the children of Israel shall not a dog move his tongue, against man, nor even against beast, that thou mayest know that Jehovah doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.—8. And thou also shalt be greatly honoured in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharao's servants, and in the sight of the people.—9. Then said Moses unto Pharao, Thus saith Jehovah : Israel is my son, my first-born ; and I said unto thee, Let my son go, that he may serve me.—10. But thou hast refused to let him go ; behold ! therefore Jehovah slayeth thy son, thy first-born.”

—11. And Moses said, (as above, ver. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10.) The Jews have retained the parts of the 3rd and 8th verses, which were honourable to their nation, but they have given them as an historical narration. The 9th and 10th verses in the Sam. copy, record what God had before commanded Moses to declare, chap. iv. 22, 33. As, therefore, all had been once written in the Heb. text, the transcribers might probably think themselves dispensed from repeating the same things ; and thus they might change some passages, and still repel the accusation of any wilful corruption.—Moses. This exaltation of Moses and the people took place only after the slaughter of the first-born. Chap. xii. 36. Hence the Sept. observes here, the Egyptians gave or lent them (echresan) all. H.

VER. 4. I will enter, by means of a good angel, (Wisd. xviii. 14. S. Chrys.) or by evil angels. Psal. lxxvii. 40. S. Aug. ibid. C.—Moses spoke this on the morning of the 14th Nisan ; and that same night, after the paschal lamb had been eaten, the dreadful carnage commenced. M.

VER. 9. Angry, at such obstinacy. M.

VER. 10. The Lord hardened, &c. See the annotations above, chap. iv. 21, and chap. vii. 3.

CHAP. XII. VER. 1. Said, some time before. Moses mentions all the plagues together. M.

10 And Moses and Aaron did all the wonders that are written, before Pharao. And the Lord hardened Pharao's heart, neither did he let the children of Israel go out of his land.

CHAP. XII.

The manner of preparing and eating the paschal lamb: the first-born of Egypt are all slain: the Israelites depart.

AND the Lord said to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt :

2 This month shall be to you the beginning of months ; it shall be the first in the months of the year.

3 Speak ye to the whole assembly of the children of Israel, and say to them : On the tenth day of this month let every man take a lamb by their families and houses.

4 But if the number be less than may suffice to eat the lamb, he shall take unto him his neighbour that joineth to his house, according to the number of souls which may be enough to eat the lamb.

5 And it shall be a lamb without blemish, a male, of one year ; according to which rite also you shall take a kid.

6 And you shall keep it until the fourteenth day of this month ; and the whole multitude of the children of Israel shall sacrifice it in the evening.

7 And they shall take of the blood thereof, and put it upon both the side-posts, and on the upper door-posts of the houses, wherein they shall eat it.

8 And they shall eat the flesh that night roasted at the fire, and unleavened bread with wild lettuce.

9 You shall not eat thereof any thing raw, nor boiled in water, but only roasted at the fire ; you shall eat the head with the feet and entrails thereof.

10 Neither shall there remain any thing of it until ^b Eccli. xlv. 1.

VER. 2. Year, sacred or ecclesiastical, which is most commonly used in Scripture. The civil year commenced with Tisri, in September, and regulated the jubilee, contracts, &c. Lapide.—January was the first month to determine the age of trees, and August to decide when cattle became liable to be tithed. Chap. xxii. 29 ; Levit. xix. 23. C.

VER. 3. Day. This regarded only the present occasion. Jonathan.—The Jews no longer eat the paschal lamb, as they are banished from Chanaan. C.

VER. 4. Less. Moses does not specify the number. But it never comprised fewer than ten nor more than twenty, in which number Menoch does not think women or children are comprised.

VER. 5. Lamb. Heb. sse, which denotes the young of either sheep or goats Kimchi. He who had not a lamb, was to sacrifice a kid. Theodoret.—A kid The Phase might be performed either with a lamb or with a kid ; and all the same rites and ceremonies were to be used with the one as with the other. Ch.—Many have asserted, that both were to be sacrificed. But custom decides against them. All was to be perfect, Momim, as even the pagans required (Grotius) ; and God (Lev. xxii. 22) orders the victims in general must have no fault. The Egyptians rejected them, if they were even spotted, or twins.—A male, as all holocausts were to be. C.—One year, not older, though it would do if above eight days old. M.—The paschal lamb prefigured Jesus Christ, who has redeemed us by his death, being holy, set apart, and condescending to feed us with his sacred person, in the blessed Eucharist. Here we eat the lamb without breaking a bone, though we take the whole victim. John xix. 36 ; 1 Cor. v. 7. C.—To fulfil this figure, Christ substituted his own body, and, making his apostles priests, ordered them to continue this sacrifice for ever. The unleavened bread, and the cup, (Luke xxii. 17,) clearly denoted the blessed Sacrament, which was ordered to be eaten in the house or church of God. S. Cyp. Unit. See S. Greg. hom. 22. in Evang. Tert. c. Marc. iv. “The bread he made his own body.” If, therefore, the truth must surpass the figure, surely the blessed Sacrament must be more than bread and wine ; otherwise it would yield in excellence and signification to the paschal lamb. W.

VER. 8. Unleavened, in testimony of innocence, 1 Cor. v. 7.—Lettuce, or some “bitter herbs.” Heb. and Sept.

VER. 9. Raw. The Heb. term na occurs no where else, and may perhaps signify half-roasted or boiled, semicoctum. It cannot be inferred from this prohibition, that the Hebrews commonly lived on such food.—In water, as the other victims usually were, 1 Kings ii. 13 : 2 Par. xxxv. 13.—You shall eat, is not in morning. ^aIf there be any thing left, you shall burn it with fire.

11 And thus you shall eat it: you shall gird your reins, and you shall have shoes on your feet, holding staves in your hands, and you shall eat in haste; for it is the Phase (that is the Passage) of the Lord.

12 And I will pass through the land of Egypt that night, and will kill every first-born in the land of Egypt, both man and beast: and against all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgments; I am the Lord.

13 And the blood shall be unto you for a sign in the houses where you shall be; and I shall see the blood, and shall pass over you; and the plague shall not be upon you to destroy you, when I shall strike the land of Egypt.

14 And this day shall be for a memorial to you; and you shall keep it a feast to the Lord in your generations, with an everlasting observance.

15 Seven days shall you eat unleavened bread: in the first day there shall be no leaven in your houses; whosoever shall eat any thing leavened, from the first day until the seventh day, that soul shall perish out of Israel.

16 The first day shall be holy and solemn, and the seventh day shall be kept with the like solemnity: you shall do no work in them, except those things that belong to eating.

17 And you shall observe the feast of the unleavened bread: for in this same day I will bring forth your army out of the land of Egypt, and you shall keep this day in your generations by a perpetual observance.

18 ^bThe first month, the fourteenth day of the month, in the evening, you shall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the same month, in the evening.

19 Seven days there shall not be found any leaven in your houses: he that shall eat leavened bread, his soul shall perish out of the assembly of Israel, whether he be a stranger or born in the land.

20 You shall not eat any thing leavened: in all your habitations you shall eat unleavened bread.

21 And Moses called all the ancients of the children of Israel, and said to them: Go take a lamb by your families, and sacrifice the Phase.

^a Lev. vii. 15.—^b Lev. xxiii. 5; Num. xxviii. 16.

the original, nor in the Sept. We may supply it, however, or "you shall roast all, head," &c., but in eating, you shall avoid breaking any bone, as the Sept. and Syr. express it, (ver. 10,) and as we read, ver. 46, and Numb. ix. 12. These were to be burnt, that they might not be profaned. C.

VER. 11. Haste, as all the aforesaid prescriptions intimate. M.—Many of them regarded only this occasion, and were not required afterwards.—Phase, which the Chaldee writes Pascha, signifies the passing over (C.) of the destroying angel, when he spared those houses only which were marked with blood, to insinuate the necessity of faith in Christ's death. H.

VER. 12. First-born, often denotes the most beloved; or, when spoken of those under oppression, the most miserable. Isa. xiv. 30; Psal. lxxxvii. 27. Moses observes, (ver. 30,) that every house had one dead, which would not probably be true of the first-born, taken in a literal sense; but where there was no child, there the most dear and honourable person was cut off. Hab. iii. 13, 14.—Gods, idols, whose statues some assert were overthrown (S. Jer. ep. ad Fabiol. Euseb. Prap. ix. ult.); or sacred animals, which were adored by the Egyptians (Origen); or the word may imply that the princes and judges of the land would be most destroyed. C.

VER. 14. This day. The Jews assert, that as their fathers were delivered out of Egypt on the 15th of Nisan, so Israel will be redeemed on that day by the Messiah; which has been literally verified in Jesus Christ.—Everlasting. This is what will be done with respect to our Christian passover, (C.) of which the Jewish was a figure, designed to subsist as long as their republic. M.

VER. 15. Perish, either by sudden death, or by forfeiting all the prerogatives of God's people (ver. 19); or, his offence shall be deemed mortal. See Gen.

22 ^cAnd dip a bunch of hyssop in the blood that is at the door, and sprinkle the transom of the door therewith, and both the door-cheeks: let none of you go out of the door of his house till morning.

23 For the Lord will pass through striking the Egyptians: and when he shall see the blood on the transom, and on both the posts, he will pass over the door of the house, and not suffer the destroyer to come into your houses and to hurt you.

24 Thou shalt keep this thing as a law for thee and thy children for ever.

25 And when you have entered into the land which the Lord will give you, as he hath promised, you shall observe these ceremonies.

26 And when your children shall say to you: What is the meaning of this service?

27 You shall say to them: It is the victim of the passage of the Lord, when he passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, striking the Egyptians, and saving our houses. And the people bowing themselves, adored.

28 And the children of Israel going forth, did as the Lord had commanded Moses and Aaron.

29 And it came to pass at midnight,^d the Lord slew every first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of Pharaoh, who sat on his throne, unto the first-born of the captive woman that was in the prison, and all the first-born of cattle.

30 And Pharaoh arose in the night, and all his servants, and all Egypt: and there arose a great cry in Egypt; for there was not a house wherein there lay not one dead.

31 And Pharaoh calling Moses and Aaron, in the night, said: Arise and go forth from among my people, you and the children of Israel: go, sacrifice to the Lord as you say.

32 Your sheep and herds take along with you, as you demanded, and departing bless me.

33 And the Egyptians pressed the people to go forth out of the land speedily, saying: We shall all die.

34 The people therefore took dough before it was leavened; and tying it in their cloaks, put it on their shoulders.

^c Heb. xi. 28.—^d Supra, xi. 5.—^e Wisd. xviii. 5.

xvii. 14. The punishment of Kerith, separation, among the Jews, bore some resemblance to our excommunication.

VER. 16. Eating. On the sabbath, meat was not even to be prepared. Chap. xvi. 23.

VER. 18. Unleavened bread. By this it appears, that our Saviour made use of unleavened bread in the institution of the blessed Sacrament, which was on the evening of the paschal solemnity, at which time there was no leavened bread to be found in Israel.

VER. 19. Stranger. Heb. gor, signifies also a proselyte. M.—See ver. 43.—Only those men who had been circumcised were allowed to eat the Phase. Women, belonging to the Hebrews, might partake of it. The unclean were excluded. C.

VER. 22. Hyssop; Heb. atsub: which some translate rosemary. M.—Sprinkle, &c. This sprinkling the doors of the Israelites with the blood of the paschal lamb, in order to their being delivered from the sword of the destroying angel, was a lively figure of our redemption by the blood of Christ. Ch.—S. Jerom, in Isa. lxvi., says the doors were to be sprinkled in the form of a cross.

VER. 24. Children; twelve years old. Luke ii. 42. M.

VER. 27. Victim, sacrificed upon the altar, in honour of the passage, &c. It was a true "sacrifice of propitiation," as the Arab. translates, and of thanks giving. C.

VER. 30. Pharaoh, who it seems was not the eldest son. Where the first-born of a family had a son, both were consigned to destruction. M.

VER. 32. Bless me, by exposing me to no further danger by your stay.

VER. 34. Leavened; which dough afterwards made unleavened ember-cakes. C.

35 *And the children of Israel did as Moses had commanded: and they asked of the Egyptians vessels of silver and gold, and very much raiment.

36 And the Lord gave favour to the people in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they lent unto them: and they stripped the Egyptians.

37 ^bAnd the children of Israel set forward from Ramesse to Socoth, being about six hundred thousand men on foot, beside children.

38 And a mixed multitude, without number, went up also with them, sheep and herds, and beasts of divers kinds, exceeding many.

39 And they baked the meal, which a little before they had brought out of Egypt in dough: and they made hearth-cakes unleavened: for it could not be leavened, the Egyptians pressing them to depart, and not suffering them to make any stay; neither did they think of preparing any meat.

40 And the abode of the children of Israel that they made in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years:

41 Which being expired, the same day all the army of the Lord went forth out of the land of Egypt.

42 This is the observable night of the Lord, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt: this night all the children of Israel must observe in their generations.

43 And the Lord said to Moses and Aaron: This is the service of the Phase; no foreigner shall eat of it.

44 But every bought servant shall be circumcised, and so shall eat.

45 The stranger and the hireling shall not eat thereof.

46 *In one house shall it be eaten, neither shall you carry forth of the flesh thereof out of the house, neither shall you break a bone thereof.

47 All the assembly of the children of Israel shall keep it.

48 And if any stranger be willing to dwell among you, and to keep the Phase of the Lord, all his males shall first be circumcised, and then shall he celebrate it according to the manner: and he shall be as he that is born in the land: but if any man be uncircumcised, he shall not eat thereof.

49 The same law shall be to him that is born in the land, and to the proselyte that sojourneth with you.

50 And all the children of Israel did as the Lord had commanded Moses and Aaron.

51 And the same day the Lord brought forth the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt by their companies.

CHAP. XIII.

The paschal solemnity is to be observed; and the first-born are to be consecrated to God. The people are conducted through the desert by a pillar of fire in the night, and a cloud in the day.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:
2 *Sanctify unto me every first-born that openeth the womb among the children of Israel, as well of men as of beasts: for they are all mine.

3 And Moses said to the people: Remember this day in which you came forth out of Egypt, and out of the house of bondage, for with a strong hand hath the Lord brought you forth out of this place: that you eat no leavened bread.

4 This day you go forth in the month of new corn.

5 And when the Lord shall have brought thee into the land of the Chanaanite, and the Hethite, and the Amorrite, and the Hevite, and the Jebusite, which he swore to thy fathers that he would give thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey, thou shalt celebrate this manner of sacred rites in this month.

6 Seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread: and on the seventh day shall be the solemnity of the Lord.

7 Unleavened bread shall you eat seven days: there shall not be seen any thing leavened with thee, nor in all thy coasts.

8 And thou shalt tell thy son in that day, saying: This is what the Lord did to me when I came forth out of Egypt.

9 And it shall be as a sign in thy hand, and as a memorial before thy eyes; and that the law of the Lord be always in thy mouth, for with a strong hand the Lord hath brought thee out of the land of Egypt.

10 Thou shalt keep this observance at the set time from days to days.

11 And when the Lord shall have brought thee into the land of the Chanaanite, as he swore to thee and thy fathers, and shall give it thee:

12 *Thou shalt set apart all that openeth the womb for the Lord, and all that is first brought forth of thy cattle: whatsoever thou shalt have of the male sex, thou shalt consecrate to the Lord.

13 The first-born of an ass thou shalt change for a sheep: and if thou do not redeem it, thou shalt kill it. And every first-born of men thou shalt redeem with a price.

Lev. xxvii. 26; Num. viii. 16; Luke ii. 23.—* Infra, xxii. 29, and xxxiv. 19; Ezec. xlv. 30.

VER. 37. Ramesse. The first of the 42 stations or encampments of the Hebrews. M.—About. Moses does not speak with such precision, as after the people had been numbered, and were found, 13 months after, to be 603,550 men, without the Levites, or those under 20 years. C.

VER. 40. Egypt. Sam. and Sept. add "and in the land of Chanaan, they and their fathers," dating from the departure of Abraham from Haran in his 75th year; from which period, till Jacob's going into Egypt, 215 years elapsed. H.

VER. 42. Observable, in which the Lord has been our sentinel and preserver. Vatab.

CHAP. XIII. VER. 2. Sanctify unto me every first-born. Sanctification in this place means, that the first-born males of the Hebrews should be deputed to the ministry in the Divine worship: and the first-born of beasts to be given for a sacrifice. Ch.—Sanctify, set apart. M.—Openeth, the first male fruit of the womb. If a female was born the first, none of the children were to be redeemed.

Luke ii. 23. Jesus Christ submitted to this law; though, on account of his miraculous conception and birth, he was not subjected to it. C.

VER. 4. Corn. Heb. Abib; which was styled Nisan after the Babylonian captivity. At this time, peculiar names were not yet given to the months, by the Hebrews or Egyptians. C.—They were distinguished by their respective order, productions, or appearances. H.

VER. 9. And it, &c. The festivals appointed by God and his Church, naturally remind us of the favours which we have received, and help us to meditate on the law. H.—The Jews, understanding the precept literally, write verses taken from this chapter, and Deut. vi. and xi., upon parchment, and bind these tephylins, or phylacterics, on their forehead. Jesus Christ condemns the vanity of the Pharisees, who wore these bandages extremely large Matt. xxiii. 5.

VER. 13. Price. The first offspring of impure animals were to be redeemed

14 And when thy son shall ask thee to-morrow, saying: What is this? thou shalt answer him: With a strong hand did the Lord bring us forth out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

15 For when Pharaoh was hardened, and would not let us go, the Lord slew every first-born in the land of Egypt, from the first-born of man to the first-born of beasts: therefore I sacrifice to the Lord all that openeth the womb of the male sex, and all the first-born of my sons I redeem.

16 And it shall be as a sign in thy hand, and as a thing hung between thy eyes, for a remembrance: because the Lord hath brought us forth out of Egypt by a strong hand.

17 And when Pharaoh had sent out the people, the Lord led them not by the way of the land of the Philistines, which is near; thinking lest perhaps they would repent, if they should see wars arise against them, and would return into Egypt.

18 But he led them about by the way of the desert, which is by the Red Sea: and the children of Israel went up armed out of the land of Egypt.

19 And Moses took Joseph's bones with him: because he had abjured the children of Israel, saying: "God shall visit you, carry out my bones from hence with you."

20 And marching from Socoth, they encamped in Etham, in the utmost coasts of the wilderness.

21 And the Lord went before them to show the way, by day in a pillar of a cloud, and by night in a pillar of fire; that he might be the guide of their journey at both times.

22 There never failed the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, before the people.

CHAP. XIV.

Pharaoh pursueth the children of Israel. They murmur against Moses, but are encouraged by him, and pass through the Red Sea. Pharaoh and his army, following them, are drowned.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

2 Speak to the children of Israel: Let them turn and encamp over against Pihahiroth, which is between Magdal and the sea over against Beelsephon: you shall encamp before it upon the sea.

a Deut. vi. 8.—b Gen. i. 24.—c Num. xiv. 14; 2 Esdr. ix. 12, and 19; or killed; those of the pure were to be offered in sacrifice. Num. xviii. 15. Philo. Dogs, cats, poultry, &c. were to be slain. Deut. xxiii. 18. C.

VER. 14. To-morrow. At any future period. Matt. vi. 2. M.

VER. 15. Hardened. Heb. "by himself," or by his own malice. W.

VER. 17. Lest. God maketh use of precautions, to show the free-will of man. W.—The Philistines had before made a great slaughter of the Ephraimites, 1 Par. vii. 21. The Chanaanites would also be ready to oppose the Hebrews, if they had attempted to enter by the road of Pelusium, and perhaps the Idumeans and Amalecites also would have met them in front, while the Egyptians attacked their rear. C.

VER. 18. Armed, in order of battle. Heb. emssim, "by fives," or in five battalions. Jos. i. 14; Judg. viii. 11. C.

VER. 19. Joseph's. This attention to the dead is commended. Heb. xi. W.—S. Stephen assures us, that the bones of the other patriarchs were deposited at Sichem; and we may conclude, that they were transported on this occasion by their respective families. Acts vii. 16.

VER. 20. Etham. A city on the banks of the Red Sea, giving its name to one of the gulfs, which the Greeks called after the city Heroopolis. Plin. vi. 29.

VER. 22. Never. From the station of Etham; or, if we follow S. Jerom, from that of Socoth, or even from Rameses, according to Bonfrere, till the passage of the Jordan, when the ark supplied its want. Jos. iii. 11. This cloud assumed different appearances, as the exigencies of the Hebrews required. It was a figure of baptism (1 Cor. x. 1); the fire designated Jesus Christ, and the cloud the Holy Ghost. S. Amb. de Sac. 6. C.

CHAP. XIV. VER. 1. Beelsephon means "the lord of the watch-tower."

3 And Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel: They are straitened in the land, the desert hath shut them in.

4 And I shall harden his heart, and he will pursue you: and I shall be glorified in Pharaoh, and in all his army: and the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord. And they did so.

5 And it was told the king of the Egyptians that the people was fled: and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was changed with regard to the people, and they said: What meant we to do, that we let Israel go from serving us?

6 So he made ready his chariot, and took all his people with him.

7 And he took six hundred chosen chariots, and all the chariots that were in Egypt: and the captains of the whole army.

8 And the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and he pursued the children of Israel; but they were gone forth in a mighty hand.

9 And when the Egyptians followed the steps of them who were gone before, they found them encamped at the sea side: all Pharaoh's horse and chariots, and the whole army were in Pihahiroth, before Beelsephon.

10 And when Pharaoh drew near, the children of Israel lifting up their eyes, saw the Egyptians behind them, and they feared exceedingly, and cried to the Lord,

11 And they said to Moses: Perhaps there were no graves in Egypt, therefore thou hast brought us to die in the wilderness: why wouldst thou do this, to lead us out of Egypt?

12 Is not this the word that we spoke to thee in Egypt, saying: Depart from us, that we may serve the Egyptians? for it was much better to serve them, than to die in the wilderness.

13 And Moses said to the people: Fear not: stand and see the great wonders of the Lord, which he will do this day; for the Egyptians, whom you see now, you shall see no more for ever.

14 The Lord will fight for you, and you shall hold your peace.

1 Cor. x. 1.—d Jos. xxiv. 6; 1 Mac. iv. 9.

Some think an idol was thus denominated, whose office it was to prevent people from quitting the country. How vain were his efforts against God's people!

VER. 3. In Between craggy mountains and the Red Sea. H.

VER. 4. And he will. Protestants falsely translate, "that he may," &c., contrary to the Heb. and other versions. W.

VER. 6. People, fit for war, who could be got ready on such short warning. Ezechiel (ap Eus.) makes the number amount to a million.

VER. 7. Captains. Sept. "Tristates." Three men rode on every chariot, which was armed with scythes, to cut down all that came within contact, the chief warrior, with his armour-bearer and charioteer. S. Greg. Nys. H.

VER. 8. Hand. Without any dread. Num. xv. 30. C.—All the army of Egypt could do nothing against them. Yet presently, at their approach, the Hebrews were suffered to fall into dismay, that they might learn not to confide in their multitudes, and might pray with greater earnestness for protection, ver. 10.

VER. 12. Wilderness. This is the language of dastardly souls. They had begun to be almost in love with their chains. Every difficulty gives them occasion to repine at the gracious purposes of God, and the exertions of his servant Moses. But God bears patiently with the defects of a carnal and long-oppressed nation. H. v. 13.—The wiser sort pray to God, while others thus upbraid Moses.

VER. 13. Ever. They saw their floating carcasses the following morning. Heb. "you shall not see the Egyptians any more as you see them at present." They were not in the same condition.

VER. 14. Peace. You will not have to draw a sword. The Syriac subjoins, "Therefore Moses cried unto the Lord," which connects this with the following verse. C.

15 And the Lord said to Moses: Why criest thou to me? Speak to the children of Israel to go forward.

16 But lift thou up thy rod, and stretch forth thy hand over the sea, and divide it: that the children of Israel may go through the midst of the sea on dry ground.

17 And I will harden the heart of the Egyptians to pursue you: and I will be glorified in Pharaoh, and in all his host, and in his chariots and in his horsemen.

18 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord, when I shall be glorified in Pharaoh, and in his chariots, and in his horsemen.

19 And the angel of God, who went before the camp of Israel, removing, went behind them: and together with him the pillar of the cloud, leaving the fore-part,

20 Stood behind, between the Egyptians' camp and the camp of Israel: and it was a dark cloud, and enlightening the night, so that they could not come at one another all the night.

21 And when Moses had stretched forth his hand over the sea, the Lord took it away by a strong and burning wind blowing all the night, and turned it into dry ground: and the water was divided.

22 And the children of Israel went in through the midst of the sea dried up; for the water was as a wall on their right hand and on their left.

23 And the Egyptians pursuing went in after them, and all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots and horsemen, through the midst of the sea.

24 And now the morning watch was come, and behold the Lord looking upon the Egyptian army through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, slew their host.

25 And overthrew the wheels of the chariots, and they were carried into the deep. And the Egyptians said: Let us flee from Israel; for the Lord fighteth for them against us.

26 And the Lord said to Moses: Stretch forth thy hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots and horsemen.

27 And when Moses had stretched forth his hand towards the sea, it returned at the first break of day to the former place: and as the Egyptians were fleeing away, the waters came upon them, and the Lord shut them up in the middle of the waves.

28 And the waters returned, and covered the chariots and the horsemen of all the army of Pharaoh, who had come into the sea after them, neither did there so much as one of them remain.

29 But the children of Israel marched through the midst of the sea upon dry land, and the waters were to them as a wall on the right hand and on the left:

30 And the Lord delivered Israel in that day out of the hands of the Egyptians.

31 And they saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea shore, and the mighty hand that the Lord had used against them: and the people feared the Lord, and they believed the Lord, and Moses his servant.

CHAP. XV.

The canticle of Moses. The bitter waters of Mara are made sweet.

THEN Moses and the children of Israel sung this canticle to the Lord, and said: Let us sing to the Lord: for he is gloriously magnified, the horse and the rider he hath thrown into the sea.

2 The Lord is my strength and my praise, and he is become salvation to me: he is my God, and I will glorify him: the God of my father, and I will exalt him.

3 The Lord is as a man of war, Almighty is his name.

4 Pharaoh's chariots and his army he hath cast into the sea: his chosen captains are drowned in the Red Sea.

5 The depths have covered them, they are sunk to the bottom like a stone.

6 Thy right hand, O Lord, is magnified in strength: thy right hand, O Lord, hath slain the enemy.

7 And in the multitude of thy glory thou hast put down thy adversaries: thou hast sent thy wrath, which hath devoured them like stubble.

8 And with the blast of thy anger the waters were gathered together: the flowing water stood, the depths were gathered together in the midst of the sea.

9 The enemy said: I will pursue and overtake, I will divide the spoils, my soul shall have its fill: I will draw my sword, my hand shall slay them.

10 Thy wind blew and the sea covered them: they sunk as lead in the mighty waters.

11 Who is like to thee, among the strong, O Lord? who is like to thee, glorious in holiness, terrible and praise-worthy, doing wonders?

^a Psal. lxxvii. 13, and civ. 37, and cxiii. 3; Heb. xi. 29.—^b Wisd. xviii. 15.

^c Wisd. x. 20.—^d Psal. cxvii. 14; Isa. xli. 2.

VER. 15. Criest. "A vehement desire is a cry, which reaches the ears of the Lord." S. Bern.

VER. 17. To pursue. God did not restrain the perverse will of the Egyptians; but suffered them to be guided by their blind passions, and to rush presumptuously into the bed of the sea. If the retiring of its waters had been owing to any natural cause, this wise nation could not be ignorant but that, at the stated time, the ebbing would cease, and consequently that they would be overtaken by the waters. But the waters stood up like walls on both sides, and they were so infatuated as to suppose that the miracle would be continued for their protection. H.

VER. 20. A dark cloud, and enlightening the night. It was a dark cloud to the Egyptians; but enlightened the night to the Israelites, by giving them a great light.

VER. 21. Wind. This served to dry up the sandy channel of the Red Sea, which was mixed with mud and weeds.

VER. 24. Watch. About four o'clock. The Hebrews divided the night into three equal parts, (C.) or four, consisting each of three hours, (M.) which varied in length as the night was longer. H.

VER. 31. Sea shore. The Hebrews would thus again be enriched by their spoils. C.—Servant. Those who believe God, submit to the directions of his ambassadors. S. Jerom in Philom. 5. In this merited catastrophe of the Egyptians, which fixed the last seal to the mission of Moses, the Fathers contemplate how God's servants are rescued by baptism, and by the merits of Jesus Christ, from Satan and from all sin. 1 Cor. x. 1, 4. Orig. hom. 5. 11.

CHAP. XV. VER. 1. Canticle. Origen reckons this to be the most ancient piece of poetry. C.—Let us sing. So the Sept. The Heb. has "I will sing . . . for he hath triumphed gloriously." This canticle was composed by Moses, about 1491 years B. C. H.

VER. 2. Praise. The printed Heb. is here irregular, but some MSS. agree with the Vulg., Chal., and Arab. Ken. i. p. 400.—To him my praise is due on all titles. H.—God. Heb. al, "the strong one." M.

VER. 3. The Lord. Sept. "breaking wars in pieces," A MAN OF WAR, conqueror. C.—Almighty. Jere, I am. This is the most awful and incommunicable name. H.

VER. 4. Captains. Lit. Princes Heb. sofsim, chiefs. The three great officers. Chap. xiv. 7.

VER. 7. Wrath. A tempest of lightning. See Isa. lxiii. 11; Habac. iii. 15.

VER. 8. Together. "Congealed on either side," as the Chal. and Sept. express it. C.

VER. 10. Wind. Sept. "spirit," which S. Amb. and S. Aug. understand of the Holy Ghost. C.

VER. 11. Who . . . Lord. The initials of these four Hebrew letters, which the Maccabees placed on their banners, (m c b i;) probably gave that title to 12 Thou stretchedst forth thy hand, and the earth swallowed them.

13 In thy mercy thou hast been a leader to the people which thou hast redeemed: and in thy strength thou hast carried them to thy holy habitation.

14 Nations rose up, and were angry: sorrows took hold on the inhabitants of Philisthiim.

15 Then were the princes of Edom troubled, trembling seized on the stout men of Moab: all the inhabitants of Chanaan became stiff.

16 Let fear and dread fall upon them, in the greatness of thy arm: let them become unmoveable as a stone, until thy people, O Lord, pass by: until this thy people pass by, which thou hast possessed.

17 Thou shalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountain of thy inheritance, in thy most firm habitation, which thou hast made, O Lord; thy sanctuary, O Lord, which thy hands have established.

18 The Lord shall reign for ever and ever.

19 For Pharaoh went in on horseback with his chariots and horsemen into the sea: and the Lord brought back upon them the waters of the sea: but the children of Israel walked on dry ground in the midst thereof.

20 So Mary the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand: and all the women went forth after her with timbrels and with dances.

21 And she began the song to them, saying: Let us sing to the Lord, for he is gloriously magnified, the horse and his rider he hath thrown into the sea.

22 And Moses brought Israel from the Red Sea, and they went forth into the wilderness of Sur: and they marched three days through the wilderness, and found no water.

23 And they came into Mara, and they could not drink the waters of Mara, because they were bitter: whereupon he gave a name also agreeable to the place, calling it Mara, that is, bitterness.

24 And the people murmured against Moses, saying: What shall we drink?

^a Judith v. 15; Eccli. xxxviii. 5.—^b Num. xxxiii. 9.

those stout heroes, who rose up in defence of their religion. H.—Strong, may be applied either to men, or to the pretended gods of the Gentiles, which seems to agree best with the sequel. Sept. "among the gods . . wonderful in praises."

VER. 12. Earth. When their carcasses were corrupted, such as were not eaten by fishes, mixed with the earth at the bottom, or on the shore of the sea.

VER. 13. Hast been. "This is a prophecy of what should happen to the Hebrews till they should be put in quiet possession of Chanaan, (C.) of which they had an earnest, in the protection which they had already experienced. H.—Holy, on account of the temple, and of the patriarchs, and Jesus Christ, who dwelt there. M.

VER. 15. Stiff, with consternation. See Jos. ix. 9. Heb. instead of being stiff, says, they "melted away." Both words insinuate, that their heart was under such a violent struggle, that they could perform no duty.

VER. 17. Mountain. Chanaan was very mountainous, and different from Egypt. C.—Sion was the peculiar mountain of God, consecrated to his worship. M.

VER. 18. And ever. Lit. et ultra, "and beyond:" æulom, which denotes a long duration, is often used to mean a time that will have an end. To add the greater emphasis to it, the latter term is sometimes used when eternity is meant. The Sept. "The Lord shall reign over this generation, or age of the Mosaic law, and over an age lasting from Christ to the end, and still." His kingdom shall extend over all eternity. C.

VER. 20. Mary, or Mariam, as it was formerly pronounced, though the Masorets now read Miriam, may signify one "exalted, lady, star, bitterness of the sea."—Prophetess; having revelations from God, (Num. xii. 1,) and singing his praises.—Of Aaron. Moses passes over himself out of modesty. She is known by this title, whence it is supposed she never married. S. Amb. C.—Timbrels, which were already used in solemn worship.—And dances. Chorists may mean companies of women, singing and dancing in honour of God.

25 But he cried to the Lord, and he showed him a tree, *which when he had cast into the waters, they were turned into sweetness. There he appointed him ordinances, and judgments, and there he proved him,

26 Saying: If thou wilt hear the voice of the Lord thy God, and do what is right before him, and obey his commandments, and keep all his precepts, none of the evil that I laid upon Egypt, will I bring upon thee: for I am the Lord thy healer.

27 *And the children of Israel came into Elim, where there were twelve fountains of water, and seventy palm trees: and they encamped by the waters.

CHAP. XVI.

The people murmur for want of meat: God giveth them quails and manna

AND they set forward from Elim,^c and all the multitude of the children of Israel came into the desert of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai: the fifteenth day of the second month, after they came out of the land of Egypt.^a

2 And all the congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness

3 And the children of Israel said to them: Would to God we had died by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, when we sat over the fleshpots, and ate bread to the full: Why have you brought us into this desert, that you might destroy all the multitude with famine?

4 And the Lord said to Moses: Behold I will rain bread from heaven for you; let the people go forth, and gather what is sufficient for every day: that I may prove them whether they will walk in my law, or not.

5 But the sixth day let them provide for to bring in: and let it be double to that they were wont to gather every day.

6 And Moses and Aaron said to the children of Israel: In the evening you shall know that the Lord hath brought you forth out of the land of Egypt:

7 And in the morning you shall see the glory of the Lord: for he hath heard your murmuring against the Lord: but as for us, what are we, that you mutter against us?

^c Wisd. xi. 2.—^d A. M. 2513.

VER. 22. Sur, which is called Etham, "Pough," (Num. xxxiii. 7,) on which account both sides of the Red Sea are described by the same name; hence some have groundlessly asserted that the Hebrews came out of the Red Sea by the same way they entered it. H.

VER. 23. Mara, about half way between Suez and M. Sinai. C.

VER. 25. A tree, (lignum,) or piece of wood, which had the natural property here ascribed to it. Eccli. xxxviii. 4. C.—Though we can hardly suppose that all that collection of waters would be thus rendered sweet, unless God had given it a miraculous efficacy. H.—It foreshowed the virtue of the cross. Theodoret ix. 26.—Him, Moses, and the people of Israel, of which he was now the sole head or king. H.

VER. 26. Healer. God delivered his people from every infirmity, which might prevent any one from joining the rest of their tribes on the night of the exit. Psal. civ. 37.

VER. 27. Elim, to the north-west of Sinai. Shaw says there are now only nine fountains. H.—The holy Job probably lived about this time, so that his book may serve to corroborate those truths, which were the objects of faith to some good men living among the Gentiles, as well as to the more favoured nation of the Jews. H.

CHAP. XVI. VER. 1. Sin, after they had encamped on the Red Sea. Num. xxxiii. 10. The 33rd station was also in the desert of Sin, or Cades. But that is far remote from this desert. Num. xx. 1. C.

VER. 4. Prove. Show by experience. Therefore he orders the Hebrews to gather manna only for one day, except on Friday. C.

VER. 5. Provide. Hence this day was called Parascève, or the day of preparation.

VER. 7. Morning, when manna fell, as quails were brought the former evening, ver. 12, and 13. These fresh instances of protection might convince them that they had not been imposed upon by Moses in leaving Egypt. M.

8 And Moses said : In the evening the Lord will give you flesh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full : for he hath heard your murmurings, with which you have murmured against him, for what are we? your murmuring is not against us, but against the Lord.

9 Moses also said to Aaron : Say to the whole congregation of the children of Israel : Come before the Lord ; for he hath heard your murmuring.

10 And when Aaron spoke to all the assembly of the children of Israel, they looked towards the wilderness ;^a and behold the glory of the Lord appeared in a cloud.

11 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying :

12 I have heard the murmuring of the children of Israel, say to them : In the evening you shall eat flesh, and in the morning you shall have your fill of bread ; and you shall know that I am the Lord your God.

13 So it came to pass in the evening,^b that quails coming up, covered the camp : and in the morning a dew lay round about the camp.

14 And when it had covered the face of the earth, ^cit appeared in the wilderness small, and as it were beaten with a pestle, like unto the hoar-frost on the ground.

15 And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another : Manhu ! which signifieth : What is this ! for they knew not what it was. And Moses said to them : ^dThis is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat.

16 This is the word that the Lord hath commanded : Let every one gather of it as much as is enough to eat ; a gomor for every man, according to the number of your souls that dwell in a tent, so shall you take of it.

17 And the children of Israel did so : and they gathered, one more, another less.

18 And they measured by the measure of a gomor ;^e neither had he more that had gathered more ; nor did he find less that had provided less : but every one had gathered, according to what they were able to eat.

19 And Moses said to them : Let no man leave thereof till the morning.

20 And they hearkened not to him, but some of them left until the morning, and it began to be full of worms, and it putrified, and Moses was angry with them.

21 Now every one of them gathered in the morning, as much as might suffice to eat : and after the sun grew hot, it melted.

22 But on the sixth day they gathered twice as much, that is, two gomors every man : and all the rulers of the multitude came, and told Moses.

23 And he said to them : This is what the Lord hath spoken : To-morrow is the rest of the sabbath sanctified to the Lord. Whatsoever work is to be done, do it ; and the meats that are to be dressed, dress them ; and whatsoever shall remain, lay it up until the morning.

24 And they did so as Moses had commanded, and it did not putrify, neither was there worm found in it.

25 And Moses said : Eat it to-day, because it is the sabbath of the Lord : to-day it shall not be found in the field.

26 Gather it six days ; but on the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord, therefore it shall not be found.

27 And the seventh day came : and some of the people going forth to gather, found none.

28 And the Lord said to Moses : How long will you refuse to keep my commandments, and my law ?

29 See that the Lord hath given you the sabbath, and for this reason on the sixth day he giveth you a double provision : let each man stay at home, and let none go forth out of his place the seventh day.

30 And the people kept the sabbath on the seventh day.

31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna : and it was like coriander seed, white, and the taste thereof like to flour with honey.

32 And Moses said : This is the word which the Lord hath commanded : Fill a gomor of it, and let it be kept unto generations to come hereafter ; that they may know the bread, wherewith I fed you in the wilderness, when you were brought forth out of the land of Egypt.

33 And Moses said to Aaron : Take a vessel, and put manna into it, as much as a gomor can hold ; and lay it up before the Lord, to keep unto your generations, 34 As the Lord commanded Moses. And Aaron put it in the tabernacle to be kept.

35 And the children of Israel ate manna forty years,

^a Eccli. xlv. 3.—^b Num. xi. 31.—^c Supra, xvi. 20 ; Num. xi. 7 ; Psal. lxxvii. 24 ; John vi. 31.

^d 1 Cor. x. 3.—^e 2 Cor. viii. 15.—2 Esdr. ix. 21 ; Judith v. 15.

VER. 8. Lord. All rebellion against lawful authority is resented by God. D.
VER. 13. Quails. All the Oriental languages express these birds by sohu, though some have asserted that pheasants or locusts are here meant. Josephus (Ant. iii. 1) informs us, that great flocks of quails are found about the gulf of Arabia. They return into Europe from the warmer regions about the beginning of May, at which time God directed the course of vast multitudes to the camp of Israel. Ilesyehius says the cheennion, a smaller species of quails, was salted and dried, as the Hebrews did theirs. Num. xi. 32. See Psal. lxxvii. 26. C.

VER. 15. Manhu. S. Jerom adds the explanation, (D.) which is almost universally adopted, though some pretend that man, even in Chaldee, means who, and not what? Calmet refers them to Psal. lx. 7, for a proof of the contrary. Manna is found in various parts of the world, the best in Arabia. But this was of a different nature, and wholly miraculous, falling every day, except Saturday, throughout the 40 years that the Hebrews dwelt in the desert. It melted with the heat of the sun, (ver. 21.) though it would bear the fire, and might be made into cakes, which cannot be done with the Arabian manna. It filled the mouth of God's servants with the most delightful tastes, (Wisd. xvi. 20,) while the wicked were disgusted with it. Num. xi. 6, Our soul is dry, &c. It is called the bread of angels, being made or brought by their ministry. C.—Whatever a man gathered, he had only a gomor full, and this sufficed for young and old, sick and healthy ; if any was kept over the night it became corrupt, except that which was reserved for Saturday, and that which was preserved in the ark for a memorial for several hundred years. W.—Yet this wonderful bread was only a figure of that which Jesus Christ promised to give, (S. John vi.,) and as the figure must come beneath the reality, (Col. ii.,) what we receive in the blessed Eucharist must undoubtedly be something better than manna. Would Zuinglius and Calvin attempt then to persuade us, that Christ appointed their mere sacramental bread to supersede and excel the favour of manna granted to the fathers, who are dead? Mere bread cannot stand in competition with this miraculous food. But the truth which it foreshadowed, according to all the doctors of the Church, I mean the body and blood, soul and divinity of Jesus Christ, in the blessed sacrament, under the appearances of bread and wine, are surely more excellent than manna itself. It is miraculously brought upon our altars by the words of Jesus Christ, spoken by his priests at Mass, and dispensed to infinite multitudes in the most distant places from each other, and even in the smallest particle. H.

VER. 21. Morning. Wisd. xvi. 28, we find the reason of this ordinance, which enforces diligence, and was a constant admonition to bless God without delay. H.

VER. 31. Manna. This miraculous food, with which the children of Israel were nourished and supported during their sojourning in the wilderness, was a figure of the bread of life, which we receive in the blessed sacrament for the food and nourishment of our souls, during the time of our mortal pilgrimage, till we come to our eternal home, the true land of promise ; where we shall keep an everlasting sabbath, and have no further need of sacraments. Cl.—Sam. "like a grain of rice."—Honey, or oil. Num. xi. 8. C.—This was the usual taste. But if any one liked another better, the manna assumed it. Wisd. xvi. 20. M till they came to a habitable land : with this meat were they fed, until they reached the borders of the land of Chanaan.

36 Now a gomor is the tenth part of an ephi.

CHAP. XVII.

The people murmur again for want of drink : the Lord giveth them water out of a rock. Moses lifting up his hand in prayer, Amalec is overcome.

THEN all the multitude of the children of Israel setting forward^a from the desert of Sin, by their man-sions, according to the word of the Lord, encamped in Raphidim, where there was no water for the people to drink.

2 ^b And they chode with Moses, and said : Give us water, that we may drink. And Moses answered them : Why chide you with me ? Wherefore do you tempt the Lord ?

3 So the people were thirsty there for want of water, and murmured against Moses, saying : Why didst thou make us go forth out of Egypt, to kill us and our children, and our beasts with thirst ?

4 And Moses cried to the Lord, saying : What shall I do to this people ? Yet a little more and they will stone me.

5 And the Lord said to Moses : Go before the people, and take with thee of the ancients of Israel : and take in thy hand the rod wherewith thou didst strike the river,^c and go.

6 Behold I will stand there before thee, upon the rock Horeb ; and thou shalt strike the rock, and water shall come out of it that the people may drink. Moses did so before the ancients of Israel :

7 And he called the name of that place Temptation, because of the chiding of the children of Israel, and for that they tempted the Lord, saying : Is the Lord amongst us or not ?

8 ^d And Amalec came, and fought against Israel in Raphidim.

9 And Moses said to Josue : Choose out men ; and go out and fight against Amalec : to-morrow I will stand on the top of the hill, having the rod of God in my hand.

10 Josue did as Moses had spoken, and he fought against Amalec ; but Moses, and Aaron, and Hur, went up upon the top of the hill.

^a A. M. 2513.—^b Num. xx. 41.—^c Supra, xiv. 21 ; Psal. lxxvii. 15 ; 1 Cor. x. 4.

VER. 35. Land. Manna was withdrawn as soon as usual food could be easily procured. H.—In this desert of the world, we are supported by the sacraments. As manna fell in the night, so the mysteries of faith are concealed from the curious researches of men. It melted with the sun-beams ; so mysteries confound the idle attempts of those who would fathom their impenetrable depth. Those who ate manna died, but the worthy receiver of the blessed sacrament will live for ever. C.

CHAP. XVII. VER. 1. Mansions, at Daphea, (Num. xxxiii. 12,) and perhaps at Aluz. C.—Raphidim, the 11th station mentioned by Moses, which was afterwards called Massa, "temptation," because the people murmured in this place. M.

VER. 6. Before thee, ready to grant thy request at Horeb, a rock to the west of Sinai, and a figure of Jesus Christ, according to S. Paul ; who says, (1 Cor. x. 4,) that the spiritual rock followed the Hebrews.

VER. 8. Amalec. The descendants of Esau by his grandson, living about the Red Sea.

VER. 9. Josue, who was before called Osee, or Ausem, was the son of Nun. From the victory obtained over the Amalecites, he was ever after called Josue, Jehosuah, or Jesus, "Saviour."

VER. 10. Hur, grandfather of Beseleel, (1 Par. ii. 19,) grandson of Esron by Caleb.

VER. 11. And when Moses lifted up his hands. Here Moses was a figure of Christ on the cross, by whose power and mediation we overcome our spiritual enemies. Ch.—Hands, forming the sign of the cross, as the Fathers observe, in 11 And when Moses lifted up his hands, Israel overcame ; but if he let them down a little, Amalec overcame.

12 And Moses's hands were heavy : so they took a stone, and put under him, and he sat on it : and Aaron and Hur stayed up his hands on both sides. And it came to pass, that his hands were not weary until sun-set.

13 And Josue put Amalec and his people to flight, by the edge of the sword.

14 And the Lord said to Moses : Write this for a memorial in a book, and deliver it to the ears of Josue ; for I will destroy the memory of Amalec from under heaven.

15 And Moses built an altar ; and called the name thereof, The Lord, my exaltation, saying :

16 Because the hand of the throne of the Lord, and the war of the Lord shall be against Amalec, from generation to generation.

CHAP. XVIII.

Jethro bringeth to Moses his wife and children. His counsel.

AND when^e Jethro the priest of Madian, the kinsman of Moses, had heard all the things that God had done to Moses, and to Israel his people, and that the Lord had brought forth Israel out of Egypt :

2 He took Sephora, the wife of Moses, whom he had sent back :

3 And her two sons, of whom one was called Gersam, his father saying : 'I have been a stranger in a foreign country.

4 And the other Eliezer : For the God of my father, said he, is my helper, and hath delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh.

5 And Jethro, the kinsman of Moses, came with his sons, and his wife to Moses into the desert, where he was camped by the mountain of God.

6 And he sent word to Moses, saying : I Jethro, thy kinsman, come to thee, and thy wife, and thy two sons with her.

7 And he went out to meet his kinsman, and worshipped and kissed him : and they saluted one another with words of peace. And when he was come into the tent,

8 Moses told his kinsman all that the Lord had done to Pharaoh and the Egyptians in favour of Israel : and all the posture of a suppliant. S. Jerom says, the people fasted also till the evening e. Jos. ii. C.

^d Deut. xxv. 17 ; Judith iv. 13 ; Wisd. xi. 3.—^e A. M. 2514, A. C. 1480.—^f Supra, ii. 22.

VER. 14. Of Josue, and of all who shall govern after him, that they may remember to execute my decree of extermination, against these cruel Amalecites, who have first dared to oppose the progress of my dejected people. H.—Moses mentions, that they particularly attacked the feeble and stragglers, (Deut. xxv. 18,) though their army was very formidable. Judith iv. 13. Saul received an express order to destroy this nation ; and he made such havoc among them, that they never rose again to any importance, and were confounded with the Idumeans. 1 Kings xv. 3. C.

VER. 15. Exaltation. He has given me the victory. He has supported my hands on high, holding the rod as a standard. H.

VER. 16. Hand of the throne. The Lord hath lifted up his hand, and sworn on his throne, that war, &c., (Chald.) or the hand of Amalec hath attacked the throne (Israel, the inheritance) of the Lord ; therefore shall he pursue them for ever.

CHAP. XVIII. VER. 1. Jethro. See chap. ii. 18.—Priest. Heb. Cen means also a prince. Both offices were performed by the heads of families, in the law of nature. W.—It is supposed that this interview took place later, and should be placed Num. x. 10. C.

VER. 2. Back, with her consent, when he was going to the court of Pharaoh. M.

VER. 5. Mountain. Horeb, (chap. iii. 1,) or Sinai. M.

VER. 7. Worshipped, bending to the ground, according to the custom of the country. II.

† AND AARON STRETCHED FORTH HIS HAND UPON THE WATERS OF EGYPT, AND THE FROGS CAME UP, AND COVERED THE LAND OF EGYPT.—EXODUS VIII. 6.

✚ SO MOSES AND AARON WENT IN UNTO PHARAO, AND DID AS THE LORD HAD COMMANDED. AND AARON TOOK THE ROD BEFORE PHARAO AND HIS SERVANTS, AND IT WAS TURNED INTO A SERPENT.—EXODUS VII. 10.

† AND CAIN SAID TO ABEL, HIS BROTHER: LET US GO FORTH ABROAD. AND WHEN THEY WERE IN THE FIELD, CAIN ROSE UP AGAINST HIS BROTHER ABEL, AND SLEW HIM.—GENESIS II: 8.

† AND HE SAW IN HIS SLEEP A LADDER STANDING UPON THE EARTH, AND THE TOP THEREOF TOUCHING HEAVEN.
THE ANGELS ALSO OF GOD ASCENDING AND DESCENDING BY IT.—GENESIS XXXII.

✠ BUT SAMSON SLEPT TILL MIDNIGHT, AND THEN RISING, HE TOOK BOTH THE DOORS OF THE GATE, WITH THE POST THEREOF, AND CARRIED THEM UP TO THE TOP OF THE HILL.—JUDGES XVI. 3.

† AND WHEN THEY SOUNDED THEIR TRUMPETS IN THREE PLACES ROUND ABOUT THE CAMP, AND HAD BROKEN THEIR PITCHERS, THEY CRIED OUT, THE SWORD OF THE LORD AND OF GEDEON.—JUDGES I'II. 20.

✚ AND OPENING HER MOUTH, DEVoured THEM WITH THEIR TENTS, AND ALL THEIR SUBSTANCE. AND THEY WENT DOWN ALIVE INTO HELL, THE GROUND CLOSING UPON THEM, AND THEY PERISHED FROM AMONG THE PEOPLE.—NUMBERS XVII. 32, 33.

BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF THE HOLY LAND.

Showing Cities, Mountains, Seas, Rivers, and other Important Places mentioned in the HOLY SCRIPTURES.

- | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|--|---|
| 1. Damascus. 2. River Pharpar. 3. River Abana. 4. Salet. 5. Mount of Beatitude. 6. Ruins of Capernaum. 7. Plains of Genesareth. 8. Sea of Tiberias. 9. Site of Tiberias. 10. City of Tiberias. 11. Village of Magdala. | 12. Nazareth. 13. Mount Tabor. 14. Endor. 15. Nain. 16. Acre. 17. Great Plain of Esdraelon. 18. Haifa. 19. Mount Carmel. 20. Convent of Mt. Carmel. 21. Bay of Acre. 22. Ruins of Samaria. | 23. Mount Ebal. 24. Mount Gerizim. 25. Shechem. 26. Mountains of Gilead. 27. The Jordan joining the Dead Sea. 28. Waters of Gadara. 29. Jokneam. 30. Ruins of Caesarea. 31. River Akhdar. 32. Lydda. | 33. Ramah. 34. Samuel's Tomb. 35. Pninaus. 36. Beer. 37. Bethel. 38. Hills of Ephraim. 39. Jordan. 40. Jericho. 41. Mount of Tumpation. 42. Bethany. | 44. Bethphage. 45. Brook Kedron. 46. Sion. 47. Monastery of St. Saba. 48. The Dead Sea. 49. Mount of Olives. 50. Garden of Gethsemane. 51. Point of Ascension. 52. Valley of Jehoshaphat. 53. Mosque of Omar. 54. Palace of the Pasha. | 55. Church of the Holy Sepulchre. 56. Calvary. 57. Castle of David. 58. Bethlehem or Jamm Gate. 59. Mount Zion. 60. Valley of Hinnom. 61. Ramiah. 62. Jafa, formerly Joppa. 63. Vale of Sharon. 64. Wilderness of St. John. 65. Bethlehem. | 66. Chapel of Nativity. 67. Engedi. 68. Caves of Adullam. 69. Tomb of Rachel. 70. Convent of St. John. 71. Hebron. 72. Borders of Edom or Idumea. 73. Zok. 74. Askelon. 75. Gaza. 76. River Zerbel. | 77. Ziklag. [Grand Jordan. 78. Moab, the country between the Mediterranean Sea. 79. Tyre. 80. Sidon. 81. Sidon. 82. Mountains of Lebanon. 83. Vale of Lebanon. 84. Ruins of Caesarea Philippi. 85. Waters of Meroun. 86. Anti-Lebanon. 87. Mount Hermon. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|--|---|

✚ AND I HAVE SAID THE WORD TO BRING YOU FORTH OUT OF THE AFFLICTION OF EGYPT, INTO THE LAND OF THE CHANANITE, AND HETHITE, AND AMORRHITE, AND PHEREZITE, AND HEVITE, AND JERUSITE, TO A LAND THAT FLOWETH WITH MILK AND HONEY.—EXODUS III. 17.

the labour which had befallen them in the journey, and that the Lord had delivered them.

9 And Jethro rejoiced for all the good things that the Lord had done to Israel, because he had delivered them out of the hands of the Egyptians.

10 And he said: Blessed is the Lord, who hath delivered his people out of the hand of Egypt.

11 Now I know, that the Lord is great above all gods; because they dealt proudly against them.

12 So Jethro, the kinsman of Moses, offered holocausts and sacrifices to God: and Aaron and all the ancients of Israel came, to eat bread with him before God.

13 And the next day Moses sat to judge the people, who stood by Moses from morning until night.

14 And when his kinsman had seen all things that he did among the people, he said: What is it that thou dost among the people? Why sittest thou alone, and all the people wait from morning till night?

15 And Moses answered him: The people come to me to seek the judgment of God?

16 And when any controversy falleth out among them, they come to me to judge between them, and to show the precepts of God, and his laws.

17 But he said: The thing thou dost is not good.

18 Thou art spent with foolish labour, both thou, and this people that is with thee; the business is above thy strength,^b thou alone canst not bear it.

19 But hear my words and counsels, and God shall be with thee. Be thou to the people in those things that pertain to God, to bring their words to him:

20 And to show the people the ceremonies, and the manner of worshipping, and the way wherein they ought to walk, and the work that they ought to do.

21 And provide out of all the people able men, such as fear God, in whom there is truth, and that hate avarice, and appoint of them rulers of thousands, and of hundreds, and of fifties, and of tens.

22 Who may judge the people at all times: and when any great matter soever shall fall out, let them refer it to thee, and let them judge the lesser matters only: that so it may be lighter for thee, the burden being shared out unto others.

* Supra, i. 14, and v. 7, and x. 10, and xiv. 8.—b Deut. i. 12.—c Num. xx. 29.

VER. 11. I know. I am now more convinced of this truth. Jethro instructed his family in these principles. The Rechabites were his descendants. 1 Par. ii. 55; Jer. xxxv. M.—Proudly. Heb. "because in the thing in which they did proudly, he was against, or above them." Something must be supplied. God turned the wisdom and arms of the Egyptians to their own confusion. C.

VER. 12. Sacrificers. Peace-offerings, of which he might partake with the ancients. H.—Jethro being a stranger, and a servant of the true God, might perform this duty in person, even though we allow that the priesthood was restrained to the family of Aaron before this time with regard to the Hebrews. C.—Before God. S. Aug., who supposes that the tabernacle was not yet erected, explains this in honour of God: but others, who believe this happened at the close of the year, say that the feast was made before the tabernacle, the house of God. M.

VER. 17. Good, or convenient, either for yourself, or for the people. H.

VER. 21. Avarice. That they may not be bribed against their better knowledge. The wise, rich, and disinterested must be appointed magistrates; such as may not be under any undue influence. Aristotle blames the Lacedæmonians for intrusting such offices to people who had nothing. See Isai. iii. 7.

VER. 23. Thou shalt. Heb. "and God shall order thee." Jethro does not wish his advice should be followed till God had been consulted. C.—By his plan, he thought Moses would have time to confer more with God, and promote his own welfare, and the convenient despatch of business. M.

VER. 25. Tens. The Samaritan copy here inserts from Deut. i. 9, to 19, where this is related at greater length.

23 If thou dost this, thou shalt fulfil the commandment of God, and shalt be able to bear his precepts: and all this people shall return to their places with peace.

24 And when Moses heard this, he did all things that he had suggested unto him.

25 And choosing able men out of all Israel, he appointed them rulers of the people, rulers over thousands, and over hundreds, and over fifties, and over tens.

26 And they judged the people at all times: and whatsoever was of greater difficulty they referred to him, and they judged the easier cases only.

27 And he let his kinsman depart: and he returned and went into his own country.^c

CHAP. XIX.

They come to Sinai: the people are commanded to be sanctified. The Lord coming in thunder and lightning speaketh with Moses.

IN the third month of the departure of Israel out of the land of Egypt, on this day they came into the wilderness of Sinai:

2 For departing out of Raphidim, and coming to the desert of Sinai, they camped in the same place, and there Israel pitched their tents over against the mountain.

3 And Moses went up to God; and the Lord called unto him from the mountain, and said: Thus shalt thou say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel:

4 You have seen what I have done to the Egyptians, how I have carried you upon the wings of eagles, and have taken you to myself.

5 If therefore you will hear my voice, and keep my covenant, you shall be my peculiar possession above all people: for all the earth is mine.

6 And you shall be to me a priestly kingdom, and a holy nation. These are the words thou shalt speak to the children of Israel.

7 Moses came; and calling together the elders of the people, he declared all the words which the Lord had commanded.

8 And all the people answered together: All that the Lord hath spoken, we will do. And when Moses had related the people's words to the Lord,

9 The Lord said to him: Lo now will I come to thee in the darkness of a cloud, that the people may hear me

^d Num. xxxiii. 13.—^e Acts vii. 33.—^f Deut. xxix. 2.—^g Psal. xxiii. 1.—^h 1 Pet. ii. 9.

VER. 27. Depart, upon his consenting to leave his son Hobab for a guide, (Bonfieri on Num. x. 29,) or perhaps he departed for a time, and returned again. C.—Moses shows by his example, that superiors ought not to disdain receiving prudent admonitions from any one. S. Chrys. W.

CHAP. XIX. VER. 1. This day. The same on which they departed from Raphidim, or on the third day of the third month; though S. Aug. understands the first of the month (C.); on which last supposition, allowing 16 days of the month Nisan, 30 of Iar, and 4 of Sivan, the law was given 50 days after the liberation of the Jews, as the new law was promulgated on Whit-Sunday, on the day of Pentecost. S. Aug. ep. cxix. 16. W.

VER. 3. And Moses went up to God. Moses went up to Mount Sinai, where God spoke to him.

VER. 5. Possession (peculium). Heb. sogle, "a chosen portion or treasure." M.—Mine. I could have made choice of others.

VER. 6. Priestly kingdom. "Priests and kings." Chal. You shall rule over the Chanaanites, &c.; and you shall offer sacrifice to me, at least, by slaying the paschal lamb. This kingdom shall not be merely of a civil nature; it shall be also sacred. The whole nation shall be holy, separated from the pagans, and consecrated to me. M.

VER. 8. Related, as a mediator acting between two parties, (H.) though God knew all before. Thus his servants cease not to lay before him their own and our wants. W.

VER. 9. Cloud, to veil his majesty, while he spoke to Moses in the hearing speaking to thee, and may believe thee for ever. And Moses told the words of the people to the Lord.

10 And he said to him : Go to the people, and sanctify them to-day, and to-morrow, and let them wash their garments.

11 And let them be ready against the third day ; for on the third day the Lord will come down in the sight of all the people, upon Mount Sinai.

12 And thou shalt appoint certain limits to the people round about, and thou shalt say to them : *Take heed ye go not up into the mount, and that ye touch not the borders thereof: every one that toucheth the mount, dying he shall die.

13 No hands shall touch him, but he shall be stoned to death, or shall be shot through with arrows : whether it be beast, or man, he shall not live. When the trumpet shall begin to sound, then let them go up into the mount.

14 And Moses came down from the mount to the people, and sanctified them. And when they had washed their garments, 15 He said to them : Be ready against the third day, and come not near your wives.

16 And now the third day was come, and the morning appeared : and behold thunders began to be heard, and lightning to flash, and a very thick cloud to cover the mount, and the noise of the trumpet sounded exceeding loud ; and the people that was in the camp, feared.

17 And when Moses had brought them forth to meet God, from the place of the camp, they stood at the bottom of the mount.

18 ^bAnd all Mount Sinai was on a smoke : because the Lord was come down upon it in fire, and the smoke arose from it as out of a furnace : and all the mount was terrible.

19 And the sound of the trumpet grew by degrees louder and louder, and was drawn out to a greater length. Moses spoke, and God answered him.

20 And the Lord came down upon Mount Sinai, in the very top of the mount, and he called Moses unto the top thereof. And when he was gone up thither, 21 He said unto him : Go down, and charge the people ; lest they should have a mind to pass the limits to see the Lord, and a very great multitude of them should perish.

22 The priests also that come to the Lord, let them be sanctified, lest he strike them.

23 And Moses said to the Lord : The people cannot come up to Mount Sinai : for thou didst charge, and command, saying: Set limits about the mount, and sanctify it

24 And the Lord said to him : Go, get thee down ; and thou shalt come up, thou and Aaron with thee : but let not the priests and the people pass the limits, nor come up to the Lord, lest he kill them.

25 And Moses went down to the people and told them all.

CHAP. XX.

The ten commandments.

AND the Lord spoke all these words : *

2 I am the Lord thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.^a

3 Thou shalt not have strange gods before me.

4 *Thou shalt not make to thyself a graven thing, nor the likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or in the earth beneath, nor of those things that are in the waters under the earth.

^a Heb. xii. 18.—^b Deut. iv. 11.—^c A. M. 2513.—^d Deut. v. 6 ;

Psal. lxxx. 11.—^e Lev. xxvi. 1 ; Deut. iv. 15 ; Jos. xxiv. 14 ; Psal. xcvi. *

of all. H.—Then they began to place an entire confidence in their leader. Maimonides.

VER. 10. Garments, with their bodies, as the Jews understand by this expression. They were also to abstain from their wives, &c. By which exterior practices they were admonished of the interior purity which God required.

VER. 15. Wives. S. Paul recommends continence when people have to pray. 1 Cor. vii.

VER. 18. Terrible, by the display of so many instruments of God's power ; lightning, fire, a thick cloud, and various peals of thunder, and the sound of a trumpet ; besides rain, and the company of millions of angels. Psal. lxvii. 9, 18.

VER. 19. Answered him, "in a speech," articulated and heard by all the people, as the Heb., Sept., Syr., &c., intimate. Many legislators have pretended that their laws came from heaven. But they had no witnesses. Moses does all openly. His laws are preceded, accompanied, and followed by prodigies.

VER. 22. Sanctified, in an extraordinary manner, above the rest. These priests, according to S. Aug., are the children of Aaron, and the whole race of Levi, who would shortly be selected by God. C.

CHAP. XX. VER. 1. The Lord now, by his angel, delivers in an intelligible manner the ten words, or commandments, which contain the sum of all the natural law, and may be reduced to the two precepts of charity, Matt. xxii. 40 ; Mark xii. 31. How these commandments are to be divided into ten the ancients are not perfectly agreed. We follow the authority of S. Augustine, (ix. 71,) Clement, (strom. 6,) and others, in referring three of the precepts to God, and seven to our neighbour. Protestants adopt the Jewish method, of making four commandments of the first table, and six of the second ; as they divide our first into two, and unite the 9th and 10th ; though it surely must appear rational to admit a distinct precept, for an internal as well as for an external object ; and the desire of committing adultery or theft require a distinct prohibition no less than the external actions. Whereas the forbidding to have strange gods, or to worship images, or creatures of any description, is exactly of the same tendency. For no one can worship an idol, without admitting a strange god. The latter part, therefore, of the first commandment, or the second of Protestants, is only a further explanation of what had gone before, as Moses himself clearly insinuates, ver. 23, You shall not make gods of silver, &c.

VER. 2. Thy God. By this endearing title we are all required to consecrate our whole hearts and souls to our only Maker and Redeemer : and therefore we must love God sincerely, and comply with all his commandments. This preface to the Decalogue enforces the acts of faith, hope, charity, religion, &c. H.

VER. 3. Before me, or in my presence. I shall not be content to be adored with idols. C.

VER. 4. A graven thing, nor the likeness of any thing, &c. All such images, or likenesses, are forbidden by this commandment, as are made to be adored and served ; according to that which immediately follows, thou shalt not adore them, nor serve them. That is, all such as are designed for idols or image gods, or are worshipped with divine honour. But otherwise images, pictures, or representations, even in the house of God, and in the very sanctuary, so far from being forbidden are expressly authorized by the word of God. See chap. xxv. 15, &c. ; xxxviii. 7, Num. xxi. 8, 9 ; 1 Chron. xxviii. 18, 19 ; 2 Chron. iii. 10. Ch.—Protestants insidiously translate "any graven image," though pesel, eidolon, glupton, and sculptile, in the Heb., Gr., and Lat., denote a graven thing or idol. They know that the object of prohibition is the making and adoring of idols. In the mean time, we will assure them, that we abhor all idols. Our general councils of Nice and of Trent define what we ought to believe on this head ; and the matter is so fully explained in our catechisms and books of instruction, as well as from our pulpits, that no person can well remain in ignorance. If we perform various actions of respect before pictures, which are also done in honour of God, can any man of sense infer that we look upon both with equal respect ? Do we not read of the people falling down to show respect to the king, and supreme worship to God, by the same act of the body ? H.—Altars and sacrifice we reserve solely for God, as S. Aug. (c. Faust. xx. 21) well observes. Other indifferent practices must be determined by the intention.—Latria, or supreme worship, can be given to none but the Deity. But we show our respect and veneration for his servant in glory, by an inferior service called Dulia, giving honour to whom honour is due. But some will even admit that images were commanded by God. Chap. xxv. 18, &c. Hence they lay great stress upon the words to thyself ; as if all images were forbidden that man should make, without the express sanction of God. So Parkhurst Lexie. But those who are conversant in Hebrew, know that these words have no such import ; and if things were inseparable from idolatry, they could not be sanctioned by God. H.—No creature must be represented as a deity. But sovereign worship, both internal and external, must be given to the great Author of all good, while we abstain from every superstitious act, and from all dealings with the devil and false religions. C.

5 Thou shalt not adore them, nor serve them: I am the Lord thy God, mighty, jealous, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me:

6 And showing mercy unto thousands to them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 *Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that shall take the name of the Lord his God in vain.

8 *Remember that thou keep holy the sabbath day.

9 Six days shalt thou labour, and shalt do all thy works.

10 But on the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: thou shalt do no work on it, thou nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy beast, nor the stranger that is within thy gates.

11 *For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all things that are in them, and rested on the seventh day: therefore the Lord blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it.

12 *Honour thy father and thy mother, that thou mayst be long-lived upon the land which the Lord thy God will give thee.

13 *Thou shalt not kill.

14 Thou shalt not commit adultery.

15 Thou shalt not steal.

16 Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

17 *Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house; neither shalt thou desire his wife, nor his servant, nor his hand-maid, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is his.

18 And all the people saw the voices and the flames, and the sound of the trumpet, and the mount smoking; and being terrified and struck with fear, they stood afar off,

19 Saying to Moses: Speak thou to us, and we will hear: let not the Lord speak to us, lest we die.

20 And Moses said to the people: Fear not; for God is come to prove you, and that the dread of him might be in you, and you should not sin.

21 And the people stood afar off. *But Moses went to the dark cloud wherein God was.

22 And the Lord said to Moses: Thus shalt thou say to the children of Israel: You have seen that I have spoken to you from heaven.

23 You shall not make gods of silver, nor shall you make to yourselves gods of gold.

24 *You shall make an altar of earth unto me, and you shall offer upon it your holocausts and peace-offerings, your sheep and oxen, in every place where the memory of my name shall be: I will come to thee, and will bless thee.

25 *And if thou make an altar of stone unto me, thou shalt not build it of hewn stones; for if thou lift up a tool upon it, it shall be defiled.

26 Thou shalt not go up by steps unto my altar, lest thy nakedness be discovered.

CHAP. XXI.

Laws relating to justice.

THESE are the judgments which thou shalt set before them.

* Matt. v. 21.—† Rom. vii. 7, and xiii. 9.—‡ Deut. xviii. 16; 1 Heb. xii. 18.—§ Infra, xxvii. 8, and xxxviii. 7.—|| Deut. xxvii. 5; Jos. viii. 31.

VER. 5. Adore. Protestants translate again, with the same view as in the preceding verse, "thou shalt not bow down thyself to them," in condemnation of Catholics, who kneel before the cross. But do not they kneel, when they receive their sacramental bread, or when they ask for their parents' blessing? Did not S. John, and other saints, bow down out of respect to angels? And were these all idolaters? We are forbidden, therefore, to show any respect to strange gods. But we must honour the true God in his saints, referring all the glory to him. H.—Hate me. Those who do not imitate their wicked ancestors, need not fear being involved in their punishment. M. S. Aug. q. 42. S. Greg. Mor. xv. 22. S. Jer. in Ezech. xviii.—Sometimes, indeed, God takes away the lives of children and of subjects, to punish the sins of parents and of kings; but this may be no real detriment to the deceased. H.—Grotius thinks that this menace is directed against idolaters. Others believe it may be placed at the conclusion of each of the commandments. C.

VER. 7. In vain. On trifling occasions, rashly, or falsely. "Those who swear often, diminish their credit among the wise." Philo.

VER. 8. Sabbath day, on which rest from servile work is prescribed, that we may worship God with greater fervour. Saturday was kept holy by the Jews, in honour of God's resting. The apostles have authorized us to keep Sunday instead, to commemorate the mysteries of Christ's resurrection, &c.

VER. 9. Six, &c. This must be understood if no festival of obligation occurred. For many were in force in the old law; such as the Passover, Encenia, Purim, &c., as there are still in the Church. H.

VER. 10. Stranger. Of some other nation. Good policy required that all should conform to this regulation, whatever their religion might be. Grotius.

VER. 12. Honour. Love, respect, feed, if requisite; support the infirmities of parents. See Num. xxiv. 1; 1 Tim. v. 3, 17.—Land of Chanaan. The promises are of a temporal nature; but they should bring to our reflection the eternal rewards which attend the virtuous. The duties of parents are not specified, as nature would show their extent, and as the obligations of parents and children are reciprocal. C.

VER. 13. Kill. These precepts are to be taken in their full extent, as prohibiting not only the ultimate act, but every thing which leads to it. Magistrates are authorized to inflict capital punishment. We are allowed also to defend ourselves against an unjust aggressor. But we must never intend to kill him. C.—The laws will not condemn us, perhaps, if we do; but God sees the heart, and judges. A night thief may be slain, because we know not how far our own lives may be endangered. Chap. xxii. 2. H.

VER. 14. Adultery. This precept is placed before the former one in the Sept. S. Mark x. 19, and S. Luke xviii. 20. Adultery was punished with death.

Lev. xx. 10. All civilized nations have held it in abhorrence, as destructive of all peace. Job xxxi. 11. All other impure actions are forbidden, under different penalties.

VER. 15. Steal; by which name fraud of every description is condemned.

VER. 17. House. Sept. place wife first, as all do, Deut. v. 21. The express prohibition of lustful and unjust desires might suffice to have obviated the mistake of Josephus, and of the Jews, in our Saviour's time, who looked upon them as indifferent, provided they were not carried into effect. They render us guilty in the sight of God, (Matt. v. 28,) whenever we give consent to them, as even Ovid and the pagan philosophers acknowledged. Grotius.

VER. 18. Saw. The Hebrews often substitute one organ of sense for another. S. Aug. ix. 72; Jer. ii. 30.—The Samaritan reads, "the people heard the thunders and the sound of the trumpet, and beheld the lightning." Henceforward till chap. xxiv. Moses and Aaron alone heard the voice of God; and the laws delivered chap. xxv. to xxxi. were revealed to Moses only.

VER. 19. Die. The Sam. copy inserts here what we read Deut. v. 24—27

VER. 22. Seen: no visible form (C.); but I have spoken from the top of Sinai. H.

VER. 23. Make. Heb. adds, "with me," ver. 3. This people was prone to idolatry, and stood in need of having the first commandment often inculcated. M.

VER. 24. Earth, which may be destroyed with ease, to prevent any profanation.—Place. Where the tabernacle shall be fixed you shall offer sacrifice, and I will hear you. The ark was afterwards deposited in the temple, where alone the Jews were, consequently, allowed to sacrifice. H.—Samuel offered victims at Mespha and Ramatha, by the dispensation of God. 1 Kings vii. 9, 17. M.

VER. 25. Defiled; because done in opposition to God's order, who required, on this occasion, the utmost simplicity, to prevent any undue veneration. Iron was not used about the tabernacle or temple, as brass was more common. Altars raised in haste, like that, Deut. xxvii.; Jos. viii. 30, and that which was designed for the ratification of the covenant, (chap. xxiv. 4,) were required to be of this construction, unpolished and simple, as was the altar erected, 1 Mac. iv. 47. But other altars were not built after this model. C.

VER. 26. Steps. These were afterwards allowed in the temple. Ezech. xliii. 17. The Egyptians made use of their pyramids for altars; and some suppose that the high places of Juda were of a similar nature, and exposed the priests, who wore long robes, to the danger of being seen. Chap. xxviii. 42. The steps allowed by God were therefore very low, and enclosed with boards, after the Greek fashion. C.

CHAP. XXI. VER. 1. Judgments, or laws directing the civil conduct of the Israelites. M.

2 ^aIf thou buy a Hebrew servant, six years shall he serv thee; in the seventh he shall go out free for nothing.

3 With what raiment he came in, with the like let him go out: if having a wife, his wife also shall go out with him.

4 But if his master gave him a wife, and she hath borne sons and daughters; the woman and her children shall be her master's: but he himself shall go out with his raiment.

5 And if the servant shall say: I love my master and my wife and children, I will not go out free:

6 His master shall bring him to the gods, and he shall be set to the door and the posts, and he shall bore his ear through with an awl: and he shall be his servant for ever.

7 If any man sell his daughter to be a servant, she shall not go out as bond-women are wont to go out.

8 If she displease the eyes of her master to whom she was delivered, he shall let her go: but he shall have no power to sell her to a foreign nation, if he despise her.

9 But if he have betrothed her to his son, he shall deal with her after the manner of daughters.

10 And if he take another wife for him, he shall provide her a marriage, and raiment, neither shall he refuse the price of her chastity.

11 If he do not these three things, she shall go out free without money.

12 ^bHe that striketh a man with a will to kill him, shall be put to death.

13 But he that did not lie in wait for him, but God delivered him into his hands: ^cI will appoint thee a place to which he must flee.

14 If a man kill his neighbour on set purpose, and by lying in wait for him: thou shalt take him away from my altar, that he may die.

15 He that striketh his father or mother, shall be put to death.

16 He that shall steal a man, and sell him, being convicted of the guilt, shall be put to death.

^a Deut. xv. 12; Jer. xxxiv. 14.—^b Lev. xxiv. 17.—^c Deut. xix. 2.—^d Lev. xx. 9;

VER. 2. Servant, or slave. A man might sell himself and his children. But if they were females, under age, God prescribes how they are to be treated, ver. 7. —Six years: in case he were bought immediately after the expiration of the Sabbath law: none could be detained for a longer period. If a person lost his liberty in the fourth year after the general release, he would recover it in the space of two or three years at latest. H. Bonfrere.

VER. 6. To the gods: Elohim. That is, to the judges, or magistrates, authorized by God. Ch.—In a matter of such consequence, great deliberation was requisite.—Posts, of his own house. This ceremony tended to punish the slave for neglecting his liberty, and showed, that he should not pass the threshold any more without his master's leave.—For ever; till the year of Jubilee, when all the Hebrews were to be set free. Lev. xxv. 40. M.

VER. 7. Go out, to work in the fields, according to Grotius; or rather, to enjoy her liberty. A father who sold his daughter, always expected that she should be the wife of the purchaser, or of his son. If this did not take place, she was free after six years, or before, if her master died. C.

VER. 9. Daughters. When she is old enough to be married, he shall give her a dowry like his own daughter, or like a free woman. H.

VER. 10. Marriage. This seems to insinuate that she was divorced: but the best commentators suppose, that the introduction of the second wife was not to infringe the rights of the first. Heb. "he shall not diminish her food, raiment, and dwelling," but treat her as his wife.

VER. 12. With a will. The Heb. and Sept. do not express this, but the context shows it to be necessary.—Death, by the sword, as people soliciting others to idolatry were also. C.—When the punishment is not defined, stoning must be understood (Rabbin and Selden, Syned ii. 13); at least when it is said, his blood be upon him. But when it is only determined that he shall die, Grotius understands he must be strangled.

VER. 13. God. When a person was slain undesignedly, the Providence of 17 ^dHe that curseth his father or mother, shall die the death.

18 If men quarrel, and the one strike his neighbour with a stone, or with his fist, and he die not, but keepeth his bed:

19 If he rise again and walk abroad upon his staff, he that struck him shall be quit, yet so that he make restitution for his work, and for his expenses upon the physicians.

20 He that striketh his bond-man, or bond-woman, with a rod, and they die under his hands, shall be guilty of the crime.

21 But if the party remain alive a day or two, he shall not be subject to the punishment, because it is his money.

22 If men quarrel, and one strike a woman with child, and she miscarry indeed, but live herself: he shall be answerable for so much damage as the woman's husband shall require, and as arbiters shall award.

23 But if her death ensue thereupon, he shall render life for life,

24 ^eEye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot,

25 Burning for burning, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.

26 If any man strike the eye of his man-servant or maid-servant, and leave them but one eye, he shall let them go free for the eye which he put out.

27 Also if he strike out a tooth of his man-servant or maid-servant, he shall in like manner make them free.

28 If an ox gore a man or a woman, and they die, he shall be stoned: and his flesh shall not be eaten, but the owner of the ox shall be quit.

29 But if the ox was wont to push with his horn yesterday, and the day before, and they warned his master, and he did not shut him up, and he shall kill a man or a woman: then the ox shall be stoned, and his owner also shall be put to death.

30 And if they set a price upon him, he shall give for his life whatsoever is laid upon him.

Prov. xx. 20; Matt. xv. 4; Mark vii. 10.—^e Lev. xxiv. 20; Deut. xix. 21; Matt. v. 38.

God was to be adored in silence, as nothing happens without his permission. II Sec Num. xxv. 6.

VER. 14. Altar, if he should flee thither for safety. No asylum was allowed to such murderers. Thus Joab was slain by Solomon. 3 Kings ii. 31. M.

VER. 15. Striketh, even though death should not ensue. But some require a grievous wound, and that the son should be twice admonished. Deut. xxi. 18. Parricide seemed a crime so shocking and unnatural, that neither Moses nor Solon made any express law against it.

VER. 19. Staff, as people in health do, or even as a convalescent. In the mean time the other person was confined, and subjected to the law of retaliation, if the sick man lost either limb or life, ver. 24. C.

VER. 21. Money, which purchased the slave. Hence, as he will be punished in some degree, and it is not absolutely certain that the slave died of his wounds, his master shall not be put to death. H.

VER. 22. But live herself. To destroy the life of either was punished with death. C.—The precise time when the soul begins to animate the body is so very uncertain, that, after conception, the person who should cause a miscarriage willfully, would expose himself to incur the guilt of murder. Onkelos says, that "if the mother should die of the stroke, the offender was to satisfy the husband by paying a fine, to be awarded by the husband, or by the judges: but in case the mother died, he should render life for life;" (C.) in which decision he agrees with the Vulg. H.—The Heb. is ambiguous, "If death ensue not." C.

VER. 24. Eye. "This law tended to restrain, not to encourage, fury and revenge." S. Aug. e. Faust. xix. 25. Retaliation was not left to the injured party's discretion. The judge was to decide. Christ enjoins what is more perfect, ordering us to turn the left cheek, when we have received a blow on the right. The canon law inflicts the punishment of retaliation upon the calumniator. C.

VER. 28. Stoned, that he may do no more harm, and that the owner may be punished at least by this loss. H.—Sentence was passed by the twenty-three judges 31 If he have gored a son, or a daughter, he shall fall under the like sentence.

32 If he assault a bond-man or bond-woman, he shall give thirty sicles of silver to their master, and the ox shall be stoned.

33 If a man open a pit, and dig one, and cover it not, and an ox or an ass fall into it,

34 The owner of the pit shall pay the price of the beasts: and that which is dead shall be his own.

35 If one man's ox gore another man's ox, and he die: they shall sell the live ox, and shall divide the price, and the carcass of that which died they shall part between them:

36 But if he knew that his ox was wont to push yesterday, and the day before, and his master did not keep him in: he shall pay ox for ox, and shall take the whole carcass.

CHAP. XXII.

The punishment of theft, and other trespasses. The law of lending without usury, of taking pledges, of reverences to superiors, and of paying tithes.

IF any man steal an ox or a sheep, and kill or sell it: he shall restore five oxen for one ox, ^aand four sheep for one sheep.

2 If a thief be found breaking open a house or undermining it, and be wounded so as to die: he that slew him shall not be guilty of blood.

3 But if he did this when the sun is risen, he hath committed murder, and he shall die. If he have not wherewith to make restitution for the theft, he shall be sold.

4 If that which he stole be found with him, alive, either ox, or ass, or sheep: he shall restore double.

5 If any man hurt a field or a vineyard, and put in his beast to feed upon that which is other men's: he shall restore the best of whatsoever he hath in his own field, or in his vineyard, according to the estimation of the damage.

6 If a fire breaking out light upon thorns, and catch stacks of corn, or corn standing in the fields, he that kindled the fire shall make good the loss.

7 If a man deliver money, or any vessel unto his friend to keep, and they be stolen away from him that received them: if the thief be found, he shall restore double:

8 If the thief be not known, the master of the house shall be brought to the gods, and shall swear that he did not lay his hand upon his neighbour's goods,

9 To do any fraud, either in ox, or in ass, or sheep, or raiment, or any thing that may bring damage: the cause of both parties shall come to the gods: and if they give judgment, he shall restore double to his neighbour.

10 If a man deliver ass, ox, sheep, or any beast, to his neighbour's custody, and it die, or be hurt, or be taken by enemies, and no man saw it:

11 There shall be an oath between them, that he did not put forth his hand to his neighbour's goods: and the owner shall accept of the oath, and he shall not be compelled to make restitution.

12 ^bBut if it were taken away by stealth, he shall make the loss good to the owner.

13 If it were eaten by a beast, let him bring to him that which was slain, and he shall not make restitution.

14 If a man borrow of his neighbour any of these things, and it be hurt or die, the owner not being present, he shall be obliged to make restitution.

15 But if the owner be present, he shall not make restitution, especially if it were hired, and came for the hire of his work.

16 ^cIf a man seduce a virgin not yet espoused, and lie with her: he shall endow her, and have her to wife.

17 If the maid's father will not give her to him, he shall give money according to the dowry, which virgins are wont to receive.

18 Wizards thou shalt not suffer to live.

19 Whosoever copulateth with a beast, shall be put to death.

20 ^dHe that sacrificeth to gods, shall be put to death, save only to the Lord.

21 Thou shalt not molest a stranger, nor afflict him: for yourselves also were strangers in the land of Egypt.

22 ^eYou shall not hurt a widow or an orphan.

23 If you hurt them, they will cry out to me, and I will hear their cry:

24 And my rage shall be enkindled, and I will strike you with the sword, and your wives shall be widows, and your children fatherless.

25 If thou lend money to any of my people that is poor, that dwelleth with thee, thou shalt not be hard upon them as an extortioner, nor oppress them with usuries.

26 ^fIf thou take of thy neighbour a garment in pledge, thou shalt give it him again before sun-set.

27 For that same is the only thing wherewith he is covered, the clothing of his body, neither hath he any

^a 2 Kings xii. 6.—^b Gen. xxxi. 39.—^c Deut. xxii. 28.

^d Lev. xix. 4.—^e Zac. vii. 10.—^f Deut. xxiv. 13.

By the Roman law, the animal which struck a man was forfeited to him (C.); and its master had to make good all damages. Justinian iv. 9.

VER. 32. Bond-man, &c., of any of those uncircumcised nations, (Jonathan,) whom it was lawful to put to death; and hence their life was esteemed of less value. H.—Sicles. Sept. "didrachmas." This was the price of a slave, for which our Saviour was sold: that of a free-man was double. C.

CHAP. XXII. VER. 2. Blood. The reason is, because it could not easily be known whether the thief had not a design upon the life of the people in the house; and therefore the law gave them authority to defend themselves. But they were not authorized to kill the thief designedly. To defend our goods or honour, by killing the aggressor, is contrary to justice and reason. C.

VER. 4. Double. This is an exception from the general law, ver. 1, (C.) because he can more easily make restitution, as he has not sold or destroyed the thing. D.

VER. 8. Gods. "In the presence of the Lord." Sept.

VER. 13. Slain. Or any part of its mangled remains, in proof of his assertion. Syr.

VER. 14. Restitution. It is to be presumed he was guilty of some negligence. C.

VER. 15. Especially, &c. This is a third case, in which the person who lends suffers all the loss, in consideration of the money which he had received. Others explain, "If he be a hired servant, he shall pay out of his wages." Syr., Grotius.

VER. 17. Money. Fifty sicles, as it is expressed, Deut. xxii. 29. If the maid were of high birth, the magistrates might inflict other punishments on the seducer.

VER. 18. Wizards. Heb. "a witch." Women are more given to such delusions, which imply an apostacy from God to serve the devil, and disturb the republic.

VER. 20. Death. Heb. "shall be anathema" (erom), which denoted utter destruction both of the person and of his goods. Jonat. 1 Kings xv. 3.

VER. 24. Fatherless. Thus God will retaliate upon the oppressors of the poor. H.

VER. 25. Poor. Such are often most in want. Usury is not lawful, even with respect to the rich. The Heb. terms it a bite. M.—"What is usury," said Cato, "but to kill a man." Lend, hoping to gain nothing by it. Luke vi. 35. "Let him who loves money, . . . lend (in the persons of the poor) to Him who says, Give, and it shall be given to you." S. Leo ser. The Jews themselves have reprobated usury in any case. C.

other to sleep in: if he cry to me, I will hear him, because I am compassionate.

28 Thou shalt not speak ill of the gods, and^a the prince of thy people thou shalt not curse.

29 Thou shalt not delay to pay thy tithes and thy first-fruits: ^bthou shalt give the first-born of thy sons to me.

30 Thou shalt do the same with the first-born of thy oxen also and sheep: seven days let it be with its dam, the eighth day thou shalt give it to me.

31 You shall be holy men to me:^c the flesh that beasts have tasted of before, you shall not eat, but shall cast it to the dogs.

CHAP. XXIII.

Laws for judges: the rest of the seventh year, and day: three principal feasts to be solemnized every year: the promise of an angel, to conduct and protect them: idols are to be destroyed.

THOU shalt not receive the voice of a lie: neither shalt thou join thy hand to bear false witness for a wicked person.

2 Thou shalt not follow the multitude to do evil: neither shalt thou yield in judgment, to the opinion of the most part, to stray from the truth.

3 Neither shalt thou favour a poor man in judgment.

4 ^dIf thou meet thy enemy's ox or ass going astray, bring it back to him.

5 If thou see the ass of him that hateth thee lie underneath his burden, thou shalt not pass by, but shalt lift him up with him.

6 Thou shalt not go aside in the poor man's judgment.

7 Thou shalt fly lying:^e The innocent and just person thou shalt not put to death: because I abhor the wicked.

8 ^fNeither shalt thou take bribes, which even blind the wise, and pervert the words of the just.

9 Thou shalt not molest a stranger, for you know the hearts of strangers:^g for you also were strangers in the land of Egypt.

10 Six years thou shalt sow thy ground, and shalt gather the corn thereof.

11 ^hBut the seventh year thou shalt let it alone, and suffer it to rest, that the poor of thy people may eat, and whatsoever shall be left, let the beasts of the field eat it: so shalt thou do with thy vineyard and thy oliveyard.

^a Acts xxiii. 5.—^b Supra, xiii. 2 and 12: Infra, xxxiv. 19; Eze. xlv. 30.—^c Lev. xxii. 3.
^d Deut. xxii. 1.—^e Dan. xiii. 53.—^f Deut. xvi. 19; Eccl. xx. 31.—^g Gen. xlv. 6.
^h Lev. xxv. 4.

VER. 28. Gods. Judges, priests, &c.

VER. 29. Tithes. Heb. "thy plenitude, (first-fruits and tithes,) and thy tears" (or liquors distilled from odoriferous trees); in a word, all that is most excellent. C.

VER. 31. Beasts. "Wild beasts." Sept.—This was to encourage humanity. ^mneodoret.

CHAP. XXIII. VER. 1. Lie, by countenancing calumny. Judges must never do any thing which they know to be unjust, whatever the witnesses may assert. H.

VER. 8. Bribes, which naturally induce the receiver to show favour, and therefore cannot be too carefully avoided. C.

VER. 9. The hearts. You have experienced what sorrow and misery they feel. M

VER. 11. Year. Thus God was pleased to teach them to place an entire confidence in him, and to compassionate the distress of the poor. God blessed th. 6th year, so that it produced as much as three. Lev. xxv. 21. C.—On the feast of Tabernacles, (in September,) at the beginning of the 7th year, Deuteronomy was to be read aloud to all the people, the Hebrew slaves might obtain their liberty, and if a person could not restore what he had borrowed, it was to be remitted for ever. Deut. xv. and xxxi. 10. T.

VER. 14. Three. Women are not here mentioned; but they are Deut. xxxi. 12. Children under 13 were exempted from the obligation, according to the Caraites. Men from 20 to 60, not lawfully hindered, were bound to appear. Lev xxvii. 3.

12 Six days thou shalt work: the seventh day thou shalt cease, that thy ox and thy ass may rest and the son of thy handmaid and the stranger may be refreshed.

13 Keep all things that I have said to you. And by the name of strange gods you shall not swear, neither shall it be heard out of your mouth.

14 Three times every year you shall celebrate feasts to me.

15 Thou shalt keep the feast of unleavened bread.ⁱ Seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread, as I commanded thee, in the time of the month of new corn, when thou didst come forth out of Egypt:^k thou shalt not appear empty before me.

16 And the feast of the harvest of the first-fruits of thy work, whatsoever thou hast sown in the field. The feast also in the end of the year, when thou hast gathered in all thy corn out of the field.

17 ^lThrice a year shall all thy males appear before the Lord thy God.

18 Thou shalt not sacrifice the blood of my victim upon leaven, neither shall the fat of my solemnity remain until^l e morning.

19 ^mThou shalt carry the first-fruits of the corn of thy ground to the house of the Lord thy God. ⁿThou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of his dam.

20 Behold I will send my angel, who shall go before thee, and keep thee in thy journey, and bring thee into the place that I have prepared.

21 Take notice of him, and hear his voice, and do not think him one to be contemned: for he will not forgive when thou hast sinned, and my name is in him.

22 ^oBut if thou wilt hear his voice, and do all that I speak, I will be an enemy to thy enemies, and will afflict them that afflict thee.

23 ^pAnd my angel shall go before thee, and shall bring thee in unto the Amorrite, and the Hethite, and the Pherezite, and the Chanaanite, and the Hevite, and the Jebuzite, whom I will destroy.

24 Thou shalt not adore their gods, nor serve them. Thou shalt not do their works, but shalt destroy them, and break their statues.

25 And you shall serve the Lord your God, that I may ⁱ Supra, xiii. 3 and 4; Infra, xxxiv. 22.—^k Deut. xvi. 16; Eccl. xxxv. 6.—^l Infra, xxxiv. 23; Deut. xvi. 16.—^m Infra, xxxiv. 26.—ⁿ Deut. xiv. 21.—^o Deut. vii. 11.—^p Infra, xxxiii. 2; Jos. xxiv. 11; Deut. vii. 22.

VER. 15. Empty. But shalt offer something in sacrifice, and for the support of the Levites, freely. Deut. xvi. 10. At the Passover, the first-fruits of barley were to be offered, as those of wheat would be ready at Pentecost. The third feast was that of Tabernacles, at the conclusion of the civil year. A sixtieth part of the fruits, at least, was carried to the temple. They consisted of wheat, barley, grapes, figs, apricots, olives, and dates. The king himself carried his basket, and when the solemn procession arrived at the temple, the Levites began to sing Psal. xxix., I will extol thee, O Lord, &c. After which, the people repeated the words of Deut. xxvi. 3; and having given their baskets to the priests, (ver. 4,) recited parts of the 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th verses. C.

VER. 18. Thou, &c. This has a reference to the feast of the Passover, ver. 15, (Onkelos,) as well as the following verse. C.

VER. 19. Dam. The paschal victim must not be so young as to be still suckled. The Sam. subjoins, "Because that would be like immolating an animal found dead, and the God of Jacob hates it." C.—Some imagine that this law alludes to a superstitious custom of the pagans, (Spencer Rit. 2, 8,) or it forbids eating animals while they are, as it were, all milk, not eight days old. Rivet.

VER. 20. Angel. Some apply this to Josue, others to S. Michael, who, from the cloud, conducted the army of Israel. C.

VER. 21. Forgive. Dimittet, as well as the Heb. and Sept., may signify "he will not abandon." H.

VER. 25. Waters, or all things necessary for your sustenance.

bless your bread and your waters, and may take away sickness from the midst of thee.

26 There shall not be one fruitless nor barren in thy land: I will fill the number of thy days.

27 I will send my fear before thee, and will destroy all the people to whom thou shalt come: and will turn the backs of all thy enemies before thee:

28 *Sending out hornets before, that shall drive away the Hevite, and the Chanaanite, and the Hethite, before thou come in.

29 I will not cast them out from thy face in one year; lest the land be brought into a wilderness, and the beasts multiply against thee.

30 By little and little I will drive them out from before thee, till thou be increased, and dost possess the land.

31 And I will set thy bounds from the Red Sea to the sea of the Palestines, and from the desert to the river: I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hands, and will drive them out from before you.

32 *Thou shalt not enter into league with them, nor with their gods.

33 Let them not dwell in thy land, lest perhaps they make thee sin against me, if thou serve their gods; which, undoubtedly, will be a scandal to thee.

CHAP. XXIV.

Moses writeth his law; and after offering sacrifices, sprinkleth the blood of the testament upon the people: then goeth up the mountain, which God covereth with a fiery cloud.

AND he said to Moses: Come up to the Lord, thou, and Aaron, Nadab and Abiu, and seventy of the ancients of Israel, and you shall adore afar off.

2 And Moses alone shall come up to the Lord, but they shall ~~not~~ come nigh; neither shall the people come up with him.

3 So Moses came and told the people all the words of the Lord, and all the judgments and all the people answered with one voice: We will do all the words of the Lord, which he hath spoken.

4 And Moses wrote all the words of the Lord: and rising in the morning, he built an altar at the foot of the mount, and twelve titles according to the twelve tribes of Israel.

5 And he sent young men of the children of Israel, and they offered holocausts, and sacrificed pacific victims of calves to the Lord.

6 Then Moses took half of the blood, and put it into bowls; and the rest he poured upon the altar.

^a Deut. vii. 20.—^b Infra, xxxiv. 15; Deut. vii. 2.

VER. 27. Destroy. Heb. "fill with consternation."

VER. 28. Hornets, or wasps. Wisd. xii. 8. Josue (xxiv. 12) assures us this was verified. C.

CHAP. XXIV. VER. 4. Titles. That is, pillars (Ch.); or altars, round that made of turf (chap. xx. 24); which represented God. C.

VER. 5. Holocausts: whole burnt-offerings; in which the whole sacrifice was consumed with fire, upon the altar. Ch.—It is not said that these young men were to officiate as priests. Moses acted alone in this capacity, pouring the blood.—Calves, and he-goats also. Heb. ix. 19. The book was also sprinkled with the blood (C.) mixed with water; for which purpose scarlet wool and hyssop were employed, as S. Paul learnt from tradition, or by inspiration. H.

VER. 8. Covenant. Thus Christ confirmed the new covenant, by the effusion of his blood T.—This is daily renewed upon our altars for ever. C.—Our Saviour alludes to this transaction in the consecration of the chalice. D.—If wine alone had been substituted instead of blood, the figure would have surpassed the reality. Isidrius. W

7 And taking the book of the covenant, he read it in the hearing of the people: and they said: All things that the Lord hath spoken, we will do, we will be obedient.

8 And he took the blood and sprinkled it upon the people, and he said: *This is the blood of the covenant, which the Lord hath made with you concerning all these words.

9 Then Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abiu, and seventy of the ancients of Israel went up:

10 And they saw the God of Israel: and under his feet as it were a work of sapphire stone, and as the heaven, when clear.

11 Neither did he lay his hand upon those of the children of Israel, that retired afar off, and they saw God, and they did eat and drink.

12 And the Lord said to Moses: Come up to me into the mount, and be there; and I will give thee tables of stone, and the law, and the commandments which I have written; that thou mayest teach them.

13 Moses rose up, and his minister Josue: and Moses going up into the mount of God, 14 Said to the ancients: Wait ye here till we return to you. You have Aaron and Hur with you: if any question shall arise, you shall refer it to them.

15 And when Moses was gone up, a cloud covered the mount.

16 And the glory of the Lord dwelt upon Sinai, covering it with a cloud six days: and the seventh day he called him out of the midst of the cloud.

17 And the sight of the glory of the Lord, was like a burning fire upon the top of the mount, in the eyes of the children of Israel.

18 And Moses entering into the midst of the cloud, went up into the mountain: ^d And he was there forty days and forty nights.

CHAP. XXV.

Offerings prescribed for making the tabernacle, the ark, the candlestick, &c.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

2 Speak to the children of Israel, that they bring first-fruits to me: of every man that offereth of his own accord, you shall take them.

3 And these are the things you must take: Gold, and silver, and brass,

4 Violet and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine linen, and goats' hair,

5 And ram skins dyed red, and violet skins, and setim wood:

^e Heb. ix. 20.—^d Deut. ix. 9.—^e Infra, xxxv. 5.

VER. 11. Saw God, under the appearance of a burning fire, ver. 17.

VER. 14. Wait ye. They returned soon to the camp; and the people, not perceiving Moses with them, and supposing he was dead, made the golden calf.

VER. 16. Called him, to come up still higher, while Josue remained there.

VER. 18. Forty, including the six mentioned before, ver. 16.

CHAP. XXV. VER. 2. First-fruits: offerings, of some of the best and choicest of their goods. Ch.—This was the first time such a voluntary offering was made by the Hebrews. M.—It is a lesson for Christians to be liberal for God's service. W.

VER. 4. Scarlet twice dyed. Aq. and Sym. have transparent. This colour is often confounded with purple, as our Saviour's robe is styled scarlet by S. Matt. xxvii. 28; and purple by S. John xix. 2.—Fine linen, byssus. Heb. ssoss, "of six folds," or it may mean cotton, which was highly esteemed by the ancients (Arab. version Herod.); and it is not probable that Moses would have passed over it unnoticed. C.

6 Oil to make lights: spices for ointment, and for sweet-smelling incense:

7 Onyx stones, and precious stones to adorn the ephod, and the rational.

8 And they shall make me a sanctuary, and I will dwell in the midst of them:

9 *According to all the likeness of the tabernacle which I will show thee, and of all the vessels for the service thereof: and thus you shall make it:

10 Frame an ark of setim-wood, the length whereof shall be of two cubits and a half; the breadth, a cubit and a half; the height, likewise, a cubit and a half.

11 And thou shalt overlay it with the purest gold, within and without; and over it thou shalt make a golden crown round about:

12 And four golden rings, which thou shalt put at the four corners of the ark: let two rings be on the one side, and two on the other.

13 Thou shalt make bars also of setim-wood, and shalt overlay them with gold.

14 And thou shalt put them in through the rings that are in the sides of the ark, that it may be carried on them:

15 And they shall be always in the rings, neither shall they at any time be drawn out of them.

16 And thou shalt put in the ark the testimony which I will give thee.

17 Thou shalt make also a propitiatory of the purest gold: the length thereof shall be two cubits and a half, and the breadth a cubit and a half.

18 Thou shalt make also two cherubims of beaten gold, on the two sides of the oracle.

19 Let one cherub be on the one side, and the other on the other.

20 Let them cover both sides of the propitiatory, spreading their wings, and covering the oracle, and let them look one towards the other, their faces being turned towards the propitiatory wherewith the ark is to be covered.

21 In which thou shalt put the testimony that I will give thee.

22 Thence will I give orders, and will speak to thee over the propitiatory, and from the midst of the two cherubims, which shall be upon the ark of the testimony, all things which I will command the children of Israel by thee.

23 Thou shalt make a table also of setim-wood, of two cubits in length, and a cubit in breadth, and a cubit and a half in height.

24 And thou shalt overlay it with the purest gold: and thou shalt make to it a golden ledge round about.

25 And to the ledge itself a polished crown, four inches high; and over the same another little golden crown.

26 Thou shalt prepare also four golden rings, and shalt put them in the four corners of the same table, over each foot.

27 Under the crown shall the golden rings be, that the bars may be put through them, and the table may be carried.

28 The bars also themselves thou shalt make of setim-wood, and shalt overlay them with gold, to bear up the table.

29 Thou shalt prepare also dishes, and bowls, censers, and cups, wherein the libations are to be offered, of the purest gold.

30 And thou shalt set upon the table loaves of proposition in my sight always.

31 Thou shalt make also a candlestick of beaten work, of the finest gold, the shaft thereof, and the branches, the cups, and the bowls, and the lilies going forth from it.

32 Six branches shall come out of the sides, three out of one side, and three out of the other.

33 Three cups as it were nuts to every branch, and a bowl withal, and a lily: and three cups likewise of the

VER. 7. Onyx, emeralds. C.—The ephod and the rational. The ephod was the high priest's upper vestment; and the rational his breastplate, in which were twelve gems, &c. Ch.—Ephod means a kind of girdle or stole, peculiar to priests, or used by others only of the highest distinction, (C.) and in religious solemnities. S. Jer. ad Mareel. Josephus (Ant. ii. 8) describes it as different from what it was in the days of Moses. Many other alterations had then taken place; the Urim and Thummim were disused, &c. The rational is so called, because by it the high priest was enabled to give his oracles. Chap. xxviii. 15. C.—The precise import of the Heb. ēsson, which Protestants render breastplate, is not known. It was certainly fastened on the ephod over the breast, and consisted of 12 stones, on which the names of the 12 patriarchs were engraven. H.

VER. 10. Ark, to contain the tables of the law, as a constant memorial of the alliance made between God and his people, ver. 16. In, or on the side of it, were also placed the rod of Aaron, (Num. xvi. 10.) and the golden urn, containing manna. Heb. ik. 3. C.—The ark was 3 feet 9 inches long, 2 feet 3 inches high, and as much in breadth. H.

VER. 11. Crown, or border, resembling "waves," (hamatia.) Sept.

VER. 14. Carried on them, when exposed in solemn processions. These were covered along with the ark; and other bars were used to remove the ark during the journeys in the desert. Num. iv. 6. C.

VER. 16. Testimony, the law which testifies the will of God to us. M.

VER. 17. A propitiatory: a covering for the ark; called a propitiatory, or mercy-seat, because the Lord, who was supposed to sit there upon the wings of the cherubims, with the ark for his footstool, from thence showed mercy. It is also called the oracle, ver. 18 and 20, because, from thence, God gave his orders and his answers. Ch.—It was the lid or covering of the ark. C.

VER. 18. Cherubims, symbolic figures, which Moses does not perfectly describe, and therefore we cannot pretend to know their exact form. Some represent them as young men, with their wings joined over the propitiatory, in a contrary direction to those of birds, in order to form a throne for God, and bending towards Him with profound respect. Others only admit their heads, with six wings: while many suppose that they resembled those compounded figures mentioned Ezec. i. 5; x. 20. C.

VER. 23. A table: on which were to be placed the twelve loaves of proposition; or, as they are called in the Hebrew, the face bread; because they were always to stand before the face of the Lord in his temple: as a figure of the eucharistic sacrifice and sacrament, in the church of Christ (Ch.); which shows that Christ must be present in the eucharist. W.—The priests alone were to eat these loaves (1 Kings xxi.) at the expiration of the week. T.

VER. 25. Polished (interrasilum, sculptured and plain, at equal distances). Heb. "Thou shalt make all round at the top, a ledge (border) of a hand's breadth," &c. The tabernacle was the tent of God, the King of Israel; and food and lights were on that account placed before him, (C.) though he stood not in need of them. H.

VER. 29. Dishes (acetabulum). Properly, a vessel to hold vinegar, but used for various purposes.—Bowls, or vials full of wine. Tostat.—Censers, to contain incense, &c. Chap. xxxvii. 16. The first term, kāruṭh, might also mean vessels to contain the flour and oil of which these loaves were made. Num. vii. 13. The Levites made the bread themselves, (1 Par. xxii. 29.) and even sowed the corn, and did every thing about it. S. Jer. in Mal. i. 7. The second term, capuṭh, may denote vessels to keep incense; the third, monkuth, instruments to clean either the flour or the table, &c. All these vessels seem anointed to accompany the table of shew-bread.—Cups, used for libations (chap. xxxvii. 16; Num. iv. 7) of wine, on the sabbath. Kossuth signifies a porringer or dish, like the ancient patera.

VER. 30. Loaves. There were twelve, containing each six pints of flour, made up in a square form, without leaven. They were placed in two rows, one above the other, and were kept separate by plates of gold. C. See Lev. xxiv. 6.

VER. 31. A candlestick. This candlestick was a figure of the light of the Holy Ghost, and his seven-fold grace, in the sanctuary of the church of Christ. Ch.—It contained a talent of gold, or above 113 lb.; worth £5475 sterling, including the snuffers, &c. (ver. 39.) and had seven branches, adorned alternately with cups, bowls, or knobs, and lilies (H.); or with cups, pomegranates, and lilies. All was of massive gold, mohseē. C.

VER. 33. Cups. Heb. "cups which produce almonds or nuts;" that is three buds of flowers, out of which comes the stalk as fruit does from the flower fashion of nuts in the other branch, and a bowl withal, and a lily. Such shall be the work of the six branches, that are to come out from the shaft :

34 And in the candlestick itself shall be four cups in the manner of a nut, and at every one bowls and lilies.

35 Bowls under two branches in three places, which together make six, coming forth out of one shaft.

36 And both the bowls and the branches shall be of the same beaten work of the purest gold.

37 Thou shalt make also seven lamps, and shalt set them upon the candlestick, to give light over against.

38 The snuffers also, and where the snuffings shall be put out, shall be made of the purest gold.

39 The whole weight of the candlestick, with all the furniture thereof, shall be a talent of the purest gold.

40 "Look, and make it according to the pattern that was shown thee in the mount.

CHAP. XXVI.

The form of the tabernacle, with its appurtenances.

AND thou shalt make the tabernacle in this manner : Thou shalt make ten curtains of fine twisted linen, and violet and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, diversified with embroidery.

2 The length of one curtain shall be twenty-eight cubits ; the breadth shall be four cubits. All the curtains shall be of one measure.

3 Five curtains shall be joined one to another, and the other five shall be coupled together in like manner.

4 Thou shalt make loops of violet in the sides and tops of the curtains, that they may be joined one to another.

5 Every curtain shall have fifty loops on both sides, so set on, that one loop may be against another loop, and one may be fitted to the other.

6 Thou shalt make also fifty rings of gold, wherewith the veils of the curtains are to be joined, that it may be made one tabernacle.

7 Thou shalt make also eleven curtains of goats' hair, to cover the top of the tabernacle.

8 The length of one hair curtain shall be thirty cubits ; and the breadth, four : the measure of all the curtains shall be equal.

9 Five of which thou shalt couple by themselves, and the six others thou shalt couple one to another, so as to double the sixth curtain in the front of the roof.

10 Thou shalt make also fifty loops in the edge of one curtain, that it may be joined with the other : and fifty loops in the edge of the other curtain, that it may be coupled with its fellow.

11 Thou shalt make also fifty buckles of brass, where-

* Heb. viii. 5 ;

with the loops may be joined, that of all there may be made one covering.

12 And that which shall remain of the curtains, that are prepared for the roof, to wit, one curtain that is over and above, with the half thereof thou shalt cover the back parts of the tabernacle.

13 And there shall hang down a cubit on the one side, and another on the other side, which is over and above in the length of the curtains, fencing both sides of the tabernacle.

14 Thou shalt make also another cover to the roof of rams' skins dyed red : and over that again another cover of violet-coloured skins.

15 Thou shalt make also the boards of the tabernacle standing upright of setim-wood.

16 Let every one of them be ten cubits in length, and in breadth one cubit and a half.

17 In the sides of the boards shall be made two mortises, whereby one board may be joined to another board : and after this manner shall all the boards be prepared.

18 Of which twenty shall be in the south side southward.

19 For which thou shalt cast forty sockets of silver, that under every board may be put two sockets at the two corners.

20 In the second side also of the tabernacle that looketh to the north, there shall be twenty boards, 21 Having forty sockets of silver, two sockets shall be put under each board.

22 But on the west side of the tabernacle thou shalt make six boards.

23 And again other two which shall be erected in the corners at the back of the tabernacle.

24 And they shall be joined together from beneath unto the top, and one joint shall hold them all. The like joining shall be observed for the two boards also that are to be put in the corners.

25 And they shall be in all eight boards, and their silver sockets sixteen, reckoning two sockets for each board.

26 Thou shalt make also five bars of setim-wood, to hold together the boards on one side of the tabernacle.

27 And five others on the other side, and as many at the west side :

28 And they shall be put along by the midst of the boards, from one end to the other.

29 The boards also themselves thou shalt overlay with gold, and shalt cast rings of gold to be set upon them, for places for the bars to hold together the board-work which bars thou shalt cover with plates of gold.

Acts vii 44.

The Heb., Gr., and Lat. languages use the word chalice, or cup, for a flower full-blown. The height of this candlestick would not exceed five feet.

VER. 37. Against. The table of proposition on the north, and that of perfumes in the middle, before the veil. T.—The lamps might be detached from the rest, (C.) and were trimmed every evening to burn all night ; but in the day four were extinguished. Bonfire.

CHAP. XXVI. VER. 1. Twisted, for greater strength, with double threads. D.—Diversified, &c. Heb. "cherubim wrought by a skilful workman." A cherubic work is one extremely diversified, and wonderful ; representing birds, flowers, monsters ; either in gold, wood, painting, or tapestry.

VER. 6. Rings. Hooks or taches. ver. 11.

VER. 13. A cubit. As these curtains were two cubits longer, and four broader, than those more precious ones below they hung down to the ground Joseph. iii. 5.

VER. 19. Corners. Heb. tenons, lit. "hands," which has the same meaning as the Vulg. Some think the sockets or bases rested on the ground, and had a point which entered into the boards, to keep them in their places. Lyran.—The ornaments on the north and south were the same. C.

VER. 26. Bars, 30 cubits long, on two sides, and ten on the western end, to fasten the boards.

30 And thou shalt rear up the tabernacle according to the pattern that was "shown thee in the mount.

31 Thou shalt make also a veil of violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen, wrought with embroidered work and goodly variety :

32 And thou shalt hang it up before four pillars of setim-wood, which themselves also shall be overlaid with gold, and shall have heads of gold, but sockets of silver.

33 And the veil shall be hanged on with rings, and within it thou shalt put the ark of the testimony, and the sanctuary and the holy of holies shall be divided with it.

34 And thou shalt set the propitiatory upon the ark of the testimony, in the holy of holies.

35 And the table without the veil, and over against the table the candlestick in the south side of the tabernacle : for the table shall stand in the north side.

36 Thou shalt make also a hanging in the entrance of the tabernacle of violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen with embroidered work.

37 And thou shalt overlay with gold five pillars of setim-wood, before which the hanging shall be drawn : their heads shall be of gold, and the sockets of brass.

CHAP. XXVII.

*The altar : and the court of the tabernacle, with its hangings and pillars.
Provision of oil for lamps.*

THOU shalt make also an altar of setim-wood, which shall be five cubits long,^a and as many broad, that is four square, and three cubits high.

2 And there shall be horns at the four corners of the same : and thou shalt cover it with brass.

3 And thou shalt make for the uses thereof pans to receive the ashes, and tongs and flesh-hooks, and fire-pans : all its vessels thou shalt make of brass.

4 And a grate of brass in manner of a net ; at the four corners of which shall be four rings of brass,

5 Which thou shalt put under the hearth of the altar : and the grate shall be even to the midst of the altar.

6 Thou shalt make also two bars for the altar, of setim-wood, which thou shalt cover with plates of brass :

^a Supra, xxv. 40.—^b Infra, xxxviii. 6.

VER. 31. A veil, to hang before the entrance of the tabernacle, at the east side, which had no boards. Within was the ark, ver. 33. H.

VER. 33. The sanctuary, &c. That part of the tabernacle which was without the veil, into which the priests daily entered, is here called the sanctuary, or holy place ; that part which was within the veil, into which no one but the high priest ever went, and he but once a year, is called the holy of holies, (literally, the sanctuaries of the sanctuary.) as being the most holy of all holy places. Ch.—It occupied only one-third of the tabernacle. M.

VER. 36. Hanging, or veil, suspended on five pillars, before the sanctuary. H.—It was the other veil, which was rent at the death of Christ.

CHAP. XXVII. VER. 1. Altar, of holocausts, in the open air, before the tabernacle. T.—Four square, or five cubits in length and breadth, and three in height, which the Rabbin measure from the grate, (ver. 5,) or middle of the altar's height. So high the altar was sunk in the earth, (C.) or was built of unhewn stone, on which the wood of the altar rested, being secured by plates of brass above, from the heat of the fire. It was hollow within, and had neither top nor bottom fixed to it. M.

VER. 2. It. The altar, wood. The horns were for ornament, and were made of brass. C.

VER. 3. Pans, &c. The Sept. have "a crown or border, for the altar, and its covering, and its cups, and flesh-hooks, and fire-place, or pan." Heb. also has five terms ; which Calmet renders, 1. a small kettle to receive the ashes under the grate ; 2. fire-shovels ; 3. bowls to receive blood (mozroth, which term the Vulg. does not perhaps notice) ; 4. flesh-hooks ; 5. chafing-dishes. The Protestant version has also the basins or broad cups, phialas, of the Sept. H.

VER. 5. Midst. Hanging down half way. On this the wood, designed to 7 And thou shalt draw them through rings, and they shall be on both sides of the altar to carry it.

8 "Thou shalt not make it solid, but empty and hollow in the inside, as it was shown thee in the mount.

9 Thou shalt make also the court of the tabernacle, in the south side whereof southward there shall be hangings of fine twisted linen of a hundred cubits long for one side.

10 And twenty pillars with as many sockets of brass, the heads of which, with their engraving, shall be of silver.

11 In like manner also on the north side there shall be hangings of a hundred cubits long, twenty pillars, and as many sockets of brass, and their heads with their engraving of silver.

12 But in the breadth of the court that looketh to the west, there shall be hangings of fifty cubits, and ten pillars, and as many sockets.

13 In that breadth also of the court which looketh to the east, there shall be fifty cubits.

14 In which there shall be for one side, hangings of fifteen cubits, and three pillars, and as many sockets.

15 And in the other side, there shall be hangings of fifteen cubits, with three pillars, and as many sockets.

16 And in the entrance of the court there shall be made a hanging of twenty cubits of violet and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen, with embroidered work : it shall have four pillars, with as many sockets.

17 All the pillars of the court round about shall be garnished with plates of silver, silver heads, and sockets of brass.

18 In length the court shall take up a hundred cubits, in breadth fifty, the height shall be of five cubits, and it shall be made of fine twisted linen, and shall have sockets of brass.

19 All the vessels of the tabernacle for all uses and ceremonies, and the pins both of it and of the court, thou shalt make of brass.

20 Command the children of Israel that they bring thee the purest oil of the olives, and beaten with a pestle that a lamp may burn always, consume the victim, was placed. The Sept. and Vulg. refer which to the rings and the present Heb. refers to the grate, or net. But it seems to be inaccurate. The rings were fixed about the middle of the altar's height, to the same holes through which the bars intended for its removal were put. The altar stood upon feet, which took up half the height, and let in air below the grate, to fan the fire, and to prevent the brass from melting. C.—The Sept. do not distinguish the grate from the hearth, or little altar, (arula), as they use the word hearth, escharaboth, (ver. 4 and 5,) and place it about the middle of the altar, or where the feet supported the box or frame of the altar, which was almost a yard high. The hearth may therefore denote the bottom of the frame, where the grate was suspended by four rings.

^a Supra, xx. 24.

VER. 9. Court. This enclosed the tabernacle, and the altar of holocausts, being 50 yards long and 25 broad. At the bottom, or western end, there were ten pillars, and on the north and south twenty, ornamented in the same manner, and supporting curtains of cotton. But on the eastern side, 10 yards were left, with four pillars in the middle, for an entrance, supporting a richer veil, and on either side three pillars of brass, adorned with circles of silver, as all the rest were. H.

VER. 10. Engraving. Heb. and Cha. "circles," adorning the chapiters (M. ver. 17,) or rather the body of the pillars. The chapiters were covered with plates of silver.

VER. 20. Pestle. That it may be as free from dregs as possible ; quasi luxurians defluerit. Colum. xii. 20. The Heb. and Sept. are silent about the pestle. The olives must, however, be a little bruised before they will yield their oil. H.—Always : four of the seven lamps were extinguished every morning. Joseph. vi. 9 ; 1 Kings iii. 3. Hecateus (ap. Eus. Præp. ix. 4) assures us, that a light was kept always burning in the tabernacle.

21 In the tabernacle of the testimony, without the veil that hangs before the testimony. And Aaron and his sons shall order it, that it may give light before the Lord until the morning. It shall be a perpetual observance throughout their successions among the children of Israel.

CHAP. XXVIII.

The holy vestments for Aaron and his sons.

TAKE unto thee also Aaron thy brother with his sons, from among the children of Israel, that they may minister to me in the priest's office: Aaron, Nadab, and Abiu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

2 And thou shalt make a holy vesture for Aaron, thy brother, for glory and for beauty.

3 And thou shalt speak to all the wise of heart, whom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron's vestments, in which he being consecrated, may minister to me.

4 And these shall be the vestments that they shall make: A rational and an ephod, a tunic and a strait linen garment, a mitre and a girdle. They shall make the holy vestments for thy brother Aaron and his sons, that they may do the office of priesthood unto me.

5 And they shall take gold, and violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine linen.

6 And they shall make the ephod of gold, and violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen, embroidered with divers colours.

7 It shall have the two edges joined in the top on both sides, that they may be closed together.

8 The very workmanship also, and all the variety of the work, shall be of gold, and violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen.

9 And thou shalt take two onyx stones, and shalt grave in them the names of the children of Israel:

10 Six names on one stone, and the other six on the other, according to the order of their birth.

11 With the work of an engraver, and the graving of a jeweller, thou shalt engrave them with the names of the children of Israel, set in gold and compassed about:

12 And thou shalt put them in both sides of the ephod, a memorial for the children of Israel. And Aaron shall bear their names before the Lord upon both shoulders, for a remembrance.

13 Thou shalt make also hooks of gold.

14 And two little chains of the purest gold, linked one to another, which thou shalt put into the hooks.

15 And thou shalt make the rational of judgment with embroidered work of divers colours, according to the workmanship of the ephod, of gold, violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen.

16 It shall be four square and doubled: it shall be the measure of a span both in length and in breadth.

17 And thou shalt set in it four rows of stones: In the first row shall be a sardius stone, and a topaz, and an emerald:

18 In the second a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a jasper:

19 In the third a ligurius, an agate, and an amethyst:

20 In the fourth a chrysolite, an onyx, and a beryl. They shall be set in gold by their rows.

21 And they shall have the names of the children of Israel: with twelve names shall they be engraved, each stone with the name of one according to the twelve tribes.

22 And thou shalt make on the rational chains, linked one to another, of the purest gold:

23 And two rings of gold, which thou shalt put in the two ends at the top of the rational.

24 And the golden chains thou shalt join to the rings, that are in the ends thereof:

25 And the ends of the chains themselves, thou shalt join together with two hooks, on both sides of the ephod, which is towards the rational.

26 Thou shalt make also two rings of gold, which thou shalt put in the top parts of the rational, in the borders that are over against the ephod, and look towards the back parts thereof.

27 Moreover also other two rings of gold, which are to be set on each side of the ephod beneath, that looketh towards the nether joining, that the rational may be fitted with the ephod,

28 And may be fastened by the rings thereof unto the rings of the ephod with a violet fillet, that the joining artificially wrought may continue, and the rational and the ephod may not be loosed one from the other.

29 And Aaron shall bear the names of the children of Israel in the rational of judgment upon his breast, when he shall enter into the sanctuary, a memorial before the Lord for ever.

30 And thou shalt put in the rational of judgment, Doctrine and Truth, which shall be on Aaron's breast,

VER. 21. Aaron. Here God declares that the sons of Aaron are chosen by him to perform this office. They were not anointed priests till chap. xxix. H.—Light. Thus God admonishes us to let our good works always shine before men. Bede Taber. iii. 1.

CHAP. XXVIII. VER. 1. Take, &c. Priests must be called by God, as Aaron was. Heb. v. W.

VER. 2. And beauty, that all may be filled with awe, and adore the majesty of God. C.—Our priestly vestments, which are objects of derision to the ignorant, are made so rich and beautiful for the same purpose. They have the sanction of God, by a parity of reason; and the authority of his Church. H.

VER. 4. Rational and ephod. See chap. xxv. 7.—Tunic, long robe or cloak of blue wool.—Garment, next the body, and woven very close and thick.—Mitre, like a tiara or turban of linen, or rather of byssus, or fine cotton.

VER. 6. Ephod (superhumeral). That of the other priests was made of linen; and such were worn by Samuel, and by David, when he danced before the ark. M.

VER. 7. Together, by the hooks, under the two precious stones. Josep. iii. 8.

VER. 9. Onyx. Sept. emeralds. C.—Heb. sam, which the Protestants render onyx-stone. H.

VER. 10. Birth. On the right shoulder were engraven Ruben, Simeon, Juda, Dan, Nephtali, and Gad. On the left, Aser, Issachar, Zabulon, Ephraim, Manasses, and Benjamin. The high priest himself represented the tribe of Levi. M

VER. 13. Hooks. Sept. aspidiscas, "imitating the form or biting of an asp." C.—Gold, on the ephod, by which the rational was suspended from the shoulders. H.

VER. 15. The rational of judgment. This part of the high priest's attire, which he wore at his breast, was called the rational of judgment; partly because it admonished both priest and people of their duty to God; by carrying the names of all their tribes in his presence; and by the Urim and Thummim, that is, doctrine and truth, which were written upon it: and partly because it gave Divine answers and oracles, as if it were rational and endowed with judgment.

VER. 18. The carbuncle, (ruby,) sapphire, and jasper, (or diamond,) had on them Juda, Dan, and Nephtali.

VER. 19. Ligurius, agate, and amethyst, (or eumeces, Plin. xxxvii. 7.) had Gad, Aser, and Issachar.

VER. 20. Chrysolite, (beryl or opale,) onyx, (Sept. beryl; Chal. or emerald, C.,) beryl, (Heb. jasper; Sept. &c. onyx,) were inscribed with the names of Zabulon, Joseph, and Benjamin. In Ezech. xxviii. 13, the jasper stone comes in the sixth place, as it does in the Vulg. here. C.

VER. 30. Doctrine and Truth. Heb. Urim and Thummim: illuminations and perfections. These words, written on the rational, seem to signify the light of doctrine, and the integrity of life, with which the priests of God ought to approach to him. Ch.—Aurim means things brilliant, "declarations," Sept., and thomim, "perfections," or "truths." Some imagine, that God required the stones when he shall go in before the Lord: and he shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel on his breast, in the sight of the Lord always.

31 And thou shalt make the tunic of the ephod all of violet

32 In the midst whereof above shall be a hole for the head and a border round about it woven, as is wont to be made in the outmost parts of garments, that it may not easily be broken.

33 And beneath at the feet of the same tunic, round about, thou shalt make as it were pomegranates, of violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, with little bells set between:

34 So that there shall be a golden bell and a pomegranate, and again another golden bell and a pomegranate.

35 *And Aaron shall be vested with it in the office of his ministry, that the sound may be heard, when he goeth in and cometh out of the sanctuary, in the sight of the Lord, and that he may not die.

36 Thou shalt make also a plate of the purest gold: wherein thou shalt grave with engraver's work, Holy to the Lord.

37 And thou shalt tie it with a violet fillet, and it shall be upon the mitre,

38 Hanging over the forehead of the high priest. And Aaron shall bear the iniquities of those things, which the children of Israel have offered and sanctified, in all their gifts and offerings. And the plate shall be always on his forehead, that the Lord may be well pleased with them.

39 And thou shalt gird the tunic with fine linen, and thou shalt make a fine linen mitre, and a girdle of embroidered work.

40 Moreover, for the sons of Aaron thou shalt prepare linen tunics, and girdles and mitres for glory and beauty:

41 And with all these things thou shalt vest Aaron thy brother, and his sons with him. And thou shalt consecrate the hands of them all, and shalt sanctify them, that they may do the office of priesthood unto me

42 Thou shalt make also linen breeches, to cover the flesh of their nakedness, from the reins to the thighs:

* Eccl. xlv. 11.—b Lev. ix. 2.

† the rational to be of the utmost brilliancy and perfection (Oleaster); and Josephus (Ant. iii. 8.) says, it was by the appearance of those stones that the high priest was enlightened, when he consulted God. If God approved of what was in agitation, they assumed a surprising brightness, as well as those on the high priest's shoulders. But this had not happened for 200 years before he began his history. The Urin and Thummin were not in the second temple, 1 Esd. ii. 63. C.—As the Jews lost the propitiatory when they were led captives to Babylon, it seems they never afterwards obtained this privilege of having an oracle. God sometimes instructed them by his prophets. But, for a long time, none had appeared; that all might attend more earnestly to the voice of the Messias. T.

VER. 33. Bells, to denote the harmony of the universe, (Philo,) and that all the actions of a priest ought to give edification. S. Jerom.

VER. 36. Plate; reaching from ear to ear, two fingers' breadth, tied behind like a diadem. Wisd. xviii. 24.—Holy, or "sanctity, belongeth to the Lord," and all who approach to Him ought to be holy. C.—Josephus represents the ornaments of the high priest's head, like the triple crown of the pope. Ant. iii. 8.

VER. 38. Iniquities. This means, perhaps, that he shall wear these grand vestments and crown only on the solemn day of expiation, when he makes atonement of all the sins of the people, as a figure of Jesus Christ. Josephus tells us, that on other occasions he wore a less costly attire. De Bel. 5, 6, or 15. C.

VER. 40. Linen. In Ezechiel (xlv. 17) woollen garments are forbidden to be worn by priests. Many of the pagans required their priests to be clothed in white linen. All these prescriptions of God, which seem to us so minute, had a more sublime and mysterious meaning. For in the priestly robe . . . was the 43 And Aaron and his sons shall use them when they shall go into the tabernacle of the testimony, or when they approach to the altar to minister in the sanctuary, lest being guilty of iniquity they die. It shall be a law for ever to Aaron, and to his seed after him.

CHAP. XXIX.

The manner of consecrating Aaron and other priests: the institution of the daily sacrifice of two lambs, one in the morning, the other at evening.

AND thou shalt also do this, that they may be consecrated to me in priesthood. "Take a calf from the herd, and two rams without blemish,

2 And unleavened bread, and a cake without leaven, tempered with oil, wafers also unleavened, anointed with oil: thou shalt make them all of wheaten flour.

3 And thou shalt put them in a basket, and offer them: and the calf and the two rams.

4 And thou shalt bring Aaron and his sons to the door of the tabernacle of the testimony. And when thou hast washed the father and his sons with water,

5 Thou shalt clothe Aaron with his vestments, that is, with the linen garment and the tunic, and the ephod and the rational, which thou shalt gird with the girdle.

6 And thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and the holy plate upon the mitre,

7 And thou shalt pour the oil of unction upon his head, and by this rite shall he be consecrated.

8 Thou shalt bring his sons also, and shalt put on them the linen tunics, and gird them with a girdle:

9 To wit, Aaron and his children, and thou shalt put mitres upon them; and they shall be priests to me by a perpetual ordinance. After thou shalt have consecrated their hands,

10 Thou shalt present also the calf before the tabernacle of the testimony. And Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands upon his head, 11 And thou shalt kill him in the sight of the Lord, beside the door of the tabernacle of the testimony.

12 And taking some of the blood of the calf, thou shalt put it upon the horns of the altar with thy finger, and the rest of the blood thou shalt pour at the bottom thereof.

13 Thou shalt take also all the fat that covereth the enc Lev. i. 3.—d Lev. iii. 3.

whole world, by the colours denoting the air, light, earth, and water: the two stones on the shoulders, signified the sun and moon, as the twelve did the signs of the zodiac, or the glory of the fathers; and thy majesty was written upon the diadem of his head. Wisd. xviii. 24. Thus the priest was a mediator between God and his people, and was to be solicitous for the welfare of all. S. Tho. 1. 2. q. 102, a. 5. S. Aug., S. Jer., &c.

VER. 42. Linen breeches, descending as far as the knees. S. Jer. In chap. xxxix. 29, they seem to have been made of byssus, or cotton. But as linen is prescribed in all other places, perhaps a word has crept in there, by mistake of the transcribers.

CHAP. XXIX. VER. 2. Wafers (lagana). They knead them with water, and afterwards fry or bake them with oil. S. Isid. Such wafers are very common in Italy. C.

VER. 4. Washed. The pagans never approached their mysteries without divers purifications and washing. S. Clem. Strom. 5. Exterior cleanliness was designed to signify the purity of the heart, with which we must appear before God. C.—It is for this reason we take holy water, when we go into our chapels. H.

VER. 7. Pour, in the form of a cross or T, according to many of the Rabbins, &c. The custom of anointing prophets, priests, and kings, was peculiar to the Jews; as if to foreshew Christ, the great Anointed of the Lord. S. Aug. Psal. xlv. Dan. ix. 24.

VER. 10. Head. Confessing that they are sinners, and deserve to die. C.

VER. 11. Beside. The victim was offered on the altar of holocausts, before the tabernacle, the seat of God's majesty. C.—Moses was the priest on this occasion. M. Psal. xlviii. 6.

trails, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and shalt offer a burnt-offering upon the altar :

14 But the flesh of the calf, and the hide and the dung, thou shalt burn abroad, without the camp, because it is for sin.

15 Thou shalt take also one ram, upon the head whereof Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands.

16 And when thou hast killed him, thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and pour round about the altar.

17 And thou shalt cut the ram in pieces, and having washed his entrails and feet, thou shalt put them upon the flesh that is cut in pieces, and upon his head.

18 And thou shalt offer the whole ram for a burnt-offering upon the altar : it is an oblation to the Lord, a most sweet savour of the victim of the Lord.

19 Thou shalt take also the other ram, upon whose head Aaron and his sons shall lay their hands.

20 And when thou hast sacrificed him, thou shalt take of his blood, and put upon the tip of the right ear of Aaron and of his sons, and upon the thumbs and great toes of their right hand and foot, and thou shalt pour the blood upon the altar round about.

21 And when thou hast taken of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the oil of unction, thou shalt sprinkle Aaron and his vesture, his sons and their vestments. And after they and their vestments are consecrated,

22 Thou shalt take the fat of the ram, and the rump, and the fat that covereth the lungs, and the caul of the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder, because it is the ram of consecration :

23 And one roll of bread, a cake tempered with oil, a wafer out of the basket of unleavened bread, which is set in the sight of the Lord :

24 And thou shalt put all upon the hands of Aaron and of his sons, and shalt sanctify them elevating before the Lord.

25 And thou shalt take all from their hands ; and shalt burn them upon the altar for a holocaust, a most sweet savour in the sight of the Lord, because it is his oblation.

26 Thou shalt take also the breast of the ram, wherewith Aaron was consecrated, and elevating it thou shalt sanctify it before the Lord, and it shall fall to thy share.

27 And thou shalt sanctify both the consecrated breast, and the shoulder that thou didst separate of the ram,

28 Wherewith Aaron was consecrated and his sons, and they shall fall to Aaron's share, and his sons, by a perpetual right from the children of Israel : because they are the choicest and the beginnings of their peace-victims which they offer to the Lord.

29 And the holy vesture, which Aaron shall use, his sons shall have after him, that they may be anointed, and their hands consecrated in it.

30 He of his sons that shall be appointed high priest in his stead, and that shall enter into the tabernacle of the testimony to minister in the sanctuary, shall wear it seven days.

31 And thou shalt take the ram of the consecration, and shalt boil the flesh thereof in the holy place :

32 And Aaron and his sons shall eat it. *The loaves also, that are in the basket, they shall eat in the entry of the tabernacle of the testimony,

33 That it may be an atoning sacrifice, and the hands of the offerers may be sanctified. A stranger shall not eat of them, because they are holy.

34 And if there remain of the consecrated flesh, or of the bread, till the morning, thou shalt burn the remainder with fire : they shall not be eaten, because they are sanctified.

35 All that I have commanded thee, thou shalt do unto Aaron and his sons. Seven days shalt thou consecrate their hands :

36 And thou shalt offer a calf for sin every day for expiation. And thou shalt cleanse the altar when thou hast offered the victim of expiation, and shalt anoint it to sanctify it.

37 Seven days shalt thou expiate the altar and sanctify it, and it shall be most holy. Every one, that shall touch it, shall be holy.

38 This is what thou shalt sacrifice upon the altar. Two lambs of a year old every day continually, 39 One lamb in the morning, and another in the evening.

40 With one lamb a tenth part of flour tempered with beaten oil, of the fourth part of a hin, and wine for libation of the same measure.

41 And the other lamb thou shalt offer in the evening, according to the rite of the morning oblation, and according to what we have said, for a savour of sweetness :

42 It is a sacrifice to the Lord, by perpetual oblation unto your generations, at the door of the tabernacle of the testimony before the Lord, where I will appoint to speak unto thee.

* Lev. viii. 31, and xxiv. 9 :

Matt. xii. 4.

VER. 13. Burnt-offering (incensum). To evaporate like incense. M.—God requires what is most fat and delicious. C.

VER. 14. Sin of the high priest and people. In the other sin-offerings, this was not done. M.

VER. 16. About, upon the altar, and at the foot of it.

VER. 18. Victim. Heb. asse, means a whole burnt-offering.

VER. 22. Rump, or tail, for which the sheep of Arabia were famed ; some having tails three yards long, others a yard thick. Herodot. iii. 113. They weighed from 12 to 30 pounds, and were almost all fat. C.

VER. 23. Roll (torta). Heb. cocor, "a loaf." Sept. "a loaf or cake of oil." H.

VER. 24. Elevating, and then letting them descend towards the earth.

VER. 30. Days. During which he could not leave the sanctuary. Levit. xiii. 33. On each day, the aforesaid ceremonies were to be repeated, ver. 35.

VER. 31. Holy place. The court of the tabernacle, where a constant fire was kept, to prepare the food of the priests, and sometimes of others, who wished to eat their share of the victims in the presence of the Lord.

VER. 33. Stranger. The Levites themselves could not partake of these things.

VER. 37. Seven. This number is frequently prescribed in Scripture. Balaam required seven altars, Num. xxiii. C.—Shall be holy, consecrated according to this rite, (M.) or defiled ; for sacred things purify those who approach in a proper manner, while they defile or increase the guilt of the unworthy. C.—By the unleavened bread, (ver. 23,) we are reminded of the blessed eucharist ; and by oil, of the grace of the Spirit. D.

VER. 39. Morning. About sun-rise.—Evening, or between the two vespers. Exod. xii. 6. By these sacrifices, God was to be adored as the author both of day and night (M.) ; and we are admonished of our duty of praying to him, particularly at those times. H.—All the sacrifices prefigured that of Christ, (S. Aug. e. advers. i. 18,) but none more than these of lambs. Orig. in Jo. W.

VER. 40. Part of an epha, half of which was used in each sacrifice.

43 And there will I command the children of Israel, and the altar shall be sanctified by my glory.

44 I will sanctify also the tabernacle of the testimony with the altar, and Aaron with his sons, to do the office of priesthood unto me.

45 And I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel, and will be their God:

46 And they shall know that I am the Lord their God, who have brought them out of the land of Egypt, that I might abide among them, I the Lord their God.

CHAP. XXX.

The altar of incense: money to be gathered for the use of the tabernacle: the brazen laver: the holy oil of unction, and the composition of the perfume.

THOU shalt make also an altar to burn incense, of setim-wood.

2 It shall be a cubit in length, and another in breadth, that is, four square, and two in height. Horns shall go out of the same.

3 And thou shalt overlay it with the purest gold, as well the grate thereof, as the walls round about, and the horns. And thou shalt make to it a crown of gold round about,

4 And two golden rings under the crown on either side, that the bars may be put into them, and the altar be carried.

5 And thou shalt make the bars also of setim-wood, and shalt overlay them with gold.

6 And thou shalt set the altar over against the veil, that hangeth before the ark of the testimony before the propitiatory wherewith the testimony is covered, where I will speak to thee.

7 And Aaron shall burn sweet-smelling incense upon it in the morning. When he shall dress the lamps, he shall burn it:

8 And when he shall place them in the evening, he shall burn an everlasting incense before the Lord throughout your generations.

9 You shall not offer upon it incense of another composition, nor oblation, and victim, neither shall you offer libations.

^a Num. i. 3.—^b Lev. xxvii. 25;

CHAP. XXX. VER. 1. An altar to burn incense. This burning of incense was an emblem of prayer, ascending to God from an inflamed heart. See Psal. cxl. 2; Apocal. v. 8, and viii. 4. Ch.—Nothing but incense was daily offered by the high priest upon this altar. On the day of expiation he touched the four corners with blood. It stood over against the bread of proposition.

VER. 2. Height. Ezechiel (xli. 42) describes his altar of incense, a cubit higher.

VER. 3. Grate, or covering. Some think the fire and incense were placed on this grate, and the ashes fell under the altar. But fire was taken hence, and put in the thuribles (Num. xvi. 17. C.); or a brazen thurible was placed on the fire. Lev. x. 1. M.—Walls, or sides, of setim-wood.—Crown, cornice or moulding. See chap. xxv. 25.

VER. 6. Where, &c. Hence some infer that its situation was in the most holy place. But God spoke also to Moses at the door of the sanctuary (chap. xxix. 42. H.); and most people suppose that it was placed out of the holy of holies, beside the veil.

VER. 7. Aaron, or some other priest. They did it by turns, and were bound to observe continence during the time of their ministry. Lev. xv. 16; Luke i. 9. C.

VER. 12. Sum. David perhaps neglected this injunction. 2 Kings xxiv. Josep. Ant. vii. 10. Yet we do not read that Moses took the half sicle when he numbered the people. Num. i. Whence others gather, that this sum was to be paid every year, as it was done in our Saviour's time, for the support of the temple. Matt. xvii. 23. C.

VER. 13. Half a sicle. A sicle or shekel of silver, (which was also called a stater,) according to the standard or weight of the sanctuary, which was the most

10 And Aaron shall pray upon the horns thereof once a year, with the blood of that which was offered for sin; and shall make atonement upon it in your generations. It shall be most holy to the Lord.

11 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

12 "When thou shalt take the sum of the children of Israel, according to their number, every one of them shall give a price for their souls to the Lord, and there shall be no scourge among them, when they shall be reckoned.

13 And this shall every one give that passeth at the naming, half a sicle according to the standard of the temple. ^aA sicle hath twenty obols. Half a sicle shall be offered to the Lord.

14 He that is counted in the number from twenty years and upwards, shall give the price.

15 The rich man shall not add to half a sicle, and the poor man shall diminish nothing.

16 And the money received, which was contributed by the children of Israel, thou shalt deliver unto the uses of the tabernacle of the testimony, that it may be a memorial of them before the Lord, and he may be merciful to their souls.

17 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

18 Thou shalt make also a brazen laver with its foot, to wash in: and thou shalt set it between the tabernacle of the testimony and the altar. And water being put into it:

19 Aaron and his sons shall wash their hands and feet in it:

20 When they are going into the tabernacle of the testimony, and when they are to come to the altar, to offer on it incense to the Lord,

21 Lest perhaps they die. It shall be an everlasting law to him, and to his seed by successions.

22 And the Lord spoke to Moses,

23 Saying: Take spices, of principal and chosen myrrh five hundred sicles, and of cinnamon half so much; that is, two hundred and fifty sicles, of calamus in like manner two hundred and fifty,

24 And of cassia five hundred sicles by the weight of the sanctuary, of oil of olives the measure hin:

Num. iii. 47; Ezec. xlv. 12.

just and exact, was half an ounce of silver; that is, about half a crown of English money. The obol, or gerah, was about three halfpence. Ch.—A priest kept the weights and measures. 1 Par. xxiii. 29. C.

VER. 15. Rich. The life of every man is equal in the sight of God, and He will not give the rich occasion to despise his poor neighbour. Thus also the number of people would be ascertained. M.

VER. 18. Its foot also of brass, made of mirrors which the women gave. Chap. xxxviii. 8. It was double; one vessel being shallower, to wash the feet, &c., and the other containing a quantity of water, which was let out by pipes. The pagans had lavers also; and our holy-water vessels should remind us of that purity and holiness which become the house of God. H.

VER. 19. Feet. The priests went barefoot in the tabernacle. In the Mass we find the same law binds laymen. C.—The priest is ordered to put off his shoes on Good Friday, out of respect for Jesus Christ, who suffered on the cross. H.

VER. 23. Spices. Perfumes were probably first invented in Arabia and Egypt.—Myrrh. Heb. "the head of the myrrh of liberty," or such as flowed freely and was most excellent, free from any mixture. Sudari sponie . . . stacte dictam. Plin. xii. 15. C.—Stacte takes its name from distilling. M.—Sicles; this is not expressed in the Heb., as this measure is commonly meant.—Cinnamon, a plant extremely rare. Mattheole assures us that it is not now to be found in Arabia, no more than balm in Judea.—Calamus. Heb. adds the epithet sweet-smelling both to cinnamon and calamus, or cane, the latter of which grows in the Indies. Dioscor. i. 17.

VER. 24. Cassia, not the common sort, which would spoil the perfumes, but the essence of iris, (Heb. kade;) mentioned in the Sept., Ezec. xxvii. 19, Joseph. &c. C.

25 And thou shalt make the holy oil of unction, an ointment compounded after the art of the perfumer,

26 And therewith thou shalt anoint the tabernacle of the testimony, and the ark of the testament,

27 And the table with the vessels thereof, the candlestick and furniture thereof, the altars of incense, 28 And of holocaust, and all the furniture that belongeth to the service of them.

29 And thou shalt sanctify all, and they shall be most holy: he that shall touch them shall be sanctified.

30 Thou shalt anoint Aaron and his sons, and shalt sanctify them, that they may do the office of priesthood unto me.

31 And thou shalt say to the children of Israel: This oil of unction shall be holy unto me throughout your generations.

32 The flesh of man shall not be anointed therewith, and you shall make none other of the same composition, because it is sanctified, and shall be holy unto you.

33 What man soever shall compound such, and shall give thereof to a stranger, he shall be cut off from his people.

34 And the Lord said to Moses: Take unto thee spices, stacte, and onycha, galbanum of sweet savour, and the clearest frankincense, all shall be of equal weight.

35 And thou shalt make incense compounded by the work of the perfumer, well tempered together, and pure, and most worthy of sanctification.

36 And when thou hast beaten all into very small powder, thou shalt set of it before the tabernacle of the testimony, in the place where I will appear to thee. Most holy shall this incense be unto you.

37 You shall not make such a composition for your own uses, because it is holy to the Lord.

38 What man soever shall make the like, to enjoy the smell thereof, he shall perish out of his people.

CHAP. XXXI.

Beseleel and Ooliab are appointed by the Lord to make the tabernacle, and the things belonging thereto. The observation of the sabbath day is again commanded. And the Lord delivereth to Moses two tables written with the finger of God.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

2 Behold, I have called by name Beseleel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Juda,

3 And I have filled him with the spirit of God, with wisdom and understanding, and knowledge in all manner of work,

4 To devise whatsoever may be artificially made of gold, and silver, and brass,

* Supra, xx. 8; Ezec. xx. 12.—b Gen. i. 31, and ii. 2.

VER. 29. Sanctified. But if he ought not to touch it, he shall be defiled the more (Deut. xxii. 9): a double effect, which we perceive in the Christian sacraments. C.

VER. 34. Onycha. An aromatic root, shining like "the nail," or perhaps the bdellium of Arabia, which is clearer than that of the Indies. Dioscor. Gallen Medic. It distils from a tree.—Galbanum, an unctuous gum, of a strong but not very agreeable smell when alone.—Frankincense, is a juice proceeding by incision from the trees of Saba.—Weight. The Rabbin say 70 or 74 pounds of each.

VER. 35. Together. Heb. lit. "salted," (Chald.) as salt was to accompany all the sacrifices. Lev. ii. 13. The word may signify "a thing used in embalming, pure and holy."

VER. 36. Place. On the table of perfumes, to be burnt morning and evening. C. CHAP. XXXI. VER. 2. By name. I have fixed upon and taken into my service, as Isa. xliii. 1.

5 Of marble, and precious stones, and variety of wood.

6 And I have given him for his companion Ooliab, the son of Achisamech, of the tribe of Dan. And I have put wisdom in the heart of every skilful man, that they may make all things which I have commanded thee,

7 The tabernacle of the covenant, and the ark of the testimony, and the propitiatory, that is over it, and all the vessels of the tabernacle,

8 And the table and the vessels thereof, the most pure candlestick with the vessels thereof, and the altars of incense,

9 And of holocaust, and all their vessels, the laver with its foot,

10 The holy vestments in the ministry for Aaron the priest, and for his sons, that they may execute their office, about the sacred things:

11 The oil of unction, and the incense of spices in the sanctuary, all things which I have commanded thee, shall they make.

12 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

13 Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: "See that you keep my sabbath; because it is a sign between me and you in your generations: that you may know that I am the Lord, who sanctify you.

14 Keep you my sabbath: for it is holy unto you: he that shall profane it, shall be put to death: he that shall do any work in it, his soul shall perish out of the midst of his people.

15 Six days shall you do work: in the seventh day is the sabbath, the rest holy to the Lord. Every one that shall do any work on this day, shall die.

16 Let the children of Israel keep the sabbath, and celebrate it in their generations. It is an everlasting covenant

17 Between me and the children of Israel, and a perpetual sign. ^bFor in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and in the seventh he ceased from work.

18 And the Lord, when he had ended these words in Mount Sinai,^c gave to Moses two stone tables of testimony, written with the finger of God.

CHAP. XXXII.

The people fall into idolatry. Moses prayeth for them. He breaketh the tables: destroyeth the idol: blameth Aaron, and causeth many of the idolaters to be slain.

AND the people seeing^d that Moses delayed to come down from the mount, gathering together against Aaron, said:^e Arise, make us gods, that may go before us: for as to this Moses, the man that brought us ^e Deut. ix. 10.—^d A. M. 2513.—^c Acts vii. 40.

VER. 4. Brass. Sept. add, "and violet, and purple, and scarlet spun, and byssus twisted."

VER. 5. Marble and (or) precious stones. Marble was not used in the tabernacle. C.

VER. 7. Vessels. Tables, curtains, &c. C.

VER. 8. Table and (all) the. The Sam. copy retains the word col, "all," as well as the Sam., Sept., Syr., and Arab. versions, and one Heb. MS., though the printed editions have rejected it. In a Chaldaic MS. it is also found.

VER. 13. Sabbath. Let not the workmen do any thing for the tabernacle on that day. M.—God reiterates and insists particularly on this commandment, which begins with the word remember; because men are so apt to forget, or to transgress a precept, which seems to interfere with those worldly concerns and profits, which they love more than God and their own souls. H.

CHAP. XXXII. VER 1 Delayed. They waited perhaps about a month, 87 out of the land of Egypt, we know not what has befallen him.

2 And Aaron said to them: Take the golden ear-rings from the ears of your wives, and your sons' and daughters', and bring them to me.

3 And the people did what he had commanded, bringing the ear-rings to Aaron.

4 *And when he had received them, he fashioned them by founders' work, and made of them a molten calf. And they said: These are thy gods, O Israel, that have brought thee out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron saw this, he built an altar before it, and made proclamation by a crier's voice, saying: To-morrow is the solemnity of the Lord.

6 And rising in the morning, they offered holocausts, and peace-victims,^b and the people sat down to eat and drink, and they rose up to play.

7 And the Lord spoke to Moses, saying: 'Go, get thee down: thy people, which thou hast brought out of the land of Egypt, hath sinned.

8 They have quickly strayed from the way which thou didst show them: and they have made to themselves a molten calf, and have adored it, and sacrificing victims to it, have said: "These are thy gods, O Israel, that have brought thee out of the land of Egypt."

9 And again the Lord said to Moses: "I see that this people is stiff-necked:

10 Let me alone, that my wrath may be kindled against them, and that I may destroy them, and I will make of thee a great nation.

11 But Moses besought the Lord his God, saying: 'Why, O Lord, is thy indignation enkindled against thy people, whom thou hast brought out of the land of Egypt, with great power, and with a mighty hand?

* Psal. cv. 19.—^b 1 Cor. x. 7.—^c Deut. ix. 12.—^d 3 Kings xii. 28.
* Infra, xxxiii. 3; Deut. ix. 13.

with some patience; and then, becoming seditious, assembled against Aaron, and extorted from him a compliance with their impious request. He was thus guilty of a grievous crime, though the violence might extenuate it in some degree. Salien.—He was not yet ordained high priest. Chap. xl. 12. II.

VER. 2. And your sons'. The Sept. omit this. But in the East, it was fashionable for men also to wear ear-rings. Plin. xi. 37. Judg. viii. 24; Ezec. vii. 20.

VER. 4. Received them, "in a purse, (as Gideon did afterwards, Judg. viii. 25,) he made a molten calf." Jonath.—Some of the Fathers think, that the head of a calf only appeared. S. Amb., Lactant., &c. The rest of the figure was perhaps human, as Osiris was represented with the head of an ox, as well as Astarte and Serapis.—Thy gods, &c. Thus spoke the infatuated ringleaders. C.—And they changed their glory, the true God, into the likeness of a calf that eateth grass, Psal. cv. 19.—They forgot God, who saved them, (ib. ver. 21,) and forsook Him, (Deut. xxxii. 18,) to adore the calf. W.

VER. 5. The Lord. The most sacred name of God is prostituted, (Judg. xvii. and xviii.; Wisd. xiv. 21,) and an altar is erected to this idol. His weakness was unaccountable, and God would have slain him, had not Moses interceded. Deut. ix. 20. Those who undertake to justify him, enter not into the sentiments of Job; and the offender himself pleads no excuse, but the violence of the people, ver. 23. Salien.—To-morrow, when the 40 days expired, and Moses returned arrayed in terrors. H.

VER. 6. They offered, by the hands of Aaron, to whom the Sept. refer all this. "He offered," &c., appearing at the head of the idolaters. C.—To eat of the victims.—To play, dancing and singing in honour of their idol, probably with many indecent gestures, as was customary on such occasions among the nations of Chanaan. H.—Tertullian (de Jejunio) understands impure play. The word means also to dance, and to play on instruments of music. H.—Foolish mirth is the daughter of gluttony, and the mother of idolatry. S. Greg. Mor. xxxi. 31. W.

VER. 9. And again. The Sept. omit this verse. Moses, at the first intimation of the people's sin, fell prostrate before the Lord, to sue for pardon, and pleaded the natural weakness of an ungovernable multitude, in order to extenuate their fault. This God admits.—I see, &c. But while he seems bent on punishing them, to try his servant, he encourages him inwardly to pray with fervour. Salien.

12 Let not the Egyptians say, I beseech thee: He craftily brought them out, that he might kill them in the mountains, and destroy them from the earth: let thy anger cease, and be appeased upon the wickedness of thy people.

13 Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou sworest by thy own self, saying: "I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven: and this whole land that I have spoken of, I will give to your seed, and you shall possess it for ever."

14 And the Lord was appeased from doing the evil which he had spoken against his people.

15 And Moses returned from the mount, carrying the two tables of the testimony in his hand, written on both sides,

16 And made by the work of God; the writing also: God was graven in the tables.

17 And Josue hearing the noise of the people shouting, said to Moses: The noise of battle is heard in the camp.

18 But he answered: It is not the cry of men encouraging to fight, nor the shout of men compelling to flee: but I hear the voice of singers.

19 And when he came nigh to the camp, he saw the calf, and the dances: and being very angry, he threw the tables out of his hand, and broke them at the foot of the mount:

20 And laying hold of the calf which they had made, he burnt it,^b and beat it to powder, which he strewed into water, and gave thereof to the children of Israel to drink.

21 And he said to Aaron: What has this people done to thee, that thou shouldst bring upon them a most heinous sin?

22 And he answered him: Let not my lord be offended, for thou knowest this people, that they are prone to evil.

^f Num. xiv. 13; Psal. cv. 23.—^g Gen. xii. 7, and xv. 7, and xlviii. 16.
^h Deut. ix. 21.—ⁱ 1 John v. 19.

VER. 10. Alone. One fully determined on revenge will hear with no expostulation; whence S. Greg. (Mor. ix. 11) and Theodoret (q. 67) look upon this as an incitement to pray more earnestly, seeing God's servants have such influence over Him. The mercy of God struggled with his justice, and stopped its effects. —Nation, as I promised to Abraham; or I will make thee ruler over a nation greater than this, as Moses explains it, (Deut. ix. 14,) and as the like offer he made, Num. xiv. 12. The Sam. subjoins here, "And God was likewise much irritated against Aaron, and would have destroyed him; but Moses prayed to him:" which we are assured was the case. Deut. ix. 20. C.

VER. 11. Why, &c. Calvin here accuses Moses of arrogance, in prescribing laws to God's justice. But S. Jerom (ep. ad Gaud.) commends his charity and "prayer, which hindered God's power." W.

VER. 12. Craftily. Heb. "with a malicious design." Moses insinuates, that the glory of God is interested not to punish the Hebrews, lest the Gentiles should blaspheme, particularly as the land of Chanaan seemed to be promised unconditionally to the posterity of Abraham, who were now, all but one, to be exterminated. II.

VER. 13. Thy servants. Thus God honours his friends, and rewards their merits, which are the effects of his grace. W.

VER. 14. Appeased. Yet of this Moses was not fully assured, and in effect only those who had been less guilty were reprieved, to be punished afterwards. ver. 30, 35. H.

VER. 17. Josue, who was waiting for Moses lower down on the mountain. Chap. xxiv. 13.

VER. 19. Mount. "Finding the people abandoned to luxury and sacrifice, he broke the tables, deeming it a nation unworthy to be intrusted with the law of God." Sulpit. i. 33. The Jews kept the 17th of the fourth month as a fast, in memory of this event. S. Jer. in Zac. viii.

VER. 20. Calf. Having manifested his disapprobation of the people's conduct, in the most signal manner, by breaking the two tables; Moses proceeds to convince them of their stupidity, in adoring what he reduces to powder. H.—He breaks the calf in pieces, after burning it, and then grinds it to dust in a mill, with files; as the Heb., Chal., and Sept. intimate. He throws it, with contempt, into the torrent, which supplied the camp with water, and thus caused the idolaters to swallow their god. 7.

23 They said to me : Make us gods, that may go before us ; for as to this Moses, who brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, we know not what is befallen him.

24 And I said to them : Which of you hath any gold ? and they took and brought it to me ; and I cast it into the fire, and this calf came out.

25 And when Moses saw that the people were naked, (for Aaron had stripped them by occasion of the shame of the filth, and had set them naked among their enemies,)

26 Then standing in the gate of the camp, he said : If any man be on the Lord's side, let him join with me. And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him :

27 And he said to them : Thus saith the Lord God of Israel : Put every man his sword upon his thigh : go, and return from gate to gate through the midst of the camp, and let every man kill his brother,* and friend, and neighbour.

28 And the sons of Levi did according to the words of Moses, and there were slain that day about three and twenty thousand men.

29 And Moses said : You have consecrated your hands this day to the Lord, every man in his son and in his brother, that a blessing may be given to you.

30 And when the next day was come, Moses spoke to the people : You have sinned a very great sin : I will go up to the Lord, if by any means I may be able to entreat him for your crime.

31 And returning to the Lord, he said : I beseech thee : this people hath sinned a heinous sin, and they have made to themselves gods of gold : either forgive them this trespass, 32 Or if thou do not, strike me out of the book that thou hast written.

33 And the Lord answered him : He that hath sinned against me, him will I strike out of my book :

^a Deut. xxxiii. 9.—^b Gen. xii. 7.—^c Supra, xxxii. 34.

VER. 25. Naked. Having lost not only their gold, and their honour, but, what was worst of all, being stripped also of the grace of God, and having lost him.—The shame of the filth. That is, of the idol, which they had taken for their god. It is the usual phrase of the Scripture to call idols filth, and abominations. Ch.

VER. 26. All the sons ; that is, the great majority of them ; for some were probably slain, ver. 20.

VER. 28. About, &c. The Heb. letter c means about, and stands also for twenty. All the versions, and some copies of the Vulg., retain the first signification ; but our edition gives also the second. Sixtus V. and the Louvain Bible have about thirty-three thousand. H.—S. Paul (1 Cor. x. 7, 8) mentions, that three and twenty thousand perished, in punishment of their fornication (with the Moabites), which some explain of the adoration of the calf, and say that Moses only specifies those slain by the Levites ; while S. Paul gives the number of all those who perished by the hand of God on this occasion, ver. 35. C.—S. Cyril, Alex. glap. 2, Sulpit., and many other Fathers, agree with the Vulgate. The fornication with the Moabites was followed by the death of twenty-four thousand. Num. xxv. 9. So that S. Paul cannot refer to it, unless he only mention those who perished in one day ; and Moses expresses the total amount of the slain during the whole affair. H.

VER. 29. To you. Thus they merited the priesthood, and a blessing (Deut. xxxiii. 9. M.) ; having been the ministers of God's just indignation, without sparing any of the most guilty.

VER. 30. You. Many who had not been slain, had followed the bad example, and Aaron, in particular, had brought upon them a most heinous sin, ver. 21. Yet, on account of their repentance, they were not subjected to immediate punishment ; but they were visited afterwards, ver. 34. As he is willing to die for his people, God pardons them for his sake. S. Aug. q. 147, &c. H.

VER. 32. The book of the predestinate. S. Paul uses a similar expression, Rom. ix. 3. Neither could he really desire or consent to be accursed, even for a time. Hence their words can be understood only as an hyperbole, to denote the excess of their love for their brethren, as if a child should say to his father, Pardon my brother, or kill me. T.—He is willing to die for his people. See Num.

34 But go thou, and lead this people whither I have told thee : my angel shall go before thee. And I in the day of revenge will visit this sin also of theirs.

35 The Lord therefore struck the people for the guilt, on occasion of the calf which Aaron had made.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The people mourn for their sin. Moses pitcheth the tabernacle without the camp. He converseth familiarly with God. Desireth to see his glory.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses, saying : Go, get thee up from this place, thou and thy people which thou hast brought out of the land of Egypt, into the land concerning which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying :^b To thy seed I will give it :

2 And I will send an angel before thee, that I may cast out the "Chanaanite, and the Amorrhite, and the Hethite, and the Pherezite, and the Hevite, and the Jebuzite,

3 That thou mayst enter into the land that floweth with milk and honey. For I will not go up with thee,* because thou art a stiff-necked people ; lest I destroy thee in the way.

4 And the people hearing these very bad tidings, mourned : and no man put on his ornaments according to custom.

5 And the Lord said to Moses : Say to the children of Israel : Thou art a stiff-necked people, once I shall come up in the midst of thee, and shall destroy thee. Now presently lay aside thy ornaments, that I may know what to do to thee.

6 So the children of Israel laid aside their ornaments by Mount Horeb.

7 Moses also taking the tabernacle, pitched it without the camp afar off, and called the name thereof, The tabernacle of the covenant. And all the people, that had any question, went forth to the tabernacle of the covenant, without the camp.

^d Deut. vii. 22 ; Jos. xxiv. 11.—^e Supra, xxxii. 9 ; Deut. ix. 13.

xi. 15 ; S. Greg. Mor. x. 7 ; S. Jer. ad Algas.—This sense is very good, and sufficiently expresses the fervour of Moses. Greater love than this no man hath. John xv. 13.

VER. 33. Book : him will I slay ; and, if he die impenitent, I will punish him for ever. H.

VER. 35. Struck, with some judgment, not specified (Lyrar.) ; or perhaps, the various punishments which were inflicted on the Hebrews in the wilderness were all partly designed to chastise this first act of idolatry. Calmet explains this of the devastation caused by the Levites, as he supposes the narration of Moses does not observe the order of time. He thinks Moses expostulated with the people, and was then sent by God to punish them ; and while they were unarmed, (chap. xxxiii. 5,) the Levites fell upon them. Then Moses removed the tabernacle out of the camp, and obtained of God that he would go before them, and not an angel only, ver. 34 ; chap. xxxiii. 17. Moses continued full forty days, standing or lying prostrate on the mount, before the Lord, to obtain the pardon of his people. Deut. ix. 25 ; x. 10. At the expiration of which term he returned, with an order to prepare two other tables of stone, on which, after a supplication of the same length of time, he obtained the law to be again engraven. Chap. xxxiv. 28.

CHAP. XXXIII. VER. 1. This place. Mount Sinai (M.) or the tabernacle, ver. 7. C.

VER. 4. Ornaments. Chal. and Syr. "arms." They had brought jewels, &c. out of Egypt. M.

VER. 7. Tabernacle : not that which God had described, which was set up later, (chap. xl.) but one destined for public and private prayer. M.—Afar, a thousand yards. Thalmud and Villet.—Covenant ; or alliance, which God had entered into with the people. T.—The Heb. may signify, "of the assembly or congregation," because there the people met to hear the divine doctrine explained, and to offer up their prayers.—Camp. Thus were the people reminded of their excommunication, or separation, from the God whom they had so wantonly abandoned, and whose protection and presence were their only support and comfort. H.—The record of the covenant was also probably torn, as Moses was ordered to write it again. Chap. xxxiv. 27. T.

8 And when Moses went forth to the tabernacle, all the people rose up, and every one stood in the door of his pavilion, and they beheld the back of Moses, till he went into the tabernacle.

9 And when he was gone into the tabernacle of the covenant, the pillar of the cloud came down, and stood at the door, and he spoke with Moses.

10 And all saw that the pillar of the cloud stood at the door of the tabernacle. And they stood and worshipped at the doors of their tents.

11 And the Lord spoke to Moses face to face, as a man is wont to speak to his friend. And when he returned into the camp, his servant Josue, the son of Nun, a young man, departed not from the tabernacle.

12 And Moses said to the Lord: Thou commandest me to lead forth this people; and thou dost not let me know whom thou wilt send with me, especially whereas thou hast said: I know thee by name, and thou hast found favour in my sight.

13 If therefore I have found favour in thy sight, show me thy face, that I may know thee, and may find grace before thy eyes: look upon thy people this nation.

14 And the Lord said: My face shall go before thee, and I will give thee rest.

15 And Moses said: If thou thyself dost not go before, bring us not out of this place.

16 For how shall we be able to know, I and thy people, that we have found grace in thy sight, unless thou walk with us, that we may be glorified by all people that dwell upon the earth?

17 And the Lord said to Moses: This word also, which thou hast spoken, will I do; for thou hast found grace before me, and thee I have known by name.

18 And he said: Show me thy glory.

19 He answered: I will show thee all good, and I will proclaim in the name of the Lord before thee: and I will have mercy on whom I will, and I will be merciful to whom it shall please me.

• Rom. ix. 15.—b Deut. x. 1.—c Deut. v. 10;

20 And again he said: Thou canst not see my face: for man shall not see me, and live.

21 And again he said: Behold there is a place with me, and thou shalt stand upon the rock.

22 And when my glory shall pass, I will set thee in a hole of the rock, and protect thee with my right hand till I pass:

23 And I will take away my hand, and thou shalt see my back parts: but my face thou canst not see

CHAP. XXXIV.

The tables are renewed: all society with the Chanaanites is forbid: some precepts concerning the first-born, the sabbath, and other feasts. After forty days' fast, Moses returneth to the people with the commandments, and his face appearing horned with rays of light, he covereth it, whensoever he speaketh to the people.

AND after this he said: ^bHew thee two tables of stone like unto the former, and I will write upon them the words, which were in the tables, which thou brokest.

2 Be ready in the morning, that thou mayst forthwith go up into Mount Sinai, and thou shalt stand with me upon the top of the mount.

3 Let no man go up with thee, and let not any man be seen throughout all the mount; neither let the oxen nor the sheep feed over against it.

4 Then he cut out two tables of stone, such as had been before; and rising very early he went up into the Mount Sinai, as the Lord had commanded him, carrying with him the tables.

5 And when the Lord was come down in a cloud, Moses stood with him, calling upon the name of the Lord.

6 And when he passed before him, he said: O the Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, patient and of much compassion, and true,

7 'Who keepest mercy unto thousands: who takest away iniquity, and wickedness, and sin,' and no man of himself is innocent before thee. 'Who renderest the iniquity of the fathers to the children, and to the grand-children unto the third and fourth generation.

Jer. xxxii. 18.—d Psal. cxlii. 2.—e Deut. v. 9; Jer. xxxii. 18.

VER. 9. He spoke. The angel, conducting the pillar, spoke in God's name. M.

VER. 10. And worshipped. This the Sam. copy omits. The people bowed towards Moses and the angel. C.

VER. 11. Face to face. That is, in a most familiar manner. Though, as we learn from this very chapter, Moses could not see the face of the Lord. Ch.—The angel assumed a human form, (M.) which Moses knew could not fully display the majesty of God; and hence he begs to see his face, or his glory, (ver. 13, 18,) which God declares is impossible for any mortal to do, ver. 20. H.—He addresses him, however, with unusual condescension, and speaks to him without any ambiguity, "without any medium," as the Arab. expresses it. Other prophets were instructed by visions, and were filled with terror. Dan. x. 8. T.

VER. 12. To the Lord. This conversation probably took place on Mount Horeb, (ver. 22,) after God had threatened that he would not go up with the people. Chap. xxxii. 34. And here (ver. 3) Moses, considering that God would thus withdraw his special providence from his people, begins to expostulate with him; and first, having mentioned with gratitude the repeated kindnesses of God towards himself, he begs to be informed what angel shall accompany him, and then proceeds to beg that God would still show his wonted favour to the penitent Hebrews, and conduct them himself (as he had done before the transgression). We do not read before, that God said to Moses, I know thee by name (S. Aug. q. 193); but he had used that expression in some conversation with him, as he did afterwards, ver. 17. H.

VER. 13. Face. Heb. "way." Be thou our guide.—Thy people. Acknowledge them again. Moses begs not for any special favour for himself, but only for the Hebrews. Salien.

VER. 19. All good, that could reasonably be desired. C.—Divines dispute whether Moses saw the Divine essence. S. Tho. 1, p. q. 12, a. 11. M.—If he requested to do so now, it seems to be denied, ver. 20; John i. 17. T.—Proclaim, &c.

When I pass, I will repeat some of my glorious titles, and particularly that I am merciful. M.—Yet I will show mercy with discretion, and will punish some of you. C.

VER. 20. My face, even in my assumed form. M.—The effulgence would cause death, as was commonly believed. Gen. xiii. 16. To behold the Divine essence, we must be divested of our mortal body. 1 Cor. ii. 9. S. Greg. Naz. or 49. H.—Moses, therefore, did not see it on earth, though he had greater favours shown to him than the other prophets. Num. xii. 6. Theod. q. 68; S. Chrys. &c. W.

VER. 23. See my back parts. The Lord, by his angel, usually spoke to Moses in the pillar of the cloud, so that he could not see the glory of Him that spoke familiarly with him. In the vision here mentioned, he was allowed to see something of Him, in an assumed corporeal form. Ch.—The rock was Christ, (D.) in whose sacred humanity we discern, at a distance, the majesty of God. S. Aug. q. 154. By this wonderful vision, God was pleased to declare that he was appeased. H.

CHAP. XXXIV. VER. 1. Former. Deut. x. 1 adds, and come up to me into the mount, and I, &c. Here.

VER. 2. Go up. From these expressions we might infer, that God gave the order first on Mount Sinai, and repeated it to Moses in the tabernacle, the night before he commenced his third fast and supplication of 40 days. H.

VER. 6. He said. Some refer this to Moses; others, more probably, to God, who had promised, by this signal of the name of the Lord, to testify his presence. C.

VER. 7. Keepeth. So the Targum of Jerusalem reads. Heb. and Sept. have "keepeth."—No man, &c. All have sinned. Rom. iii. 23. Heb. "who will not clear the guilty," which is followed by the Chal. and Sept. God is a just Judge, who will assuredly punish the impenitent. Yet even in justice he will remember mercy, and will stop at the third and fourth generation, (C.) when the influence of the progenitors' example can have but small influence upon their descendants. If, however, they prove guilty, they must expect chastisement. Chap. xx. 6.

8 And Moses making haste, bowed down prostrate unto the earth, and adoring,

9 Said: If I have found grace in thy sight, O Lord, I beseech thee that thou wilt go with us, (for it is a stiff-necked people,) and take away our iniquities and sin, and possess us.

10 The Lord answered: 'I will make a covenant in the sight of all, I will do signs such as were never seen upon the earth, nor in any nations; that this people, in the midst of whom thou art, may see the terrible work of the Lord which I will do.

11 Observe all things which this day I command thee: I myself will drive out before thy face the Amorrhite, and the Chanaanite, and the Hethite, and the Pherezite, and the Hevite, and the Jebusite.

12 Beware thou never join in friendship with the inhabitants of that land, which may be thy ruin:

13 But destroy their altars, break their statues, and cut down their groves:

14 Adore not any strange god. The Lord his name is Jealous, he is a jealous God.

15 ^bMake no covenant with the men of those countries; lest, when they have committed fornication with their gods, and have adored their idols, some one call thee to eat of the things sacrificed.

16 Neither shalt thou take of their daughters a wife for thy son, lest after they themselves have committed fornication, they make thy sons also to commit fornication with their gods.

17 Thou shalt not make to thyself any molten gods.

18 Thou shalt keep the feast of the unleavened bread. Seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread, as I commanded thee in the time of the month of the new corn: for in the month of the spring time thou camest out from Egypt.

19 ^aAll of the male kind that openeth the womb, shall be mine. Of all beasts, both of oxen and of sheep, it shall be mine.

20 The firstling of an ass thou shalt redeem with a sheep: but if thou wilt not give a price for it, it shall be slain. The first-born of thy sons thou shalt redeem: nei ther shalt thou appear before me empty.

21 Six days shalt thou work, the seventh day thou shalt cease to plough and to reap.

22 ^cThou shalt keep the feast of weeks with the first fruits of the corn of thy wheat harvest, and the feast when the time of the year returneth that all things are laid in.

23 ^dThree times in the year all thy males shall appear in the sight of the almighty Lord the God of Israel.

24 For when I shall have taken away the nations from thy face, and shall have enlarged thy borders, no man shall lie in wait against thy land when thou shalt go up, and appear in the sight of the Lord thy God thrice in a year.

25 ^eThou shalt not offer the blood of my sacrifice upon leaven; neither shall there remain in the morning any thing of the victim of the solemnity of the Phase.

26 The first of the fruits of thy ground thou shalt offer in the house of the Lord thy God. ^fThou shalt not boil a kid in the milk of his dam.

27 And the Lord said to Moses: Write thee these words, by which I have made a covenant both with thee and with Israel.

28 And he was there with the Lord¹ forty days and forty nights: he neither ate bread nor drank water, and he wrote upon the tables^k the ten words of the covenant.

29 And when Moses came down from the Mount Sinai, he held the two tables of the testimony, and he knew not that his face was horned from the conversation of the Lord.

30 And Aaron and the children of Israel seeing the face of Moses horned, were afraid to come near.

31 And being called by him, they returned, both Aaron and the rulers of the congregation. And after that he spoke to them, 32 And all the children of Israel came to him: and he gave them in commandment all that he had heard of the Lord in Mount Sinai.

^a Deut. v. 2; Jer. xxxii. 40.—^b Supra, xxiii. 22; Deut. vii. 2.—^c 3 Kings xi. 2; Deut. vii. 3.
^d Supra, xiii. 2, 12, and xxii. 29.—^e Supra, xxiii. 15.

^f Supra, xxiii. 17; Deut. xvi. 16.—^g Supra, xxiii. 18, and 19.—^h Supra, xxiii. 19; Deut. xiv. 21.—ⁱ Supra, xxiv. 18; Deut. ix. 9, and 18.—^j Deut. iv. 23.

VER. 10. Covenant. The first had been made void by idolatry. C.—Notwithstanding the former threats, (chap. xxxiii. 3,) God here promises new benefits. W.

VER. 11. Observe, O my people, (M.) you who shall serve under Josue, when these promises shall be fulfilled. II.—The Sept. add the Gergesite to the list of people who should be expelled. But Lyran. thinks they are omitted in Hebrew, because they had already retired before the approach of the Hebrews. C.

VER. 13. Statues. Sept. have "pillars," and subjoin after groves, (unless it be another translation, as Grabe insinuates,) "you shall burn with fire the graven things of their gods."

VER. 14. Jealous. Like a husband, He will watch all your motions.

VER. 15. Covenant. The same word occurs here, as (ver. 12) in Heb. and Sept. H.—It relates chiefly to contracts of marriage, which God forbids the faithful to enter into with the Chanaanites, and with other idolatrous nations, lest they should follow their example. Solomon is reprehended for transgressing this law, (2 Kings xi. 1,) and such marriages are called abominations. 1 Esd. ix. 1; 2. 2. 16 Joseph.

VER. 16. Son. The Chal. and Sept. add, "nor give any of thy daughters to their sons." The most imminent dangers attend those women who have infidel husbands. H.—The intention of Moses, and the custom of the Hebrews, justly reprobated such marriages. C.

VER. 18. New corn. Heb. Abib the name of the month Nisan, which corresponds with our March and April.

VER. 22. Harvest. Pentecost.—Laid in, at the feast of tabernacles, in September. M.—The greatest solemnity of the Pass over is mentioned, ver. 18. H.

VER. 24. In wait. Heb. and Sept. "shall desire," C.—God engages to protect their land. M.

VER. 25. Sacrifice of the paschal lamb, to which the Chaldee properly restrains this verse. C.

VER. 26. Dam. Chal. "thou shalt not eat flesh with milk." See chap. xxiii. 19.

VER. 28. Wrote. God wrote on the tables, as he had promised, ver. 1. C.—Moses recorded all in this book, as he was ordered, ver. 27. S. Cyprian (de Sp. S.) and S. Augustine (q. 186) infer, however, from this text, that the second tables had not the same honour as the first. The contrary appears from Deut. x. 4, He (God) wrote . . . as before. Estius, Calmet, and Menoch. think the forty days here mentioned were those which Moses spent with God to obtain the people's pardon, and the law, at the same time. See chap. xxxii. 35.

VER. 29. Horned. That is, shining, and sending forth rays of light like horns. Ch.—Sept. "encircled with glory." S. Paul (2 Cor. iii. 7) says, the Hebrews could not look stedfastly at the face of Moses, on account of the glory of his countenance. Hence, he was forced to have a veil, which, the apostle observes, was not taken off from the old law till Christ appeared. The Jews are much enraged at some Christians, who have represented Moses with horns, as if, they say, he were a devil, or his wife an adulteress. Stacchus and Drusius.—Heb. "his skin was radiant" all over his face. These rays commanded respect and awe from the people, who had before said contemptuously, Moses—the man, (chap. xxxii. 1,) as they showed that God was with him. They had not appeared before, though he had often conversed with the Lord: but now, having seen the glorious vision, they adhered to him during the remainder of his life, particularly when he enforced the obligations of the law to the people. H.

33 And having done speaking, ^ahe put a veil upon his face.

34 But when he went in to the Lord, and spoke with him, he took it away until he came forth, and then he spoke to the children of Israel all things that had been commanded him.

35 And they saw that the face of Moses when he came out was horned, but he covered his face again, if at any time he spoke to them.

CHAP. XXXV.

The sabbath. Offerings for making the tabernacle. Beseleel and Ooliab are called to the work.

AND all the multitude of the children of Israel being gathered together, ^bhe said to them: These are the things which the Lord hath commanded to be done:

2 Six days you shall do work; the seventh day shall be holy unto you, the sabbath and the rest of the Lord: he that shall do any work on it, shall be put to death.

3 You shall kindle no fire in any of your habitations on the sabbath day.

4 And Moses said to all the assembly of the children of Israel: This is the word the Lord hath commanded, saying:

5 Set aside with you first-fruits to the Lord. Let every one that is willing and hath a ready heart, offer them to the Lord: gold, and silver, and brass,

6 Violet and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine linen, goats' hair,

7 And rams' skins dyed red, and violet-coloured skins, setim-wood,

8 And oil to maintain lights, and to make ointment, and most sweet incense,

9 Onyx stones, and precious stones, for the adorning of the ephod and the rational.

10 Whosoever of you is wise, let him come, and make that which the Lord hath commanded:

11 To wit, the tabernacle, and the roof thereof, and the cover, the rings, and the board-work with the bars, the pillars and the sockets:

12 The ark and the staves, the propitiatory, and the veil that is drawn before it:

13 The table with the bars and the vessels, and the loaves of proposition:

14 The candlestick to bear up the lights, the vessels thereof and the lamps, and the oil for the nourishing of fires:

15 The altar of incense, and the bars, and the oil of unction, and the incense of spices: the hanging at the door of the tabernacle:

^a 2 Cor. iii. 13.—^b A. M. 2513.

VER. 33. And having, &c. At first, he spoke uncovered. M.—The Protestants insert the word till in Italics, to insinuate that Moses spoke with a veil on, as S. Paul mentions (H.); and Calmet would translate, "for Moses had ceased to address the people, and had put a veil upon his face," as soon as he perceived that they could not bear the blaze of his countenance. This he did out of modesty, that they might not be afraid of coming to speak freely to him, (Jansenius,) though it was also mysterious, as S. Paul remarks. For even until this day, when Moses is read, the veil is upon their heart, 2 Cor. iii. 15. W.

CHAP. XXXV. VER. 2. Sabbath. The frequent repetition of this precept cannot escape the notice of the attentive reader. The sabbath was a distinctive mark of the Jews, and was generally observed by them with the utmost care, and 16 The altar of holocaust, and its grate of brass, with the bars and vessels thereof: the laver and its foot:

17 The curtains of the court, with the pillars and the sockets, the hanging in the doors of the entry:

18 The pins of the tabernacle, and of the court, with their little cords:

19 The vestments that are to be used in the ministry of the sanctuary, the vesture of Aaron the high priest, and of his sons, to do the office of priesthood to me.

20 And all the multitude of the children of Israel going out from the presence of Moses,

21 Offered first-fruits to the Lord with a most ready and devout mind, to make the work of the tabernacle of the testimony. Whatsoever was necessary to the service and to the holy vestments, 22 Both men and women gave bracelets and ear-rings, rings and tablets: every vessel of gold was set aside to be offered to the Lord.

23 If any man had violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, red, and violet-coloured skins, 24 Metal of silver and brass, they offered it to the Lord, and setim-wood for divers uses.

25 The skilful women also gave such things as they had spun, violet, purple, and scarlet, and fine linen, 26 And goats' hair, giving all of their own accord.

27 But the princes offered onyx stones, and precious stones, for the ephod and the rational,

28 And spices and oil for the lights, and for the preparing of ointment, and to make the incense of most sweet savour.

29 All, both men and women, with devout mind offered gifts, that the works might be done which the Lord had commanded by the hand of Moses. All the children of Israel dedicated voluntary offerings to the Lord.

30 And Moses said to the children of Israel: Behold, the Lord hath called by name Beseleel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Juda.

31 And hath filled him with the spirit of God, with wisdom and understanding, and knowledge, and all learning.

32 To devise and to work in gold and silver and brass,

33 And in engraving stones, and in carpenters' work. Whatsoever can be devised artificially,

34 He hath given in his heart: Ooliab also, the son of Achisamech, of the tribe of Dan:

35 Both of them hath he instructed with wisdom, to do carpenters' work, and tapestry, and embroidery in blue and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine linen, and to weave all things, and to invent all new things.

^c Supra, xxv. 2.—^d Supra, xxxi. 2.

even with scrupulosity. H.—They were not allowed to do on it any thing that had the appearance of servility, if it could be avoided without serious inconveniences. But in any urgent necessity of the sick, &c., they might provide meat, and do other work, that could not be done before. They might also repel an enemy, water cattle, &c.

VER. 19. Vestments, in which the vessels of the tabernacle were folded up. Vatable.

VER. 22. And women, by the hands of their husbands, as the Heb. and Sept. intimate.—Tablets, (dextralia,) ornaments worn on the right hand or arm.

VER. 25. Spun. The wool, it seems, was dyed first, unless it were naturally of these colours. See chap. xxv. 5. C.

CHAP. XXXVI.

The offerings are delivered to the workmen: the curtains, coverings, boards, bars, veil, pillars, and hanging are made.

BESELEEL therefore, and Ooliab, "and every wise man, to whom the Lord gave wisdom and understanding, to know how to work artificially, made^b the things that are necessary for the uses of the sanctuary, and which the Lord commanded.

2 "And when Moses had called them, and every skilful man, to whom the Lord had given wisdom, and such as of their own accord had offered themselves to the making of the work.

3 He delivered all the offerings of the children of Israel unto them. And while they were earnest about the work, the people daily in the morning offered their vows.

4 Whereupon the workmen being constrained to come,

5 Said to Moses: The people offereth more than is necessary.

6 Moses therefore commanded proclamation to be made by the crier's voice: Let neither man nor woman offer any more for the work of the sanctuary. And so they ceased from offering gifts,

7 Because the things that were offered did suffice, and were too much.

8 And all the men that were wise of heart, to accomplish the work of the tabernacle, made ten curtains of twisted fine linen, and violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, with varied work, and the art of embroidering:

9 The length of one curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the breadth four: all the curtains were of the same size

10 And he joined five curtains, one to another, and the other five he coupled one to another.

11 He made also loops of violet in the edge of one curtain on both sides, and in the edge of the other curtain in like manner,

12 That the loops might meet one against another, and might be joined each with the other.

13 Whereupon also he cast fifty rings of gold, that might catch the loops of the curtains, and they might be made one tabernacle.

14 He made also eleven curtains of goats' hair, to cover the roof of the tabernacle:

15 One curtain was thirty cubits long, and four cubits broad: all the curtains were of one measure.

16 Five of which he joined apart, and the other six apart.

17 And he made fifty loops in the edge of one curtain, and fifty in the edge of another curtain, that they might be joined one to another.

18 And fifty buckles of brass wherewith the roof might be knit together, that of all the curtains there might be made one covering.

19 He made also a cover for the tabernacle of rams' skins dyed red; and another cover over that of violet skins.

20 He made also the boards of the tabernacle of setim wood standing.

21 The length of one board was ten cubits; and the breadth was one cubit and a half.

22 There were two mortises throughout every board, that one might be joined to the other. And in this manner he made for all the boards of the tabernacle.

23 Of which twenty were at the south-side southward,

24 With forty sockets of silver, two sockets were put under one board on the two sides of the corners, where the mortises of the sides end in the corners.

25 At that side also of the tabernacle that looketh towards the north, he made twenty boards, 26 With forty sockets of silver, two sockets for every board.

27 But against the west, to wit, at that side of the tabernacle which looketh to the sea, he made six boards,

28 And two others at each corner of the tabernacle behind:

29 Which were also joined from beneath unto the top, and went together into one joint. Thus he did on both sides at the corners:

30 So there were in all eight boards, and they had sixteen sockets of silver, to wit, two sockets under every board.

31 He made also bars of setim-wood, five to hold together the boards of one side of the tabernacle, 32 And five others to join together the boards of the other side; and besides these, five other bars at the west side of the tabernacle towards the sea.

33 He made also another bar, that might come by the midst of the boards from corner to corner.

34 And the board-work itself he overlaid with gold. And their rings he made of gold, through which the bars might be drawn: and he covered the bars themselves with plates of gold.

35 He made also a veil of violet, and purple, scarlet, and fine twisted linen, varied and distinguished with embroidery:

36 And four pillars of setim-wood, which with their heads he overlaid with gold, casting for them sockets of silver.

37 He made also a hanging in the entry of the tabernacle of violet, purple, scarlet, and fine twisted linen, with the work of an embroiderer.

38 And five pillars with their heads, which he covered with gold, and their sockets he cast of brass.

^a Supra, xxvi. 1.—^b A. M. 2514.

^c 1 Par. xxi. 29.

CHAP. XXXVI. VER. 3. Foras, or voluntary oblations to Moses, according to the Heb. C.—These donations are called first-fruits, because they were the best of all things, and the first offerings that were made by the people in the desert. T.—They show great alacrity in performing this action, as it was to make some atonement for their liberality in honour of the golden calf. H.—But as matter alone will not suffice, unless it be properly managed, so neither will the letter of the Scripture instruct us, unless God teach us, by his pastors. Eph. iv. 11. W.—From this place to the end, the Roman edition of the Sept. is very confused.

That of Alcala agrees better with the Vulgate than the Alexandrian or Athene See Grabe. Almost all the three following chapters might be comprised in three words. The workmen did all according to God's prescription. Moses perhaps gave them plans of what each was to execute; and hence Calmet accounts for these repetitions. H.

VER. 33. Bar, not mentioned, (chap. xxvi. 28,) but specified by Josephus (iii. 6,) at the west end of the tabernacle, going across the breadth of the plank. Tostat.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Beseleel maketh the ark: the propitiatory, and cherubims, the table, the candlestick, the lamps, and the altar of incense, and compoundeth the incense.

AND Beseleel made^a also, the ark of setim-wood: it was two cubits and a half in length, and a cubit and a half in breadth, and the height was of one cubit and a half: and he overlaid it with the purest gold within and without.

2 And he made to it a crown of gold round about,

3 Casting four rings of gold at the four corners thereof: two rings in one side, and two in the other.

4 And he made bars of setim-wood, which he overlaid with gold,

5 And he put them into the rings that were at the sides of the ark to carry it.

6 He made also the propitiatory, that is, the oracle, of the purest gold, two cubits and a half in length, and a cubit and a half in breadth.

7 Two cherubims also of beaten gold, which he set on the two sides of the propitiatory:

8 One cherub in the top of one side, and the other cherub in the top of the other side: two cherubims at the two ends of the propitiatory,

9 Spreading their wings, and covering the propitiatory, and looking one towards the other, and towards it.

10 He made also the table of setim-wood, in length two cubits, and in breadth one cubit, and in height it was a cubit and a half.

11 And he overlaid it with the finest gold, and he made to it a golden ledge round about,

12 And to the ledge itself he made a polished crown of gold, of four fingers breadth, and upon the same another golden crown.

13 And he cast four rings of gold, which he put in the four corners at each foot of the table, 14 Over against the crown: and he put the bars into them, that the table might be carried.

15 And the bars also themselves he made of setim-wood, and overlaid them with gold.

16 And the vessels for the divers uses of the table, dishes, bowls, and cups, and censers of pure gold, wherein the libations are to be offered.

17 He made also the candlestick of beaten work of the finest gold. From the shaft whereof its branches, its cups, and bowls, and lilies came out:

18 Six on the two sides: three branches on one side, and three on the other.

19 Three cups in manner of a nut on each branch, and bowls withal and lilies: and three cups of the fashion of a nut in another branch, and bowls withal and lilies. The work of the six branches, that went out from the shaft of the candlestick, was equal.

^a A. M. 2514, A. C. 1490.—^b A. M. 2514.

CHAP. XXXVII. VER. 1. Half, duos semis cubitos, ver. 6, and chap. xxv. 10. T.

VER. 9. Covering . . This indicated that the Scriptures were to be studied with diligence, as they have a literal and a mystical sense. S. Greg. Nys.

VER. 14. Over against, or under, Chap. xxv. 27. T.

VER. 16. Censers. Heb. Kossuth means broad deep dishes or bowls. C.

20 And in the shaft itself were four cups after the manner of a nut, and bowls withal at every one, and lilies:

21 And bowls under two branches in three places, which together make six branches going out from one shaft.

22 So both the bowls and the branches were of the same, all beaten work of the purest gold.

23 He made also the seven lamps with their snuffers, and the vessels where the snuffings were to be put out, of the purest gold.

24 The candlestick with all the vessels thereof weighed a talent of gold.

25 He made also the altar of incense of setim-wood, being a cubit on every side four-square, and in height two cubits: from the corners of which went out horns.

26 And he overlaid it with the purest gold, with its grate, and the sides, and the horns.

27 And he made to it a crown of gold round about, and two golden rings under the crown at each side, that the bars might be put into them, and the altar be carried.

28 And the bars themselves he made also of setim-wood, and overlaid them with plates of gold.

29 He compounded also the oil for the ointment of sanctification, and incense of the purest spices, according to the work of a perfumer.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

He maketh the altar of holocaust. The brazen laver. The court with its pillars and hangings. The sum of what the people offered.

HE made^b also the altar^c of holocaust of setim-wood, five cubits square, and three in height:

2 The horns whereof went out from the corners, and he overlaid it with plates of brass.

3 And for the uses thereof, he prepared divers vessels of brass, cauldrons, tongs, flesh-hooks, pot-hooks, and fire-pans.

4 And he made the grate thereof of brass, in manner of a net, and under it in the midst of the altar a hearth,

5 Casting four rings at the four ends of the net at the top, to put in bars to carry it:

6 And he made the bars of setim-wood, and overlaid them with plates of brass:

7 And he drew them through the rings that stood out in the sides of the altar.^d And the altar itself was not solid, but hollow, of boards, and empty within.

8 He made also the laver of brass, with the foot thereof, of the mirrors of the women that watched at the door of the tabernacle.

9 He made also the court, in the south side whereof were hangings of fine twisted linen of a hundred cubits.

10 Twenty pillars of brass with their sockets, the heads of the pillars, and the whole graving of the work, of silver.

^a 2 Par. i. 5.—^d Supra, xxvii. 8.

CHAP. XXXVIII. VER. 8. Mirrors. Formerly all sorts of metal, silver, copper, tin, &c., were used for mirrors, till the Europeans began to make them of glass. The best were made of a mixture of copper and tin. Plin. xxxiii. 9.—Watched. Heb. served like soldiers: fasting and praying, according to the Sept and Chal. Such were the virgins, mentioned 2 Mac. iii. 19. Ann. the prophetess, and our blessed Lady, were thus also employed in the temple. Luke ii. 37. C.

11 In like manner at the north side the hangings, the pillars, and the sockets and heads of the pillars were of the same measure, and work and metal.

12 But on that side that looketh to the west, there were hangings of fifty cubits, ten pillars of brass with their sockets, and the heads of the pillars, and all the graving of the work, of silver.

13 Moreover, towards the east he prepared hangings of fifty cubits:

14 Fifteen cubits of which were on one side, with three pillars, and their sockets:

15 And on the other side (for between the two he made the entry of the tabernacle) there were hangings equally of fifteen cubits, and three pillars, and as many sockets.

16 All the hangings of the court were woven with twisted linen.

17 The sockets of the pillars were of brass, and their heads with all their gravings of silver: and he overlaid the pillars of the court also with silver.

18 And he made in the entry thereof an embroidered hanging of violet, purple, scarlet, and fine twisted linen, that was twenty cubits long, and five cubits high, according to the measure of all the hangings of the court.

19 And the pillars in the entry were four, with sockets of brass, and their heads and gravings of silver.

20 The pins also of the tabernacle and of the court round about he made of brass.

21 These are the instruments of the tabernacle of the testimony, which were counted according to the commandment of Moses, in the ceremonies of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest:

22 Which Beseleel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur of the tribe of Juda, had made, as the Lord commanded Moses,

23 Having for his companion Ooliab, the son of Achisamech, of the tribe of Dan: who also was an excellent artificer in wood, and worker in tapestry and embroidery in violet, purple, scarlet, and fine linen.

24 All the gold that was spent in the work of the sanctuary, and that was offered in gifts, was nine and twenty talents, and seven hundred and thirty sicles according to the standard of the sanctuary.

25 And it was offered by them that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upwards, of six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty men able to bear arms.

26 There were moreover a hundred talents of silver, whereof were cast the sockets of the sanctuary, and of the entry where the veil hangeth.

• A. M. 2514.

VER. 17. The, &c. Some render the Heb. "The bases of the pillars were of brass, the hooks of the pillars and the circles were of silver, their chapters were covered with silver." H.

VER. 21. Ithamar, some time after this, (Num. i. 50,) was appointed to deliver the necessary vessels to the Levites; part of whose duty it was to take down the tabernacle and set it up again, and to keep an account of all things. M.

VER. 25. And it, &c. Heb. is rather more express, "And the silver given by those who were numbered, was a hundred talents, 1775 sicles of the weight of the sanctuary, ver. 26. They gave each half a siele, paid by all those who were 20 years old and upwards, amounting to 603,550 men." Hence the talent would 27 A hundred sockets were made of a hundred talents, one talent being reckoned for every socket.

28 And of the thousand seven hundred and seventy-five he made the heads of the pillars, which also he overlaid with silver.

29 And there were offered of brass also seventy-two thousand talents, and four hundred sicles besides,

30 Of which were cast the sockets in the entry of the tabernacle of the testimony, and the altar of brass with the grate thereof, and all the vessels that belong to the use thereof.

31 And the sockets of the court as well round about as in the entry thereof, and the pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about.

CHAP. XXXIX.

All the ornaments of Aaron and his sons are made. And the whole work of the tabernacle is finished.

AND he made,* of violet and purple, scarlet and fine linen, the vestments^b for Aaron to wear when he ministered in the holy places, as the Lord commanded Moses.

2 So he made an ephod of gold, violet, and purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen,

3 With embroidered work, and he cut thin plates of gold, and drew them small into threads, that they might be twisted with the woof of the foresaid colours,

4 And two borders coupled one to the other in the top on either side,

5 And a girdle of the same colours, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

6 He prepared also two onyx stones, fast set and closed in gold, and graven, by the art of a lapidary, with the names of the children of Israel:

7 And he set them in the sides of the ephod, for a memorial of the children of Israel, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

8 He made also a rational with embroidered work, according to the work of the ephod, of gold, violet, purple, and scarlet twice dyed, and fine twisted linen:

9 Four-square, double, of the measure of a span.

10 And he set four rows of precious stones in it. In the first row was a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald.

11 In the second, a carbuncle, a sapphire, and a jasper.

12 In the third, a ligurius, an agate, and an amethyst.

13 In the fourth, a chrysolite, an onyx, and a beryl, set and enclosed in gold by their rows.

14 And the twelve stones were engraved with the names of the twelve tribes of Israel, each one with its several name.

• Supra, xxviii. 6.

weigh exactly 3000 sicles, (C.) or 12,000 drachmas. Some say that the common talent weighed 100 pounds, and that of the sanctuary 120, each pound containing 25 sicles. D.

VER. 29. Seventy. Heb. confines the number of talents to 70, and allows "two thousand and four hundred sicles." The Greek interpreters vary.

CHAP. XXXIX. VER. 1. Vestments. Heb. distinguishes "the clothes of service" destined to fold up the tabernacle and vessels, from "the holy garments for Aaron."

VER. 3. Threads. Heb. "wires to work it in the blue . . . with cunning work." The ancients had the art of beating gold into thin plates, with which they adorned the horns of their victims, &c. Æneid iv. See Num. xvi. 58. C.

15 They made also in the rational little chains, linked one to another, of the purest gold,

16 And two hooks, and as many rings of gold. And they set the rings on either side of the rational,

17 On which rings the two golden chains should hang, which they put into the hooks that stood out in the corners of the ephod.

18 These both before and behind so answered one another, that the ephod and the rational were bound together, 19 Being fastened to the girdle, and strongly coupled with rings, which a violet fillet joined, lest they should flag loose, and be moved one from the other, as the Lord commanded Moses.

20 They made also the tunic of the ephod all of violet,

21 And a hole for the head in the upper part at the middle, and a woven border round about the hole:

22 And beneath at the feet pomegranates of violet, purple, scarlet, and fine twisted linen:

23 And little bells of the purest gold, which they put between the pomegranates at the bottom of the tunic round about:

24 To wit, a bell of gold, and a pomegranate, wherewith the high priest went adorned, when he discharged his ministry, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

25 They made also fine linen tunics with woven work for Aaron and his sons:

26 And mitres with their little crowns of fine linen:

27 And linen breeches of fine linen:

28 And a girdle of fine twisted linen, violet, purple, and scarlet twice dyed, of embroidery work, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

29 They made also the plate of sacred veneration of the purest gold, and they wrote on it with the engraving of a lapidary: The Holy of the Lord:

30 And they fastened it to the mitre with a violet fillet, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

31 So all the work of the tabernacle and of the roof of the testimony was finished: and the children of Israel did all things which the Lord had commanded Moses.

32 And they offered the tabernacle, and the roof, and the whole furniture, the rings, the boards, the bars, the pillars and their sockets,

33 The cover of rams' skins dyed red, and the other cover of violet skins,

34 The veil, the ark, the bars, the propitiatory,

35 The table, with the vessels thereof, and the loaves of proposition:

36 The candlestick, the lamps, and the furniture of them, with the oil:

37 The altar of gold, and the ointment, and the incense of spices:

38 And the hanging in the entry of the tabernacle:

^a Supra, xxv. 35; Lev. viii. 2.

39 The altar of brass, the grate, the bars, and all the vessels thereof: the laver, with the foot thereof: the hangings of the court, and the pillars, with their sockets:

40 The hanging in the entry of the court, and the little cords, and the pins thereof. Nothing was wanting of the vessels, that were commanded to be made for the ministry of the tabernacle, and for the roof of the covenant.

41 The vestments also, which the priests, to wit, Aaron and his sons, use in the sanctuary, 42 The children of Israel offered, as the Lord had commanded.

43 And when Moses saw all things finished, he blessed them.

CHAP. XL.

The tabernacle is commanded to be set up and anointed. God filleth it with his majesty.

AND the Lord spoke to Moses, saying:

2 The first month, the first day of the month, thou shalt set up the tabernacle of the testimony,

3 And shalt put the ark in it, and shalt let down the veil before it:

4 And thou shalt bring in the table, and set upon it the things that are commanded according to the rite. The candlestick shall stand with its lamps,

5 And the altar of gold, whereon the incense is burnt before the ark of the testimony. Thou shalt put the hanging in the entry of the tabernacle,

6 And before it the altar of holocaust:

7 The laver between the altar and the tabernacle, and thou shalt fill it with water.

8 And thou shalt encompass the court with hangings, and the entry thereof.

9 And thou shalt take the oil of unction and anoint the tabernacle with its vessels, that they may be sanctified:

10 The altar of holocaust and all its vessels:

11 The laver with its foot: thou shalt consecrate all with the oil of unction, that they may be most holy.

12 And thou shalt bring Aaron and his sons to the door of the tabernacle of the testimony, and having washed them with water, 13 Thou shalt put on them the holy vestments, that they may minister to me, and that the unction of them may prosper to an everlasting priesthood.

14 And Moses did all that the Lord had commanded.

15 So in the first month of the second year,^b the first day of the month, the tabernacle was set up.

16 And Moses reared it up, and placed the boards and the sockets and the bars, and set up the pillars.

17 And spread the roof over the tabernacle, putting over it a cover, as the Lord had commanded.

18 And he put the testimony in the ark, thrusting bars underneath, and the oracle above.

^b A. M. 2514.—^c Num. vii. 1.

VER. 24. Pomegranate, alternately. Chap. xxviii. T.

VER. 27. Of fine linen, or cotton, and of common linen, as Pollux describes it.

VER. 29. Veneration, of which it was deserving. Heb. "the crown of holiness." It reminded the high priest of his consecration to the Lord, and of the sanctity with which he ought to appear before him.

VER. 43. Finished, exactly according to God's prescriptions.—Blessed them, the people, who had contributed so liberally; and the workmen, who had performed their task so much to his satisfaction. C.—He also blessed the sacred vessels, as they were destined for the worship of God. H.

CHAP. XL. VER. 2. Month of the second year, ver. 15. The first day of every month was kept with some degree of solemnity, though it was not a day of rest. Num. xxxiii. 11; 1 Kings xx. 5, &c. C.

VER. 13. Priesthood. Heb. "And thou shalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, and anoint him, and sanctify him, that he may serve me in the priest's 19 And when he had brought the ark into the tabernacle, he drew the veil before it to fulfil the commandment of the Lord.

20 And he set the table in the tabernacle of the testimony, at the north side, without the veil, 21 Setting there in order the loaves of proposition, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

22 He set the candlestick also in the tabernacle of the testimony, over against the table on the south side, 23 Placing the lamps in order, according to the precept of the Lord.

24 He set also the altar of gold under the roof of the testimony, over against the veil,

25 And burnt upon it the incense of spices, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

26 And he put also the hanging in the entry of the tabernacle of the testimony,

27 And the altar of holocaust of the entry of the testimony, offering the holocaust, and the sacrifices upon it, as the Lord had commanded.

^a Num. ix. 15;

office: (14) and thou shalt bring his sons, and put on them their tunics; (15) and thou shalt anoint them, as thou didst anoint their father, that they may perform the office of priests to me for ever, in their generations."

VER. 18. Testimony, or tables of the law. C.

VER. 24. Roof, covering both the holy of holies and the sanctuary. M.

VER. 32. Glory. The cloud which had rested over the tent appointed for 28 And he set the laver between the tabernacle of the testimony and the altar, filling it with water.

29 And Moses and Aaron, and his sons, washed their hands and feet, 30 When they went into the tabernacle of the covenant, and went to the altar, as the Lord had commanded Moses.

31 He set up also the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, drawing the hanging in the entry thereof. After all things were perfected, 32 "The cloud covered the tabernacle of the testimony, and the glory of the Lord filled it.

33 Neither could Moses go into the tabernacle of the covenant, the cloud covering all things, and the majesty of the Lord shining, for the cloud had covered all.

34 If at any time the cloud removed from the tabernacle, the children of Israel went forward by their troops:

35 If it hung over, they remained in the same place.

36 For the cloud of the Lord hung over the tabernacle by day, and a fire by night, in the sight of all the children of Israel throughout all their mansions.

3 Kings viii. 10.

prayer, came now to the grand tabernacle, in the midst of the camp. C.—By its superior lustre, it signified that the glory of God was there. S. Aug. q. 173.

VER. 33. Moses, out of respect, abstained from entering that day. C.

VER. 36. A fire. The same cloud overshadowed the camp by day, and enlightened it by night. Chal. Chap. xx. 22

THE BOOK OF LEVITICUS.

This Book is called LEVITICUS, because it treats of the offices, ministries, rites, and ceremonies of the Priests, and Levites. The Hebrews call it VAICRA, from the word with which it begins, (Ch.) "and (the Lord) called." The a at the end of this word is printed in a smaller size, to insinuate that little children should begin to read this Book first, if we may give any credit to those who attempt to account for all the irregularities sanctioned by the great Massora! But such irregular letters are the faults of some transcribers, and are of no authority. Kennicott Dis. 1.—This Book is styled also, "the Priests' law." H.—The seven first chapters explain the sacrifices; the sixteen next, the offices and ordination of the Priests and Levites. From the 23rd chapter to the end, the feasts are designated, and some regulations respecting vows are interspersed. All these rites and sacrifices foreshadowed the eucharistic sacrifice of Jesus Christ, (S. Leo ser. 8, de pas. Trid. ses. 22, c. 1.) and tended to keep the Hebrews employed, and at a greater distance from idolatry. S. Jer. on Isai. i., &c.—These prescriptions were given during the month of Nisan, in the second year after the exit, while the Hebrews remained at the foot of Mount Sinai. God spoke from the new tabernacle. T.—In the Book of Deuteronomy we find but few regulations respecting sacrifices, as Moses had sufficiently explained them in this Book. D.—If we confine ourselves to the letter, we may say these precepts are not good, and carnal (Ezec. xx. 25; Heb. vii. 16); but if we consider the spirit, we shall confess that they are excellent, and spiritual. Rom. vii. 14; 2 Cor. iii. 6. Orig. e. Cels. vii. C.

CHAPTER I.

Of holocausts or burnt-offerings.

AND the Lord called Moses,^a and spoke to him from the tabernacle of the testimony, saying:

2 Speak to the children of Israel, and thou shalt say to them: The man among you that shall offer to the Lord

^a A. M. 2514, A. C. 1490.

CHAP. I. VER. 2. Offer, voluntarily, without any command. Some sacrifices were of precept. Exod. xxii. 29. M.—Oxen, goats, and sheep, pigeons, and turtles, were to be offered in sacrifice, and small birds also, in the purification of lepers, (chap. xiv. 4,) as they might easily be procured. C.—By sacrifice, we testify the dominion of God over all. Sheep and goats, ver. 10. The same term, taun, signifies both. M.

VER. 3. A holocaust. That is, a whole burnt-offering (olocauston); so called, because the whole victim was consumed with fire; and given in such manner to God as wholly to evaporate, as it were, for his honour and glory; without having any part of it reserved for the use of man. The other sacrifices of the Old Testament were either offerings for sin, or peace-offerings: and these latter again were either offered in thanksgiving for blessings received, or by way of a sacrifice of the cattle, that is, offering victims of oxen and sheep,

3^b If his offering be a holocaust, and of the herd, he shall offer a male without blemish, at the door of the testimony, to make the Lord favourable to him:

4 And he shall put his hand upon the head of the ^b Exod. xxix. 10.

prayer for new favours or graces. So that sacrifices were then offered to God for four different ends or intentions, answerable to the different obligations which man has to God: 1. By way of adoration, homage, praise, and glory, due to his Divine Majesty. 2. By way of thanksgiving for all benefits received from him. 3. By way of confessing and craving pardon for sins. 4. By way of prayer and petition for grace and relief in all necessities. In the New Law we have but one sacrifice, viz. that of the body and blood of Christ: but this one sacrifice of the New Testament perfectly answers all these four ends; and both priest and people, as often as it is celebrated, ought to join in offering it up for these four ends. Ch. S. Aug. de C. D. viii. 17. S. Chrys. in Psal. xev.

VER. 4. Victim. To transfer all the curses due to him upon it, (Eus. Dem. i. 10,) and to testify that he gives it up entirely for the honour of God. Lyran.

victim, and it shall be acceptable, and help to his expiation.

5 And he shall immolate the calf before the Lord, and the priests, the sons of Aaron, shall offer the blood thereof, pouring it round about the altar, which is before the door of the tabernacle :

6 And when they have flayed the victim, they shall cut the joints into pieces,

7 And shall put fire on the altar, having before laid in order a pile of wood :

8 And they shall lay the parts that are cut out in order thereupon, to wit, the head, and all things that cleave to the liver,

9 The entrails and feet being washed with water : and the priest shall burn them upon the altar for a holocaust, and a sweet savour to the Lord.

10 And if the offering be of the flocks, a holocaust of sheep or of goats, he shall offer a male without blemish :

11 And he shall immolate it at the side of the altar that looketh to the north, before the Lord : but the sons of Aaron shall pour the blood thereof upon the altar round about :

12 And they shall divide the joints, the head, and all that cleave to the liver : and shall lay them upon the wood, under which the fire is to be put :

13 But the entrails and the feet they shall wash with water. And the priest shall offer it all, and burn it all upon the altar for a holocaust, and most sweet savour to the Lord.

14 But if the oblation of a holocaust to the Lord be of birds, of turtles, or of young pigeons, 15 The priest shall offer it at the altar : and twisting back the neck, and breaking the place of the wound, he shall make the blood run down upon the brim of the altar.

16 But the crop of the throat and the feathers he shall cast beside the altar at the east side, in the place where the ashes are wont to be poured out ;

17 And he shall break the pinions thereof, and shall not cut, nor divide it with a knife, and shall burn it upon the altar, putting fire under the wood. It is a holocaust and oblation of most sweet savour to the Lord.

CHAP. II.

Of offerings of flour, and first-fruits.

WHEN *any one shall offer an oblation of sacrifice to the Lord, his offering shall be of fine flour, and he shall pour oil upon it, and put frankincense,

2 And shall bring it to the sons of Aaron, the priests : and one of them shall take a handful of the flour and oil, and all the frankincense, and shall put it a memorial upon the altar, for a most sweet savour to the Lord.

3 *And the remnant of the sacrifice shall be Aaron's, and his sons', holy of holies of the offerings of the Lord.

4 But when thou offerest a sacrifice baked in the oven of flour, to wit, loaves without leaven, tempered with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil :

5 If thy oblation be from the frying-pan, of flour tempered with oil, and without leaven,

6 Thou shalt divide it into little pieces, and shalt pour oil upon it.

7 And if the sacrifice be from the gridiron, in like manner the flour shall be tempered with oil :

8 And when thou offerest it to the Lord, thou shalt deliver it to the hands of the priest.

9 And when he hath offered it, he shall take a memorial out of the sacrifice, and burn it upon the altar for a sweet savour to the Lord.

10 And whatsoever is left, shall be Aaron's and his sons', holy of holies of the offerings of the Lord.

11 Every oblation, that is offered to the Lord, shall be made without leaven, neither shall any leaven or honey be burnt in the sacrifice to the Lord.

12 You shall offer only the first-fruits of them and gifts : but they shall not be put upon the altar, for a savour of sweetness.

13 Whatsoever sacrifice thou offerest,* thou shalt season it with salt, neither shalt thou take away the salt of the covenant of thy God from thy sacrifice. In all thy oblations thou shalt offer salt.

* A. M. 2514.

b Eccl. vii. 34.—c Mark ix. 48.

VER. 5. He, by the hands of the priests, (chap. x. 1,) as the Sept. express it, "they shall immolate" (M.); though we might infer from this text, that the person who offered the victim had to slay it (C.); while the priests alone could pour the blood upon and round the altar. Without the effusion of blood remission is not made, Heb. ix. 22. H.

VER. 6. They. Regularly the Levites performed this office. The skin belonged to the priest. Chap. vii. 8. C.

VER. 7. Fire. Heb. and Sept. place the fire first, then the wood. It was the sacred fire which was never extinguished, but removed from the altar in marches, (chap. iv. 13,) perhaps in a censer or pan. H.

VER. 8. All things, &c. Heb. podor, may signify the fat, or the trunk of the animal. C.

VER. 9. Sweet. Not that the Deity can take delight in sweet odours; but he is pleased with the devotion of men. For their advancement in piety, he required these sacrifices; 1. to keep the people from idolatry; 2. to teach them to consecrate their body and effects to him, as well as their souls, to serve justice unto sanctification (Rom. vi. 19; John iv. 24); 3. to prefigure the greater mysteries of the Christian religion, of which the law was only a shadow, incapable of conferring justifying grace. John i. 17; Gal. iii. 11. W.

VER. 10. Male. Lyranus seems to have read "a year old," in the Vulg. But it is not found in the Heb. or in any version. It may have been taken from Exod. xii. 5, where the paschal lamb must be a male of one year. H.

VER. 14. Pigeons. Heb. and Sept. say nothing about the age; though the Rabbins assure us, that old turtles and young pigeons were to be immolated, as being more excellent. God requires only what each person may easily procure. This third species of holocaust was chiefly intended for the poor. Chap. xii. 8. But if they could not afford even this, they might offer flour. Chap. ii.

VER. 17. Pinions, as if it were to be roasted. Abram did not divide the birds. Gen. xv. 10. C.

CHAP. II. VER. 1. One (anima). The soul is put to denote the whole person.—Of sacrifice. Heb. monē, which is applied to inanimate things, particularly to flour, "a present of wheat." Vatable.—It was instituted, 1. for the poor; 2. to support the ministers of religion; 3. to show that God was to be honoured with the fruits of the earth; 4. sacrifice being intended as a sort of feast, bread, salt, wine, and oil accompany it; and also incense, which was almost solely reserved for God. M.—The person who offered the sacrifice, had to furnish all things belonging to it. C.

VER. 3. Holy of holies. That is, most holy; as being dedicated to God, and set aside by his ordinance for the use of his priests. Ch.—All was to be eaten, consumed in the tabernacle. The high priest offered a gomor full of flour and oil, rather baked, every day. Chap. vi. 20. C.

VER. 11. Without leaven or honey. No leaven or honey was to be used in the sacrifice offered to God: to signify that we are to exclude from the possession of the gospel, all double-dealing and affection to carnal pleasures. Ch.—The prohibition of leaven regarded these sacrifices. It was offered with the first-fruits (chap. xxiii. 17), and perhaps also in peace-offerings. Chap. vii. 13.

